is action of the kind that holds attention. Plenty of hard riding is also seen. Besides Miss Sais the cast includes True Boardman, Frank Jonasson and Edward Clisbee.

"The Violet Ray."

This number of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series is as interesting as any preceding release. The reel is crammed with story. The intrepid Mr. Larkin this time furnishes a thrill when he gains access to a house by walking an a telephone wire while grasping with his hands a wire above. In the house he rescues the daughter of the man who invented a violet ray machine for the United States Government, and who has been blinded with his own rays by foreign plotters. The daughter is about to receive the same treatment when the reporter arrives on the scene. Credit is due Director Robert Ellis for several touches that lend realism to the film. In the cast with Mr. Larkin and Mr. Ellis are Ollie Kirkby, Harry Gordon and Cyril Courtney.

"Tillie Wakes Up"

Marie Dressler in Five-Reel Peerless Comedy with Coney Island for a Background.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE amusement resorts at Coney Island are the scene of the best portion of "Tillie Wakes Up," a five-reel Peerless comedy, in which Marie Dressler displays her agility, her keen sense of humor and her skill in making funny falls.

Scene from "Tillie Wakes Up" (World).

She is introduced to the spectator as an unappreciated wife, who, in a fit of desperation, gets inside of her best clothes and starts out to enjoy a little of the gay life. The husband of a neighbor joins her in the little excursion, the two dine "not wisely, but too well," and proceed to shoot all the chutes at Steplechase Park.

With the recollection in mind of the reckless abandon and humorous nonchalance exhibited by Miss Dressler in throwing herself headlong into unknown dangers of every description in former releases, it is hardly necessary to record the fact that in "Tillie Wakes Up" the actress dares every danger in her path and furnishes no end of fun for the lover of broad comedy. Much of the material used in the picture has a familiar aspect but is given a new power to amuse by the skill and comic personality of the creator of Tillie.

Johnny Hines is a good second to Miss Dressler, and Frank Beamish, Ruby de Remer, Ruth Barrett and Jack Brown supply the rest of the support.

"The Glory of Yolanda"

Anita Stewart in Five-Reel Photoplay of Russian Life Written by Maibelle Heikes Justice and Directed by Marguerite Bertsch—Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

A PHOTOPLAY written by one woman, directed by another and acted by a third member of the gentler sex, should be a correct and convincing revelation of female character. In "The Glory of Yolanda," a five-reel Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature, Maibelle Heikes Justice, inspired, no doubt, by the vogue of the Russian Ballet at the present time, has made a beautiful peasant girl of the land of the Tzar the heroine of the story, and endowed her with a purity of mind that is "proof and bulwark" against every temptation. So severe is the test and so complete her resistance that an apotheosis entitled, "The Triumph of Innocence," might well have been the closing scene of the picture. Not since Ouida created the pathetic little peasant in "A Pair of Wooden Shoes," has an equal amount of unsophistication and female virtue been found in a work of fiction.

Briefly told, the story introduces Yolanda when she is leading the life of the ordinary Russian peasant girl, except that she passes considerable of her time in dancing out in the open. The Grand Duke Boris sees her and advises her mother to take her to Petrograd and have her trained for the ballet. The nobleman furnishes the necessary money. Yolanda makes a sensation as a dancer, and when the Duke calls to collect upon his investment, he is killed by the girl's brother. A young artist, who loves and is beloved by Yolanda, has been started on his way to Siberia by the Duke. Yolanda joins him, and the way for the release of both is foreshadowed. No subtle complication of plot or disquieting touch of realism, interfere with the smooth flow of the romance through the accustomed channels. It is all if Gorky and his school had never been, or that it was thought necessary to give him and his followers a well-merited rebuke. Fortunately for this old world of ours, the love of romance and the belief in virtue are still strong in the breasts of a goodly portion of honest folk.

The writer of this review is not informed as to whether Miss Justice had Anita Stewart in mind when she planned her photoplay; at any rate, the character of Yolanda has fallen to the proper person. The amazing innocence of mind attributed to the Russian girl, as depicted by Anita Stewart does not impress one as an assumption but as a fact. It has not been given her to sound the tragic note, but whatever stands for girlish charm, beauty of character and purity of mind in the art of acting is hers to command.

Marguerite Bertsch has been a painstaking and sympathetic director, and the local color throughout the production is counterfeited with excellent discernment. The different Russian types, both peer and peasant, are skilfully played by the several members of the cast, which includes John Ardizonia, Denton Vane, Evart Overton, Mr. Turin, Bernard Seigel, and Madam Roimonda.

A Pair of Bluebirds

"The Mysterious Mrs. M.," Five-Reel Enigmatic Photoplay Produced by Lois Weber, and "The Devil's Pay Day," Also in Five Reels, Featuring Franklyn Farnum and Leah Baird.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

"The Mysterious Mrs. M."

LIKE the other screenplays with which the name of Lois Weber has been connected, the five-reel Bluebird, "The Mysterious Mrs. M.," involves in its making a commendable display of brains. Adapted by the director from a magazine story by Thomas Edgelow, the photoplay depends largely upon the enigmatic character of the plot. This is sufficiently baffling to defy solution by the average spectator in advance of the proper moment, and is an interesting theme in itself.

A wealthy young fellow, who has become morbid from much wrong living, is prevailed upon by his club friends to visit a mysterious fortune teller. The seeress foretells of an accident to the young man, which takes place, according to schedule. When he returns for further evidence of her ability, she obliges him by stating the exact day and hour when he will cease to live. Thoroughly convinced of the woman's occult powers, and now, deebly in love with a charming young girl, the poor chap is in a bad way, as he awaits the moment of his taking off. The solution of the difficulty is in the nature of a "surprise finish," and comes at the very end.

Scene from "The Mysterious Mrs. M" (Bluebird).

Such a story has the advantage of a somewhat different plot, but labors under the handicap of having but one course of action. To sustain the interest at undiminished tension through five reels, under this condition, is no easy matter. Director Weber has nearly accomplished the feat. There is a slight slacking up at a few points, but the movement generally carries the story forward at a rate of speed that rivets the attention.

The manner in which "The Mysterious Mrs. M." has been prepared for screening, by Lois Weber, is a fine achievement. The care, good taste and artistic preception shown all through the five reels was to be expected from so capable a director. The selection of the cast is another example of her ripe judgment. Harrison Ford as Raymond Van Seer, the young millionaire, gives a flawless performance of the part. He looks and acts the type of man demanded by the author with notable ease and convincing skill. Mary MacLaren makes a winsome figure of young Von Seer's sweetheart, and Evelyn Selbie, Willis Marks, Frank Brownlee, Bertram Grassby, and Charles Mailes assist in the success of the drama.

"The Devil's Pay Day."

The five-reel photoplay, "The Devil's Pay Day," is another Bluebird production founded on a printed story. "The Toll of Vengeance," written by George Hivley, was the source of the scenario made by Fred Mynton. The story is dramatic, and, once given momentum, moves steadily onward to its regrettable end; but it is a tale which has often been told, and its treatment, in the present instance, never rises above the commonplace—if such a term should be used in connection with the tragedy of two misspent lives, of a woman betrayed by the man that won her honest affection. The moral tone of the play is beyond cavil and the acting of it has been intrusted to a competent cast, but the touch of authority which drives the lesson of a play home to every heart is missing. Like his leading character, the author has too often followed the line of least resistance, and, consequently, fails to make the most of his opportunities.

"The Devil's Pay Day" is another version of that familiar theme, an unequal match. The wealthy city man that marries a country girl and quickly tires of her has been the leading male character in many a drama. In this case, he secures a divorce, marries again, is lured back to his first wife's side through motives of revenge, kills the man who is now her protector, and falls dead while a jury is weighing the evidence against him. The drama justifies its title, and as stated in the preceding paragraph, is excellently acted by Franklyn Farnum, Leah Baird, Gertrude Aster, Charles Perley, Countess Du Cello and Seymour Hastings.

Triangle Program

"Chicken Casey," Five-Reel Kay Bee Comedy of Stage Life with Dorothy Dalton, and "The Girl of the Timber Claims," Five-Reel Fine Arts with Constance Talmadge.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

"THE GIRL OF THE TIMBER CLAIMS" tries to tell it all in the title. There is a girl on a timber claim, which some political schemers try to steal, and Constance Talmadge is the girl. She shoots one of them, only to discover in the end that he is a government inspector instead of a "claim jumper," and she embraces him in the end. To tell this story a great many characters are introduced, some children and a kitten. So many side paths are followed that the main interest suffers, as it always must when the screen presentation is purely reflective of what has been told on the stage or in a novel. The author has failed utterly to grasp the necessity of straight line construction, with as few side paths as possible. The screen is not an illustrator—its art principles are only akin to those of the drama and printed fiction, with an individuality all their own. The story as told is vague and purposeless, almost a blind alley, beginning nowhere and leading to nothing of definite importance. Stripped of its side issues and more cleverly told it might make a good two-reel story.

Scene from "The Girl of the Timber Claims" (Triangle).

"Chicken Casey" has a Peg Woffington flavor in that it deals with an actress enacting a role in private life for a definite purpose, in this case to prove that she can play a part for which an author deems her unsuited. The author sees her perform in a rather colorless and dignified character on the stage and decides that it would be folly for her to undertake the part of Rags, a tough girl of the Bowery type, which he has depicted in a novel to be dramatized. She schemes with her manager and a dramatic critic to prove that she can by actually impersonating his ideal in real life. He is brought into contact with a supposed girl of the slums, "Chicken Casey," none other than the accomplished actress well disguised, and a live series of romantic adventures follow.

Just after meeting the supposed "Chicken Casey" the rather dignified young author is obliged by her cleverness to shield her in his own house at three in the morning. Some lively episodes follow, particularly as he is obliged to dry her soaked clothes, in which both obtain interesting views of the other under circumstances of enforced intimacy. The actress accomplishes her purpose—she gets the role on which she has set her heart, but the author feels the personal affront of her deception, and they become estranged after getting a closer view of each other than ordinarily permitted in conventional contact. Again the bright girl uses her wits, and a reconciliation follows.

The story has many bright and interesting situations, and it is visualized with Ince's fine craftsmanship, but honors go to Miss Dorothy Dalton for a most consistent and intelligent performance of her role. The constantly expanding capability she has been showing has by no means reached its limit, but this performance shows a finish and larger grasp of screen interpretation than she has ever before exhibited. She is well supported, especially by Charles Dunn in the role of an author, in spite of the black horn glasses which would-be authors now and then affect. The settings are superb and the general effect one of pleasing entertainment.

"Glory"

Kolb and Dill Appear in a Seven-Reel Drama with Comedy Spots—To be Released by Unity.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

THE Unity Sales Corporation showed to the trade last week a six-reel subject entitled "Glory." Kolb and Dill, the well-known German comedians, perhaps better known as Louie and Mike, are featured. The story combines comedy and drama as well as a bit of melodrama. A good part of the fun comes in the titles, but in the action there are several bits of good straight drama.

Scene from "Glory" (Unity).

There are entertaining qualities in "Glory." Kolb and Dill have the roles of small town merchants, the big men of the place. The village is situated near oil land, and the story turns on the accidental discovery of this fact and the taking over of the oil rights by an outside capitalist while the villagers are in ignorance of the buried wealth so near them. A lawyer sent to put over the deal marries one of the village girls and deserts her. There is a child of this marriage, Glory, adopted by the village when the mother abandons it. When Glory grows to be a big girl she falls in love with the son of the man who "trimmed" her fellow-townsmen. Her regard is reciprocated. In spite of parental interference the wedding takes place. There are plotting and counter-plotting aplenty.

Juanita Hansen is Glory, May Cloy is June, Wellington Playter is Strong, the magnate, and William Lampe is Graham, the lawyer. The subject is competently staged; some of the backgrounds are picturesque. The story is a wholesome one. The atmosphere of the oil country is well established and maintained throughout. Of course, Kolb and Dill bulk big in the working out of the story, but they have good assistance from the others in the cast.

Alice Brady in "A Hungry Heart" will be the first Brady-made release by the World Film Corporation during the month of February. This play, derived from the French stage, was directed by Emile Chautard, and the production is said to be unusually elaborate. Miss Brady's costumes include a number of the latest creations, and the role she plays is described as exceptionally affecting.

Director W. W. Beaudine of Universal City is filming a one-act comedy entitled "For Art's Sake," featuring Gale Henry and William Franey.

"Threads of Fate"

Five-Reel Columbia Photoplay of the Pennsylvania Mining Region Stars Viola Dana.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE scenario of "Threads of Fate," a five-reel Metro release from a story by Richard Barry, is a good specimen of narrative fiction of a time-honored type. An abandoned baby, placed on a doorstep by her father after the child's mother has eloped with an Italian, is the heroine of the play, the action starting when she is about seventeen. The girl's foster father inherits a valuable coal mine and her real father is employed in it. Her mother next appears on the scene with the Italian, who is now posing as a marquis, and the enterprising son of Italy conceives it will be a good business stroke for him to marry the coal baron's daughter. The real father and mother of the girl discover her identity in time to prevent the success of the scheme, but the father is killed in a struggle with the man who wronged him. Dorothea, who never learns the truth about her parents, becomes the wife of a young doctor, to whom she has given her heart. There is a sub-motive, dealing with a miner's strike, running through the story.

Scene from "Threads of Fate" (Metro).

The chief value of "Threads of Fate" as a photoplay consists of the opportunity it gives Viola Dana to portray a level-headed and lovable young person who is always delightfully human. Miss Dana can be high-spirited without being affected, mischievous without being "cute" and—crowning glory of all—girlish without wearing knee-length skirts and a mop of bobbing curls. Add to these merit-marks her attractive personality, intelligent grasp of her art and her record for conscientious effort and the enviable position she holds among moving picture actresses is easily understood.

Eugene Nowland has directed the production admirably, and Robert Whittier, Augustus Phillips, Richard Tucker, Fred Jones, Helen Strickland and Nellie Grant creditably fill their roles.

"The Primitive Call"

Gladys Coburn Featured in Mediocre Five-Reel Indian-White Girl Drama Produced by William Fox.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

THERE is little to be found in "The Primitive Call," a five-reel drama to be released by William Fox on Jan. 22, that elevates it above the plane of mediocrity. Gladys Coburn is the featured player. She is seen in the role of a society girl who, through her wiles, proves that she is not only "ornamental, but useless," by bringing the educated son of an Indian chief to a point where he betrays his people by signing an option for the sale of the Indians' valuable land. As a whole the picture fails to convince. There are moments in which interest is whetted slightly by an element of suspense. The picture harks back to the time when Indian stories were the vogue in motion pictures. The Indians in this film are the kind that have roamed the Palisades in the vicinity of Fort Lee ever since the first motion picture studio was erected there. An extenuating feature that lends a certain degree of interest is found in the exteriors.

The story was written by Bertram Bracken, who also directed the picture. The film gets its title from a situation in which the young Indian, ostracized by his tribe, captures the girl and brings her into the wilderness with him. She stubbornly refuses to be even friendly, and he tells her to get back to her "false" people. But, seeing his form silhuetted against the sky, the girl hears the "primitive call." She is too late, however, for the Indian youth has been found by his red-skinned sweetheart, and the two Indians "clinch" as the white girl walks away into the final fade-out.

Fritz Leiber gives a creditable performance as the son of the Indian chief. Miss Coburn takes advantage of the scant opportunities given her. Also in the cast are John Webb Dillion, George Alan Larkin, Lewis Sealy, Velma Whitman and Kittens Reichert.

"Her Condoned Sin"

Biograph Issues an Enlarged and Beautified Version of Its Famous "Judith of Bethulia."

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

IT WAS nearly three years ago that Biograph released its great spectacle, "Judith of Bethulia," Its popularity is a matter of motion picture history. That popularity was due to several notable factors—it was produced by D. W. Griffith, and on a lavish scale; it was a spectacular subject, great numbers of men and women being employed: in its cast were men and women who since have been widely exploited, whose native talents then were as great as they are to-day.

The Biograph company has taken the original four reels and to those from the hundred and fifty thousand feet of exposed negative have added two reels. New sub-titles have been given the whole production. These are unusual in their artistry. Over dark atmospheric backgrounds, selected from the negative, sub-titles have been imposed. The effect is striking. Out of regard for the opinions of exhibitors, many of whom had complained that "Judith of Bethulia" as a title lacked those psychological qualities of appeal for which showmen as a class have such a keen sense, the enlarged production is issued under the name of "Her Condoned Sin."

As the reissued picture treats of a Biblical period, not of to-day, it is under no handicap such as follows upon the bringing out of the vaults of a story where the characters are arrayed in a garb that was up to date a few years previously. Another fact that will impress itself upon the observer is that after all we have gained little if at all in a photographic way in the past three years. The photography of "Her Condoned Sin" is of the best.

As will be recalled, Blanche Sweet has the role of Judith, the widow of Israel, who arrays herself in her best and goes out of the gates of the besieged city to captivate Holofernes, the captain of the Assyrian host surrounding Bethulia; not only to captivate him, but to cut off his head. Henry Walthall is Holofernes, whose panic-stricken forces are shattered by the Israelites following his decapitation. Mae Marsh is Naomi, a maiden in love with Nathan, portrayed by Robert Harron. Lillian Gish is a young mother, Dorothy Gish a beggar. Gertrude Bambrick is the dancer who charms Holofernes until Judith enters the tent of her master. In other roles are the members of the famous old-time Biograph stock company.

The whole subject is tinted and toned in a most effective combination of amber and light sepia. This treatment, together with the new titling, enhances the pictorial quality of a subject that at the time it was first presented to the public was conceded by many in a position to speak authoritatively to be the best all-around product of an American studio.

Scene from "Her Condoned Sin" (Biograph).

"Her Condoned Sin" is an unusual picture even for to-day. It combines spectacle and human interest; there are the charges and hand-to-hand fighting of many men, in open fields and about the great wall of Bethulia, the latter, by the way, an example of elaborate staging that will compare with anything that has succeeded it. There are the intimate scenes between Judith and Holofernes, the horror of the woman at destroying the man who against her will has won her love; the laying down of the great sword as for a moment she caresses the soldier stupefied from the drink with which she has plied him, a moment later to swing the weapon so effectively that the head of the captain rolls to the floor..

There should be a warm welcome for "Her Condoned Sin."

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Company.

THE MAKING OF BOB MASON'S WIFE (Selig), Jan. 13.—A one-reel drama of married life. Bob Mason takes his wife to his ranch. She is lonesome and succumbs to the wiles of the foreman. The two are overtaken by the husband. The wife later proves her real calibre by holding a band of outlaws at bay. The story is rather jumpy, and the reel only fair. The cast includes Robyn Adair, Virginia Adair and E. J. Brady.

ONE ON HIM (Essanay), Jan. 17.—A split reel embracing a short comedy and Yosemite Valley scenic. The comedy contains a laugh or two. It shows a rich youth who decides to get a job as a chauffeur. He is told that a married man is wanted. He promptly marries the first girl he meets, and she happens to be the daughter of his employer. The scenic is well photographed and shows several beautiful scenes.

THE BLACK CIRCLE (Kalem), Jan. 19.—Number 19 of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series. George Larkin furnishes the big thrill in this reel when he swings on a rope from one window to another, high up on the side of a skyscraper hotel. The story of this episode interests. It concerns a mysterious murder. The mystery is cleared when it is found that it was committed by a blind man who disguised a shotgun as a cane. A review can be found on page 544 of last week's issue.

THE BLUNDERING BLACKSMITHS (Kalem), Jan. 23.—A laughable number of the Ham comedies. The reel embraces a burlesque on the time-honored "mortgage or your daughter" story. But Ham comes to the rescue by fighting the champion boxer and so getting the much-needed coin. He and Bud are the blundering blacksmiths. The comedy is considerably aided by the subtitles. Working with Ham and Bud are Ethel Teare and Henry Murdoch. A good comedy number.

THE DEATH SIDING (Kalem), Feb. 3.—A number of the "Hazards of Helen" railroad series. Helen Gibson's daring feat in this reel gets over a thrill. She leaps from the back of her horse to a rope that has been lassoed around the post of a fast-moving lumber car by a fellow-rider, and climbs, hand over hand, along the rope to the car. The rope is held taut by the rider. This is an extremely difficult and hazardous stunt, and is of most prominence in the reel. The Lone Point operator makes the leap to avert a collision. She is aided by a Mexican, whom she has befriended. With Helen Gibson on the screen are seen Richard Johnson and G. A. Williams.

General Film Company Specials.

THE WIDE, WRONG WAY (Essanay), Jan. 13.—Fifth of the "Is Marriage Sacred?" series. The Essanay stock company are seen to good advantage in a quite strong two-reel domestic drama. This is a story of a girl who, held under restraint by a strict father, strays from her husband's side in the pursuit of pleasure after she is married. She becomes friendly with a man who is the best friend of her husband. Things are brought to a happy and safe turn. In the cast are Marguerite Clayton, Edward Arnold, Sydney Ainsworth and Thomas Commerford.

THE LITTLE MISSIONARY (Essanay), Jan. 16.—A pleasing two-reel comedy drama—one of the "Black Cat" Features. Little Mary McAllister, a quite capable child actress, carries a charm that is all her own. The story is old, but is given fresh charm by this child. The story tells of a childless old couple who finally find life worth living when they bring little "Sunshine" into their home from the orphan asylum. A good short-length offering that is clean and wholesome.

THE HOMESTEADERS' FEUD (Kalem), Jan. 17.—No. 23 of "The Girl from Frisco" series. The two reels teem with action and the film is a western of men. The story treats of a problem of the present-day West—the watering of cattle on range. The feud comes about when the villain plots with homesteaders to fence in the only water on the range. There is lots of good horsemanship exhibited, and the exteriors are specially good. A longer review was printed on page 543 of last week's issue.

Biograph Company.

HER CONDONED SIN (Biograph).—This is an enlarged and beautified version of "Judith of Bethulia," raised from four reels to six. Decorative titles and artistic toning and tinting add to the charm of the original production. It is reviewed on another page.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

THE DEVIL'S PAY DAY (Bluebird), Jan. 29.—This five-reel photoplay makes good its title. It is another example of the truth in the precept, "The wages of sin is death." Franklyn Farnum and Leah Baird are featured. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

THE MYSTERIOUS MRS. M. (Bluebird), Feb. 5.—Lois Weber directed this five-reel "surprise finish" photoplay. It holds the interest to the end and is finely produced and acted. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Fox Film Corporation.

THE PRIMITIVE CALL (Fox), Jan. 22.—A mediocre five-reel Indian-white girl drama, in which Gladys Coburn is the featured player. The picture fails to convince. The exteriors are good. The story tells of a society girl who dupes an educated young Indian into signing an option for the sale of his people's valuable land. Fritz Leiber is seen as the young Indian. A longer review is printed in another column of this issue.

Greater Vitagraph

THE GLORY OF YOLANDA (Blue Ribbon), Jan. 20.—Anita Stewart has a congenial role in this five-reel photoplay which tells of a Russian peasant girl that becomes a member of the Imperial Ballet. The picture is well acted and carefully produced. It is given a longer review on another page of this issue.

Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay.

LITTLE SHOES (Essanay), Jan. 15.—This is a delightful love story, in which Henry B. Walthall and Mary Charleson are seen in the leading characters. They are ably supported by W. K. Haupt and Patrick Calhoun. The production has been ably done under the direction of Arthur Berthelel. Fine photography marks the photoplay throughout. An extended review also appears in this issue.

Metro Pictures Corporation

THREADS OF FATE (Columbia), Jan. 22.—Viola Dana is starred in this five-reel photoplay of the Pennsylvania coal region. The plot is melodramatic, and Miss Dana gives one of her entertaining impersonations of a warm-hearted American girl. A longer review appears on another page of this issue.

MARRIED BUT SINGLE, Jan. 22.—Ralph Herz appears as a newly-married man in this one-reel farce. He quarrels with his bride on the wedding trip and she attempts to finish the journey without him. Adjoining hotel rooms furnish the opportunity for the comedy mixups The comedian and his leading lady make the reel a lively one.

Mutual Film Corporation

UNCLE SAM'S DEFENDERS, NO. 2 (Mutual), Jan. 12.—"A Jack Tar in the Making" is the title of this installment of the series. The training station at Newport, where the common sailors are whipped into shape is first shown; followed by the round of duty laid out for the budding officers at the Annapolis Naval Academy.

THE HONEYMOONERS (Star), Jan. 13.—The humor of this one-reel comedy is all on the surface. It is played with spirit by George Derr and the other members of the cast and will prove amusing to most people. Three couples are married and go on their honeymoons together.

SEE AMERICA FIRST, NO. 72 (Gaumont), Jan 17.—"Historic Virginia" is the subject of this number of the series. Many scenes of historic interest in the vicinity of Williamsburg, Hampton, Norfolk and Old Point Comfort are shown. A full review of this number will be found in the educational department of Feb. 3. The reel is finished with an amusing animated cartoon entitled "Absent Minded Willie."

MUTUAL WEEKLY, NO. 107 (Gaumont), Jan. 17.—Rose Carnival and snow sports in California, launching submarine at Seattle, gathering oranges in Florida, return of New York and Brooklyn troops from border, opening of 1917 race season at New Orleans, and speed test for U. S. coast guardsmen are the leading items in this number.

JERRY'S BIG DOINGS (Cub), Jan. 18.—This "Jerry" comedy differs very little from others of this series. Its chief difference is that it is more strongly tainted with vulgarity than others we have seen. In the course of the comedy Jerry has a number of adventures in which he loses a wallet that he has picked up on the street, and becomes the valet of Baron Nutty, in whose home he manages to keep things moving at a lively pace.

REEL LIFE, NO. 38 (Gaumont), Jan. 21.—"Orange picking in California," "The Air," "The Hydro-ski," "Automatic Apple Grader" and "Things Not Generally Known," are the features of this release.

MUTUAL TOURS AROUND THE WORLD, NO. 12 (Gaumont), Jan. 23.—This opens with scenes taken in France along the Gironde river, from Bordeaux to Pauillac. Next is shown the monastery of St. Thessalonica at Salonica, just now rendered particularly interesting by the war. The monks, who raise olives and razor back pigs, live in picturesque surroundings. The reel closes with views taken in the gorges of the River Nive, which flows through the French Pyrenees. A good travel number.

AFLOAT AND ASHORE (Mutual), Jan. 26.—This 4th number of "Uncle Sam's Defenders" pictures the life of the jackies on board the dreadnaught Texas. Drills, provisioning, scrubbing decks, sewing, target practice, rowing contests, pie eating, boxing, dancing and religious exercises are shown. The photography is very good and the number gives new glimpses into the life of the marines.

Mutual Film Corporation Specials.

SHORTY AND THE YELLOW RING (Monogram), Jan, 15.—This two-reel photoplay is number one of "The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton." The plot makes rattling good melodrama, and concerns the bringing of Chinamen into this country from Mexico. The star and his horse, Beauty, are a likable pair, the good nature and comic gifts of the one and the intelligence of the other being strongly in their favor. Production and support good.

THE INDIAN'S HAND (Signal), Jan. 21.—Chapter 14 of "The Lass of the Lumberlands." This instalment is crowded with entertaining events, though so much is included that it renders the action slightly mechanical at times. Stephen learns that he is Helen's half-brother, but an illegitimate son. Dollar Holmes murders Little Bear in a dramatic manner, by pushing him back into a mountain stream from which he has just been rescued. Helen and Tom plan to force Holmes to marry Stephen's mother, and this is accomplished at the close of the second reel. Thomas Lingham, who plays Dollar Holmes, does particularly good work in this number as the villain.

TAILOR'S TRIMMINGS (Vogue), Jan. 21.—Rube Miller was the director of this two-reel comedy which shifts from a tailor's shop to a trolley car and back again with remarkable speed. The situations are given many a comic twist and the cast works faithfully and to good purpose.

ADVENTURES OF SHORTY HAMILTON (Monogram), Jan. 22.—"Shorty in the Tiger's Den" is the title of the second episode of this new Mutual serial. It presents some good comedy situations in the course of Shorty's adventures, one of which is the attempt to ride a motor cycle, which, proving to be more uncontrollable than a bucking broncho, lands Shorty on the dining table of the ranchmen's cabin. The dramatic side of the episode is the capture of the American girl by a Mexican bandit and her rescue by Shorty Hamilton. A very good number.

Paramount Pictures Corporation

A GIRL LIKE THAT (Famous Players), Jan. 18.—Owen Moore and Irene Fenwick have the leads in this drama with a crook touch. It is a likable story, with a good village atmosphere. It is reviewed at length on another page.

LOST AND WON (Lasky), Jan. 22.—Marie Doro is surrounded by a good cast in this drama, wherein she plays a newsgirl who later is sent to school and given all advantages in order to enable an indirect benefactor to prove his argument with friends that he can take a girl from the street, give her advantages and bring them under her spell. The picture is well staged and entertaining. It is reviewed on another page.

Pathe Exchange Inc.

A TANKLESS JOB (International), Jan. 21.—A half-reel cartoon of the "Jerry on the Job" series, this picture is highly amusing. "A Fishing Trip Through Uncle Sam's Wonderland" is on the same reel. It shows some exciting sport in Glacier Park, Montana.

LUKE'S TROLLEY TROUBLES (Rolin), Feb. 4.—Luke and his side partner steal a trolley car, in this one-reel farce, and proceed to make trouble for everybody that boards the car. A good rough-and-tumble "comic."

Pathe Exchange Inc. Specials.

THE LAST OF THE FIGHTING CHANNINGS (International), Jan. 14.—First chapter of the "Patria" serial. This episode is in three reels, and introduces Mrs. Vernon Castle as Patria Channing—the last of a long line of fighters. This chapter also introduces Captain Parr, of the U. S. Secret Service, and the plotters against the Government. The thrills in this release come when a motorboat is blown up, and during the course of an exciting race between an automobile and a train. The chapter closes with the discovery of a murder in the Channing town house, in a secret cellar of which is stored some $100,000,000 in gold—a secret defense fund. The leading male player is Milton Sills. A full review of the first three episodes was printed in the issue of December 9, page 1510.

TREASURE (International), Jan. 21.—This, the second episode of Patria, moves the story along faster than did the first. Patria and Captain Parr reach the vault in which is stored the gigantic defense fund. A quite realistic fire takes place in this episode—the Channing house is burned by Baron Huroki and his followers to hide the murder of a butler. Patria and Captain Parr are trapped in the vault. They escape through a secret passageway under the sidewalk. A quite exciting chapter. Mrs. Vernon Castle is seen as Patria. Reviewed on page 1510 of the issue of December 9.

WINGED MILLIONS (International), Jan. 28.—Third episode of "Patria." In this two-reel eposide Patria and Captain Parr discover that the treasure has been stolen. They learn that it has been taken by Baron Huroki and his followers and loaded aboard a steamer. Captain Parr is taken prisoner and brought aboard the ship. Patria, acting on Captain Parr's wireless message, pursues in her motorboat. She reaches the ship. Mrs. Vernon Castle, as Patria, furnishes a thrill when she jumps from the ship into the sea. The ship is sunk by a revenue cutter. A longer review can be found in the issue of December 9, page 1510.

A MODERN MONTE CRISTO (Thanhouser), Feb. 4.—There is excitement aplenty in this five-reel photoplay which tells of a man's determination for revenge and how his efforts were defeated by his better nature. Vincent Serrano is the star of the production. The picture is given a longer review on another page of this issue.

Triangle Film Corporation

CHICKEN CASEY (Kay Bee), Jan. 28.—A bright and attractive comedy of stageland, with Dorothy Dalton in an exceptionally fine performance. An ingenious and interesting story.

ENVY (McClure), Jan. 29.—This five-reel picture is the first number of "The Seven Deadly Sins" series. The story is full of action and is well acted by Ann Murdock and the rest of the cast. Production and photography excellent. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

THE CRAB (Kay Bee), Feb. 4.—A five-reel feature of character contrast, showing how an affectionate little girl, impersonated by Thelma Salter, won her way to the heart of a bitter old cynic, admirably portrayed by Frank Keenan.

Universal Film Mfg. Company

ANIMATED WEEKLY, NO. 55 (Universal), Jan. 17.—Death of Buffalo Bill, ship launching in Massachusetts, New York police in food test, winter sports in Western States and numerous other entertaining features are included in this number.

IT'S CHEAPER TO BE MARRIED (Victor), Feb. 1.—A comedy number, by W. Warren Schoene, featuring Rolph McComas, Morton Sims and Eileen Sedgwick. Two bachelor brothers are introduced. One falls in love with a waitress and marries her. He wins the uncle's inheritance for saving the most money, as the wife adds her roll to his at a crucial moment. This is quite ingenius in plot and the lonely, everyday types are appealing. It makes an amusing offering.

THE HERO OF BUNKO HILL (Victor), Feb. 2.—A comedy number, by Capt. L. T. Peacock, featuring Billy Musgrove and Liane Carrera. An actor is induced by his needy friends to substitute himself for a long-lost son. He has his front teeth extracted and his body tattooed, but on meeting the mother learns that her son had a glass eye. The main idea in this is amusing and well worked out. The close is abrupt, but as a whole this is quite original.

HIS COMING-OUT PARTY (Joker), Feb. 3.—A character comedy, by Karl Coolige, featuring Wm. Franey, Milburne Moranti, Gale Henry and Lillian Peacock. Franey is thrown out of a bar room about a dozen times in this and gets a laugh every time. The plot is light and concerns two married women who follow their husbands to a poker game. The game is pinched by the police, but the husbands escape. A successful nonsense number.

Universal Film Mfg. Co. Specials

ABLAZE IN MIDAIR (Universal Super-Serial), Jan. 28.—No. 5 of "The Purple Mask." In this instalment Patsy, portrayed by Grace Cunard, learns of the Crosby reception, where the Rahma ruby is to be displayed. She attends; likewise Francis Ford, as Detective Kelly. Patsy gets hold of the ruby and escapes in an aeroplane. The detective gets on the flying machine, which falls during the flight. The construction is rather loose, but the episode is full of action and carries the interest well.

LOVE AFLAME (Red Feather), Jan. 29.—An excellent story of adventure, in five reels, written and directed by Raymond Wells. Ruth Stonehouse and Jack Mulhall play the hero and heroine of this unique, picturesque subject. The former is one of four clubmen who start for Constantinople on a bet; the latter, a tomboy, who has dressed in boy's clothes and run away from home. Their experiences as hobos are lively and amusing. The scenes on the cannibal island are picturesque and well-staged. The subject is one of fresh appeal and has a good plot.

THE SILENT FEUD (Universal Super-Serial), Feb. 4.—No. 6 of "The Purple Mask." The scene changes in this instalment to the principality of Dufrane, where Detective Kelly has been summoned to unravel a plot against the king. Patsy follows with some members of her Apache gang. She succeeds in stealing a large collection of jewels, which she sells, distributing the money among the poor people. The instalment is not as exciting as some have been, but is quite strong in interest.

THE WAR WAIF (Universal Special—Two Parts), Feb. 1.—A strong two-reel story of the European war, by Grace Helen Bailey, directed by Allan J. Holubar, who plays a leading role. The attack on the little village in France is an arresting picture, as artistic and dramatic as could be wished. Zoie Rae does an admirable bit of work as the child. The dream feature at the close is a little awkward in construction, but the offering as a whole deserves high praise. An excellent subject.

THE FORBIDDING GAME (Imp), Feb. 2.—A two-reel offering featuring Edward Hearn, Richard Ryan, Dana Ong and Fronzi Gunn. This tells the story of the son of a wealthy family who joins a band of crooks for the excitement of the life. He barely escapes being charged with murder and is shot and killed just as the young reporter, in love with his sister, learns of his connection with the gang. The number has no great dramatic strength, but has good action and carries the interest along quite well. If makes an average production.

THE BOONTON AFFAIR (Bison), Feb. 3.—A two-reel moonshiner story, featuring King Baggot and Irene Hunt. The settings are unusually attractive, but the story simply repeats familiar situations. It is the story of a young revenue officer in the mountain country, who falls in love with the girl and then fights with her native admirer in hand-to-hand combat. The picturesque settings in this were worthy of a fresher story.

Unity Sales Corporation.

GLORY (Unity).—A six-part subject featuring Kolb and Dill, supported by Juanita Hansen, Wellington Playter, William Lampe and May Cloy. The picture contains much to commend it. It is reviewed on another page.

World Pictures.

TILLIE WAKES UP, Jan. 29.—Marie Dressler, supported by Johnny Hines, is the capable fun maker of this five-reel comedy. Coney Island is the scene of the amusing situations and the creater of Tillie has a try at everything on the island. A longer review appears on another page of this issue.

Bluebird Advertising Contest

Offers Cash Prizes for Best Displays Made During Month of February.

BLUEBIRD Photoplays, Inc., will distribute cash prizes for the best advertising campaign and the best lobby displays made by exhibitors of Bluebird who were exhibiting these features the week this announcement is made. The contest will be decided upon the basis of advertising campaigns starting with February 1 and continuing through that month. There will also be territorial prizes, offered by the various Bluebird branch exchanges, to exhibitors in their territory who are selected by the judges as entitled to first honors.

Should the judges be unable to decide between two or more entrants, as to the merits of their exhibits, there will be additional sums appropriated to give every exhibitor entitled to first prize the full amount offered in both the general advertising and the lobby display contest. The contests will be limited to those exhibitors having bookings on Bluebird photoplays at the time the prize offers are made.

The lobby display contest and the contest for the general advertising display will be separate and distinct each from the other. No entrant can win both prizes. While Bluebird furnishes exhibitors with advertising ideas and material, exhibitors will not be prevented from adding their own ideas to this material if they desire; and as a matter of fact, the exhibitor will be limited in no way in expressing his ideas through his efforts to win the prize.

The main prize for the general display will be $60, awarded on March 15 to the exhibitor who shall submit during February the best evidence of his publicity campaign on behalf of Bluebird. This will be understood to include newspaper and billboard advertising, novelty floats, the distribution of heralds or special advertising; window cards "sniping," and lobby display—all to be considered by the judges as a collective campaign of publicity.

There will also be a prize of $40 to be given as applying exclusively to lobby displays; to be considered in the first award. Then there will be territorial prizes, offered by Bluebird branch managers—$10 to the best general display and $5 to the best lobby display as judged by the committee of awards.

There will be no cost to the exhibitors who enter the contest. It is maintained that the theater manager must and does advertise Bluebird for the day or days they are exhibited, and the only requirement to be considered in entering the contest will be to send photographs of the lobby display, and specimens of the printed matter and description of the special "stunts" that go to make up the general publicity the theater gives Bluebird.

The photographs and evidence must be sent to the General offices of Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., No. 1600 Broadway, where they will be judged by the general manager, Bluebird board of directors, the general advertising manager and the assistant advertising manager, and awards made strictly and solely upon the merits of the campaigns as shown by exhibits submitted. The branch managers will be guided in making territorial award of prizes by the decision of the board of judges in New York.

Bluebird declares that its purpose in making these awards is to create an incentive for co-operation among exhibitors; the interchange of ideas being held as likely to be immensely profitable to the individual showman. The winning displays will be described in the form of advertising in the trade papers; there will be a circularization of all exhibitors, with the fuller details; and thus it is held that ideas thus encouraged in development will be available for exhibitors in every part of the country.

On these lines Bluebird is going to divide $115 (or if ties result, more money in sufficiency to give every winner his full prize) among exhibitors in February, 1917. The contest closes at midnight, February 28, and the awards will be announced on March 15.

"Stingaree" Series Well Under Way

True Boardman is Glad to be Back in the Character That Brought Him Fame.

DIRECTOR HOWARD MITCHELL has completed the negatives of two episodes of Kalem's new "Stingaree" series, with True Boardman in the title role, and positives from them will shortly be shown to exhibitors. Some very ingenious scenes have been introduced into "The Fugitive Passenger" and "The Mark of Stingaree." Unhampered by having to make his character conform to the incidents set forth in his book, from which the first "Stingaree" adventures were taken, E. W. Hornung, the author, is allowing his vivid imagination full swing with the result that this series promises exceeding well.

Inquiries are pouring into the Kalem office and into the various General Film exchanges for information about bookings, but the plan is to complete the greater part of the series before accepting bookings on any episode to avoid any danger of disappointment should the principals be unable to continue or any of the thousand and one things happen that might cause postponements.

This new series, like the former one, has the decided advantage of being totally unlike any other films now released or about to be released. Boardman makes of "Stingaree" a very likeable villain, always a bit too shrewd for his enemies, yet full of tenderness upon occasion. Typical Australian settings lend a glamor of romance that our own familiar West has lost somewhat through repetition.

Hal Clements, who will be remember for the many striking characters created for Kalem in Jacksonville years ago, is appearing in this series as "Howie." The leading woman is Edith Sterling, very pretty and an expert horsewoman. She has taken many prizes at rodeos and has slipped into the parts assigned to her quite naturally.

News that the Kalem Company will produce a sequel to the first series of the Australian bush ranger's adventures has been hailed with delight abroad. Inquiries received from England, France and other European centers express a lively interest in Kalem's plans for distribution abroad. Author Hornung is in receipt of many congratulatory letters from his friends abroad (his home is in England) commending his decision to write directly for the screen. Some of these he has forwarded to New York to the Kalem Company; they furnish ample corroboration of the big reception awaiting the further adventures of "Stingaree."

FOUR GAUMONT SINGLE REELS FOR WEEK OF FEBRUARY 4.

Various committees which have been investigating motion pictures other than film dramas have given great praise to the four Gaumont single-reels released weekly through Mutual. This program—educational, entertaining and timely—has a worthy week in the releases for the first week in February. First comes "Reel Life," No. 40, released February 4. It shows "Making Lace by Machinery," the "Toddle," the dance that has swept New York by storm; "Raising Fresh Water Fish," showing how eighteen million trout fry are hatched and placed in streams, and "How to Design an Evening Gown."

February 6 brings "Tours Around the World" to the screen. This time spectators of the Gaumont foreign scenic reel are taken to "Picturesque Landscapes of Holland," "The Temples of Luxor, Egypt," and "The Rocky Coast of Dalmatia." The pictures are absorbingly interesting and have great value for the student as well.

"See America First," No. 74, which divides the reel with the Gaumont Kartoon Komic, is released February 7. It shows the towns that fringe the Gulf of Mexico in the state of Mississippi. These are Gulfport, Biloxi, Pass Christian, where President Wilson took winter vacations, and Beauvoir, the place to which Jefferson Davis retired to write his history of the confederacy. On the same reel is the animated cartoon by Harry Palmer, entitled "Old Roue Visualizes."

The fourth single-reel of the week is the Mutual Weekly. As this is not made up until the day it is issued, no announcement of its contents can be made in advance.

USING MODERN BUSINESS METHODS.

The Automatic Ticket Selling and Cash Register Company has recently installed in the new Globe theater on Canal street, New Orleans, just completed by the Fichtenberg Amusement Enterprises, one of its triple ticket issuing and registering machines, and has also just closed a contract for one of its quadruple machines, issuing four price tickets for the magnificent new Strand theater just completed on Baronne street, New Orleans, for the Saenger Amusement Company.

These two theaters represent the very highest type of architecture and are among the largest motion picture theaters in the city of New Orleans, and embody in their equipment everything which is up-to-date and conducive to handling their business in the most satisfactory manner.

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

H. B. WARNER IN "WRATH" (McClure).

McClure Pictures announces that H. B. Warner in "Wrath" will be the fifth release in the series of five-reel features grouped under the title "Seven Deadly Sins." The first of this group will be Ann Murdock in "Envy," which will be released on January 29. The others will follow at weekly intervals.

"Wrath" tells a timely story of Russian intrigue, of Russian heroes and Russian villains—just the sort of a play in which H. B. Warner appears at his best, a tale of love and battle.

In "Wrath" Shirley Mason and George Le Guere—who appear in all of the Seven Deadly Sins—become entangled in munitions plots. Miss Mason finds that she owns an ammunition factory that has been furnishing supplies to Russia. Not believing in war, she holds up the output, which Russia needs immediately. Out of the efforts to make her release the ammunition, the wiles of the Grand Duke and the honesty of his son, is developed an exciting drama, crowded with human interest, touches of comedy and thrills.

Scene from "Wrath" (McClure).

The supporting cast is excellent and the settings are splendid. The action takes Mr. Warner into a Turkish harem, into Russia and New York and out upon a desert.

"Wrath's" snarl is quieted in the end, love conquering all. Mr. Warner never before has had a part better suited to his talents. It is as distinctive and as appealing as was "Jimmy Valentine," and it is as terrible as wrath itself, for Mr. Warner plays a double role—the raging Grand Duke and the honorable Feodor. In the end, treacherous Turks make war on crafty Russians and the play closes after a heart wrenching act jammed full of thrills.

Mr. Warner is supported by Shirley Mason, George Le Guere, Edith Hallar, Charles Wellesley, Thea Talbott, George Arvine and John Nicholson. Theodore Marston directed "Wrath" and Charles Gilson was the photographer.

MARIE DORO AS NEWSIE IN "LOST AND WON."

Marie Doro's next appearance on the screen following her great success in the Lasky adaptation of "Oliver Twist" will be in "Lost and Won," which was specially written by the well known dramatists, Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf. It will be released on the Paramount program on January 22. One of the most interesting points of the story is the fact that it introduces Miss Doro in the rags and tatters of a little newsie. "Lost and Won" has the distinct advantage of being a story dealing in part with newspaper life, which has actually been written by newspaper men—something which will be appreciated by those who have seen the remarkable incongruities which have been foisted upon the public by those who know nothing of the newspaper except as something behind which to fall asleep at night.

In support of Marie Doro there appear such well known players as Elliott Dexter, Carl Stockdale, Maym Kelso and Robert Gray.

"THE HIDDEN CHILDREN" AND "THE PROMISE" FOR METRO.

Harold Lockwood and May Allison, the popular Metro-Yorke stars, are working on two feature productions at the same time. Under the direction of Fred J. Balshofer, president and general manager of the Yorke Film Corporation, they are engaged in completing the screen version of "The Promise," the novel by James B. Hendryx, and with Oscar Apfel as director they are working on the opening scenes of "The Hidden Children," a picturization of the book of the same name by Robert W. Chambers.

The versatility of the stars was never shown to better advantage, for "The Promise" is a story of the most advanced civilization of the present day, with Broadway and the "bright lights" well represented, and the story of "The Hidden Children" is placed in the days before the American revolution, when hand-to-hand encounters with the Indians played a large part in the everyday life of the early settlers.

"The Promise" is a tale of New York, contrasted with the lumber camps of the northwest; "The Hidden Children" a thrilling story of the nation in its infancy. Totally different treatment is required in the screen versions of these two important novels, and it is an added test of the ability of Mr. Lockwood and Miss Allison that they are able to step easily from the "make-up" and mental attitude of one to the other. The Metro-Yorke favorites, Lester Cuneo and Lillian Hayward, head the supporting cast in these two Metro wonderplays.

KLEINE-EDISON RELEASE DATE CHANGED.

George Kleine announces that the release date of the Kleine-Edison photoplay, "The Royal Pauper," has been advanced one week and that this feature will be forthcoming through the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service, February 19 instead of February 12, as previously advised. The "Keys" release of February 12 will be the Selig Red Seal play, "The Heart of Texas Ryan."

"THE HEART OF TEXAS RYAN" (Selig).

In "The Heart of Texas Ryan," the Selig Red Sea Play, to be released in K-E-S-E Service on Monday, February 12, Frank Campeau, Tom Mix and George Fawcett have strong parts.

The drama is from the pen of Gilson Willets, the well-known novelist and photoplaywright, who spent years on the Texas borderland and in old Mexico. The production is in five reels and is said to present beautiful scenery in Texas and in old Mexico, some sensational horsemanship, an automobile smash-up and a hand-to-hand fight between Campeau and Mix.

Scene from "The Heart of Texas Ryan" (Selig).

George Fawcette as "Cattle King" Ryan, who lives for his only daughter, whom he has named "Texas," honoring his beloved state, has many opportunities, it is said, for convincing work. The part of "Texas Ryan" is taken by Bessie Eyton. There is a strong thread of love interest interwoven in the drama.

Sensational Scenes in Fox Picture

"The Honor System" Has Twenty-five Big Punches—Opens the Lyric February 6.

WILLIAM FOX will inaugurate an annual motion picture event patterned on the lines of the Drury Lane production in London. These famous productions, it will be remembered, enlisted the most popular playwrights, directors and actors before the London public, were produced regardless of expense, and were looked forward to by all theater-goers as red letter events. In brief, one big spectacular picture of tremendous cost and great dramatic wealth will be produced annually by Mr. Fox, on a theme close to the American people. For 1917 the production will be "The Honor System." It will be disclosed at the Lyric theater, beginning Tuesday evening, February 6.

Scene from "The Honor System" (Fox).

The twenty-five big sensational scenes in this film, said to be unrivaled to date on the screen, include:

A Villista raid on an American border town.
The mining engineer's tragic death in the raid.
The children's lucky escape from the Mexican bandits.
The fight in the Arizona dance hall.
The unpremeditated killing of Three-Fingered Louis by Joe Stanton, the hero.
The courtroom scene of Joe's trial for murder.
The country fair where Joe's prosecutor met Edith Holt.
The scene in the great eating hall at Yuma.
The self-inflicted death of Frank.
His burial at night in Yuma cemetery.
The rebellion of Joe's colleagues and the hold-up of the old warden.
Joe's self-surrender after the rebellion.
The snake den or black hole into which he was thrown.
The meeting of Governor Hunter and Joe Stanton.
The historic session of the Arizona Legislature when conditions were reformed.
The scenes in the new state institution.
Joe Stanton's successful establishment of the first wireless service to Japan.
The fight in a Los Angeles underworld resort when two bands of criminals met.
The raid by the police.
The killing of the old warden by one of his ex-convicts.
Joe Stanton's battle on the roof of a moving freight train with a member of the old gang.
Joe's fall from the train.
Joe Stanton's return by means of which the honor system was saved.
Joe's pardon by the state authorities.
The final surprises and the triumph of Joe and his sweetheart, Edith.

"The Honor System" is a ten-reel film drama of contemporary American life. It was directed by R. A. Walsh and is based on a scenario from the pen of Henry Christeen Warnack. Mr. Walsh had the practically unlimited resources of the Fox Film Organization at his disposal and selected an unusual company of principals, among them Gladys Brockwell, Miriam Cooper, Milton Sills, James A. Marcus, Arthur Mackley, Charles Clary, P. J. Cannon, Mrs. Cora Drew and George Walsh.

Several thousand people took part in the ensemble scenes, including a small army of Mexicans and bands of cowboys. The music for the big picture was specially composed and will be interpreted by an orchestra of fifty pieces.

HARRY RAVER'S FIRST APOLLO COMPLETED.

Under the direction of Richard Ridgely, the first Apollo production has just been completed and will be released through Art Dramas, Inc., the new program of moderate priced features. This serves to again introduce the magnetic little star, Alma Hanlon, to her many admirers in an original and powerful drama by Harry Chandlee, "God of Little Children."

She is supported by Bigelow Cooper, Charles Hutchinson, William Hartman, Mathilde Baring, Blanche Burns, James O'Neill and a splendid incidental cast.

"THE END OF THE TOUR" (Metro).

"The End of the Tour," in which Lionel Barrymore is starred, will be released by Metro Pictures Corporation, February 5. "The End of the Tour" is a theatrical story, a romance of the "one-night-stands." Drama and comedy are delightfully intermingled in this five-part feature photoplay, which has been adapted and directed by George D. Baker from the story by Earle Mitchell, and produced by Columbia Pictures Corporation.

Lionel Barrymore has one of the best parts of his entire career in "Buddy" Bennett, leading man of the Chicago Ideal Theater Company. Mr. Barrymore has never before had the opportunity to play Armand in "Camille," but his frends will now be able to see him in the role, since "Camille" is in the repertoire of the Chicago Ideals Theater Company, and scenes from the play are shown in "The End of the Tour."

Dramatic incidents in "The End of the Tour" are provided by the fact that Percy Pennington, a "fresh" commercial traveler, pursues Grace Jessup under a false promise of marriage. Without letting her know his identity, "Buddy" follows and protects her. How he saves her life at the risk of his own, softens the hard heart of old Colonel Jessup, and reunites the little home are points that form the best part of the play.

Mr. Barrymore is supported in "The End of the Tour" by a cast of uniform excellence. Pretty Ethel Dayton (formerly known as Ethel Corcoran), has the part of Grace Jessup, the village beauty. Walter Hiers is "Skinny," the property man. J. Herbert Frank has the role of the self satisfied "drummer," and Frank Currier plays Colonel Jessup. Members of the traveling troupe are Maud Hill, who plays the leading lady; Mary Taylor, who makes her motion picture debut in the part of Lottie Lee, soubrette; Richard Thornton, the absconding manager; Hugh Jeffrey, "the villyun," and Kate Blancke, "character woman."

Rich humor is afforded by the rival hose companies of the town of Mayville. Charles Eldridge as Seth Perkins, William Harvey as Hen Springer, leading man of "The Fireman's Bride" company, and Louis Wolheim as Andy Barnes of Hose Company No. 1, help to supply the fun.

TRIANGLE FEBRUARY 11TH RELEASES.

Constance Talmadge and William S. Hart are the stars of the Triangle feature releases for February 11. Miss Talmadge will appear in "The Girl of the Timber Claims," a Fine Arts drama written by Mary H. O'Connor and directed by Paul Powell. William S. Hart will enact the title-role in the Ince-Kay Bee production of "The Gun-Fighter," a vigorous play of the old West, by Monte M. Katterjohn.

"The Girl of the Timber Claims" is a story of the great forests of the Pacific slope, and of the struggle between the rightful settlers and the "dummy" representatives of the timber trust who try to jump the holdings of the original claimants. Constance Talmadge takes the part of the daughter of the rugged, pioneer settlement, who leads the forces against the invading "dummies." She becomes involved in a pretty romance with a government timber inspector, who has disguised himself as one of the interlopers. After a series of novel complications, destiny straightens things out to the complete satisfaction of everyone except the land-sharks and their henchmen.

As "The Gun-Fighter," William S. Hart is cast in the character of a typical "two-gun" man of the wildest frontier days. After a career as a "killer," in which he has taken great pride, he has an encounter with a pretty milliner, who upbraids him for his ruthless habit of snuffing out men's lives. Out of revenge for her reproof, he kidnaps the girl, but is himself overcome by her unassailable love of the better things of life, and when the big test comes, he freely lays down his life in her behalf.

AEROPLANE CHASE IN TENTH "PEARL OF THE ARMY."

An aeroplane chase at eighty miles an hour in which one machine deliberately rams the other, is the big thrill in the tenth episode of "Pearl of the Army," Pathe's military-mystery serial announced for release February 4.

Pearl, amazed at the singular actions of her father's new secretary, follows him and learns that the Silent Menace's agent, the Cracker, is going to fly by aeroplane to the Chemical building and rob her father's safe of the wafers which will make legible the plans of the Canal.

Hastening to the Aero Club, she finds that the only machine available is a new one which she does not understand, and that it will be necessary for her, despite her suspicions of him, to allow Adams to drive her. They set out at top speed in an attempt to overtake the other machine.

Meanwhile the Cracker has entered the building, blown up Colonel Dare's safe, obtained the wafers and started away. Pearl and Adams pursue him. With the two machines tearing through space at top speed, he turns and makes straight for Adams who, realizing his intentions, forces Pearl to jump with the parachute.

The two machines crash together and fall blazing to the ground where Pearl some time later discovers the Cracker's dead body, but sees no trace of Adams. Pearl finds the wafers in the Cracker's pocket, and as she is about to recover them, two hands come into the picture and seize her wrists. It is the Silent Menace.

Nine Mutual Companies

All Hard at Work on as Many Highly Promising Subjects.

ALL work with very little time for play is the rule at the eight studios producing for the Mutual Film Corporation, and the various productions at present in the making promise many interesting releases for the near future. On the eastern coast at the studio of the Frank Powell Producing Company, at College Point, Long Island, are two of the famous stage favorites recently signed by President John R. Freuler in accordance with his policy of "Only Big Stars for the Mutual."

Marjorie Rambeau, one of the attractive Broadway favorites not long ago added to the Mutual roster, is at present doing double duty and dividing her time between the footlights and the screen. Miss Rambeau has already completed her first picture, "The Greater Woman," under the direction of Frank Powell, head of the Powell Producing Corporation, and is now working on the second Mutual star production, "Motherhood." This is a picturization of a play by the well known author and playwright, Frederick Arnold Kummer, and affords Miss Itambeau a wide range of artistic expressions. She is being supported in this unusual picture drama by such well known actors as Aubrey Beattie and Paul Everton.

Nance O'Neil, also star of the Powell Producing Corporation, too, combines work before the camera with the stage. The first of the O'Neil series of Mutual Star productions to be produced by the Frank Powell Producing Corporation will be the portrayal of the title role in "Mrs. Balfame," a picturization of Gertrude Atherton's novel of the same name. For this Mutual Star production, to be the first of Miss Atherton's works to be transferred to the screen, Mr. Powell has surrounded Miss O'Neil with an excellent cast. In this photodrama will appear Alfred Hickman, famous since his impersonation of "Little Billie" in "Trilby"; Agnes Eyre, already a favorite of picture patrons, Robert Elliott, late leading man for Margaret Illington; Frank Belcher, and Anna Raines, both players of unusual attainment.

Out on the western coast at the American studio at Santa Barbara, Mary Miles Minter and William Russell are putting the finishing touches to their next Mutual offerings. Miss Minter is just completing "The Gentle Intruder," the sixth or her Mutual Star productions, a picture which gives the young star a distinctly different type of role, but one which brings her peculiarly winsome personality out to the best advantage. At the same time the final series of his production are being made, Director Kirkwood is himself writing the story for Miss Minter's next drama. In "The Gentle Intruder," Miss Minter is supported by a strong cast. George Fisher, the well known player, is playing the leading role opposite the little star.

William Russell is likewise working on the finishing scenes of "My Fighting Gentleman," under the direction of Edward Sloman. In this production Francelia Billington makes her debut as Mr. Russell's leading woman, and Jack Vosburg makes his first appearance as a Mutual player as the villain of the piece. The plot is written around the stirring events of the reconstruction period of the South, and the artistic beauty of the film is furher enhanced by the quaint costuming of the period.

Preparations are also being made at the American studio for the first production of Gail Kane, the American's newest stellar acquisition, when she arrives at the studios from New York city.

Down at San Diego the members of the Pollard Picture Plays Company, headed by Margarita Fiscer, are completing the production of the fourth of the Margarita Fischer series of Mutual Star productions, "The Devil's Assistant," the vivid preachment against the use of drugs, written by I. Edward Hungerford. Harry Pollard, head of the Pollard Company, is directing this production, which he believes to be the strongest of its type yet to be produced.

In support of Margarita Fischer in this strong drama are some of the best known screen players of the day. The cast includes Monroe Salisbury and Kathleen Kirkham, both of whom appeared in "Ramona"; Joseph Harris and J. Gordon Russell and other members of Miss Fischer's regular company.

From the Signal studios came the reports that Helen Holmes is performing her last spectacular feats in the fifteenth and last chapter of the Mutual-Signal photonovel, "A Lass of the Lumberlands," and drawing to a close the tangled incidents of this most thrilling of continued stories of the screen.

At the Lone Star studios in Los Angeles, the unparalleled Charlie Chaplin, having completed "Easy Street," his ninth Mutual comedy, is already outlining his next antics, which will set the world laughing.

Shorty Hamilton, who has made a distinctive success in western character roles, is at work at the Monogram studio at Los Angeles on his series of two-reel dramas to be released as Mutual "Featurettes" under the general title of "Adventures of Shorty Hamilton." The first three of this series have already been announced. "Shorty and the Yellow Ring," the first of the series, is released January 15. "Shorty in the Tiger's Den" and "Shorty Goes to College" will immediately follow, forming the second and third releases of the fifteen "Featurettes" of the series.

The companies of players at the Vogue studios at Los Angeles are alternating in the producing of one comedy a week. Ben Turpin, Paddy McQuire, Gypsy Abbott, Lillian Hamilton and Arthur Moon, Marie Templeton and Ed Laurie are among the popular players at this busy place.

Gaumont is in constant touch with all parts of the world gathering material for its quota of regular weekly releases of news and travel, "Mutual Weekly," "Reel Life" and "See America First."

GRIFFITH SPECTACLE FOR STATE RIGHTS.

Original Production Directed by D. W. Griffith, Re-edited into Six-Reel Feature.

ANNOUNCEMENT comes from the Biograph Company to the effect that "Her Condoned Sin," an elaboration of their famous masterpiece, "Judith of Bethulia," is now completed in six reels and ready for release through State-rights exchanges.

This massive spectacle directed by D. W. Griffith, produced along the lines of "The Birth of a Nation" and "Intolerance," is sure to share in the quota of success which lies before Griffith's great production, and despite the fact that it was Griffith's first big production it will bid for supremacy with his latter successes.

"Her Condoned Sin" has everything that makes for a successful State-rights proposition. A strong cast headed by Blanche Sweet and Henry Walthall, supported by Mae Marsh, Robert Harron, Lillian Gish, Dorothy Gish, and equally prominent Biograph players—the invincible direction of D. W. Griffith and the standard Biograph photography.

KEITH OPENS LOUISVILLE HOUSE WITH PATHE FEATURE.

The Strand theater, Louisville, Kentucky, opened under its new management—B. F. Keith-Mary Anderson—with Pearl White in "Pearl of the Army" and William Farnum in "The Price of Love." That the management considers the Pathe serial the biggest drawing card on the program is seen in the fact that in a full-page advertisement the large share of the space was devoted to it.

"THE MYSTERIOUS MRS. M." (Bluebird).

Mary MacLaren returns to the Bluebird program, February 5, sharing the billing honors with Harrison Ford, in "The Mysterious Mrs. M.," screen version of Thomas Edgelow's magazine story. This is another Lois Weber Bluebird, for Mary MacLaren has always been directed by Miss Weber from the day she entered pictures.

Harrison Ford replaced J. Warren Kerrigan while this subject was in the making, for the reason that Kerrigan's contract expired. Half of the picture had to be made all new with Mr. Ford in the leading role. Its plot is so origina' its construction so deft and unusual, and the complete production is so out of the ordinary that the Rialto, New York, is showing it all this week (Januaary 22) on pre-release, while, at the same time, the subject is shown Wednesday at Loew's New York, just across Longacre square, on the regular "Bluebird Day."

Scene from "The Mysterious Mrs. M." (Bluebird).

This is Mary MacLaren's fourth appearance among Bluebirds—she has been starred in "Shoes," "Saving the Family Name" and "Wanted—a Home." Miss Weber held her out of Bluebirds while "Idle Wives" was being filmed, and the change in leading men for "The Mysterious Mrs. M." further delayed her appearances in the program through which she gained her opportunity for screen prominence.

Evelyn Selbie will play the name-part in Miss MacLaren's latest vehicle, the other players being Charles Mailes, Bertram Grassby, Frank Brownlee and Willis Marks.

VIVIAN MARTIN IN "THE WAX MODEL."

Vivian Martin, as the star of the Pallas production, "The Wax Model," is put through an extremely varied number of modes of life before the final scenes place her in the safe keeping of an Englishman whose love for her nearly proved the little French girl's death. The photoplay is adapted from the story of the same name by G. Vere Tyler, which appeared in a recent number of Smart Set Magazine, and was directed by E. Mason Hopper. Among those who are prominent in the cast are Thomas Holding, Helen Jerome Eddy, George Fisher, Senor Buzzi and Kathryn Vaughn.

Scene from "The Wax Model" (Pallas).

In the opening scenes of the picture Miss Martin is the small daughter of a Frenchwoman who has come to grief at the hands of a faithless Englishman. Her parting admonition to the little girl as she decides to end her life is to beware of all men, for they bring nothing but pain and sorrow.

"ONE TOUCH OF SIN" (Fox).

Splendid acting is the dominant characteristic of "One Touch of Sin," the newest photoplay starring Gladys Brockwell, the accomplished William Fox screen artiste. The picture will be released on January 29. It was directed by Richard Stanton, one of the best filmmakers in the industry. L. Genez wrote the story, which will be interpreted by a remarkably capable cast.

Jack Standing will play opposite Miss Brockwell. Others in the company are: Willard Louis, Sedley Brown, Carrie Clark Ward, Frankie Lee, Jack MacDonald and Charles Edhler.

The silver mine, in which two men carry on a terrific fight in "One Touch of Sin," is merely one of the wonderfully realistic "sets" which was erected for the screen drama. A large part of the picture was filmed in "Golden City," the recently completed village which William Fox had built for use in a series of forthcoming features. The night scenes of the big fire which occurs in "One Touch of Sin" were also made in Golden City.

MANY THRILLERS IN THIS PLAY.

More retakes were necessary in the Thanhouser production, "A Modern Monte Cristo," starring Vincent Serrano and to be released by Pathe on February 4, than were made in any other Gold Rooster Play produced in the New Rochelle studios. The many retakes were necessary because of the variety of "stunts" interjected in the story by the author, Lloyd Lonergan.

After Mr. Serrano had made a half-dozen high dives from a bridge over the Harlem River, had leaped overboard into a raging sea a dozen times, had swam ashore from a wrecked schooner rescuing a little child, had been rescued by an aeroplane, had fished for pearls in a diving helmet, and had survived many other similar experiences, he appeared humbly in the office of Mr. Lonergan, Thanhouser scenario editor.

"Please, old man, if you ever have anything to do with my next script, have a heart," he begged. "I think I am entitled, after all this, to go through the next story in an invalid's chair. Can't you fix it up for me?"

SECOND PICKFORD SUBJECT GOES OVER BIG.

Reports received at the headquarters of the Artcraft Pictures Corporation in New York indicate that the new Mary Pickford picture, "The Pride of the Clan," is establishing new records for box-office receipts and attendance throughout the country. Letters and telegrams from exhibitors in most of the large cities where this production is just concluding its first-run bookings readily corroborate the general feeling that it is undoubtedly the best Mary Pickford production ever presented to the public.

THRILLS AND ROMANCE IN FOURTH "PATRIA."

The fourth episode of "Patria," the International serial of romance and society, is announced for release by Pathe the week of February 4. This chapter is entitled "Double Crossed."

Mrs. Vernon Castle, the best known woman in the world, plays the leading role, supported by an all-star cast including Milton Sills, Warner Oland, eGorge Majeroni and Dorothy Green.

Huroki learns that Elaine, a popular dancer, is the exact double of Patria. He forces Fanny Adair, a widow, who has lost her money, but still retains something of her social position, to aid him.

In a restaurant, Edward, Elaine's lover, mistaking Patria for the dancer, and driven wild with rage at seeing her dancing with Captain Donald Parr, kidnaps her. Parr follows, and in a thrilling fight, rescues her.

Patria returns to Newport by boat. Huroki, having coached Elaine for her part, sends her on board disguised as an invalid in charge of a nurse. That night, when Patria is on deck, she is thrown overboard by Huroki's hirelings. Elaine slips into Patria's stateroom and the nurse gives the alarm that her charge has escaped and jumped overboard.

PATHE TO RELEASE SEVERAL MAX LINDER PICTURES.

In view of the presence in this country of Max Linder, the great French comedian, the announcement by Pathe of the forthcoming release of several Max Linder comedies is of peculiar interest. Mr. Linder became famous while he was a Pathe actor, and for years the "Max" comedies, with the Pathe trademark, enjoyed a tremendous vogue.

With several excellent "Max" comedies that have never been released, together with reissues of some of the best and most recent of his pictures, Pathe plans a series of Max Linder comedies which will be a strong attraction with every exhibitor.

Among the first to be released will be "Max and the Fair M. D.," "Max the Lady Killer" and "Max's Feet Are Pinched," all one-reel pictures, with the exception of the last mentioned, which is a split reel.

"THE WHITE TRAIL" (Mutual).

"The White Trail," fourth of the Edith Sessions Tupper newspaper dramas, produced by the Niagara Film studios and issued by the Mutual Film Corporation under the general title of "Perils of Our Girl Reporters," is one of the most exciting of the fifteen contained in the series.

In this play Rhea Fernel, who is the clever young actress, Helen Greene, is assigned to secure by any means in her power the secret key to a Mexican revolutionary code through the medium of which ammunition and supplies are being sent into Mexico for the use of certain revolutionary bands.

The plot is one that takes Miss Fernel to Washington, and in the elaboration of which she is offered an opportunity to display her clean cut conception of the behavior of a newspaper woman in certain crises.

In a reception at which the chief of the revolutionary propaganda was host, Miss Fernel manages to secure possession of the much sought key by the simple device of setting fire to a wastebasket full of discarded papers and thus directing attention in another way until she had rifled the drawer containing the much desired document.

Scene from "The White Trail" (Mutual).

The principal recommendation of Miss Greene's acting in this cleverly constructed play is its naturalness. The young woman has studied newspaper methods and the behavior of newspaper women to excellent effect, and in her representation of the girl reporter she is convincing.

Beban on Paramount Program

Divides Honors With Vivian Martin in Leading Features—Many Strong Short Subjects for Week of January 29.

IN ALL the annals of stage and screen, there is no star who has won distinction in the portrayal of a racial type in quite the degree that George Beban has, as an interpreter of the Italian. In such great plays and photoplays as "The Sign of the Rose," "Pasquale" and others, he has proven his undisputed supremacy as a character actor. In the Morosco-Paramount picture, "His Sweetheart," he adds to these laurels. This picture, together with the Pallas-Paramount production of "The Wax Model," starring Vivian Martin, will be released on the Paramount Program the week of January 29.

"His Sweetheart" is a tender, quaint, pathetic photodrama showing the real heart and soul of the Italian with the added interest of American environment and a strong story of politics and love. It was written by George Beban and Lawrence McCloskey, and the characterization of Joe Ticiarri is in no sense a cartoon or caricature, but a sincere portrayal of the temperamental, excitable and lovable Italian in America.

The Morosco Company has given this Paramount Picture a lavish and accurate production, and Mr. Beban is surrounded by an excellent cast which includes Helen Jerome Eddy, Sarah Kernan, Harry Devere, Kathleen Kirkman, Robert E. Rolson and others.

"The Wax Model" in which Vivian Martin is starred, was written by G. Vere Tyler, and is a serio comic tale of a French model in England who nearly starves to death for love. This story made a sensation when it appeared in the Smart Set Magazine, and it is not to be doubted that its more vivid presentation on the screen will prove more successful. The leading role which Miss Martin portrays gives her an opportunity of again being the piquant, charming vivacious star that she can so well portray. The actual wax models around which the story is built add a touch of novelty to the production.

In "The Wax Model" Miss Martin is seen as the foremost and most popular artist's model in London. She has not won this prominence by beauty of face and figure alone, but by her charming and youthful manner and grace.

As the charming young model, Miss Martin has an opportunity to display a number of exquisite gowns and frocks which will be of especial interest to her thousands of girl admirers. Thomas Holding is featured with Miss Martin and others in the cast are: George Fisher, Helen Jerome Eddy, Senor Buzzi, Kathryn Vaughn and others. The production is of wonderful excellence and lavishness.

Surrounding the Paramount Program for this week are three short-reel subjects of importance; the 51st edition of Paramount Pictographs, the magazine-on-the-screen; the 52nd series of "Weekly Trips Around the World," personally conducted by Burton Holmes in which he takes his fellow travelers from the Georgian Bay to Winnipeg, and also a Klever Komedy, "A Honeyless Honeymoon," in which Victor Moore plays the leading role.

In the Paramount Pictographs are four interesting subjects dealt with this week, the first of which is "An Army on Skis," which portrays one of the most interesting and picturesque incidents in connection with the European War, showing some of the unusual conditions that have been brought forth during the fighting of armies in the winter months. This particular subject shows how the Bavarians, unaccustomed to cold climates, found themselves overtaken by a severe blizzard and became temporarily helpless, and what actually took place when these regiments were trapped by an army on skis during their progress across the Carpathian mountains.

Another interesting subject is the picturing of the "Sailors' Snug Harbor," which home on Staten Island shelters at the present time over nine hundred veterans of the sea, while the pictures of the "Clay Workers" show in a unique manner the way in which clay is made into wonderful bricks of molded pottery and the processes through which it is of necessity taken, to make bricks. A great deal of action is obtained in another subject entitled "Harnessing the Wind," where there is shown how, by the application of the aeroplane engine with its huge light propeller through the operation of a canoe, ice-sledge or racing car, opens up a new and joyful field to the world of sport.

Burton Holmes, the world's greatest traveler, who has been conducting weekly trips around the world for Paramount theater lovers, has been taking the American public to some interesting points on his Canadian pictorial tour, and during the week of January 29 his trip leads from the Georgian Bay to Winnipeg, stopping at points of interest that the average traveler rarely gets an opportunity of seeing. From the shores of Lake Huron to the prairie capital of Manitoba is a most unique and interesting trip, especially informative as to what our Canadian cousins do, not only to amuse themselves, but in Winnipeg, especially, how they accumulate their wealth. On this trip Mr. Holmes took some very unique photographs, and duplicates of which have never before been equaled in travel pictures.

Victor Moore has made an unusually huge success of his single-reel comedies since he has entered the field of "little features" and in the "Honeyless Honeymoon" he is a screaming success from start to finish.

"SHIFTING SHADOWS" (Essanay).

This is a unit of the "Is Marriage Sacred?" cycle. The matrimonial problem presented is that growing out of too much prosperity. The young couple snub their old-time friends, then must suffer the consequences when they lose their wealth as suddenly as they obtained it. This drama features Essanay's all-star stock company, including such prominent screen actors and actresses as Marguerite Clayton, Edward Arnold, Lillian Drew, Sydney Ainsworth and Thomas Commerford. It is replete with startling turns and gorgeous scenic effects. The photography is excellent. "Shifting Shadows" is released through the General Film Service February 3. Its screen time is 29 minutes.

Scene from "Shifting Shadows" (Essanay).

ASTRA HAS MANY PATHE PRODUCTIONS UNDER WAY.

With two Pathe serials, "Pearl of the Army," and "The Double Cross," now approaching completion and several Gold Rooster plays in the making, the Astra studio in Jersey City is a busy place.

George Fitzmaurice, the Astra director, has just finished "The Iron Heart," a Gold Rooster play, written by Ouida Bergere. Edwin Arden, Forrest Wynant, Leonore Harris and Helene Chadwick are in the cast, which is an exceptionally strong one. Mr. Arden, who has been prominently identified with many Pathe pictures, among them "The Exploits of Elaine," "The Beloved Vagabond" and "Simon the Jester," thus appears in a Pathe production for the first time in nearly a year.

Mr. Fitzmaurice is now making up his casts on two new Gold Rooster features, "Circumstances," by Fred Jackson, and "The Yellow Ticket," the famous A. H. Woods play.

George Seitz, who enjoys the distinction of either having been the author or else the scenario writer of every Pathe picture in which Pearl White has ever played, is now to become a director. He will direct a new serial for Pathe, the title of which will be "New York Nights," and which was written by him in collaboration with Fred Jackson. Pearl White and Theodore Friebus are two of the "Pearl of the Army" cast who will be in the new serial.

MR. WARDE IN NEW PLAY.

Frederick Warde, Thanhouser star, is now being filmed in Lloyd Lonergan's modern drama, "The Rogue and His Double," which is to be released through Pathe exchanges in spring. Mr. Warde is again being directed by Ernest Warde, his son.

In "The Rogue and His Double" Mr. Warde plays the parts of Josiah Stevens, a tender-hearted old clerk, and J. Evarts Hinton, a "get-rich-quick" operator. There is a great amount of double exposure in the play, but a "back-of-the-head" double of Mr. Warde is used in several scenes.

Others in the cast, and their parts, are: Kathryn Adams as Josiah Stevens' widowed daughter, May; Eldeen Stewart as May's daughter, Marie; Wayne Arey as Clancy, a detective; Charles Mussett as Mr. Smith, Hinton's lawyer; Justus D. Barnes as Denton, a detective; Arthur Bauer as Mr. Gray, Stevens' employer; John Lehnberg as Jake, a crook; and Frank Gereghty, as a policeman. There are many minor characters and about 100 extra people are used in a big cabaret scene.

"THE VAMPIRES" FOLLOW THEMSELVES.

An unusual tribute to the box office power of Gaumont's "The Vampires" has just been paid this sensational photo-novel by the Mehesy theater, Salt Lake City, Utah. Immediately upon the conclusion of the series, it will be run over again in the same theater.

Charlotte Walker in Mutual Headliner

Will Appear in "Pardners," a Rex Beach Story—Other Good Things for Week of January 29.

THE headliner on the schedule of the Mutual Film Corporation for the week of January 29 will be "Pardners," a five-reel adaptation of Rex Beach's story, in which Charlotte Walker is featured. It is a drama of Alaska, this vivid story from the pen of the author of "The Spoilers," "The Ne'er Do Well," "The Barrier," which now comes to the public through the Mutual Film Corporation, filled with the thrill of adventure which characterizes a new land.

Charlotte Walker.

Charlotte Walker, whose stage and screen career has been attended with unusual success, is more lovely than ever in the role of an aristocratic southern woman, for whose sake her husband, "the kid," goes out in search for gold.

Rex Beach has filled this story with the mad scramble for gold, and the unscrupulous search for self-gratification, and with the bigness, the freeness, the wickedness of the north country, he has colored it with the odd characters which went to the land in search of the pay streak, and he has softened it and made it appealing to the heart by the spirit and love of a woman.

On this first day of the week also will come out the third of "Adventures of Shorty Hamilton," the Mutual "Featurettes," under the title of "Shorty Goes to College." This two-reeler opens with some well produced scenes of a roundup and a typical dance at a ranch house, bringing in the true atmosphere of the western life. Then it switches to the scenes at college, where Shorty is at the head of his class in all things athletic, and is the hero of the gridiron, but finds it too arduous duty to keep up in the class work. There is also a complicated romance in which Shorty and the daughter of one of the professors figure prominently.

In the regular weekly travel film "Mutual Tours Around the World," scheduled for January 30, a trip is made to Teheran, the capital of Persia, showing the life of this interesting city, and then the travelers are taken to France and visits made to the various coast resorts of Normandy and on the Vosges mountains, wrapped in the beauties of the winter season.

On January 31 will be released the regular Mutual weekly, No. 109, with its many happenings of the day and collection of interesting incidents, and also "See America First." This week scenes are shown of San Diego, the historical garden spot of Southern California, and the reel is completed by Harry Palmer's clever Kartoon Komic.

The Cub one-reel comedy in which George Ovey makes his regular weekly appearance on February 1, shows the adventures of "Jerry and His Pal."

February 2 brings the fifth of the "Uncle Sam's Defenders" series, showing the "Scouts of the Sea and Sky."

Some very interesting views of the guiding and propelling mechanism of the twenty-two inch torpedoes are pictured. Among the intensely interesting scenes in this chapter are those of the aviation corps at Pensacola, Fla., showing the latest type of biplanes, and a trip over Pensacola in a Curtiss "Flying Fish." At this time when the submarines from Germany have proven their unlimited prowess, scenes of U. S. submarines in maneuvers and submerging are interesting ones.

The American Film Corporation contributes a one-reel drama "Nature's Calling," featuring J. Warren Kerrigan, supported by Pauline Bush and Louise Lester. This will be ready for the public on February 3. In this drama Mr. Kerrigan enacts the role of a typical big man of the big west who marries a girl of the east and tries to make her love this "God's Country" as he does. The vastness of the western mountains and plains does not appeal to the city bred girl, and the longing for New York cannot be overcome, so she returns to the bright lights and gay life of her beloved New York, while Kerrigan proves true to his western nature.

Paddy McQuire and Billy Mason have the principal roles in the Mutual-Vogue two-reel comedy of February 4, entitled "Sticky Fingers." Lillian Hamilton, Larry Bowes, Harry Huckins, George Monberg and Glenn Gano also appear in the supporting cast. This is a new departure in the comedy line combining both light comedy and slapstick. The fun revolves around two college boys who discover they have only fifty cents between them. At this psychological moment they meet a most attractive girl with an equally attractive roll and are unable to resist the temptation to "borrow" her wealth. Complications follow thick and fast. There is a most thrilling chase in which there are many exciting moments and some dare devil stunts over roof tops that are very realistic and out of the ordinary. Paddy McQuire and Smiling Billy Mason are seen as the two college boys, and the charming Lillian Hamilton is at her best as the girl.

The Mutual-Gaumont release of the same day, "Reel Life," is made up of four interesting subjects: "Making Lace by Machinery," "Toddles, New York's Latest Dance," "Raising Fresh Water Fish," and "Design Your Own Gown."

The week's program is rounded out by the fifteenth and last chapter of the Mutual-Signal photo-novel in which Helen Holmes provides the thrills, "A Lass of the Lumberlands," and the sixth story of the series of newspaper stories, "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters," featuring Helen Greene and Earle Metcalfe, entitled "A Long Lane."

"TILLIE WAKES UP" (World).

The current World-Brady release, "Tillie Wakes Up," with Marie Dressler in the principal role, and Johnny Hines playing the leading opposite character, is the first comedy to be produced by this organization in a very long time. It tells the story of two husbands and two wives who wrangle at breakfast, with the result that one of the wives concludes to go to Coney Island for a day's outing, while the same idea flashes upon the mind of the other husband, who lives just across the hall.

The pair start off in a taxi-cab, which almost immediately has a collision, throwing its occupants out upon the road and smashing the machine. The pleasure seeking wife and the other wife's husband escape in the confusion and make a dash to avoid notoriety which would come to them if they remained to be identified in connection with the smash-up.

They are halted by the first policeman they encounter, but their antics lead that guardian of the peace to believe that they are merely harmless lunatics, and away they go again.

From this moment they plunge into all the lively diversions of Coney Island, always closely pursued by their better (or worse) halves, until, as a final adventure, they go flying into the surf in an automobile which has become unmanageable. Thus halted, they are overtaken by their life partners and are entirely willing to kiss and make up.

It is believed that this picture will have a special appeal for spectators unfamiliar with the always novel and entertaining Coney Island, while, on the other hand, it is calculated to arouse memories of experiences in those to whom the home of the hot dog is by no means a novelty.

"BURNING THE CANDLE" (Essanay).

Henry B. Walthall's next Essanay feature is to be a powerful exposition of a man's fight with drink. "Burning the Candle" is the title of this photodrama. Mr. Walthall and his company are now on the Gulf Coast near New Orleans being filmed in the preliminary scenes. The picture will be released March 18 through Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service.

"Burning the Candle" hinges on a young Southerner, reared in ignorance of the saloon and the "wet" cafe, who obtained a position in a New York cotton broker's office. His introduction to saloons and the cafe cocktail mark the beginning of his downfall, the loss of his bride's love, and eventually the wrecking of his home. He falls to the very gutter. It is the true love of his young wife, however, which finally draws him up from the depths of depravity to which he has sunk, and makes a man of him again.

Mary Charleson, who so creditably portrayed the role of the little nurse in Walthall's great drug feature, "The Truant Soul," again is seen as his leading woman in "Burning the Candle." Harry Beaumont is directing the production. He directed "The Truant Soul."

"PRICE SHE PAID" NEARLY READY.

With "The Common Law" and "The Foolish Virgin" already showing to capacity audiences in all the important motion picture theaters of the country, the interest of Clara Kimball Young's millions of admirers now centers in her third Selznick-Pictures production, soon to be released. This is an adaptation of "The Price She Paid" by the late David Graham Phillips, who ranks among the greatest of American authors.

In "The Price She Paid" Miss Young will be seen in a role that will delight her followers. She plays a society girl who marries for millions and learns to repent at leisure. This role in the story affords Miss Young an opportunuity to wear a wonderful assortment of gowns and other feminine trappings of the latest mode and the luxurious settings range from Fifth avenue to Palm Beach.

TRENTON MAY SEE "PURITY."

The Audrey Munson feature, "Purity," was reviewed by the Board of Censors in Trenton, the capital of New Jersey, Wednesday, Jan. 10, and passed by them without eliminations, and with very complimentary comments as to its being a highly artistic and moral production.

"Love Aflame" Heads Universal Program

A Notable Red Feather Subject Leads a List Comprising Thirty-one Reels for the Week of January 29.

THE Universal Film Manufacturing Company presents an excellent program of releases for the week of January 29. The subjects are well chosen and are varied in theme and original in plot. There are thirty-one reels on this week's program ranging in length from a five-act feature to one-reel comedies.

Heading the list of releases is the five-act human interest drama, "Love Aflame," which will appear under the Red Feather brand on Monday, January 20. This is an absorbing story written and produced by Raymond Wells. A strong cast of screen players headed by Ruth Stonehouse and Jack Mulhall makes this an unusual production. In the support of the principals are Jean Hersholt, Nita White, Raymond Whitaker, Fronzie Gunn and Noble Johnson.

The Nestor comedy, "Why, Uncle," written by Bess Meredyth and produced by Louis Chaudet with Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Priscilla Dean in the leading roles, is the other offering of this date.

The feature for Tuesday, January 30, is the Gold Seal three-act drama, "June Madness," a tense story of love and intrigue with the scenes in the Far West. The story was written by Willis Woods, and the production made under the direction of Hobart Henley. In the cast especially engaged for this picture are Roy Stewart, Wadsworth Harris, Frank Brownlee, Gypsy Hart and Lloyd Whitlock. The Victor split-reel, "Some Baby," a film novelty, and "Nellie, the Fireman's Daughter," a comedy, will also appear on Tuesday.

The regular issue of the Universal Animated Weekly will appear on Wednesday, January 31. This is a particularly interesting issue, as it contains some wonderful night views of the recent munition plants fire at Kingsland, N. J. On the same day will be released the funny L-KO two-part comedy, "Faking Fakers," with Phil Dunham, Lucille Huttom and other noted funmakers, and the Big U drama, "The Gold Lust."

There will be four reels released on Thursday, February 1. The foremost offering of the day is the Universal Special two-act war drama, "The War Waif," from the story by Grace Helen Bailey. This is an exceptional short-reel feature, in which Zoe Rae and Allan Holubar have the principal roles. Others in the cast are: Irene Hunt, Eugene Walsh, Nellie Allen, Nanine Wright and George Pearce. The scenario is by Maie Harvey, and Allan Holubar was the director.

"It's Cheaper to Be Married," a Victor comedy featuring Babe Sedgwick and the Imp detective drama, "The Diamond Thieves," with Robert Leonard and Margarita Fischer, will also appear on this date.

The Imp two-act drama of the underworld, "The Forbidden Game," from the pen of Ben Cohn and directed by Harry Millarde, featuring Edward Hearn, is the leading offering of Friday, February 2. Other releases for Friday are the Victor comedy, "The Hero of Bunko Hill," and the Universal Screen Magazine No. 6.

Saturday, February 3, the Bison two-part mountain drama, "The Boonton Affair," written and directed by King Baggot, will be released. This is a gripping story of life in the Kentucky Mountains. In the cast are: King Baggot, Irene Hunt, Frank Smith and Jack Newton. The Joker comedy, "His Coming Out Party," with Gale Henry and William Franey in the chief roles, will also appear on the same date.

Two Imp dramas, "Diamonds of Destiny," with Louise Lovely and "Life's Pendulum," a two-act crook drama, will be released Sunday, February 4. The Powers split-reel, "Mr. Fuller Pep—His Wife Goes for a Rest," a comedy cartoon, and Dr. Dorsey's educational animated lecture, "In North China," completes the week's program.

During the week the sixth episode of the popular Grace Cunard and Francis Ford serial, "The Purple Mask," entitled "The Silent Feud," will make its appearance.

HEARST-PATHE NEWS GETS KINGSLAND EXPLOSION.

The Hearst-Pathe News got off to a fine start. With the second number a big "scoop" was made on the big explosion and fire at the Canadian Car & Foundry Company's Munition Plant at Kingsland, N. J.

Only three minutes after the first explosion a high-powered automobile was on its way from the New York office of the Hearst-Pathe News, carrying three cameramen and their helpers. At the same time another machine was speeding towards Kingsland from the New Jersey office, containing two cameramen.

The five cameramen got very close to the fire and secured the pictures while shells were exploding all around them. Hundreds of feet of film were secured and the pictures were most remarkable, showing the fire at its height, and are excellent examples of night photography. These pictures were being shown the next day on Broadway.

In the same issue are shown some notable views taken from a dirigible balloon in Greece. While at a great height the cameramen secured "bird's-eye view" pictures of a large section of the picturesque country.

"THE ARGYLE CASE" READY.

Robert Warwick's first Selznick picture, "The Argyle Case," is ready for release. Director Ralph W. Ince finished the work of cutting and assembling the film this week, and after a private showing for Lewis J. Selznick and his associates, the picture was enthusiastically conceded by everyone present to be a "sure knockout."

This play was the joint work of Harvey J. O'Higgins and Harriet Ford, the noted American dramatists, who, in order to reach the heights of realism called in as third collaborator the celebrated detective, William J. Burns. Robert Hilliard was the star of the original production, which enjoyed a year's run on Broadway and toured all the principal cities of the country with immense success.

Mr. Warwick is the ideal type for the central role in this rippingly good story, and he has been surrounded by a cast of noted players selected with extreme care by Director Ralph W. Ince. The cast includes Charles Hines, Frank McGlynn, Arthur Albertson, Gazelle Marche, Elaine Hammerstein, Frank Evans, John Fleming, H. Cooper Cliffe, Mary Alden and Robert Vivian.

SELIG OFFERS SOME MELODRAMA.

The Selig Company believes that the public is frequently inclined to relish what is frankly an old-fashioned melodrama of the good old days when the villains were popular and the papers appeared at the right moment. That the theory is correct is said to have been proven by the critics' reports on "The Princess of Patches," a Selig Red Seal play, released in K-E-S-E service on Monday, January 22. The drama contains the hidden locket, the transition from rags to riches of the heroine, "Patches," the explosion of the houseboat, the battle on the river in the dead of night, and other of the good old-time thrillers. To add to the worth of the melodrama, Director Al Green took the Selig Company of players to Mississippi where real cotton plantations with workers, old Southern mansions necessary to the story, and other Southland scenes were filmed. Vivian Reed, the girl-with-the-million-dollar-smile, is the star and is supported by a capable cast, including Charles Le Moyne, Frank Weed and others.

THIRD "SHORTY ADVENTURE" READY.

Shorty Hamilton in the third of the Mutual "Featurettes," released under the general title of "Adventures of Shorty Hamilton," is the central figure in a real western, bucking broncho cattle branding "round-up" and later appears as the best all-around athlete in college, who can make the football team and gain all kinds of honors on the gridiron, but wins nothing but dishonor in the class room.

To celebrate the end of the round-up a big dance is given at the Arrowhead ranch, and various and intricate are the dances executed by the cowboys and their sweethearts, the scenes giving a most realistic idea of the life of the plainsmen.

A clever comedy touch is given when Shorty, becoming too boisterous, is relegated to the bunkhouse, there to discover that the beer keg in the cook's house is against the partition between the two houses. He taps the keg and the inevitable follows. The cook takes revenge on Shorty by sewing him inside a feather mattress, and when the effects of the beer keg have worn off Shorty finds that it is possible to navigate even though encompassed with a mattress. He sallies forth and the guests scramble in all directions frightened by the "walking mattress."

Scene from "Shorty Goes to College" (Mutual).

Of course, there is a girl in the case at college, and Shorty, after frantically plucking the petals of a sunflower to the tune of "She loves me, she loves me not," gains courage to declare his never-ending love.

Orchestral Pipe Organs Popular

American Photo Player Company Scores Great Success With This Line.

NOTWITHSTANDING the fact that it only inaugurated its orchestral and church pipe-organ department about one year ago, the American Photo Player Company, Berkeley, Cal., has achieved a success which would be gratifying to a manufacturer who had devoted five years to this special work. The company's country-wide reputation, based on the success attained by the Fotoplayer has, of course, been of immeasurable value in developing a clientele for orchestral and church pipe-organs, but primarily, it has been the tonal and constructional qualities of its orgâns, which have enabled the American Photo Player Company to close contracts with some of the leading theaters and churches in the West, and make arrangements for a number of installations in different parts of the country.

The organ department at the factory is under the direction of E. A. Spencer, a well known organ builder, who has designed many organs for both homes and churches. Mr. Spencer is assisted by a competent corps of expert organ builders, and this division of the American Photo Player Company's activties has increased so rapidly that additional factory facilities have been placed at the disposal of the organ department.

Gordon Bretland.

In addition to closing contracts with a number of theaters for orchestral pipe organs to be delivered as soon as possible the American Photo Player Company has received the contract from the city of Fresno, Cal., for the building of a wonderful organ for its Civic Auditorium. Organs are also being built and installed in the Third Church of Christ Scientist, San Francisco, Cal., Second Church of Christ Scientist, Oakland, Cal., and the Seventh Church of Christ Scientist, Oakland, Cal. Orchestral pipe organs have also been installed in the Tivoli Opera House, Savoy theater, New Mission theater and the Royal theater, all of San Francisco, Cal.

The American Photo Player Company's orchestral pipe organ in the Tivoli Opera House is worthy of more than passing attention, as this instrument has been the subject of considerable comment in the newspapers and periodicals on the coast. It is played by Gordon Bretland, a prominent Western organist, whose renditions of standard and popular selections on this organ have won unlimited praise. Turner & Dahnken, owners of the Tivoli Opera House have long been keen admirers of the American Photo Player Company's products, and they are particularly enthusiastic regarding the orchestral pipe organ in their new opera house.

WARNING TO INFRINGERS.

Edward Warren has recently purchased from Lawrence Marston a scenario now known as "The Transgressor." Mr. Warren, with the bill of sale, acquires sole rights and is fully protected by registration and copyrights. Because of the big price paid for the script, special precautions have been taken against infringement, and one of the leading law firms in the city has been retained to defend Mr. Warren's property rights against film pirates. His attorneys have served notice on all film manufacturers to beware of unscrupulous persons who may attempt to plagiarize or make other unlawful use of this scenario. A reward of $500 is offered for confidential information that will lead to the arrest of a person or persons guilty of a violation of Mr. Warren's rights as owner of "The Transgressor," by Lawrence Marston.

ART DRAMAS' RELEASES FOR TWO MONTHS.

Art Dramas, Inc., announces its releases for the next two months, beginning with the middle of January, and extending into March. Most of these productions have already been completed, insuring the exhibitor of a feature every week on the release date. The releases are: January 11, "Infidelity?" with Anna Q. Nilsson and Eugene Strong; January 18, "God of Little Children," with Alma Hanlon; January 25, "Her Good Name," with Jean Sothern; February 1, "Rosie O'Grady," with Viola Dana; February 8, "The Accomplice," with Dorothy Bernard and Jack Sherrill; February 15, "The Adventurer," featuring Marion Swayne; February 21, "The Moral Code," featuring Anna Q. Nilsson and Walter Hitchcock; February 28, "Pride and the Devil," with Alma Hanlon.

Metro's February Comedy Releases

Will Have the Drews in These One-Act Comedies—Ralph Herz in the Fourth.

FOUR one-act comedies will be released by Metro Pictures Corporation during the month of February. Of these three will star Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew, the fourth being a Metro-Rolma comedy starring Ralph Herz.

The Metro-Drew comedy, "Blackmail," by Epes Winthrop Sargent, will be released Feb. 5. Henry is a successful lawyer. Mrs. Henry is insanely jealous of the women who come to him for legal advice. She becomes convinced that her husband has a "past," and is anxious concerning his present. Henry receives blackmailing letters demanding that he leave a certain amount of money at the foot of Grant's statue or a dark secret will be disclosed. He tells his wife they are coal bills, fearing to arouse her unreasonable jealousy. Then he sends to the redezvous a detective who returns with the culprit. An unusual twist at the finish completes a fine comedy plot from this excellent writer of photoplays. Mr. and Mrs. Drew, of course, play Henry and Mrs. Henry.

"Winning an Heiress," with Ralph Herz in the stellar role, is scheduled for Feb. 12. Edward McWade wrote this comedy, which William A. Quirk directed. Warren Walton (Mr. Herz) is a successful actor who is in love with Ethel Campbell, an heiress, and wants to marry her. However, her mother objects to him on the ground that he is a matinee idol. She wants her daughter to marry a title. Warren and his dresser at the theatre make up their minds to disgust Mrs. Campbell with the nobility, and pose as Russian Grand Dukes. Finding that Mrs. Campbell also admires bravery, Warren takes advantage of the shark scare at the beach to display his prowess. He wins Ethel and the mother's consent by a series of amusing incidents.

"Her Obsession" is the title of the Metro-Drew comedy to be released Feb. 19. Sidney Drew himself is the author of this comedy, one of the cleverest one-act screen plays ever produced by this capable pair of mirth-provokers. The wife's obsession is that she is getting too fat. She weighs herself every day, and is broken-hearted at the fact that she is not losing weight. Finally her husband "doctors" the scales. She believes she is getting thin. Then it worries him thin to keep her away from normal scales. The climax is a genuine surprise and a truly apt bit of comedy.

The final February comedy release is another "Henry" picture—"Reliable Henry"—written by Mrs. Charles Corbaley. In this also Mr. and Mrs. Drew appear, "Reliable Henry" being another of those delightful stories of everyday domestic life for which these two stars are famed. Mr. and Mrs. Henry live in the suburbs, and no matter how busy Henry is, his wife always has a long list of trifling errands for him to perform for her in the city and a load of things to bring home. Finally a great light dawns upon him, and he loses both the title and the arduous responsibilities of "Reliable Henry." The playlet is an unusually bright one, rounding out admirably the month's one-act releases.

Manager Rothapfel of the Rialto theater, New York, has recently been offering his patrons Drew comedies, finding their high grade of humor well suited to the taste of his patrons who enjoy plays that are filled with "home" interest.

MOSS PICTURE TO GO ON ROAD.

Encouraged by the success of the first presentation of "The Girl Who Doesn't Know," a recent release by B. S. Moss, Walter Greene, head of the Artcraft Company, who bought the territory adjacent to New York, is planning to route the picture as a traveling organization, to compete with regular legitimate attractions.

This is one of the first times that a feature intended for regular booking has warranted exploitation such as that expended on pictures of greater pre-credited interest, and the experiment is based on the tremendous appeal of the picture when first shown in the metropolitan district.

With few exceptions the rights for "The Girl Who Doesn't Know" have been sold for practically every state in the union, and with this picture out of the way Moss is already at work on another which he expects to be the biggest as well as the most pretentious picture he has thus far made.

GLADYS HULETTE IN SWEET PART.

Following "Pots-and-Pans Peggie," next of the Thanhouser "lovely girl" series of photoplays starring Gladys Hulette and released through Pathe exchanges in March, Miss Hulette will be seen in "The Candy Girl," written by Philip Lonergan and directed by W. Eugene Moore.

"The Candy Girl" is a tale of sweetness in which Miss Hulette goes into the candy business and sells sweets until she is a sugary millionairess.

William Parke, Jr., again plays opposite Miss Hulette. Others in the important cast are: J. H. Gilmour, Thomas A. Curran, Ethyle Cooke, Carey Hastings, Arthur Bauer, George Barnes, William Bowers, Cecilia Clay, Helen Badgley, the Thanhouser Kidlet, and a number of other children and quite a few animals.

Mount St. Michel, called by the French the eighth wonder of the world, is pictured in Gaumont's "Tours Around the World" No. 15.

"JERRY'S BRILLIANT SCHEME" (Cub).

Under the title of "Jerry's Brilliant Scheme," David Horsley will release the eighth of his new series of Cub Comedies featuring George Ovey, on February 22, through the Mutual Film Corporation. "Jerry's Brilliant Scheme" finds George Ovey portraying his original character of Jerry, who, for the love of a girl, undertakes some wild practices in deception.

Not able to gain father's consent to his marriage to Tiny, Jerry hits upon the scheme to kidnap father, and while holding him prisoner to have one of his pals impersonate the master of his sweetheart's household. He reasons that it is far easier to obtain a stranger's consent to his marriage to Tiny than from her father, and that nobody will notice the deception until his cherished object is accomplished.

Scene from "Jerry's Brilliant Scheme" (Cub).

His line of reasoning is a happy one, for his love making efforts are progressing nicely and would have borne the desired result had it not been for his pal's expression of his weakness for the bottle that finally resulted in exposing the entire plan.

Director Milton H. Fahrney has brought out every comedy point the story offered, and with the playing of an excellent cast the number is one of the best of the entire Cub output.

RIALTO USING GENERAL FILM SERIES.

That short dramatic subjects are coming into vogue with the high-class exhibitors was demonstrated last week when S. L. Rothapfel contracted with the General Film to use as a steady diet the Essanay two-reel series, "Is Marriage Sacred?" at his Rialto theater. The Rialto will first show one of these subjects, "The Wrong Way," the week of January 22, and will follow with others of the series from time to time. The possibilities and advantages of the short drama are being recognized more and more by exhibitors, and it is expected that many leading motion picture theaters will follow the lead of the Rialto in installing two-reel drama as a part of their regular program.

UNIVERSAL'S NEW SERIAL.

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company announces that arrangements have been made for the release in fifteen episodes of a new serial, "The Voice On the Wire," founded on the novel of the same title by Eustace Hale Ball. The screen version was written by Grubb Alexander.

The book enjoyed a widespread popularity and the author is noted for his stories of mystery. "The Voice On the Wire" offers unusual situations for a film drama, which promises to make it the most successful ever presented by the Universal.

The leading roles are played by Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber, and the picture was produced under the direction of Stuart Paton.

"THE GIRL WHO DOESN'T KNOW" TO TRAVEL.

Encouraged by the success of the first presentation of "The Girl Who Doesn't Know," a recent release by B. S. Moss, Walter Greene, head of the Artcraft Company, who bought the territory adjacent to New York, is planning to route the picture as a traveling organization such as D. W. Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation" and several other feature spectacles that have traveled in competition with regular legitimate attractions.

GOOD BOOKINGS ON "GLORY."

Practically every exchange throughout the country handling Unity releases reports excellent bookings on the latest release, "Glory." The picture is a clean, wholesome and interesting one and recommendations from one exhibitor to another are bringing in an unexpected amount of bookings.

SIXTY DOLLARS REWARD.

The Universal Film & Supply Company of Oklahoma City was robbed on Sunday, December 31, and again on the following Sunday, January 7, under circumstances so mysterious that they are offering a reward of ten dollars a reel for the six reels stolen, and have sent out a notice to all of their exhibitors to be on the lookout for this film. The exhibitor from whom it was stolen has offered to pay for the re-issues, but the exchange doesn't for a moment entertain any suspicion of him, and is very anxious to locate the film without replacing it by new.

Picture Theaters Projected

DENVER, COLO.—J. Meyers has the contract to erect a theater building for the International Amusement Company, to cost about $50,000.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—Paul Heppelstein has plans for extensive alterations to the Hippodrome theater.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Martin C. Anderson, 4612 Malden avenue, has plans by Walter Ahlschlager, 111 West Washington street, for a three-story theater, hall and store building, 100x150 feet, to cost about $110,000.

FOREST CITY, IA.—Park theater is now being conducted by Secor & Hewitt.

IDA GROVE, IA.—The Princess theater has been opened by H. C. Dugan.

MANLEY, IA.—Pinta & Slobelick have leased the Rex theater.

SIOUX CITY, IA.—Orpheum Circuit, care M. B. Beck, have plans by G. Rapp, for a commodious fireproof theater, to cost about $100,000.

WAPELLO, IA.—W. R. Hiller, of Oskalosa, Ia., has taken over the lease of the Keck opera house.

WATERLOO, IA.—J. E. Hostettler has purchased the Crystal theater from A. W. McIntosh.

PARIS, KY.—The Columbia theater has been remodeled and reopened.

PORTLAND, ME.—Abram Goodside, care Empire Theater Company, Fidelity building, has plans by Brown & Berry, Press building, for a one-story addition, 16x50 feet, to cost $4,000.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Parkway Theater Company has plans by Oliver B. Wight, 1122 Munsey building, to erect addition to Parkway theater in rear of lot, providing 250 additional seats.

DULUTH, MINN.—The Palace theater at the corner of 11th street and Tower avenue will soon be opened to the public.

HAMBURG, MINN.—The Home Amusement Company has been organized. They will operate a moving picture theater here in the near future.

CLARKTON, MO.—L. B. Mobley has plans by Lindsay Architectural Company, 261 McCory-Tanner building, for a one-story moving picture theater, 50x110 feet.

The Fadettes of Boston
AT LIBERTY
Artistic Players—Complete Library
Especially experienced in accompanying Photo-Plays.
CAROLINE B. NICHOLS, Condr. & Mgr.
Address care Keith's Theatre, Boston, Mass.

EVERY CAMERA MAN CAN AVOID SCENE MIX-UPS
and keep accurate record of each exposure, by using the book we will send you, postage prepaid, if you will send us 15c in stamps.
ROTHACKER FILM MFG. COMPANY
1339 Diversey Parkway, Chicago

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

The Film Week in Boston

The Modern Theater to Show Pickford for Two Weeks—"Daughter of Gods" Opens at Majestic—Keith Can Show "Patria"—Globe Theater Taken by Loew —Paramount in New Quarters—Local Business Notes.

By J. J. Phillips, Motion Picture Editor of Boston Journal.

Federal Feature Get "Twilight Sleep."

SAM GRANT of the Federal Feature Film Company has bought the state rights on "Twilight Sleep" for New England and has received many bookings in the past week. A large publicity campaign is conducted in each and every town where this picture is booked and Grant has secured the services of a professional lecturer to accompany this picture wherever shown. Mr. Grant is negotiating with one of the largest motion picture theaters in Boston and as the picture has been passed by the Boston censor there is every indication that this picture will be a big money getter in Boston.

Loew Interests Take the Globe Theater.

Boston, Mass.—After January 29 the Loew management will assume the management of the Globe theater, at present being run by the Lincoln Amusement Company. The policy of this house will be similar to New York houses and they will run a first run feature every day for the six days of the week. Victor Morris will manage the Globe and the prices will be 10 and 15 cents. This is a new idea for Boston and will be observed by the film men and exhibitors very closely.

Paramount in New Quarters.

Boston, Mass.—The Paramount New England exchange have moved into its new and beautiful quarters on Shawmut street in the heart of Boston's film district. Manager Harry Asher is receiving his many friends and business associates here and is to be complimented on the furnishings and accommodations now offered for exhibitors that visit him daily. Only one film company is now not located in the Boston film district and that is the Mutual, they have planned a new building on Pleasant street, the film Rialto of Boston, and will move in by the middle of February.

J. A. Eslow Benefit Feb. 4.

Boston, Mass.—Hundreds of tickets have been already sold for the J. A. Eslow benefit that will take place at the Colonial theater Feb. 4th, many of the New England exhibitors co-operating with the exchanges in this worthy cause. The press of Boston will also lend their assistance and give much publicity to this event.

Books Pickford Feature for Two Weeks.

Boston, Mass.—The Modern theater, one of the most prominent motion picture theaters of Boston and located on Boston's busiest streets, has made a radical change in the showing of pictures. It was with some surprise when Manager Penansky of this popular house announced that he would show Mary Pickford in the "Pride of the Clan" for two weeks. Undoubtedly "Little Mary" would sell seats for him, but this arrangement has proven itself to be successful for Boston had a cold spell last week and early in the morning the Modern has them waiting in line for seats.

"Daughter of Gods" Opens at the Majestic.

Boston, Mass.—The William Fox production of "The Daughter of the Gods" opened at the Majestic theater, Boston, this week and is slated for a long and prosperous run. S. R. O. is the prevailing sign outside the Majestic just now and Boston is turning out in great numbers to hail the graceful Annette Kellermann in the Celluloid poem, "The Daughter of the Gods."

Louis B. Mayer Earns Vacation.

Boston, Mass.—Louis B. Mayer and family are about to leave for the south land for the winter. Mr. Mayer is wearing a smile these days as he has put the Bushman-Bayne Serial, "The Great Secret," into about every house of any consequence in Boston and vicinity. Last week the Fenway theater was added to this list and will show the first four episodes of "The Great Secret," thereby giving those who have not seen the first two episodes the first week an opportunity to see them at this theatre.

Keith Can Show "Patria."

Boston, Mass.—The taking over of the International serial, "Patria," by Pathe and the subsequent signing of the nation-wide contract by the Keith interests resulted in a an injunction against the Pathe by the management of the Fenway, Beacon and Bowdin Square theaters in Boston. Judge Jenny in the Superior Court determined in this injunction suit that the Keith houses had the right to show the serial "Patria."

Sunbeam's First Release.

Boston, Mass.—Sunbeam's first release, "The House of Shadows," will be shown at the Beacon threatre the week of Jan. 22. This five reel features Vaughn Glaser and an all star cast.

William White Representing Universal.

Boston, Mass.—William White, who has been connected with the Boston Photo Play Co. for the past year is now located at the New England Universal exchange representing them in the western Massachusetts territory.

Maritime News Letter

By F. F. Sully, 68 Lansdowne Avenue, St. John, N. B.

Coal Shortage Forces Moncton Theater to Close.

MONCTON, N. B.—Scarcity of coal made "Sandy" Torrie, of Torrie & Winters, shut down the Moncton opera house for an indefinite period, and it was feared for a time that it might also be necessary to close the Empress the other Moncton theater operated by Mr. Winters and Mr. Torrie. The coal famine has grown out of war conditions. The great scarcity of men at the Nova Scotia mines has greatly curtailed the output, and the coal that has been available has been appropriated by the government to use on the railroads in order that coal might be transported to different inland points. It is hoped that enough wood may be secured to keep the Moncton theaters running. This is the first time in the history of the industry that it has been necessary to close down theaters because of lack of fuel.

Distinguished Directorate of Halifax Casino.

Halifax, N. S.—The recently opened Casino theater in Halifax is doing capacity business. The directors of the new Casino are Sir Frederic Fraser, president; Hon. R. G. Beazley, M. L. C., vice-president; Gerald B. Pearson, barrister, secretary; F. H. Sexton, principal of the N. S. Technical College; E. D. Farrell, M. D., and R. J. McAdam. This is unquestionably one of the most distinguished directors' lists that any motion picture house has ever claimed in Canada. It is but another proof of the growing importance and influence of the industry in Canada.

Many See "Idle Wives" by Invitation.

St. John, N. B.—One of the largest audiences that ever attended a private screening in St. John witnessed an exhibition of "Idle Wives," the seven-part Universal production, at the Imperial theater after the regular evening performance. The screening was given through the courtesy of Bert Margetts. Members of the Board of Censors, prominent citizens, and representatives of the press were present. The picture made a deep impression. It was passed by the board in its entirety.

W. O. Fennety's Interesting Advertisement.

Fredericton, N. B.—A novel bit of advertising was arranged by W. O. Fennety, manager of the Gayety theater, during the engagement of the Metro production of "Romeo and Juliet." Mr. Fennety has made a specialty of Metro features, and when the feature production made its way into this territory the house was practically in readiness for an elegant lobby display, and for large outside posters. The severe winter weather has had little effect on business in Fredericton. The holiday rush was much larger than usual, and since then there has been but little falling off in general attendance.

Gaiety Theater, Fredericton, N. B. Left to right: Jules H. Wolfe, Metro; Ernest Seaman, operator; W. W. Fennety, manager; Frank Spearin, assistant operator.

Philadelphia News Letter

By F. V. Armato, 144 North Salford Street, West Philadelphia, Pa.

Pelham Theater Sold.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Pelham theater, a one-story motion picture house at the southeast corner of Germantown avenue and Sharpnack street, has been sold by Benjamin Haas to C. Seldomridge, for $23,000. It has a frontage of 43 feet on Germantown avenue and extends 100 feet on Sharpnack street, widening in the rear to 62 feet. The property is assessed at $14,000.

Small Fire in Exchange Screening Room

Philadelphia, Pa.—Moving picture films valued at several thousand dollars were destroyed by a fire which is said to have been due to one of the films igniting during a private exhibition last week at the Pathe exchange, 1235 Vine street. The exhibition room of the company is located in the rear of the building on the first floor. A new picture was being shown. In some unknown manner there was a flash and instantly the machine was in a blaze. While employes of the company ran to turn in an alarm others formed a bucket brigade and carried out of the room several thousand feet of films. The loss to the property was small. John Phelan's presence of mind saved a lot of property. He rushed from the projection booth, which is, of course, metal lined, and shut the door, preventing the flames from spreading.

Manager Harry Scott Promoted.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Harry Scott, the popular exchange manager, who has been highly successful in distributing the K-E-S-E features in this territory, has been transferred to the New York offices, where he will take up new duties as assistant to the general manager there. Harry A. Bugle, who has had considerable experience at the local office, will succeed Mr. Scott as manager here.

Herbert Given Managing Local Triangle

Philadelphia, Pa.—Herbert Given, who has been promoted from assistant manager to manager of the Triangle company here, announces, beginning January 15, all Keystone comedies to be released will consist of single reels. "The Seven Deadly Sins," McClure super-feature, is promised for early release by Mr. Given, who will give full protection to regular Triangle exhibitors.

A Daughter Comes to Earl Fort's Home.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Earl Fort, manager of the Sherwood and Baltimore theaters, in West Philadelphia, has recently become the father of a chubby baby girl. Mr. and Mrs. Fort are receiving congratulations and have decided on a screen career for the youngster, which will eventually make her, they hope, a queen of the movies.

Local Pathe's All-Motor Force.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The local Pathe exchange boasts an all-motor force. The volume of work which the members of H. M. Osborne's staff are called upon to do and the amount of territory which they cover is beyond the possibilities of anything but automobiles. Mr. Osborne himself boasts a 1917 Chevrolet, purchased recently, C. U. Martin and F. P. Sulzbach drive Fords, J. A. Moore has a Buick and S. H. Hochfield a Pullman.

Start a Developing and Printing Co.

Philadelphia, Pa.—W. M. Fowler and Duff C. Law have established a complete motion picture printing and developing plant at 204 Osborne street here, under the name of Duff C. Law, Inc., and are at present engaged in securing local events for the Stanley Weekly. They have also undertaken several commercial jobs for the Boosters' Club and the Pennsylvania Railroad, which were entirely satisfactory. Mr. Fowler is a man of good social connections and has found his new venture both profitable and interesting.

Seaside Exhibitor Joins Stanley League.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Edward J. O'Keefe, the leading Atlantic City exhibitor, who operates the City Square theater and the Cort, has recently become a member of the Stanley Exhibitors' Association and is booking his pictures through the Stanley Booking Company.

Local Business Jottings.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"Patria," with Mrs Vernon Castle, has been booked by B. F. Keith's theater here, the only big-time house in the city. This is the first time a serial has been shown at the theater, and the first three reels which were screened last week met a cordial reception. With the other bookings in prospect for the serial and the demand that exists locally for the Gold Rooster plays, H. Osborne of Pathe sees a rosy path ahead of him this season.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Art Dramas, released by the Electric Theater Supply Company, are being booked at many of the Market Street houses with good results.

Philadelphia, Pa.—J. M. Ashcraft, the live representative of the Masterpiece Film, has made a record in booking "Purity," and several other special releases. He was formerly advance agent for several big theatrical productions, but has apparently found the picture business more lucrative and interesting.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Stanley, Victoria, Globe, Family, Arcadia and Keith's have recently booked Pathe News, which will be shown regularly at these important houses. "Kick In," the latest Gold Rooster release, is booked to play a solid week at leading Market street theaters.

Baltimore Movie Club Dances

Third Annual Dance, at Lehmann Hall, on January 4, Delightful Event—Color Scheme in Decorations Black and Gold with National and State Flags and the Club Motto—Five Hundred Attended.

By J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Ter., Baltimore, Md.

BALTIMORE, MD.—The Maryland Movie Club of Baltimore held its third annual dance at Lehmann Hall, 856 North Howard street, on Thursday night, Jan. 4, and to say the least, the affair was a splendid success from beginning to end. The members of the club who were principally responsible for the success of the event are: J. W. Hawkins, president; L. Roy, vice-president; and H. J. Reuwer, secretary.

At about ten o'clock the dance was in full swing and the young men and women of this city were heartily enjoying themselves. Particularly to be noticed was the cozy, homelike atmosphere which was in the room. The hall was decorated artistically with national and state flags and photographs of the leading screen stars. Just under the balcony as you entered, there hung the seal of Maryland with the initials of the club beneath. The color scheme of black and gold, representative of those of the state, was carried out to its fullest extent. Artistic programs backed with these colors were given out. The huge chandelier in the center of the room was a mass of greens. The music was furnished by a 6-piece stringed orchestra while in the cabaret a three-piece Hawaiian orchestra and a singer rendered selections. Spotlight dances were given later in the evening and souveniers were presented the ladies. About 500 attended the affair.

H. Blechman Now Has Pictorial.

Baltimore, Md.—The Pictorial theater, 3310 East Baltimore street has now been taken over by Harry Blechman, who is managing it. C. E. Meddinger, the former owner of this house, has been obliged to discontinue his filmdom activities owing to the tea business, which he carries on, having become so large. The Pictorial has a seating capacity of 340 and Mr. Blechman has had the interior redecorated and new curtains hung.

Frank P. Bratten in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md.—Frank P. Bratten, owner and manager of the New Empire theater in Pocomoke City, Md., was a visitor to the Mutual Exchange last week. He was taking a short vacation and incidentally loked in on his Baltimore film friends. After seeing "Experience" at Ford's, he continued to Frederick. The New Empire seats 300 and is the only theater in Pocomoke City.

New Pilot for Elektra.

Baltimore, Md.—Paul F. Slattery has now taken over the management of the Elektra theater, 1039-41 North Gay street. This theater has been bought by the United Theater Company, Ltd., and the house has been rechristened the New Elektra. Mr. Slattery took charge on Friday, Jan. 12.

Solax Owners Like Short Subjects.

Baltimore, Md.—While in the Mutual offices lately, Messrs. Bradshaw and Johnson, manager and owners of the Solax theater, 1204 West Baltimore street, spoke of the likes and dislikes of their patronage. "The Clientele to which we cater," they stated, "is particularly fond of exciting stories, something that stirs the blood, and it has been found that love dramas do not attract them. We are sorry that the Mutual no longer has a regular program of short subjects, for we have also noticed that the one, two and three reel pictures have the greatest drawing power in our house."

Exhibitors in Picture.

Baltimore, Md.—Three of Baltimore's most prominent exhibitors, Guy L. Wonders, Dernard Depkin, Jr. and Joseph Brodie are now appearing with Clara Kimball Young in "My Official Wife." They have not signed a contract to appear in any others, however, but just happened to fill in on a couple of the hotel scenes when this picture was being made and they were on a visit to the studio.

Big Theaters Use Serials.

Baltimore, Md.—Through the activities of Frank B. Spurrier, manager of the Pathe exchange in this city, two of the largest houses have booked the serials being released through this exchange on January 22. Kernan's Maryland has booked "Patria" and Nixon's Victoria will screen for its patrons "Pearl of the Army."

Prominent Film Man Marries.

Baltimore, Md.—Last week Carl F. Senning, manager of the Fox exchange in Washington, suddenly became a benedict. The bride of Mr. Senning is Miss Rose S. Watson of Mamaroneck, N. Y. We congratulate Mr. Senning and wish him many years of married bliss—we have had several ourself.

Baltimore Censors Take Time

Maryland Board Makes a Washington Exchange Feel Its Dereliction—Gave a Good Chance to Have All Old Films of Doubtful Value Censored—When Manager Bergen Wants to Use One, Censors Won't Look, So There!

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—There has been some little complaint on the part of some of the exchange managers against the manner in which the members of the Maryland State Board of Motion Picture Censors are handling films, this complaint being confined to the reels that were exempted for a considerable length of time being in the nature of commercial reels in use quite a while before the law went into effect.

It seems that the exchange managers were given some little leeway on these reels, which in most cases they rent out at about a dollar a reel, but they did not feel like putting out the enormous amount of money that would be required to cover the thousands of such films that had been lying on the shelves for a long time and which were not good for anything but use as fillers. Of course, there often comes the time when the exchange manager is in need of an emergency show and the Washington managers thought that all they would have to do in such a case would be to shoot over the desired reels to the censors and get quick action.

Such an occasion arose recently with the K-E-S-E exchange here. Manager Berger had a number of commercials and other reels that he desired to have pushed through. He declares that he asked that the board look over the reels he sent it for inspection at as early a date as possible, but nothing but delay resulted and he lost several bookings because of this action. Mr. Berger says that he had been informed that he should have submitted these reels before the expiration of the time limit on free exhibition (without censoring).

This matter will be one of the more important issues at the next meeting of the Washington Exchange Managers' Association. It had been hoped that the dealing between the film men and the censors would be along harmonious lines. On several occasions there has been complaint to the contrary, much to the disappointment of the film interests, whose one desire has always been to co-operate with the Maryland officials.

New Lease on Princess Theater.

Washington, D. C.—G. F. Allwine, C. I. Smith and J. Ferman have recently secured from Mrs. Beatrice R. Chamberlaine a lease to the Princess theater located in the old Northeast Masonic Temple at Eleventh and H streets, northeast. Both Messrs. Allwine and Smith have had some little experience in the motion picture business. The former is serving as manager of the new acquisition. Mr. Smith is connected with the shipping department of the local World Film Corporation exchange.

Schedule of Good Children's Pictures Posted.

Washington, D. C.—Announcement has just been made that bulletins announcing the release of photoplays best suited for children and covering the general story of the play are being regularly posted in the reading room of the Public Library. These are the bulletins that are being sent out by the national committee on films for young people, which is affiliated with the National Board of Review. A number of pamphlets dealing with the efforts to secure pictures best suited to children have been received at the library and those interested in the subject are invited to use them.

Local World Film to Cover North Carolina.

Washington, D. C.—The Washington office of the World Film Corporation has just had reassigned to it the business of the State of North Carolina, handled last summer by the Atlantic office. The return of this territory to the Washington office is being welcomed by Manager H. C. Wales, who has made a very great many friends among the exhibitors of the Tar Heel State. It is to be remembered that Henry E. Friedman, who was formerly connected with he Washingon office, was the originator of the very successful North Carolina Motion Picture Exhibitors' League, and the World Film's ojce here has always been in close touch with their friends in North Carolina.

Recent Changes in Local Vitagraph Forces.

Washington, D. C.—William F. Ballenger, at one time with the General Film Company here, and more lately traveling representative for the International, has joined the sales force of the Vitagraph V-L-S-E. Mr Ballenger will cover the western part of Virginia and the western part of North Carolina for his new employers.

The assignment of Mr. Ballenger to the territory named has brought with it the reassignment of Alan Bachrach and Nat Glaser whereby the former will have an opportunity to be near home after having been almost continuously on the road for a year. He will be the road representative of the Vitagraph in Baltimore, for the eastern shore of Maryland, taking in Hagerstown, and in Washington. Mr. Glaser will cover those parts of Virginia and North Carolina not reached by Mr. Ballenger. All of these men are well known in their respective territories, and by reason of their connection with the film business have a knowledge of all angles of the game, which is proving of great benefit to both themselves and the people with whom they do business.

Film Stars Appear at Garden Theater.

Washington, D. C.—Lucile Lee Stewart and Huntly Gordon, starring in "The Ninety and Nine," appeared in person at the Garden theater last week and met with the sort of reception that is usually accorded film favorites. Both of the stars gave short talks and signified their pleasure at the ovation which they received. Miss Stewart told of the life of a motion picture actress, of the hard work incident to the production of some of the pieces, while Mr. Gordon gave sound advice for the benefit of such of the male members of his audiences as had an idea that they would like to have an opportunity of facing the camera as a "high-priced" star.

Prohibition Picture Seen at Press Club

Washington, D. C., Newspaper Men and Members of Both Houses of Congress See "The Man Who Forgot"—Came Apropos.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—More than two hundred newspaper men, members of Congress, and officials of the Government, witnessed the opening production in Washington of "The Man Who Forgot," at the National Press Club. The presentation was made by H. C. Wales, manager of the World Film Corporation, who was present with H. E. Flaherty and other members of his force. Mr. Hay, the author of the story, was formerly a Washington newspaper man and is now a writer of magazine stories and books of fiction. He is one of the leading members of the National Press Club, is very well known in and around Washington and is the son of Representative James Hay, of Virginia, who was chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs and is now a judge of the United States Court of Claims.

Aside from the fact that "The Man Who Forgot" is the product of the pen of a Washingtonian and the fact that all of the scenes are laid in this city in and around the National Capitol and in the vicinity of the Press Club itself, this feature film will be of intense interest by reason of its make-up and the fact that at the time of its showing there was pending in the House of Repesentatives prohibition legislation around which the scenario might have been written had the thought but just come to the mind of the writer.

The story is a gripping one of a fight made and won by a reformed drunkard who had become a Representative in Congress, for nation-wide prohibition and the hand of the daughter of a United States Senator, leader of the opposition. It was but a comparatively few days before that the Senate passed a bill providing for prohibition in the District of Columbia and that bill has since gone to the House of Representatives.

Washington Club Women Appeal to Public

Federation Wants Help in Making the Special Children's Shows at Local Theaters a Decided Success—Need to Prove the Demand for Them.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Federation of Women's Clubs of the District of Columbia has sent out an earnest appeal to the general public for co-operation with its motion picture committee to the end that the box office receipts of eleven of the city's theaters for children's "pay" matinees may be kept up to the point reached in the attendance at the free matinees.

It is to be remembered that the motion picture men of Washington agreed to co-operate with the committee in putting on motion picture matiness for children. The use of the houses for two days one in each week, together with free films, operators' services, etc., are given the ladies. Of course, the exhibitors are more or less "doubting Thomasas," and they will not believe that there is a genuine demand for children's matinees until that demand is proven so that the ladies say:

"In order to demonstrate our ability and good faith in making good on the 'box office receipts,' we must keep the attendance of the pay matinees up to that of the free matinees. And we must continue to send the children regularly to the 'special performances,' keeping them away from the pictures that were made for the adult audience only.

"It is the duty of every man and woman in the District of Columbia to give his or her individual effort in this movement.

"This is not the time for criticism.

"The motion picture committee is doing the best that is possible with the material at hand; but unless we demonstrate with these we shall never get the kind we want. It is time for united effort in opening the eyes of the parents to the danger in allowing their children to see all that they do see when they are allowed to attend performances of pictures that were never manufactured with a view to either entertaining or educating a juvenile audience."

Pittsburgh Items

Royer and Wheeler Open Exchange.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The opening of a new exchange at 238 4th Ave., Pittsburgh, has recently been announced by Messrs. Royer and Wheeler.

Both these gentlemen are widely known by the exhibitors in this teritory, and there is no doubt that the launching of this enterprise will prove a success. The name of this concern is the American Standard Film Service, and is a branch office of Chicago American Standard.

This concern will release at least two comedies a week, and from one to two features a month. The initial release will be four episodes of the "Tom and Jerry" comedies, produced by the Emerald Motion Picture Corporation, released exclusively through the American Standard Motion Picture Corporation to their branches.

Children's Saturday Matinees at the Liberty.

East Liberty, Pa.—The Liberty theater, Rowland & Clark's beautiful house at Penn and Shady avenues, in the East Liberty district, Pittsburgh, will inaugurate a special Saturday afternoon feature shown for children, beginning January 20. In addition to the regular short subjects and the feature picture, a multiple reel subject, selected especially with regard to its appropriateness for children, will be shown. The first attraction will be "Shadows and Sunshine," the Pathe production featuring Marie Osborne. On the following Saturday the Mary Pickford subject, "Fanchon the Cricket," will be shown.

Farmington Theater Burns.

Farmington, W. Va.—A fire which burned part of the business section of Farmington, W. Va., twelve miles from Fairmont, on January 14, destroyed the Majestic theater.

Pittsburgh Has New Booking Co.

National Film-Booking Service, a New Concern to Book for a Group of Theaters, Formed by Men Connected With Late International Local Office—Headquarters Are Located at 804 Penn Avenue.

From Pittsburgh News Service, 6016 Jenkins Arcade, Pittsburgh, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—A new company has been established in Pittsburgh, known as the National Film-Booking Service, to handle films on the group or circuit basis and act as a clearing house for exhibitors. The personnel of the film and its promoters is made up largely of the members of the late International Film Service branch here. They are E. J. McGurty, formerly manager of the International exchange; R. Gilchrist, formerly in charge of the Erie, Pa., territory of the International; L. S. Johns, formerly cashier; E. A. McQuiggan, formerly booker; C. P. Wolcott, formerly city representative. All are men of tested ability and wide experience in the film business.

The plan of the National Service has been paterned after the circuits operated in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, with the addition of several new departments that are to be available to the clients of the firm. The service will be in the nature of group bookings of the productions on the market for a number of theaters, on the basis of flat charges and not percentage. An information department covering the criticisms and reviews of films, information on the films as they are released and on their box-office status, will be maintained. Neither the concern or its membrs are in any way affiliated with film exchanges or theaters. Headquarters have been opened in the former offices of the International Film Service, 804 Penn avenue.

Specialties Company to Expand.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Motion Pictures Specialties Company, Inc., manufacturers and distributors of slides, lobby displays, photos, and other picture theater accessories, with headquarters at Penn avenue and Twelfth street, Pittsburgh, is about to expand its business by the establishment of branches in New York, Chicago and Hollywood, Cal. The concern has just been reorganized preparitory for the new undertaking. D. Leo Dennison, prominent in the film trade and recently appointed manager of the local branch of the Famous Players, has purchased the controlling interest in the Specialties company from James Steel. He has tendered his resignation as head of the Famous Players here. George M. McClain, formerly controller of the Famous Players exchange in Pittsburgh, has assumed the active management of the concern.

The Specialties company at present occupies the third floor of the Paramount building, but these quarters are proving inadequate for the rapidly growing business and a new location is being sought. Mr. Dennison states that plans are under way to broaden the scope of the company's products as well as its field of operations, and will shortly begin the manufacture of new novelties of various kinds for advertising theaters and films. The wide experience of the members of the new organization of the Specialties Company assure the growing success of the undertaking.

J. F. Wall Will Represent Supreme in Ohio.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Supreme Photoplay, Productions, 121 Fourth avenue, Pittsburgh, has transferred J. F. Wall, formerly special representative out of the Kansas City office, to the headquarters here and he will represent the company in the Ohio territory. Mr. Wall has met with much success during the past few months handling "Where Are My Children" for the Supreme. In Ohio he will handle "The Masque of Life," recently acquired by the Supreme.

Arthur Meyer, for the past year traveling representative of the Liberty Film Renting Company, joined the forces of the Supreme in Pittsburgh on January 15.

H. C. Berger Buys Poster Co.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Poster Company, 804 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, one of the leading houses handling mounted paper, has been purchased by H. C. Berger, who was manager of the concern, from E. L. Harmon. Mr. Harmon has retired from the poster business, but has several other enterprises under consideration. The deal also included the transfer of the American Poster Mounting Company, and Mr. Berger is now owner of both businesses.

Harry Davis Books Some Big Films.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Manager Harry Davis, owner of the chain of moving picture theatres conducted by the Harry Davis Amusement company, including the Grand, Lyric and Temple, has returned from a trip to New York, where he contracted for the following big subjects to be shown soon: "The White Raven," featuring Ethel Barrymore; "Hearts Afire," featuring Clara Kimball Young; "The Americano," featuring Douglas Fairbanks, and other forthcoming productions.

Coal Company Builds Theater.

Webrum, Pa.—The Lackawanna Coal & Coke Company, at Webrum, Pa., one of the largest industries in this section, has just completed a cozy moving picture theater for the benefit of its employes and shows are being given three nights a week. High class equipment and pictures are used.

Watching Wadsworth Sunday Closing Case

Exhibitors William Dunlap and William Stender Expect Supreme Court to Give Final Decision Soon—Case is Being Watched.

By M. A. Malaney, 218 Columbia Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

WADSWORTH, Ohio.—William Dunlap and William Stander, of Wadsworth, Ohio, are making a fight in the courts for Sunday opening, that is attracting the attention of exhibitors all over Ohio.

Some time ago they were arrested charged with unlawfully giving theatrical performances on Sunday. Before a justice of the peace they were tried and found guilty. They carried the case higher, through the probate court of Medina county, then the common pleas court and later through the court of appeals. The last named tribunal held them guilty and they appealed to the Ohio supreme court, which will shortly decide the case.

A petition containing 160 names was filed against the holding of picture performances on Sunday, and the defendants came back with a petition supporting them, containing 210 names.

Recently these exhibitors went to Cleveland where they received support of the exchanges and exhibitors in their fight.

Earl Metcalfe Weds Ethel Tully.

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—The wedding of Earl Metcalfe and Ethel Tully at New Bergen, N. J., may be described as a romance of the films.

These two stars recently played the leads in "Ignorance," a film made in Cleveland. At the end of the picture they were married. It was only a couple of weeks after finishing this picture that they were married in real life.

Serials Are Comings Back in Ohio.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Serials seem to be coming back in Ohio. At least that is the consensus of opinion after watching the results at various theaters playing them. "The Shielding Shadow," "The Secret Kingdom," "The Purple Mask," "The Great Secret" and others have been very active and exhibitors report good business on them.

Even the manager of the local exchange, Harry Reavey, who thought every town of any consequence had booked "Gloria's Romance" has been agreeably surprised lately to receive an average of three contracts per week from small towns for this serial.

"The Great Secret" opened in Cleveland to an enormous business. It was booked by the Alhambra and New Mall to run simultaneously. These houses ran it a week (the first chapter) and succeeding chapters will be shown four days each. These two houses went to much extra expense to put it over. They bought much advertising space and besides put up five 50 feet by 10 feet signs, three of them in the heart of the business district.

Exchange Men Arrested.

Cleveland, Ohio.—J. R. Johnson, manager for the Greater Vitagraph exchange here and J. E. Flynn, manager of the Cleveland General Film branch, were arrested last week, on warrants sworn to by Chairman Williams of the Ohio Board of Censors.

Mr. Williams charged they had rented films without making all the cut-outs ordered. He explained, however, that he didn't believe they had wilfully disobeyed the orders. They were fined $50 but the fines were suspended.

Elyria, Ohio.—Taking advantage of the wave of prosperity, the Bannon theater company, operating the new Bannon theater, Elyria, is selling stock at $10 a share.

New Chattanooga Theater Plans Shown

Signal Amusement Company's New Tivoli Theater to Be a Handsome Affair—Architect's Drawing in Lobby of Alcazar.

By J. L. Ray, 1014 Stahlman Building, Nashville, Tenn.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.—An architect's drawing showing the front elevation of the proposed Tivoli theater to be erected on Market street has been placed on exhibition in the lobby of the Alcazar. The new house will be constructed by the Signal Amusement Company, the plans and specifications for the theater having been drawn by Clarence T. Jones. Bids will be opened shortly, but the company has found that owing to existing leases on its theater site, no construction work could be undertaken for several months.

Efforts have been made to make an adjustment with the lessees whereby the buildings could be razed immediately, in order to break ground for the new structure, but no agreement has as yet been entered into. The property was acquired by the company months ago, and at the time it was expected that the new theater would be completed and ready for winter operation. Notice is posted at the Alcazar that the Tivoli theater will be opened in time for the 1917-18 winter vaudeville season.

The main floor will seat 850 and the balcony 750, or the auditorium proper 1,600 persons, exclusive of the boxes. On the second floor is to be a large smoking room for men. The building also is to contain a nursery where mothers can leave babies in charge of special theater maids while attending shows or motion pictures.

General Office Enlarges Scope.

Memphis, Tenn.—Following a recent assertion that the Memphis branch of the General Film would be used in future merely as a commercial distributing point for southern territory, A. S. Parker, cashier for General at this point, recently stated: "For a time this plan was more or less adherred to, as our newer service was temporarily taken away from us. From now on, however, we will be furnished with film direct from the manufacturers, thereby being upon equal footing with other General Film southern offices." The Memphis office is now conducted on an extensive plane, and since Manager W. P. Haslett assumed charge some weeks ago several changes have been noted for the better in the handling of business from this branch.

Nashville's Free Sunday Show.

Nashville, Tenn.—The first moving pictures exhibited in a downtown house on Sunday in many months were presented on January 14 at the Princess theater, when H. L. Brownell, safety engineer of Chicago, delivered a lecture, "Safety First," accompanied by a number of reels of pictures. The theater was packed, and although the performance was free, it stands to reason that a large majority of the onlookers would have gladly paid their admission fees for the sake of seeing a high-class program service at the local houses on Sunday.

Fox Players Return North.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—After having spent a number of weeks in the vicinity of Chattanooga, during which time a five-reel feature entitled "The Wisp of the Wilderness" was filmed in its entirety, the company of thirty-nine Fox players, directors and camera men have departed for New York again. June Caprice, Ned Finley, William Nye, etc., were included in the cast, and after having been run out of Florida and North Carolina on account of inclement weather conditions, the splendid locale surrounding Chattanooga in Tennessee and northern Georgia was advantageously employed in filming the story.

Harry Sudekum's Noise Wagon.

Nashville, Tenn.—One of the noisiest things in town, as well as one of the most conspicuous to the eye, has been the big automobile truck rigged out in posters advertising the Princess theater. The noise is made by a huge music manufacturer formerly used on an amusement carousal, and can be heard a mile off. The truck rambles right on through the uptown streets as well as on the boulevards, irrespective of the fact that conversation is impossible within a hundred yards, and has naturally attracted quite a bit of attention.

Tennessee News Topics.

Nashville, Tenn.—The members of the Tennessee Legislature, in session here, were the guests of the Princess Amusement company recently, during the run of the Government Forest Fire Pictures.

Nashville, Tenn.—The Strand was richly decorated with clusters of black butterflys during the run of the "Black Butterfly" with Petrova in the lead, being the clever work of Advertising Manager Billy Arnold.

Alabama News Notes

Undoubtedly It's a Sad World.

Birmingham, Ala.—Arlie Barber, curator of Birmingham's morals, thought he'd discovered a picture (movie) that needed censoring. The exhibitor invited the whole City Commission to view the film, and they voted Mr. Barber down, four to one.

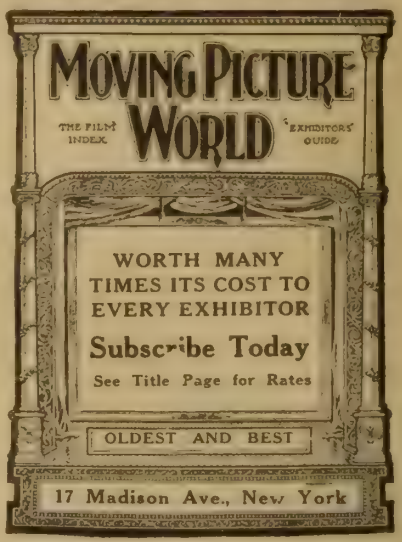
R. A. Root Takes Auto-Arc Agency.

Jasper, Ala.—R. A. Root, connected with the Colonial theater of Jasper, has taken the agency of the Auto-Arc of the American Auto-Arc Company of Chicago. This device controls the Arc on direct current. Mr. Root has installed two at the Crescent theater, Mobile, Ala., and two at the Alcazar of Birmingham.

Birmingham Business Notes.

Birmingham, Ala.—Manager A. M. Graham, known to his friends as "Doc," states that Queen Features are going so good at present that effective January his company has decided to release one feature per week, instead of one a month, as was the former policy. Mr. Graham also reports splendid results obtained from his Christie Comedies, and that his force has been working overtime in order to supply the exhibitors' demands.

A recent addition to the traveling staff of the Queen Feature Service is G. M. Wall, who will cover Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi for this company. The trade is well established in this territory, and the addition of Mr. Wall insures efficient road service for this territory.



Birmingham, Ala.—Mr. Trimble, of the Trimble Amusement Company, Memphis, was a recent visitor to this city, at which time he reported that his business in Memphis was thriving, and expressed his approval over the fact that Birmingham conditions were similar, from a standpoint of prosperity.

Temperance Film Seen by Prohibitionists

At Atlanta's Grand Theater Leading Advocates of Dryness See "The Man Who Forgot," as Guests of Manager of the House.

By A. M. Beatty, 43 Copenhill Avenue, Atlanta, Ga.

ATLANTA, GA.—Many prohibition advocates conspicuous in the campaign which resulted in the bill passed by the Georgia legislature last August, a year ago, and which drove clubs and near-beer saloons out of Georgia, last May, occupied a box at the Grand theater Monday night to witness the first southern filming of the temperance drama, "The Man Who Forgot," in which Billy Sunday, the noted evangelist, has taken such a keen interest.

Included in the party was Mrs. McLendon, honorary president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union; the Rev Brooks Lawrence, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League; Judge W. H. Preston, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Lindsay. The number included twelve or more, all guests of G. S. Greening, manager of the theater.

It was through the efforts of local prohibition workers that "The Man Who Forgot" was brought to Atlanta, even before it was released on Broadway. The drama was produced by William A. Brady, the film magnate, who predicted that America would go dry probably within ten years, and stars Robert Warwick, one of the screen's brightest luminaries.

Clara Kimball Young has broken her former record as a drawing card by packing the Criterion theater at every show for three days past in the film version of Thomas Dixon's "The Foolish Virgin."

Kentucky News Letter

Ohio Valley News Service, Correspondents, 1404 Starks Bldg.

Snowfall Smothers Business.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—Box-office receipts at the local moving picture theaters, and in fact all through the state and adjacent vicinity, have been cut down materially during the past few days, the country now lying under the heaviest snow known during the past twenty-five years. Many of the smaller showhouses out in the state have suspended operations temporarily, attendances having to be drawn from a distance, and that being impossible due to the bad weather and condition of the roads.

"Stink Bombs" in Theaters Again.

Louisville, Ky.—A number of the smaller theaters have complained to the police and health departments concerning "Anarchist bombs," also known as "stink balls," which rowdies have been exploding in moving picture theaters, thereby driving crowds out of the houses. These bombs are made of sulphureted hydrogen, and the stench is such that it practically is impossible for the average person to remain in a theater after one has been exploded. As a result of the complaints, A. J. Montedonico, sanitary inspector, has been instructed by Dr. W. Ed Grant, head of the health department, to locate the concerns selling such balls, and stop the owners from selling any more. Inspector Montedonico later reported that he had the promise of all the dealers that no more would be sold. The perpetrators of the outrage were not discovered in any of the cases, of which there were several in the smaller, or nickel houses.

New Art Picture Co. Reduces Capital.

Louisville, Ky.—The New Art Picture Co. has filed amended articles of incorporation changing its stock issue, and reducing its capital from $125,000 to $57,000, divided into $50,000 of preferred stock, and $7,500 of common. It had been originally intended to give a large bonus of common stock with all sales of preferred, but it was later decided to cut the amount of common stock and likewise the bonuses, so that the actual working capital of the organization has not been cut through the change. At present there are 75 shares of common stock and 500 shares of preferred. L. J. Dittmar, president of the company, stated that the company would start manufacturing within a few days, having made all arrangements for producing pictures in colors, in New York.

Calnay Cinema Files Amended Articles.

Louisville, Ky.—The Calnay Cinema Corporation, recently incorporated with a capital of $10,000, for the purpose of manufacturing and producing films at Louisville, has filed amended articles increasing the capital to $100,000 and placing the debt limit at $25,000. The same incorporators also control the Dixie Film Co., recently organized at Nashville. These incorporators are James Calnay, O. G. Fairchild and Jack G. Brehme.

Kentucky Theater Notes and Changes.

Princeton, Ky.—A change has been effected in the management of the Savoy theater, whereby C. W. Eldred has turned the management over to Carl Wynne, the change taking effect on January 15.

Louisville, Ky.—Notice has been given through the local newspapers of the dissolution of the Strand Amusement Co., operators of the Strand theater, who recently sold out to the Keith interests. The notice is signed by Charles M. Talcott, president, and by Adrian C. Humphreys, secretary-treasurer and general manager. All claims against the company should be filed at once.

Mayville, Ky.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of the Gem theater, which has been in bankruptcy for several months. The theater will be sold by Referee Durrett the latter part of this month.

Louisville, Ky.—The Highland Civic League, at a recent meeting, inaugurated a movement looking toward operation of special moving picture shows for children in the Highlands every Saturday. Plans are being made to run the pictures shown at the Keith house in the morning, at the Baxter or Cherokee theater in the afternoon.

Greenup, Ky.—C. F. Taylor recently completed and opened his new picture theater on Main street, and is getting a nice volume of business. This house can truly be considered a family organization, as every bit of work about the place is handled by members of the Taylor family. Mr. Taylor has charge of the operating booth, while Mrs. Taylor handles the box office. Miss Carmen Taylor and her brother Benton Taylor are the musicians, Miss Taylor playing the piano and Benton a violin.

Toronto is Promised a 1,500 Seat Theater

Splendid New House to Be Built on Corner of Richmond and Victoria Streets—Work to Begin in March This Year.

By W. M. Gladish, 1263 Gerrard St., E. Toronto, Ontario.

TORONTO, ONT.—Arrangements have been made for erection of a 2,500-seat moving picture theater on the southwest corner of Richmond and Victoria streets, Toronto, according to information secured by the Toronto correspondent of The Moving Picture World. The term of the lease is for 84 years with an annual ground rental of $21,600, or a total of $1,814,000, for the entire period. The new building will be started in March.

Plans for the new theater, which will be similar in outline to the Majestic at Detroit, are being prepared by S. H. Crane, of Detroit, and Hynes, Feldman and Watson, of Toronto. Leasehold arrangements for the property were carried out by Harry Rottenburg of Toronto.

The proposed theater's name is being withheld. The building is to be ready for use early in 1918.

Regent's Children's Show Well Patronized.

Toronto, Ont.—Excellent judgment apparently has been used by Manager Roland Roberts of the new Regent theater, Toronto, in connection with the holding of children's matinees at eleven o'clock each Saturday. Approximately 1,000 children, with their parents or guardians, attended the fourth of these shows on January 13, although practically not a line of advertising had been used for this or any of the previous special performances.

The owners of the Regent had been finding some difficulty in securing a desirable tenant for a small store space off the lobby of the theater until Manager Roberts himself "rented" the store. The theater owners then discovered that Roberts had established a finely appointed waiting room for patrons. The idea struck them as being such a good one that they went Roberts one better by appropriating a goodly sum to provide more facilities in the way of furniture, mural decorations, magazines, etc. Roberts is now boosting the slogan, "Meet Me At the Regent," with fine results.

Agricultural Railroad Show in Ontario.

Toronto, Ont.—One of the two special railway coaches employed by the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont., for demonstration and exhibition purposes in the farming areas of this province is a moving picture theater. Farming methods, sanitation arrangements and samples of grains, vegetables and fruits, grown in Ontario, are shown on the screen of this college on wheels. The show train will visit all parts of the province during the next two months.

Exchange Managers' Club to Co-operate With Exhibitors.

Toronto, Ont.—At a meeting of the Toronto Exchange Managers' Club, held on January 12, James Travis, formerly local Pathe manager, and now in charge of All-features, Ltd., was elected secretary in succession to Clarence Robson, who has become an exhibitor-manager of the Strand, Toronto.

A committee composed of Phil Kauffman of Famous Players, Mitchell Granby of Fox, and Barrett of the Mutual, was chosen to co-operate with the Ontario Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association in various ways.

Express Delays Annoy Film Men.

Toronto, Ont.—The cancellation of no less than forty-one passenger trains in and out of Toronto by the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railways has given considerable trouble to the fifteen moving picture exchanges in Toronto. The railroads decided to cut down the passenger traffic in order to relieve the freight congestion throughout Toronto.

Heavy traffic on the remaining passenger trains and heavy snowfalls have also had the effect of disorganizing the railway services. Moreover, some passenger trains have been making their scheduled runs without express cars and shipments of reels have been delayed on this account as well. Local trains have been running from six to eight hours late recently on account of snow and the greater number of people using the less frequent trains.

The situation has been acute, particularly with those exchanges which have releases for stated periods of thirty to sixty days. At these offices it is difficult to fill all the bookings for various subjects within the time limits and the days lost through railway delays are keenly felt.

Making a Census of the Trade.

Toronto, Ont.—W. A. Bach, publicity manager of the Canadian Universal, is compiling a directory of the moving picture industry throughout the Dominion. Mr. Bach is sending out coupons to all exchanges and theaters, which he asks to be filled in by all exchange managers, exhibitors and operators. When he gets all this data, he intends to have the names listed and printed for the use of everybody and anybody in the trade. This will be the first complete census of the moving picture business in Canada.

Manager Fined for Crowd that Gathered.

Toronto, Ont.—For permitting twenty-eight persons to stand in his moving picture theater, the Photodrome, 45 Queen street west, Toronto, Samuel McMillan was fined $5 and costs or ten days, by Magistrate Kingsford in the local police court, despite evidence submitted in favor of accused. McMillan was charged with allowing four persons to stand in the aisle and twenty-four persons to stand in the rear of the seats of his theater, but witnesses declared that the crowd gathered in the rear of the house to watch an argument between two big policemen and a small boy as to whether the latter had been unaccompanied by an adult when he entered the theater. Harry Thomas, an adult, swore in court that he had taken the boy into the theater and the charge against McMillan that he had allowed the entry of an unguarded child was dismissed. The magistrate refused, however, to believe that the twenty-eight persons had gathered in the aisle and lobby of the theater to hear the argument between the police and the boy.

Max Goodman With Famous.

Toronto, Ont.—Max Goodman, formerly of Stauntons, has been placed in charge of the customs department of the Famous Players, to expedite the passage of reels and paper from the United States and Europe through the Toronto customs house.

Martin Barnet is Monarch Road Man.

Toronto, Ont.—Martin Barnet, late of the United, has joined the road staff of the Monarch Film Company, Toronto, Canadian distributors of Clara Kimball Young releases.

Get "Witching Hour" Rights.

Toronto, Ont.—The Famous Players Film Service, Ltd., has announced the acquiring of the Canadian rights for the Frohman feature, "The Witching Hour," by Augustus Thomas.

The Famous Players have also secured prints of a new British official war film showing the tanks proceeding into action and also give more views of Canadian troops in France.

Covington, Ky., Picture Theater Destroyed

The Old Hippodrome, Owned by Nordmeyer & Berning, Burns—Was Inflammable and Carried No Insurance.

By Kenneth C. Crain, 610 First National Bank Building, Cincinnati, O.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Hippodrome theater, at Seventh and Washington streets, Covington, was destroyed by fire on Sunday morning, January 14, together with a flour mill immediately adjoining, owned by the same firm, Nordmeyer & Berning, with a total loss of approximately $45,000. It is understood that the theater was without insurance. The house was the largest on the Kentucky side of the river, having been remodeled two years ago by the firm, and had a seating capacity of 1,400. It was the only five-cent house in Covington, and did a big business. The house was extremely old, having been built nearly fifty years ago, and while it had been modernized in various ways, it was of very inflammable construction which is the chief reason for its lack of insurance. Mr. Nordmeyer, one of the firm of owners, has not yet decided whether he will rebuild the structures, this depending largely upon the adjustment of the insurance on the mill, amounting to about $18,000.

Hoodlum Practices Again.

Cincinnati, O.—The distribution of "tear pellets" through the Park theater, in Hyde park, during the performance on Sunday afternoon, January 14, caused considerable discomfort to patrons, and the coughing, sneezing and weeping which resulted were a mystery until the cause of the trouble was located. Clifford Ruckel and Walter Greenbaum, former employes of the house, were arrested charged with having scattered the pellets.

McMahan & Jackson Get "Witching Hour."

Cincinnati, O.—McMahan & Jackson, the well known firm of exhibitors and feature owners, have returned from New York with another production which looks like a winner, being "The Witching Hour," produced by the Frohman Amusement Company. The picture has just closed a long and successful run at the Rialto, New York, and its success as a stage production, with John Mason in the leading role, is recalled by playgoers in Cincinnati and elsewhere. The first run of the picture in Ohio began at the Walnut theater, Cincinnati, with a week's engagement, starting on Sunday, January 14, and the firm reports heavy bookings for Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus and other of the larger cities. They declare that so far the business in sight looks larger than for "Neptune's Daughter," which heretofore stood in the McMahan & Jackson office as the limit in popularity.

Manager I. Libson Reduces Prices.

Cincinnati, O.—Manager I. Libson has reduced prices at the Walnut theater as a result, he states, of making more favorable arrangements for forthcoming attractions than prevailed lately. Instead of 25 and 15 cents, the new scale of prices is 15 and 10 cents, which will undoubtedly be more acceptable to a large number of people. The first attraction under the new arrangement was an engagement of Mary Pickford in one of the first of her own productions, "The Pride of the Clan."

Harry A. Bigie a District Manager.

Cincinnati, O.—Harry A. Bigie, for two years manager of the local office of the Kleine-Edison Company, and a popular member of the film fraternity here, has left to become district manager for K. E. S. E., with offices in Philadelphia. The name of his successor in Cincinnati has not yet been announced. He was tendered a farewell dinner at the Cuvier Press Club by the Cincinnati Screen Club, attended by most of the exchange managers and by other friends made during his stay in the city.

Further Developments of Fountain Square Project.

Cincinnati, O.—The United Theaters Company, owning Keith's theater, and backing the project for the construction of a large building on that site, as well as for construction on Fountain Square, which may include one of the largest and finest moving picture houses in the city, has indicated its intention to carry out its plans by securing the fee title to the necessary real estate at and around the northwest corner of Fifth and Walnut. It paid the Fountain Square Theater Company, predecessor of Keith's, $180,000 for three parcels of ground covered by the theater, several other pieces bringing $100,000, $80,000 and $30,000, respectively.

Dayton, O.—The Majestic management has completed arrangements for the coming engagement of the great Ince production, "Civilization." Advanced prices will prevail, as the case has been in other Ohio cities. Reports from Piqua, where the picture was shown at May's opera house, tell of big houses at prices ranging from 25 cents in the gallery to $1 for the best seats.

Covington Ministers Ask for Local Censors

Chief of Police Calls a Conference of Local Film Men to Go Over Situation—League President Strotman Makes a Statement.

COVINGTON, KY.—The censorship ques question is up in full force here, through the efforts of the Covington Ministerial Association, which is bending its influence to obtain some form of local censorship. A conference of moving picture exhibitors to meet with the Association has been called by the chief of police, in order to thresh out all details of the matter as fully as possible. President Strotman, of the Covington Moving Picture Exhibitors' League, has pointed out that local censorship has never proved practicable, as the work involved and the wear and tear on the films would prove too great. There has never been any form of censorship in Kentucky other than that exercised by the police in stopping objectionable films, a measure proposing state censorship failing of passage in the legislature. Censorship by the police, under a definite agreement with exhibitors, has proved satisfactory in Covington, and exhibitors hope that there will be no change in this system.

Indianapolis Has Endorsed Film Matinees

Parent-Teacher Organizations Are Boosting Special Shows for Children—"Family Night" Programs at Local Theaters.

By Indiana Trade News Service, 816 State Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—Through the parent-teachers' organizations of this city a system is being established indorsing good motion picture shows in different neighborhoods and calling the attention of children to places where these pictures may be seen. At the Garick theater a children's matinee of indorsed pictures is to be given each Saturday. At the Hamilton, on East Tenth street, a "family night" is observed on Fridays, with a special children's matinee on Saturday. The Victrola will also observe "family night" on Fridays.

Mrs. J. W. James, president of the board of indorsers of Brazil, has submitted a list of pictures indorsed by the Brazil society. Mrs. C. M. Duncan takes an active interest in the work at Bedford, where the Woman's Club and women of the Round Table, assisted by the superintendent of schools, have established Saturday matinees of indorsed pictures alternating in the various theaters. Mrs. M. A. Royse has charge of the work in Paoli.

New Policy at Grand Opera House.

Bluffton, Ind.—The Gaiety Theater Company, recently incorporated, has leased the Grand opera house in this city from John H. Painter and will in the near future open the theater with a number of high class attractions, including motion pictures.

The Gaiety Theater Company includes Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bommerscheim and Jack Belger, the owners of the Gaiety theater on East Market street.

Royal Theater Being Dismantled.

Warsaw, Ind.—The Royal theater is being dismantled and will be replaced with a more modern structure. W. R. Deaton, who has operated the Royal for years, has moved his show into the old Grand theater on North Buffalo street. The new show is known as the Royal-Grand.

Indiana Theater Changes.

Columbia City, Ind.—Charles Copeland, agent for Adams Express at North Manchester, has purchased the Crystal theater from Mrs. Sadie Henry of South Whitely, where she intends to purchase another theater.

Sabbath Exhibitor Acquitted.

Marion, Ind.—Howard Spurr, manager of the Royal Grand theater, of this city, who was arrested a few weeks ago for violating the Sunday closing laws by operating a motion picture show on Sunday, has been acquitted by a jury in the Grant county Circuit Court.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The Lenwood Amusement Company, of this city, has filed incorporation papers with the secretary of state to engage in the motion picture theater business. The capital stocks is announced at $50,000. The directors are H. H. Woodsmall, C. F. Henderson and F. B. Leonard.

Shelbyville, Ind.—The Coza theater, a local photoplay house, has closed its doors. George J. Rapp, the proprietor, has announced that competition was too strong.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The large two-story brick business block, occupied by the Peter Pan theater on the ground floor, and two apartments on the second floor, has been bought by David S. Brenneke, of this city.

Bluffton, Ind.—The Mystic theater of this city suffered a slight fire loss last week. Paul Moomaw, the operator, was burned about the face, arms and ears when he attempted to throw a burning film out the window. The flames were extinguished by employes of the theater before the people in the audience had time to become frightened.

Logansport, Ind.—The Colonial theater, a local photoplay house, was one of three buildings destroyed last week in a fire that swept the Barnes business block, Detroit Business Notes.

Detroit, Mich.—William F. Klatt, president of the Regent Theater Company, Detroit, and holder of the first-run franchise on Paramount pictures, speaks very favorably of the value of Paramount as a box-office attraction, declaring that business at the Regent has increased very remarkably since the installation of Paramount first-run service. Earl Hennessy, the new Regent manager, is hard at work to make the Regent even more popular than ever, and he will shortly announce a number of innovations that are certain to create widespread interest.

Paul Mooney, division manager of the Fox corporation, was in Detroit, January 11, 12 and 13. He told the World correspondent that the Fox film comedies were going well and that all of the branch offices were making a strong drive for business on the new comedies.

"Intolerance" played three cities in Michigan the week of January 22—Battle Creek, Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids. It will be some time before it will appear in other cities. These three places were booked in order to break a long jump from New York to Minneapolis. Prices ranged from 25 cents to $1.50.

The Michigan Motion Picture Supply Company, 97 Woodward avenue, Detroit, of which Bert Weddige is the proprietor, is having a fine business on the Kline colored portrait cards and on Powers' projection machines. Bert says that January is the best month he has since in the business—and by the way, he was the first motion picture supply man in Detroit.

Charles A. Meade Is Pathe Special Representative.

Detroit, Mich.—Charles A. Meade, newly appointed special representative of the Pathe, will make his headquarters at the local Pathe exchange in order to be more closely identified with the Michigan trade than he could be at the Cleveland office.

Mr. Meade has had experience both in the exhibiting and distributing ends of the business. He was an exhibitor when he came to the General Film office in Kansas City some years ago. He spent many weeks in the shipping, booking bookkeeping and other departments, and with this experience he has made good as a salesman and has been connected with the Mutual and the V-L-S-E.

Michigan Faces State Censorship

Eaton Bill Now Before the State Legislature and It Is High Time for Exhibitors to Be Busy—Should Write or Wire Their Members of the Legislature—Petitions Also Should Be Circulated.

By Jacob Smith, 503 Free Press Building, Detroit, Mich.

DETROIT, MICH.—The State of Michigan is once again face to face with the serious problem of state censorship of motion pictures. A bill calling for state censorship was introduced into the Michigan legislature on Tuesday, January 16, by Congressman Fred L. Eaton of Saginaw. As previously noted in the World, the bill is somewhat along the lines of the Ohio bill. It calls for a censor board appropriation by the state of $1,500; the board to comprise three members to have headquarters in Detroit, and that all film must be shown to this board before it can legally appear on the screen of Michigan theaters. It calls for a fee of $1 for the first thousand feet of film and $2 where the film runs over 1,000 feet.

In a letter to the Detroit correspondent of the World, Congressman Eaton writes: "The bill provides for a board which shall inspect all films before they are shown. Those which are not offensive shall be stamped with the Board's approval, and may be shown; otherwise not. I would claim for the measure that it creates a body responsive to local sentiment and opinion, which might be expected to reflect the standards of Michigan people, rather than the standards by the producers. The bill follows the Ohio law. I would be glad to have your views."

Now, several of the exhibitors throughout Michigan have already written the World Detroit office that they are opposed to censorship and have asked what they should do in the matter of showing their opposition.

A Word to Michigan Exhibitors.

May we suggest the following to the exhibitors of Michigan:

First of all, get in immediate communication with the representatives in the legislature from your particular district, and explain to them that you are opposed to censorship, because it is unfair and un-American, that it is no more just to censor motion pictures than it would be to censor newspapers, magazines, theatrical productions, etc. That it is not fair to make 90 per cent. of the producers and exhibitors suffer for the acts of the other 10 per cent. Tell them the police have power enough and that the framers of the state constitution intended them to use it. If the local government isn't trustworthy change that; don't tamper with the guarantee of liberty.

Second, get your theater patrons to sign petitions also showing that they do not favor censorship. The real leaders of the country are against censorship. Blank petitions ought to be printed and every exhibitor should have several at work.

There isn't a question on doubt that there are pictures on the market today that should not be and that are more or less distasteful to intelligent and amusement-loving people, but it is certainly unfair to make everybody suffer for these few. There are certainly other and better ways to clean out this class of film. Local censorship is expensive and awkward at best. It is inefficient from a business view and makes ill feeling without need.

The World will keep Michigan exhibitors in close touch with the censorship bill, the dates of hearings, etc. But as a reminder, let every exhibitors get in direct touch, by mail or in person, with his congressmen, both Senators and Representatives.

Family Theater at Port Huron Opens.

Port Huron, Mich.—The Family theater, Port Huron, opened January 6. The house is roomy and beautifully tinted in old rose and ivory, with a total seating capacity of 812, practically all on the main floor. The heating system is overhead, and every detail as to ventilation, etc., has been carefully considered. The booth is equipped with two Powers' 6B machines, a double dissolver and a Hallberg 20th Century Motor Generator. E. C. Bedford, house manager, says business since the opening has held up exceedingly well.

A. W. Blankmeyer Gets Christie Comedies.

Detroit, Mich.—Art W. Blankmeyer, president and general manager of the Tri-State Film Co., 120 Broadway, Detroit, announces that he has also the Christie comedies for Michigan and that they will be released through the Superior Features at the same address.

John Kunsky Enters Metro Directorate.

Detroit, Mich.—Michigan exhibitors will be interested in learning that John H. Kunsky, of Detroit, has been elected to the directorate of the Metro Pictures Corporation, succeeding J. A. Fitzgerald of Detroit, who has withdrawn.

L. G. Parkhurst Goes to Kansas City.

Detroit, Mich.—L. G. Parkhurst, former manager of the Detroit office of Pathe, has been transferred to the Kansas City branch. Mr. Parkhurst was well liked in Michigan and had many, many friends. C. A. Meade is now in full charge of Pathe's Detroit branch.

Local Business Notes.

Detroit, Mich.—Frank H. Marshall, former manager of the Detroit office of the International, is giving all his time to the Patria serial, now being released through the Pathe offices. The Orpheum theater, Detroit, has the first-run on this serial and is running each episode an entire week.

Modern Film Building Proposed in Milwaukee

Film Distributors in Merrill Building Have Been Notified to Vacate by Building Inspectors—Nathanial Stone Plans New Building.

By Frank H. Madison, 628 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—The erection of a building costing $100,000 to meet with the requirements of the local film industry is contemplated by Nat Stone, of the Boston store. Recent activities of the building inspection department have caused the removal of exchanges from certain downtown office buildings, because, it was announced, the safety conditions are not properly met.

The film companies in the Merrill building have been notified to vacate. The local law provides that permits for the storing of films should not be issued within fifty feet of the nearest wall of any building occupied as a school, theater, church or other place of assembly.

Milwaukee School Buildings and Films.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Moving pictures cannot be given in school buildings unless they comply strictly with the laws for adequate fire construction. This has been announced by William D. Harper, building inspector. On the terms of the order only the Washington and the Riverside high schools can continue their shows. The order requires building must be of fireproof material throughout, that shows must be given only on the first floors, and that projectors must be protected.

James V. Bryson Distributing "Twenty Thousand Leagues."

Milwaukee, Wis.—James V. Bryson of Milwaukee and Minneapolis, who has taken over the rights to four states, including Wisconsin, on "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," may locate an office in Milwaukee to handle the production.

Worth a Passing Glance.

Stevens Point, Wis.—The Parish house has booked "The Birth of a Nation" for a return engagement of one day and a night.

Lancaster, Wis.—The Hatch opera house was damaged by fire.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The regular Paramount program was transferred from the Princess to the Alhambra theater while the former was running the Artcraft picture. The Triangle program was moved to the Orpheum.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The Merrill theater celebrated its first anniversary with Henry Walthall in "The Truant Soul."

Prairie-du-Chien, Wis.—C. C. Vivian of this city has purchased the opera house at Cedar Falls, Ia.

No Croakers in St. Louis Exchanges

Gibler Puts on Clean Cuffs and Jots Down Notes as He Goes Among the Local Exchange Men—Finds No Complaints Recorded—What the Leading Managers Think About Business Prospects for the Year.

By A. H. Giebler, 4123 Westminster Pl., St. Louis, Mo.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—We said: "We will gird ourself with a nice block of white paper and a soft lead pencil, and go out along the highways and byways of filmdom and get some impressions of business prospects for the coming year."

The pencil part was all right, they are not using that kind of lead in the unpleasantness over in Europe; but with news print at seven cents a pound—and still on the elevator—we changed our mind on the paper proposition, then we changed to our other shirt with the detachable cuffs—and set forth.

There was a double purpose in this preparedness, however. We had heard certain rumors—the grape-vine telegraph, which in this town seems to be managed and operated by a set of croakers, had been sending out wireless reports that business was not good for 1916, and that prospects for 1917 were not so bright that we would need smoked glasses to look at them.

We figured that if we ran into a hard luck story, the narrator might be inclined to curtail his tale of woe if he saw that we had very little note-taking material.

But we didn't get a single croak!

And the boost stuff and the golden prophecies we heard would make the talk of a mining stock promoter sound weak. But the best of it is that this talk is true "good dope," every bit of it, and documents were produced and books opened to show the "goods" in black and white.

We didn't take down one tenth of all we heard, there is a limit to one pair of cuffs, but we got enough to show conclusively that St. Louis has had a good year, and that 1917 is going to be a record smasher.

What Exchange Men Answered.

The first place we struck was the Mutual exchange, at 13th and Pine, where we found Manager Fred Keller up to his eyes in work, but he stopped long enough to give us the first lot of optimism.

"Things have been good here," said Keller, "and if everyone has as few kicks for 1916 as the Mutual, they ought to be happy; and the year that is just starting looks not only as good, but better."

Next, we dropped up to the St. Louis end of the Kansas City Feature Film company, on the second floor of the Gayety Theater building, where George W. McKean and his boys dispense Paramount pictures.

"Good, bully," said George W., before we got our question half asked. "We are going at top speed, and see here—we are doing four hundred and fifty dollars a week more business than we did at this time last year."

Jack F. Burhorn, who holds down the executive chair for the K-E-S-E at 3315 Olive street, was our next visitee. Mr. Burhorn was almost covered up with a bunch of papers he said were inquiries from anxious exhibitors who wanted to know about the Max Linder comedies; and the assistant manager (*) was so busy taking care of customers that all he could do was to look up with a "Van" little smile and say "Hello," and wave a feeble and work-weakened hand at us. But, as evident as were the signs of prosperity here, they were no more so than at the L. C. F. headquarters, next door but one.

Manager Fegan was as busy as the proverbial cranberry merchant, with "Yellow Menace" bookings and a lot of new five and six reel stuff, and on top of that he was making plans for "fixing" up the office and making it possible to do still more work.

(*Van Craenbroeck, called Van by everybody.)

Upstairs, Floyd Lewis, who expoits Triangle films, was busy with an exhibitor, but he stopped long enough to voice the usual and prevalent sentiment that business, while good for the year that has passed, showed every indication of being better for the coming year.

We also found I. P. Rosenberg, who looks after Selznick productions, wearing a wide smile which he assured us was the result of the outlook for 1917, and we believe him, for he also showed us some documents to prove his statements.

That Plaza building is a regular nest of film merchants. Just when we thought we had seen all of them we ran into Henry Slocum, who has just established offices for the distribution of the McClure pictures. Mr. Slocum is one of the pioneers in the St. Louis exchange field, and he was just full of jubilancy and promises; and to judge by his previous record, Mr. Slocum is just the man to turn the promises into performances before the young year is old.

From here to the Pathe exchange, which looks more like a bee-hive than anything else since the amalgamation of the International with the Pathe; part of the office force has come over with E. W. Dustin, manager for the International end of the business, among them Bob Worth, who had great things to say about the success of "Patria." Both Dustin and Worth have nothing but good luck forecasts for the future. Adding the big volume of business the International already had to the Pathe activities makes things stir around pretty lively.

Mr. Edwards says the first two weeks in January topped any other two weeks in the history of his office.

They have a new assistant manager at Pathe, in the person of H. E. Jameyson, who came on from Kansas City about a month ago. Jameyson is one of those fellows with a "I'll go after the business and get it" look to him, and Edwards says he works just like he looks.

Across the street at the Dixon Film Service, things were moving along at the same old busy gait, with not a speck of evidence of slow speed anywhere.

Barney Rosenthal, the Generalissimo at the Universal offices at 2116 Locust street, was the next optimist we saw. Barney had just got back from Chicago, where he had been in consultation with Carl Laemmle and a few more of the "big bugs" of the Universal, and he was full of the Company's new plans of helping the exhibitor make money with films after they have booked them. Barney proudly pointed to his publicity department, where a publicity expert, so buried with papers, pictures, dope sheets, press matter and advertising copy that we couldn't see his face, and a brand new stenographer in the person of Miss Herzberg, were toiling away at first aid schemes for exhibitors.

And they took us down to the booking offices and showed us in cold figures that more films were being shipped out of the office than at any time before. And we said "Good boy, Barney," and "Goodbye, Barney," and dropped in on Sidney "Bluebird" Baker.

We asked about things in general. "Bluebirds are flying and singing better than ever," said Baker. "The only thing the matter with them is that they cannot really fly. If they could we could stop the clamor of lots of exhibitors who want them quicker. And by the way, do you remember the remark of Mr. Shakespeare, when he said "The play's the thing" Well, Bill was right; we are proving it right along. If you don't believe it, looky here —" business of more documents being produced.

Out at the Grand and Olive street end of Film Row, Manager Miller, of the General Film plant, said: "We expect great things here. Our new plan of handling films on a percentage basis will result in more business than ever. Under the new plan we can buy more film than is in demand; when one subject takes better than another we are justified in buying more copies. This will satisfy exhibitors and give them what they want without our working the films too hard. This plan will work to every one's advantage, producer, exchangeman, and exhibitor, and on top of all that, things just look good. There is lots of money in the country, everybody is prosperous, and of course the film business will get its share."

Weil's Interest Creating Scheme.

Manager Weil, of the World and Brady-made pictures, was at home when we dropped into his sanctum, and he told us business was going to be better than ever, and he produced a dandy little publicity scheme that he is putting into practice, which will undoubtedly go far in producing the results he prophesies. Weil's plan is to get in touch with the patrons of every theater he books films to and create a following for the pictures, make them want to see World pictures. The names of the patrons are furnished to the World office and then they get busy with the interest-creating scheme.

Charles Werner, the Metro man, whom we referred to once as being up in the air because his office is up in the Empress Theater building, says he is still up in the air as far as location is concerned, but on absolutely solid business ground. With things looking rosier all the time—and to prove what he thinks of the future—he is enlarging the offices by taking in more floor space to accommodate the rush.

Short Length Films.

Downstairs, a few doors to the west, we found Sam Werner, who presides over the destinies of the Unicorn films. Sam had the same brand of optimistic promise that his brother Charles, of the Metro, gave us. Sam is a great believer in the short length films, and a glance over his boking sheets would convince anyone that a great many exhibitors have the same foudness for them.

At the V-L-S-E office we interviewed Mr. Webster, who is a newcomer to Film Row, but an old timer in the business, and we don't believe that manager Webster has any words in his dictionary but husle and business and good promises for the new year. Mr. Webster is a most affable and convincing person, and there is no doubt but that he will put V-L-S-E over in just the shape he says he will for 1917.

We surely got two ears full of optimism at the Fox offices. Sam Shurman is the head fox there now, and the youngest manager in point of service on Film Row, but he is not the slowest, by any means, and he told us more good things about the eight big Theda Bara and William Farnum films he will release in 1917 than William Fox himself could have told us. As Theda and Bill are prime favorites in this territory, we honestly believe Sam when he says that he will not only tear the lid off, but he will throw it away in 1917.

Taking it all by and large, things look exceedingly good for the film business in St. Louis for the coming year.

The 10th Anniversary Number will be referred to for years as a guide to the progress made in this industry from 1907 to 1917. Biggest advertising value ever offered. March 10th. Advertising forms close February 23rd.

NORTHWESTERN NOTES.

Miss Ormi Hawley at the Colhoun.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Miss Ormi Hawley, screen favorite, appeared at The Calhoun theater here in person Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 15-16, previous to going on a tour of Northern Minnesota theaters. Good crowds greeted Miss Hawley at The Calhoun.

Miss Hazel Wise Writing Publicity.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Miss Hazel Wise has taken charge of the publicity work for The Calhoun and The Dewey theaters here.

Morton Nathan Handing 'Em Out.

St. Paul, Minn.—Manager Morton Nathan was forced to lay in a large supply of cigars recently owing to the fact that he became father to a handsome 7½ pound baby boy. The youthful Mr. Nathan will register by the name of Daniel Arthur because his dad has no desire to raise his boy to be a moving picture man. Mrs. Nathan and the baby are both well.

Local Theater Notes.

Pukwanan, S. D.—A new picture theater will be opened here shortly in the building previously occupied by Wing Bros.

DeSmet, S. D.—The Opera House theater here is nearing completion and is expected to be ready for the opening within a few weeks.

Fargo, N. D.—Clifford Rice has purchased R. B. Hustad's interest in the theater at Tower City, N. D.

Dickinson, N. D.—Mrs. W. G. Ray has opened the Ray theater to the public.

Opheim, Mont.—Edward Combs has opened his new theater here.

Malta, Mont.—Wallace D. Coburn, Great West Film Co. star spent the holidays with his family here.

Billings, Mont.—The Strand theater has been opened here.

Eveleth, Minn.—Manager Lerner of the Strand theater here has booked Selznick features and will show "The Common Law" shortly.

Grand Forks, Minn.—The Real theater here has been opened to the public by M. Garber and J. M. Freeman.

Albert Lea, Minn.—Herman Goebel has taken over the management of the B. B. Theater here.

St. Bonifacius, Minn.—A picture theater will be opened here shortly.

Staples, Minn.—H. E. Poole is to be the manager of the new theater here now in the course of construction.

Hamburg, Minn.—The Home Amusement Co. recently organized will conduct a motion picture theater here.

Lefor, N. D.—A moving picture show has been opened in the Lefor hall.

Canova, S. D.—G. S. Buchanan has sold his interest in the Idle Hour theater to R. S. Hede.

Morristown, S. D.—L. B. Hale has sold his interest in the moving picture theater here to C. O. Dunning.

Wahpeton, N. D.—The firm of Murphy & Snyder which operated the new Photoplay theater has been dissolved.

St. Paul, Minn.—Ruben & Finkelstein have announced that Paramount pictures will be taken from The New Majestic to The New Princess theater here shortly to allow for the return of vaudeville into the former theater. Vaudeville was taken out of the Princess recently and transferred to The New Palace a new house erected by Ruben & Finkelstein and the former theater has been running Fox, Paramount and Vitagraph features since.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compare with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

Form Permanent Association

Minneapolis Exchange Men Organized at Meeting of Northwest Advisory Committee of the Motion Picture Industry—Managers of Fox, Paramount, Vitagraph, World, Universal and Mutual Exchanges Attend.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—At a meeting of the Northwest advisory committee to the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry recently a permanent Minneapolis Exchange Managers' Organization was formed.

Managers of the Fox, Paramount, Pathe, Vitagraph, World, Mutual, and Universal exchanges attended and each did his share of the work of getting the organization started off. The organization will hold weekly meetings and assist the national association in every way possible in working out its different plans. H. E. Friedman, Pathe exchange, is chairman of the permanent advisory organization with S. N. Robinson, Fox, vice-president and W. K. Howard, Vitagraph, secretary.

Anti-Advance Depositors Gain Recruits.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Ruben & Finkelstein, the largest exhibitors in Minnesota have informed Secretary Wm. Koenig of the Northwest Exhibitors' Corp. that they will lend their assistance in battling the advance deposit system. The addition of these two gentlemen to the ranks of the exhibitors' anti-advance depositors means much in the warfare now going on in these parts. Feb. 1 has been set as the date advance deposit exchanges must surrender.

Benjamin Drum Still Very Sick.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Benjamin Drum, manager of the Artcraft exchange here is reported to be slightly improved at the Asbury hospital where he has been confined to his bed for two weeks with internal complications. Doctors hold out little hope for Mr. Drum's recovery although the Artcraft manager has displayed a marvelous constitution. Mrs. Drum is managing the Artcraft office while her husband is in the hospital.

The Helikers Are Good Bowlers.

Minneapolis, Minn.—A. and L. Heliker of the "Amusements" bowling team are high men in the Film Men's Bowling league here at the second turn in the league's schedule. A. Heliker holds the individual high game record of 222 and his brother has made 590 for three games. The Mutuals still maintain first place with "Amusements" and the DeLuxe teams tied for the cellar title.

"Daughter of Gods" Coming to Lyric.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"A Daughter of the Gods" featuring Annette Kellermann will begin an indefinite run at The Lyric theater here Jan. 21 following the close of a four weeks' run of "The Crisis." Herbert Brenon who directed the filming of "A Daughter of the Gods" received some of his first theatrical training at The Lyric. Manager Frank A. McInerny of The Lyric has arranged to put the Kellermann feature on in the same big way "The Crisis" was handled and special orchestral numbers will accompany the film.

Getting Ready to Exploit "Under Sea" Picture.

Minneapolis, Minn.—James V. Bryson, former manager of the Universal exchanges at Minneapolis and Los Angeles, and at present manager of the Northwestern Motion Picture Equipment Co. here has gone to New York to complete arrangements for advertising his new territorial acquisition "Twenty-Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." Mr. Bryson stopped off at Chicago on his way East and upon his return here he expects to arrange for the opening of exchanges at Fargo, N. D., Milwaukee, Wis., and Minneapolis. Being well acquainted with the exhibitors of the territory Mr. Bryson believes he will have no difficulty in "putting the film over" in a big way.

Five Copies of "Civilization" on Tour.

St. Paul, Minn.—The run of "Civilization" at the Metropolitan theater here has been extended two days. W. S. Baldwin, general manager of the "Civilization" department of the Supreme Feature Film Co., Inc., Minneapolis has announced that five companies are now entour and each has reported success with the feature. The companies and managers now on the road are: Co. A., Earl Odette, manager, Minnesota and South Dakota; Co. B., Howard Tibbetts, manager, Iowa; Co. C., C. F. Rose, manager, Montana and North Dakota; Co. D., Nate Natelson, manager, So. Wisconsin; Co. E., William McMahon, manager, No. Wisconsin.

John Mason at the Strand.

Minneapolis, Minn.—John Mason, star of "The Libertine" was the guest of Manager J. A. Keough of the Strand and Manie Gottlieb of the Favorite Feature Film Corp., at a private showing of the film feature at the theater, Jan. 16. Mr. Mason had not seen the film on a large screen before and expressed himself as pleasantly surprised by the way his every move protographed and showed on the curtain. Mayor Thos. Van Lear and other prominent local men met Mr. Mason and viewed the film at The Strand.

Surprise Party for Manager Mustard.

St. Paul, Minn.—Partners of William A. Mustard in The Blue Mouse theater here tendered him a real surprise party on his birthday, Jan. 12. Mr. Mustard, away from the theater and his residence while preparations were being made was pleasantly surprised when he found among his unexpected guests Oliver A. Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Campbell, Miss Ormi Hawley, screen star and Willis Kent of Chicago.

Minneapolis Business Notes.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"It May Be Your Daughter" completed the first week of its run at The Regent theater here, Jan. 13 and began a second with a good business.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager Lowell V. Calvert of the New Garrick has booked "Blind Justice" for a showing at his theater shortly and will charge 15 and 10 cents admission for the feature. Pauline Frederick in "The Slave Market" did a good business for four days beginning Jan. 14, at the Garrick.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The Westcott Film Corp. here has had many requests for bookings for large Minnesota theaters following the close of a good week's run at the Strand, Minneapolis, at twenty-five cents admission.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The Sherman-Elliott, Inc. offices have announced that "The Crisis" will begin a week's run at the St. Paul Strand theater, Feb. 4, following a short trip through Iowa. Manager Glickauf of the "Crisis" Co. B. has announced that this show will play two days at Nebraska City, Neb., Jan. 19-20 before opening a run at the Brandeis theater, Omaha. Nicholas Wagner, former manager of The New Palace, St. Paul is out in advance of Co. B.

Barker-Swan Co. Goes Into Bankruptcy

Charles H. Dixon Appointed a Receiver—Failure Is Due to Insufficient Capital—Hope for a Reorganization.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

PEORIA, ILL.—A reorganization of the Barker-Swan Film service is hoped for as the result of the filing of a petition in bankruptcy against that concern in the United States District Court at Springfield. The bankruptcy proceedings were instituted by Attorney Merrick A. Whipple, representing Chicago creditors. Charles H. Dixon of Peoria has been appointed received by Judge J. Otis Humphrey. A. H. Shields, who is in charge of the company's studio at Main and Frink streets, hopes for reorganization. He states that the failure is because of the lack of capital for operation purposes. The plant is valued at $50,000. Attorney Whipple expects to sell the plant to some company which will operate it. The company was organized a year ago by Edwin L. Barker.

Kilbourne to Have Worthwhile Theater.

Kilbourne, Ill.—"That Old Home Town of Mine" has attained the dignity of a ground floor moving picture theater. Kilbourne, with its 500 souls and incidentally the native town of the Illinois correspondent, has been satisfied with regular shows in a second story hall, but now Frank Draper, of the Amuse-U Company, has purchased a concrete building and will use it for an opera house, the attractions being principally photoplays. An extension will be built, balconies placed and a stage installed.

Two New Companies.

Springfield, Ill.—Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson has issued a certificate of incorporation to:

Imperial Film Manufacturing Company, Chicago, capital, $1,000; incorporators, Edmond W. Potle, William Dreifus, Laurence B. Jacobs.

Kline's Film Enterprises, Chicago, capital, $2,500; incorporators, Maurice Kline, Sadie Kline, Arthur W. Shipman.

Booked "The Daughter of the Gods."

Quincy, Ill.—W. L. Busby, manager of the Empire-Hippodrome, was in Chicago to see "A Daughter of the Gods" and booked the film for four days in February.

Centralia, Ill.—Mr. and Mrs. George Pittenger went to Chicago and after viewing the big Fox film featuring Annette Kellerman, arranged for a future date for the Pittenger Grand.

Illinois Theater Changes.

Brockton, Ill.—Day Dunbar has sold his interest in the Star theater to his partner, Bruce Gillis, who is now sole proprietor.

Canton, Ill.—George Hewis has sold the Dreamland theater to W. T. Spamn, J. C. Silvernail and W. C. McCann.

Freeport, Ill.—Joe King is now manager of the Orpheum theater, which has been operated by Christ Buhl and Fred Thompson. He will use moving pictures and tabloid musical shows.

MICHIGAN FILM NOTES.

Want Local Exchange Clubs to Combine.

ESCANABA, MICH.—Managers of the local exchanges, including the Mutual, the Standard, the Universal, and the Metro, have made formal applications to have the upper Peninsula Association allied with the F-i-l-m club of Chicago and the Film Exchange Cooperative Association of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Detroit.

Michigan Town Wants a Picture Show.

Mendon, Mich.—Commercial clubs used to be known largely for their optimistic offers to bring to their towns factories employing countless workers, but the town boosting organization here feels that it is a part of its duties to provide residents with proper amusements. Over the signature of the Commercial Club it is advertising in a Kalamazoo paper for a motion picture house.

Michigan Theater Notes.

Beaverton, Mich.—Lee Perry has purchased the moving picture theater here from Mamel McCormick.

Houghton, Mich.—Thomas A. Cosgrove, proprietor of the Bijou motion picture theater, has taken steps to organize a stock company, capital $2,500, for the erection of a moving picture theater in L'Anse.

Battle Creek, Mich.—Battle Creek was the first city in Michigan to get a showing of Griffith's "Intolerance," which was at the Post theater for three days.

PRAIRIE STATE NOTES.

By Frank H. Madison.

Omaha Show Man Invents Twinoscope.

OMAHA, NEB.—Wilfrid Ledoux, manager of the Empress theater, has filed patent claims for the twinoscope, a device intended to show two pictures relating to the same subject on the same screen at the same time.

The idea is to show two concurrent scenes. If a picture shows some one telephoning it will not be necessary to switch to another scene to show a person at the other end of the line. They will both be on the screen, side by side. The promotors of the device figure that a subject now requiring five reels can be shown in the time ordinarily taken for the projection of three reels.

The screen will be wider than the ordinary one. Two projectors connected by a shaft to insure uniform speed will be used. The only division on the screen is that made by light rays.

A Nebraska corporation is being organized to market the twinoscope.

Nebraska Theater Notes.

Fremont, Neb.—The Methodist church at North Bend has purchased a moving picture machine which will be used in connection with church services.

Kearney, Neb.—The Crescent theater loaned its house to the high school for the projection of four reels showing the resources of Nebraska. The Crescent is a friend of the high school, having recently turned over its house for a benefit performance for the football team.

Omaha, Neb.—The Sun theater had a fire in the organ loft in the course of a performance but so well was the situation handled that none of the patrons knew it until the blaze was extinguished.

Dakota Jottings.

Marmarth, N. D.—A new moving picture theater will be erected here.

Hannaford, N. D.—A. K. Boyd of McHenry has opened a moving picture theater operating on Tuesday and Friday nights.

Belfield, N. D.—Martin Brotten and Carl Peterson have opened the Lyric theater here.

Des Moines Exchange Men Form Association

Closer Relationship Between Distributors and Exhibitors Wanted—Censorship and Sunday Closing Ideas in Iowa.

By Dorothy Day, Register-Tribune, Des Moines.

DES MOINES, Ia.—The Des Moines film exchange men have formed an association for the purpose of establishing a closer connection between the exchangemen and the exhibitors, and to collect delinquent accounts and eliminate the deadbeat exhibitor. The new association is to be called either the Des Moines Film Exchangemen's Credit Association or the Des Moines Exchangemen's Association. A meeting is to be held next week to elect officers and to really get the new body working. The Hoy system for collection will be introduced.

Censorship and Sunday Closing in Iowa.

A. H. Blank, president of the Iowa Exhibitors' League, and W. C. Eddy, also an officer in the League, are engaged in the preliminary arrangements for the inevitable battle in the Iowa legislature over Censorship and Sunday closing laws. John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual company, has given his personal assurance of every aid possible in the fight to Mr. Eddy.

General Exchange Notes.

Des Moines, Ia.—The General exchange in Des Moines is announcing that owing to the high cost of white paper it will be necessary for them to charge their exhibitors a modest rental for all advertising paper.

O. H. Garland, formerly the booker at the Des Moines General exchange, starts Monday on the road. Bruce Gould, the shipping clerk, will do the booking during Mr. Garland's absence.

Heard at the Mid-West Offices.

Des Moines, Ia.—A. H. Blank, president of the Mid-West Corporation, has left for St. Louis and Kansas City to see about the Triangle distributing offices in those cities. It is possible that the St. Louis office will be transferred to Des Moines, making the Des Moines office the center of the Iowa and Nebraska.

Miss Etta Arthur, the only woman film representative in this part of the country and formerly employed by A. H. Blank when he was the head of the Garden Feature Film, is now traveling in Nebraska with the Clara Kimball Young pictures and "War Brides."

The Des Moines office of the Mid-West Photoplay Corporation is distributing "War Brides" on a percentage basis and as a road show.

Theodore Goldstein, formerly one of the Garden Feature Film stockholders, has been made one of the company managers of "War Brides."

John L. Shipley, publicity man for the Mid-West Photoplay Company in Des Moines, will go with the "War Brides" production to Waterloo and Cedar Rapids, but will come back to this city the 21st to handle the publicity for the production.

The New Theater at Leon, Iowa, Opens.

Leon, Ia.—Cris Campen opened his New theater in Leon, Ia., Saturday, the 12th, with a 2:30 o'clock matinee. Mr. Campen is an experienced man in the motion picture trade. The New theater has been in process of building for nearly three months, the new proprietor having spent several thousand dollars in remodeling the corner room in the Mullinnix block. The floor has been dropped six feet, a beautiful new front put in, interior decorating and electrical fixtures, and 247 opera chairs put in. Two electric driven Simplex machines, a gold fibre screen, and the best pictures obtainable will afford the people of Leon a fine place for amusement.

Iowa Theater Notes.

Estherville, Ia.—F. H. Graff suffered a severe loss Wednesday, the eighth of the month, when his Grant theater and cafe in connection burned. The Pathe picture, "The Shine Girl," issued from the Des Moines Pathe exchange, was destroyed in the fire.

Afton, Ia.—Anna S. Hutzell purchased the Palace theater in Afton from R. C. Thomas.

Chariton, Ia.—Becker and Bowen of Chariton disposed of their opposition when they bought out Bob Percefield.

Corydon, Ia.—Mrs. Cora Wiatt purchased the American theater in Corydon.

Lamoni, Ia.—Rogers & Chasey purchased the Grand theater in Lamoni from I. R. Anderson.

Lorimer, Ia.—R. E. Burkheimer bought the Electric theater in Lamoni from C. W. Bryant.

Murray, Ia.—Albert and Beulah Stewart purchased the Gem theater of R. S. Lower of Murray.

Osceola, Ia.—The Lyric theater in Osceola has changed hands, the new owner, R. E. Carson, succeeding J. Waller.

Bennett, Ia.—J. T. Soenken sold the Lyric theater in Bennett to Lewis Lamp.

Altoona, Ia.—Virgil Hawkins of Altoona, owner of the opera house in that city, has purchased the House of Quality in Freemont, Ia.

Lost Mason, Ia.—B. S. Skelley has sold his opera house in Lost Mason to Henry Pahling.

Local Film Business Items.

Des Moines, Ia.—R. C. Li Beau, manager of the Des Moines Film and Supply Company, is making a week's tour in the Eastern part of the state on business.

Des Moines, Ia.—A. H. Blank, after returning from St. Louis and Kansas City will go at once to Omaha on business concerning his big Strand theater there.

Des Moines, Ia.—Harry Sherman, of Sherman and Elliott, was in the city last week. He has secured "Intolerance" for the same 17 states through which he held the rights for "The Birth of a Nation." His picture, "The Crisis," will open at the Lyric in Minneapolis on the 24th, and after a Chicago showing will be exhibited in this city, probably at the Majestic. "The Birth of a Nation" will be given a return showing at the Majestic beginning the 11th of February.

KANSAS CITY NOTES.

Miss Simpson's Hands Full.

Topeka, Kan.—Miss Carrie Simpson, a member of the state board of moving picture censors, has instituted a new plan by which the state may be provided with suitable pictures. She is beginning at the very beginning, to secure such pictures—censoring the scenarios before they are submitted to producers. The stream of scenarios which is coming to her to be reviewed, started when she announced that she was assisting in preparing a juvenile program, and that proper stories were desirable. Miss Simpson makes suggestions to the writers for improving their stories, and her work is doing one thing in addition to its service to the writers—it is helping to educate the public to her ideals of moving picture stories.

Greater Vitagraph Items.

Kansas City, Mo.—The Vitagraph Company has secured the New Center theater at 15th and Troost streets for a private showing of the "Girl Phillipa."

F. F. Nine, formerly the booker for the Vitagraph Company, Kansas City, is now the assistant manager of the office. He has been with the Vitagraph company for the last two years.

J. H. Kilinsky, who has been with the Vitagraph Company for the last seventeen months as a traveler, is taking a hard earned rest.

Kansas City, Mo.—P. H. Goldstone, president of the Federal Film Company, is the largest states rights buyer in Kansas City. His company is securing more calls for the "Little Girl Next Door" and "War's Women" than they can fill.

Mr. Exhibitor:—You will get more helpful information by carefully reading one trade paper weekly than by skimming over three or four. The MOVING PICTURE WORLD is the one paper you need.

Mignon Feature Co. to Exploit "Civilization"

Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas Rights Have Been Secured and a Company Has Been Formed to Exploit the Big Spectacle.

By Kansas City News Service, 861 Corn Belt Building, Kansas City, Mo.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—The big Ince spectacle, "Civilization," has scored big in Kansas City. A syndicate of oil men bought the rights to "Civilzaton" for Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, and will manage the distribution of the picture from Kansas City.

The picture was shown at the Grand opera house, which is accustomed to making records, and one week of its four here was while the New York Hippodrome show, "Hip, Hip, Hooray," was at Convention hall.

Fifteen Prints in Four States.

The new states rights company will open branch offices for handling fifteen prints in four states. W. P. Culler will manage the Kansas City end of the business. A. C. Langan will make headquarters at St. Louis and Dallas.

From Kansas City the print will go to Wichita, where it will be shown at the local convention hall, with large orchestra and many special arrangements. Indeed, the new company will probably organize an orchestra to accompany the pictures, and will also have its corps of special operators, and will go systematically about the work of organizing local committees to exploit the picture.

The Mignon Feature Company is the name of the organization that bought the rights, purchasing from the Harper Film Company of New York for a price said to be $100,000.

Rev. Charles M. Sheldon Will Give Film Performance.

Topeka, Kan.—The Rev. Chas. M. Sheldon, pastor of the Central Congregational Church at Topeka, Kan., is arranging to give a moving picture performance at his church January 19. Dr. Sheldon is the author of several widely known books, among them are "In His Steps," and "The Crucifixion of Phillip Strong."

The Paramount feature, "The Martyrdom of Phillip Strong," is taken from one of these two books, and is particularly adapted to local settlements, churches and other up-lift organizations. It will be shown at Dr. Sheldon's church.

A special presentation will be arranged. Dean Whiteham and Professor Guidi of the School of Fine Arts at Washburn College, Topeka, will have charge of the musical program.

Frank Powell Visits.

Kansas City, Mo.—Frankie Powell, owner of the Mission and Majestic theaters at Ponca City, Okla., was in Kansas City recently attending the New York Hippodrome show. While in Kansas City he took occasion to visit the Paramount office and meet an old friend, L. D. Balsley, advertising manager of the Kansas City Feature Film Company. The two were old time school friends at Blackwell, Okla., and received their musical education there, both belonging to the school band and orchestra known as the "Boy Wonders."

To Build a Larger Willis Wood.

Kansas City, Mo.—The Willis Wood theater, which burned the morning of January 8, with a loss of $60,000, will be rebuilt immediately. It will be made much better than it was before. About $100,000 will be expended in renewing the building. The gallery, which has been such a perilous place to sit in, will be cut out entirely and the theater as a whole made much larger. It will continue as a moving picture house.

Local Theater Changes.

Wichita, Kan.—C. G. Bard has purchased from Don Powell the Colonial theater at Wichita, Kan.

Riverside, Ia.—Mr. Schnoebelen has purchased the half interest of Mr. Yaro of Yaro & Wingler, proprietors of the Subway theater, Riverside.

De Soto, Kan.—W. A. Orr, manager of the Electric theater, De Soto, Kan., was in Kansas City recently. Mr. Orr is a member of a large bakery firm at De Soto. He runs features two nights a week and is showing to good houses.

Springfield, Mo.—Jack Truitt, proprietor of the New Sedalia theater, at Sedalia, Mo., recently leased the Jefferson theater, at Springfield, Mo.

Lacygne, Kan.—The Stewert & Wilburn Company has opened the Knights of Pithias theater at Lacygne, Kan.

Sherrill, Kan.—The opera house at Sherrill, Has been opened up under the management of W. L. Sherrill.

Russell, Kan.—F. T. Martin has sold his theater at Russel to A. G. Jones. Mr. Martin has taken over the Electric theater at Quinter, Kan.

Lawrence, Kan.—Lyod Ware, owner of the Bowersock and Varsity theaters at Lawrence, was a recent visitor in Kansas City. Mr. Ware has been showing to very good audiences, the students of the university there comprising about half of his attendance.

Visitors to Kansas City Exchanges.

Kansas City, Mo.—Some visitors in the Kansas City exchanges recently were: J. G. Swanson, Odean theater; G. Farrety, Novelty theater, Winfield; Chas. Goodnight, Starr theater, Warrensburg; A. W. Bell, Alamo theater, Fayette, Mo.

Changes at Local World Film Office.

Kansas City, Mo.—R. E. Kerley, formerly booker in the World office at Indianapolis, Ind., has recently been transferred to the Kansas City office. J. Crandell, whose place he takes, is now in charge of the shipping department.

T. W. George, who has been with the Indianapolis office for the last year in the capacity of road man, is now connected with the Kansas City office in the same capacity.

E. D. Long, formerly road man in the Kansas World Film office, is now cashier of the office.

M. M. Montgomery of the World Film is now the manager of the Kansas City exchange. Richard Robertson, the former manager, has a very good proposition in view which he is not ready to disclose yet.

A. J. Reed With Triangle.

Kansas City, Mo.—A. J. Reed, former Kansas representative, is handling the McClure pictures through the Triangle office, Kansas City, Mo.

Universal Bowlers Doing Well.

E. W. Williams, head of the service department of the Universal, Kansas City, Mo., has left for a week's trip to book the "Purple Mask."

The Universal bowling team is now running third place in the tournament being held at the Grand bowling alleys, and has a good chance of getting a first, showing the versatility of moving picture men.

"The Purple Mask" is in great demand among the Kansas City exhibitors and is snapped up as fast as it is open.

The Federal Film Company has taken the Unusual line of pictures.

J. E. Schlank, with the Federal Film Corporation, is now in New York closing a deal to secure the "Eyes of the World" and "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," Ince and Keystone productions.

Denver's Paris Theater Sold

Deal Gives Local Theater to Company Composed of Baxter, Swanson and Nolan Will Be Remodeled Inside and Out—New Policy of Big Features and Long Runs—Frank Hall Will Be the Manager.

By E. C. Day, Denver Times, Denver, Colo.

DENVER, COLO.—One of the most important deals in the history of the Denver moving picture industry was closed this week when the Paris theater, one of the largest of the downtown picture houses, was sold to a company in which a number of Denver's leading amusement men are interested. The consideration was not made known.

The new owners are Samuel N. Baxter, present owner of the Isis theater; William H. Swanson and Harry T. Nolan, owners of the Swanson-Nolan circuit of moving picture theaters and supply houses. They will be president, vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

More than ordinary significance attaches to the transaction. It marks the entrance into the Denver field of the Swanson-Nolan company, which operates a string of picture houses in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah. It also gives this city its first house to be devoted almost exclusively to extra big features.

The Paris will be closed immediately and will be thoroughly remodeled. When the doors are again opened it will have been renamed by the new owners; it will have a new front; an entire new dress within; a new manager, and a new policy.

Frank Hall, former manager of the Grand theater at Pueblo and the Rex theater at Salt Lake, both of which are owned by Swanson and Nolan, will be manager of the new theater.

The reopening will be marked by the showing of "The Daughter of the Gods," the Fox spectacle, the local rights for which Mr. Baxter obtained early this month. This will be given a 15-day run and will be followed by other big features of a like nature. Nothing in the way of a motion picture production will be too big for the company to handle, according to a statement made to the correspondent of the Moving Picture World by the officials of the new concern.

A minimum admission of 10 cents will be charged with the prices graded up according to the magnitude of the attraction. For several months the Paris has been a 5-cent house. An orchestra will be installed to supplement the pipe organ with which the house is now equipped.

Big Feature House Needed.

Its establishment as a big feature house should prove a big success, as it fills one of the long felt needs of Denver. Heretofore the lovers of big pictures have been deprived of seeing them because none of the exhibitors was willing to break into his regular run to show higher priced productions. "The Birth of a Nation" was compelled to lease a legitimate house for its first showing, and most of the other special pictures have had the same experience.

It was this condition of affairs that led to the sale of the Paris. S. N. Baxter, president of the new company, has had numerous opportunities as owner of the Isis theater to get first run contracts on special productions, but could not handle them for the reason that he feared to jeopardize his established business by breaking into it with higher priced pictures.

Baxter is one of the pioneer exhibitors of this territory, being one of the first, if not the very first, to open a moving picture theater in Denver. In associating himself with the Swanson-Nolan firm he joins the pioneers in the film exchange business in the city. Since the independent exchange has given way to the branch offices of the producing companies Swanson and Nolan have gone into the supply and exhibiting business. They have a chain of half a dozen supply houses and theaters in the west and are planning to extend this to include two more Colorado cities. This is in line with a tendency noticeable at present.

Two New Denver Theaters About to Open

The America, Built by Bishop-Cass Company, on Sixteenth and Center Streets—De Witt C. Webber's New House at Bayaud and Broadway.

DENVER, COLO.—Two new Denver moving picture theaters, said by their owners to be the last word in the art of building amusement palaces, are about ready for opening.

The America Theater.

They are the America, which takes its place on Denver's most prominent business corner, at 16th and Curtis streets, in the heart of the Great White Way, and the Webber, at Bayaud and Broadway, the center of a thickly populated residential section in South Denver.

Neither house has definitely fixed an opening date, but at both the finishing touches are being put to the decorating, and each will be going full blast before the last of the month.

The America was built and is owned by the Bishop-Cass Investment Company. It formerly operated the Lyric theater, which occupied a rear space on the site of the new theater building. A. G. Talbot, who managed the Lyric, will be manager of the America. He has announced E. H. Sothern in "An Enemy to the King" as his opening attraction, having signed a contract for first run releases with the Greater Vitagraph Company.

The open booking policy will be followed by the America. It will charge a minimum price of 10 cents, with a graded admission scale when large productions are undertaken. "Civilization" has been booked for showing at the new house for a later date, and it is the intention of Manager Talbot to stage other special attractions from time to time.

The Webber Theater.

The Webber theater is owned by De Witt C. Webber, veteran amusement man of Denver. It was built under his personal supervision and his original ideas and tastes are reflected in its many and varied features. The Webber is without doubt a most artistic, most modern and most elaborate neighborhood moving picture house.

It has 1,000 seats, all on the ground floor; is equipped with modern heating and ventilating systems; has an asbestos roof, which is the only one of its kind in this section; is equipped with a double dimmer indirect lighting system that, though it hides every light in the house, is capable of making the interior as bright as day or as dark as may be necessary for the best screen effect. The interior decorating effects are original and elaborate. The exterior will be illuminated at night by a flood lighting system.

Among the features are an aviary and an aquarium located at the rear on either side of the theater. The operator's booth, in keeping with the other features of the house, is a thing of elegance. It is entirely enclosed in glass and trimmed with rich draperies and will be illuminated by a series of inverted lights so that it will at once catch the eye of a patron leaving the theater and at the same time not effect the showing of the picture on the screen.

The booth will be located on a small balcony at the rear of the house. This balcony will be equipped with individual plush arm chairs for the comfort of those who desire exclusiveness. It will be known as the conservatory and an additional charge will be made for admittance to this quarter.

The policy of the Webber will be open booking. The owner will introduce a new departure in that he will book only first run pictures, the first time this has ever been attempted in any but a downtown house. A standard of 10 cents has been adopted as the general admission price. The owner plans to run short reel programs as well as features. The theater will be open only in the evenings unless it is decided later to give Saturday and Sunday matinees.

J. E. Rickards Buys Theater.

Phoenix, Ariz.—Jo E. Rickards, founder of the Phoenix Amusement Company, of Phoenix, and one of the pioneers of pictures in that state, has disposed of his interest in the above concern and purchased the Lion theater of Phoenix. He has completely remodeled the house and renamed it the Hip. He is running Greater Vitagraph, Pathe Gold Rooster, Kline Edison, Mutual Star, Chaplin and Max Linder specials, as well as all the big state right features on rental basis. Mr. Rickards' new venture bids fair to be the success his management assured his first love in the Baby State.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

California Briefs.

Vallejo, Cal.—The Vallejo theater, formerly the Republic, was opened late in December under the management of Bert Langley. The house has a gallery and can accommodate 1,100.

Napa, Cal.—Plans are being drawn by Architect L. M. Turton for a two-story reinforced concrete moving picture house, 61 by 165 feet, to be erected on Main street by John and Samuel Garibaldi. There will be a large gallery and the equipment will be of high grade.

Oakland, Cal.—The management of the T. & D. theater has made arrangements with the owners of a large market to keep an arcade open through this in the evening and patrons are enabled to pass from Twelfth to Eleventh street without going around the block.

Children's Matinees in Santa Barbara.

Santa Barbara, Cal.—The Palace theater, Santa Barbara, is co-operating with the Recreation Center in providing a special children's matinee on Saturdays. It has proved a great success. Recreation Center is a community house, conducted by the Neighborhood House Association. It is purely philanthropic, devoting itself primarily to young people. The building was opened three years ago and one feature is Saturday night dances that are always well patronized.

Reference to the children's matinee was made January 8 in the annual report of Mrs. Emmett G. Ord, the secretary.

Engagement of Exhibitor Announced.

San Francisco, Cal.—The announcement of the engagement of A. Goldberg to Miss Rita Salomon has just been made, the wedding to be an event of the early spring. Mr. Goldberg is one of the most popular exhibitors of the city, conducting the Peerless theater on Third street, an enterprise in which he has met with marked success, and his bride-to-be is one of the popular members of the young set.

All Star Feature Distributors News.

San Francisco, Cal.—Sol L. Lesser, head of the All Star features, has purchased the California, Arizona and Nevada rights to the ten-reel Selig production, "The Garden of Allah," and will release this following "War Brides" and "Civilization." The legitimate stage production was shown here recently at the Columbia theater and the wide publicity it received is expected to be of great value to the screen presentation. "Neptune's Daughter," recently purchased by Sol. L. Lesser has been booked for a two weeks' run at the Theater St. Francis, early in February.

Sol L. Lesser plans to leave for New York late in January to make other purchases of film and to look after eastern interests. His assistant, Miss Freda Rubenstein, who arrived home recently from an extended eastern trip, is attending to office duties again.

Bans Improper Pictures.

Stockton, Cal.—An ordinance has been passed by the City Council prohibiting the exhibiting of motion pictures of "any nude human figure, of any lewd or lascivious act, or of any matter or thing of an obscene, indecent or immoral nature, or offensive to the moral sense." The measure is effective in thirty days.

Pathe Cameraman Completes Long Trip.

San Francisco, Cal.—Ralph Radnor Earle, who conducts a large printing and developing plant at 451 Eddy street, San Francisco, Cal., and who was commissioned by the Pathe Exchange, Inc., last summer to make moving pictures of all the national parks, returned recently from a trip on which he covered more than 7,000 miles, and on which he took upward of 10,000 feet of splendid pictures. The entire journey was made by automobile and he was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Earle. The trip from San Francisco was made by way of some of the most scenic spots in the Pacific northwest and the Yellowstone park was first given attention. From there Mr. and Mrs. Earle went to Glacier national park, one of the latest of Uncle Sam's pleasure grounds, and some of these pictures are expected to prove a revelation to tourists. The trip home was by way of Crater lake, Oregon, and the picturesque lake country of Northern California.

Following a short stay in San Francisco Mr. Earle expects to go to the Yosemite valley to secure winter scenes and will also revisit the Yellowstone park to take pictures of the elk herds. In January he will attend the ice carnival at St. Paul, Minn., and later he will go to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and through the country of the Cliff Dwellers in New Mexico and Colorado.

Sunday Closing in California?

Among the Measures Before the New State Legislature Is a Sunday Closing Act—A Bill Providing for Films in Public Schools—Film Board of Trade Is Keeping Close Watch on All Legislation Affecting the Trade.

By T. A. Church, 1507 North Street, Berkeley, Cal.

SACRAMENTO, CAL.—The California State Legislature convened in bi-ennial session on January 9 and already a large number of bills have been introduced. Among those of interest to the moving picture industry is a Sunday closing act, but the proponents of this were induced to make it as mild as possible and theaters and other places of amusement have been removed from its scope. However, there is an element in the state legislature that seems disposed to insist that the law be general in its character, if it is to be passed, and it is not unlikely that amendments to it will be made. The measure will be handled in the senate by Henry H. Lyon, of Los Angeles, and in the assembly by C. W. Morris, of San Francisco.

Another measure of interest to be introduced is one designed to make moving pictures a part of the curriculum of the public schools. The bill will carry with it an appropriation for placing a moving picture machine in every school in the state and will arrange for a library of educational film.

The moving picture trade is expecting a number of other measures to be introduced, and the Film Exchange Board of Trade of San Francisco is keeping a close watch on legislative proceedings, with the idea of sending a representative there in case there are any brought forward that promise to be detrimental to the industry.

T. & D. Circuit News.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Turner & Dahnken circuit has met with so much success with its tea room at the new Oakland house that it has been decided to add a similar innovation at the Tivoli theater in this city, and estimates on the work are now being taken. As many as 500 cups of tea are served some afternoons at the Oakland T. & D., and ladies are finding this a very convenient place to meet friends or to await the beginning of feature attractions on the screen.

A. E. Northy, who has been manager of the Berkeley T. & D. for some time, has been transferred to the Richmond house, and his place at Berkeley has been taken by E. J. Merlin, formerly assistant at the Oakland T. & D. The Turner & Dahnken circuit has purchased the equipment of the Campus theater at Berkeley, and it is unlikely that this house will be reopened as a moving picture house.

Rapid progress is being made on the erection of the new house at Stockton, Cal., and it is anticipated that this will be ready for occupancy some time in February. The lobby and stage of the Sacramento T. & D. theater have been remodeled and the entire house redecorated, while a large addition is being made to the organ at the San Francisco house, making a seventy-one stop instrument of it.

Hayakawa Week a Big Success.

San Francisco, Cal.—Hayakawa week at the Imperial theater early in the year proved to be a success beyond all expectations and proved to Manager J. L. Partington the fact that good pictures can be brought back for presentation, no matter how old they may be, if the stars are still popular. "The Typhoon" did double the volume of business it did when first shown here, while receipts on "The Cheat" were about $75 a day greater than they were when this picture was shown in 1915. The orchestra of the Imperial theater has been augmented and is now under the leadership of Severi, a prominent local concert master.

Careless Exhibitors Criticised.

San Francisco, Cal.—Frequent complaints are being made by local film exchange men of the poor condition in which their property is being returned from certain moving picture houses, and plans are being considered for the better protection of films. Badly torn film, resulting from use on poorly adjusted machines, comes in frequently, and just a short time ago a film inspector in one of the largest exchanges in the city suffered a severely cut hand, the result of a pin that had been used by an operator to patch a broken film.

D. J. Grauman to Handle Pictures.

San Francisco, Cal.—D. J. Grauman, one of the pioneer theatrical and moving picture men of this city, is making extensive purchases of films on a state rights basis and will shortly be ready to release some of these. The Empress theater in this city is to be transformed into a moving picture house, and the organ for this is expected to be in place within a month. His son, Sidney Grauman, has taken a lease on a magnificent 2,850-seat house, to be erected at Los Angeles, and the films that are purchased will be shown at both of these houses and then released. Mr. Grauman states that he has entered the field as a buyer on account of the tendency of producers and distributors to place their best productions in legitimate houses in direct competition with their regular customers.

H. L. Knappen Becomes Special Pathe Representative.

San Francisco, Cal.—H. L. Knappen, formerly manager of the San Francisco office of the International film service, and who was slated to take charge of the Los Angeles branch of the Pathe Exchange, Inc., following the recent consolidation, has been appointed instead to the position of special representative in the western territory and has left for Denver to assist in getting that office in shape and will then cover the northwest. H. I. Krause, formerly of the Salt Lake suboffice, will be assistant to Mr. Loper at the Los Angeles branch of Pathe.

Ralph Radnor Earle and Mrs. Earle Making Tour of the National Parks.

Need Organization in Oregon

Beaver State Exhibitors Woefully Lack Union—Legislature Is Passing Laws and Film Men Apparently Have No Representation—Reformers Are Represented—There Is a Nucleus for Strong Film Organization.

By Abraham Nelson, 601 Journal Building, Portland, Or..

PORTLAND, ORE.—The meeting of the state legislature at Salem during the forty days beginning January 8, without a single representative or spokesman in that body working in the interests of the moving picture men in Oregon, denotes a woeful lack of interest among the state's exhibitors in their own affairs. Or, perhaps it would be better to say, a woeful lack of interest in all matters except getting the money—today. Just what the Oregon legislature is going to rib up that will concern the industry—tomorrow—no one knows nor, apparently, cares. But the lobbyists for the alleged reforms are all there at Salem.

The direct reason for the apparent unconcern among exhibitors is the absence of organization. The nearest thing to a successful union of film men in Oregon is the Oregon Motion Picture Men's Association, its membership including men from all branches of the industry. The organization has its headquarters in Portland and its officers are among the most prominent exhibitors and exchange men in the state's metropolis. Its membership is from all parts of the state.

But, alas, the Oregon Motion Picture Men's Association is at present hibernating. It will undoubtedly blossom forth in style when the censors become overbearing. Its inactive state is regretted by the men who have tried to make it live and booming and who would rather have it an organization that is on the offensive, speaking in terms of the battlefield, than one that is on the defensive, and only alert when stepped on.

The local branch of the Exhibitors' League of America died a natural death nearly two years ago, although the name of the organiaztion still embellishes the big windows over the Majestic theater.

Individuals Apt to Be Narrowly Selfish.

Men who claim to know about these things give as a reason for the indifferent success of exhibitors' associations in Oregon that individuals are at times inclined to be selfish in considering the purposes of organization and refuse to act unless they will be personally benefitted at the moment. This seems to the writer, who has watched the situation for nearly two years, to be a logical reason and a reason which has disheartened those men who have given their time and services freely and unselfishly for the future benefit of the industry. Another reason is undoubtedly the fact that in Oregon there are 200 theaters in 96,000 square miles, and that outside of Portland, the average town has two or three theaters, the owners of which are occasionally engaged in scalp getting competition.

It is hoped that the so-called reformers will not be able to influence the Oregon legislators to clutter the statutes with further Sunday closing measures or obnoxious legislation concerning amusements. But should the legislative grist of forty days' session contain such enactments, they may serve the noble purpose of uniting Oregon's exhibitors before "the next time."

Parker Now Owns Majestic.

Portland, Ore.—The Majestic theater, the city's pioneer first run house, has been acquired by J. J. Parker, who has bought the interest of Edwin F. James in the James Amusement Company. Mr. Parker is in entire control of the big Washington street theater and is maintaining the same first class policy there as that under which the house has been conducted heretofore.

The deal was undoubtedly consummated about the time Mr. James leased the Broadway and rumors were current to that effect. The verification comes directly from Mr. Parker.

Reliable Film Service Moves.

Portland, Ore.—The Reliable Film Service, formerly located on Broadway, has joined the rest of the film fraternity by moving to Film Row. Their new stand is at 14 North Ninth street in the storeroom formerly occupied by Metro. The Reliable's equipment and stock occupied the entire depth of the store and half the next room, besides a spacious balcony. The shipping entrance is on Burnside street. The sales room is gurnished with comfortable seats and feels real homelike. C. H. Johnstone is the manager.

Reliable Film Service Office and Manager C. H. Johnstone.

Series of Children's Shows.

Portland, Ore.—Under the auspices of the Parent Teachers' Association, Miss Alice M. Ryan and Miss Rachael Clark have been showing children's programs in several theaters of the city during the holiday week. "Hiawatha," a four-reel subject, has been the film used and it has been interpreted by a reader. The shows at the Broadway and the Elite were very successful.

"Movie Week" in Portland.

Portland, Ore.—"Movie week" was featured here by the newspapers the week after New Year's. The reason was that by coincidence there was a bigger array of features in the downtown theaters than there had ever been at one time before. The Columbia showed "The Pride of the Clan," the Peoples "The Foolish Virgin," the Star "The Slave Market," the Broadway, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," Majestic, "The Price of Silence,' Sunset, "Hearts Adrift," and the Eleventh street playhouse continued with "Intolerance."

James' Broadway Claims Record.

Portland, Ore.—Edwin James, of the New Broadway, claims the record for one day's attendance in a moving picture theater in Portland. He says he showed "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" to over 9,000 people Sunday, January 7. The best previous record, said Mr. James, was at the Majestic, when "Tillie's Punctured Romance" played to 8,500 people in one day.

Esther Sundquist, who was a popular violinist at the Majestic about two years ago, is appearing at the Broadway and has more admirers than ever.

Exchange Men Callers.

Portland, Ore.—Film row was recently honored by a visit from Arthur S. Kane, Artcraft, San Francisco, and H. G. Rosebaum, his Seattle representative, arranging to place the Cohan feature.

F. C. Quimby, manager of Pathe at Seattle, was in Portland arranging some of the details of the affiliation of Internationaal with Pathe, the films coming from Seattle.

Whitcomb Moves to Winlock.

Winlock, Wash.—V. A. Whitcomb, formerly at the Electric theater, Hood River, Ore., has opened the Winlock theater, equipment being furnished by the Service Film Company of Portland. Mr. Whitcomb recently sold his interest in the Electric to his partner, Art Kolstad.

New Show for Bend.

Bend, Ore.—G. W. Shriner, who operates the Hippodrome ice rink, is arranging to use his amusement place as a picture theater part of the time. He made a trip to Portland recently regarding equipment.

Heard on Film Row.

Portland, Ore.—George Bligh, he of Salem, came through Portland en route from British Columbia, where he had acquired a new vest. It was a classy imported fuzzy affair, but alas, it was minus the green buttons.

George H. Leatherby, Pacific coast manager for Wurlitzer, was a visitor in Portland, coming recently from Idaho. He reports big business for 1916 and expects this year to exceed it.

Kendrick, Idaho.—J. H. Brown will open a new theater here. Carl V. Brown will manage it.

Portland, Ore.—Among the visiting exhibitors on film row were: Sam Harris, of Ackerman & Harris, San Francisco; A. H. McDonald, Rex, Eugene, Ore.; C. C. Ferguson, Baker theater, Newburg, Ore., and A. C. Kreiger, Hubbard, Ore.

Seattle Parent-Teacher Matinees Start

Association Wants a Children's Show Each Week in Every District of City—Lack of Funds the Great Difficulty.

By S. J. Anderson, East Seattle, Wash.

SEATTLE, WASH.—Realizing the importance of motion pictures in the education and development of children of today, the Parent-Teachers' association of Seattle plans special children's matinees in each residence section of the city every week. So far they have given these performances in only two theaters, the Queen Anne on Queen Anne hill, and the Majestic in Ballard; but this is only the second week. If the plan is as successful as it is hoped, many exhibitors beside Manager Frank Shaw of the Queen Ann theater and Managers Kastned and Jonson of the Majestic, a desire to join with the parents and teachers of the city in making the weekly matinee the event of the week.

The difficulty, it is claimed, is in getting suitable film for the program. The plan is to show the pictures in one locality one day, then in another locality the next, and so on through the week. Therefore only one or two good films are needed each week, but it is just this fact, i. e., the smallness of their order, together with the variety required, which makes trouble in dealing with the exchanges. Also the fact that the association has very limited funds makes it impossible for them to sign funds for any one service.

It seems to us that the best way to solve the difficulty is for the Parent-Teachers' Association of this city to join with that of Tacoma and all the towns in this vicinity and combine their funds, so as to make it worth some feature company's time to send East and buy films to supply proper programs for all the organizations in the combine. By extending the road show plan to the other cities and towns the children in the entire territory could see good pictures, and the shows would be presented at a minimum cost.

B. R. Latz Managing Local "U."

Seattle, Wash.—B. R. Latz arrived this week to take charge of affairs at the Seattle Universal office following the resignation of G. A. Hager.

Business Notes and Personals.

Seatle, Wash.—A. T. Lambson, of the Lambson exchange, left Seattle on January 8 for New York, where he expects to spend some weeks in looking over the field and investing in some states rights pictures. Mr. Lambson announces that he will make a specialty of pictures intended for children's programs, and that he has already arranged for the booking in this territory of all of Dittmar's animal pictures.

W. C. Chalmers and his booking agent, Mr. Coffee, who have been playing the pictures of the Pendleton round-up through the principal towns of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, spent several days in Seattle while the Pendleton round-up was running at the Colonial. Mr. Chalmers is a member of the company that made the pictures of this famous cowboy event.

Carl Stearn, K-E-S-E. manager, is spending a few days in the Spokane territory.

Fred C. Quimby, northwest manager for Pathe, is also in Spokane on business.

H. G. Rosebaum, Artcraft manager, is in Portland the second week in January, while Guy Navarre, his assistant, is covering the Spokane territory.

C. J. Kerr, manager for Metro, was in Portland last week.

M. J. Klein, manager of the Starland theater in Aberdeen, and of the Liberty in Hoquiam, was a visitor in Seattle this week, attending to the purchase of new equipment and making new bookings.

Manitoba Censors Make Misstep

Pass a Picture With Proviso That It Be Shown to Segregated Audiences Only —Social Service Workers' Club Protests That the Practice Has Proved Harmful —Ask to Have Restriction Rescinded.

By E. C. Thomas, 821 Rogers Building, Vancouver, B. C.

WINNIPEG, MAN.—A strong protest against the action of the censor appeal board of Manitoba in recommending that the Mutual feature, "Damaged Goods," be shown before segregated audiences was recently made in the form of a resolution passed unanimously at a special meeting of the Social Service Workers' Club.

The resolution declares in part: "That there is already evidence of the evil effects of this segregation; that the principle of segregating the sexes for any picture which is fit to be shown, is wrong; and that the appeal board be requested to urge that the restriction of the segregating the sexes for the balance of the showing of this picture be withdrawn forthwith, and the order-in-council making such segregation possible be rescinded."

The Social Service Workers point out that they are not raising the question as to the fitness of the picture to be shown to the public, but are taking exception to the principle of segregating the audiences as to sex, believing that such a course results in more evil than good. No action was taken by the appeal board, however, and the Bijou theater, at which the film was shown, continued its policy of setting aside certain hours for either men or women exclusively. No one under eighteen years of age was admitted at any time.

The Separate Boards.

On January 1 the new system of censoring pictures for Manitoba and Saskatchewan went into effect, and the two boards now judge the films submitted independently of one another. The Manitoba board for the present consists of J. W. Horn and Mrs. V. Patriarche. Pending the appointment of an additional member, any difference of opinion between these two will be submitted to A. Hedle-Garland, chief inspector of public amusements, who will cast the deciding vote. Charles Robson, who represented the Saskatchewan government on the former inter-provincial board, will continue as the representative of that province, passing or rejecting films without regard to the decisions of the Manitoba board.

The last film condemned in 1916 was Universal's "The Narrow Creed," on account of what the censors designated as "suggestiveness." No appeal was taken by the Universal company.

National Film to Handle Triangle.

Vancouver, B. C.—W. P. Dewees, managing director of the Rex Theater Company, and of the National Film Service, Ltd., distributors of the Triangle program in western Canada, has just returned from New York, where he made another contract with the Triangle heads, providing for the handling of these productions by the National in this territory throughout 1917. Mr. Dewees reported that trade conditions in western Canada are far from good, although somewhat better than a year ago.

In an effort to provide the best programs possible, the Rex is now using one Triangle and one Paramount each week, selecting the most desirable Triangle subject and allowing the other to lie idle.

Mr. Dewees informed the World correspondent that as a result of the action of the Manitoba military authorities in suppressing the Kay-Bee feature, "Shell 43," it is unlikely that it will be shown at all in western Canada excepting in British Columbia.

W. A. Wilkinson Sells Interest in Empress Theater.

Kamloops, B. C.—W. A. Wilkinson has recently sold out his interests in the Empress theater and the Kamlops Opera House to A. K. MacMartin, a newspaper and theatrical man with considerable experience in this line. Mr. Wilkinson, who has brought moving picture entertainment in this city up to a high standard, is not to sever his connection with the local business at once, as he will have charge of the orchestra at the Empress.

Ralph Ruffner Analyses His Year's Business

Finds Clean Pictures the Best Box Office Attractions in Spokane — Some Noteworthy Hits and Records for Attendance.

By S. Clark Patchin, E. 1811 11th Avenue, Spokane, Wash.

SPOKANE, WASH.—Clean pictures are best, and attracted the largest crowds of the last year to the Liberty theater, according to the figures given out by Ralph Ruffner, manager. The Liberty this month closes the second year of its history, and Manager Ruffner has been analyzing his figures.

The Sunday attendance record was established and broken five times in succession during the year by the following pictures, in turn: "American Aristocracy," with Douglas Fairbanks; "The Common Law," with Clara Kimball Young; "The Devil's Double," a western drama, with Will S. Hart; "The Foolish Virgin," with Clara Kimball Young, and "The Matrimaniac," with Douglas Fairbanks.

A significant thing is that Clara Kimball Young pictures, which broke the previous records twice, were shown at increased prices. "The most phenomenal engagement of the lot is 'The Matrimaniac,'" said Manager Ruffner. "Its record at the Liberty on Sunday has not been excelled by any picture."

The Liberty seats 1,061 people. Seven performances of "The Matrimaniac" were given. When the box office closed Sunday night the ticket machines showed that 7,031 people had seen the picture, almost capacity at every performance. Manager Ruffner believes this to be the biggest attendance, in one day, in any Spokane theater.

Spokane Film Notes.

Spokane, Wash.—Will Potter, manager of the Universal Film & Supply Company, has returned from a successful trip to the Poluse country, and has signed up quite a few new customers. While in Lewiston, Idaho, Mr. Potter visited I. M. Binnard, owner of several moving picture houses in Lewiston.

A. H. Hilton expects to open a new moving picture house in Lewiston, Idaho, within the next thirty days. All the moving picture men of Spokane have been invited to attend the opening.

Carl Stearn of Seattle, manager of the K. E. S. & A., has been in Spokane the past week.

H. B. Dobbs, representing the Mutual, reports business is increasing all through his territory.

"Intolerance," David Wark Griffith's latest film spectacle, will be seen in Spokane at the Auditorium theater for six days, February 6 to 11. Manager Charles York announced the booking of the picture, which is being presented in this territory by Sherman & Elliott, who presented "The Birth of a Nation" on its last appearance.

MORE SEATTLE NOTES.

Triangle Manager Resigns.

Seattle, Wash.—Ray R. Grombacher, for the past few months manager of the Triangle office in this city, has resigned, and P. N. Brinch, special representative from New York, has just arrived to take charge of affairs until a new manager arrives.

De Luxe Features Notes.

Seattle, Wash.—M. Rosenberg, manager of De Luxe Features, left New Year's night for Chicago and New York. He will pend some time at the Selig studios in Chicago, and will remain about three weeks in New York visiting the Selznick studios. He will prorably return by way of San Francisco.

B. L. Lipman, traveling representative for De Luxe, returned for the holidays from a trip through eastern Oregon and Idaho.

Vancouver, B. C.—Andrew P. Keegan, western general manager for Pathe in Canada, informs the World representative that the Pantages theater in this city has booked the newest Pathe serial, "Pearl of the Army," to follow "The Shielding Shadow." This house also ran "The Iron Claw."

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending January 27 and February 3

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 752, 754, 756, 758.)

General Film Company

Current Releases

(Serial No.)

MONDAY, JANUARY 22, 1917.

SELIG—On Italy's Firing Line (Three parts—Dr.) 21655-56-57
VITAGRAPH—The Vagabond (Drama) 21658
SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 7 (Topical) 21659

TUESDAY, JANUARY 23, 1917.

ESSANAY—What Would You Do? (Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Drama) 21660-61
KALEM—The Blundering Blacksmiths (Comedy) 21662

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 24, 1917.

ESSANAY—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 23 (Cartoon Comedy) and Alaska scenic on same reel 21663
KALEM—The Wolf of Los Alamos (No. 23 of "The Girl from 'Frisco") (Two parts—Drama) 21664-65

THURSDAY, JANUARY 25, 1917.

SELIG—Selig Tribune No. 8 (Topical) 21666
VIM—The Love Bugs (Comedy) 21667

FRIDAY, JANUARY 26, 1917.

KALEM—The Violet Ray (Episode No. 15 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama) 21668
VITAGRAPH—His Little Spirit Girl (Comedy) 21669
VIM—It's All Wrong (Comedy) 21670

SATURDAY, JANUARY 27, 1917.

ESSANAY—The Magic Mirror (No. 7 of "Is Marriage Sacred?") (Two parts—Drama) 21671-72
VITAGRAPH—The Valley of Lost Hope (Three parts—Drama) 21673-74-75
KALEM—The Railroad Claim Intrique (No. 116 of "The Hazards of Helen") (Drama) 21676
SELIG—The Luck That Jealousy Brought (Drama) 21677

General Film Company

Advance Releases

MONDAY, JANUARY 29, 1917. (Serial No.)

SELIG—Lost and Found (Two parts—Drama) 21678-79
VITAGRAPH—The Battle Hymn of the Republic (Drama) 21680
SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 9 (Topical) 21681

TUESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1917.

ESSANAY—Three Ways Out (Black Cat feature—Two parts—Drama) 21682-83
KALEM—The Safety Pin Smugglers (Comedy) 21684

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 31, 1917.

ESSANAY—Mr. Wright in Wrong (Comedy) 21685
KALEM—The Dominion of Fernandez (Episode No. 25 of "The Girl from Frisco" (Two parts—Drama) 21686-87

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1917.

SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 10 (Topical) 21688
VIM—The Other Girl (Comedy) 21689

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1917.

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE—Crossed Trail (Three parts—Drama) 21690-91-92
KALEM—The Net of Intrigue (Episode No. 16 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama) 21693
VIM—A Job for Life (Comedy) 21694
VITAGRAPH—A Lady in the Library (Comedy) 21695

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1917.

ESSANAY—Shifting Shadows (No. 8 of "Is Marriage Sacred" (Two parts—Drama) 21696-97
VITAGRAPH—The Mystery of the North Case (Two parts—Drama) 21698-99
KALEM—The Death Siding (No. 117 of "The Hazards of Helen" (Drama) 21700
SELIG—The Saddle Girth (Drama) 21701

COMPLETE AND ACCURATE LISTS of Regular Program and Feature Pictures Can Always Be Obtained from the Pages of the Moving Picture World. These are Published Two Weeks in Advance of Release Days to Enable Exhibitors to Arrange Their Coming Programs. The Stories of the Pictures in Most Cases are Published on a Like Schedule. Each Synopsis is Headed by a Cast, the Players' Names Being in Parenthesis. Lay Out Your Entertainment From the Information in the Moving Picture World and You Will Not Go Wrong.

KNOWLEDGE BRINGS SUCCESS

Messrs. Exhibitor, Exchangeman, Operator, and Film Men Everywhere:—The moving picture business is one of the youngest but one of the leading industries of the world to-day. We may well be proud to be connected with it. Are you keeping up? Do you know all about it? It will yield larger returns for an equal amount of work to the men who know. Each weekly issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD contains more up-to-date information than you can get from all other sources. Subscribe now if not already on our mailing list. You will get your paper hours earlier than from the newsstand and it costs less.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

.....
.....
.....
.....

Cut out and mail Theatre .....

General Film Service

CLEAN COMEDIES

KATE PRICE
BABE HARDY
ETHEL BURTON
IN
"The LOVE BUGS"

HARRY MYERS &
& ROSEMARY THEBY
IN
"IT'S ALL WRONG"

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending February 3 and February 10

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 752, 754, 756, 758.)

Universal Film Mfg. Company

	Serial No.
SUNDAY, JANUARY 28, 1917.
REX—The Old Toymaker (Drama)	02121
POWERS—Boomer Bills Awakening (Cartoon-Comedy), and Behind the Great Wall of China (Dorsey Educational) (Split Reel)	02122
BIG U—A Jungle Tragedy (Two parts—Drama)	02123
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 5, "Ablaze in Mid Air" (Two parts—Drama)	02124
MONDAY, JANUARY 29, 1917.
RED FEATHER—Love Aflame (Five parts—Drama)	02125
NESTOR—Why Uncle! (Comedy)	02126
TUESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1917.
GOLD SEAL—June Madness (Three parts—Drama)	02127
VICTOR—Some Baby (Novelty), and "Nellie, the Fireman's Daughter" (Comedy) (Split Reel)	02128
WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 31, 1917.
L-KO—Faking Fakirs (Two parts—Comedy)	02129
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 57 (Topical)	02130
BIG U—The Gold Lust (Drama)	02131
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1917.
VICTOR—It's Cheaper to Be Married (Comedy)	02132
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—The War Waif (Two parts—Drama)	02133
IMP—The Diamond Thieves (Drama)	02134
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1917.
IMP—The Forbidden Game (Two parts—Drama)	02135
UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—No. 6 (Topical)	02136
VICTOR—The Hero of Bunko Hill (Comedy)	02137
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1917.
BISON—The Boonton Affair (Two parts—Drama)	02138
JOKER—His Coming Out Party (Comedy)	02139
SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1917.
IMP—Diamonds of Destiny (Drama)	02140
POWERS—Mr. Fuller Pep—His Wife Goes for a Rest (Cartoon Comedy) and "In North China (Educational)	02141
REX—Life's Pendulum (Two parts—Drama)	02142
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 6 "The Silent Feud" (Two parts—Drama)	02143
MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1917.
RED FEATHER—The Scarlet Crystal (Five parts—Drama)	02144
NESTOR—His Wife's Relatives (Comedy)	02145
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1917.
GOLD SEAL—Won by Grit (Three parts—Drama)	02146
VICTOR—The Valley of Beautiful Things (Juvenile Comedy)	02147
WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1917.
L-KO—That Dawgone Dog (Two parts—Comedy)	02148
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 58 (Topical)	02149
BIG U—Red Vengeance (Drama)	02150
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1917.
REX—The Melody of Death (Two parts—Drama)	02151
POWERS—Giants of the American Forests (Educational)	02152
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1917.
IMP—Avarice (Drama)	02153
VICTOR—The High Cost of Starving (Comedy)	02154
BIG U—Title Not Yet Decided	02155
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1917.
BISON—The Outlaw and the Lady (Two parts—Drama)	02156
JOKER—Out for the Dough (Comedy)	02157
LAEMMLE—A Studio Cinderella (Drama)	02158

Mutual Film Corporation

	Serial No.
SUNDAY, JANUARY 28, 1917.
VOGUE—A Circus Cyclone (Two parts—Comedy)	05297-98
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 39 (Subjects on Reel: X-Rays in War Time; Decorative Butterflies; Salt; The Real Hula-Hula) (Mutual Film Mag.)	05299
MONDAY, JANUARY 29, 1917.
MONOGRAM—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (Episode No. 3, "Shorty Goes to College") (Two parts—Drama)	05300-01
MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—Pardners (Five parts—Drama) (No. 167)
TUESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1917.
GAUMONT—Tours Around the World, No. 13 (Subjects on Reel: Teheran, Persia; Coast Resorts of Normandy; Winter in The Vosges Mountains (Travel)	05302
WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 31, 1917.
MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 109 (Topical)	05303
GAUMONT—See America First, No. 73 (Subject: San Diego, Cal. (Scenic) and "Never Again" (Kartoon-Komic)	05304
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1917.
CUB—Jerry and His Pal (Comedy)	05305
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1917.
MUTUAL—Scouts of the Sea and Sky (No. 5 of "Uncle Sam's Defenders") (Topical)	05306
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1917.
AMERICAN—Nature's Calling (Drama)	05307
SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1917.
VOGUE—Sticky Fingers (Two parts—Comedy)	05308-09
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 40 (Subjects on Reel: Making Lace by Machinery; The "Toddle," New York's Latest Dance Craze; Raising Fresh Water Fish; Design Your Own Evening Gown (Mutual Film Magazine)	05310
MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1917.
MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—Where Love Is (Five parts—Drama) (No. 168)
MONOGRAM—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (Episode No. 4, "Shorty Goes Insane") (Two parts—Drama)	05311-12
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1917.
GAUMONT—Tours Around the World, No. 14 (Subjects on Reel: Picturesque Landscapes of Holland; The Temples of Luxor; The Rocky Coast of Dalmatia) (Travel)	05313
WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1917.
MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 110 (Topical)	05314
GAUMONT—See America First, No. 174 (Subjects on Reel: The Mississippi Coast: Gulfport, Biloxi, Pass Christian, Beavoir (Scenic), and "Old Roue Visualizes") (Kartoon Komic)	05315
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1917.
CUB—Jerry's Big Raid (Comedy)	05316
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1917.
MUTUAL—Uncle Sam's Defender Series (No. 6, "Bulldogs of the Deep") (Topical)	05317
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1917.
AMERICAN—The Old Sheriff (Drama)	05318

Stop—Examine—Investigate the Simplex

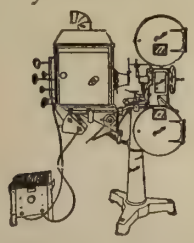
It is your DUTY before purchasing a Projector to consult mechanical and projection experts and obtain from them their unbiased opinion of the quality of materials used in its construction, the parts involved in its design, its durability and the quality of projection to be obtained therefrom.

We call your attention to a few salient features of the Simplex Projector:

Flickerless
Steadiness of Operation
Simplicity
Absolute Fireproofness
Strength
Accuracy
Durability of Construction
Low Cost of Upkeep

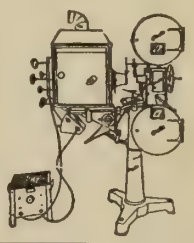
When you purchase a Simplex Projector, Mr. Exhibitor, you get Full Value for every dollar expended. It is the best machine that Money, Brains and Skill can produce and its parts are manufactured of the highest grade of materials on the most accurate machines obtainable.

These are a few of the reasons why it costs more to manufacture the Simplex Projector than any other moving picture machine on the market.



If you want Value Received—
INVEST IN A SIMPLEX.
Send for Catalog "A"

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York



"BLAZE THE TRAIL"

Is the slogan adopted by CINE MUNDIAL for 1917.

Concentrating the efforts of this organization on the fostering of American film and accessories in the

LATIN-AMERICAN FIELD

Teaching these progressing people that these United States can fulfill their needs that are dire since the European conflict.

Showing American manufacturers that this is a market worthy of their attention—one that brings a certain amount of extra revenue on each release.

Of course, you know that CINE MUNDIAL is the Spanish Edition of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD. If you are interested, address

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY
17 Madison Avenue, New York City
SPANISH DEPARTMENT

Stories of the Films

General Film Company

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE

THE ROOM OF MYSTERY—(Three parts—Jan. 19).—Florence Boyd, of the Secret Service, saves a boy from drowning. Word reaches the boy's parents that he has drowned; they rush to the beach, and delighted at Florence having saved the child's life insist upon her accompanying them home.

It is a beautiful house but with a strange atmosphere. The supposed father lacks affection and is surrounded by shrewd looking assistants. Florence reports the incident to the Secret Service and is advised that the man (Watterson), is suspected of being a spy. Watterson is struck by Florence's beauty and advertises for a governess believing she might fall into the trap.

The superintendent of the Secret Service, whose wife left him six years before, taking with her their only child, is in love with Florence, but he will not marry until he knows his wife is dead. He tells Florence to accept the position as governess. She is received with great pomp and taken into Watterson's private office, where they are disturbed by Watterson's being called out of the room. She takes advantage of the opportunity to search his desk. This was Watterson's ruse. He supposed she was a detective and informs her that she is a prisoner and that he can find use for her beauty and cleverness.

Her only means of being saved is to get word to the superintendent but every door is locked and guarded. Finally, the little boy she saved takes her message through a secret passage way which he innocently discovered, to the telegraph office. Help arrives, and examination of the house brings to light the missing wife of the superintendent who avenges betrayal on the man who would betray Florence and in so doing meets her death and makes possible the superintendent's marriage to Florence.

KALEM.

THE BLUNDERING BLACKSMITHS—(Jan. 23).—The cast: Our blacksmiths (Ham and Bud); The belle of Cobweb Corners (Ethel Teare); Hiram Hardheart (Henry Murdoch).

It is Sunday in Cobweb Corners. The ring of hammer in our hero's blacksmith shop is silent. The melody of a hymn steals out of the village church. Village belle is flirting with the simple hearted smith.

It is Monday, and the village belle is plunged in sorrow. Hiram Hardheart demands her hand in marriage. He will foreclose the mortgage. Enter the smith. Exit the villain.

Fate opens the way to pay off the mortgage. The smith challenges One Punch Murph. They fight for a purse of $1,000. The village belle in boy's clothing sits near the ring, to urge her sturdy champion on.

Round one. Saved by the bell. Round two. The blacksmith knocks out everybody, including the referee. Hardheart gets the money and the smith gets the girl.

WOLF OF LOS ALAMOS—(Episode No. 24 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Jan. 24).—The cast: Barbara Brent (Marin Sais); Ace Brent, her father (Frank Jonasson); John Wallace, Barbara's fiance (True Boardman); Jose, a Mexican vaquero (Edward Clisbee). Written by Robert Welles Ritchie. Directed by James W. Horne.

Barbara Brent and her fiance, John Wallace, are watching the punchers practising stunts. Across the ranch comes a runaway horse pulling a buggy in which is seated old man Silver, a neighboring ranchman. Barbara spurs her horse forward and lassoes the animal. As she helps Silver from his buggy a pouch falls, spilling some of its gold pieces. The money is seen by Jose, the vaquero and by Raghun, the Hindoo cook.

An hour later Silver returns to the house to get his bag of gold. He does not reappear and upon investigating it is found that he has been murdered. Near the body is Jose's kerchief. Jose has ridden away and the punchers start in pursuit of him.

Barbara finds the prints of sandals on the wet floor. Brent and Wallace search the Hindoo quarters and Barbara follows the footprints outside the window through which the murderer has entered.

She finds Rahhun rifling his shack. He locks her in, then departs. Breaking the window Barbara follows him on horseback. Raghun shoots her and in falling she rolls over a cliff but only slightly wounded finally overtakes him and returns to the ranch with her prisoner. She is just in time to save Jose's life whose confession showed that he had been sent on an errand by the Raghun who placed Jose's kerchief by the body of Silver.

THE VIOLET RAY—(Episode No. 15 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Jan. 26).—The cast: Tom Grant (George Larkin); Orloff (Harry Gordon); Dimitri, his accomplice (Robert Ellis); James Manlove (Cyril Courtney); Marjorie, his daughter (Ollie Kirkby). Written by Robert Welles Ritchie. Directed by Robert Ellis.

James Manlove, a retired naval engineer, with the aid of his daughter Marjorie, perfects his discovery of the powerful violet ray for the use of the United States government. With the announcement of his success, his laboratory is invaded by agents of a rival government, who bind the inventor and blind him with his own machine when he refuses the information they seek. Marjorie, escaping, faints in the arms of Grant, police reporter on the Chronicle, who is homeward bound through the park. Calling a taxi, Grant places the girl in it and has her left in care of his landlady while he goes to summon a doctor.

Dimitri sees Grant help the girl and returns for Orloff. They capture Marjorie and take her back to the laboratory. Marjorie's plight is seen by Grant who is just returning with the doctor. Following them Grant reaches Manlove's home but his entrance is barred. Climbing a telephone pole on the other side of the yard, Grant walks across the wires until he can swing into a third story window.

With a revolver shot he smashes the switch controlling the violet ray machine as the foreign spies are about to use it on Marjorie. Grant's story in the Chronicle creates a sensation.

THE RAILROAD CLAIM INTRIGUE—(No. 16 of "The Hazard of Helen"—Jan. 27).—The cast: Helen (Helen Gibson); Fleming (G. A. Williams); Barstow (G. A. Routh); Duncan (Richard Johnson). Directed by Walter Morton.

Barstow, a crook, conceives the idea of buying old automobiles, staging "accidents" with them, and settling with the railroad.

At the Lone Point crossing one of his machines is hit by the train and the flagman is discharged because it appears that he has been negligent.

Helen, the telegraph operator, gets a day off and starts for the hills on horseback. She meets Duncan, a railroad detective sent to investigate the increasing number of crossing accidents. Through Duncan's field glasses they see the discharged flagman set upon by Barstow and one of his associates, rendered unconscious and driven towards the Lone Point crossing.

Realizing that the fast freight is due and the crooks are planning another fake accident, Helen rides to a point ahead of the crossing. As the freight passes she leaps from the saddle and clasping her arms about a stick of lumber protruding from a car, draws herself up, dashes forward and warns the engineer just in time.

ESSANAY.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?—(Black Cat Feature—Two parts—Jan. 23).—The cast: James Martin (Richard C. Travers); Roger Blakely (Ernest Maupain); Ruth Walton (Frances Benedict).

Ruth Walton is a country girl whose ambition leads her to refuse to wed her simple but prosperous suitor, James Martin, and go to the city. She finds, however, that the pathway to fame in the city is a stony one. After losing successive positions, she is entrapped by the evil designing Roger Blakely. Her soul crushed, Ruth returns to her country home and marries "Jim." Just as happiness begins to dawn upon her, though, Blakely turns up, as a friend of her husband. What would you do, if you were Ruth? She asks that question of friends to whom she has been reading the manuscript of her first photoplay, for, instead of being a reality her plight is one she has simply conceived for the plot of her script.

CANIMATED NOOZ PICTORIAL No. 23—Jan. 24).—The first unauthentic picture of the North Pole has been camerized by Canimated Nooz. Through the brave efforts of its notably unreliable correspondent, Dr. Stew, the picture was obtained at Hundred-below, a settlement at the top of the world. The pole looks pretty much like a barber's pole. Dr. Stew enjoys the hospitality of a Polar bear and his family. The two speediest chickens in the world are seen in a race at Tapioca, Cal. "Mayzie" would have won, but she became frightened at an extremely wild flower. The jockeys wear long mustaches as eye-shields. William Jynx Bryan and Col. Tedious Roosevelt pat each other on the back at a luncheon at Oyster Bay, New York.

IS MARRIAGE SACRED?—(No. 7 "The Magic Mirror"—Two parts—Jan. 27).—The cast: Nellie Fallon (Marguerite Clayton); James Delmore (Edward Arnold); Edna Fallon (Lillian Drew); Oliver Wood (Sydney Ainsworth); Joseph Fallon (Thomas Commerford).

To make playthings of the hearts of men is Edna Fallon's one interest in life. Nellie, her sister, is different. She likes to bake bread, sew and keep their home in order. She has never had a love affair until she meets James Delmore, Edna's current beau. James is the one man whom Edna believes she should countenance as a husband, but he falls in love with Nellie.

Time passes and gradually Edna finds herself facing the dreaded spinsterhood. She has lost practically all of her admirers because of her reputation as a flirt. It is after Nellie's marriage to Jim that Edna finally agrees to marry Oliver Wood, the very man of all of her suitors whom she disliked most.

THREE WAYS OUT—("Black Cat Features" Two parts—Jan. 30).—The cast: Timothy Grogan (Harry Dunkinson); Gladys Carlock (Gertrude Glover); Samuel Carlock (John Cossar).

Gladys Carlock, the daughter of Samuel Carlock, a banker, who has speculated and lost his depositors' money, loves an Irish lad, the son of old Tim Grogan. Tim is rich but the marriage is objectionable to Carlock because the Grogans are shanty Irish. Rather than permit Gladys to wed the Grogan boy, a union which would furnish him money to make up his defalcations, Carlock decides to kill himself when in rushes his daughter, old Tim and Tim's son. The young couple have eloped and become man and wife. Old Tim sizes up the situation with Carlock in a moment, gains the confession from the banker that he was going to commit suicide, lends him the money to cover up his speculations, and brings happiness to all.

MR. WRIGHT IN WRONG—(Jan. 31).—A pretty maid, a clambake and a milk bottle put Mr. Wright in wrong. He employs the pretty maid and, because she is pretty, is more gallant towards her than Mrs. Wright thinks he should be. Complications arise when the maid is sent out with the baby to the park, and Mr. Wright goes to a clambake. The maid loses the baby's milk bottle in the park, and Mr. Wright wins a milk bottle as the booby prize at the bake. He and the maid get in at the same time, she without the milk bottle and he with one. Nobody can make Mrs. Wright believe that her spouse was not out with the maid. Trouble keeps the Wright house in wrong all night; then the next morning's papers announce that Mr. Wright won the milk bottle at the clambake. The dove of peace again perches in the Wright household.

The other half of the reel depicts beautiful western scenic.

IS MARRIAGE SACRED?—(No. 8—"Shifting Shadows"—Two parts—Feb. 3).—The cast: Julia Casey (Marguerite Clayton); John Sanderson (Edward Arnold); Nettie Arliss (Lillian Drew); Angus McDonald (Sydney Ainsworth); Patrick Casey (Thomas Comerford).

It is a case of too much money for John Sanderson. As a poor machinist he is happy, but when he perfects an invention and makes $100,000, it goes to his head. He marries Julia Casey of poor parentage, and they set out in great style. They snub Angus McDonald, Nettie Arliss and even Julia's father, Patrick, a delightful old Irishman. Then John begins to speculate in stocks. He was a good inventor but a poor speculator. He goes broke, and must again go back to work in the machine shop. But they take it cheerfully. It was a good time while it lasted. Patrick forgives their snobbery, and Angus and Nettie invite them to "stand up" for them at their marriage.

The 10th ANNIVERSARY NUMBER will be referred to for years as a guide to the progress made in this industry from 1907 to 1917. Biggest advertising value ever offered. March 10th. Advertising forms close February 23rd.

SELIG.

SELIG-TRIBUNE No. 4—(Jan. 11).

Oakland, Cal.—As a part of the New Year celebration arranged by the Chamber of Commerce, the oldest dated Christian bell in the world rings out the old year.

Red Bank, N. J.—Ice yachting marks the New Year celebration under the lee of Sandy Hook.

Boston, Mass.—Young and old alike enjoy the toboggan slide erected by the city.

Amarillo, Texas.—Ranchmen participated in a three day rabbit drive extending over 12,000 square miles.

San Francisco, Cal.—Twenty-five German prisoners from Australia arrive, enroute to Denmark for exchange.

Slidell, La.—The launching of the largest steamer ever constructed south of Newport News, marks the beginning of a new industry in this part of the South.

San Diego, Cal.—The Exposition dies here with the dawning of the New Year, after establishing a record by a continuous run of two years.

Seattle, Wash.—With Mrs. Guy E. Davis acting as sponsor, the new $500,000 U. S. submarine N-1 is launched with impressive ceremonies.

Galveston, Texas.—Grecian costumes present no terrors when worn in the mid-winter dance festival on the beach at Galveston.

Washington, D. C.—Thousands of persons enjoy the sport of skating in the nation's Capitol City.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The "Mummers" parade this year is especially noticeable for its weird costuming.

SELIG-TRIBUNE No. 5—(Jan. 15).

Columbus, Ohio.—James M. Cox is inaugurated Governor of Ohio to succeed Governor Frank B. Willis.

Paris, France.—Prince Arthur of Connaught, acting in the name of the King of England, distributes decorations to French officers and soldiers.

London, England.—Following the re-opening of the Courts of Justice, the Judges attend service at Westminster.

San Francisco, Cal.—200 Olympic Club members hike through Golden Gate Park to the beach and plunge into the waters of the Pacific.

Pasadena, Cal.—The Annual Rose Tournament, a mid-winter feature of the Pacific Coast, brings out many entries.

Springfield, Ill.—With simple but impressive ceremonies, Frank O. Lowden is inaugurated Governor of the State of Illinois, to succeed Edward F. Dunne.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The beaches furnish an excellent setting for artists of international fame, who come to rehearse forthcoming musical productions.

El Paso, Texas.—The 8th U. S. Cavalry hold their annual parade and masquerade jubilee.

Denver, Col.—Colonel William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," soldier, hunter and scout, dies here at the home of his sister. Picture shows him and brother members of the Showmen's League of America, visiting the Selig Polyscope Studios, Chicago.

Chicago, Ill.—Two youthful chimpanzees, belonging to William N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company, are photographed during a playful moment in their quarters at Lincoln Park.

DELAYED IN TRANSIT (Two Parts—Jan. 15).—The cast: Sheriff Smith (Frank Campeau); Dell Hawkins (Tom Mix); Bill Hawkins (Wm. Hutchinson); Loretta (Victoria Forde). Written by Gilson Willets. Produced by E. A. Martin.

There are three Hawkins brothers: Dell, a cowpuncher on the McCreedy ranch; Eddie, a bartender in a border town, and Bill, a miner, who for years has fruitlessly searched for gold.

Loretta, a beautiful Spanish girl, is a flirt, but she really loves Bill Hawkins.

Invitations to the wedding of Eddie Hawkins and Hortense McGish have been issued, and relatives and friends gather for the ceremony. Following the wedding, Dell Hawkins offers to bet $50 that he will have married Loretta to his brother Bill within two days.

In rivalry for Loretta, a shooting affray occurs between cowboys, and Sheriff Smith vows someone will have to pay for the death of one of the men. Loretta fears she will be implicated though she is innocent, and Dell Hawkins gives her his horse and urges her to speed to Bill's cabin in the mountains. Later Dell arrives with a parson and Bill and Loretta are married.

Dell again goes to Bill's cabin after celebrating the wedding of his brothers. He is followed by the parson, who recalls an undelivered message which arrived on Eddie's wedding night. "That telegram," says the parson to Dell, "states that an inheritance of half a million dollars goes to the Hawkins brother who remains unmarried."

"That's me," exclaims Dell.

CUPID'S TOUCHDOWN (Jan. 20).—The cast: Blondy (Jack Pickford); Polly (Clara La Moyne); Captain Jack (Scott Beal); Pickles (Sidney Smith). Written by Marjorie B. Cooke. Produced by Frank Beal.

Henry Blondy Burton, a country boy, goes to college, where he meets Polly Starr, a pretty co-ed. Blondy goes through the usual ordeals, but finally blossoms forth into a full fledged freshman.

A college prank in which Blondy disguises himself as a girl and calls upon Polly threatens to result disastrously. The faculty suspend Blondy and his boy companions for a week.

The deciding football game of the season is due. Blondy, as substitute, is given an opportunity for regular service. Polly tells him she wishes him to do his best, for to win plaudits on the football field would be to win a double victory. By a sensational play, Blondy wins the game for his team.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

BISON.

THE BOONTON AFFAIR—(Two parts—Feb. 3).—The cast: Mary Hatfield (Irene Hunt); Jack Walton (King Baggot); Bill Hatfield (Frank Smith); Jim Calahan (Jack Newton). Written and directed by King Baggot.

Mary Hatfield, a moonshiner's daughter, resents the advances of Jim, another moonshiner who determines to have revenge. Jack Walton, a revenue officer, arrives and proves a friend in need. Mary is attracted by the stranger's attentions.

Meanwhile the moonshiners see her talking to the stranger whom they believe is a revenue officer. They attack and bind him, and lock Mary in an adjoining room when she attempts to intercede for him.

Jack begs for a chance, asking that he be allowed to fight a man out in the open. They scoff at him and begin to drink heavily.

Doby, a friend, becomes suspicious and returns to town for help. Mary hears the men declare that they are going to lynch Jack. Her father, who attempts to interfere, is struck on the head with a pitcher. Then Doby "holds up" the men and frees Mary and Jack.

They discover her father badly hurt and Jack rides across the hills for a doctor.

She sees him attacked and successfully resist his pursuers. He returns with a doctor and determines, because Mary's father has been implicated, to forget his duty for once. The old man gives his daughter and Jack his blessing and declares his intention of having nothing more to do with the gang.

VICTOR.

SOME BABY—(Jan. 30).—Gertrude, a young hopeful, demonstrates her love for flowers by attempting to chew half a dozen roses. Then she proceeds to smoke a pipe, smears herself with jam and indulges in a mud-bath, which is followed by a conventional one.

NELLIE, THE FIREMAN'S DAUGHTER—(On same reel as foregoing).—Eddie, the brave fire laddie, loves Nellie, the captain's daughter. Lee, a villain, has designs on the girl. With the help of two cutthroats, he abducts her. Eddie fights his way into the villain's lair but is overpowered.

The cutthroats carry the girl away; Eddie bursts his bonds, and from the window lassoes the villain's revolver. He then shoots six blocks down the street, and each of his bullets ring the fire gong.

In the meantime, the Justice of the Peace, at the point of a revolver, is marrying the villain and the girl. The hero escapes and joins the fire department, which is speeding toward the Justice's office. The girl is rescued as the villain jumps into a cab and blows himself up with a dynamite bomb.

IT'S CHEAPER TO BE MARRIED—(Feb. 1).—The cast: Bill (Ralph McComas); Fritz (Milton Sims); Lizz (Eileen Sedgwick). Scenario by W. Warren Schoene. Produced by Allen Curtis.

Because Fritz has eaten the best of the lunch, Bill, his business partner and also a bachelor, goes to "Hash House Kate's" for a square meal. Lizz waits upon him and is smitten with Bill's appearance.

Bill reads an article in the newspaper warning the bachelors of New York that a heavy bachelor tax has been levied. Determined not to pay any such tax, Bill begins to regard Lizz with great interest. They later are married.

Fritz receives a letter informing him and Bill that their uncle has just died, and not wishing to have his money squandered, the uncle willed the entire fortune to either nephew who had the most money at the time of the reading of the will. Fritz hides the letter and determines not to tell Bill about it.

But, when he learns Bill is married, he figures that they have the most money. Fritz burns the money just as the tax collector arrives and levies a big fine because he is a bachelor.

THE HERO OF BUNKO HILL—(Feb. 2).—The cast: Bertie Bellew (Billy Musgrove); Casaga (Liane Carrera); George (Al McKinnon); Joe (Eugene Walsh).

Bertie Bellew, a leading man, is apprised by his manager that the company is almost bankrupt and that means must be devised to raise funds. George and Joe, two of the actors in the troupe, are sent out to solicit funds for old soldiers, but their real intention is to abscond with the money.

Bertie has been carrying on a mild flirtation with Casaga, who lives with a wealthy aunt. George and Joe call at her home and the aunt tearfully tells them of her only son who was a soldier. In the photo they see a strong resemblance to Bertie and persuade him to impersonate the lost son.

He visits a dentist and has his teeth removed; he has his body tattoed only to be revealed as a fraud.

UNIVERSAL.

ANIMATED WEEKLY No. 55—(Jan. 17).

Again Rules Ohio.—Unique pageant precedes second inauguration of Governor J. M. Cox after two years out of office—Columbus, Ohio.

Wouldn't be Launched—Ship held on ways two days by frozen grease, finally glides into water—Chelsea, Mass. Subtitle: Mrs. Kaja Iswald, sponsor.

Picketing the President.—Silent sentinels stand before White House to win Wilson to suffrage—Washington, D. C.

Buffalo Bill Dead.—Col. W. F. Cody, world's most famous scout and plainsman, with pet bison on his ranch—Cody, Wyoming. Subtitle: Meeting Universal officials Carl Laemmle and P. A. Powers.

Reducing High Cost of Living.—Twelve husky policemen will try three-week plan to live on meals costing 25 cents a day—New York City. Subtitle: Commissioner Woods enjoying dinner with Dr. Fisher.

Grim Relics of War.—Man-killing devices from Europe's battlefields arrive for Allied bazaar—Chicago, Ill. Subtitle: Aeroplane that saw active service.

Welcome King Snow.—State noted for flowers and sunshine also offers Winter enjoyment—Truckee, Cal. Subtitles: Clearing way for train. Enjoying battle in snow. Tobogganing. Around camp fire at night.

Where Nature Blooms Her Richest.—Millions of flowers make gorgeous floats in greatest flower carnival—Pasadena, Cal.

Snow Shoe Hikers.—100 Mountaineers on annual outing in Paradise Valley's 13 feet of snow—Rainier National Park, Wash.

East Meets West.—Visitors win Winter polo clash after cross-continent trip—Coronado, Cal.

$25,000,000 Explosion.—Animated Weekly cameraman enters death's zone when large ammunition plant takes fire—Kingsland, N. J. Subtitles: View from Hudson River, 9 miles away. Morning after the blaze. Projectiles picked up on fields.

Racing Through City Streets.—Athletes thread way among horses and autos in speed contest—San Francisco, Cal. Subtitle: Winner and second man.

Cartoons by Hy Mayer, World.

IMP.

THE DIAMOND THIEVES (Feb. 1).—There is a mysterious flooding of the American market with gems of astonishing brilliancy which alarms the Kimberly interests controlling the output. Unable, through their own efforts, to locate the source of the new stones, they secure the services of Westerly, a detective.

Westerly gets a clue on Shedah, who is always guarded by two Hindoo servants. Only through his double, disguised to represent himself, is he able to shadow Shedah to the sacred laboratory, where the alchemist manufactures the diamonds. He is found and a fight takes place. The detective is battered out of the place, as Shedah destroys the laboratory with all its secrets. They elude the detective and his assistants for some time.

Westerly traces the Hindoo party to another seaport and at length rounds them up at a fashionable ball. Again they escape. Here the Hindoos are overpowered, and again they are followed to their private yacht, here the Hindoos are overpowered and as the alchemist is about to be taken in the cutsody of the law, he slips from his pocket a small bottle of poison and drinks it. A minute later he drops to the floor dead, taking with him the secret of the manufacturing of the fake diamonds.

THE FORBIDDEN GAME (Two Parts—Feb. 2).—The cast: Frank Forsythe (Ed Hearn); Grace (Fronzie Gunn); Clax (Tom Walsh);

The largest staff of experts in all departments makes the MOVING PICTURE WORLD the one paper in the trade that fully fills the requirements of every reader.

Larry (Richard Ryan). Written by Ben Cohn. Produced by Harry Millarde.

Forsythe, a supposed wealthy jeweler, plans the operations of a band of crooks and then recuts the stones and sells them. He does not wish his sister, Grace, to whom he is devoted, to visit the tenement districts, fearing she might learn something about him. She, however, visits the slums without his knowledge and meets Larry, a reporter; when Forsythe learns of this, he forbids her seeing Larry.

Clax, the gang leader kills a banker and after a row with Forsythe, takes part of the gang and plots to "get" Forsythe. He kidnaps Grace.

Slim, one of the gang who remained with Forsythe, discovers Clax. Larry and the police, and Forsythe with his gang, attempt to rescue the girl. A fight takes place in which Clax and Forsythe are wounded, but before Clax dies he discloses Forsythe's dual life.

Forsythe, dying, exacts a promise from Larry that he will let this knowledge remain a secret from Grace. Although inconsolable for a time, Grace later finds happiness with Larry.

DIAMONDS OF DESTINY (Feb. 4).—The cast: Jane Lowe (Louise Lovely); Dan Willis (Alfred Allen); Corey Houston (Victor Rothman); Ramsey Clark (Marshall Hageman). Scenario by Ryder and Cunningham. Produced by Maxwell Ryder.

Dan Willis is the dominating mind of a band of diamond thieves. Corey Houston, an importer, purchases several wonderful gems. A fight in a saloon has resulted in an innocent chap being accused of murder of a "squealer." Drunk, he sprawls over a table while the real murderer places a revolver in his hand. Peggy tries to arouse him to make his escape, but they are discovered and taken into custody.

Jane Lowe, a crook through circumstances, learns of her brother's arrest on a murder charge, just as she determines to "go straight."

Willis pushes his advantage and she says she will steal the diamonds from Houston on condition that Paul is freed. For the purpose, Jane takes a suite in Houston's apartment. He is attacked in the park and Jane, arriving at the right moment, takes him home. A friendship ensues and Jane asks if she may bring her uncle to see the gems. As Houston is called from the room, Willis orders her to put the gems in a wine glass. Recalling her brother's plight, she obeys. Houston returns to the room and begins the search just as officers surround the house, and Jane turns over her wine glass, depositing the gems on the table cover. The fact that Willis is the murderer is discovered, and Houston, Paul and Jane find happiness together.

L-KO.

FAKING FAKERS (Two Parts—Jan. 31).—The cast: Phil (Phil Dunham); Springboard Sally (Lucille Hutton); Mabel Carryflesh (Merta Sterling); Charlie (Charles Inslee). Directed by J. Howe.

Springboard Sally and Mabel Carryflesh pull all the sightseers to their sideshow. Phil and Charlie, in love with Sally, are in despair when they hit upon a plan to try to get her into their booth. They make love to her until Phil opens and reads a telegram addressed to Sally. In it Takeing Ways, attorney-at-law, informs the diver that she is the heiress to $50,000, left by her aunt.

To steer Charlie from her, Phil hits on the plan to rewrite the telegram, making Miss Carryflesh the heiress, and when Charlie sees this, sure enough, straightway to Rev. Dr. Jones does he and the weighty one march. When he discovers that Sally is the heiress, he hates Phil.

Sally, informed of her legacy, takes a satchel all filled with greenbacks over to her husband's tent, Phil following and receiving a surprise on learning that she is already wed. Consternation follows when he grabs the money and runs away. The entire outfit of side-shows give chase. Phil succumbs when the valise with the coin is taken from him by Sally, and she pins a rose upon his chest as he reclines in peace in the amusement park.

JOKER.

HIS COMING-OUT PARTY (Feb. 3).—The cast: Gale (Gale Henry); Bill (William Franey); Milt (Milburn Morantl); Lillian (Lillian Peacock). Written by Karl Coolidge. Produced by W. W. Beaudine.

Gale objects to having her husband, Bill, play cards, and when Milt calls and wants Bill to take a walk with him, she protests.

Bill, with a royal flush tucked in his vest pocket, pretends he is sleepy, and that after he has his bath he is going to bed. But he manages to conceal his clothes under his bathrobe, puts them on and departs.

Lillian, Milt's wife, tells Gale that Milt spends all his time gambling, and Gale suggests that they cure him. They do, after various experiences in which the tables are turned.

NESTOR.

WHY, UNCLE! (Jan. 29).—The cast: Harry (Eddie Lyons); His Uncle (Fred Gamble); Milton (Lee Moran); Lizette (Priscilla Dean). Scenario by Charles J. Wilson, Jr. Produced by Louis Chaudet.

Harry and his uncle have awful headaches "the morning after." Uncle receives a telegram that his nephew Milton, whom his mother describes as an angel, is coming to visit them.

However, Milton is just finishing a very interesting game of poker. On his way to his compartment he meets and flirts with Lizette of the Follies, and she asks him to call. Milton, who imagines his uncle and cousin are of the angelic type, prepares to meet them on their own ground.

Complications arise when each keeps up his "role," a climax being reached when "uncle" is discovered at supper with three blonde beauties.

BIG U.

THE GOLD LUST (Jan. 31).—Two miners come across a hut where a man has been [illegible] by his partner, a half-breed, and is dying. He tells them where they can find gold. Jim wishes to get all the gold for [illegible]. So he attempts to poison the other man by filling his bottle with poisoned water.

After strolling away from camp he realizes what he has done, and starts back to try and save his partner. Upon his arrival he finds that the bottle has been broken in a fight with the half-breed. He says nothing, but works fifty-fifty ever after.

POWERS.

IN NORTH CHINA, AS SEEN BY DR. DORSEY (Feb. 4).—With Dr. Dorsey, another trip to China is taken, showing the caravan from Mongolia, the Chinese at work, their street vocations, an outdoor barber and a boy shoemaker. Other interesting views showing the shoeing of a mule, the making of willow chairs, the making of joss-sticks, rope-making, peddling coal, baking sweet potatoes and a real candy cart make the film of unusual interest.

MR. FULLER PEP—HIS WIFE GOES FOR A REST (Cartoon Comedy—on Same Reel as Foregoing).—Mr. Fuller Pep has every intention of obeying wife when she goes to the country on a vacation, but he decides that a flivver will bring him the very best of company. And it does—also mild and varied flirtations and lots of experience. Result—a sadder but wiser hubby.

UNIVERSAL.

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—(No. 6—Feb. 2).—This issue begins with the making of Old Glory, and shows every step in the process as it is conducted at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Here the flags which are used in our navy are made. The stripes are cut, sewn together by machine, the union added to the corner, the stars cut out by another machine, and stitched in place. Lastly, the flag is pressed and the rope and canvas heading added. Then the completed banner is hoisted.

Next comes a trip through the residence section of the city of New York, showing the homes of some of America's most famous sons, such as Charles Schwab, the steel baron; Henry Frick, the steel magnate, and many others.

Beauty hints come next, posed by Catherine Calvert. She illustrates the care of the hair. Egg inspection by the New York City Department of Health makes a timely subject. The process of candling eggs is shown, and many other interesting views of the preservation of the egg.

Animated sculpture, one of the greatest art novelties of the screen, the work of Willie Hopkins, closes this issue. We see the Evolution of Eve in clay, from the celebrated lady of the Garden of Eden, to the present siren of the beach.

GOLD SEAL.

JUNE MADNESS (Three Parts—Jan. 30).—The cast: Jay Sax (Roy Stewart); Martin Bellman (Wadsworth Harris); Lem Barlow (Frank Brownlee); June, his daughter (Gypsy Hart); Tom Coast (Lloyd Whitlock). Written by Willis Woods. Produced by Hobart Henley.

Jay Sax, junior member of the firm of Sax & Bellman, is a woman hater. At his office he finds a letter from a man in the west asking if someone connected with the firm could go west to investigate his gold mine. Sax and his partner laugh at this, as they are in the habit of getting letters of this sort.

Later in the morning Sax's chum calls and insists that Sax act as best man at his wedding. In vain Sax hunts for an excuse, but after his friend goes, he gets the idea that there might be something in that western gold mine. He tells his partner that he will be gone a month. Bellman has read of a woman bandit in the vicinity where Sax intends to go, and warns the latter to be careful.

Sax arrives, and, being thirsty, he goes into the saloon. Tom, engaged to Barlow's daughter, is standing at the bar and notices the size of the roll with which Sax pays for his drink. Sax secures a horse and starts for the Barlow ranch. In a lonely part of the trail a woman holds Sax up and takes all his valuables away, among them being a ring.

Tom tells June that they must be married the next day. Then he slips the ring that he took from Sax, on her finger. Sax reaches the Barlow place. After he has told June and her father about the hold-up, the latter suggests that they visit the mine. That evening Sax sees his ring on June's finger, and demands to know where she got it. June realizes that if she tells the truth she will betray Tom, but before she has time to reply Sax accuses her of being the female bandit. Sax asks Barlow if he will lend him the money to get back to town. Barlow orders a horse for Sax. June, in the meantime, has gone into the house, written a note, left the back way with a gun concealed in her skirt and given the note addressed to Tom, to one of the punchers.

Sax bids Barlow good-by. As he passes the place where the hold-up occurred he again is held up by a female bandit. This time she makes him dismount and, covering him with a gun, tells him that he must stay there all night. In town Tom receives the note. He is playing cards and is forced to deal another hand before he can escape. One of the men present discovers that he is cheating and also finds the note and reads it aloud. They realize that Tom is the female bandit and he is arrested. June released Sax, but he has not gone far before he finds that he cannot go on without her, so he turns back and takes her in his arms.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

THE WAR WAIF (Two Parts—Feb. 1).—The cast: Colonel Daw (Allan Holubar); Mrs. Daw (Irene Hunt); Zoe (Zoe Rae); the boy (Eugene Walsh); nurse (Nellie Allen); grandmother (Nanine Wright); butler (George Pearce). Scenario by Male Havey. Produced by Allan Holubar.

Colonel Daw, a hero of the Boer war, regrets his uselessness in his country's present need. Crippled and living a lonely life in the country, while his young wife seeks the pleasures of the city, he becomes cynical.

Through the request of one Red Cross service, he turns his home into a hospital for the wounded soldiers. Among them are two Frenchmen, Francas and a boy, who appear to be great friends. Francas tells Colonel Daw how his wife died when their babe was tiny and how the aged grandmother had since cared for the child. Then he recited the story told by the boy, who had tried to escape with the baby when the grandmother was killed, but while going in search of food, had lost the little one. Breaking down, Francas begs Colonel Daw to find his child and protect her.

As he sits by the fire, gazing at the baby face of the picture given him, Colonel Daw falls asleep and dreams of the coming of Zoe, the lost infant. Suddenly awaking, he sees his wife leading a small girl by the hand. He immediately recognizes the little waif as the child of Francas. She had been brought from France by the nurses and was found by his wife at the station amid a lot of luggage.

It is Christmas Eve. Francas has recuperated since seeing his baby. The Christmas tree is gayly decorated and Zoe distributes the presents to the soldiers and nurses, while Colonel Daw sits with his arm about his wife. Wistfully she is telling him that the child has awakened her love and that she is going to stay with him to try to make up for her past neglect.

THE PURPLE MASK (Episode 6, "The Silent Feud"—Two parts—Feb. 4).—The cast: Patricia Montez (Grace Cunard); Detective Paul Kelly (Francis Ford); Mrs. Van Nuys (Jean Hathaway); Silk Donahue (John Duffy); Pete Bartlett (Pete Gerald); Bull Sanderson (Jerry Ash); Stephen Dupont (John Featherstone); Jacques, the butler (Mario Biannchi).

The aeroplane had fallen into a tree, so its

RESERVE YOUR SPACE
For
TENTH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER
Last forms close Feb. 23rd.

occupants were able to make their way to the ground before they were seriously burned. Farmers, attracted by the glare, come to the rescue of Phil Kelly and Pat. The pilot returns on foot to the hangar. In a few hours Pat and Kelly are able to return to their individual homes in Paris.

After an interval of quiet they meet in the small principality of Dufrane where King Fergus has aroused the displeasure of his subjects through his determination to thwart the wishes of his late queen, who had bequeathed a valuable necklace to be sold and the proceeds distributed among the poor. The king decided to keep the money. He brought Phil Kelly to fathom plots against the throne. Prince Angus covets the jewels and plots to secure them, while Duke Hesta, a friend of the people desiring the queen's will, obeyed. He organizes a league and Pat is brought from Paris to secure the jewels and see that they are disposed of as the queen had willed. Duke Hesta tells Pat the combination to the king's safe and she obtains entrance to the library, secures the jewels and takes them to a diamond merchant who has declared himself ready to pay cash for the gems immediately they are brought to him. Pat goes to the meeting place of the league and turns the proceeds into the treasury. She then goes to the palace to secure her passports and in the library is confronted by the king, who has discovered the robbery, and by Phil Kelly, who realizes that he has been once more baffled by the girl.

Mutual FilmCorporation

GAUMONT.

REEL LIFE, NO. 40 (Feb. 4).—The first "article" in this issue shows how lace is made by machinery. Every woman will appreciate this instructive exposition of a great industry. The entire process is shown from the time an artist sketches a pattern until the manufactured product is ready for shipment. The patterns are perforated on long strips of cardboard which guide the machine. The lace is finished by hand, and then pressed, starched and dried on long tables. The machines are shown in operation.

G. Hepburn Wilson, the inventor of the "Toddle," the dance of the season, illustrates it himself for "Reel Life" spectators. Mr. Wilson is head of the Inner Circle, the national dancing association.

"Raising Fresh Water Fish" shows how the fry are hatched and transported. Many of the pictures were taken in California, showing how the Fish and Game Commission plants eighteen million trout in mountain streams.

The fourth section of this reel shows how a fashionable evening gown is designed.

TOURS AROUND THE WORLD, NO. 14 (Feb. 6).—Three picturesque series of views are shown in Gaumont's "Tours Around the World," No. 14. These are "Picturesque Landscapes of Holland," "The Temples of Luxor, Egypt," and "The Rocky Coast of Dalmatia."

The Holland views are not of any particular locality, the editor of the reel preferring to show characteristic scenes that typify the entire country. There are pictures of houses built on piles, for fear the sea will break through the dykes, windmills with great canvas wings, meadow lands where sheep graze, canals laden with water craft, and peasants in their native garb. One-fourth of Holland is below sea-level. These pictures supplement pictures of Amsterdam shown in "Tours Around the World," No. 3.

"The Temples of Luxor" afford glimpses of a vanished civilization that is still giving up its secrets as the shifting sands of the desert disclose monuments of the past. Biblical students will appreciate these pictures of the grandeur of Egypt fourteen centuries before the birth of Christ. The temple of Medinet-Habu is shown from several points of vantage, even the inscriptions upon the walls being pictured. There are also pictures of the Temple of Stehos I, the Temple of Deirel-Bahri, and statues of Rameses II and Memnon.

Now that the Allies have promised Dalmatia to Italy, this dependency of Austria comes into prominence in the world's news. Answering the demand made upon it for information, the Gaumont Company now puts out pictures of Dalmatia's rocky coast with a panorama of the port of Gravosa.

SEE AMERICA FIRST, NO. 74 (Feb. 7).—The beautiful scenery that accounts for so much of the charm of the Gulf of Mexico is adequately pictured in Gaumont's "See America First," No. 74, a release devoted to "The Mississippi Coast." These pictures show the principal points of interest at Pass Christian, Gulfport, Biloxi and Beauvoir. These towns give an excellent idea of life in the state which is so hospitably southern and historically interesting.

At Pass Christian are pictured the home of John M. Parker, Progressive candidate for Vice-President last year, the beautiful Beach Shell Road along the coast, and the Herndon cottage which is occupied by President Wilson when he winters in the south. Gulfport offers views of its beautiful resort hotel, its country club, and thousands of feet of yellow pine, for Gulfport is one of the largest shipping points in the world for this lumber.

Beauvoir is notable for its echoes of the Confederacy. First in importance in the pictures is the home of Jefferson Davis. Hither he retired after the war to write the history of the Lost Cause. There is also a Confederate Soldiers' Home. Biloxi is commercially the most important town on the Mississippi coast. The pictures show the Bay of Biloxi, Howard and Benarchy avenues, as well as typical scenes near the city.

On the same reel is a Gaumont Kartoon Komic, animated for the screen by Harry Palmer. It is called "Old Roue Visualizes." The story deals in humorous fashion with the desires of a man who has lived life to the full to change with various animals which come to mind. Their peculiar antics always cause him to change his mind.

MUTUAL.

MUTUAL WEEKLY, NO. 108 (Jan. 24).

Philadelphia, Pa.—"Piano Marathon" is latest sport. Endurance test for continuous playing lasts 65 hours and 7 minutes.

Marblehead, Mass.—Hydroplane built to control torpedo by wireless has first test.

Brocton, Mass.—Inaugural shoes for President Wilson. Making the shoes which he will wear when he takes the oath of office on March 4th.

Washington, D. C.—M. Ljoubomir Michaelovitch (on left). First Serbian Minister to the United States.

Kingsland, N. J.—Munition plant blows up. Shakes six states. Four million dollars' loss. Subtitle: The streets of this little village resemble a European battlefield.

Washington, D. C.—Suffragists "picket" the White House. The President is reminded daily that women would vote.

New London, Conn.—The Spanish submarine Isaac Paral. Passing through Cape Cod Canal. Will load munitions here.

New York City.—Pontine Coat designed and made by Royant of Paris. Hat of same material. Subtitles: Posed exclusively for the Mutual Weekly by Miss Sybil Carmen of The Midnight Frolic. Bag carried on walking stick to give parasol effect. The bag of Pontine to match hat and coat. Hosettes are the latest novelty for walking, beach and boudoir. (Courtesy Aristo Hosiery Co., Inc., N. Y.)

New York City.—What the men will wear. (Courtesy Nat Lewis, haberdasher, New York.) Subtitles: Walking suit, black and white English stripe trowsers, white flannel waist coat; Oxford grey cutaway coat. Motor coat and cap to match. Mustard colored unfinished worsted box pleat in back.

A field postoffice. Handling Tommy Atkins' mail at the front.

New York City.—A dog chauffeur. Trained collie drives an automobile through city traffic.

New York city.—Traveling at 500 miles an hour a possibility. Chicago may become a suburb of New York. Congress of scientists discuss plan.

Dewey funeral.

San Francisco, Cal.—Forest rangers entertained by city firemen. Woodsmen see how city fires are fought.

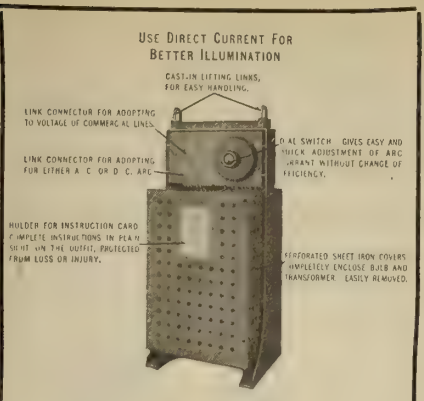
Stevens Point, Wis.—Almost plunged into frozen river. Engineer killed.

Ranier National Park.—"Mountaineer" Club enjoys hike. Twelve feet of snow covers Paradise Valley.

CUB.

JERRY AND HIS PAL—(Feb. 1).—The cast: Jerry (George Ovey); His pal (The Elephant); His father (Jefferson Osborne); His sister (Goldie Coldwell); His landlord (George George). Produced by Milton H. Fahrney.

Jerry's family is in dire straits. His mother is sick, rent is due and there is no money to meet current debts. Father works but refuses to support his family, and spends all his earn-



USE DIRECT CURRENT FOR BETTER ILLUMINATION
CAST-IN LIFTING LINKS, FOR EASY HANDLING.
LINK CONNECTOR FOR ADOPTING TO VOLTAGE OF COMMERCIAL LINES.
LINK CONNECTOR FOR ADOPTING FOR EITHER A. C. OR D. C. ARC.
HOLDER FOR INSTRUCTION CARD COMPLETE INSTRUCTIONS IN PLAIN SIGHT ON THE OUTFIT, PROTECTED FROM LOSS OR INJURY.
D.P.D.T. SWITCH GIVES EASY AND QUICK ADJUSTMENT OF ARC CURRENT WITHOUT CHANGE OF EFFICIENCY.
PERFORATED SHEET IRON COVERS COMPLETELY ENCLOSE BULB AND TRANSFORMER. EASILY REMOVED.

Steadier Light

The alternations of the current in an alternating-current arc cause the light to flicker. This flickering is made more noticeable on the screen if the shutter is not operating properly, causing fatigue to the patrons' eyes and making them dissatisfied. The current in a direct-current arc flows continuously in the same direction so that its light is steady and restful.

If your electric service is only alternating current, a will convert it into the direct current you need. These outfits are automatic, they regulate the current to produce the steady pictures your patrons like so well. Write for folder 4205-C for more particulars.

Westinghouse-Cooper Hewitt Rectifier Outfit

Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co.

East Pittsburgh, Pa.

JUST OFF THE PRESS

LOUIS REEVES HARRISON'S

SCREENCRAFT

or the Making of a Photoplay.
A University Education on the Subject.

$2.00 Postage Paid. Order from nearest office

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Avenue, New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angles, Cal.

ings at the saloon. Jerry and his sister decide that both shall go to the saloon and bring father back, leaving their infant brother in charge of Jerry's pet elephant as the nurse.

Father refuses to listen, so Jerry hits upon a new plan. He takes the elephant to the saloon. The occupants scatter and the elephant starts on a course of destruction, ending by picking up the cash register and carrying it home.

Father, who has preceded Jerry, begs forgiveness, and receives it upon condition that he promise never to drink again. With the money in the cash register Jerry pays the doctor and the landlord and buys a sumptuous repast, of which all, including the elephant, partake with relish.

VOGUE.

A CIRCUS CYCLONE—(Jan. 28).—The cast: The artist (Ben Turpin); The girl (Gypsy Abbot); Baron Moon (Arthur Moon); Jasbo, the dog faced boy (Paddy McGuire).

Ben, a struggling artist, is in love with the daughter of a wealthy widow. He is thrown out by the girl's mother and Baron Moon, a fake baron, is received royally. Ben discovers Moon is a janitor in a side show next to the concession where Paddy, as "Jasbo," the dog faced boy, works. Paddy quits his job and gets one as a model with the living models. Ben puts in a one-man circus and breaks up Paddy's show by letting loose a bunch of rats; then Paddy breaks up Ben's show, by squirting water all over everyone. The baron steals a necklace from Gypsy's mother and is finally caught. Then the mother gives Gypsy to Ben.

STICKY FINGERS (Two Parts—Feb. 4).—The cast: The boys (Paddy McQuire and Billy Mason); the girl (Lillian Hamilton); the boys' fathers Larry Bowes and Harry Huckins); the detectives (Geo. Monberg and Glenn Gano).

Two college boys, finding their funds low, meet a young girl and manage to "borrow" fifty dollars from her purse, without her knowing it. The theft is reported and the next day the boys write their fathers, asking them for money. The boys borrow fifty dollars from a pawnbroker and manage to slip it back into the girl's purse. The fathers of the boys arrive and are arrested as the thieves. The girl, however, gets the real thieves and they all meet at the police station. Here the girl finds her money is all intact and the matter is thought to be cleared up when the pawnbroker comes on the scene and demands his fifty. A chase follows and the boys are finally caught.

AMERICAN.

NATURE'S CALLING (Feb. 3).—The cast: Jack (J. Warren Kerrigan); his mother (Louise Lester); his sweetheart (Pauline Bush).

Jack, a young Easterner, goes West for his health. Here he and his mother get to love the country and the boy sends for his sweetheart. At first the girl is fascinated with the country and has great times exploring the surrounding mountains with Jack. He proposes to her and she accepts him. Later the West begins to pall on the girl, and she longs for society and New York. Finally, unable to stand it any longer, she tells Jack that she must go home and begs him to return to civilization with her. Jack refuses, feeling the call of nature, so he sends the girl home and remains with his mother.

March 10th

IS THE DATE OF THE

TENTH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER

Last forms close Feb. 23rd.

SAVE 50%

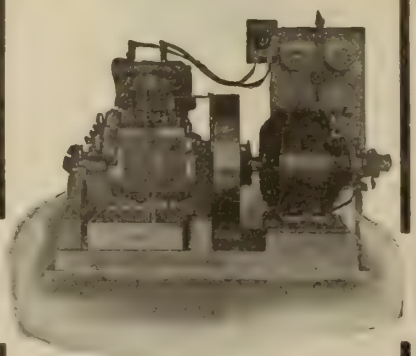
BUY OUR OLD

Used once under glass—A1 Condition. Can furnish subjects year old. POSTERS

SCHAEFER THEATRE CO.

5 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

What's the Use?



4 Kilowatt Direct-Connected Outfit

What's the use, Mr. Traveling Showman, in carting around several tons of antique engine and electrical apparatus for making electric current, when you can buy a

Brush Electric Lighting Set

Just sit down and write for our Catalogue. It tells the whole story, and what it tells is SO.

The Chas. A. Strelinger Co.

Box MP-2

Detroit, Michigan, U. S. A.

MONOGRAM.

SHORTY GOES TO COLLEGE (Third of "The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton"—Two Parts—Jan. 29).—Ralph, the son of the boss of the ranch, home on a vacation, sees in "Shorty" the makings of a fine addition to the college football team. He offers the fellow a free education if he will go to college to try for the team. Shorty, anxious to do everything in his power to get on an even footing with Anita, consents, and so leaves for college. He makes the team and is the hero of the hour.

Ruth Estey, the daughter of the dean of the university, sees in Shorty her ideal and manages to meet him. One of the college professors is in love with the girl, and is jealous of Shorty. Ruth is a somnambulist and is seen by Shorty hiding some diamonds. Shorty, to avert suspicions, takes them and is seen by the professor. Anita Keller is called in to track the thief and finally is forced to arrest Shorty. Ruth confesses her somnambulistic tendencies, however, and Shorty is cleared. Anita, thinking Shorty is in love with Ruth, congratulates him, but when he tells her it is she he loves she laughs at him.

MUTUAL.

SCOUTS OF THE SEA AND SKY (No. 5 of "Uncle Sam's Defenders"—Feb. 2).—This chapter contains interesting views of the guiding and propelling mechanism of the twenty-two-inch torpedoes, the aviation corps at Pensacola, Florida, showing the latest type of bi-planes and a trip over Pensacola in a Curtiss "Flying Fish." There are also scenes of U. S. submarines in maneuvres.

Feature Subjects

BLUEBIRD FEATURES, INC.

THE DEVIL'S PAY DAY (Five Parts—Jan. 29).—The cast: Gregory Van Houten (Franklyn Farnum); Jean Haskins (Leah Baird); Hazel Davidson (Gertrude Aster); James Hanley (Charles Perley); Mrs. Haskins (Countess Du Cello); Mr. Haskins (Seymour Hastings). Scenario written by Fred Mynton. Directed by William Worthington.

When Gregory Van Houten went to the country to recuperate he intended to remain only a few weeks and then return to plunge into the swirl of city gayeties. But when Van Houten returned he brought with him a country-girl wife and set upon himself the seal of new duties and obligations.

Jean Haskins was the daughter of Farmer Haskins who owned the place where Van Houten boarded. She was a simple child of nature, trustful and devoted to the new ideals of happiness that Van Houten brought into her young life. Farmer Haskins warned the young folks that they were storing trouble for themselves in marrying; he told them that their lives had been so different that they would eventually find that they could not continue happily. They, nevertheless, were married, and the Van Houtens returned to town happy. At the first social function the Van Houtens attended Gregory realized that his wife had not been prepared for the butterfly life.

One of Gregory's club friends, James Hanley, saw in the young bride a conquest. His attentions to Jean soon centered Gregory's suspicions upon them, Gregory, meanwhile, turning to a woman in his own set for companionship. Upon an incident that looked worse than it really was, Gregory based cause for a divorce and won his case. Then he married the other woman, a society butterfly.

The shock changed Jean's good and wholesome nature completely—she turned into a viper, bent upon revenging herself upon the man who had violated his obligation and made a mockery of her love. Hanley gained his point, but in possessing himself of Jean gained more of companionship than her love as recompense.

The years passed before Gregory and Jean again met—and then Jean's beauty fired his heart with desire. Jean connived to reap her vengeance.

When Hanley was called away Jean refused to accompany him, setting up as an excuse that a few months' separation would lead them to a better understanding of their position. Gregory takes advantage of a free field and Jean coyly leads him on. Gregory neglected the wife he married when he divorced Jean and turned all his attentions to Jean. Suddenly Hanley appeared upon the scene—and Jean made a way to a greater revenge than she had ever planned.

ADVANCED PROJECTION OF INTOLERANCE

D. W. GRIFFITH'S COLOSSAL SPECTACLE at the LIBERTY THEATRE, NEW YORK, introduces NEW IDEAS in the ART of PROJECTION. The WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS are equipped with SPECIAL SPEED CONTROLS and TIME REGISTERING DEVICES so that the Musical Director has absolute control of the SPEED, thereby SYNCHRONIZING the MUSIC perfectly with the PICTURE. For the WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS equipped with TIME REGISTERING Devices and Perfect Arc Control Rheostats, consult the Exclusive Distributor

B. F. PORTER, 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK

The men engaged in a personal encounter and when Hanley seemed to be getting the better of the fight, Jean fired a revolver at the struggling forms and killed Hanley. The sudden outcome of the combat benumbed Gregory's senses. Jean placed the revolver in his hand just as the police entered and they found Gregory bending over the prostrate form of his rival. In the trial that ensued Jean swore that Gregory fired the shot, and her vengeance is almost completed by the verdict of the jury that Gregory was guilty of deliberate murder.

But when the court guard goes to bring the prisoner to hear his doom, they find him dead upon the cot of his cell and Jean is left to contemplate the sad ending of her youthful romance.

UNITY SALES CORP.

GLORY (Six Parts—January).—The cast: Glory Glory (Juanita Hansen); Louis Bohn (Wm. Kolb); Mike Plotts (Max Dill); June (May Cloy); James Strong (Wellington Playter); Tom Strong (Alan Forest); Richard Graham (Wm. Lampe); Glory, the child (Doris Baker).

The story opens in the office of an oil company. The president received a letter from a friend notifying him there is oil in the town of Glory. He forms a dummy railroad company and sends a representative to Glory to get rights to the property by promising that the dummy company will establish a station at Glory.

While getting the rights to the property, the oil representative goes through what he supposes a fake marriage with the postmistress of the village.

Time passes and the postmistress leaves the village for a neighboring town, where she gives birth to a child. Unable to support the child, she brings the baby to the village hotel run by two Germans, and, under cover of darkness, leaves the baby there. The baby is adopted by the village, named Glory Glory, and brought up by the two Germans.

In the meantime the mother has made her way to the city and drops from exhaustion in front of the president of the oil company's house, when she is picked up and carried in. Upon examination by the doctor he finds the fall has caused her to lose her memory. The president is a widower and upon the woman's recovery decides to have her stay as governess and bring up his young son.

Several years pass by and both Glory and the president's son are grown up. They accidently meet and fall in love. The oil company decides to take possession of the property at Glory and then a fight ensues, the son taking sides with the girl he loves and her people.

During the lapse of years the man who put through the original deal for the oil company and who married the postmistress has risen to be a judge. The case is brought before him and he dismissed the charges of the citizens of Glory. The son decides to assist and steals the papers relative to the case. The judge and president of the company finally decide to make restitution. The marriage is found to be legal. The people get the oil property back, and Glory is happy with her sweetheart.

WORLD-PICTURES.

TILLIE WAKES UP (Peerless—Five Parts—Jan. 29).—The cast: Tillie Tinkelpaw (Marie Dressler); Mr. Pipkins (Johnny Hines); Henry Tinkelpaw (Frank Beamish); Mrs. Luella Pipkins (Ruby de Remer); Mrs. Nosey (Ruth Barrett); Mr. Nosey (Jack Brown). Scenario written by Frances Marion. Directed by Harry Davenport.

On the third floor of the apartment house at 003 Findlet avenue lived Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tinkelpaw. The neighbors said it was a shame the way he neglected his poor wife, but Tillie's averdupois seemed to belie the rumor.

Directly above lived the Pipkins. In this case, however, it was the young wife whose numerous clubs called her frequently from her fireside, affording gossip for the neighbors. However, unmindful of the discussion of their affairs, Tillie continued to cook dainty dishes for her unappreciative husband, while Luella Pipkin found fault with everything her meek husband did to please her.

For several weeks it happened that Tinkelpaw and Luella would accidentally meet at the door, and naturally would walk down the street together. However, on one occasion where Mr. Tinkelpaw had been less appreciative than usual, and departed leaving Tillie in tears, she went to the window, hoping he might relent and throw her a kiss. At the same time Luella was out of sorts on account of having lost at bridge, and when she left, Pipkin also went to the window to see if she had really gone.

What they saw affected them like a cold plunge. Both of them wrote to their faithless mates informing them that all was over; and on starting out into the world met in the hallway. Each recognized in the other a kindred soul; so linking arms, they set forth.

On Luella's return she found the note, and frantically started in search of her husband. Tinkelpaw had also found a similar communication; so together they left in search of the truants.

After following a devious trail they came upon them as they were attempting to use a photographer's automobile as an ocean liner As the bedraggled Tillie is enfolded in her repentant husband's arms she winks slyly at Pipkin who is being fondled by a much chastened Luella.

FOX FILM CORP.

THE PRIMITIVE CALL (Five parts—Jan. 22).—The cast: Betty Malcolm (Gladys Coburn); Brain Elkhorn (Fritz Leiber); Bart Jennings (John Webb Nillion); Percy Malcolm (George Alan Larkin); John Malcolm (Lewis Sealy); Elsie Jennings (Velma Whitman); Buttons Jennings (Kittens Reichert). Written and directed by Bertram Bracken.

Betty Malcolm meets Brain Elkhorn, an Indian, at a reception. Brain's father, Chief Elkhorn, is carrying on negotiations with Betty's father, John Malcolm, through the white man's agent in the West, Bart Jennings. At the reception, Brain sees one of the guests substitute a paste necklace for the diamond one that Betty wears, and he forces the man to give up his prize. When he returns the real necklace to Betty without explanation, she thinks that he took the ornament.

A few days later Betty goes on a yachting party with friends. While she is holding Brain up to ridicule, by mimicking the native Indian dances, she toppies over in the water. Brain rescues her.

Meanwhile, Jennings' affairs in the West are not prospering. He cannot induce the old chief to sign the contract until his son, Brain, returns, and passes an opinion on it. So Brain is called West. Betty and her brother, Percy, follow him on the next train; the girl has resolved that she will force the Indians to sign the contract by using her wiles on Brain.

The beginning is successful. She pretends to be thrown from her horse when she sees Brain near by, and he picks her up and brings her safely to the Jennings cottage. Later he rescues the Jennings baby as it falls over a cliff. His repeated acts of heroism make Betty respect and admire him. But she keeps intent on her purpose.

Betty finally induces Brain to recommend the signing of the contract. Then, her end accomplished, she laughs at his protestations of love, and tells him how she has purposely blinded him. He goes to his camp, and tells the assembled leaders that he has betrayed them.

They ostracize him from the tribe, and plan to get back the contract they have been deluded into signing. They approach Jennings' house, and find his little daughter playing in the forest near by. They kidnap the child, and make off with her, meanwhile despatching an Indian message to the white man to tell him what they are doing.

The spirit of revenge now conquers Brain, and he decides that he must make the girl pay for her crime against him. He comes upon her one day as she is rounding a hill, captures her, and takes her off to a mountain retreat.

Jennings and his followers begin a search for the baby. They overtake the Indians and parley with them. The result is that the land agreement is settled, the child is returned to her parents, and the white men start in search of Betty.

Betty has been made to live in typical Indian fashion. She has her own wigwam, and she is forced to do the chores about the en-

WANTED TO BUY

New and used 3, 4 and 5 reel features.

Will entertain offers for exclusive productions for Southern States on percentage. I solicit agency for the South for first-class motion picture accessories.

J. P. MATTHIESSEN
Room 10, Moore Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

FAC-SIMILE PAINTING

in a beautiful gilt 3-inch width frame—size over all 25x22 inches. Pictures are painted in oils and water colors of every popular player, all made from poses to appropriately fit this style of frame. Complete with brass name plate .....$5.00 each

New Colored Catalogue Now Ready

New Colored Catalogue Now Ready

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES

Size 22x28 inches. Every prominent player .....75c. each

FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $2.50 to $35 framed. Quotations submitted on any size, framed or unframed.

THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.00 per thousand, of over 600 players. Made by a process that has the appearance of a real photograph. The indispensable article for your mailing list.

PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8x10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11x14, all the prominent players, 20c.; in aluminum frames, 50c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, including stars from the stage, $10 per thousand.

SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 40c. each.

KRAUS MFG. CO.

220 West 42nd Street, NEW YORK
12th Floor, Candler Building

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples, free. Write us, giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

Get acquainted with the
ERBOGRAPH WAY
of Developing and Printing
ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
203-11 West 146th St., New York City

AMERICAN
Fotoplayer
(Trade Mark Registered)
The Musical Marvel Write for Catalogue
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
62 West 45th St. New York City

MENGER & RING, Inc.
MANUFACTURERS OF
Poster and Lobby Display Frames
304-6 W. 42d St., NEW YORK
Phone: Bryant 6621-22

campment, and submit to Indian treatment. Then Brain tells her that she is free to go when she likes, for he thinks she has worked out her penance. As Betty leaves the camp to rejoin Jennings, she looks back and sees Brain with his arms about an Indian maiden.

ONE TOUCH OF SIN—(Five parts—Jan. 29).—The story concerns the adventures of Mary Livingston, who is deeply in love with Richard Mallaby, a gambler. Through a misunderstanding, she thinks she has been deserted by her lover when he goes West and leaves her and her baby in the East, to fight out the questions of life in their own unaided way. Disconsolate, heartbroken, she drifts westward herself, and meets Watt Tabor in a rough frontier village.

To provide for her child, she is forced into theft, but is detected. Tabor, who knows her history, shoulders the blame himself and marries her. She despises him because she thinks he married her as the result of a whim, and not as the result of real love.

Then she meets again the man who first wronged her. Mallaby demands that Tabor give up the woman. Tabor refuses. His decision results in a battle between the two. In the darkness and surging water of a mine, they wage their last fight.

Mallaby loses consciousness, but Tabor rescues him, and leaves Mary free to make her choice. She goes with Mallaby.

ART DRAMAS, INC.

INFIDELITY — (Erbograph — Four parts—Jan. 11).—The cast: Elaine Bernard (Anna Q. Nilsson); Ford Maillard (Eugene Strong); Dorothy Stafford (Miriam Nesbitt); Ali Delna (Fred F. Jones); Mrs. Maillard (Elizabeth Spencer); John Griswold (Arthur Morrison).

Frank Mayne, a well-known artist, who had served a twenty-year sentence for a murder he did not commit, returns unexpectedly to his studio, where an amazing scene confronts him. Elaine Bernard, one of his pupils, is cowering over a table, her hair disheveled and her clothes all but torn off her back. Ford Maillard, her fiance, stands over her, unbraiding her bitterly, while lying prone on the ground, his face covered with blood, is Delna, a Hindoo art student, who possesses occult powers. In the background is a woman whom he does not recognize. It develops later that she is his wife whom he had not seen since his imprisonment, and that the girl is his own daughter. Maillard had arrived at the studio in time to rescue her from the attack of Delna, but, misunderstanding her presence there, accused her unjustly. Mayne recognizes in this misunderstanding a counterpart of the situation that led to his own unhappiness, and out of the wisdom bought by his bitter experience effects a reconciliation between the young people. Chastened by adversity the older couple, too, decide to start over again, and happiness results from what seemed to be at first, unrelieved misfortune.

CHRISTIE FILM COMPANY.

A GAY DECEIVER—(Jan 29).—The cast: The maid (Billie Rhodes); The man (Harry Ham); The girl (Ethel Lynne); Her father (Harry Rattenberry); Her mother (Stella Adams); The other maid (Jane Waller).

"Like mistress, like maid," so when Ethel goes away with her father and mother, her maid, Billie, proceeds to make a selection from Ethel's wardrobe and "play lady." Just then arrives a young man, friend of Ethel's, not knowing she is out of town. He takes the maid for a girl chum of Ethel's and Billie carries along the joke by ordering about the other maid. Harry has tea, loses his heart, makes a date for next day, and departs.

In the neighboring city, Ethel meets Harry's father, who tells her that Harry expected to see her at home. Meanwhile Harry and Billie are playing on the beach. Harry comes to dinner and when Billie sees him she runs through the kitchen into the yard. She is pursued by Harry who tells her that a little matter of social position makes no difference in his love for her. She accepts him and Ethel joins in the best wishes for the happy pair.

GREATER VITAGRAPH.

THE GLORY OF YOLANDA (Five Parts—Jan. 20).—The cast: Yolanda (Anita Stewart); the Grand Duke Boris (John Ardizonia); Prince Drolinski (Denton Vane); Alexander Pribyloff (Evart Overton); Serge (Mr. Turil); Paul (Bernard Seigel). Directed by Marguerite Bertsch.

Yolanda is a beautiful peasant girl who dances to her orchestra of wild songbirds. Her father forbids her to dance, but her mother, Olga, encourages her secretly. The Grand Duke Boris sees the girl dancing in the woods, and perceives in her the promise of dazzling success. Without revealing his identity, he gives the mother money enough to take herself and Yolanda to Petrograd.

Boris establishes the girl in a luxurious villa. The mother and the girl think this is part of the ballet training. Youloff, the ballet master, is enthusiastic over Yolanda's dancing. Yolanda falls in love with Alexander Pribyloff, a young artist, but Boris, jealous, forbids her to see Alexander. Yolanda begins to see why Boris has been so kind to her. She meets Alexander secretly. Peter, Yolanda's peasant lover, and Serge, her brother, come to Petrograd to see her. Serge tells the mother that the Grand Duke must be keeping Yolanda as his mistress. Olga denies this, but her eyes are opened. Boris has the two men put out. Yolanda assures her mother that Serge's accusation is not true. Olga's health wanes, and shortly afterward she dies. Yolanda scores a tremendous success. She tells Boris that now she can repay him in money. But he is now wild about her, and offers her a morganatic offer. He insults Alexander, who strikes him. For this Boris has him sent to Siberia.

Boris goes to Yolanda and attempts forcibly to take possession of her. Her brother kills the Duke. Drelinski offers to get her out of the country, but she asks simply to be sent away with Alexander. So, through Drolinski's influence, Yolanda and her lover ride away to Siberia together—happy in each other's love, even though destined to prison. And Drolinski, who also has loved Yolanda, finds it in his heart to envy them.

THE SECRET KINGDOM—(Episode No. 6—"Human Flotsam"—Two parts—Feb. 5).—Warned by Juan, Phillip calls at the asylum, where he is refused admittance; but by means of a rope lowered from the roof of the next house, swings Julia to safety. Just as Ramon and Savatz, warned, race up in their machine, Philip, Julia and Juan dash off in their auto.

The lovers start for New Jersey, just catching the last ferry. Ramon's auto misses it, but Ramon, by a flying leap, makes the boat.

He entices Phillip to the upper deck where they battle in the darkness, Phillip finally being tripped and plunged into the river below. Juan, just coming up, dives after Phillip.

Ramon tells Julia that Phillip has committed suicide. She faints and he puts her in an auto and returns to the New York hotel with her.

In the meantime, river pirates capture Phillip and Juan, take them to their rendezvous, and a fight follows, when Juan disposes of the pirates by flinging them through a manhole into the river. Next morning, he goes to seek aid along the waterfront, and falls in with "Shanghai" Brown.

Phillip and Juan are shanghaied aboard the yacht which Count Ramon charters to carry Julia back to Alania.

K-E-S-E, Inc.

SKINNER'S DRESS SUIT (Essanay—Five parts—Feb. 5).—The cast: Skinner (Bryant Washburn); Honey, his wife (Hazel Daly); Willard Jackson (Harry Dunkinson); McLaughlin (James C. Carroll); Perkins (U. K. Houpt); Mrs. J. Smith Crawford (Florence Oberle); Mrs. Jackson (Frances Raymond); Mrs. McLaughlin (Marion Skinner). Directed by Harry Beaumont.

Skinner is afraid to strike his employer for a raise for fear he will be discharged. Mrs. Skinner scoffs at his fears, however, and finally induces him to demand an increase.

Her humble spouse gets the proverbial "cold feet" at the final moment; so to "cover up" before his wife, he fibs a little and tells her he got the raise, taking the money from his private bank account.

She forthwith makes him purchase a dress suit and "spruce up." Although it almost wipes Skinner's bank account out, he buys the clothes.

Skinner is frantic; he sees the wolf at the door. But, by virtue of his dress suit and good appearance, he gets acquainted with some wealthy people and is enabled to put over a big business deal for his firm. Rushing into his company's office with the order, he demands a raise and a partnership in the firm. He gets both.

METRO PICTURES CORP.

BRIDGES BURNED (Five Parts—Popular Plays and Players—Jan. 29).—The cast: Mary O'Brien (Mme. Petrova); Ernest Randal (Mahlon Hamilton); O'Farrell, mill owner (Arthur Hoops); Mary's son (Maury Steuart); Thomas O'Brien, Mary's father (Robert Broderick); Norah, an old servant (Mrs. Mathilde Brundage); solicitor (Louis Stern); butler (Thomas Cameron). Scenario by Wallace C. Clifton. Directed by Perry Vekroff.

Mary O'Brien, daughter of an Irish gentleman of declining fortunes, while fishing, meets Ernest Randal, who is trespassing on her father's land. Randal is the son of an English baronet and his conversation so charms Mary that she invites him to dinner. The next day, while out hunting deer with her father, a poacher mistakes Randal's peaked cap for

TransVerteR
Automatically supplies only such voltage as arc requires. No waste of current in ballast
HERTNER ELECTRIC & MFG. CO.
131 Prospect Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, U S A

"ARGONAUTS OF CALIFORNIA"
DAYS OF '49
A Thrilling Historical Masterpiece in 10 Reels
Grafton Publishing Film Company
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING

NATIONAL DRAMA CORP.
1465 BROADWAY
NEW YORK CITY

Developing and Printing
We have equipped the largest and most complete laboratory in the Southwest.
Highest Quality Finishing
Quick and Reliable Service
EXPERT CAMERAMEN AT YOUR SERVICE
COMMERCIAL FILMS MADE
Overland Park Film Mfg. Co.
1234 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.

EVERYTHING FOR YOUR PLAYHOUSE
MACHINES
SUPPLIES—REPAIR PARTS

All makes of machines carried in stock. We equip theatres completely.
"The Exhibitors Mail Order House"
HOMMEL'S
947 PENN AVE. PITTSBURGH, PA.

"All eyes on a line"
FOCO
ADJUSTABLE OPERA CHAIR
Can be changed from adult's chair to child's chair by pressing catch and raising.
Write for booklet
Family Opera Chair St. Louis, Mo.

Non-Breakable and Sanitary STEEL
HIGH Quality
LOW Price
and CAST IRON

Opera Chairs
immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating. Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.
STEEL FURNITURE CO.
Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

deer's antlers, and shoots him through the shoulder.

Mary nurses Randal, who is taken to her home. They fall in love and Mary gives her heart to him without reserve, and it is with difficulty that he forces himself to leave to complete his course in surgery.

Norah, the old family servant, suspects the truth. Mary confesses to her father, and with difficulty restrains him from taking her lover's life when he returns after completing his college course. At first, Randal says he cannot marry her at that time, and she defends him. However, overcome by her generosity, Randal asks her to marry him, and she finally consents on account of the injustice to the child, which her refusal would cause. She leaves, however, immediately after the marriage.

After her boy is born, Mary obtains employment in a cotton mill, becomes prominent in welfare work among the employes, and forms an uplift club, which is cited all over Ireland as a model of its kind. Her employer, O'Farrell, also promotes her to a position of trust, and asks her to be his wife, but on account of her boy, she refuses to divorce her husband.

Randal visits her and asks her to return to him, but she declines, reminding him of the fact that he has been wasting his life. Determined to win her respect, he enlists and goes to war. O'Farrell also enlists and leaves Mary in charge of the mill.

At the front Randal saves O'Farrell from bleeding to death when his arm is torn off by a shell. Randal later is shot, and reported dead. O'Farrel returns to Mary with the news that Randal's brother has also been killed, and that her boy is the Earl of Randal; and Mary at last realizes what her husband means to her.

A great joy comes when she learns that Randal is alive, although temporarily blinded, and she nurses him while he is recovering his sight. O'Farrel once more goes to the front, saying he has one good arm left and is needed on the field.

Life now seems perfect for Mary, and her happiness is deepened when her husband gives her the deed to her old house, which had been sold to strangers when her father died and she begins with deep joy her new life as Lady Randal.

Triangle Film Corp.

NINA, THE FLOWER GIRL (Fine Arts—Five Parts—Jan. 21).—The cast: Nina, the Flower Girl (Bessie Love); Jimmie, the newsboy (Elmer Clifton); Fred Townsend (Bert Hadley); Mrs. Townsend, his mother (Loyola O'Connor); Archie Dean (Alfred Paget); Dr. Fletcher (Fred Warren); Fifi Chandler (Adele Clifton); Lotta, her chum (Rhea Haines); Nina's grandmother (Jennie Lee); Mrs. Hicks (Mrs. Higby).

Nina, a blind girl, lives with her grandmother, who has taught her to make artificial flowers, which she sells at a flower-stand. Nina, and Jimmie, a crippled newsboy who sells papers on the same corner, are sweethearts. Nina's grandmother dies, and she turns to Jimmie. One day Jimmie has a fight with another newsboy, whom he thinks is hanging about Nina's stand too much, and the other boy is soon begging for mercy. Miss Fifi Chandler, an artist, happens to be passing, and becoming interested, she accompanies Nina and Jimmie to their rooms, and is surprised to find that Jimmie is an artist, having made a beautiful plaster cast of Nina. Fifi brings Jimmie and his protege to the notice of her fellow-artist, Fred Townsend, who falls in love with Nina.

Fred has a great specialist examine Nina's eyes, and assured that an operation would restore her sight, takes her to his mother's home. Townsend tells the boy that the operation will be a success, and is amazed when Jimmie bursts forth in a torrent of words against his fate. Nina will know he is a cripple and not the straight, handsome youth she has pictured. He hurries from the house, and during the ensuing days, when Nina must stay in a darkened room, Jimmie cannot be found. The day comes when the bandages are removed and the operation is a success!

That night, in the general hospital, the physician's attention is called to a crippled boy, who had tried to end his life by jumping in the river, but had been rescued. He recognizes Jimmie, hears his story, and a few days later an operation is performed and it becomes evident that he will go forth as straight as Nina's fancy had pictured him.

Meantime Nina wonders why Jimmie does not come to see her, as she had not been told about the operation. At last he is brought to her, and Fred Townsend has his reward in watching the happiness of the two youthful lovers.

THE ICED BULLET (Kay Bee—Five Parts—Jan. 21).—The cast: Horace Lee (William Desmond); Donald Greene (Robert McKim); Richard Deering (J. Barney Sherry); Evelyn Deering (Margaret Thompson); the butler (J. J. Dowling); butler's son (Jerry Storm); Joe, Lee's assistant (Louis Durham); the specialist (J. Frank Burke). Scenario by C. Gardner Sullivan. Directed by Reginald Barker.

Richard Deering, a wealthy New Yorker, spends his holidays in a magnificent lodge in the heart of the Adirondacks. His daughter, Evelyn, Donald Greene, his ward, and Robert Ross, his confidential secretary, are his companions. On the eve of Thanksgiving, Greene is called to New York on business. He leaves reluctantly as he is deeply in love with Evelyn and jealous of Ross.

The next morning, while at breakfast, Donald receives a telegram from Evelyn that her father has been shot and begging him to come at once, and bring a detective. Greene goes to Horace Lee, a crime specialist, and returns to Deer lodge accompanied by the detective and his assistant, Joe.

They find Deering unconscious attended by the country doctor, and Dr. Adamson, a specialist from New York. The detective and his assistant set to work to unravel the mystery. Suspicion lights on the family butler, who was the last to see his master alive, and who had been acting strangely. Through adventures and deduction the detective unravels the mystery. The butler is exonerated as his worried demeanor is found to be the result of an effort to shield his son, an escaped convict, who had sought refuge in the lodge on the eve of the shooting, and the charge of attempted murder is brought against Donald Greene, who had brought in the aid of mechanical science to perform the deed in his absence.

Donald Greene, who has inherited a trace of madness, becomes hopelessly insane. Evelyn gives her hand to the man of her choice, Horace Lee, who is completely restored to health.

CHICKEN CASEY (Kay Bee—Five Parts—Jan. 28).—The cast: "Chicken" Casey and Mavis Marberry (Dorothy Dalton); Everett Hale (Charles Gunn); "Dickey" Cochran (Howard Hickman); Israel Harris (Thomas Guise). Directed by Raymond B. West.

A young author, Everett Dryden Hale, has written a book of such strength and originality that it becomes one of the best sellers. The book is entitled "Waifs" and deals with the underworld, a subject of which Hale, who is a New Englander with a Puritanical strain, knows by personal experience, practically nothing at all.

The principal character is a girl nicknamed "Rags" by her associates in the dives and haunts of night life. A leading producer is anxious to have the book dramatized and his leading woman, Mavis Marberry, insists on her right to create the part of "Rags." Hale accedes to the manager's request, but rejects Mavis for the part, as he believes her talent is exclusively of the refined comedy order. With the aid of a dramatic critic Mavis stages a surprise for the author and is introduced as "Chicken Casey," a typical "Rags," in a low Bowery dive.

She enacts the part so well that Hale, unaware that she is a famous actress, starts to reclaim her and informs the manager that he has found his ideal heroine and "Chicken Casey" must have the star role. The play is a success. Mavis playing the part of "Rags" with the same realism with which she invested the mock creation "Chicken Casey." Hale recognizes that he has been the victim of a trick, leaves the theatre hurt and indignant. Mavis, whose masquerading had given her an insight into the nobility and chivalry of the man, finds a way to earn his forgiveness and secure a happy future for both star and author, and "Chicken Casey" becomes only a memory.

The Moving Picture Guide

FOR TEN YEARS

Willis & Inglis

Wright and Callender Building

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

AFFILIATIONS

Roehm & Richards, Strand Bldg., New York
Edward A. Wheeler, Schiller Bldg., Chicago
Lyall Willis, London, England

MANAGEMENT
ENGAGEMENTS
FINANCING
BOOKS AND PLAYS
STUDIO LIGHTING
PUBLICITY

The Original and Leading Moving Picture Journal in Europe

The Kinematograph Weekly

The reliable Trade organ of Great Britain; covering the whole of the British Film market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters, Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world)—and every section devoted to the Kinematograph. Specimen copy on application to:—

The Kinematograph Weekly, Ltd

5-11 Tottenham Street London W Eng

The Automatic Ticket Selling and Cash Register Co.

MANUFACTURERS OF

AUTOMATIC TICKET MACHINES

and all kinds of Theatre Tickets

USED UNIVERSALLY

1735 BROADWAY N.Y. CITY

Have you submitted your Advertising Copy for the Tenth Anniversary Number of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD?

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

PRICES

Five Thousand	$1.25
Ten Thousand	2.50
Fifteen Thousand	3.75
Twenty-five Thousand	5.50
Fifty Thousand	7.50
One Hundred Thousand	10.00

Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, consecutively numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Prize Drawings. 5,000 $2.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets 5,000 to 25,000 fifteen cents per thousand, 50,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.

NATIONAL TICKET CO.

Shamokin, Pa.

SEVEN DEADLY SINS—"ENVY" (Five Parts—McClure Pictures—Jan. 29).—The cast: Betty Howard (Ann Murdock); Eve Leslie (Shirley Mason); Adam Moore (George Le Guere); Stanton Skinner (Lumsden Hare); Eve's foster mother (Jessie Stevens); Eve's foster father (William Wadsworth); Rocco Irwin (Robert Cain). Directed by Richard Ridgely.

Eve Leslie is a poor country girl, who wishes she could have fine clothes, motors and wealthy friends. The person she envies most is Betty Howard, a famous actress.

Eve does not know that Betty's life has been full of sorrow, that for years she has been seeking a certain man and has found him, only to learn that he is a desperate criminal, who, misunderstanding her kindnesses, attempts to blackmail her. Her hard work, too, has affected her health and her physician has ordered her to give up the stage to take a long rest. Betty longs for just the sort of life that Eve is leading.

Through Adam Moore, son of a rich man, Eve hears much of Betty Howard, who is a "pal" of Adam's. One day Betty is motoring with Stanton Skinner, an unscrupulous man, who wants her to marry him. Betty collapses and is taken to Eve's home, which is nearby. They become friends.

Rocco Erwin, the man Betty has been seeking, attempts to rob Skinner, is caught, and is released only upon Betty's pleas. She tells Skinner who Rocco is. Rocco, himself, does not know. Rocco later comes to Betty for more money, is refused, and throttles her and flees, leaving her for dead.

Skinner, who has fallen in love with Eve, invites her aboard his yacht. Rocco follows Skinner to the yacht, where Eve has gone. Rocco asks Skinner to help him escape. Skinner refuses and Rocco attacks him. Rocco learns that Betty is his sister, and attempts to slay Skinner, while Eve crouches nearby frantic with terror.

Betty recovers, learns where Eve has gone, and, with Adam to help her, follows to the yacht. In exciting scenes Adam and Betty rescue Eve from her peril and she rests securely in Adam's arms, envious no longer.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

HEARST-PATHE NEWS No. 5—(Jan. 13).

Brownsville, Tex.—The daily manual of arms is now a pleasure for Uncle Sam's boys on the Border as they drill to the rhythmic strains of the band. Subtitles: Everybody down when ambushed. The U-shaped structure is 500 feet long and 85 feet wide.

Washington, D. C.—Six silent suffrage sentinels picket each entrance to the White House to impress President Wilson with their cause.

The Mediterranean Sea.—The eyes of the campaign, the huge observation balloon which fearlessly roams over the enemy's territory in search of his plans and formation. Subtitles: The balloon is provided with aerial torpedoes for attack. Higher and still higher the airship climbs to avoid enemy's aeroplanes. Its observation duties completed, the sentinels of the air peacefully returns to the hangar.

Magazine Section.—Oh Girls—What Next? (An Animated Cartoon by Leighton Budd). Subtitles: The girl of yesterday. And the one of today. Tomorrow, perhaps. To bare possibility, and then what?

Washington, D. C.—Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President, who denies having given advance information on the "peace" note to the belligerents. Subtitles: Bernard Baruch, accused of being a recipient of such a tip. Secretary Lansing is called by the Investigating Committee to testify as to the course of the "note" through the State Department. The central figure of official Washington's tumultuous disturbance. T. W. Lawson, of "Frenzied Finance" fame.

Cambridge, Mass.—The Harvard Hockey team begins early practice for the Inter-Collegiate Ice Championship contest.

New York City, N. Y.—The superdreadnaught Pennsylvania leaves the Brooklyn Navy Yard to participate in the winter target practice at the Guantanamo drill grounds. Subtitles: The tall framework of the fighting top almost touches the Brooklyn bridge as the warship passes beneath the span. What a fruitful target New York's skyscrapers would make for the huge guns of this powerful man-of-war. Out at sea—southward bound.

Kingsland, N. J.—A second "Black Tom" explosion violently rocks the East as a half-million shells being manufactured for the Allies are suddenly ignited with $10,000,000 loss. Subtitles: Luckily none are hurt as shell after shell is fired, resembling the artillery furnace on the battlefields of Europe. Soon the shrapnel magazines catch fire and spectacular streams of light illuminate the countryside.

Springfield, Ill.—Simple ceremonies mark the inauguration of Col. Frank O. Lowden as Illinois' new Governor. Subtitle: Governor-elect Lowden and his family.

STATE RIGHTS
Bought—Sold—Released
California and Arizona
ROBERT A. BRACKETT
Knickerbocker Bldg. LOS ANGELES

PATENTS
Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

HIGHEST GRADE
Developing and Printing
FILM TITLES
We guarantee all work, give prompt delivery, at lowest prices. Can furnish Expert Camera Man on short notice.
STANDARD MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
R. 1628, 5 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago
Phone: Randolph 6692

Operators: Do you know exhibitors who have STANDARD motion picture machines? It does not matter what model they possess or whether the STANDARDS are in use or discarded. Send the names of STANDARD owners to address below and you will receive in return a useful souvenir.
AMERICAN STANDARD M. P. M. CO.
110 West 40th Street, New York

The 10th ANNIVERSARY NUMBER will be referred to for years as a guide to the progress made in this industry from 1907 to 1917. Biggest advertising value ever offered. March 10th. Advertising Forms close Feb. 23rd.

For Perfect Laboratory Results
INSTALL
CORCORAN TANKS
A. J. CORCORAN, Inc. 11½ JOHN STREET NEW YORK CITY

Minusa Gold Fibre Screens; Sanozone, the perfect deodorant; Power, Simplex and Baird Machines; Motor Generator Sets and General Supplies.
LEWIS M. SWAAB
1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

STAR CARBONS
Jones & Cammack
Sole Distributors for the U. S.
Corner Bridge and Whitehall Sts., New York

FOR SALE
Mailing Lists
MOVING PICTURE THEATRES
Every State — Total 24,000
Price, $3.50 per M.
1400 Film Exchanges..... $4.00
206 Manufacturers and Studios..... $1.50
235 Picture Machine and Supply Dealers..... $1.50
Particulars.
A. F. WILLIAMS, 166 W. Adams St., Chicago

HEARST PATHE NEWS No. 6. (Jan. 17).

Provincetown, Mass.—The Spanish submarine Isaac Peral leaves for Quincy to take on supplies preparatory to its departure abroad. Subtitles: Loading the life boat. The engines are thoroughly tested as the submarine sails under its own power.

New Orleans, La.—Winter snows do not trouble the children of the Sunny South, who artistically interpret the spirit of the Muses. Subtitle: Picturesque parks offer peaceful recreation.

Boston, Mass.—The mysteries of the camera, illustrating how the launching of the bark Herdis does not take place.

Coronado, Cal.—A thrilling contest marks the opening of the winter polo season at this fashionable resort as the Riverside team strives to win the first trophy from the home four. Subtitle: The Riverside team vanquishes Coronado by the close score of 9 to 8.

Pola, Austria.—Several powerful dreadnaughts of the dual monarchy also carry the double three-gun turrets, similar to the U. S. S. Pennsylvania. Sub-titles: The warship is supplied with nets for protection from floating mines. Raising the colors.

Salonica, Greece.—Ox carts are being used extensively by the Allies to transport supplies over the rough roads of the Balkan countries. Sub-titles: The same rocky carts are also used to carry wounded troops. German prisoners captured in the Monastir battle are brought to the Allies' base. The prisoners are carefully guarded in high-fenced pens. Getting their daily rations.

San Francisco, Cal.—Amateur maritime enthusiasts enter their prize model yacht in the midwinter tournament. Sub-title: The little yachts glide gracefully before the wind.

Gloucester, Mass.—A new type of aeroplane, operated by wireless from shore, is completed for the U. S. Government by John Hays Hammond, Jr.

Brownsville, Texas.—The importation of Mexican cattle has been resumed and vaqueros lead the first consignment of 2,100 head across the International bridge. Sub-titles: American veterinaries inspect each animal before permitting a sale. A Mexican cowboy roping a suspicious bull.

Washington, D. C.—Admiral George Dewey, hero of Manila Bay, who has America's heartfelt sympathy in his illness.

North Arlington, N. J.—Thousands of shells fired by the Kingsland munition explosion litter the fields for miles round, giving the Jerseyites a glimpse of war's devastation. Sub-titles: Railroad trains and houses suffer greatly from the terrific force of the explosion. Some freak shots.

Cambridge, Mass. (Boston only).—Candidates for the Harvard Crimson are initiated into the secret fold despite zero weather and the rigors of a snowstorm.

Sacramento, Cal. (San Francisco only).—The Honorable William B. Stephens, who succeeds Senator-elect Hiram Johnson as the Governor of the Golden State.

PEARL OF THE ARMY—(No. 9 "The Monroe Doctrine"—Two parts—Jan. 28).—The cast: Pearl Dare (Pearl White); T. O. Adams (Ralph Kellard); Major Brent (Theodore Friebus).

Pearl and Adams' escape from their prison room on board the Silent Menace's schooner, Pearl by overcoming the cabin boy and disguising herself in his costume. She then releases Adams and bids him take a boat tied to the stern and hurry with a note to her father to bring help to the Aines Building where she has learned the Silent Menace is to confer with unscrupulous munition manufacturers. She then hides in a box aboard the boat which contains some deadly bombs which is to be taken to the Aines Building that night.

When the box is opened Pearl bobs up bomb in hand threatening to blow them all to pieces if they move a step. Holding them at bay she plays with time until Col. Dare arrives with the soldiers. The minutes lengthen, seeming like hours. The Silent Menace, realizing that he must act and do it quickly, suddenly fires at Pearl's hand holding the bomb. The bullet grazes her arm. The bomb drops and—but come and see it for yourself—it is too thrilling to describe with words.

TWIN KIDDIES.—(Gold Rooster—Balboa—5 parts—Jan. 28).—The cast: Bessie, Little Mary Sunshine (Marie Osborne); Jasper Hunt (Henry King); Mrs. Flannigan (Ruth Lackaye); Wm.

TANKS and RACKS
that give satisfaction
Write for Folder No. 14
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.
Los Angeles—San Francisco, Cal.

Its Economy

Now is almost a proverb—quietly the knowledge has spread into every nook and corner of the nation.

THE MOTIOGRAPH

Motion Picture Projector

Even in Alaska, Australia and other foreign countries you will hear identically the same thing said as in the many theatres in the United States where the MOTIOGRAPH is used.

The Low Cost of Up-Keep, the Perfect Projection and Simplicity of Operation is unequalled.

F. H. Richardson, the Projection Expert, says:

"The Motiograph is now a machine which I can conscientiously recommend to the serious consideration of motion picture theatre managers who are contemplating the purchase of new projection apparatus."

Write for Literature

The Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co., 574 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

Western Office: 833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

DU PONT FABRIKOID
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

CRAFTSMAN QUALITY FOR THEATRE CHAIRS

The cushioned seat is not only more comfortable but demonstrates to patrons the fact that their comfort is catered to as well as their entertainment.

Seats upholstered in CRAFTSMAN QUALITY FABRIKOID give the theatre a distinctive look.

These desirable features are permanent ones because CRAFTSMAN QUALITY FABRIKOID is durable, sanitary and especially adapted to theatre upholstering.

Many theatres have had FABRIKOID upholstery for long periods and no defects are noticeable.

Upholster your theatre in this superior, guaranteed, sanitary, enduring and distinctive leather substitute.

Ask for Samples and get acquainted with CRAFTSMAN QUALITY FABRIKOID.

DU PONT FABRIKOID COMPANY

Wilmington, Del. Toronto, Ont.

FACTORIES:

Newburgh, N. Y. Fairfield, Conn. Toronto, Ont.

RICHARDSON'S

MOTION PICTURE

HAND BOOK

FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS

Published by

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK is a carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

It is an invaluable help to every single individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre.

There are over 680 Pages of Text and the illustrations include detail diagrams of all the leading makes of projection machines.

Substantially Bound in Red Cloth $4.00;

Sent Postpaid on Receipt Price by

MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 17 Madison Ave., New York City
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 917 Schiller Bldg Chicago, Ill.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 305 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

Van Loan (Daniel Milfather); Hexter Van Loan (R. Henry Grey); Beatrice Van Loan (Loretta Beecker); Spencer, the family butler (Edward Jobson). Fay's governess (Mignon Le Brun).

No one seems to understand or love Fay, the little spoiled granddaughter of William Van Loan, a hard-hearted capitalist, but the old family butler, who tells her fairy stories. In Powhatan, a mining town controlled by Van Loan, Bessie, a sweet motherless child of Jasper Hunt, a mine foreman, lives with their housekeeper, Mrs. Flannigan. The mining company raises the price of food stuffs at the only store; the men resent this, and failing to get increased pay, strike. Van Loan refuses to yield and decides to use scab labor. Scenes of violence follow and, compelled to go to Powhatan, Van Loan takes Fay with him. Fay meets and plays with Bessie and for fun they change dresses. Separated, the unusual likeness deceives the Van Loan governess, who supposes Bessie to be Fay and whisks her away. Mrs. Flannigan finds and takes Fay, sick from exposure, to the Hunt home.

Business hurriedly recalls Van Loan and mistaken for a changed Fay, Bessie revolutionizes the Van Loan household by her sweetness. Hunt, the real leader of the striking men, is summoned to meet Van Loan. During the unsuccessful arbitration meeting, Bessie comes in to bid her "grandfather" good night and, seeing her father, rushes to his arms. Hunt, busy with the strike, supposes her to be ill at home. They are all dumbfounded. Bessie tells them how she and Fay changed clothes. Looking up the family trees, the likeness of the "twin" kiddies is explained, and, completely won over, Van Loan yields to the men and Hunt is made mine superintendent.

A MODERN MONTE CRISTO (Gold Rooster—Thanhouser—Five Parts—Feb. 4).—The cast: Doctor Emerson (Vincent Serrano); William Deane (Thomas Curran); Virginia Deane, at age of 6 (Helen Badgley); Virginia Deane, at age of 18 (Gladys Dore); Tom Pemberton (Boyd Marshall). Directed by Eugene Moore.

At Doctor Emerson's farewell bachelor dinner, the conversation veered to the struggles in the medical world to achieve success legitimately. "Tomorrow," said Emerson, "I operate on a rich old man; one of his relatives offered me $20,000 if he dies."

After the others had departed, the rejected suitor lingered, and kept Emerson up late, plying him with wine. The next day, he was unfit for the operation, and the patient died. The police, arrested Emerson on evidence contained in an anonymous letter and statement of the rejected suitor that Emerson had confessed the crime. On the way to prison Emerson escaped by jumping into the river, and after a futile search was reported as drowned.

Years passed, and the rival, who had married Emerson's former fiancee, became a successful ship owner. On visiting one of his ships his little daughter makes friends with a morose sailor, and a few days later she disappears.

After several months an aviator brings the child back to her father, with a note tucked in her dress, "She has been saved by your bitterest enemy. Beware! Some day he will strike through her." She tells of the trip on one of his own leaky boats, the wreck, and her rescue by the sailor "doctor man," and her father realizes with terror who his enemy is.

Years of dread follow, and just as a report of the other's death reaches him, his foe appears, immensely wealthy and wreaks the vengeance in a spectacular manner.

Paramount Pictures Corp.

A GIRL LIKE THAT (Famous Players—Five Parts—Jan. 18).—The cast: Nell Gordon (Irene Fenwick); Jim Brooks (Owen Moore); Bill Whipple (Tom O'Keefe); Joe Dunham (Edwin Sturgis); John Gordon (Harry Lee); Tom Hoadley (Jack Dillon); Fannie Brooks (Alice Thomas).

Nell Gordon is unfortunate in her ancestry—her father is a crook—but she possesses qualities of resourcefulness and loyalty. Though she loves her father, she detests his associates, particularly one, Bill Whipple, who is her constant suitor. Joe Dunham, who does the scouting for the trio, finds a likely bank in the town of Wheaton, the fact that a new bookkeeper is needed there opening a way for the gang to get into the bank, as Nell is an expert. Working on her love for her father, who is a very sick man, Whipple and Dunham persuade Nell to go to Wheaton and take the position.

Boarding with the Rev. Dr. Singleton, Nell wins the confidence of Jim Brooks, the cashier of the bank, and of Tom Hoadley, his best friend and sheriff of the county. What the girl is working for, of course, is the combination of the safe, but before she has a chance to get it, she begins to realize that she is in love with the cashier. On the very day that she learns the combination and copies it, Jim proposes to her, and, after a mental struggle, she decides that her love for him is greater than her loyalty to the gang, and she surrenders, concealing her identity—she had come to the town under an assumed name.

Becoming suspicious of Nell's delay in forwarding word to them, Whipple and Dunham attempt to force her father to write a note ordering her to act quickly, but the old man refuses and is shot. The crooks go to Wheaton and try to force Nell to rob the bank.

She has undergone complete reformation and has even confessed her identity to Jim's friend and is planning to leave Wheaton rather than bring disgrace upon the man she loves. She discovers that her father has been murdered by the crooks and decides to be revenged. Apparently consenting to their demands, she gets them into the bank, but not until she has warned the sheriff. Nell is wounded in the fight which follows, and when she awakens finds herself in the arms of the man from whom she attempted to escape because she loved him.

LOST AND WON (Lasky—Five Parts—Jan. 22).—The cast: Cinders (Margaret Lane) (Marie Doro); Walter Crane (Elliott Dexter); Kirkland Gaige (Carl Stockdale); Cleo Duvene (Mabel Van Buren), aunt of Crane (Maym Kelso); Bill Holt (Robert Gray).

Cinders, a news girl, with a love for books, idealizes as her hero a "Daddy Long-legs," who will some day make her a great lady. Bill Holt, a reporter, is one of her best friends. Walter Crane and Kirkland Gaige observe Cinder's independence as she turns over to a policeman a man who has been annoying her. Later Crane wagers $50,000 that within a year he can transform and improve the girl that one of the men will want to marry her. Crane places her in the care of his aunt, who sends her to a boarding school. At the end of a year she returns home and at once becomes a favorite.

Cleo Duvene, an adventuress, demands of Gaige a necklace which he is unable to purchase. Crane meets with reverses and Gaige, anxious to win Cinders, reveals the bet, suggesting she marry him in order that Crane may realize the $1,000,000 stake. She refuses and goes to her friend, Holt, securing a position as reporter on the paper. Crane accepts the position of assistant cashier in the bank of which Gaige is vice president. In order to buy the necklace for Cleo Gaige takes a bag of currency and Crane, accused of the theft, is placed in jail.

Cinders goes to Gaige and by placing chewing gum on the end of her umbrella, picks up the pieces of a receipted bill for the necklace. She gets into the apartment of Miss Duvene, and is demanding that she tell all she knows of Gaige just as he comes in. They bind Cinders but she manages to get the telephone receiver down, calls Holt, who hears the conversation of the three, and with Crane and a policeman apprehend the guilty man just as he is about to escape. Crane frees the brave little girl and takes her to his arms with the statement that it pays to lose some bets.

ALL AT SEA (Black Diamond—Feb. 6).—Bob, cabaret entertainer, is always broke. He is in love with Dot, whose father sends her away to school. She writes Bob that she is sailing the next day. Although Bob hasn't the fare, he resolves to take the same boat. Taking wigs and make-up, he tries to get aboard. He hides in a box but is discovered, climbs to a porthole, but is knocked down by a pail of garbage; climbs a rope, but it is cast off by a sailor, and he falls into the water. Finally, he gives up and is waiting for a last look at Dot, when a porter, thinking him a belated passenger, hurries him on board.

Dot is delighted but the purser checks short and starts to find the extra passenger. Bob makes up exactly like the captain. Later he disguises as a sailor, but is caught and put to work scrubbing the decks. Tiring of this, he makes up in exact duplicate of the Count de Brie.

The purser discovers the two counts and brings them together, demanding to know "which is the imposter." Dot saves Bob by claiming he is the real count. The purser forces the count to stoke the fires while Bob enjoys himself with Dot.

The count's wife sees them in an affectionate pose, and drags Bob away, beats him and throws him on the bed in the stateroom while she dresses for dinner.

The count escapes, enters his stateroom to find Bob. The wife is horrified. The count starts after Bob. The purser and sailors join the chase, and Bob takes refuge on top of the smoke stack. The count shoots and he falls through the smoke stack and out of the furnace into the stoke hole.

The chase continues, Bob finds Dot and drags her to the bow of the boat. The others are about to overpower him when the ship is torpedoed. Bob and Dot land on a piece of wreckage. The purser comes up out of the water and demands Bob's fare. Bob pushes him under and he and Dot float away.

Long association with the best things in motion pictures has made one projection surface stand out as a leader in its field—

It is famed for its quality results but is used also because careful exhibitors have found that it saves them money in electrical current bills.

You owe it to yourself and your patrons to have the "World's Best Projection Surface" —and this "best by test" is:

HOME OFFICE
220 W. 42d St.
New York City
Leon Schlesinger
General Manager

RADIUM
GOLD FIBRE SCREEN

CANADIAN DISTRIBUTORS
J. T. Malone Films, Inc.,
Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal.
Allfeatures, Ltd.,
56 King St., W., Toronto.

Classified Advertisements NOTE TERMS CAREFULLY

Remittances must accompany all orders for classified advertisements as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

MANAGER, operator, seven years' experience. Married, sober, reliable. Wants steady position, go any place. State all particulars. Box 356, Libertyville, Ill.

WANTED—By capable man, position as manager of moving picture house. Salary or commission. Will listen to any reasonable offer; willing to stand trial as to ability. Communicate with T. S. Haskell, Derby Line, Vt.

CAMERAMAN, with a Schustek "Selig Standard," automatic shutter, dissolve camera, desires position. Bushcott, 4711 Indiana Ave., Chicago, Ill.

FACTORY FOREMAN, now employed large manufacturing plant, wishes to change; expert time developer, tinting, some camera work. References. Address Expert, care M. P. World, Chicago, Ill.

YOUNG LADY desires position as positive or negative cutter. Seven years' experience. No objection to out of town. Laboratory Cutter, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

PHOTO-CHEMIST—Negative developer or foreman in any department of moving picture laboratory. General experience. Distance no objection. Excellent references. XXX., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

YOUNG MAN, married, nine years' experience as manager and operator, desires position as manager. Four years present employer, desires something larger. Moderate salary until worthiness proven, or will consider taking your house on commission. Best references. Ralph LeFevre, Lebanon, Ohio.

PRODUCTION MANAGER, technical director, expert systematic production and production costs, 14 years' experience, all branches; library of 10,000 plates, accurate date, costumes, props, etc. At liberty Feb. 1. Address R., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

MANAGER, expert booker, advertiser, operator. Ten years' vaudeville, picture experience. Wife pianist same experience. References. Experienced, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

THEATERS WANTED.

CASH FOR YOUR MOVIE—I am a practical successful moving picture broker. Seventeen years of continuous success. Selling upwards of one million dollars' worth annually, sales, exchanges and leases. Lewis, the Moving Picture Broker, Est 1896. Office, 578-80 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

AIRDOME for sale or rent. Seating capacity 1,500; complete, except machine. Situated Stapleton, Staten Island. Rent low. Inquire Chas. Rosenberg, 442 Broadway, N. Y. City.

THEATER LEASE for sale. Rent, $100.00. Nothing to buy. Seating capacity 750; population 9,500. Only 10c show in town. J., care M. P. World. N. Y. City.

FOR SALE—Moving picture theater in Northern Vermont. Fully equipped, 250 seats, Power's 6A machine—present head in use about six weeks. Fort Wayne Compensarc. Lease four years yet to run, with privilege of renewing, or building can be bought. A good, sound business proposition. T. S. Haskell, Derby Line, Vt.

FIRST-CLASS moving picture theater, matinee daily; paying proposition. Good reasons for selling. P. O. Box 146, Reading, Pa.

FOR SALE—Moving picture and vaudeville theater, Northern Minnesota city of 12,000 population, only one other theater and they very friendly. This is a dandy proposition. First come, first served. Takes $3,500 to handle. Don't answer unless you mean business. Address Minnesota, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

EQUIPMENT WANTED.

WANTED—Power's 6A or 6B machine, first-class condition. State all, lowest cash price. Box 26, Forked River, N. J.

TWO rebuilt Power's 6A machines, $140.00 each; Edison model "D" motor drive, $135.00; Edison model "D" hand drive, $115.00; Power's No. 6 rebuilt, $100.00; Edison model "B," $40.00; Westinghouse Mercury Arc Rectifier, $90.00. Hommel's, 947 Penn Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

OPERA AND FOLDING chairs, slightly used, 50c up. Leather upholstered, $1.25 each. Many other bargains. Atlas Seating Co., 10 East 43d St., N. Y. City.

OPERA, wood folding chairs, used, 3,500, N. Y. to Chicago. Bought, sold everywhere. Half price. Prices advance. Empire Exchange, Corning, N. Y.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition, cheap. Room 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS—Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machines. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Halberg, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

WHY DOES Richardson recommend "Amberlux" lens filters? Write and find out particulars. Price, with slide, $3.50. W. D. Warner, Wyandotte Bldg., Columbus, Ohio.

EQUIP your stage for vaudeville. Write for special offer on complete outfit of scenery and rigging. Boon Scenic Studios, Hicksville, Ohio.

FINE Power's 6A, complete, with motor. C. O. D. One night trial allowed. Fort Wayne compensarc, Mirroroid screen. 208 Market Ave., So., Canton, Ohio.

GUARANTEED REBUILT MACHINES—1908 Motiograph, $60. 1913 Motiograph, $90. Power's No. 6A, $150. Edison type B, $75. 1911 Motiograph, $75. Simplex Motor Drive, $250. Edison Exhibition, $65. Power's No. 5, $65. Going quick. Rush your order. Amusement Supply Company, 300-2 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Illinois.

CAMERAS, ETC., WANTED.

MOY CAMERA wanted; also old camera mechanisms, especially Prestwich 4, tripodheads. Price reasonably and describe. Sportgram, Nashville, Tenn.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

PROFESSIONAL CAMERAS, tripods, perforators, printers, developing outfits, rewinders, tessar, effects devices, novelties, experimental workshop, repair, expert film work, titles. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. & Second Ave., N. Y. City.

SNAP—Almost new camera, complete, with tripod and Carlton Perforator, all for $240.00. Send for details. 2620 Day St., Seattle, Wash.

GENUINE Carl Zeiss F:3.5 lens, 2" focus, in focusing mount; price, $100.00. Justin Adams, 41 Bellingham St., Chelsea, Mass.

RIGHT NOW!—IS THE TIME TO BUY A MOTION PICTURE CAMERA; FINEST ASSORTMENT OF HIGH-GRADE USED CAMERAS. DAVIDSTERN OFFERS GREATEST VALUES AND IMMEDIATE SERVICE IN HIGH-GRADE TESTED NEW AND USED MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS. Act now while our stock is large and varied. 1st: Ensign, 100 ft. capacity, Zeiss Tessar lens, f:3.5, in focusing mount. Price, $60.00——2nd: Eberhard Schneider, 200 ft. capacity, Prismatic focusing device, 50 M.M. Carl Zeiss Tessar f:3.5 lens, Teakwood case. Price, $95.00——3rd: Ernemann Model A Professional, 200 ft. capacity, 50 M.M. Ernemann f:3.5 lens, Teakwood case. Price, $142.00——4th: Prestwich Professional, 200 ft. capacity, regular and trick crank, focusing tube through center of camera directly through film and special device to set lens from the rear, 48 M.M. Zeiss Tessar lens, f:3.5, 2 extra magazines. Price, $110.00——5th: Pathe Studio model, outside magazines, Carl Zeiss Tessar lens, f:3.5, regular and trick crank, all adjustments, 2 extra magazines. Price, $400.00——6th: 400 ft. capacity U. S. Cinematograph Professional Camera. Forward and reverse, trick crank, focusing tube through rear. Speed indicator, 50 M.M. Tessar Ser 1c f:3.5, in focusing tube, 4 round metal magazines. Heavy Panorama and tilting top tripod. Outfit cost new $500.00. Our price, $300.00——7th: Pathe Professional Inside magazines, very latest model, 50 M.M. Zeiss Tessar lens, f:3.5 lens, and 2 extra magazines. Price, $450.00——8th: DAVSCO KINO, 200 ft. capacity. Most compact camera on the market. Aluminum magazines, outside focusing device, weight 10 lbs, with 50 M.M. Zeiss Tessar f:3.5 lens in special DAVSCO focusing mount and exposure meter. Price, $110.00——9th: Latest model Universal, 200 ft. capacity, forward and reverse regular and trick crank, all adjustments, 50 M.M. Zeiss Tessar lens f:3.5. Price, $300.00——Wire for special proposition on the universal——Panorama and tilting top tripod, $20.00 to $75.00. Write for specifications; any camera shipped C. O. D., with privilege of examination on receipt of 25 per cent. deposit. Money refunded in full if not as represented. Try our special telegraphic order service. Wire deposit and we ship any camera C. O. D. for balance. Delivery on time or we pay all charges. Write or wire today. DAVID STERN COMPANY, 1047 R, Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

FILMS, ETC., WANTED.

WANT to buy "Cinderella," "Dante's Inferno," "Pilgrims' Progress," "Evangeline," "David Copperfield," "From the Manger to the Cross," at once. Gil George, 27 East 7th St., St. Paul, Minn.

WILL BUY all kinds of features, good condition, with advertising. Must be cheap, send lists. Peerless Feature Attractions, Seattle, Wash.

WANTED—For foreign market, all kinds of features, comedies in good condition. Send lists and lowest prices. Corona Film Company, 1547 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BUFFALO BILL film wanted. Power's machine, "Holy City" and other film for sale. J. L. McDill, Gen. Del., Lincoln, Nebr.

FILMS, ETC., FOR SALE.

LARGEST STOCK of films ever offered for sale, will be closed out at sacrificed prices. Features of all kinds and singles, starring all the big stars of today. Send for complete list of entire stock and prices. First come, first served. Peerless Feature Attractions, Seattle, Wash.

TWO-REEL comedy, negative and positive print. Never been shown before the public. Will sell cheap. Apply Ginsberg, 162 Springfield Ave., Newark, N. J. 'Phone Market 4818.

This is what a classified advertisement in the Moving Picture World did for one firm: "Our reason for asking you to discontinue our classified ad is due to the fact we thought we were still running in your magazine on account of the many inquiries we had been receiving up to the last few days." Advertisement had not appeared for over three weeks when they wrote the above.

INDEX

TO CONTENTS

Advertising for Exhibitors..... 675
Advance Deposits to Guarantee Film Contracts 671
Among the Picture Theatres..... 688
Arrangements Completed for Brooklyn Ball. 670
At Leading Picture Theaters..... 698

Baltimore Censors Take Time..... 720
Baltimore Movie Club Dances..... 719
Barker-Swan Co. in Bankruptcy..... 728
Bennett, Enid and Margery, Hostesses..... 673
Boston Film, Week in..... 718
British Notes 699

Calendar of Daily Program Releases...734, 736
California Exhibitors to Organize..... 667
California, Sunday Closing in..... 731
Censorship Threatens West Virginia..... 668
Chattanooga's New Theater Plans..... 722
Chicago News Letter..... 692
"Chicken Casey" (Triangle)..... 704
Comments on the Films..... 706
Covington Picture House Burns..... 724
Covington Ministers Ask for Censorship... 724

Denver's Paris Theater Sold..... 730
Denver Theaters, Two About to Open..... 730
Des Moines, Exchange Association Formed.. 728
Desmond to Be Starred by Ince..... 698
"Devil's Pay Day, The" (Bluebird)..... 703

Enlightenment Corporation Launched..... 697
"Envy" (McClure) 701

Facts and Comments..... 661
Famous Players-Lasky Invades South America 674
For Sale and To Let Signs..... 669
Fox Man Gets Married..... 674

"Germany and Its Armies of Today" (Germanic) 701
"Girl Like That, A" (Famous Players)..... 701
"Girl of the Timber Claims, The" (Triangle) 704
"Glory" (Unity) 704
"Glory of Yolanda, The" (Vitagraph)..... 703
Goldwynn Pictures Working Fast..... 698
Great Year for Mary Maclaren..... 672

"Her Condoned Sin" (Biograph)..... 705

Indiana Convention 669
Indianapolis Has Endorsed Film Matinees. 724

Legislative Investigators Get Busy..... 665
List of Current Film Release Dates, 752, 754, 756, 758
"Little Shoes" (Essanay)..... 700
"Lost and Won" (Lasky)..... 700
"Love Aflame" (Universal)..... 702

Manitoba Censors Make Misstep..... 733
Manufacturers' Advance Notes..... 709
Michigan Faces State Censorship..... 725
Mignon Feature Co. to Exploit "Civilization"..... 729
Milwaukee, Modern Film Building Proposed. 725
Minneapolis, Permanent Association..... 727
"Modern Monte Cristo, A" (Pathe)..... 700
"Monroe Doctrine, The" (Pathe)..... 700
Motion Picture Educator..... 686
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The..... 667
Motion Picture Photography..... 683
"Motion Picture Trust" Again Sued..... 673
Music for the Picture..... 684
"Mysterious Mrs. M., The" (Bluebird).... 703

News of Los Angeles and Vicinity..... 693
New York Local Gives Dinner..... 668

Oregon Exhibitors Need Organization..... 732

Perfect Organization—No Small Task..... 664
Photoplay League at Rialto..... 666
Photoplaywright, The 678
Pictures for Children..... 667
Picture Theaters Projected..... 717
Pittsburgh Has New Booking Company.... 721
Plans for Albany Convention..... 668
Popular Picture Personalities..... 691
President Ochs vs. Universal Company.... 663
"Primitive Call, The" (Fox)..... 705
Prohibition Picture Seen at Press Club.... 720
Projection Department 679

Reviews of Current Productions..... 700
Ruffner, Ralph, Analyzes his Year's Business 733

St. Louis, Mo., Croakers in..... 726
Seattle, Parent-Teacher Matinees Start..... 732
Secret of Big Profits, The..... 662
Stories of the Films..... 738

Temperance Film, Prohibitionists See..... 722
"Threads of Fate" (Metro)..... 705
"Tillie Wakes Up" (World)..... 703
Toronto Promised a 2,500-Seat Theater.... 723
To Tax Excess Profits..... 665

"Violet Ray, The" (Kalem)..... 702

Waking Up in Idaho..... 668
Washington Club Women Appeal to Public. 720
What Fox Is Doing..... 697
What State Censorship Would Cost..... 664
"Wolf of Los Alamos" (Kalem)..... 702

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.
Jones & Cammack..... 746
Speer Carbon Co. 755

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.
Du Pont Fabrikoid Co. 747
Foco Chair Co..... 744
Steel Furniture Co..... 744

ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL EQUIPMENT.
American Auto-Arc Co., Inc..... 755
Amusement Supply Co..... 761
Bell & Howell 759
Calehuff Supply Co..... 759
Cushman Motor Works..... 760
Fulton, E. E. 757
Hallberg, J. H..... 763
Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co..... 744
Hommel, Ludwig, & Co..... 744
Lucas Theater Supply Co..... 757
Porter, B. F. 742
Strelinger, Chas. A..... 742
Swaab, Lewis M. 746
Typhoon Fan Co..... 753
Universal Motor Co..... 759
Wagner Electric Mfg. Co..... 751
Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co..... 741

FILM EXCHANGES.
Bradenburgh, G. W..... 759

LENS MANUFACTURERS.
Crown Optical Co. 755
Gundlach Manhattan Optical Co..... 753

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.
American Bioscope Co..... 760
Arrow Film Cory..... 650
Artcraft Pictures Corp.....630-31
Biograph Co. 657
Cardinal Film Corp.....632-33
Christie Film Co..... 643
Clune Film Producing Co..... 760
Creative Film Corp..... 656
Enlightenment Photo Play Corp.....622-26
Essanay Film Mfg. Co.....610-11, 654-55
Fox Film Corp. 627
Gaumont Co. 621
German Official War Films, Inc..... 646
Grafton Film Publishing Co..... 744
Goldwyn Pictures Corp.....647
Horsley, David, Productions..... 622
Ince, Thos. H.....Colored Insert
Kalem Co. 660
Kessel & Baumann. 648-49
Kleine, Geo. 653
Knickerbocker Star Features..... 656
McClure Pictures 640-41
Metro Pictures Corp.....Colored Insert 634-35
Mutual Film Corp.....Colored Insert, 619-20
National Drama Corp..... 744
Paramount Pictures Corp.....609, 628-29
Pathe Exchange, Inc.....Colored Insert
Selig Polyscope Co.....658-659
Selznick, Lewis J., Enterprises.....636-37
Thanhouser Film Corp..... 642
Triangle Film Corp.....644-45
Universal Film Mfg. Co.....612-618
Vim Comedies 735
World Film Corp.....638-39

MISCELLANEOUS.
Automatic Ticket Selling & C. R. Co..... 745
Bioscope, The 761
Cahill-Igoe Co. 757
Cine Mundial 737
Corcoran, A. J..... 746
Eastman Kodak Co..... 753
Erbograph Co. 743
Evans Film Mfg. Co..... 760
Fadettes of Boston..... 717
Gunby Bros. 755
Heckel & Smith 755
Johns-Manville, H. W. Co..... 757
Kinematograph Weekly, The..... 745
Kraus Mfg. Co..... 743
Marion, Louise M..... 761
Matthiesen, J. P..... 743
Moore, Wm. N..... 746
Motion Picture Electricity..... 759
M. P. W. Circulation Coupon..... 760
M. P. Directory Co..... 759
National Ticket Co..... 745
New York State Convention..... 762
Overland Park Film Mfg. Co..... 744
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co..... 746
Richardson, F. H..... 759
Richardson's M. P. Handbook..... 747
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co..... 717
Standard M. P. Co..... 748
Superior Films, Inc..... 746
Il Tirso Cinematografo..... 759
Williams, A. F..... 746
Willis & Inglis..... 745

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
Burke & James, Inc..... 760
Gennert, G. 753

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
American Photo Player Co..... 743
Sinn, Clarence E..... 760

POSTERS AND FRAMES.
Menger & Ring..... 743
Schaefer Theater Co..... 742

PROJECTION MACHINE MANUFACTURERS.
American Standard M. P. Mch. Co..... 746
Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co..... 747
Power, Nicholas, Co..... 764
Precision Mch. Co..... 737

PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURERS.
Castle & Rowley..... 760
Genter, J. H., Co., Inc..... 751
Gold King Screen Co..... 759
Minusa Cine Products Co..... 761
Post, Amos 757
Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc..... 748
Universal Picture Screen Corp..... 755

THEATRICAL ARCHITECTS.
Decorators' Supply Co..... 761

To occupy the position we do—as the inventors, the pioneers, the oldest, the largest manufacturers of metallized screens in the world—imposes responsibilities of tremendous importance.

In this time of "here-today-gone-tomorrow" paint brush manufacturers—imitators of the universally conceded world's best Projection Surface

MIRROROID

it is only fair to advise every exhibitor that we realize these responsibilities.

Isn't the fact that we have made over

9700—Mirroroid Installations—9700

convincing proof that MIRROROID is the Screen Supreme—the Screen You Should Buy?

The World's Best—Bar None

It is the only screen in the world sold under a real five-year guarantee that it won't—that it can't—crack, peel, or tarnish—the only screen that can be washed with soap and water —yes, hot water. Above all, the only screen in the world that has stood the test of time and of universal public opinion.

Don't Fall for Any Bunk from Manufacturers or Agents!

Investigate before you buy! Why spend your good money for a screen of regrets? Think it over—"Use the Brains God Gave You." Get our large, free samples. Test, compare with any screen on earth. Let us show you—give you proof—the evidence of your own eyes!

Don't join that great army of Fall Guys! Don't fall for the Agent's Bunk!

Make them test their specially prepared sample against our cut-offs or trims which we send out as samples representing just what we will sell you—what you will get.

For Your Protection

ALL MIRROROID screens are manufactured under real patents, also registered trade-mark.

They are made with a pale blue backing, seamless up to 12 feet, stamped every three feet "Genuine Mirroroid," as you prefer—Silver White, Pale Gold, or Silver Flesh.

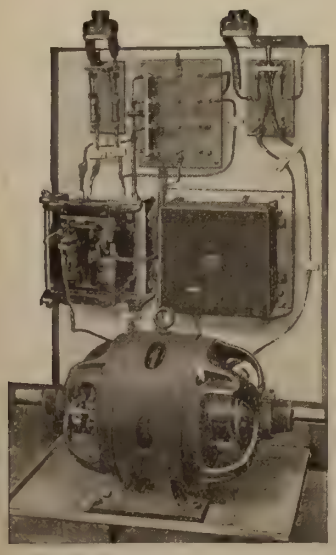
Yours at 33⅓ Cents a Square Foot! Why Pay More?

Get Our Large, Free Samples, Endorsements, etc.

THE J. H. GENTER CO. Inc., Newburgh, N. Y.

Our daily output of metallized screens is more than the combined output of all of our competitors put together

There Are Many Supply Dealers



reaping profits from the seed we sow. For those who have overlooked the Wagner White Light Converter there is an agreeable surprise awaiting them.

To sell your customers the best and most enduring at a reasonable price means a cemented friendship that brings the customer back again for other supplies. Back of

The Wagner WHITE LIGHT Converter

is the Wagner guarantee of quality and endurance. This is the type of apparatus that will make the dealer a reputation.

Will you send today for bulletin 10923 and prices?

Wagner Electric Manufacturing Company,
Saint Louis, Missouri

431

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON GENERAL FILM COMPANY PROGRAM

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 734, 736.)

General Film Company

BIOGRAPH.

Dec. 5—A Bit of Human Driftwood (Two parts—Drama—Biograph Reissue).
Dec. 11—Her Sacrifice (Drama) (Biograph Reissue).
Dec. 18—The Honor of the Law (Two parts—Drama) (Biograph reissue).
Dec. 18—The Conscience of Hassan Bey (Reissue—Drama).
Dec. 19—His Wife's Story (Reissue—Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—Two Men of the Desert (Reissue—Drama).
Dec. 27—The Rehearsal (Reissue—Two parts—Drama).

ESSANAY.

Jan. 2—The Girl God Made for Jones (Two parts—"Black Cat Feature"—Comedy-Drama).
Jan. 3—A Dollar Down (Comedy).
Yosemite Valley (Scenic).
Jan. 6—When the Man Speaks (Fourth of "Is Marriage Sacred"—Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 9—Among Those Present ("Black Cat Feature") (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 10—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 22 (Cartoon Comedy).
—Yosemite Valley No. 2 (Scenic).
Jan. 13—The Wide, Wrong Way (Fifth of "Is Marriage Sacred"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 16—The Little Missionary ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 17—One on Him (Comedy).
—Scenic on same reel.
Jan. 20—The Sinful Marriage (Sixth of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 23—What Would You Do ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 24—Canimated Nooz Pictorial, No. 23 (Cartoon Comedy).
—Alaskan Scenic on same reel.
Jan. 27—The Magic Mirror (Seventh of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 30—Three Ways Out ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 31—Mr. Wright in Wrong (Comedy).
Feb. 3—Is Marriage Sacred (No. 8, "Shifting Shadows"—Two parts—Drama).

KALEM.

Jan. 5—The House of Secrets (No. 12 of Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Jan. 6—The Mogul Mountain Mystery (No. 113 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).
Jan. 9—Rival Romeos (Comedy).
Jan. 10—The Resurrection of Gold Bar (No. 22 of "The Girl From 'Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 12—The Trial of Graft (No. 13 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—(Drama).
Jan. 13—The Fireman's Nemesis (No. 114 of "The Haz-ds of Helen"—Drama).
Jan. 16—Cupid's Caddies (Comedy).
Jan. 17—The Homesteader's Feud (No. 23 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 19—The Black Circle (No. 14 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Jan. 20—The Wrecked Station (No. 115 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).
Jan. 23—The Blundering Blacksmiths (Com.).
Jan. 24—Wolf of Los Alamos (No. 24 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 26—The Violet Ray (No. 15 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Jan. 27—The Railroad Claim Intrigue (No. 116 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Dr.).
Jan. 30—The Safety Pin Smugglers (Comedy).
Jan. 31—The Dominion of Fernandez (No. 25 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 2—The Net of Intrigue (No. 16 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Feb. 3—The Death Siding (No. 117 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).

SELIG.

Jan. 1—Selig-Tribune, No. 1 (Topical).
Jan. 4—Selig-Tribune, No. 2 (Topical).
Jan. 6—In Payment of the Past (Drama).
Jan. 8—Starring in Western Stuff (Two parts—Comedy-Drama).
Jan. 8—Selig-Tribune No. 3 (Topical).
Jan. 11—Selig-Tribune No. 4 (Topical).
Jan. 13—The Making of Bob Mason's Wife (Drama).
Jan. 15—Delayed in Transit (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 15—Selig-Tribune No. 5 (Topical).
Jan. 18—Selig-Tribune No. 6 (Topical).
Jan. 20—Cupid's Touchdown (Comedy).
Jan. 22—On Italy's Firing Line (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—Selig-Tribune, No. 7 (Topical).
Jan. 25—Selig-Tribune, No. 8 (Topical).
Jan. 27—The Luck That Jealousy Brought (Drama.
Jan. 29—Lost and Found (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—Selig-Tribune, No. 9 (Topical).
Feb. 1—Selig-Tribune, No. 10 (Topical).
Feb. 3—The Saddle Girth (Drama).

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

Dec. 13—Charity Begins at Home (Comedy).
Dec. 20—They Practice Economy (Comedy).
Dec. 27—Her Financial Frenzy (Comedy).

VIM.

Dec. 28—Fat and Fickle (Comedy).
Dec. 29—The Property Man (Comedy).
Jan. 3—No release this day.
Jan. 4—The Boycotted Baby (Comedy).
Jan. 5—Reckless Romeos (Comedy)
Jan. 10—No release this day.
Jan. 11—His Movie Mustache (Comedy).
Jan. 12—The Property Man (Comedy).
Jan. 17—(No release this day).
Jan. 18—Terrible Kate (Comedy).
Jan. 19—War Correspondents (Comedy).
Jan. 25—The Love Bugs (Comedy).
Jan. 26—It's All Wrong (Comedy).
Feb. 1—The Other Girl (Comedy).
Feb. 2—A Job for Life (Comedy).

VITAGRAPH.

Jan. 1—His Lesson (Comedy).
Jan. 5—The Twin Fedoras (No. 3 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Broadway Star Feature—Comedy—Drama).
Jan. 6—Billy Smoke (Three parts—Broadway Star Feature—Comedy).
Jan. 8—Jones Keeps House (Comedy).
Jan. 12—One Good Turn (No. 4 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Broadway Star Feature—Comedy—Drama).
Jan. 15—The Mystery of Lake Lethe —Drama).
Jan. 16—The Meeting (No. 1 of "The Skipper's Mate"—Broadway Star Feature—Drama).
Jan. 19—The Professional Patient (Comedy).
Jan. 19—The Suitor of Siam (No. 5 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Broadway Star Feature—Comedy—Drama).

General Film Company Features

BLACK CAT FEATURE.

Jan. 2—The Girl God Made for Jones (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 9—Among Those Present (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 16—The Little Missionary (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 23—What Would You Do? (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 30—Three Ways Out (Two parts—Dr.).

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.

Dec. 29—The Luck Charm (No. 2 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Dr.).
Jan. 5—The Twin Fedoras (No. 3 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Dr.).
Jan. 6—Billy Smoke (Three parts—Comedy).
Jan. 12—One Good Turn (No. 4 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Dr.).
Jan. 16—The Meeting (No. 1 of "The Skipper's Mate—Drama).
Jan. 16—The Suitor of Siam (No. 5 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Dr.).

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

Dec. 22—The Dawn of Wisdom (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 5—Temptation and the Girl (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 19—The Room of Mystery (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 2—Crossed Trail (Three parts—Drama).

A Welcome Visitor Each Week in Every Business Home Where Moving Pictures Are of Interest

The Moving Picture World

Is Admirably Adapted to Carry Any Little Message Which You May Wish to Send

Our Classified Advertisements at Five Cents Per Word
Will Produce Remarkable Results —One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less.

Send Copy, with remittance, to CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City

A scenario department

considers only type-written manuscripts—others are too hard to follow.

Your audiences are interested in clear pictures only—for the same reason.

The clearest pictures are on Eastman Film—identifiable by the stencil mark

"EASTMAN"

in the margin.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

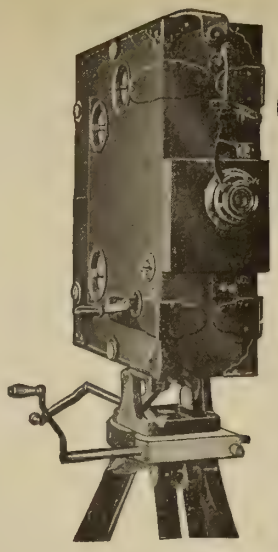

PHOTO CINES NO. 4 CAMERA and TRIPOD

fitted with Zeiss Tessar Lens F3.5—
Automatic diaphragm dissolve, single turn and reverse action, film punch, adjustable frame line.

Price $250.00 Complete

SEND FOR COMPLETE CATALOGUE

TOPICAL-PATHE-DEBRIE CAMERAS AND ACCESSORIES

G. GENNERT

24-26 E. 13th St. New York
320 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago
455 S. Olive St. Los Angeles
693 Mission St. San Francisco

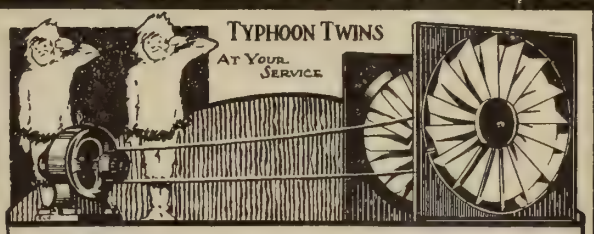
The best theatres in the country are equipped with

Gundlach Projection Lenses

This is in recognition of their superior illuminating power and perfect correction for a sharp, brilliant picture.

IT'S ALL IN THE LENS

Gundlach-Manhattan Optical Co.
808 So. Clinton Ave., Rochester, N. Y.



—does your business fall off in hot weather?

It won't if the TYPHOON TWINS cool your theatre.

Their fresh-as-sea-air breezes will make your entire house cool and restful during the hot, sultry summer months.

Folks will come to your show just to be cooled off—and their extra nickels and dimes will pay for the TYPHOON TWINS long before the summer is over.

Low in cost. Easily installed. Liberal terms of payment, if you act at once, before our spring rush begins.

A post card brings full information. Send it NOW—while you think of it.

Typhoon Fan Company
Box A, 1544 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

TYPHOONS COOL & VENTILATE
TYPHOON FAN COMPANY 1544 B'WAY NEW-YORK CITY

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 734, 736.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.

Jan. 10—Number 54 (Topical).
Jan. 17—Number 55 (Topical).
Jan. 24—Number 56.
Jan. 31—Number 57 (Topical).
Feb. 7—Number 58 (Topical).

BIG U.

Jan. 14—The Call for Help (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 18—Bloodhounds of the North (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 19—The Little Rebel's Sacrifice (Drama).
Jan. 24—The Red Goddess (Drama).
Jan. 25—A Wife's Folly (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—A Jungle Tragedy (Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 31—The Gold Lust (Drama).
Feb. 7—Red Vengeance (Drama).
Feb. 9—Title not yet decided.

BISON.

Jan. 6—Blood Money (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 13—The Bad Man of Cheyenne (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 20—Brute Force (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 27—The Daring Chance (Two parts—Dr.).
Feb. 3—The Boonton Affair (Two parts—Dr.).
Feb. 10—The Outlaw and the Lady (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Jan. 9—The Mystery of My Lady's Boudoir (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 16—The Prodigal Widow (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 23—Souls United (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 30—June Madness (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 6—Won by Grit (Three parts—Drama).

IMP.

Jan. 5—The Moral Right (Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 7—The Whelp (Drama).
Jan. 12—Honorably Discharged (Drama).
Jan. 13—John Bates' Secret (Drama).
Jan. 14—Midnight (Drama).
Jan. 17—A Slave of Fear (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 25—Black Evidence (Drama).
Jan. 26—The Fugitive (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 1—The Diamond Thieves (Drama).
Feb. 2—The Forbidden Game (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Diamonds of Destiny (Drama).
Feb. 9—Avarice (Drama).
Feb. 11—When Thieves Fall Out—Two parts—Drama).

JOKER.

Jan. 11—When Damon Fell for Pythias (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 13—Mines and Matrimony (Comedy).
Jan. 20—Barred from the Bar (Comedy).
Jan. 27—Love Me, Love My Biscuits (Com.).
Feb. 3—His Coming Out Party—Comedy).
Feb. 10—Out for the Dough (Comedy).

LAEMMLE.

Jan. 3—Alone in the World (Special release—Drama).
Jan. 10—The Face Downstairs (Drama).
Jan. 20—Homeless (Drama).
Jan. 27—The Blood-Stained Hand (Drama).
Feb. 10—A Studio Cinderella (Drama).

L-KO.

Dec. 20—Shooting His 'Art Out (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 27—The Perils of a Plumber (Comedy).
Dec. 29—Phil's Busy Day (Comedy).
Jan. 3—On the Trail of the Lonesome Pill (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 10—A Limburger Cyclone (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 17—Heartsick at Sea (Comedy).
Jan. 21—Up the Flue (Comedy).
Jan. 24—The Battle of "Let's Go" (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 31—Faking Fakers (Two parts—Com.).
Feb. 7—That Dawgone Dog (Two parts—Dr.).

NESTOR.

Dec. 11—Two Small Town Romeos (Comedy).
Dec. 15—I'm Your Husband (Comedy).
Dec. 18—It Sounded Like a Kiss (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Pretty Baby (Comedy).
Jan. 1—Practice What You Preach (Comedy).
Jan. 8—One Thousand Miles an Hour (Com.).
Jan. 15—Treat 'Em Rough (Comedy).
Jan. 22—A Macoroni Sleuth (Comedy).
Jan. 29—Why Uncle (Comedy).
Feb. 5—His Wife's Relatives (Comedy).

POWERS.

Jan. 14—Mr. Fuller Pep, He Celebrates His Wedding Anniversary (Cartoon—Comedy).
—Wonders of the Orient as Seen by Dr. Dorsey (Edu.).
Jan. 21—Mr. Fullerpep—He Goes to the Country (Cartoon Comedy).
—In the Land of the Sun of Heaven as Seen by Dr. Dorsey (Educational).
Jan. 28—Boomer Bill's Awakening (Cartoon Comedy).
—Behind the Great Wall of China (Dorsey—Edu.).
Feb. 4—Mr. Fuller Pep—His Wife Goes for a Rest (Cartoon Comedy).
—In North China (Dorsey Educational).
Feb. 8—Giants of the American Forest (Educational).
Feb. 11—Fearless Freddie in the Woolly West Cartoon Comedy) and Joys and Tears of China (Educational).

RED FEATHER.

Jan. 1—Polly Put the Kettle On (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—Fighting for Love (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 15—The Double Room Mystery (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—Heart Strings (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—Love Aflame (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 5—The Scarlet Crystal (Five parts—Dr.).

REX.

Jan. 4—The Red Stain (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—The Wall of Money (Drama).
Jan. 12—The Whispered Name (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The Bubble of Love (Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 28—The Old Toymaker (Drama).
Feb. 8—The Melody of Death (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—In the Shadows of Night (Drama).

VICTOR.

Jan. 9—A Gentleman of Nerve (Comedy).
Jan. 12—The Wrong Mary Wright (Com.-Dr.).
Jan. 16—The Masked Cupid (Comedy).
Jan. 18—Putting One Over on Ignatz (Comedy).
Jan. 19—His Little Room Mate (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 23—The Honeymoon Surprise (Comedy).
Jan. 25—The Black Nine (Comedy).
Jan. 26—Hell by the Enemy (Comedy).
Jan. 30—Some Baby (Novelty).
—Nellie, the Fireman's Daughter (Comedy).
Feb. 1—It's Cheaper to Be Married (Comedy).
Feb. 2—The Hero of Bunko Hill (Comedy).
Feb. 6—The Valley of Beautiful Things (Juvenile Comedy).
Feb. 9—The High Cost of Starving (Comedy).

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

Dec. 8—Number 2.
Dec. 22—Number 3.
Jan. 5—Number 4.
Jan. 19—Number 5.
Feb. 2—Number 6.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Jan. 14—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 3 "The Capture"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 4, "Facing Death"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 5, "Ablaze in Mid Air"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 1—The War Waif (Two parts—Drama—Special Release).
Feb. 4—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 6—The Silent Feud—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 7, "The Race for Freedom"—Two parts—Drama).

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN.

Dec. 2—The Capture of Rattlesnake Ike (Dr.) (Reissue).
Jan. 20—Almost a Friar (Drama).
Jan. 27—A Double Revenge (Drama).
Feb. 3—Nature's Calling (Drama).

CUB.

Jan. 4—Jerry's Double Header (Comedy).
Jan. 11—Jerry's Winning Way (Comedy).
Jan. 18—Jerry's Big Doings (Comedy).
Jan. 25—Jerry and the Outlaws (Comedy).
Feb. 1—Jerry and His Pal (Comedy).

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS.

Jan. 10—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 3 "Ace High"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 17—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 4, "The White Trail"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 24—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 5—"Many a Slip"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 31—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 6, "A Long Lane"—Two parts—Drama).

NORTH AMERICAN.

Dec. 18—Sequel to Diamond from the Sky (Chapter 4—"The Climax"—Two parts—Drama).

GAUMONT.

Jan. 17—See America First, No. 71 (Subject on reel: A Trip Up Mt. Lowe, Cal. (Scenic).
—Mr. Common Peepul Investigates (Cartoon Comedy).
Jan. 21—Reel Life No. 38 (Subjects on reel: Oranges in California; The Air; The Hyro-Ski; Automatic Apple Graders; How to Remove Shattered Glass) (Mutual Film Magazine).
Jan. 23—Tours Around the World, No. 12 (Subjects on reel: Bordeaux to Pauillac, France; Monastery of St. Thessalonica, Greece; Gorges of the Nive, French Pyrenees) (Travel).
Jan. 24—See America First, No. 72 (subject: Historic Virginia) (Scenic).
—Absent Minded Willie (Cartoon Com.).
Jan. 28—Reel Life No. 39 (Subjects on Reel: X Rays in War Time; Decorative Butterflies; Salt; The Real Hula Hula) (Mutual Film Magazine).
Jan. 30—Tours Around the World, No. 13 (Subjects on Reel: Teheran, Persia; Coast Resorts of Normandy; Winter in the Vosges Mountains) (Travel).
Jan. 31—See America First, No. 73 (Subject: San Diego, Cal. (Scenic).
—Never Again (Kartoon Komic.

MONOGRAM

Jan. 15—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 1, "Shorty and the Yellow Ring" (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 2, "Shorty in the Tiger's Den"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 3, "Shorty Goes to College"—Two parts—Drama).

MUTUAL.

Jan. 8—When Hands Are Idle (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 12—Uncle Sam's Defenders No. 2 (Our Boys at the Border) (Topical.
Jan. 19—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 3 ("A Jack Tar in the Making"—Top.).
Jan. 26—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 4 "Afloat and Ashore" (Topical).
Feb. 2—Scouts of the Sea and Sky (No. 5 of "Uncle Sam's Defenders" (Top.).

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Jan. 17—Number 107 (Topical).
Jan. 24—Number 108 (Topical).
Jan. 31—Number 109 (Topical).
Feb. 7—Number 110 (Topical).

(Mutual Releases continued on page 756.)

Do Not Let Your Competitors attract any of your patrons by better illuminated pictures, when a projection lens will enable you to secure the best possible results in illumination.

Marlux

With a Marlux your operator can do justice to the most expensive films, bringing out their full value to the delight of your patrons.

In addition to its optical perfection, the Marlux lens focuses without any possibility of a displacement of the image on the screen because it is constructed on mechanically correct principles and does not rotate.

See your Dealer or write direct to

CROWN OPTICAL COMPANY
Rochester, N. Y.

CORRECT

COMBINATIONS

FOR

Speer "Hold-Ark"

HARD CORED — METAL COATED
LOWER CARBONS

DIRECT CURRENT

40-50 Amperes	5/ 8 x 12″	Speer Cored Carbon (upper)
	7/16 x 6″	Speer Hold-Ark (lower)
50-60 Amperes	3/ 4 x 12″	Speer Cored Carbon (upper)
	7/16 x 6″	Speer Hold-Ark (lower)
60-80 Amperes	7/ 8 x 12″	Speer Cored Carbon (upper)
	1/ 2 x 6″	Speer Hold-Ark (lower)
80-100 Amperes	1 x 12″	Speer Cored Carbon (upper)
	9/16 x 6″	Speer Hold-Ark (lower)

FOR SALE BY THE LEADING
MOTION PICTURE SUPPLY HOUSES

THE CARBONS THAT ARE GUARANTEED

Speer Carbon Company
ST. MARYS, PA.

Perfect Developing and Printing

Negatives Delevoped. 1c ft.
Positive Printing . . . 4c ft.

TITLES in any language complete 5c per foot
Cards Free Tinting Free

Satisfaction guaranteed by our fifteen years' experience Special price on quantity orders

GUNBY BROS., Inc., 145 West 45th Street, New York City

"BRADOIL" LUBRICANTS

Scientifically Prepared Lubricants for Delicate Machinery
Refined from Pennsylvania Crude
Free from Organic and Mineral Acids
"Bradoil" F.1—For Motion Picture Cameras and Projection Machines

Send 25c for trial bottle.

HECKEL & SMITH
150 Chestnut St., Bradford, Pa.

THE LATEST IN PROJECTION SCREENS

The Pannill Patent. Iese-Reflex-Lily White.

The New Process Pannill Reflecting Screens are the most perfect reflecting screens that can be produced.

They bring Joy to the Patrons, Gold to the Managers and Contentment to Machine Operators.

The Iese—"Gold"—Reflex—"Silver"—Lily White—"Lead." Three in one—same cost, same perfection in their class. Highest testimonials of merit. Hand made—self-tightening. Guaranteed.

Investigate this Screen. The Best Screen on the market, regardless of cost.

Leading Supply Houses distributors. Write for Data, Circulars and Samples.

UNIVERSAL PICTURE SCREEN CORP. 14 N. 7th STREET RICHMOND, VA.

Cut that out, Operator

Keep both hands free—not one on the feed rod all the time. Get the Boss to put in an Auto-Arc like other houses are doing. Set it once, and it keeps a perfect arc for you without further attention. Impossible for carbons to freeze or burn apart. Makes pictures clear, sharp and snappy.

AUTO-ARC

was invented by a practical operator who knows what your troubles are, and how much you have to do. It never goes wrong. Simplicity itself. Get one on 30 days' trial. You can put it on, and, once you have tried it, you or the Boss won't have it taken away again. He will like it because it soon pays for itself. It actually saves about one-fourth of the current.

Price f. o. b. factory Owensboro, Ky., only $60.00. Money back guarantee.

Write for further information.

American Auto-Arc Co., Inc.
407 S. Dearborn St. CHICAGO, ILL.

NOTICE—Owing to advance in price of materials, the price of the Auto-Arc will be changed on January 1, 1917, from $60.00 to $67.50. Price after February 1, $75.00.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 734, 736.)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 754.)

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

December—The Rink (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 22—Easy Street (Two parts—Comedy).

MUTUAL SPECIAL.

Dec.—Charity (Seven parts—Drama).

MUTUAL STAR COMEDY.

Dec. 9—Admirers Three (Comedy).
Dec. 16—One Dollar Please (Comedy).
Dec. 23—Every Lassie Has a Lover (Comedy).
Dec. 30—Grimsey the Bell Hop (Comedy).
Jan. 6—The Girl Who Can Cook (Comedy).
Jan. 13—The Honeymooners (Comedy).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Jan. 1—A Gilded Youth (Five parts—Drama—American) (No. 163).
Jan. 8—The Butterfly Girl (Fisher—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—Beloved Rogues (Five parts—Drama—No. 165).
Jan. 22—The Gentle Intruder (American—Five Parts—Drama—No. 166).
Jan. 29—Pardners (Five parts—Drama (No. 165).

NOVELTY.

Nov. 25—An Artful Dodge (Comedy).
Dec. 16—Peter the Comic Poet (Comedy).

SIGNAL FILM CORP.

Jan. 7—A Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 12 (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 13 Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 14—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 15—Two parts—Drama).

VOGUE.

Jan. 14—A Lisle Bank (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 21—Tailor's Trimmings (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 28—A Circus Cyclone (Two parts—Com.).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Dec. 4—The Black Butterfly (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—Vanity (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—Bridges Burned (Five parts—Drama).

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORP.

Jan. 8—A Wife by Proxy (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 22—Threads of Fate (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 5—The End of the Tour (Five parts—Drama).

ROLFE.

Dec. 18—The Awakening of Helena Richie (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The White Raven (Five parts—Dr.).

SERIAL PRODUCING CO.

Jan. 8—The Great Secret (Episode No. 1 "The Secret Seven—Three parts—Dr.).
Jan. 15—The Great Secret (Episode No. 2, "The Casket of Tainted Treasure"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—The Great Secret (Episode No. 3, "The Hidden Hand"—Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 29—The Great Secret (Episode, No. 4, "From Sunshine to Shadow"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 5—The Great Secret (Episode No. 5—"The Trap"—Two parts—Drama).

YORKE.

Nov. 20—Big Tremaine (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—Pidgin Island (Five parts—Dr.).

METRO COMEDIES.

Jan. 1—The Matinee Idol (Rolma—Comedy).
Jan. 8—Cave Man's Luff (Drew—Comedy).
Jan. 15—His Perfect Day (Drew Comedy).
Jan. 22—Married But Single (Rolma—Com.).
Jan. 29—The Pest (Drew—Comedy).
Feb. 5—Blackmail (Drew—Comedy).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY.

Nov. 27—Their Counterfeit Vacation (Com.).
Dec. 11—His Ivory Dome (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Their Week End (Comedy).
Jan. 8—Braving Blazes (Comedy).
Jan. 22—He Did It Himself (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.

Dec. 18—Traveling Salesman (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—Snow White (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—The Slave Market (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 8—Great Expectations (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 18—A Girl Like That (Five parts—Dr.).

KLEVER COMEDY.

Dec. 4—The Best Man (Comedy).
Dec. 18—In Society and Out (Comedy).
Jan. 1—He Meant Well (Comedy).
Jan. 15—Did It Ever Happen to You (Comedy).

LASKY.

Jan. 4—The Evil Eye (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—Betty to the Rescue (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 22—Lost and Won (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 25—The Golden Fetter (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 5—Each to His Kind (Five parts—Dr.).

MOROSCO AND PALLAS.

Dec. 28—The Redeeming Love (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 11—The Happiness of Three Women (Five parts—Drama)
Jan. 29—His Sweetheart (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 1—The Wax Model (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT.

Nov. 30—Martyrdom of Phillip Strong (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY CARTOONS.

Nov. 16—Colonel Heeza Liar Hobo (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 23—Bobby Bumps Queers the Choir (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 30—What Happened to Willie (Cartoon-Comedy).
Dec. 7—Farmer Al Falfa's Blind Pig (Comedy).
Dec. 14—Bobby Bumps Helps a Book Agent (Comedy).
Dec. 21—Percy Brains He Has Nix (Comedy).
Dec. 28—Jack the Giant Killer (Comedy).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Jan. 8—Quaint Quebec (Scenic).
Jan. 15—Montreal, Old and New (Scenic).
Jan. 22—Ottawa and Toronto (Scenic).
Jan. 29—Georgian Bay to Winnipeg (Scenic).

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.

Nov. 20—43d Release (Edu.).
Dec. 3—44th Release (Edu).
Dec. 10—45th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 17—46th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 24—47th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 31—48th Release (Edu.).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.

Jan. 7—Pearl of the Army, No. 6, "Major Brent's Perfidy" (Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 14—Pearl of the Army, No. 7, "For the Stars and Stripes" (Two Parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Pearl of the Army (No. 8, "International Diplomacy"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—Pearl of the Army (No. 9, "The Monroe Doctrine"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Pearl of the Army, No. 10 (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD ROOSTER.

Jan. 7—Her New York (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—Kick In (Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The Image Maker (Thanhouser—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—Twin Kiddies (Balboa—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—A Modern Monte Cristo (Thanhouser—Five parts—Drama).

PATHE.

Jan. 21—The Stolen Birthright (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 15 (Preparing for the South—Fashion).
—Small Birds of Warm Climates (Colored Educational).
Jan. 28—The Stolen Inheritance (Drama).
Jan. 28—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 16 (North and South—Fashions).
—Butterflies and Bees (Colored Educational).
Feb. 4—Rods of Wrath (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Florence Rose Fashions No. 17, "Where Fashions Reign" (Fashions).
—An Algerian Harem (Educational).

HEARST-PATHE NEWS.

Jan. 24—Number 8 (Topical).
Jan. 27—Number 9 (Topical).
Jan. 31—Number 10 (Topical).
Feb. 3—Number 11—Topical).
Feb. 7—Number 12 (Topical).
Feb 10—Number 13 (Topical).

INTERNATIONAL.

Jan. 14—Patria (Episode No. 1, "The Last of the Fighting Channings"—Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Patria (Episode No. 2, "Treasure"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—A Tankless Job (Jerry on the Job—Cartoon Comedy).
—A Fishing Trip through Uncle Sam's Wonderland (Scenic).
Jan. 28—Patria (Episode No. 3, "Winged Millions"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—Der Captain is Examined for Insurance (Cartoon Comedy).
—In the Southern Highlands (Scenic).
Feb. 4—Patria (Episode No. 4—Two parts—Drama).

ROLIN.

Jan. 7—Luke's Lost Liberty (Comedy).
Jan. 14—Schemer Skinny's Schemes (Comedy).
Jan. 21—Luke's Busy Day (Comedy).—
Jan. 28—Drama's Dreadful Deal (Comedy).
Feb. 4—Luke's Trolley Troubles (Comedy).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.

Jan. 14—The Little Yank (Fine Arts—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Nina, the Flower Girl (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—The Americano (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Jim Bludso (Five parts—Drama).

KAY-BEE.

Jan. 7—Truthful Tulliver (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 7—The Weaker Sex (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 14—The Bride of Hate (Kay Bee—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The Iced Bullet (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 28—Chicken Casey (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—The Crab (Five parts—Drama).

KEYSTONE.

Jan. 14—Love Under Cover (Comedy).
Jan. 14—The Pipe of Discontent (Comedy).
Jan 21—A Noble Fraud (Comedy).
Jan. 21—Honest Thieves (Comedy).
Jan. 28—Heart Strategy (Comedy).
Jan. 28—A Grab Bag Bride (Comedy).
Feb. 4—The Male Governess (Comedy).
Feb. 4—The Road Agent (Comedy).

SUPERPICTURES, INC.

Jan. 29—Seven Deadly Sins—"Envy" (Five Parts—McClure Pictures—Drama).
Feb. 5—Seven Deadly Sins—"Pride" (Five parts—McClure Pictures—Drama).
Feb. 12—Seven Deadly Sins—"Passion" (McClure Pictures—Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—Seven Deadly Sins—"Greed" (McClure Pictures—Five parts—Dr.).

Unicorn Film Service.

BUFFALO.

Dec. 11—The Slave of Passion (Drama).
Dec. 15—Fires of Fate (Two parts—Drama).

GAIETY.

Dec. 1—Watches and Women (Comedy).
Dec. 14—Kisses and Flats (Comedy).

HIPPO.

Nov. 20—Cupid's Torpedoes (Comedy).
Dec. 13—The High Cost of Living (Comedy).

JOCKEY.

Nov. 30—Curse You, Jack Dalton (Comedy).
Dec. 17—A Devil in His Own Home (Com.).

(Continued on page 758.)

Genuine Silveroid Screens

Guaranteed Blakelock Finish in Silveroid or Golden Tints.

Send for samples and prices before placing your order. My product will surprise you.

I also make the most practical and economical electric sign and sign flasher with three color changes on the market.

AMOS POST,
Church Street, Catskill, N. Y.

ARE YOU BOTHERED

with terminals burning off your lamp?

The FULCO lug easily overcomes this trouble, because it takes the firmest possible grip on the wire and offers no electrical resistance.

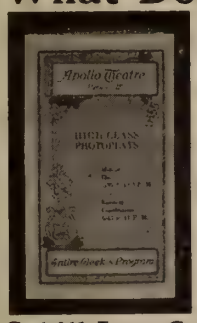
PRICE EACH 25c.

SEND FOR CIRCULAR

E. E. FULTON CO.
152 W. LAKE ST.,
CHICAGO

FULCO

What Does De Luxe Mean?



When they asked a colored gentleman what it meant, he replied: "It done mean jes' what it says. A thing what's de luxe can allus be told by de looks." Our

4-Page Program De Luxe

is an artistic creation of rare beauty, printed in three colors and twelve designs. It is intended for the exhibitor who enjoys a first-class patronage and desires to build and hold a clientele of character. A full week's program may be run on the two inside pages, and the back cover, if sold as advertising space, may be made to Pay the Entire Cost of the program. If you're running a first-class theatre, you simply must have the De Luxe program. It will pay big in prestige. Territorial protection guaranteed. Send for samples to Cahill-Igoe Company "Direct Advertising Specialists" 117 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

BARGAINS!

We have on hand in our second-hand department the greatest line of used or rebuilt complete moving picture machines ever assembled. GENUINE VALUES, PERFECT CONDITION, LOW PRICES. POWER'S, SIMPLEX, EDISON and MOTIOGRAPH

SOLE SOUTHERN DISTRIBUTORS FOR
SIMPLEX PROJECTORS

THEATRE ACCESSORIES
LUCAS THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY

ATLANTA (158 Marietta) GEORGIA
"Recognized as Dixieland's Biggest and Best Mail Order House"

JOHNS-MANVILLE SERVICE
COVERS THE CONTINENT

Announcements
NOTICE: To Insure the safety of our patrons, this theatre is protected by the Johns-Manville Fire Extinguisher
J-M

A special offer to moving picture theatres

To each theatre buying a J-M Fire Extinguisher, we will deliver a free slide for announcements, as illustrated.

ADVERTISE THE SAFETY OF YOUR THEATRE

Here's a real opportunity to add to your reputation for up-to-the-minute service—to protect both your patrons and your theatre, and to "cash in" on it at the box office. Let your audiences know you're securing their safety—It's sound business, because such service pulls patronage. With a

Johns-Manville Fire Extinguisher

you can smother any incipient fire – even gasoline or electrical arcs. And it's the only one-quart extinguisher that discharges either by pumping or by stored-up air pressure —an invaluable feature in tight corners. Liquid is non-deteriorating, and harmless to skin, fabric or machinery.

Examined, approved, and labeled by the Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., under the direction of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Price, brass or nickel finish, bracket included, $8.00.

Take advantage of this special offer—write today to the nearest J-M Branch for full details.

H. W. JOHNS-MANVILLE CO.
NEW YORK CITY
Branches in 55 large cities

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 734, 736.)

(Continued from page 756)

JUDY.
Dec. 8—Rocking the Baby to Sleep (Comedy).
Dec. 12—You Never Can Tell (Comedy).
Dec. 15—Mary Lost Her Lamb (Comedy).

PURITAN.
Nov. 14—The Inner Soul (Three parts—Drama).

RANCHO.
Dec. 1—The Brand of Cain (Drama).
Dec. 14—Desert Gold (Drama).

SUNSET.
Dec. 13—The Trail of Fate (Two parts—Dr.).

SUPREME.
Dec. 11—Love's Wilderness (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—The Challenge of Chivalry (Two parts—Drama).

LILY.
Nov. 20—The Path of Life (Two parts—Drama).

HIAWATHA.
Dec. 12—The Woman He Wed (Two parts—Drama).

UTAH.
Dec. 8—Love's Mirage (Drama).
Dec. 14—A Belle of the Sage Brush (Drama).

BILLY WEST COMEDIES.
Dec. 8—Boarders and Bombs (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 15—His Waiting Career (Two parts—Dr.).

Feature Releases

ART DRAMAS, INC.
Jan. 4—The Rainbow (Sherrill Feature Corp.—Drama).
Jan. 11—Infidelity (Drama).
Jan. 18—God of Little Children (Apollo Pictures, Inc.—Drama).

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.
Nov. 6—Less Than the Dust (Mary Pickford—Seven parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Pride of The Clan (Drama).

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.
Jan.—Her Condoned Sin (Six parts—Drama).

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAY, INC.
Jan. 1—Black Orchids (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Piper's Price (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 15—Her Soul's Inspiration (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—God's Crucible (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—The Devil's Pay Day (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 5—The Mysterious Mrs. M. (Five parts—Drama).

CARDINAL FILM CORP.
December—Joan, the Woman (Eleven parts).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.
Jan. 1—His Model Wife (Comedy).
Jan. 8—Her Crooked Career (Comedy).
Jan. 15—Black Hands and Sompsuda (Comedy).
Jan. 22—Her Friend, the Chauffeur (Comedy).

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORPORATION.
Nov. 20—The Crimson Stain Mystery No. 14 (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 15 (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 16 (Two parts—Drama).

DIXIE FILM CORP.
December—Just a Song at Twilight (Five parts—Drama).
Dec.—Tempest and Sunshine (Five parts—Dr.). Drama).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.
Dec. 4—The Vixen (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Battle of Life (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 18—The Love Thief (Five parts—Drama).
Dec. 25—The Victim (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—The Island of Desire (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Price of Silence (Special Release—Drama).
Jan. 8—A Modern Cinderella (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The Bitter Truth (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 22—The Darling of Paris (Special Release—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—The Primitive Call (Five Parts—Dr.).
Jan. 29—One Touch of Sin (Five parts—Dr.).

FOXFILM COMEDY.
Jan. 1—Social Pirates (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 8—Chased Into Love (Two parts—Com.).
Jan. 8—Noah's Ark (Comedy).
Jan. 22—Her Father's Station (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 29—There's Many a Fool (Two parts—Comedy).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).
Jan. 15—Jolts and Jewelry (Comedy).
Jan. 15—Captain Jinks' Stingy Spirit (Com.).
Jan. 20—The Glory of Yolanda (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 4, "The Honorable Mr. Oxenham"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—Her Right to Live (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 22—Captain Jinks' Trial Balance (Com.).
Jan. 29—Blind Justice (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—Captain Jenks' Better Half (Comedy).
Jan. 29—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 5, "Carriage Call, No. 101"—Two parts—Drama).

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.
November—The Girl Who Did Not Care (Six parts—Drama).
Dec. 1—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Seven parts—Drama).

KEEN CARTOON CORP.
Jan. 1—Mose Is Cured (Cartoon Comedy).
Jan. 8—Old Forty Niner (Cartoon Comedy).
Jan. 15—Jeb Jenkins, The Village Genius (Cartoon Comedy).
Jan. 22—Jerry McDub Collects Some Accident Insurance (Cartoon Comedy).
Jan. 29—Henry W. Zippy Buys a Pet (Cartoon Comedy).
Feb. 5—Zoo Illogical Studies (Cartoon Com.).
Feb. 12—A Dangerous Girl (Cartoon Comedy).
Feb. 19—Dr. Zippy Opens a Sanatorium (Cartoon Comedy).
Feb. 26—The Fighting Blood of Jerry McDub (Cartoon Comedy).

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.
Dec. 25—The Truant Soul (Five parts—Drama—Essanay).
Jan. 1—The Last Sentence (Edison—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Master Passion (Edison—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—Little Shoes (Essanay—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—The Princess of Patches (Selig—Five parts—Drama).

SELZNICK PICTURES.
November—War Brides (Herbert Brenon—Dr.)
December—The Foolish Virgin (Five parts—Drama).
January—Panthea (Five parts—Drama).
February—The Argyle Case (Five parts—Dr.).

SUNBEAM MOTION PICTURE CORP.
Oct.—Somewhere in Georgia (Drama).

THE TRIUMPH CORPORATION.
December—The Libertine (Six parts—Drama).

WORLD PICTURES.
Jan. 1—A Woman Alone (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—On Dangerous Ground (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The Man Who Forgot (Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—The Bondage of Fear (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—Tillie Wakes Up (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 5—The Hungry Heart (Five parts—Dr.).

States Right Features

ARGOSY FILM, INC.
December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
December—Where D'ye Get That Stuff (Five parts—Comedy).

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.
December—One Round O'Brien (Comedy).

G. M. BAYNES.
Nov.—Kitchener's Great Army in the Battle of the Somme (Five parts—Dr.).

CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORP.
Nov.—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).
December—The Passion Flower (Drama).

CLUNE FILM MFG. CO.
January—The Eyes of the World (Ten parts—Drama).

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORPORATION.
December—Snow White (Four parts—Fairy Tale).
January—The Sheep of Chelan.

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES, INC.
Dec.—Pamela's Past (Five parts—Drama).

EUROPEAN FILM CO.
November—Fighting for Verdun (Five parts—Topical).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.
December—The Witching Hour (Seven parts—Drama).

GERMANY'S OFFICIAL WAR FILMS, INC.
January—Germany and Its Armies of Today (Topical).

HARPER FILM CORPORATION.
Nov.—Civilization (Drama).

JOHN W. HEANEY.
Jan.—The Valley of Fear (Six parts—Drama).

KESSEL & BAUMAN.
Jan. —Mickey.

KING BAGGOT.
Dec.—Absinthe (Drama).

LINCOLN M. P. COMPANY.
Jan.—Trooper of Troop K (Three parts—Dr.).

S. B. LUST, INC.
Jan.—The Porter (Two parts—Comedy—Drama—All Colored Performers).

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE CORP.
Oct.—The Power of Evil (Drama).
November—Boots and Saddles (Drama).
January—The Girl Who Doesn't Know (Five parts—Drama).

PHAX PICTURES CO.
December—Race Suicide (Six parts—Drama).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORP.
October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.).

WARNER BROS.
December—Robinson Crusoe (Five parts—Dr.).

SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.
October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.)

SIGNET FILM CORPORATION.
Nov.—The Masque of Life (Seven parts—Dr.).

THE FILM EXCHANGE.
January—The Golden Rosary (Five Parts—Dr).

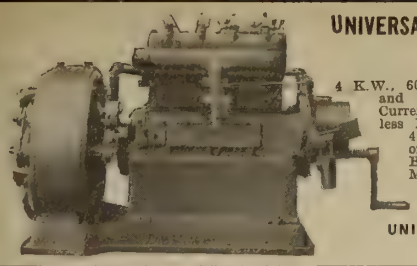
THOMPSON FILM CO., INC.
December—War as It Really Is (Seven Parts—Topical).

ULTRA FILMS, INC.
Jan.—A Day at West Point (Topical).

UNITY SALES CORPORATION.
Dec. 4—The Yellow Menace, No. 14, "The Interrupted Nuptials" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Yellow Menace, No. 15, "The Ray of Death" (Two parts—Drama).
January—Glory (Six parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).
October—Idle Wives (Seven parts—Drama).
December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
December—Robinson Crusoe.
January—20,000 Leagues Under the Sea (Eight Parts).
January—Hell Morgan's Girl (Drama).

TWEEDLEDUM RELEASES (UNITY).
Nov. 6—A Lucky Tramp (Comedy).
Nov. 13—Lend Me Your Wife (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 20—A Bath Tub Elopement (Comedy).
Nov. 27—A Short-sighted Crime (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 4—Somewhere in Mexico (Comedy).
Dec. 11—The Burlesque Show (Two parts—Comedy).



UNIVERSAL ELECTRIC GENERATOR SET

4 K.W., 60 or 110 Volt. Dependable and Efficient. Smooth, Direct Current, and consequent Flickerless Light. Direct connected to 4 Cylinder, 4 Cycle Engine of unquestioned reliability. By all odds the best for Moving or Permanent Picture work.

Write for Bulletin 20.

UNIVERSAL MOTOR CO.
Oshkosh, Wis.

BARGAINS IN MACHINES

Twenty-two machines slightly used, first class condition, Simplex, Power's 6 A's, Power's 6's, Edison B's, and Edison D's. Low prices, quick sales.

CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, 1233 Vine Street, Philadelphia

G. W. BRADENBURGH, 802 VINE STREET PHILADELPHIA, PA.

NAME	REELS	PRICE
Folks from Way Down East	5	$100
Battle of Gettysburg	5	90
Protea I., II., III.	5	300
Prisoner of Zenda (J. K. Hackett)	5	100
An American Gentleman (William Bonelli)	5	75
Rip Van Winkle (Joe Jefferson)	5	150
In the Land of the Head Hunters	5	60
In Search of Castaways	5	100

All the above are furnished with one, three and six-sheet posters and other advertising. Write for lists.

"PERFECTION IN PROJECTION"
GOLD KING SCREEN
GOLD KING SCREENS ARE BEST
TEN DAYS FREE TRIAL
GOLD KING SCREEN CO., ALTUS, OKLA.

MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY

By J. H. HALLBERG

THIS WORK COVERS

ELECTRICITY
ELECTRIC SERVICE
ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS
REFERENCE TABLES, ETC.

An up-to-date treatment of Moving Picture Theater Electric Installation and Projection, by a practical, experienced, electrical expert.

Illustrated and Substantially Bound. 280 Pages. $2.50 per Copy. Postage Paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue New York

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.
W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY
89 Fifth Avenue, New York Phone 3227 Chelsea
425 Ashland Block, Chicago Phone 2003 Randolph
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?
Is your projection current costing too much?
Are you planning a new theatre?
Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU ALL KNOW HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU ALL KNOW HIM)
Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City

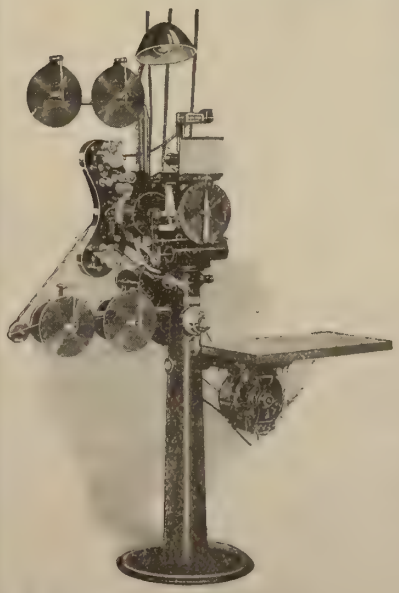
IL TIRSO AL CINEMATOGRAFO

The most important Film Journal in Italy.

Published every Monday at Rome. Excellent staff, special bureau of information. Correspondents in all parts of the world. Yearly subscription for foreign countries: $3.00.

Business Office: Via del Tritone 183, Rome, Italy.

Our Continuous Feed Printer



Produces prints of the finest "Screen Quality" at the minimum of cost.

In Design—In Durability of Construction — In Quantity of Output — In General Efficiency, it has no equal.

BELL & HOWELL COMPANY
Manufacturers Standard Cinemachinery—Perforators—Cameras—Printers,
1807 Larchmont Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.
New York Office and Display Rooms
614-15 Candler Building, 220 West 42d Street

EVERETT TRUE COMEDIES

Featuring BOBBIE BOLDER as the Champion Pest Squelcher. Single reels that are reely funny—you can purchase one or all. Beat your competitor to it. Write us for particulars.

OUR STUDIOS CAN BE RENTED BY THE DAY OR WEEK.

AMERICAN BIOSCOPE COMPANY

J. E. WILLIS, General Manager

Broadway at Granville Ave., Chicago

Make Your Own Electricity With Cushman Electric Plants

Extremely light weight and compact: 4 H. P., 2 K. W. Outfit complete, weighs around 500 lbs.

Complete with all equipment—easy and ready to set up and run.

Throttle Governor, connected to Schebler Carburetor, assures clear, bright and steady pictures.

United States Bought 66 Cushman Outfits

The Government Order after inspection, before shipment.

The illustration shows 66 Cushman Electric Power Plants ready for shipment, that were purchased by the U. S. Government for use at Army Posts and in the field.

CUSHMAN MOTOR WORKS 928 NORTH 21st STREET LINCOLN, NEB.

Are You Tired

of playing waltzes and popular songs for all your pictures? Try "bringing out" the dramatic scenes with dramatic music. The

Orpheum Collection

contains the best music of this kind published. Issued in Three Series:

No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.

Piano (24 pages each), 58 cts. for each series; $1.15 for any two; $1.70 for all three. Violin, 40 cts. each; 75 cts. for any two; $1.05 for all three. Cornet, 35 cts. each; 65 cts. any two; 95 cts. all three. First and second series have parts for Cello, Flute, Clarinet, Trombone and Drums. Practical for Piano alone, or in combination with any above instruments. Discounts on orders for four or more parts. Send for free sample pages. Note new address.

CLARENCE E. SINN

1103 Grace Street Chicago, Ill.

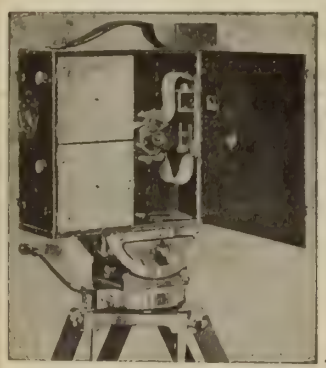
Clune Film Producing Company

Los Angeles, California

Producers of "RAMONA" (10 reels) and "THE EYES OF THE WORLD" (10 reels)

Harold Bell Wright's famous love story of adventure, of which nearly 2,000,000 copies have been sold, magnificently reproduced. Available for state rights.

A MESSAGE TO CAMERA MEN



Here is a camera that solves your biggest problem. It is the one camera of which it can be truthfully said, "You Get the Picture and Get Away Before the Other Fellow Gets Set Up." Supreme sturdiness and absolute precision characterize the Universal Camera. Send for catalogue before purchasing a camera. There is no other machine approaching the Universal in quality at double its price. The Universal Tripod, like the camera, is a product of supreme excellence.

Universal Automatic Dissolve Now Ready.—Price only $35.00.

Burke & James, Inc.

Sole Wholesale Distributers

CHICAGO — NEW YORK

GOLDENLITE

hasn't a drop of silver in its manufacture. Made with a Mineral. Shines like a mirror without any glare. It's Gold in color. No Flicker, no eye strain. Brings out all the natural colors of the film, saves you Juice and Carbon.

Once up, always up. Unchangeable in color. Not a drop of paint in Gold Fibre.

Goldenlite

The Screen De Luxe

Washable Pliable

Ask the Dealer who has one. Write us.

CASTLE & ROWLEY

MANUFACTURERS

1113 Chestnut St., St. Louis, Mo.

PROFIT BY THIS

Declare your independence from an inferior quality of work and delayed deliveries, by entrusting your DEVELOPING and PRINTING to EVANS.

Our plant is modernly equipped in every detail, our operators are the most skilled that money can hire, which combined with our prompt service assures you of absolute satisfaction.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO., 416-24 West 216th St., N. Y. City. Telephone Audubon 6881-2

SAVE THE INTEREST ON $100.00

EVERY YEAR—AND BEGIN NOW

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.

It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00

SIX MONTHS.....$1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Avenue, New York

.....

.....

.....

Cut out and mail Theatre.....

If You Need a New Machine

and can't afford to pay cash, write us today and we will help you out.

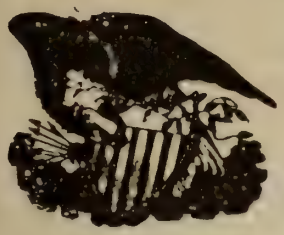
Our easy payment plan enables you to purchase any make machine at a small investment. DON'T DELAY—GET BUSY—WRITE TODAY for full particulars.

Amusement Supply Company

Dealers in Motiograph, Simplex, Powers, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers and everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres

3rd Floor, Mallers Bldg.,

Cor. Madison Street & Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.



Peace Pictures

and

European War Pictures

(Neutral)

New Stereopticon Lectures and Poems presented by L. M. Marion.

Terms Moderate Accompanied by violinist, pianist, operator, lantern, etc. (when desired), for theatres, lyceums and clubs. Music for dances.

LOUISE M. MARION

445 W. 23rd St., New York

Phone, 10396 Chelsea

I do not sell motion pictures.

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.

For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.

For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation

American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush

of

"Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.

Specimen on Application

MINUSA

"SCREEN LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS"

The "ORIGINAL GOLD FIBRE SCREEN" Perfected.

MINUSA CINÉ PRODUCTS COMPANY

SAINT LOUIS | CHICAGO | SAN FRANCISCO | PITTSBURGH | CALGARY, ALBERTA | NEW YORK

SCREENS BUILT BY BRAINS

Ornamental Theatres

PLASTER RELIEF DECORATIONS

Theatres Designed Everywhere

Send for our 1916 catalog. It contains forty beautiful full-page illustrations—some in colors—of theatres we have designed and decorated. It shows several styles of ticket booths, lighting fixtures and ornaments; it will give you many valuable ideas for decorating your new theatre or improving the looks of your present one.

Send us Sizes of Theatre for Special Designs

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.

Archer Avenue and Leo Street, CHICAGO, ILL.

STATE CONVENTION NEW YORK EXHIBITORS

TEN EYCK HOTEL
ALBANY, N. Y.

January 23rd, January 24th and January 25th
(Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday)

THE PROGRAM

Tuesday, January 23rd

Convention called to order at 3:30 P. M.

Appointment of Committees as follows:

Legislation, By-Laws, Transportation, Deposit System, Membership, Finance, Grievance.

Important Conference between locals on personnel and standing of Assemblymen and Senators.

Wednesday, January 24th

11 A. M.—Report of Committees. Immediately upon adjournment, delegates will proceed in a body to the Capitol and visit Assembly and Senate Chambers.

Thursday, January 25th

11 A. M.—Delegates meet in Committee of the Whole. Subject: Means of Propaganda, Slides, Petitions, etc.

3 P. M.—Election of State Officers and Delegates to the National Convention.

BANQUET

HALLBERG
Picture Theatre Equipment

WILLIAM FOX

has bought 40 HALLBERG Electric Equipments for the powerful electric arc used in connection with his presentation of "The Daughter of the Gods" in his 20 road shows—You know Mr. Fox has a great deal of experience and you know he is critical. In other words, when he buys the HALLBERG apparatus for his beautiful production, which must be put on right, then you know that HALLBERG goods must come up to your expectations.

Just think—40 equipments in one order and without competition because Mr. Fox wanted the best.

HALLBERG 20th CENTURY MOTOR-GENERATOR

Changes A. C. to D. C. or D. C. to D. C., and does away with all Rheostats.

Is Furnishing BETTER LIGHT All Over the World.

Mr. W. F. Harris would not sell his Hallberg for twice what he paid for it!!!

BROADWAY THEATRE

Hopewell, Va., May 20th, 1916.

J. H. HALLBERG, New York City.

Dear Sir:

I have had your HALLBERG 20TH CENTURY MOTOR GENERATOR installed and it is better than I expected; everybody who has been in my theatre has remarked about it. One of the head men of the Du Pont Company's Electric Power plant, here, said it was the best machine he had ever seen. I would not sell it for twice what I paid for it. Yours very truly,

BROADWAY THEATRE.
(Signed) W. F. Harris.

Gives Best Light—Takes Least Current—Costs Less Than Any Other Good Motor-Generator of Same Ampere Capacity—Made for All Circuits—Noiseless—Efficient—Durable.

This Letter comes from a Satisfied User in the Philippine Islands, Ten Thousand Miles Away!!!

E. C. McCULLOUGH & CO., Inc.
Importers and Exporters

Manila, P. I., Sept. 8, 1916.

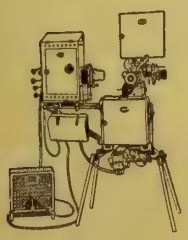
Mr. J. H. HALLBERG,
729 7th Ave., New York City.

Dear Sir:

You will remember some time past we purchased from you through our New York agents one Twentieth Century Generator set with switchboard to control two arcs—motor, 110-220 v., 60 cycles, 2 phase, 10 H.P.; dynamo, 50-120 amp.

The Motor Generator set arrived and was installed and is giving perfect satisfaction.

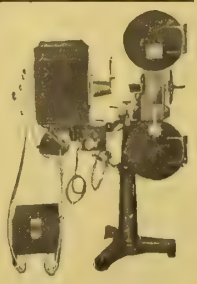
Yours very truly,
E. C. McCULLOUGH.



CARRIED IN STOCK FOR PROMPT SHIPMENT

3 Sizes, With or Without Switchboards

Complete Stock—Prompt Shipment—All Make Guaranteed M. P. Machines—Condensers—Lenses—Carbons—Cement—Oil — Carrying Cases—Film Reels and Closets—Fire Extinguishers—and Supplies and M. P. Equipments of every kind.



The "HOLD-ARK" Negative Carbons

For Direct Current are now ready for distribution—They are GUARANTEED to hold the arc of any amperage without traveling around the point—Can be used with ANY make Upper Cored Carbon.

7/16 x 6 "Hold-Ark" for 3/4 upper carbon, $50.00 per 1,000
1/2 x 6 "Hold-Ark" for 7/8 upper carbon, $52.50 per 1,000
9/16 x 6 "Hold-Ark" for 1 upper carbon, $55.00 per 1,000

Plus 10% if ordered in less than 1,000 lots of each size.

Full Stock of "SPEER" Projector Carbons

Also Imported Carbons, 5/8 x 12 cored, $10.00 per hundred
Also Imported Carbons, 3/4 x 12 cored, $15.00 per hundred
Also Imported Carbons, 7/8 x 12 cored, $20.00 per hundred

J. H. HALLBERG The House of Quality Established 1904 7th Avenue Between 48th and 49th Sts. NEW YORK

NPCo

"SIXTEEN YEARS OF KNOWING HOW"

THE SERVICE

AND DURABILITY

THAT DISTINGUISH

POWER'S PRODUCT

are again exemplified in the purchase by the FOX FILM CORPORATION of thirty-six

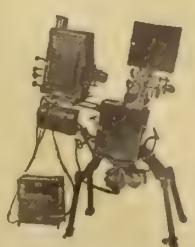
POWER'S CAMERAGRAPHS No. 6B for use in the presentation of their masterful photoplay

"A Daughter of the Gods"



NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY

NINETY GOLD STREET

NEW YORK, N. Y.

Vol. 31, No. 6 February 10, 1917 Price 15 Cents

H. E. HOFFMAN

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

THE FILM INDEX

EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

SELZNICK PICTURES

READY FOR RELEASE

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG in "THE PRICE SHE PAID"

ROBERT WARWICK in "THE ARGYLE CASE"

NOW PLAYING TO CAPACITY HOUSES EVERYWHERE

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG in "THE COMMON LAW" "THE FOOLISH VIRGIN"

NAZIMOVA in Herbert Brenon's Presentation of "WAR BRIDES"

NORMA TALMADGE in "PANTHEA"

SOLE DISTRIBUTORS—LEWIS J. SELZNICK EXCHANGES, Branches Everywhere.

Post Office Box 226 Madison Square Station

NEW YORK

17 Madison Avenue Telephone Madison Square 3510

Mr. Exhibitor-

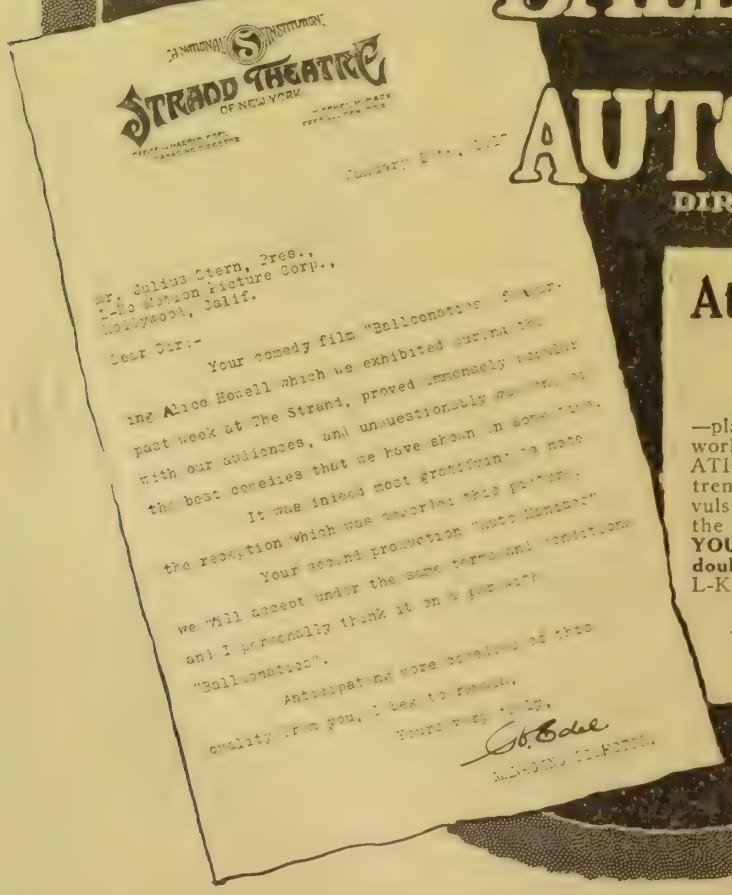
KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN FOR RELEASE DATES OF THE TWO BIGGEST COMEDY WINNERS OF THE SEASON —PRESENTING—

Alice Howell

IN

"BALLOONATICS" AND "AUTOMANIACS"

DIRECTED BY J. C. BLYSTONE



National Institution
STRAND THEATRE OF NEW YORK

Mr. Julius Stern, Pres.,
L-Ko Motion Picture Corp.,
Hollywood, Calif.

Dear Sir:-

Your comedy film "Balloonatics" featuring Alice Howell which we exhibited during the past week at The Strand, proved immensely popular with our audiences, and unquestionably was one of the best comedies that we have shown in some time.

It was indeed most gratifying to note the reception which was accorded this picture.

Your second production "Auto Maniacs" we will accept under the same terms and conditions and I personally think it on a par with "Balloonatics".

Anticipating more comedies of this quality from you, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,

G. Edel

At the STRAND IN NEW YORK

America's Finest Picture Theatre

—playing to the most critical audiences in the world (The New York Public)—"BALLOONATICS" and "AUTOMANIACS" went over with a tremendous smash, threw audiences into convulsions of laughter and riveted in their minds the fact that L-KO's are the world's best comedies. YOU can do the same thing in YOUR house and double your business with these and all other L-Ko Comedies. READ Mr. Edel's letter.

If that don't convince, we're not even going to try. Watch for the release dates and BOOK these two and see whether we are giving you facts or conversation.

L-KO MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION
JULIUS STERN PRES.
HOLLYWOOD, CAL. EASTERN OFFICES 1600 B'WAY N.Y.C.

K E S E

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

Watch for

MAX LINDER

and his

BEVY OF BLONDE BEAUTIES

in his first Essanay comedy

"MAX COMES ACROSS"

DON'T FAIL TO BOOK THE ENTIRE SERIES OF 12
—THE FUNNIEST EVER SCREENED

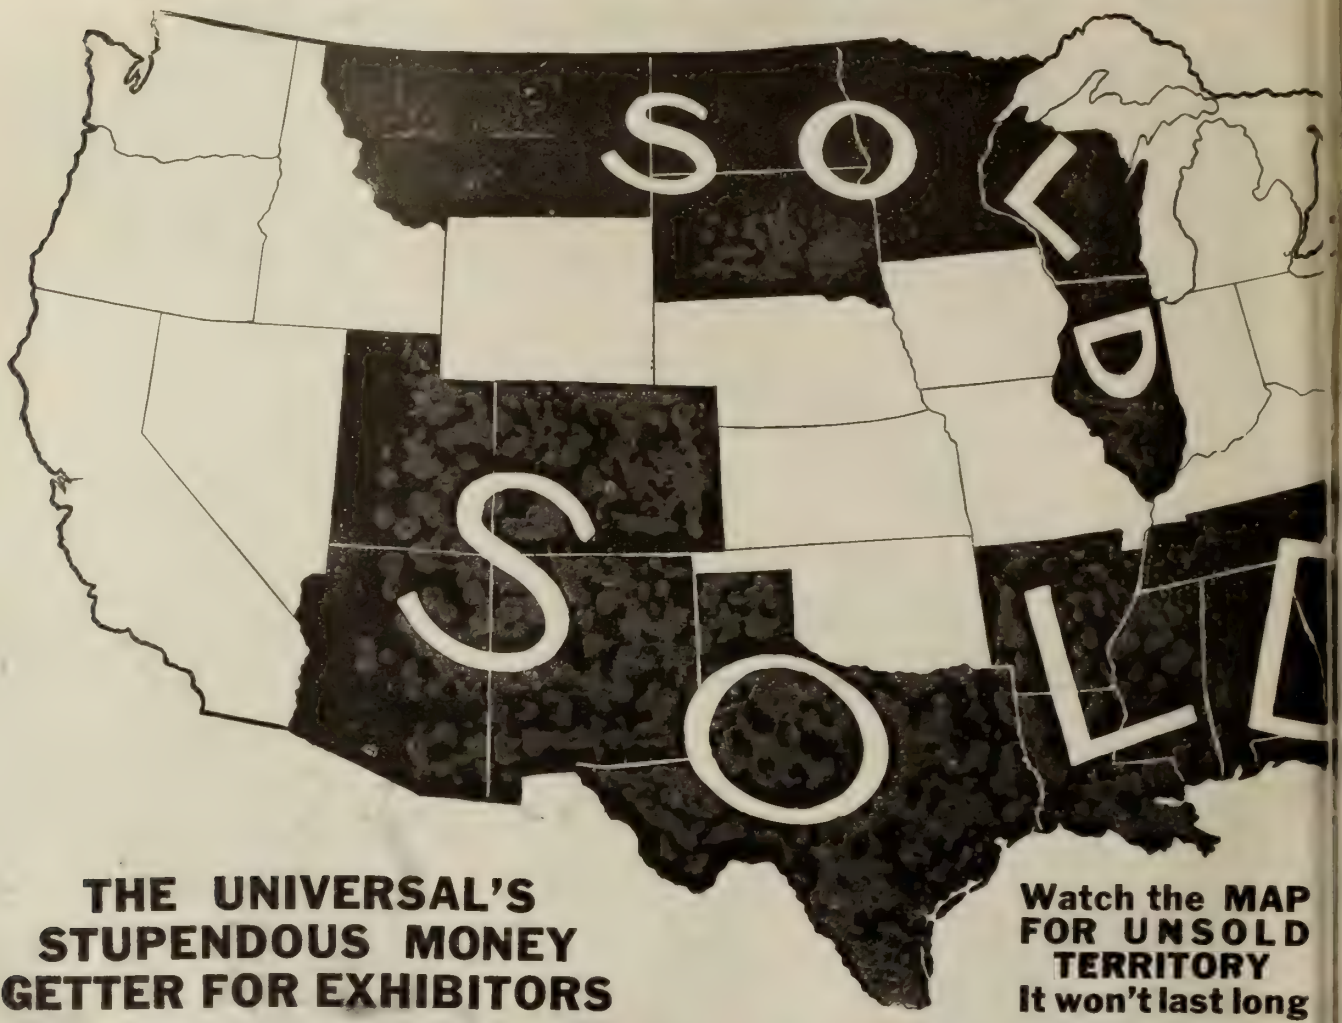
K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

Essanay

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

The territory in Black is the territory already sold on "20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA." Tremendously valuable territory still to be had



THE UNIVERSAL'S STUPENDOUS MONEY GETTER FOR EXHIBITORS

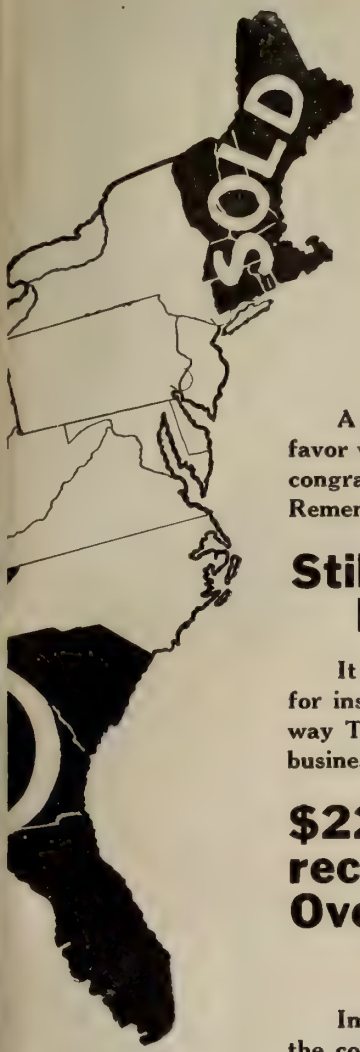
Watch the MAP FOR UNSOLD TERRITORY It won't last long

"20,000 LEAGUES

One of the biggest features of this stupendous picture is that it is without competition—literally there is nothing like it on earth. That means that it is good—not for today and tomorrow only, but for years to come. Jules Verne's masterpiece has been a standard work of fiction for over 50 years. It is still a "best seller." This tremendous picturization and realization of Jules Verne's marvelous prophecies is destined to live as long as the book itself. These are provable facts that put this picture as a State Right proposition in a class by itself.

Elaborate Advertising Campaign Book for all STATE RIGHTS BUYERS. Send for a Free Copy Today

Everything necessary for a successful advertising campaign is ready prepared for you. Complete publicity stories; ready prepared bullet ads in all sizes; strong, attractive, highly colored paper in all sizes; window cards, etc. Send for the handsome campaign book which tells the story of the picture in detail, and gives you valuable information. Write direct to the State Rights Department of the Universal.



STATE RIGHTS

A glance at the map shows that "20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA" rapidly found favor with discriminating State Rights Buyers. State Right Buyers now in the market may congratulate themselves that choice territory is still open. This is a big business proposition. Remember that this remarkable production is Still Playing Capacity at the Broadway Theatre, Broadway and 41st Street, New York City

It has broken all box-office records wherever shown. Not alone in New York City, but, for instance, in Portland, Oregon, where it played to $1,300.00 in a single day. At the Broadway Theatre, New York, where it is still playing, it has astounded the wisest showmen in the business.

$22,000 in 2 weeks in New York. All house records broken at the STUDEBAKER, Chicago. Over $1,300 taken in in one single day in Portland, Oregon, with big competition

Imagine a picture playing at popular prices doing this amount of business, on Broadway, the coldest and most critical theatrical district in the whole world. Think what this means to you to be able to bring this unusual picture before audiences who see one novelty a year where Broadway sees several hundred.

UNDER THE SEA"

TO EXHIBITORS

The minute this picture is offered you by a State Rights manager grab it. It will do more business for you than any picture you have ever shown. If you are branching out and thinking of the State Rights business for yourself, or if you control one or more theatres, write immediately for valuable information to the

STATE RIGHTS DEPARTMENT OF THE UNIVERSAL Film Manufacturing Co.

CARL LAEMMLE, President
"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"
1600 BROADWAY NEW YORK

RED FEATHER PHOTO-PLAYS PRESENT

"The TERROR"

WITH JACK MULHALL

HOW CHUCK O'CONNOR CAME BACK

PRODUCED BY RAYMOND WELLS

fff. BOOK THROUGH ANY fff.

fff. UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE fff.

STATE RIGHTS

Now Selling on

"Hell Morgan's Girl"

The type of picture that enables State Right buyers to reap a golden flood of profits. A picture that is there with the punch that pulls the crowds—that packs them in at every performance. A tremendous dramatic production telling the most human story ever filmed. Lavishly produced; thrilling scenes of the great San Francisco earthquake; life in the resorts in the famous Barbary Coast District of the city by the Golden Gate. Extra special paper, ad props, etc. Choice territory still open. If you want to get in on a good thing communicate immediately with the STATE RIGHTS DEPARTMENT of the

UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO.

Carl Laemmle, President
"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"

1600 Broadway, New York

Specialties on the UNIVERS

This is the Program that has brought success to thousands of Exhibitors—You can book it complete—or any release separately

Special Releases on the Universal Program for the Week of February 19th, 1917

RED FEATHER—"THE TERROR"—(Five-Reel Drama)—With Jack Mulhall.

NESTOR—"DOWN WENT THE KEY"—(One-Reel Comedy)—Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Edith Roberts.

L-KO.—"AFTER THE BALLED UP BALL"—(Two-Reel Comedy)—With Phil Dunham, Merta Sterling and Lucille Hutton.

BISON—"THE COMEBACK"—(Two-Reel Western Picture)—(A Chas. Van Loan story)

JOKER—"ROSIE'S RANCHO"—(Comedy)—Gale Henry and Wm. Franey.

POWERS—"A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A DOG"—(Comedy Cartoon) and "The Buried Treasures of Ceylon"—(Dorsey Educational) (Split Reel).

SPECIALTIES that any Exhibitor can book with profit. Specialties that will help put over a weak feature; specialties that will bolster up any show, and get the crowds coming that mean profitable returns. Any one of the specialties listed here will MAKE your show. These are listed separately to aid you in booking. Together with the releases shown opposite, these releases make up the great UNIVERSAL PROGRAM, which constitutes an entire week's performances of twenty-nine reels.

UNIVERSAL FILM MANUF

The Most Complete, Var Balanced Prog

Regular Releases
AL Program

Regular Releases on the Universal Program for the Week of February 19th, 1917

GOLD SEAL—"THE GREAT TORPEDO SECRET"—(Three-Reel Drama)—Herbert Rawlinson and Neva Gerber.

VICTOR—"THE FIREMAN'S BRIDE"—(Comedy-Drama)—Matt Moore and Jane Gail.

UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY No. 60.

LAEMMLE—"SIN UNATONED"—(Drama)—Robert Leonard and Margarita Fischer.

VICTOR—"THE HEART OF MARY ANN"—(Comedy-Drama)—Ruth Stonehouse.

REX—"THE KEEPER OF THE GATE"—(Drama)—Douglas Gerrard and Ruth Clifford.

BIG U—"THE MAN WHO SAVED THE DAY"—(Two-Reel War Drama)—Wallace Reid and Pauline Bush.

IMP—"THE FOLLY OF FANCHETTE"—(Two-Reel Society and Underworld Drama)—Mae Bush and Malcolm Blevins.

VICTOR—"A BARE LIVING"—(Comedy)—Eileen Sedgwick.

BIG U—"THE LIFE SHE GAVE" (Indian Drama).

IMP—"A DANGEROUS DOUBLE"—(Two-Reel Drama)—Sydell Dowling and Sidney Bracey.

REX—"LOST IN THE STREETS OF PARIS"—(Drama)—King Baggot and Leah Baird.

EXHIBITORS who book the entire program get the benefit of all these remarkable specialties; those who pick and choose must expect to pay a slight advance over the pro rata cost of the entire program. This to cover the additional expense of individual bookings. If you want increased patronage, popularity and profit, you will eventually book the entire UNIVERSAL PROGRAM. TODAY—wire or write any one of the 73 Universal Exchanges and get full particulars regarding the Program that is making thousands of Exhibitors successful.

ACTURING CO.

CARL LAEMMLE, President
"The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe"
1600 Broadway, New York

ied & Scientifically ram on Earth

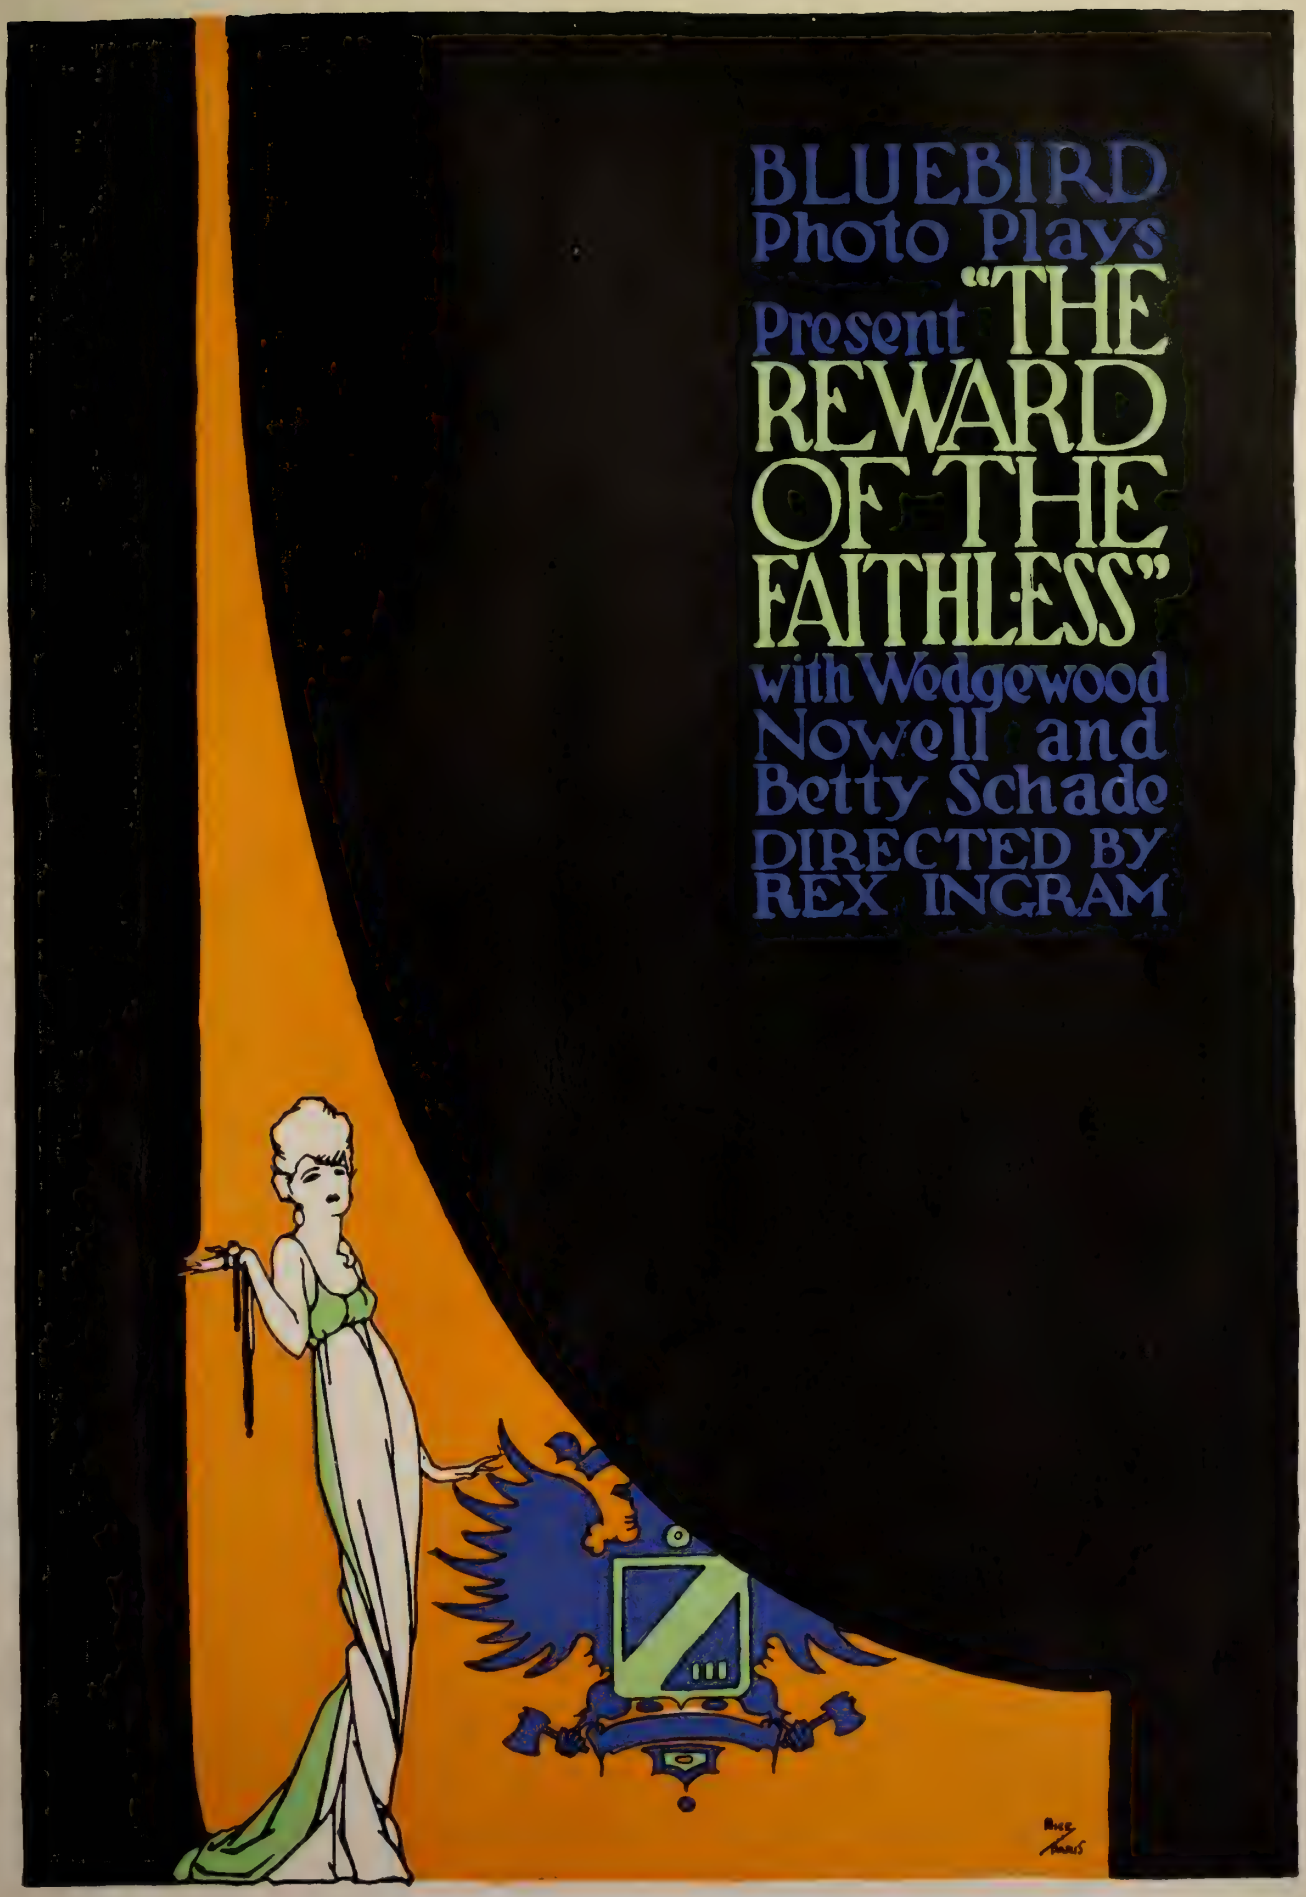
STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING "The PEOPLE VERSUS JOHN DOE"

The Picture Marvelous. Produced by

LOIS WEBER

Producer of such huge successes as "Where Are My Children?"—"Hypocrites"—"Scandal"—"Jewel"—"Shoes"—and others. This unusual production played to capacity at the Broadway Theatre, New York, and received from the newspaper and film critics an endorsement rarely given to any cinema production. Choice open territory still available. An unusual opportunity for State Rights buyers. Send for complete descriptive, illustrated printed matter, that will tell you what you want to know about this big business proposition. Write or wire to the STATE RIGHTS DEPARTMENT of the UNIVERSAL FILM MFG. CO., Carl Laemmle, Pres, "The Largest Film Manufacturing Concern in the Universe," 1600 Broadway, New York.



BLUEBIRD
Photo Plays
Present "THE REWARD
OF THE FAITHLESS" with Wedgewood
Nowell and Betty Schade
DIRECTED BY REX INGRAM

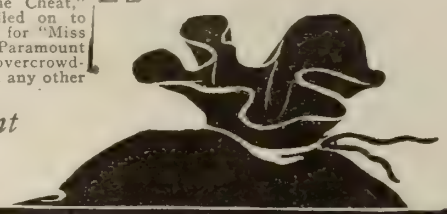
Paramount Pictures

Paramount

will pay the fines

As in the case of "The Cheat," Paramount is again called on to furnish police protection for "Miss George Washington." Paramount will pay all fines for "overcrowding" theaters on this and any other

Paramount Picture



POSTAL TELEGRAPH-CABLE COMPANY

NIGHT LETTERGRAM

INDEPENDENT COMPETITIVE PROGRESSIVE

'5h kn 54 N L 1139-pm

Lincoln Neb Jan 19 17

A D Flinton, President Care

Kascity Feature Film Co
922 Oak St
KansacCity Mo

If you intend to furnish us any more pictures like Miss George Washington you will have to furnish us police protection after showing this picture Big competition for four days on the fifth day.The crowd was so big I was stopped by police from selling any more tickets, Expect a bigger crowd tomorrow.

NH Cinberg.

Paramount protection is a protected franchise—a guarantee of security and prosperity. There is no better protection than two Paramount Pictures every week.

Why not now?

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORP'N.

Adolph Zukor Pres. Jesse L. Lasky Vice Pres. Cecil B. DeMille Director General

New York City

Paramount Pictures

Paramount

will pay the fines

on the two Paramount Pictures

this week

OLIVER MOROSCO

Presents

GEORGE BEBAN

in a quaint, appealing photo-drama

"HIS SWEETHEART"

By George Beban and Lawrence McCloskey.

"His Sweetheart"—a strong story of politics and love, with a typical Morosco cast. In all the annals of stage or screen, there is no star who has won distinction in the portrayal of a racial type in quite the degree that George Beban has as an interpreter of the Italian. In such great plays and photoplays as "The Sign of the Rose," "Pasquale" and others he has proven his undisputed supremacy as a character actor.

PALLAS PICTURES

Presents

Pretty, Popular, Piquant

VIVIAN MARTIN

in

"THE WAX MODEL"

By G. Vere Tyler

The serio-comic tale of a French model in England who nearly starves for love. This story made a sensation when it appeared in Smart Set Magazine. The actual wax models around which the story is built add a touch of novelty and afford an excellent opportunity for special lobby displays.

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY CORP'N.

Adolph Zukor Pres Jesse L Lasky Vice Pres Cecil B DeMille Director General

New York City

Study this Statement

"JOAN THE WOMAN"

is a great motion picture. That is established by the unanimous praise it has evoked from scores of critics and thousands who have seen it.

GERALDINE FARRAR

—greatest of all screen stars;—CECIL B. DEMILLE—genius of shadows;—and JOAN OF ARC, the most remarkable woman of history—these are the contributing factors.

Study the adjoining box office statement.

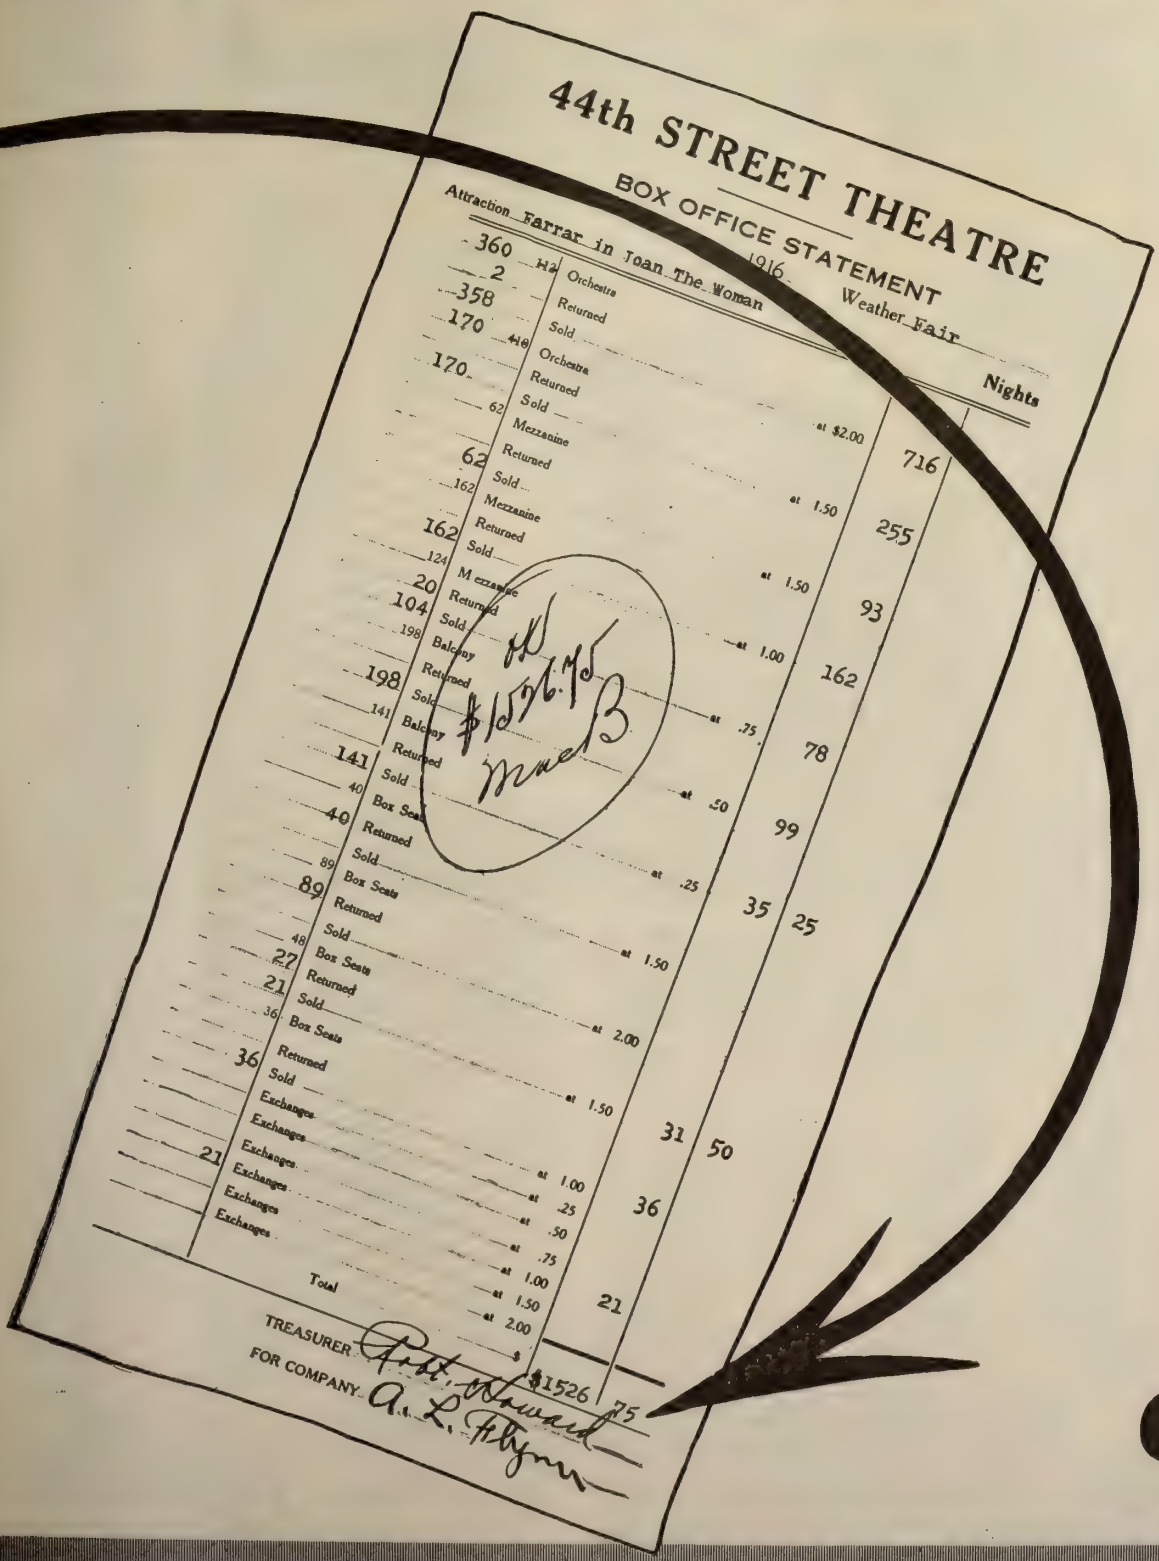
It is the truthful and incontrovertible indication that the public is responsive to superlative merit.

"JOAN THE WOMAN"

is now being presented by JESSE L. LASKY twice daily to capacity audiences in two cities—at the 44th Street Theatre, New York, and the Majestic Theatre, Los Angeles.

CARDINAL FILM CORPORATION

485 FIFTH AVENUE - - - NEW YORK, N. Y.



44th STREET THEATRE
BOX OFFICE STATEMENT
Attraction Farrar in Joan The Woman
1916
Weather Fair
Nights
360 Orchestra
2 Returned
358 Sold at $2.00 716
170 416 Orchestra
Returned
170 Sold at 1.50 255
62 Mezzanine
Returned
62 Sold at 1.50 93
162 Mezzanine
Returned
162 Sold at 1.00 162
124 Balcony
Returned
20 Sold at .75 78
104 Balcony
Returned
198 Sold at .50 99
141 Balcony
Returned
141 Sold at .25 35
40 Box Seats
Returned
40 Sold at 1.50 25
89 Box Seats
Returned
89 Sold at 2.00
48 Box Seats
Returned
27 Sold at 1.50
21 Box Seats
Returned
36 Sold at 1.00 31
Exchanges at .25 50
Exchanges at .50 36
Exchanges at .75
Exchanges at 1.00 21
Exchanges at 1.50
Exchanges at 2.00
Exchanges $
Total $1526 75
$1526.75
TREASURER
FOR COMPANY

Mary Pickford

"A Poor Little Rich Girl"

From the play by Eleanor Gates

She was rich—yet poor; she lived in a mansion—yet she was lonely; her playmates!—she had none at all; and then—across the sweet mind of youth came the vision of the happiness of the other kind of child. A story that no other than Mary Pickford can tell in pictures.

To be released March 5th by

Artcraft Pictures Corporation

729 Seventh Ave. New York.

The Most Popular Stage Play in a Generation

GEORGE M. COHAN

IN

"BROADWAY JONES"

"There is more romance in 10 feet of Broadway than in a mountain range — more laughs in a block than in a picnic — more pathos than in a thousand tears."

This Great Play Now in Motion Pictures

To be released April 2. by

Artcraft Pictures Corporation

729 Seventh Ave. New York.

Vic takes to sleep walking and gets $5,000 real dollars—but, if we tell all the story, it will spoil the picture and a lot of laughs for you

Paramount
announces

Victor Moore

IN THE SIXTH
of the "Klever Komedies"
"THE SLEEP WALKER"

RELEASED FEBRUARY 5th

KLEVER PICTURES, INC.
220 West 42nd St., New York City

MUTUAL NEWS

"What's Going On In The Mutual"

WEEKLY NEWS OF THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION AND ITS 68 EXCHANGES

FEBRUARY 10, 1917

ANN MURDOCK, NOTED FROHMAN STAR IN MUTUAL PICTURES

ANN MURDOCK, famous emotional star of the speaking stage, has been secured for Mutual Photoplays. Miss Murdock will be presented in a number of special feature productions to be released through the Mutual Exchanges. This marks still another accomplishment in the new 1917 Mutual Policy——"Big Stars Only."

Is Popular Star.

On the speaking stage Miss Murdock is one of America's most popular stars. In numerous plays produced under the management of Charles Frohman she has scored tremendous hits. On the picture screen she has also proven her ability to register her unusual talents. For her Mutual appearances a number of famous stories from the pens of America's foremost authors have been selected. These will be put into immediate production. The titles and release dates of a number of these Murdock-Mutual Photoplays will be announced shortly. Reservations for the Murdock-Mutual Photoplays can be made by exhibitors at any of the Mutual Exchanges.

"Where Love Is."

The first Mutual Photoplay starring Ann Murdock will be released through the Mutual Exchanges the week of February 5th. It is in five acts. It's title is, "Where Love Is." It is an adaptation of the famous novel of the same title by William J. Locke. It tells the story of a society girl's dilemma when confronted with a choice between a marriage for love and one for wealth. A well-rounded cast assists the star in this Mutual Photoplay. The same careful attention will be paid to the supporting casts in the Murdock-Mutual Photoplays to be made under the new contract. Bookings on "Where Love Is" can be made at any Mutual Film Exchange now.

Like Minter Subjects

Exhibitors, exchange managers and motion picture fans are all warm in their loyalty to Mary Miles Minter and her American-Mutual Photoplays. The American Film Company is in receipt of a letter from Daniel Richardella of Windber, Pa., in which he says: "I have seen the best, cleanest, most wholesome and refined play ever produced. It is entitled 'Faith.' It features Mary Miles Minter, who through long years of labor, has attained her position among the thousands of players of filmdom. May we have more like it."

NEW $2,500,000 PRODUCING COMPANY TO PRESENT FROHMAN SUCCESSES

Empire All Star Corporation to Present Successes of Charles Frohman in Motion Pictures Through Mutual—Work Begins Immediately In New York, Chicago and California

A NEW two and one-half million dollar corporation has entered the producing field. It's name is the Empire All Star Corporation. It was formed by John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual Film Corporation and Alf. Hayman of Charles Frohman, Incorporated. It has for its aim the production of Charles Frohman successes in motion pictures. The Empire All Star Corporation will, of course, enjoy the use of the unlimited resources of the Frohman organization as well as the vast facilities of the Mutual Film Corporation with its nation-wide system of exchanges.

A great number of the original Frohman casts will be assembled for the production of the Frohman plays in picture form. The great hoard of stage settings, costumes and accurate properties owned by the Frohman organization will be at the disposal of the Empire All Star Corporation. Their use in the pictures will insure the utmost accuracy in every detail of production. Studios of the Empire All Star Corporation will be established in New York, Chicago and California. Offices of the organization will be opened in New York, Chicago and London.

The eminent dramatist, Augustus Thomas, who was in no small way himself responsible for many of the Frohman "hits," will personally surpervise the scenarios and assist by advice and suggestion. Augustus Thomas is conceded to be a giant in his chosen calling. His affiliation with the Empire All Star Corporation means more than words can express. In every way the Empire All Star Corporation will endeavor to give the name of Charles Frohman the same high value in the motion picture field that it has had so long in the theatre of the speaking stage.

Every effort will be bent toward making the Empire-Mutual Photoplays pre-eminent in the motion picture field. The announcement of the formation of the Empire All Star Corporation, together with other important Mutual announcements which have preceded it, are in line with Mutual's announced policy of "Big Stars Only." Mutual sincerely intends during the coming year to lead all other motion picture organizations. Bigger, better attractions than ever before is its aim.

Mutual Star Productions For February

Week Beginning February 5th.

Title. Lead.

Where Love Is.....Ann Murdock

Week Beginning February 12th.

The Devil's Assistant.....Margarita Fischer

Week Beginning February 19th.

The Gentle Intruder.....Mary Miles Minter

Week Beginning February 26th.

The Greater Woman.....Marjorie Rambeau

More Exhibitors Praise "Lass of Lumberlands"

Exhibitors in all portions of the country continue to voice their praise of the newest Helen Holmes chapterplay, "A Lass of the Lumberlands." D. H. Thompson, manager of the Muse Us Theatre of Dayton, O., writes: "The scenery in the picture is the best I ever saw. The cast is great, especially Helen Holmes and J. P. McGowan. The details in the picture are good. Helen Holmes is certainly a box office attractio.. for me. I hope to get more Helen Holmes pictures in the future." Maddox & Boyd, write the Cincinnati Mutual Exchange: "'A Lass of the Lumberlands' is going big—best serial ever booked in our house. Had them standing out last night." Claude N. York, manager of the Reel Theatre of Catlettsburg, Ky., writes: "I have played five chapters of 'A Lass of the Lumberlands' and my box office receipts on the nights I run it are equal to my Saturday nights. I can heartily recommend it to all exhibitors who want a film that will get the money."

A bit of real college atmosphere is to be found in the latest of the "Adventures of Shorty Hamilton" Featurettes. Its title is "Shorty Goes to College." Much of its action is laid on the campus of a western university. Shorty Hamilton Featurettes can be booked at any Mutual Exchange.

MUTUAL

MUTUAL
Empire All-Star Corporation
Announces
The Acquisition of
ANN MURDOCK
AS the first achievement in its plan to present the successes of Charles Frohman in motion pictures the Empire All-Star Corporation announces the acquisition of the noted Frohman star—Ann Murdock.
Miss Murdock has established an exceptional reputation for emotional acting on the speaking stage. She has been starred in many notable Broadway successes. She has already won a host of admirers through her screen productions. And now we announce Miss Murdock as the star of Charles Frohman successes in motion pictures.
Work will begin at once on Charles Frohman productions in which Miss Murdock will be featured and which will be distributed through Mutual Exchanges everywhere. Detailed announcements of plays will be made soon.
For further details Exhibitors are requested to communicate with the nearest Mutual Exchange.
Empire All-Star Corporation
John R. Freuler, President
Empire Productions Distributed in America Exclusively Through Mutual Exchanges

MUTUAL

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

Presents

The Charming Star

ANN MURDOCK

in

"WHERE LOVE IS"

From the pen of the celebrated novelist
WILLIAM J. LOCKE

Miss Murdock's exceptional emotional talent is allowed full sway in this famous story of a young society girl compelled to choose between love and wealth in marriage. All star supporting cast. Five Acts. Released the week of February 5th through Mutual Exchanges.

Now Booking At All Mutual Exchanges

EMPIRE ALL-STAR CORPORATION

An Important Announcement!

This announces to the motion picture industry the launching of a new producing factor to be known as the Empire All-Star Corporation—a two and one-half million dollar organization formed by John R. Freuler, of the Mutual Film Corporation, and Alf. Hayman of Charles Frohman, Incorporated.

Charles Frohman Successes in Motion Pictures—Produced by Empire—Released through Mutual

It will be the purpose of the Empire All-Star Corporation to present the successes of Charles Frohman in motion pictures, using all the unlimited resources of the famous Frohman organization, including plays, players, properties, costumes and incidentals, to present to the motion picture public productions of the very highest quality. The vast facilities of the Mutual Film Corporation and its nation-wide group of exchanges will be utilized in the distribution of Empire Photoplays, thus assuring exhibitors the utmost in efficient, intelligent film service.

(See next page)

EMPIRE PHOTOPLAYS

A New Organization —dominant!

The organization of the Empire All-Star Corporation marks another great achievement in the advancement of the motion picture industry. Combining, as it does, the facilities of the most prominent factor in speaking-stage circles (Charles Frohman, Incorporated) with the resources of America's most progressive film distributing organization (the Mutual Film Corporation) the new Empire All-Star Corporation is born a vital, important factor—dominant!

Frohman Plays, Frohman Players and Frohman Standards Added to Mutual Facilities

In the presentation of Frohman Successes in motion pictures, the Empire All-Star Corporation will have at its command a collection of plays, players and properties unequalled anywhere. The noted Frohman dramatist, Augustus Thomas will serve as scenario chief and advisor. Studios will be operated in New York, Chicago and California. Production will commence at once. Exhibitors will be advised in detail regarding Empire Photoplays through all Mutual Exchanges.

Empire All-Star Corporation

John R. Freuler. President

EMPIRE
PHOTOPLAYS

MUTUAL

RECORD CROWD SEES "PERILS OF OUR GIRL REPORTERS" AT ACADEMY

Sensational Film Depicting Actual Newspaper Life Shown for First Time at Popular Downtown Theater Attracts Multitude in Afternoon and Evening—Overwhelming Reception as "The Jade Necklace" is Flashed on Screen.

Buffet... Amus... ...es

...est difficulty that theater attendants ...ould handle the crowds.
Thirty minutes ... the regular ... of the Ac... evening ...ars...

"PERILS OF OUR GIRL REPORTERS" THRILLS AT REGENT

Capacity Audiences See First of Great Series of Newspaper Life and the Dangers That Best Women News Gatherers.

Those many lovers of the motion picture art who visited the Regent Theater last night and yesterday afternoon were thrilled by the portrayal of actual newspaper life as depicted in "The Jade Necklace," the first number ... the big film series, "The Perils ... Our Girl R...ers."

THE PE... GIRL
FIFTEEN STARTL...
The ...
1. ...
2. ...
3. ...
4. ...
5. ...
6.
7.
8.
9.
10.
11.
12.

"Manager Jules Michaels of the Academy, who is one of the shrewdest and most capable amusement men Buffalo has ever had, said today that he had almost made the mistake of his life by not booking the 'Perils of Our Girl Reporters'. He had already booked so many features that it seemed impossible to make room for this series but the advance notices of the pictures and that little something which may be called business instinct finally convinced him that it would be better to make room for the 'Perils of Our Girl Reporters' no matter what else he had to throw out to do it. 'If I had not done this,' he said, 'I would have missed an attraction that is proving THE GREATEST RECORD BREAKER THE ACADEMY HAS EVER BOOKED.'"

Here's convincing evidence of the tremendous success of the "Perils of Our Girl Reporters". What Manager Michaels states as his experience with this sensational film production, is true of exhibitors all over the country. The "Perils of Our Girl Reporters" is a "sure-fire" big-box-office attraction. Produced by Niagara Film Studios in fifteen thrilling motion picture stories—one a week—each complete. Featuring Earl Metcalfe, Helen Greene and Zena Keefe. Directed by Geo. Terwilliger. If you want your share of this big money harvest, book the "Perils of Our Girl Reporters" NOW.

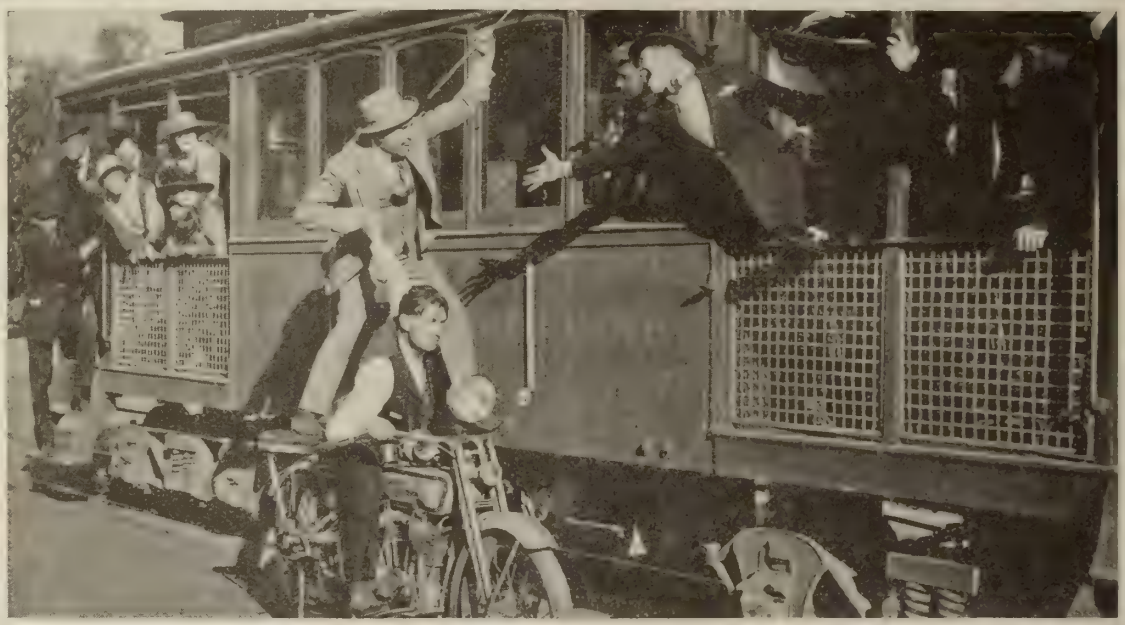
THE PERILS OF OUR GIRL REPORTERS

FIFTEEN STARTLING MOTION PICTURE STORIES — EACH COMPLETE

Call, write or wire your nearest Mutual Exchange NOW

BOOKING NOW AT ALL MUTUAL EXCHANGES

MUTUAL
VOGUE COMEDIES



VOGUE FILMS Inc., Presents

"STICKY FINGERS"

TWO REELS RELEASED FEBRUARY 4th

FEATURING PADDY McQUIRE

LIGHT Comedy and slapstick are wonderfully mingled in this Vogue Comedy. Directed by James Davis. Two college boys, temporarily "broke," allow their fingers to stray too near a lady's pocketbook. The complications that result are laughable in the extreme. In the "get-away" the Vogue comedians do things with an automobile on the roof of a skyscraper that seem absolutely impossible. "Sticky Fingers" is a real "stunt" picture. It can be booked at any Mutual Exchange.

Slapstick with a Reason
VOGUE COMEDIES

VOGUE FILMS, Incorporated
General Offices: 6225 Broadway Chicago, Illinois

MUTUAL

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION

Presents

"Shorty Goes To College"

Third of "The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton" Featurettes

A story of the ranch and the campus. "Shorty" in "chaps" and football togs. Some missing diamonds and Anita Keller of the U.S. Secret Service are mixed up in the plot.

RELEASED JANUARY 29th.

Produced by
MONOGRAM FILMS

Released Through MUTUAL EXCHANGES

MUTUAL
"Hey, Kids! Hurry Up! Gaumont!"
You can just hear the bright little chap shouting to his playmates. He's the best advertisement you can have. He went to the children's matinee last week, and now he's passing on the good word about
GAUMONT SINGLE-REELS
Get all the children's admission money you can. It helps pay the rent, and the children will be steady patrons for you in years to come. You can bring them back week after week with Gaumont pictures, they're GREAT for children.
"Reel Life" is a big winner; it's chock full of stuff for the kiddies. The Gaumont-Mutual Weekly interests them in history in the making. "Tours Around the World" shows them fascinating foreign lands. "See America First" instills love of country; and with it is a Gaumont Kartoon Komic so screamingly funny that the children almost fall off their seats laughing.
The Better Films Committee of the Illinois Congress of Mothers endorses these pictures. The Fordham Theater, Bronx, N. Y., is making a hit with some of them. Wise exhibitors everywhere are using them. Whenever a mothers' or teachers' committee confers with you, you are always safe when you offer them all the Gaumont Single-Reels. The best thing you can say is, "I am showing them every day NOW and pleasing my patrons."
ORDER FROM YOUR MUTUAL BRANCH TODAY
Gaumont Co
FLUSHING, N. Y.
CLEANNE DONALD
MUTUAL
GAUMONT PICTURES
"REEL LIFE"
OF INTEREST TO CHILDREN
TO-DAY

THE SUCCESSFUL WAY

Cub Comedies are now being shown in more theatres than ever because exhibitors have learned that Cub Comedies are capable of two functions, namely, drawing patronage and pleasing that patronage.

To those of you who demand these two qualities in any picture you play, we suggest that you arrange for booking at any exchange of the Mutual Film Corp., through which Cub Comedies are distributed.

Released Feb. 8
"Jerry's Big Raid"
featuring
George Ovey

Released Feb. 15
"Jerry's Big Mystery"
featuring
George Ovey

DAVID HORSLEY PRODUCTIONS

NOW SELLING

STATE RIGHTS

THE MOST REMARKABLE DRAMATIC SPECTACLE EVER SHOWN ON ANY SCREEN

THE 7 ACT CINEMA THUNDERBOLT

"ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER"

WRITTEN & DIRECTED BY
IVAN ABRAMSON

NO FEATURE, REGARDLESS OF COST, COMPARES WITH THIS PRODUCTION AS AN ATTRACTION. IT WILL STAND WEEK ENGAGEMENTS IN ANY THEATRE

SELECTED BY THE NATIONAL BOARD OF REVIEW TO BE SHOWN EXCLUSIVELY AT THEIR RECENT MEETING TO DEMONSTRATE HOW DELICATELY A POWERFUL SUBJECT OF GREAT DRAMATIC FORCE CAN BE HANDLED

11 EXHIBITORS OFFERED $14000 FOR ELEVEN WEEKS BOOKINGS IN GREATER NEW YORK, IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING THE TRADE SHOWING DECEMBER TWENTY-FIRST

WITHOUT ANY PRELIMINARY ADVERTISING OVER FORTY SOLID WEEKS BOOKING HAVE BEEN OFFERED

ENLIGHTMENT PHOTO PLAY CORPORATION

220 WEST 42 ND STREET N.Y.C. SUITE 1005
PHONE BRYANT 7812

HENRY J. BROCK PRESIDENT

At the National Board of Review meeting held in New York on January 24

"ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER"

was selected as the most fitting subject with which to demonstrate how a powerful drama, absorbing plot, gigantic theme and subject of tremendous importance can be handled in a manner that,—while it treats the subject in hand in a definite, rugged manner,—is yet so constructed as to receive unanimous approval of every class. POWERFUL yet CLEAN — ABSORBING yet SUBTLE. It deals a terrific blow at our greatest human frailty—the allowing of our daughters to grow up in utter ignorance of the world's pitfalls yet it is the most entertaining film production Broadway has ever seen. During the two days has been at the PARK THEATRE, New York, an average of twelve thousand spectators have sat spellbound, thrilled with emotions.

"ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER"

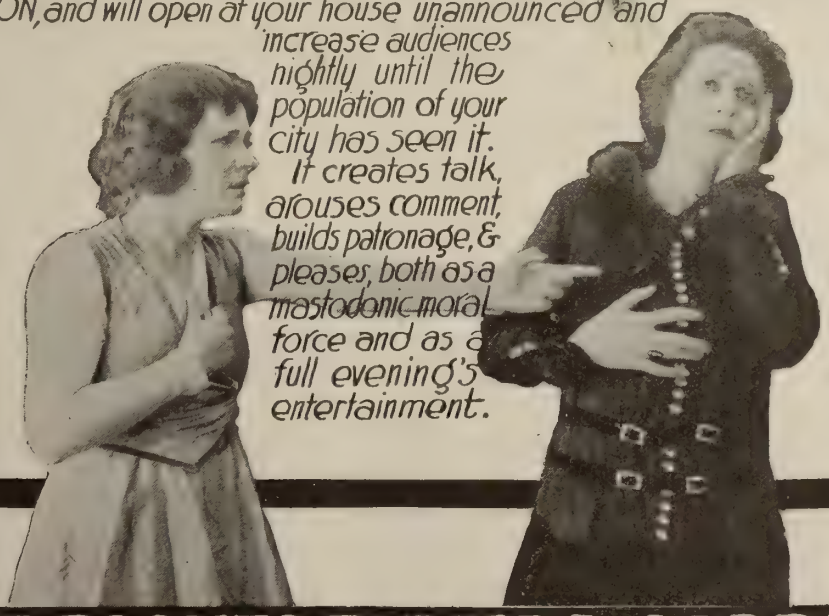
"IT IS POSITIVELY THE MOST HEART GRIPPING, PULSE MOVING, DRAMATIC SPECTACLE THAT COULD BE CROWDED ON THE SCREEN IN THE TWO HOURS REQUIRED TO SHOW IT" says William R. Hearst's NEW YORK AMERICAN.

"ENLIGHTEN THY DAUGHTER"

is the realization of the theatre owner's dream. It is PUNCH, PULLING POWER, SENSATION, and will open at your house unannounced and increase audiences nightly until the population of your city has seen it. It creates talk, arouses comment, builds patronage, & pleases, both as a mastodonic moral force and as a full evening's entertainment.



STATE RIGHTS BUYERS ADDRESS

ENLIGHTMENT PHOTO PLAY CORPORATION

220 WEST 42 ND STREET N.Y.C. SUITE 1005

PHONE BRYANT 7812

HENRY J. BROCK PRESIDENT

The Great White Way—

The swirling life of this famous Street of Fashion is shown in all its splendor, vanity, daring and novelty, in the —

William · Fox ·

PHOTOPLAY

The New York Peacock

WITH

Valeska · Suratt

THE EMPRESS OF FASHION

Gowns that will cause gasps of Admiration and Wonder.

Written by Mary Murillo — — Directed by Kenean Buel

Foxfilm Comedy Service

RELEASE FOR WEEK OF FEBRUARY 5TH

The Cloud Puncher.

TWO REELS

featuring Hank · Mann

THE PICTURE THAT MAKES THE JOHNSTOWN FLOOD LOOK LIKE A HEAVY DEW. — FOXFILM COMEDIES ARE RELEASED WEEKLY.
AVAILABLE FOR ALL EXHIBITORS —
INDEPENDENT OF REGULAR FOX PROGRAM

MACK SENNETT
PRESENTS
MISS MABEL NORMAND
AND HER OWN COMPANY IN
"MICKEY"
THE LITTLE GIRL YOU WILL NEVER FORGET

SOON TO BE RELEASED
MABEL NORMAND FEATURE FILM CO.
KESSEL AND BAUMANN EXECUTIVES
LONGACRE BLDG. NEW YORK CITY:

MACK SENNETT-KEYSTONES

Only One Kind

The Utmost in Comedy

NOW READY FOR RELEASE

INDEPENDENT OF ANY PROGRAM

ONE TWO-REELER EACH WEEK

"THE NICK OF TIME BABY"
"STARS AND 'BARS'"
"MAGGIE'S FIRST FALSE STEP"
"HER CIRCUS KNIGHT"
"DODGING HIS DOOM"
"VILLA OF THE MOVIES"
"HER FAME AND SHAME"
"A MAIDEN'S TRUST"
"HER NATURE DANCE"
"A ROYAL ROGUE"
"SKIDDING HEARTS"

IMPORTANT NOTICE!!!

THERE ARE NO

One-Reel Mack Sennett-Keystones

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION, Distributors

KESSEL & BAUMANN, Executives

LONG ACRE BUILDING NEW YORK CITY

Paramount—BRAY—Pictographs

With all the popularity accorded Paramount Pictographs and an equal amount enjoyed by the Bray Animated Cartoons,

THE PULLING POWER IS NOW EXACTLY DOUBLE

because of the combination of these two exceptional features in

A FULL REEL WEEKLY RELEASE

GET IT FOR YOUR THEATRE

RELEASED ON THE PARAMOUNT PROGRAMME

BRAY STUDIOS, INC.

23 East 26th Street, New York

A SERIES OF SEVEN FIVE-REEL PHOTOPLAYS

SEVEN BIG FEATURES

Each play complete in itself with its own great star and its own great story The series connected by a throbbing love story

McCLURE PICTURES

ENVY

"ENVY" starring ANN MURDOCK

PRIDE

"PRIDE" starring HOLBROOK BLINN

The Seventh Sin— What is it ?

PASSION

"PASSION" starring SHIRLEY MASON

SEVEN DEADLY SINS

BIG MODERN DRAMAS — BIG STARS

SEVEN DEADLY SINS

GREED

"GREED" starring NANCE O'NEIL

WRATH

"WRATH" starring H. B. WARNER

SLOTH

"SLOTH" starring CHARLOTTE WALKER

The series that brings you seven periods of capacity business—big names—big themes—big McClure advertising

BOOK THROUGH TRIANGLE EXCHANGES

Address McClure series dept. TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION New York City 1459 B'way New York

BOOK ENTIRE SERIES

McClure Pictures has kept its Promise!

SEVEN DEADLY SINS

The greatest Money-Maker you ever booked

Read what the Critics say:

Edward Weitzel, The Moving Picture World

"Full of the liveliest sort of action * * * Deft touches of characters, brief sidelights that reveal intimate and unexpected bits of life, and progressive movement of plot are to be found in this picture-play."

Peter Milne, Motion Picture News

"The casual passer-by whose eye may be arrested by the hectic words 'Seven Deadly Sins,' and who confides to himself, 'By Golly, I'd like to see one of 'em,' will by no means be disappointed in 'Envy.' Like as not he will become a permanent patron of the theatre, eagerly seeking the other six of the series. * * * 'Snappy stuff' just about sums up the five reels."

A. G. S., Dramatic Mirror

"If 'Envy' with Ann Murdock is representative of the series, the release of this chain of plays should be eagerly watched for by the exhibitors."

Agnes Smith, The Morning Telegraph

"A quick moving modern drama with two charming actresses and a likable actor. * * * The series gets a flying start. * * * A heap of melodramatic thrills. * * * A human note is struck early in the picture. * * * It would be hard to find a production better equipped in the way of players."

Exhibitor's Trade Review

"The exhibitor must not treat lightly the value of the publicity and advertising carried in the McClure publications. Much curiosity must have been aroused in the public mind concerning 'Seven Deadly Sins.' * * * 'Envy' must be pronounced interesting."

Variety. ("Envy")

"A wealth of melodrama with a punch. * * * There is a whale of a battle between a hired gunman and the millionaire. * * * The fans will want to know what happened to the characters after the fiilm ceases."

Variety. ("Pride")

"For action and melodramatic interest it far outdoes the first of the septet. * * * The story is packed to the last inch of capacity with action. * * * If the McClure people can keep up the pace they have set in No. 2 for the rest of the seven, they should find a ready market."

Harriette Underhill, New York Tribune

"If the 'Seven Deadly Sins' continue to be made so attractive, it is going to be difficult to say 'Get thee behind me.'"

Laurence Reid, Motion Picture Mail

"The story is happily not a preachment nor does it present, ostentatiously, a moral. * * * The incidents are forged together with a fine regard for sequence and without losing sight of the fact that suspense and animation must be dominant throughout. * * * A tale abounding in thrilling action. * * * All in all, other manufacturers should 'Envy' the McClure Company."

McClure Series Dept.,
Triangle Distributing Corporation,
1459 Broadway, New York City.

TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION
GENERAL OFFICES 1457 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

OFFICE OF
THE PRESIDENT

Jan. 25th, 1917.

Mr. Frederick L. Collins,
President McClure Publications,
#251 Fourth Avenue,
New York City.

Dear Mr. Collins:

I had the pleasure last night, of witnessing three of the series of McClure Pictures, The Seven Deadly Sins, the subjects being "Envy", "Pride" and "Greed".

I believe that all of these will be acceptable to, and make money for the exhibitor showing them, particularly in view of the wide publicity they are receiving.

I was much impressed with the acting of Miss O'Neil and the dramatic situations in "Greed", having enjoyed it more than any picture I have seen in a long time.

Wishing you every success, I am,

Yours very truly,

Wm. W. Hodkinson

WWH B

Hodkinson Knows!!

McCLURE PICTURES

TRIANGLE

A breath-taking incident in the "Gun Fighter's" career. Hart is the S. R. O. attraction.

SUNDAY, FEB. 11th
INCE-KAY BEE
WILLIAM S. HART
IN
"THE GUN FIGHTER"
AND A TRIANGLE KOMEDY
"WON BY A FOOT"

Mack Sennett-Keystone Comedies

The FIRST of the NEW CROP, "The Nick of Time Baby," will be Released FEBRUARY 11th and then one a week.

THURSDAY FEB. 15th
A TRIANGLE KOMEDY
"HIS DEADLY UNDERTAKING"
AND CONSTANCE TALMADGE
IN
"A GIRL OF THE TIMBERCLAIMS"
FINE ARTS —AND WON!

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

PICTURES

The Truth About Triangle

TO EXHIBITORS:—

Our decks are now cleared for action. Our plans are complete to the last detail. Our producers are locked together with us positively and definitely. Our Branch Offices have the confidence of all the support that capital, experience and ability can give them.

Triangle is bigger, stronger, better equipped to furnish you with the finest photoplays than ever before. We have not explained our final and definite plans until we could be certain we could deliver to the last ounce what those plans contemplated. We were determined to make no promise that could not be kept to the final dot.

Today we can talk definitely, and we now tell you that the Triangle Program consisting of—

1 Five Reel Ince-Kay Bee Feature
1 Five Reel Fine Arts Feature
2 One Reel Triangle Komedies, will be supplied to you each week through Triangle Exchanges as will also a special release of

1 Two Reel Mack Sennett-Keystone Comedy

and in no other way can these subjects be secured. We shall tell you more of our plans next week.

Triangle Distributing Corporation
Wm. W. Hodkinson, President
1457 Broadway, New York City.

RELEASED ONLY BY TRIANGLE DISTRIBUTING CORPORATION

GOLDWYN PICTURES

What Goldwyn Means to the Box Office

THE STORY, the STAR and the PRODUCTION. Those are the requirements of pictures that will keep theatres filled to the doors. GOLDWYN'S name will guarantee these three essentials.

STORIES by Robert W. Chambers, Irvin S. Cobb, Margaret Mayo, Roi Cooper Megrue, Avery Hopwood, Edith Ellis; authors whose names are known to millions of people; whose genius has created the greatest plays and the biggest-selling magazines.

STARS of beauty and world-wide reputation known by the people of all lands where motion pictures are shown and the greatest publications are read—Maxine Elliott, Jane Cowl, Mae Marsh, Madge Kennedy and others to be announced.

PRODUCTIONS planned, supervised and presented by skilled, brainy managers like Samuel Goldfish, Edgar Selwyn, Arthur Hopkins and more than a score of the ablest factors who have been identified with picture-making.

THIS combination of talent has financial, paid admissions value at the box office of every motion picture theatre throughout the Americas.

ADVISORY BOARD:
SAMUEL GOLDFISH
Chairman
EDGAR SELWYN
ROBERT W. CHAMBERS
IRVIN S. COBB
ARTHUR HOPKINS
MARGARET MAYO
ROI COOPER MEGRUE
ARCHIBALD SELWYN
CROSBY GAIGE

GOLDWYN PICTURES
CORPORATION

Telephone, Vanderbilt 11 16 East 42d Street, New York City

The STORY relates frankly
the consequences of a wrong choice made by The GIRL who was driven by the best impulse in human life and in The PICTURE
the piteousness of her mistake is presented with clean and certain drama

A MORAL PANTOMIME

Released on the METRO Program
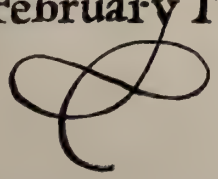
February 12.



ARTHUR JAMES
presents
FRANCES NELSON
in Wm. Christy Cabanne's
ONE of MANY
A METRO wonderplay in Five unusual acts contrived by Wm.
Christy Cabanne from his own story.

Here's the Evidence

Samuel Sonin, Manager of the Lincoln Theatre, Brooklyn N.Y. makes this unsolicited announcement about

The Great Secret

Story by Fred de Gresac

"A serial feature production, which we personally recommend. As a rule, we are not in favor of booking serial pictures, but, after seeing the first eight episodes of "THE GREAT SECRET," and being assured that this serial production will keep up the high standard of photography and will continue to grow in interest with each chapter. we have therefore decided that we must book The Great Secret."

"It would not be fair to deprive our patrons of seeing this very interesting story and remarkably good acting by their favorite stars."

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN and BEVERLY BAYNE

Adapted and Produced by Wm. Christy Cabanne.

What's true for the Lincoln Theatre is true for you

SEE YOUR NEAREST METRO EXCHANGE

The first motion picture newspaper combined with the greatest news gathering organization —

The Hearst-Pathé News

The only one reel feature

See your nearest Pathé Exchange about it.

Spanish submarine in a Cape Cod Harbor. Hearst-Pathé News #6

PATHÉ

ANNOUNCES

PATRIA

WITH THE BEST KNOWN WOMAN IN AMERICA

MRS. VERNON CASTLE

•

EVERYONE HAS HEARD OF MRS. CASTLE
THE IDOL OF SOCIETY
AND THE FAVORITE OF FORTUNE

•

IN PATRIA
THE SERIAL SUPREME
SHE PROVES HERSELF TO BE EQUAL TO ANY STAR OF THE SCREEN
IN CHARM PLUCK AND REAL TALENT

•

AS A
BOX OFFICE ATTRACTION
SHE IS IN A
CLASS BY HERSELF

•

•

15 EPISODES
BOOKING NOW THROUGH THE PATHÉ
EXCHANGES

•

BOOKED BY KEITH'S
PALACE
THE GREATEST
VAUDEVILLE HOUSE
IN THE COUNTRY BEING THE

FIRST MOTION PICTURE SERIAL
THEY HAVE EVER PLAYED.

BOOKED ALSO
BY EVERY KEITH THEATRE IN GREAT-ER NEW YORK

THE KEITH PEOPLE ARE SHOWMEN
THEY KNOW HOW TO GET THE CROWDS!

PATRIA

THE SERIAL SUPREME

PRODUCED FOR INTERNATIONAL BY WHARTON, INC.

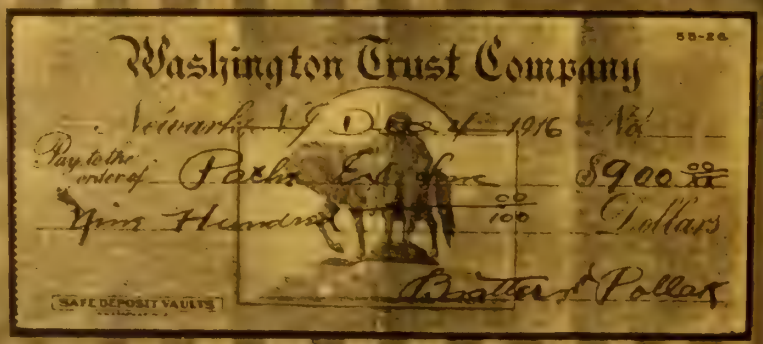
WRITTEN BY
LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

Pathé

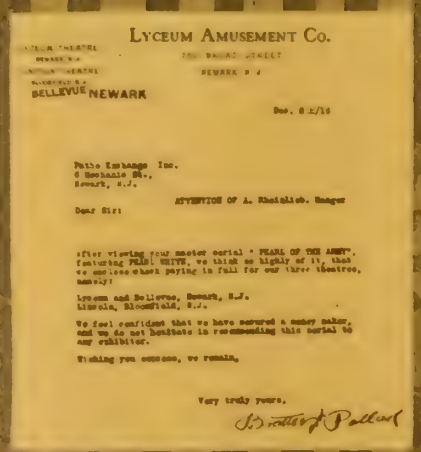
HE SAVED 10% ON

PEARL OF THE ARMY

In saving 10% on Pathé's 8 serials a year, this exhibitor adds a thousand dollars a year to his income by accepting Pathé's offer of 10% discount for cash in advance on serials



Washington Trust Company
Newark, N.J. Dec 4 1916 No.
Pay to the order of Pathe Exchange
$900 00
Nine Hundred 00/100 Dollars
Butler & Pollak
SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS



LYCEUM AMUSEMENT CO.

BELLEVUE NEWARK

Dec. 8 1916

Pathe Exchange Inc.
8 Mechanic St.,
Newark, N.J.

ATTENTION OF A. Rheinlieb. Manager

Dear Sirs

After viewing your master serial " PEARL OF THE ARMY", featuring PEARL WHITE, we think so highly of it, that we enclose check paying in full for our three theatres, namely:

Lyceum and Bellevue, Newark, N.J.
Lincoln, Bloomfield, N.J.

We feel confident that we have secured a money maker, and we do not hesitate in recommending this serial to any exhibitor.

Wishing you success, we remain,

Very truly yours,

Butler & Pollak

PRODUCED BY ASTRA
UNDER THE DIRECTION OF EDWARD JOSÉ
FEATURING PEARL WHITE

Pathé

PATHÉ

ANNOUNCING

LOIS MEREDITH

IN THE FIVE PART
GOLD ROOSTER PLAY

SOLD AT AUCTION

PRODUCED BY

BALBOA

RELEASED FEB. 11

GOLD ROOSTER PLAYS PLEASE PATRONS AND EXHIBITORS!

"I wish to congratulate you upon the excellence of 'ARMS and the WOMAN'. I stood in the lobby between the two shows and never heard as much praise of a picture either here or at my Oceanic Theatre. Could I get as good pictures as this every day I would soon have the largest business in town. This is the second letter I have written in five years in praise of a picture but I feel it a pleasure to write this one."

Harry J. Rockafeller,
Manager Shubert Theatre,
Asbury Park, N.J.

1907—1917

The

TENTH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER

of the

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

Will be the Issue Dated

MARCH 10th, 1917

INTERESTING, Reminiscent, Retrospective, with short articles by Men Prominent in All Branches of the Moving Picture Business on the Wonderful Advance and Development of the Past Ten Years.

Greatest Advertising Opportunity ever presented. No increase in rates. Send copy now to secure best position.

LAST FORMS CLOSE FEBRUARY 23rd

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Ave., New York

Schiller Building
Chicago, Ill.

Haas Building
Los Angeles, Cal.

Here are LETTERS Absolute Supremacy o

From Marcus Loew

READ

They

Much t

TELEPHONE 2900 BRYANT

BOROUGH THEATRE COMPANY
BROOKSIDE AMUSEMENT CORP.
COLUMBIA AMUSEMENT COMPANY
COMET AMUSEMENT CORPORATION
DELANCEY AMUSEMENT COMPANY
EMPRESS PICTURE CORPORATION
GLENDIVE AMUSEMENT CORP
GLOBE VAUDEVILLE COMPANY
GREELEY SQUARE AMUSEMENT CO.
HUMANOVA PRODUCING COMPANY

LOEW'S THEATRICAL ENTERPRISES
LOEW'S BOSTON THEATRES ASSOC'S
LOEW'S CONSOLIDATED ENTERPRISES
LOEW AMUSEMENT COMPANY
LORRAINE AMUSEMENT COMPANY
INTERNATIONAL VAUDEVILLE CO.
MARCUS LOEW BOOKING AGENCY
MARCUS LOEW'S THEATRES LTD.
MARCUS LOEW INCORPORATED MASCOT AMUSEMENT COMPANY

PEOPLES VAUDEVILLE COMPANY
MONARCH AMUSEMENT COMPANY
MOSTERN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION
MOVING PICTURE COMPANY OF MASS.
NATOMA AMUSEMENT COMPANY
N.Y. & FALL RIVER AMUSEMENT CO.
NEWARK HEIGHTS THEATRE CORP.
ST. JAMES AMUSEMENT COMPANY
20TH CENTURY AMUSEMENT COMPANY
WARWICK AMUSEMENT CORP.

Executive Offices 1493-1503 Broadway New York

January 19,1917.

Bluebird Photoplays (Inc)
1600 Broadway,
New York City.

Gentlemen:

I had the pleasure of sitting through one of your "Bluebird" pictures called "God's Crucible" yesterday, and I want to say to you that that is the kind of material that is bound to put your Organization to the front. It was not that I only liked the picture very much, but the audience seemed to appreciate it even more.

I personally have not seen "The Mysterious Mrs M" but the reports from my men are splendid.

Yours very truly,
Marcus Loew

ML-L

MARCUS LOEW of New York is the most successful Picture Theatre Owner in the World of Two of the Most Successful Theatrical and Mr.LOEW are Successful Because They You Can Establish the Supremacy of Your

FOLLOW THE

BLUEBIRD PHOTO-PLAYS, Inc., Executive

that PROVE the f BLUEBIRD Photo Plays

THEM Mean o You

From S.L.Rothapfel

RIALTO THEATRE CORPORATION
OPERATORS

S. L. ROTHAPFEL
SECRETARY AND MANAGING DIRECTOR

OFFICE OF THE MANAGING DIRECTOR

THE RIALTO
"THE TEMPLE OF THE MOTION PICTURE"
TIMES SQUARE
NEW YORK

TELEPHONE {1406 / 1407 / 1408} BRYANT

January twentieth
1 9 1 7

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.,
1600 Broadway,
New York City.

Gentlemen:

I am about to present "The Mysterious Mrs M". at the Rialto Theatre and I can say this that if the Bluebird Photoplays, Inc. can conscientiously produce such pictures as these they must be considered seriously in the front ranks of the American producers.

"THE MYSTERIOUS MRS M." directed by Lois Weber, in my opinion, is one of the prettiest pictures I have seen in a long while. The acting, the direction, and the beautiful touches of real artistry are a joy and I can assure you I deeply appreciate it.

Any more such pictures that you might produce you may rest assured that I will be glad to book them, and I will consider them a credit to the Rialto.

Very sincerely yours,

S. L. Rothapfel

SLR/S

Managing Director.

MR. S.L. ROTHAPFEL is the greatest showman since the days of Barnum

LEAD

Men in the Business. Mr. ROTHAPFEL Give Their Audiences What They Want. House with BLUEBIRD PHOTO-PLAYS

Offices, 1600 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

State Rights!

"It plays on the Heart Strings"

Here's a big six-part photoplay feature with a story that rings true to everyday life. The characters portrayed on the screen are the kind of people one meets every day. The moral pointed is one that might be drawn from a leading article culled from a daily newspaper any time in any city. It is the old, old story that will always be new until the Millennium comes!

"THE GIRL WHO DIDN'T THINK"

With JANE GAIL

International Screen Favorite

STANLEY WALPOLE
Premier Photoplay Star

MAY SIMON
Distinguished Russian Tragedienne

And a Capable Supporting Cast

Sumptuously produced, "THE GIRL WHO DIDN'T THINK" is being offered States Rights Buyers complete with every aid for Exhibitors to "get the money." There are interest-compelling heralds, attractive lobby photographs, and striking pictorial posters in 1, 3, 6 and 24-sheet sizes. You'd better write or wire for your territory today!

Creative Film Corporation
1585 Broadway New York City

A Golden Opportunity!

LAUGHS MEAN MONEY AND YOUR BOX-OFFICE LAUGHS LOUDEST OF ALL WHEN YOU PLAY THE

BILLY WEST COMEDIES

TWO REELS EACH AND PACKED WITH RIOTOUS YELLS

First Release—"HIS MARRIED LIFE" Second Release "BOMBS AND BOARDERS"

REAL SCREAMS OF THE SCREEN

WATCH FOR THE LATEST

BILLY WEST

THE CYCLONE OF MIRTH

"A Hotel Mix-Up"

To Be Released on February Twenty-sixth.

Billy Has Been Seen in SOME Screen Screams Before; But for Whirlwind Action and Howling Comedy, That Will Send Your Patrons Out With Aching Sides, and Wagging Tongues, "A Hotel Mix-Up" Has Them All Backed Off the Film.

SPECIAL NOTICE The Billy West Comedies Are Now to Be Distributed on the Open Market on a STATE RIGHTS BASIS.

FOR FRANCHISES AND INFORMATION APPLY TO

THE BELMONT FILM COMPANY

Executive Offices and Studios: Yonkers, New York.

ART DRAMA'S

Exhibitors who show Art Dramas please their patrons and make money.

Are you showing an Art Drama to-day !

HARRY R. RAVER

presents that charming star

VIOLA DANA

in a romantic love story of the East Side

"ROSIE O'GRADY"

An Apollo Picture.

Released February 1st

BOOKING AT THESE EXCHANGES

NEW YORK—MODERN FEATURE PHOTOPLAYS, Inc., 729 Seventh Avenue.
BOSTON—BOSTON PHOTOPLAY COMPANY, 205 Pleasant Avenue.
PHILADELPHIA—ELECTRIC THEATRE SUPPLY CO., 1321 Vine Street.
PITTSBURGH—LIBERTY FILM RENTING CO., 938 Penn Avenue.
DETROIT—TRI-STATE FILM EXCHANGE, 120 Broadway.
CLEVELAND—TRI-STATE FILM EXCHANGE, Sincere Building.
CINCINNATI—TRI-STATE FILM EXCHANGE, Strand Theatre Building.
CHICAGO—ART DRAMAS SERVICE, 207 South Wabash Avenue.
SAN FRANCISCO—DE LUXE FILM LASKY CORPORATION, Humboldt Bank Building.
LOS ANGELES—DE LUXE FILM LASKY CORPORATION, Los Angeles Investment Building.
DALLAS—SOUTHERN ART DRAMAS CORPORATION, 1911 Commerce Street.
SALT LAKE CITY—PHOTOPLAY EXCHANGE, 137 East 2nd Street South.
DENVER—PHOTOPLAY EXCHANGE, Welton Street.
KANSAS CITY—STANDARD FILM CORPORATION, 319 Gloyd Building.
ST. LOUIS—STANDARD FILM CORPORATION.
DES MOINES—STANDARD FILM CORPORATION.

116 WEST 39TH STREET NEW YORK CITY

WHAT BECOMES OF THE CHILDREN ?

A BIG VITAL QUESTION OF TODAY
A GRIPPING POWERFUL STORY
A VIVID AND APPEALING LESSON
A DRAMATIC SENSATION

WRITTEN BY AND FEATURING
CORRA BEACH and
WALTER SHUMWAY

Directed by
WALTER RICHARD STAHL

WILL YOU MARRY ME?
IS A STATE RIGHT PROPOSITION
that no live-wire exchange can fail to make money with and no wide-awake exhibitor can fail to book.
It has all that a picture ought to have to be a success. Every ounce of advertising matter is the same as every inch of film—booking ammunition!

We tell it to you here so plainly and without the usual gush of advertising because we sell films—not ads; and we respect your intelligence!

You cannot know a good drawing card by merely reading ads.—you must see it. Then see "WILL YOU MARRY ME?" You are not expected to believe all you read, but you are expected to recognize merit when you see it on the screen

"WILL YOU MARRY ME" is designed to make money for you because that's sure to mean us also. To satisfy you means profit to us.

Pardon us for talking so simply, but we deal only in truths—and truth is so simple!

P.S. It is very possible that delay may cost you an opportunity. Wire for our proposition—We can deal quickly.

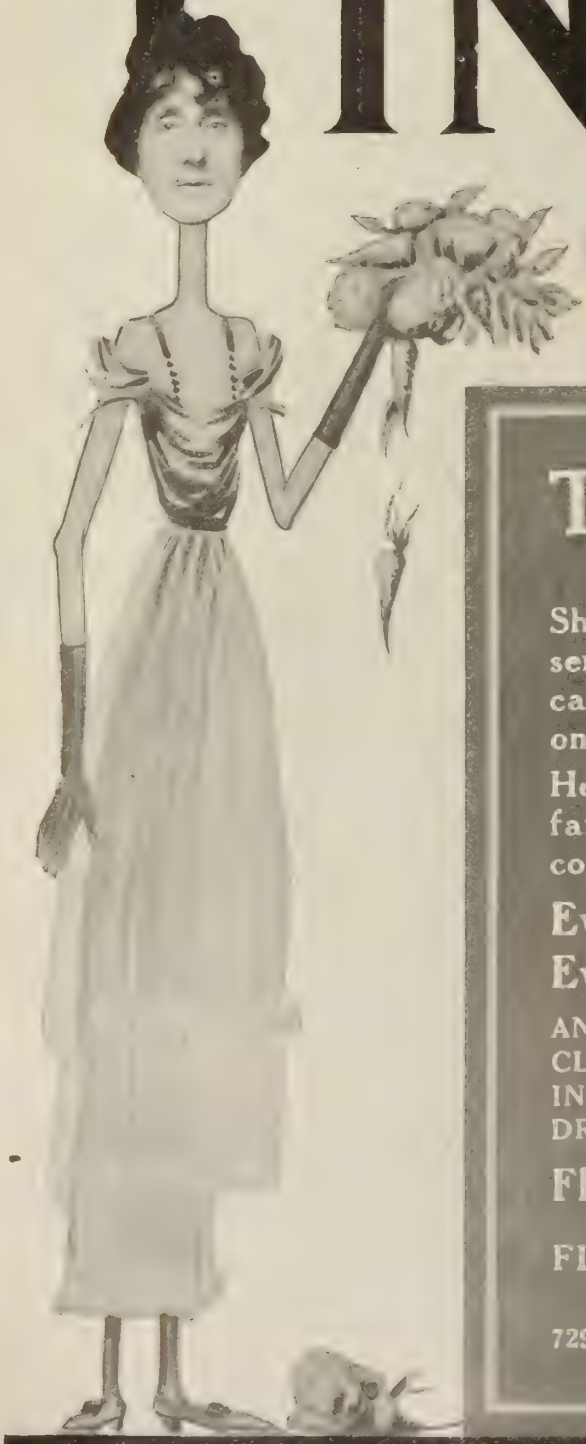
MAJOR FILM CORPORATION
729 SEVENTH AVE.,
NEW YORK CITY

FLORA FINCH!!



IN ALL HER SCRAWNY, SKINNY MAJESTY!

THE first funny-woman of the screen who to this day has no successor.

She will now appear in a comedy series that only a FLORA FINCH can make great—and there's only one FLORA FINCH!

Her tremendous following is her fame, and in State Rights it becomes your asset.

Everybody Knows Flora Finch!
Everybody Wants Her!

AND NOW, AS AN INDIVIDUAL EXCLUSIVE STAR, BACKED BY CORKING PRODUCTION, NEW IDEAS AND A DRIVING ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN.

Flora Finch is ready for you!

FLORA FINCH FILM CORPORATION
729 7th Avenue, New York

THE SEAL OF THE SQUARE DEAL
DIST. BY H. GROSSMAN 729-7TH AVE. N.Y.

York Times.

THE WEATHER
Probably rain or snow today; fair Friday; fresh, shifting winds.
For full weather report see Page 19.

JANUARY 25, 1917.—TWENTY PAGES. ONE CENT In Greater New York, Jersey City and Newark. Elsewhere, TWO CENTS

CAINE AND LAW STATE ENGLAND'S VIEWS

CAINE LAUDS WILSON SPEECH

Says Englishmen Profoundly Admire the Grandeur of Its Conception.

BUT ONE PHRASE WOUNDS

"Peace Without Victory" Stirs Resentment, While "Freedom of the Seas" Seems Ill-Timed.

SEES WAR THREATENING US

British Opinion Holds That the President Was Influenced by Anxiety to Avoid Its Horrors.

By HALL CAINE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—President Wilson probably knows by this time that the first expression of French and British opinion on his speech to the Senate has been that of scarcely disguised disdain. He has no reason to [illegible] troubled on that account. [illegible] challenge [illegible]

HALL CAINE

World renowned man of letters is THE AUTHOR of THE DEEMSTER his greatest DRAMATIC STORY —

a story which has lived in the hearts of the American people and has been translated into twelve different languages.

The world-wide appeal of this GIGANTIC ATTRACTION means that it will make money for years — that its drawing power is limited only by TIME ITSELF.

STATE RIGHT BUYERS

Communicate with

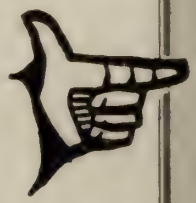
ARROW FILM CORPORATION TIMES BUILDING

BROADWAY, NEW YORK CITY

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE

The "SPECIAL" Quality on the Dependable program

WHY "SPECIAL?"



High Cost of Production
Highest Standard of Plot and Scenario
A Story of the First Magnitude
Perfect Photography Wonderful Sets
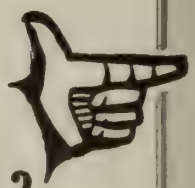
Ideal Location
Details Right



WHY ON A PROGRAM?

Because we are here to help every holder of a franchise for

WORLD PICTURES

WILLIAM A. BRADY in association with WORLD PICTURES
presents

ALICE BRADY

in

"The Hungry Heart"

From the famous play "FROU-FROU"
Directed by EMILE CHAUTARD

STATE RIGHT BUYERS

Read the Newspaper and Trade Journal reviews on this massive production —then get in touch with us.

"HER CONDONED SIN"

IN SIX REELS

PRODUCED BY

D. W. GRIFFITH

(Founded on Judith of Bethulia)

The most magnificent and artistic spectacle staged by this celebrated producer

Included in the Cast are

HENRY WALTHALL	MAE MARSH
BLANCHE SWEET	ROBERT HARRON
LILLIAN GISH	DOROTHY GISH

BIOGRAPH COMPANY
796 East 176th Street
New York City

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

All agree "THE TRUANT SOUL" is HENRY B. WALTHALL'S greatest photoplay. Doing capacity business everywhere. Don't let your patrons miss this super-attraction.

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

Essanay

GEORGE K SPOOR PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

KLEINE EDISON SELIG ESSANAY

BRYANT WASHBURN

IS PRESENTED IN

Skinner's Dress Suit

TAKEN from the famous story by Henry Irving Dodge in THE SATURDAY EVENING POST. 5,000,000 readers of the Post were thrilled by the story. Every one will want to see the play. You have a ready made audience waiting. Don't miss this opportunity for a self advertised photoplay—a drama full of heart interest; it strikes a note that reaches every home.

screen time 1 hour, 15 minutes.

Harry Beaumont, Director

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

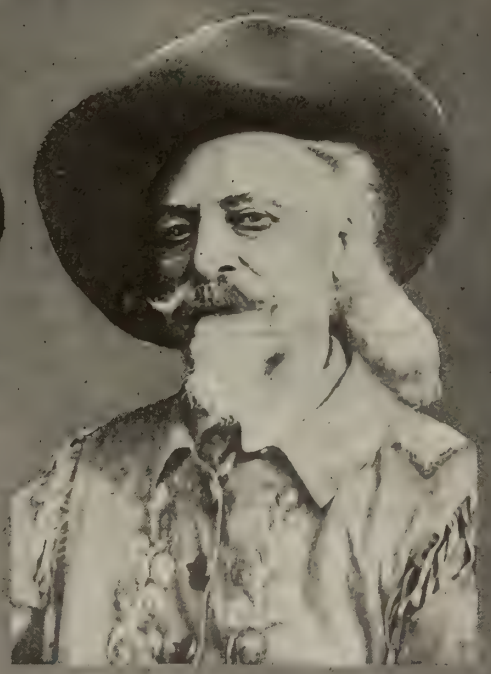
Essanay

GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

K LEINE E DISON S ELIG E SSANAY

Adventures of BUFFALO BILL



¶ His Indian battles, last hunting trip with the Prince of Monaco, owner of Monte Carlo, and incidents of his home life.

¶ 5,000 U. S. troops and Indians take part, including the famous generals and chiefs engaged in the Indian wars.

¶ Actual battles refought on Western Plains and the Bad Lands—Col. Cody's death fight with Chief Yellow Hand.

¶ BUFFALO BILL is the most romantic figure in American History—the idol of every man and boy.

¶ BOOK IT NOW WHILE HIS NAME IS ON EVERY TONGUE.

Screen Time, 1 hour, 15 minutes

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

Essanay
GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle St., Chicago

General Film Service

BLACK CAT

Features

FILL ALL THEATRES

Book them every Tuesday—
They are sure drawing cards

Here are the latest:

"THE LIGHTED LAMP"
presenting
Edward Arnold
and
Anna Mae Walthall

Screen time 27 minutes Released Feb. 13

"THE HOODOOED STORY"
presenting
Richard C. Travers and Gertrude Glover

Screen time 28 minutes Released Feb. 6th

Other Essanays:
"CANIMATED NOOZ
PICTORIAL NO. 24"
By Wallace A. Carlson
With Alaskan scenic

Screen time 15 minutes Released Feb. 7

IS MARRIAGE SACRED ?

presenting the

Essanay Stock Company

Five screen stars of international reputation:

Marguerite Clayton
Edward Arnold
Lillian Drew
Sydney Ainsworth
Thomas Commerford

appear every Saturday in a series of 12 thrilling dramas on

MARRIAGE and DIVORCE

Each play has a separate and distinct plot. Here they are:

"The Burning Band"—Dec. 16th
"Dancing With Folly"—Dec. 23rd
"Wife in Sunshine"—Dec. 30th
"When the Man Speaks"—Jan. 6th
"The Wide Wrong Way"—Jan. 13th
"The Sinful Marriage"—Jan 20th
"The Magic Mirror"—Jan. 27th
"Shifting Shadows"—Feb. 3rd
"Desertion and Nonsupport"—Feb. 10th
"Ashes on the Hearthstone"—Feb. 17th
"The Extravagant Bride"—Feb. 24th
"Social Obligations"—March 3rd

Solves all seat selling problems

BOOKING NOW

By Charles Mortimer Peck
Directed by E. H. Calvert

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S Pat. 1907

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

TRADEMARK
Reg. U. S Pat. 1907

Read These Comments!

"The Princess of Patches"

Wm. C. Esty in the Motion Picture News, says in part: "Take the plots of half a dozen successful serials, boil them down to five reels, and you will have a close approximation of 'The Princess of Patches.' In it are the same sort of action and incidents that characterize the average serial—the mystery and melodrama; the plotting and counter-plotting; the proofs that are stolen, regained and restolen. . . . Exhibitors who have found serials a paying proposition will make no mistake in booking 'The Princess of Patches.' Its basic appeal is identical with that of the continued photoplay. The picture will also find favor in theatres that do not regularly run serials since the spectator loses the impression of improbability in the rapidity of the action. The Southern atmosphere is excellently created. The comedy touches are very well done. The locations used are good."

Now Glance Over This!

James S. McQuade, in the Moving Picture World, says in part: "Director Al Green has succeeded in giving us a well connected and interesting story for the screen. And William N. Selig, president of the Selig Polyscope Company, has given us real Southern scenes in Mississippi, the locale of the story, where the producing company spent several weeks. He has also furnished a company of players that ably meets the requirements of the cast. There is no need to outline the story of 'The Princess of Patches!' The pictures tell it thoroughly without a single 'dark' spot. Vivian Reed is 'Patches' 'growed' up and very charming does she appear. The scene where the designing young lady teaches her lover how to propose will stir mirth in the hearts of both old and young."

Cash in with a Good Picture!

SELIG POLYSCOPE CO.

CHICAGO - - - - ILLINOIS

K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E K-E-S-E

General Film Service

Is Your Patronage Suffering from "Serialitis"?

Try Kalem's SERIES Productions and watch the Old Guard return.

"The Girl from Frisco"

Featuring MARIN SAIS

Here are Twenty-five Two-Part Episodes, Each Telling a Complete Story, That You Can Book in Any Order from Your Nearest General Film Exchange:

"The Wolf of Los Alamos"
"The Gun Runners"
"The Poisoned Dart"
"The Oil Field Plot"
"The Fighting Heiress"
"The Dominion of Fernandez"
"The Stain of Chuckawalla"
"The Ore Plunderers"
"A Battle in the Dark"
"The Turquoise Mine Conspiracy"
"On the Brink of War"
"The Homesteaders' Feud"
"The Yellow Hand"
"The Web of Guilt"
"Border Wolves"
"The Harvest of Gold"
"Mystery of the Brass Bound Chest"
"The Witch of the Dark House"
"The False Prophet"
"Reformation of Dog Hole"
"The Resurrection of Gold Bar"
"The Treasure of Cibola"
"The Son of Cain"
"Tigers Unchained"
"The Fight for Paradise Valley"

Then there's

"Grant, Police Reporter"

a powerful, one-part SERIES of newspaper stories, featuring George Larkin—the supreme artist of daring thrills, and Ollie Kirkby—the most versatile woman in screenland. Sixteen complete story episodes now booking. More on the way.
Also

"The Hazards of Helen"

—the original Railroad drama SERIES
And the

"Ham Comedies"

as funny as they can be and as clean

KALEM COMPANY

235 West 23rd St., New York City

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
THE FILM INDEX
EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Entered at the General Post Office, New York City, as Second Class Matter

J. P. CHALMERS, Founder.

Published Weekly by the

CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY

17 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY.

(Telephone, 3510 Madison Square)

J. P. Chalmers, Sr.....President
J. F. Chalmers.....Vice-President
E. J. Chalmers.....Secretary and Treasurer
John Wylie.....General Manager

The office of the company is the address of the officers.

CHICAGO OFFICE—Suite 917-919 Schiller Building, 64 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone, Central 5099.

PACIFIC COAST OFFICE—Haas Building, Seventh St. and Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone, Broadway 4649.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands .....$3.00 per year
Canada. . . ..3.50 per year
Foreign Countries (Postpaid).....4.00 per year

Changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. Two weeks' time may be required to effect the alteration.

ADVERTISING RATES.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING—One dollar for twenty words or less; over twenty words, five cents per word.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES made known on application.

NOTE—Address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to MOVING PICTURE WORLD, P. O. Box 226, Madison Square Station, New York, and not to individuals.

(Index to this issue will be found on page 914.)

"CINE-MUNDIAL," the monthly Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World, is published at 17 Madison Avenue by the Chalmers Publishing Company. It reaches the South American market. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Advertising rates on application.

Saturday, February 10, 1917

Facts and Comments

THE adoption by the State Convention of New York exhibitors of a resolution directed against the Universal Film Manufacturing Company will by the body at large probably be taken at its face value. It will hardly be claimed by any one with a knowledge of the circumstances that the proponents of the resolution came into court with clean hands. This sudden outburst of indignation after fourteen months of absolute silence does not have a ring of sincerity. The fact that the denunciation does follow the refusal of the Universal to advertise in the paper in which former State President Ochs has a vital interest gives the action the ring of insincerity, to say the least, and especially when a henchman of Mr. Ochs and an editor of his paper fulminated in favor of the resolution. The further fact that the tactical defendants in the case were practically unrepresented gave the whole proceeding very much the aspect of a packed court and jury. As a prominent exhibitor, the only one who voted against the resolution, pointed out, they should at least have heard the other side. It would also be interesting to know just where the resolution originated.

* * *

"MORE strength to your arm in the fight for "Better Pictures." Then we will have none of this agitation for censorship, which is caused by a few manufacturers who have been pandering to the morbid and sensational elements of our population." The above is the postscript to a letter just to hand from a Maine subscriber. We have said it before and it's worth repeating.

* * *

THE expansion of the vocabulary of the motion picture steadily moves on. The latest claimant for admission to the extending list is "cinemelodrama," the sponsor for which is William Fox. The word possesses merit. It is terse as well as descriptive—in fact, it carries its own definition. There should be a welcome for the new-comer.

* * *

DO not forget that the picture is the real thing. An Arizona exhibitor and old-time subscriber who now has three good little theaters and has to make his own electricity tells us in a recent letter of his gradual success. He has good projection and has spent considerable capital in some of the best mechanical musical instruments which have proved popular with his patrons, but his letter ends with the reminder that with it all the exhibitors must have the picture. That's what they come to see.

* * *

MANAGERS! have you ever investigated how many of your patrons want greater variety and shorter subjects? Commercial travelers who knock about the country are generally pretty good judges of almost everything. An enthusiastic letter from one of them who confesses to being an ardent picture lover gave high praise to the little Schade theater, in Sandusky, Ohio. What seemed to please him especially, among other things, was the variety of pictures selected from six different programs.

* * *

IN the death of Matt B. Snyder and Riley Chamberlin the screen loses two sterling actors. The former was perhaps not so well known to veteran picture goers as was Mr. Chamberlin, but splendid actor that he was he will be recalled with feelings of sorrow by those who saw him in "The Heart of Maryland," "The Crisis" and "The Garden of Allah." Mr. Chamberlin endeared himself to all who know Thanhouser pictures—for his variety of characterization, his fine human sympathy, his keen sense of humor and the ability to portray whatever role might have been assigned him. Both had seen the hard side of life, had come in contact with all sorts of men—the rough and the cultured, the hardy, blunt spoken men of the sea and camp and those who had been polished by life in softer communities, Mr. Snyder had been sailor and soldier before he was an actor. Mr. Chamberlin had "ridden cowboy." They both were good men to meet in the flesh—men to remember.

* * *

Why this sudden burst of solicitude for the fair name of the exhibitors, this rising to repudiate the slander with "every ounce of energy in my body as long as breath lasts?" Ugh, Ugh, give me air! Shades of Bill Shakespeare! Any peg is big enough to hang on when you need one, but "you can't fool all the exhibitors all the time."

Your Home Town Paper

By Louis Reeves Harrison

SLOWER than the local press may be the trolley that meets all trains; stupider may be old "Pro Bono Publico," who tells over again, in poorer language, and with inferior skill, what has been inimitably told before, but there is small doubt that the average country editor is not one because he has anything new or interesting to say. He is the hack of the hackneyed. The questions he rarely asks himself are, "What have I to say?" "Is it worth saying?" "How shall it be convincingly said?" "In what are my readers most interested?" He goes ahead and writes what happens to suit him at the moment, sure of getting it into print, regardless of those he addresses.

An enormous number of people are interested in baseball games played entirely by professionals. Columns are devoted to a record of the games, to records of the players, to gossip on the subject, to pictures, to continuous publicity which benefits financially only the club owners. The point made is that people are interested in what is almost purely a form of entertainment. Reasoning from the same premises, an enormous number of people are interested in moving pictures. Here is an entirely new form of literature, so popular that ten millions read it every day on the screen. What does the local paper say?

What the local paper has to say about moving pictures does benefit some remote entertainer of the public in remote large cities. It is of direct and immediate interest to the people at home to the benefit of the local exhibitors. From the sum of material cheerfully furnished by publicity departments of live producers can be extracted a great deal of interest, even without objectionable bias. It does not all belong in the waste.

On the publicity staff of producing concerns there are hundreds of very bright writers, many of them capable of original work done in a masterly way, some of them careful students of entertainment conditions. A live editor can easily select from the stuff sent to him those articles which show the experienced hand, which present a freshness and charm of their own, instead of the hackneyed phrases and stale old material of "Pro Bono Publico." With an abundance of that matter to draw from, with the MOVING PICTURE WORLD at his elbow, the live editor can evolve columns of comment and entertaining information for the enjoyment of his subscriber.

There is a secret envy in the breasts of many an editor. He regards the picture show much as the laboring man once regarded machinery. He looks upon the screen as the enemy of his paper. Either that, or he fails utterly to grasp the significance of this wondrous new art. To him it may mean nothing. The primrose by the river's brim is but a primrose to him, and it is nothing more. When the laboring man took intelligently to machinery he found his wage increased. When the editor takes intelligently to pictures he will find his support increased.

The great difficulty in the way of local comment on this or that specific feature shown is that notices of it must precede the actual exhibition, and the latter is rarely repeated in small towns. Under such circumstances, where it is impossible to obtain an advance view of what is being shown, where comment would be nothing more than advance publicity of the biased kind, not always in strict accord with the truth, there are two ways out, one comment on the general excellence of a program, the other such news and opinion as might easily be of live interest to the great mass of people daily attending the picture shows.

A great deal depends on editorial judgment as to what is of real value and interest to the people who read a paper, but one could hardly call it an exercise of good judgment to omit every day from the columns of a local medium what deeply concerns so many people as the quality of pictures shown. If the editor has good taste in literature and other arts of expression, if he is intent on letting the people of his town know what broadens and betters them in the pictured story, if he is willing to better and broaden himself so that he may be fit to exercise judgment, it will do him a lot of good to attend the exhibitions himself.

The same co-operation that exists between the local newspaper and manly sports, the drama, literature and music could be extended to the advantage of all concerned into the field covered by screen exhibitions. It is an editor's privilege, and often his proud duty, to help formulate public opinion along right lines. Moving pictures are addressed to all classes. They are a source of pleasure to the rich as well as the pastime of the lowly, a humanizing influence, their general drift to bring the people of different sections and different shades of thought into a finer and more comprehensive understanding of one another.

It is not meant that news columns should become dependent in any manner upon advertisements. The moment they are given over to biased publicity copy their purpose, and even that of the copy, becomes self-destructive. Nothing is so killing to confidence in a paper as unpaid-for publicity in the news columns. The opinion expressed by a journal is like that given by a critic, without value when influenced by mercantile considerations, a factor for good to all concerned only when it is intelligently presented, just, fearless and incorruptible.

The editor of your home town paper can raise his own value along with that of his mouthpiece by recognition and right estimation of moving pictures as an art of expression. He can help his readers to grasp the idea, even though he may not believe that stagecraft is one thing and screencraft another. It will come to him in time that these two, although on friendly terms, are not so intimately related as they seem to be at first glance. Meanwhile, discussion of the subject from all points of view would quicken interest in the exhibitions and in the paper at the same time. Moving pictures present a live topic everywhere they are shown—they are part of the life of a community.

When the editor of your home town paper does not give part of his reading space to notice of what has become a part of the life of his community, he may be alive, but he is not progressive. In a bewilderingly short time he becomes an authority on international politics, yet he is as blind as a mole as to what is going on under his nose, if he fails to perceive the growing power of the picture exhibition. Good ones help to make the town worth living in; they arouse new interest in all that his paper stands for. He must keep step with them or get out of the procession.

Instead of considering the picture show as a rival, the home town editor can easily make it his powerful ally. People have taken to the visualized story in preference to that set forth in print of their own accord. Producers were far behind the popular demand at the start, and they have never been able to catch up. Why not supplement this natural demand by whatever helps people to appreciate the meritorious? Why not enlarge and improve critical vision? There is a large and rich field lying fallow within easy reach of the Home Town Editor.

We Have Troubles Enough of Our Own

By Sam Spedon

CAN it be possible that the exhibitors of New Jersey are going to follow out the program as set forth rather humorously in the New York Morning Sun of January 12? At this time, when Sunday closing is being agitated, it would be a very grave mistake.

We cannot believe that the exhibitors are so near-sighted. It would be contradicting in one breath what they claim in another. They have taken unto themselves the credit that the "movies" lessened the saloons and now they are going to help keep them all open. Here is what the Sun says in the first paragraph:

"INTEMPERANCE OF PROHIBITION" EDUCATIONAL FILM PLAY FOR JERSEY FOLK.

The Demon Rum, already beginning to stretch his legs over in Jersey in apprehension of the day they sick the water spaniels on him, has appealed in his nervous hour to the movies for help, and the movies, always eager to oblige, being all things to all men, will seek to prolong the Demon's domicile in the land of real applejack. Soon, in some nearby Jersey city, Nutley, possibly, films exhibiting the horrors of prohibition as contrasted with the benefits of licensed liquor will be shown to the more or less thoughtful voter—and they're going to make it strong.

You can see from the above paragraph how our status on different questions of public interest is estimated. Evidently we are considered a vacillating set with no decided opinion or stand on anything.

Is this because we have always dodged the issue, to play safe and be with the winning side, or because we have no established policy?

This very matter was discussed at one of the league meetings a short time ago. It was mentioned that the liquor interests had expressed a willingness to assist in our appeal for open Sundays, and it would be to our interest to call on them. It was the consensus of opinion, however, that we would hurt our cause if we broached such an affiliation. The exhibitors were advised to forget it—to avoid politics as we would poison.

In the face of all this we hesitate to believe the New Jersey exhibitors are flirting with the "demon rum."

Ridicule is a most poignant corrective and the Sun uses it, most amusingly, and, while it does not say so, it certainly shows that we would be held up to greater ridicule. Also that the exhibitors would make themselves the laughing stock of the world if they lay claim to anything but a money-making organization, seeking favor without regard to the company they keep or the principles they endorse.

We must compliment the Sun for its sense of humor and keen satire displayed in this paragraph:

One film will give a closeup of Bangor in prohibition Maine at 10 p. m. on any Saturday night. After the flashline of "I've got to go daown to Bangor and git drunk and gosh! haow I dew dred it!" there will be jolly little scenes of successful Maine souses wending their way homeward under the peaceful stars, bounding from lamppost to lamppost.

And next "A Quiet Sunday in Kansas" will reveal a family group beautifully stewed on bootjack whiskey which father has obtained by mortgaging the flivver.

The contrast to these pictures of how prohibition doesn't prohibit will be films exhibiting gentle spoken, gentle acting saloon keepers presiding with dignity and geniality over sweet, clean clubs for poor men as they run in Jersey, according to the liquor men, not a soul wabbly, everybody happy though dignified.

The news from Paterson has it that the first run of these first aids to the demon will be presented soon in many Jersey towns. The organized liquor dealers are having the pictures prepared.

The moving picture theater is a family resort, and rapidly becoming a neighborhood club house. The managers of the theaters are to a certain extent custodians of their patrons' welfare and happiness. No matter what our individual opinions may be on the liquor question, no theater can publicly afford to endorse the saloon as a promoter of family happiness or an acquisition to a neighborhood without disclaiming its boasted benefits and preferment.

We do not want to take the Sun's statement too seriously, but at the same time we want to take it for what it is worth. It certainly furnishes us with some food for thought.

We have troubles enough of our own without courting and championing others.

Unadulterated Graft

IF MANY of the misguided people who are advocating censorship, either federal, state or local, could see how they are playing into the hands of hungry politicians and office seekers, their enthusiasm for censorship might ooze considerably. Can they not realize how such uncalled for, unnecessary and entirely wasteful legislation is simply piling up taxes and adding expense to legitimate business? The following actual quotations from the Act now before the West Virginia Legislature is worthy of careful consideration and certainly shows the "real reason" behind the clamor for censorship in every instance:

An act relating to motion picture films, reels or stereopticon views or slides; providing a system of examination, approval and regulation thereof, and of the banners, posters and other like advertising matter used in connection therewith; creating the Board of Censors; and providing penalties for the violation of this Act.

Sec. 3. The Board shall consist of two male residents and citizens of West Virginia, one of whom shall be selected from the political party polling the second highest vote at the last general election prior to their appointment. Said two male members of the Board shall have authority to employ, and, with the approval of the Governor, fix the salary of, an associate member of the Board, who shall be a female resident of the State. * * *

Sec. 11. The Chairman shall receive an annual salary of three thousand dollars; the vice-chairman or female member, the annual salary fixed by the other members as provided in Section 3 of this bill; and the secretary an annual salary of twenty-four hundred dollars. The salaries shall be payable monthly.

Sec. 12. The Board, with the approval of the Governor, shall have authority to employ and prescribe the duties of, such employees as the work of the Board may necessarily require and fix their salaries. The salary of such employees shall not exceed, in the aggregate, the sum of five thousand dollars annually.

Sec. 13. Each member and employee of the Board shall be allowed all expenses, of whatsoever nature, actually and necessarily incurred by him or her in carrying out the purposes of this act.

Sec. 16. The money necessary to carry out the purposes of this Act shall be appropriated by the Legislature to the Board as an item in the general appropriation bill.

Sec. 17. The Board shall be provided with adequate offices, equipment, supplies and rooms with which to properly conduct the work and affairs of the Board in the City of Fairmont, in the State of West Virginia, and the expense thereof shall be paid out of money appropriated by the Legislature under this Act.

Sec. 18. The printing and binding necessary for the proper performance of the duties of the Board, or the proper preservation of the records of the Board, shall be done at the expense of the State of West Virginia upon requisition of the Board.

Here we have provisions for a yearly salary list around thirteen thousand dollars, with additional expenses that may run into an equal amount or even more. In other words, without allowing for the expense to which film men will be put in submitting every reel for inspection, etc., we have approximately twenty to twenty-five thousand dollars yearly saddled on the film business in the comparatively small state of West Virginia, say one and one-quarter million people, an outrageous tax on the amusements of the people and one which they eventually must pay. And why? Because any one really believes that censorship will be of any real benefit? No, a thousand times no, and we say it without the slightest fear of honest contradiction. This scheme, as all such schemes are, is just a plain case of providing easy berths with sure and fat salaries for the political "winners" of the party polling the highest or the "second highest" vote. "Only that and nothing more." Read section three once more. We hope the West Virginia exhibitors will kill this iniquity, and they should have the support of the whole industry in doing so.

A Move in the Right Direction

By Sam Spedon.

THE formation of a combination of the National Board of Review and the National Association's Motion Picture Art League, headed by David Wark Griffith, as set forth by the press, was a most gratifying bit of news to all right-minded persons of the industry, as well as all true lovers of motion pictures.

What bothers us is, how all this work which Mr. Griffith lays out for himself and his five associates is going to be accomplished, even with the co-operation of the National Board of Review.

Theoretically it is fine; practically it looks like a gigantic, if not impossible, undertaking. Without Mr. Griffith's discerning eye and artistic judgment (he is the master mind), we would not feel that the endorsement of a picture by any others of the "Motion Picture Art League" would entitle it to a clean bill of health, or whatever you wish to call it.

"You Dirty Boy."

We might not feel that the picture had received full and complete consideration with the mere announcement that it had been passed by The National Board of Review and the "Motion Picture Art League." If Mr. Griffith has the absolute power to put in force any ideas which he and the committee see fit we would naturally look for Mr. Griffith's O. K. as a guarantee.

He is assuming a great responsibility.

Of course he would have to be constantly on the job to see all the pictures produced by the twenty-three manufacturers who are members of the National Board of the M. P. industry. It would be expecting too much; it would be beyond human endurance. That is the way it strikes us, because we have so much confidence in Mr. Griffith's judgment, ideals and ability. It is too bad we haven't got more of him.

The National Association and Mr. Griffith believe that the formation of this combination may lead to the abolition of federal and other boards of censors.

It is proof positive, however, that right-minded persons in the industry are trying to establish a standard of ethics that will entitle moving pictures to the claim and recognition that the places where they are shown are the forums, the lyceums and theaters of the people, where they can find clean entertainment, instruction and innocent amusement on Sunday as well as any other day. This means there will be no need of censorship and the censors will be voted an unnecessary expense to the taxpayers.

Questions on Sunday Pictures

By Rev. W. H. Jackson.

THE Church should stand for a regulated opening and oppose an indiscriminate opening of picture houses. There is a Church-Actor Alliance, why not a Church-Moving Picture Alliance? Cannot the leaders on both sides be brought together in conference and arrange a plan whereby those for whom the Sunday pictures are found necessary may be supplied?

Is not this everlasting fighting a disgrace to both sides? Do not the masses of the people look upon the Church as always trying to destroy their freedom and grow to hate the churches in consequence?

Is not this one of the reasons why the Church is so impotent?

Is the observance of the Sabbath a series of NO and DON'T?

Does Law and Order mean harness and shackles?

Can the rich violate the Sabbath with freedom because they are rich?

Must the poor be restrained only and simply because they are poor?

Shall not the law of the Sabbath day be first the restraint of evil and second the education to higher things?

Is not the question of the opening largely one of the nature of Local Option? While there are places where the pictures are not needed, that does not decide the fact that there are no places where they are needed.

Is not the moving picture the only attraction and amusement which is and can be made both educational and religious?

If a theater can be made to supply a Sunday program, can not a moving picture house be more easily so adapted?

The great educational powers of the moving picture being so universally admitted, is the Church going to confess its impotence or indifference and refuse to use them?

If the Church considers the moving picture people "rascals" (Canon Chase) are they willing to let the "rascals" keep the good of the moving pictures to themselves by default?

Can the same law which would stop the moving pictures be made to compel the people to go to church?

Is the true old motto "Satan finds some mischief still for idle people to do" become extinct? If not, what are the churches going to provide for the thousands of idle people to do on Sunday afternoons and evenings?

The authorities say this idleness leads to crime, pleading, give them clean pictures because we have found them an antidote to the evil. Will the Church then say No?

Is the Church going to refuse to legislate to deal with actual conditions, facts and circumstances, saying arbitrarily and dogmatically, "Do as we say!" while they know that they are commanding the impossible for tens of thousands?

Films Cannot Stand Tax, is Testimony

W. A. Brady, P. A. Powers and Adolf Zukor Tell Legislative Investigators Little Money is Being Made

WILLIAM A. BRADY, president of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, and head of the World Film Corporation; P. A. Powers, treasurer of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, and Adolf Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, were witnesses last week before the committee appointed by the New York State Legislature to ascertain whether the motion picture industry is a proper subject for a State tax. The sessions were held in the Murray Hill Hotel, New York, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, January 24, 25 and 26.

Much of interest was told the committee, which consists of Senators Parsons, Walker and Yelverton, and Assemblymen Wheeler, Flamman, Marsh, Brereton and Schimmel. Harvey D. Hinman is counsel for the committee, and the motion picture interests were represented by William L. Seabury and J. Robert Rubin.

Wednesday's Session.

P. A. Powers was the only witness on Wednesday. Following up previous testimony, he again stated that the trade was being run practically at a loss.

"There is just so much money spent by the public each week for amusements," he said. "The problem of the amusement provider is the expense of getting that money out. At present the expense of getting our portion is greater than that portion. I know, for instance, of three stars who will this year make more money than will be split up by the entire motion picture industry."

The witness, in answer to a question, said that the stars were not sharing profits—that they were getting all the profit. He told the investigators that his company was endeavoring to fight the star system by playing up the story and quality of the pictures rather than the names of the stars. Poor headway was being made in this attempt, he said. His opinion was that the company would eventually have to give in to the stars. He defined a star as an actor or actress for whose appearance at a theater the seats of the musicians in the orchestra had to be used to accommodate the overflow patronage.

Mr. Powers told the committee that producing was a highly speculative venture, and stated that no forecast as to how a picture was going to go could be made with any degree of accuracy.

"In other words, you think production so speculative that a tax placed on productions would be a tax placed on profit as well as loss?" Senator Walker asked.

"I do," answered Mr. Powers.

The subject of the purchase of raw stock was brought up again by Senator Walker. Several witnesses have, in previous hearings, testified that the Eastman Kodak Company, of Rochester, furnished approximately 99 per cent. of the negative and positive film used. It has been the general belief of the witnesses that the fact that 99 per cent. of the film used was Eastman film was due to the superiority of that brand, and not to any patents which it held or combination which it had formed.

In an effort on the part of the investigators to learn the details of the business, the witness was closely questioned as to the Universal Film Manufacturing Company's methods of business. Mr. Powers described in detail the affairs of Universal. He told the committee that the first property of the firm in California consisted of a lot, a few cowboy hats, and some horses. Since that time, he said, the company has invested $750,000 in the plant. The witness also explained the reason for the establishment of exchanges in foreign countries in most cases as "feelers."

Senator Hinman remarked that the Standard Oil Company started in much the same manner.

"Yes," replied Mr. Powers, "I know that. But they got theirs out of the ground, while we've got to give ours to the actors."

Thursday's Session.

William A. Brady occupied the witness chair during the entire Thursday morning session. The tone of his testimony was in general pessimistic. He said he believed that the motion picture had a "tremendous" future. He declared that the World Film Corporation had put about $1,000,000 cash into production in the past year.

"Much of that money," Chairman Wheeler asked, "was your own, wasn't it?"

"No, Siree," was the prompt answer. I've been too wise to buy motion picture stock."

Answering the questions of the chairman and Mr. Hinman, Mr. Brady gave it as his belief that at the present time the motion picture industry was suffering from overproduction. He said that as a rule showmen were poor business men, and that this was proved in no more graphic way than the manner in which the motion picture business is being conducted.

"Is there not at the present time," he was asked, "a tendency for the motion picture theaters to crowd out the legitimate houses?"

"Yes, in some cities," he answered. "It is especially noticeable in the smaller cities and towns." Mr. Brady explained why this was true and went on:

"Motion pictures are overdone in most small cities. There are too many theaters. Five or six years ago, say, a man conducted a small show and made money. In those days there was little needed to make a successful show. A second man, attracted by the profits of the first, started another show, a third man did likewise, until to-day there are four times the theaters needed.

"Isn't there a tendency just now toward larger theaters?" was asked.

"Yes, the tendency is toward larger houses."

Mr. Brady stated that the motion picture has a wonderful future—that in time its tremendous possibilities would be taken advantage of to their fullest extent, but that at present there was no money being made.

"Before there is any money made," he continued, "there must be a period of reorganization in the industry."

"I believe that the motion picture has merely scratched the surface when it is used only for entertainment. Why, it is cruel to use it only for entertainment. It is when education is carried on by means of the motion picture that the real money will come—when the motion picture gets down to legitimate uses there will be much money made."

In this connection the witness cited the cases of the phonograph, automobile and other industries which had to go through a process of reorganization before they became established soundly.

Further questions brought Mr. Brady back to the money question.

"There is no new money going into the motion picture industry at present," he said. "It is a dangerous proposition just now. The only money being put in is being put in to save that already invested."

"But aren't there new companies forming almost every day? Isn't there being money put into these new concerns?"

"Most of them are started on shoe strings—some money and lots of conversation."

The witness informed the investigators that producers were being forced to put more money into production all the time.

"The entertainment business," he said, "is the only business in the United States whose production cost has increased anywhere from twenty to two hundred and more per cent. without an increase in cost to the consumer—the public."

The line of examination turned to big features, and Mr. Brady was asked if he did not believe that there were more big pictures being made now than ever before, and if there was not more money being spent on them. He said that that was true, but explained that something had to be done to make money—to save the investors from utter annihilation.

"But aren't there larger pictures being made today than there were six months ago?"

"No. We have a certain percentage of large productions every year."

"Is there not a much larger amount of money being put into these big productions than there was ever before?"

"Not proportionately. The pictures didn't cost so much to produce six months ago as they do now."

At this juncture questions were asked Mr. Brady regarding his early connection with the theatrical business and with motion pictures. He said that he had been in the theatrical business all his life. He told the committee that he had participated in the making of the first motion picture made for public exhibition. That was made by Edison, he said, about 1891 and showed a six round boxing contest. He said that he had also taken part in the making of the first successful picture made under artificial light. That was about 1897 or 1898 he said, and showed the prize fight between Jeffries and Sharkey.

"The industry is wide open now," said Mr. Brady. "There are no patents that prevent any one from making pictures."

"There are many things that need correction, are there not?" was asked. An affirmative answer was given.

"And the tendency is toward improvement?"

"Yes, I think that tendency is becoming more and more apparent. It is a matter of business. Pictures must always improve. There has been, since the beginning of the industry, a tremendous advance in the class and character of motion picture productions."

For a time the questions asked by Mr. Hinman drew close to the "regulation" of motion pictures, and the witness emphatically declared that he was opposed to any form of "regulation" from without the industry. He took occasion to say:

"Any man who produces a dirty picture—a picture he wouldn't want his mother, his wife, or his daughter to see—should be sent to prison."

Much verbal fencing as to whether it was public demand that brought the stars into motion pictures or whether it was the producers who had induced the actors to sign contracts, took place. The witness finally stated that the public in the end decides. Of stars he said:

"Stars are worth all they can get, but many of them do not render the services their salaries warrant. There are many actors and actresses who were getting $40 or $50 a week on the legitimate stage who now draw ten times that amount, and as a consequence their heads are turned.

"Charlie Chaplin earns all he gets. He is just as popular in Siam as he is here, and is probably better known than President Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt or Kaiser Wilhelm."

He said that Charlie Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and several others are worth all the money being paid them.

"Interest in motion pictures on the part of the public has decreased within the past year and a half," he said.

"Hasn't there been a tendency to increase admission prices during that period?"

"I think the tendency has been toward an increase."

The drift of the investigation then turned toward waste in the industry.

"The distribution of motion pictures in this country today is a joke," Mr. Brady said. "The system is absolutely ridiculous. Why, there are a score or more exchanges where one or two could do the work as well. There are too many chains of selling offices. The only money being wasted now except in the studio and on actors' salaries is in distribution."

"What is the basis of selling pictures?" he was asked.

"What you can get. When a real business man comes along, who knows how to cut waste, he will make money."

The recent growth in the number of corporations headed by the stars themselves was touched upon, as was also the matter of press agent claims of large capitalizations, etc.

"Speaking as the representative of every branch of the motion picture industry," Mr. Brady said, "I want to say to you gentlemen that this is a very inopportune and unfortunate time to place any further burden on an already overladen camel's back."

Mr. Brady's testimony concluded the morning session.

The witness at the afternoon session was Adolf Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky company. He was represented by counsel. He told the committee that he had been in the motion picture business for about twelve years, starting as an exhibitor on Fourteenth street, New York. Previous to that, he said, he had been in the fur business. Most of the time consumed in Mr. Zukor's examination was taken up by questions regarding the details of incorporation and capitalization of the concerns with which he is connected. He said his corporation is a holding company for four or five concerns, and was formed last summer so the other companies would not go out of business, as they were duplicating many films.

Asked if there was any connection between the Mary Pickford Film Company and his, he said he knew of none.

"Do you know the terms Mary Pickford has with her company?" Mr. Hinman asked.

Mr. Zukor's reply was that he did not, nor did he know of anyone who did. He stated that there was no new money coming into the motion picture business at the present time.

"It did for the last two years," he said, "but it has been disastrous, and the industry is not at present attractive to big men."

He declared that the tendency in New York was to build larger theaters, and that the larger theaters put the smaller ones out of business. He stated that this would hurt the producers because of a decreasing demand for their product.

Mr. Zukor said that the business of the concerns with which he is connected is not in a flourishing condition, but that he hopes it will be.

Big feature pictures again came under discussion. Questions brought from Mr. Zukor the testimony that large pictures are costing more money—that this money must be spent to save that already invested. He said that the public is becoming more critical every day, and that more money than ever before must be spent on each individual production, without a commensurate return. He said that the income on pictures was less now than it had been when less money was spent on production.

"At present the industry is going through a transformation," he declared. "We make pictures that should bring $50, but the exhibitor cannot afford to pay that much. We are ahead of the theaters. We are ahead of ourselves. There are more pictures being produced now than the theaters can digest."

Friday's Session.

P. A. Powers was again a witness on Friday. During his examination Mr. Hinman questioned him regarding several articles purporting to have been written by Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal, and printed in the Moving Picture Weekly, the Universal house organ. In one of these articles was a refutation of a story to the effect that the Spreckels sugar interests were interested in Universal, which had appeared in a theatrical publication.

The witness said that absolutely no outside interest or industry was interested in Universal. He said that the Universal's own earnings had paid for all of its improvements. The witness also said:

"Every sugar interest and munitions manufacturer who is putting money into motion pictures—and there are some being promoted to do so—is losing money. They have to have some other business to be able to indulge in motion pictures, and while they are losing their $3,000,000 or $5,000,000 we in the business can't make any money. I know of concerns where from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000 has already been put in, and where more is being put in. They make and sell pictures at less than cost, and we have to compete with them.

"Last year I had a record of motion picture corporations formed with capitalizations of $100,000. They averaged one a week for fifty-two weeks, and they have all fallen by the wayside."

Of the star Mr. Powers at this session said:

"A star is worth what you can get him for. Any star will pay as an investment if you stay within reasonable bounds in your offer to him."

The deposit arrangement between Universal exchanges and exhibitors was also touched upon, Mr. Powers stating that certain contracts require deposits.

"If an exhibitor's credit is not good and if his reputation is poor we ask for a deposit," he said. "We do this in order to protect ourselves from summary cancellations. The average term of credit is from a week to ten days."

Mr. Powers informed the legislators that the Universal almost at all times has "about a million dollars" tied up in unreleased negative—that is, pictures ready for the market, but which have to be exploited for some time before their release date. Mr. Powers told of his connection with and investments in the Powers company.

Then it was brought out by Mr. Hinman that Universal program pictures cost about $2.50 a foot to produce. "That figure," added Mr. Powers, "is only for our regular program releases. That does not take into consideration the special features."

As to the future of the business, Mr. Powers said:

"There is a solid foundation for the business and I think that eventually it will be all right; otherwise I would get out tomorrow. Sooner or later, I feel, the man who doesn't belong in the business will become tired of sinking his money in it and then a well-established business will make money."

At the conclusion of Mr. Powers' testimony the hearings were adjourned until Wednesday, January 31.

REELS STOLEN AT CLIFTON, ARIZ.

Emile Brutinel, manager of the Princess and Empire theaters at Clifton, Ariz., reports that there was stolen from the depot at Clifton a box of reels—the sixth episode of "The Shielding Shadow." He will pay a reward for a return of the lost property.

New York Exhibitors Meet at Albany

Annual Convention Elects L. A. Buettner, of Cohoes, President, and Sam Trigger National Vice-President

THE annual convention of the New York State branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitor League of America was called to order at the Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany, by Lee A. Ochs, state president, at 3 p. m., on Tuesday, January 23. The appointment of the following committees was then made:

Legislative and Bill Drafting—G. W. Anson, New York, chairman. Every member of the State organization who is a member of the State bar was automatically appointed a member of this committee. This committee will be intrusted with the measures which the association will place before the Legislature and has been granted the power to draft bills which the association will advocate and which will be introduced in each house of the Legislature.

Resolutions—William A. Fait, Jr., Utica; Samuel S. Suckno, Albany; L. A. Buettner, Cohoes; Sidney Cohen, Bronx; Willis C. Hubbard, Rochester.

Grievances—Walter Zeyser, Schenectady, chairman; E. Manheimer, Brooklyn; George Cohen, Poughkeepsie; Walter H. Seeley, Rochester; W. H. Linton, Utica.

Deposit System Committee—Samuel Trigger, New York; William Brandt, Brooklyn; Ira M. Mosher, Buffalo; William P. Donlin, Utica.

These committees immediately went into executive session, after a motion to adjourn the convention until the following day was made, and the committees were instructed to present their reports to the convention at that time.

Wednesday's Session.

On Wednesday, January 24, the convention was promptly called to order at 2 p. m.

Mr. Fait, chairman of the Resolution committee, submitted a resolution that the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the State of New York, as a body, denounce the Universal Film Company's statement in its house organ, that sixty per cent. of the exhibitors wanted smutty pictures. He asked that a committee be appointed to call on the Universal and demand a retraction of the statement. It recommended that the Universal be excluded from the privileges of the Chicago Exposition next summer if it refused to retract the statement.

Rudolph Sanders moved it be adopted as read. L. A. Levine opposed it in its entirety.

President Ochs was in favor of its adoption. He said: "The Universal's article, 'A Swift Jolt,' is being used in one million circulars distributed by those in favor of censorship." Copies of the circular were distributed to the exhibitors present to prove his statement.

"It is essential to our interests that the Exhibitors' Convention of the State of New York denounce the article reflecting on the decency of the exhibitors," added Mr. Ochs.

John Manheimer objected to the denunciation of the Universal when Mr. Laemmle knew nothing of his publicity department issuing the article.

Louis Blumenthal wanted embodied in the resolution a demand from the league to the National Association that P. A. Powers be withdrawn from the Motion Picture Art League, which stands for clean pictures.

L. A. Levine took exception to Blumenthal's suggestion.

Mr. Billman, of Albany, sustained Levine's exceptions and said: "The exhibitors are assembled in Albany to fight their own battles and not differences between trade papers and producers." Immediately cries from all parts of the room were heard that it was a matter casting bad repute upon the exhibitors and it was their business to denounce it most emphatically.

Sam Trigger said: "See D. W. Griffith and request him to ask Mr. Powers to withdraw. No doubt Mr. Powers had been placed in the Motion Picture Art League because with his voice and money he had always opposed censorship."

A motion was made to refer the resolution back to the committee. It was carried.

The second resolution submitted was to assess all theaters through the State three cents a seat as yearly dues to the State treasury. John Manheimer objected on the ground it would place the burden of funds on the larger centers.

Mr. Milanthy objected, because it would encourage legislators to tax them, if they taxed themselves.

Charles Steiner suggested that each theater pay ten dollars a year to the State treasury of the league.

William Brandt indorsed the suggestion.

Sydney Cohen moved an amendment that each theater pay ten dollars the first year and five dollars every succeeding year. This was seconded and carried.

A resolution was adopted that the convention vote in favor of Sunday pictures.

It was voted to pay the State Secretary $1,000 a year salary. A resolution in opposition to high-priced stars, blaming upon them the high cost of features, was adopted.

The deposits committee offered a resolution to bring a bill before the legislature to place under financial laws exchanges which insisted upon deposits to protect exhibitors' moneys. It was further resolved that all exhibitors or a commiteee of exhibitors see all pictures to be released by exchanges that they may pass opinion upon them.

A committee was appointed to call upon exchanges to give accounting of their finances and show what has been done with the exhibitors' deposit moneys.

The convention went on record to the effect that the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of New York is opposed to all forms of deposit.

Louis Blumenthal offered a suggestion to eliminate deposits by a mutually satisfactory contract to exhibitors and distributors.

President Ochs opposed all bonds. He said: "Get together and refuse service offered on the deposit plan."

Mr. Blumenthal's suggestion to bond exhibitors through a surety company was recommended to be embodied in the deposit resolution. The resolution with this embodiment was adopted as read.

Mr. Blumenthal's suggestion was to the effect that every exhibitor of the league be bonded with a surety company, thus insuring the exhibitor's responsibility when he asked credit from an exchange.

During the discussion of the deposit system, Charles Streamer, of the Green and Modern Features Company, sent in word that his company waived all deposits on films. A vote of thanks was returned Mr. Streimer for this announcement.

A bill on Sunday pictures was read by Grant Anson, chairman of the laws and legislation committee. It was unanimously adopted.

The bill itself is in the form of an amendment to Section 2152 of the Penal Code, which prohibits public exhibitions of prize fighting or public theatrical performances on Sunday, and is in the form of the following paragraph:

"Nothing herein contained, however, shall prohibit or apply to the exhibition or showing of moving pictures on said day of the week."

L. A. Buettner, of Cohoes, was elected president. The other officers were: John Manheimer, Brooklyyn, first vice-president; David Cohen, Binghamton, second vice-president; Charles Steiner, New York, treasurer; Samuel Trigger, New York, national vice-president; Thomas Howard, Brooklyn, secretary; William Hilkemeier, Brooklyn, sergeant.

Samuel H. Trigger was a favored candidate for president by the New York City delegates and other members, but realizing that it was for the best interests of the league to have an upstate president, he magnanimously nominated Mr. Buettner.

The convention adjourned to meet for its concluding session on Thursday at 11 a. m.

On Wednesday evening a banquet was held in the Pink Room of the Ten Eyck, for the members and guests of the league. One hundred sat down to a most enjoyable meal and a feast of wit and conviviality.

W. Stephen Bush acted as toastmaster. The speakers were L. A. Buettner, Lee A. Ochs, Sam Trigger, John Manheimer, Sam Spedon, Sydney Ascher, Charles Steiner, Sydney Cohen, Grant Anson, Tom Howard, W. H. Linton and V. W. Hubbard.

Thursday's Session.

The final meeting of the convention was held on Thursday at 11 A. M.

The committee on resolutions again read its resolution, with changes, on the Universal statement as set forth in the Universal's published article, "A Swift Jolt."

Sam Trigger opposed the resolution. He said the matter should not be given publicity until the committee had called on the Universal.

Mr. Bush spoke in favor of the resolution. "I will use my voice and presence wherever possible to repudiate such a vilification of the exhibitors," he said.

Put to a vote, the resolution was accepted and adopted. Sam Trigger was the only dissenting voice and wished to be so recorded.

A motion was made and carried to allow Grant Anson, chairman of laws and legislation committee, $50 a week to be at the present session of the state Legislature in Albany until after the Sunday opening bill had been brought before the Senate and Assembly.

The convention adjourned, sine die, to be reconvened at Buffalo, N. Y., at some time within the discretion of the executive committee.

This ended one of the largest and most harmonious conventions ever held by any exhibitors' association. At least one hundred and fifty persons, representing different branches of the business, were in attendance.

SOME OF THOSE WHO WERE THERE.

At 10.30 a. m., Tuesday, January 23, the delegates and members of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Leagues of New York City started on their way to Albany to the convention of the state leagues. A special parlor car was chartered. Those who occupied it were:

Frank Peters, Sydney Oscher, Louis A. Levine, David G. Picker, Albert Israel, Harry Dauto, W. A. Hollender, Moe Streimer, Tom Howard, Lee A. Ochs, Charles Steiner, Joe Perl, Louis Schneider, Elias Moyer, Sydney S. Cohen, Gus Koenigswald, I. Hartstale, H. Weisner, H. Gainsburg, H. Mayer, Charles Fischer, Jack Schwartz, M. Gordon, Sam Trigger, John Manheimer, William Brandt, H. W. Rothenthal, Rudolph Sanders, A. J. Stockhamma, H. Weingarten, Otto Lederer, Louis Rosenthal, Benjamin Lyons, Charles H. Steamer, Edward Valensi, Manuel D. Motta, Harry Shapiro, Nathan Machat, Samuel Rohnheimer, Max Oestrieche, Frank A. Gorman, Henry Haring, John Whitman, Henry Cole, Samuel Suckman, John C. Bolte.

R. E. Walsh, L. J. Gaffney, American Seating Company; Sam Spedon, E. M. Saunders, Metro; S. B. Kramer, Bluebird; John Miller, Buffalo Times; M. Morrison, Vitagraph; Eugene F. Licous, Unity Corporation; C. C. Charles, Universal; William Raynor, K-E-S-E., and James Beecroft.

In addition to these the following persons were present at the opening session of the convention:

Peter Oscelo, J. Klein, William Rogers, and J. M. Mosher, of Buffalo; M. Cohen, Henry Harvy, M. H. Hoffman, Joe Brandt, M. J. Gerson, J. Cohen, J. E. Heffron, M. Silverman, F. X. Shay, Schenectady; W. A. Feiser, L. A. Briettner, Cohoes; W. H. Buck, Albany; John Mynders, H. L. Levy, Waterford; F. G. Sleiter, F. M. Boshnett, G. Battaghon, Troy; J. J. Rosenthal, Otto Lederer, William Hilkemeier, H. Weiner, S. Lucno, K. A. Fisher, J. H. Burdett, W. P. Donlon, Utica; G. Cohen, Poughkeepsie; J. J. Walker, B. Wernick, F. Powers, W. Bernstein, S. Bernstein, George Roberts, Albany; Grant Anson, V. G. Bergstrom, Mr. Bates.

Jerome Wilson, Charles Steiner, Hunter Bennett, W. C. Hubbard, J. M. Freed, Schenectady; W. F. Holberman, M. Cohen, Bluebird; Y. Fennyressey, W. A. Bika, Mr. Lewis, F. N. Barhydt, Troy; Richard Wernick, C. C. Charles, W. H. Tinton, W. F. Holberman, Mutual; William Fait, Jr., Utica; Mr. Hopkins, W. H. Buck, Albany; Benjamin Apple, Troy; W. F. Holberman, B. E. Garlock, Schenectady; Mr. Billman, Albany; Charles Fisher, Brooklyn; James J. King, New York; W. H. Tinton, Little Falls; A. L. Milligan, Schuylerville; Walter Pavis, Albany; Frank Peters, New York; M. S. Silverman, Mt. Vernon; Frank Peters, New York; Samuel Luckno, Albany; Joseph E. Wiedman, Albany; Charles A. McCarthy, Hoosic Falls; Frank Selder, Fourth Estate, New York; J. Cobe, Civilization Feature Co.; J. A. Koerpel, World Film Corporation; T. H. Bendil, Triangle Corpopration; W. A. Zaiser, Schenectady; R. A. Fisher, Watervleit; L. T. Rogers, Richard Weinick, and A. F. Shapiro, of Rogers Film Corporation.

Allied Printers Against Film Tax.

Peter J. Brady, President of Allied Printing Trades Council, Defines Stand in Letter to Committee.

THE Allied Printing Trades Council of New York State has taken a decided stand against any attempt to place a tax on the motion picture industry. Peter J. Brady, president of the printers' organization, has sent a letter to Senator Wheeler, chairman of the legislative committee which is investigating the motion picture industry with a view to finding if the industry is a proper subject for state taxation, defining the printers' stand on the matter.

Mr. Brady also brings attention to the fact that the same arguments in favor of a tax on motion pictures is being used as when attempts were made to increase postage on publications mailing under a second-class rate.

The letter sent to Senator Wheeler follows:

On behalf of the Printing Trades Unions of this State, I desire to enter a protest with your committee against any taxation on the moving picture industry for the following reasons:

1. The moving picture industry, to a considerable extent, depends upon advertising, both in newspapers and other publications, and also through advertising in theatrical programs, circulars and posters and many other ways in which printing is used, and in which many members of our unions in the printing industry are employed. Any tax upon moving pictures can only mean that there will be retrenchment by the producers, distributors, exhibitors, etc., and that retrenchment, we believe, will first come in the advertising and printing. This will result in the aggregate in a large amount of money now going into the printing industry being used to meet the taxation and will then result in a large number of our people being out of employment.

The printing industry is in a very bad way at the present time, as you probably know, on account of the high cost of paper and all other material, including labor, which goes into the final cost of all the finished products, so that there has been retrenchment in nearly all lines of the industry that have affected the printing industry seriously, and we hope that your committee will not permit a tax on moving picture shows, which would further injure the welfare of our members and the printing industry generally, which is the second largest in this State.

2. In addition to the above, we also have another reason as to why the moving pictures should not be taxed, and that is the great benefit that this industry has been to the working people generally. You will find from investigation, if you and the other members of your committee will visit the moving picture shows and proprietors that can stand taxation the least—that is those in the residential and outlying districts that the workingman and his family go to—that the moving picture industry is doing wonderful work in keeping the family together in both their educational development and their seeking of pleasure. You will find the father and mother and children all attending these shows, and it would be a crime for the State to tax an industry which is performing the great work that the moving picture is today in the educational development of our people. As a matter of fact, it should be considered a regular branch of education, and, if anything, should be subsidized and encouraged by the State, instead of curtailed by taxation.

PETER J. BRADY,
President, Allied Printing Trades Council of N. Y.

Fairbanks Enjoys Wild Brooklyn Night

Dined and Toasted by Press Club—"Spotted" in Theater and Is Compelled to Take Stage.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS is developing into one of the best little guest of honor candidates in the country. On Wednesday evening, January 24, the athletic star was entertained by the Brooklyn Press Club, as an invited guest of William H. Kemble, who controls the local Triangle theater and exchange.

Of course, smiling "Doug" made an interesting speech. He told of his studio trials and tribulations, answered several inquiries, and concluded his address with the remark that he'd "rather climb the side of your club house than try and entertain you with a speech. Since leaving the speaking drama for the screen, I find that my voice is getting somewhat shaky." Fairbanks was applauded enthusiastically.

President Eric H. Palmer complimented the player on his graceful athletic ability and remarkable personality. There were many speeches by well-known men.

Later in the evening, through the courtesy of William H. Kemble, "The Americano," the latest Fairbanks vehicle, was shown in the press club's projection room. Many of the stunts Doug described in his address were recognized and applauded by the members.

On his return to New York, Douglas Fairbanks stopped at the Brooklyn Triangle Theater to see how "The Americano" was being received in comparison with his other pictures. It so happened that the lights were on at this time, and he was recognized by a fan who yelled, "There's Douglas Fairbanks." The only way out of it for him was to appear on the stage and tell the audience, which was capacity, some of his amusing film incidents.

"MISS PREPAREDNESS" TO BE UNIVERSAL STAR.

Two hundred applicants from Manhattan and fifty from Brooklyn have already been received for the contest to select "Miss Preparedness," Uncle Sam's prettiest and most popular daughter, to be designated as America's future industrial goddess and to become the star in a "Miss Preparedness" series of motion pictures to be issued by the Universal Film Company.

"Miss Preparedness" will be finally selected in Madison Square Garden, February 6 to 8, leading the grand march in a Preparedness ball, to be held there February 9, as part of the program of the Industrial Preparedness Conference and joint convention and exhibition of the New York State Retail Hardware Association and the Pennsylvania and Atlantic Seaboard Hardware Association.

CORRECTION.

Through a typographical error there appeared in the second paragraph of the article under the heading "President Ochs vs. Universal Company," on page 663 of the February 3 issue of The Moving Picture World, the sentence: "See article on page 1918 of our issue of Dec. 11, 1915." The sentence should have read: "See article on page 1981 of our issue of Dec. 11, 1915."

Ince and Sennett Continue in Triangle

No Change in Releasing Agency, Declares W. W. Hodkinson and Ad. Kessel—Two-Reel Keystone Special To Be Issued.

IN response to inquiries concerning the possible release of Thomas H. Ince-Kay Bee features and Mark Sennett-Keystone comedies in any way other than through the Triangle branch exchanges, the following statement was issued by president William W. Hodkinson, of the Triangle Distributing organizaton:

"Up to this time the announcements we have made have been conservative, and have perhaps said less than we would have liked them to say, simply because we do not wish to make any statement without the fullest possible foundation of fact. It has been my invariable custom, ever since I have been in the motion picture business, to make no promise to exhibitors that I was not in a position to fulfill to the letter. It is for this reason that seemingly conflicting reports regarding the release of Thomas H. Ince-Kay Bee and Mack Sennett-Keystone pictures have not until now been fully answered.

"I am now in position to say to exhibitors that Triangle and its producing companies are locked together positively and definitely. Up to this time our final and complete plans have not been announced in detail because we have waited till we could be certain of fulfilling every detail of every promise. We are now certain of our ability to do so, and I will say this—that the Triangle program, consisting of one five-reel Ince-Kay Bee feature, one five-reel Fine Arts feature, and two one-reel Triangle comedies, will be supplied to exhibitors each week through Triangle exchanges, and in no other way.

"The special weekly release of a two-reel Mack Sennett-Keystone comedy will also be available solely through Triangle exchanges. We shall have other announcements to make that will be of interest, but this, I believe, answers the questions that have been most asked."

In confirmation of President Hodkinson's statement regarding the seemingly conflicting reports that have been abroad as to the relations of the Triangle Distributing Corporation and the Thomas H. Ince-Kay Bee and Mack Sennett-Keystone producing companies the following was given out by President A. Kessel, of the New York Motion Picture Corporation:

"The Thomas H. Ince-Kay Bee five-reel features and the Mack Sennett-Keystone comedies are to be released only through the exchanges of the Triangle Distributing Corporation."

Sunday Closing Issue in Three States

Illinois and Texas Are Now Added to New York Through Proposed Legislative Action.

THE Sunday closing issue is geing to be a live one all over the country. Besides New York, Illinois exhibitors are having a lively fight in the Legislature over this issue, and Texas has just moved into the danger zone through a bill introduced at Austin.

The issue, however, is not very popular anywhere, and in some communities, at any rate, it is not understood at all. One of these pleasant spots is New Orleans, where according to Harold D. Newman, commissioner of safety, there will never be anything to worry about on that score.

Commissioner Newman, who left New York a few days ago after a short visit, which included two or three calls at the offices of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, said that he knew whereof he spoke.

"You can count on it," he said, "that wherever the Catholics dominate a community there will be no opposition to Sunday motion pictures. The church has never been able to read into the Bible anything about not playing on Sunday, even though it may have found a lot about not working on Sunday. It does not seem to be afraid of its influence with the people being spoiled by their enjoying themselves after they have been to church.

"I know that all other public officials who have dealt with Catholic priests will agree with me that they are uniformly the most broad-minded and sane class of men in the community. They are genuinely interested in everything which adds to the innocent happiness and comfort of the people of the community, and their solid support of public welfare movements, even though they encroach on the Sunday, is known in every city in the country. I think that the New York exhibitors will do well to count on that influence in favor of their efforts to give the people entertainment on the day of rest. And I may add that I myself am not a Catholic."

NEW YORK FILM MEN ACTIVE.

New York state was blanketed with another edition of the Sunday closing campaign slides last week. The committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, working in conjunction with the Exhibitors' League of America, sent out two slides last week, one for New York City, carrying Mayor Mitchel's photograph, and another, of a more general nature, for up-state cities and towns.

The Mitchel slide, which was personally approved by the mayor, who got a special presentation copy if it, has been exhibited freely throughout the greater city, and reports of thousands of new signatures to the petition for motion pictures on Sunday have been received. No official count has been asked for, and will not be until next week.

In addition to the slide, a special committee of the New York local of the Exhibitors' League has been carrying blank individual petitions all over the city and supplying theaters with as many as they could use, 500, 1,000, 2,000. Several hundred thousand of these petitions have been distributed and are being signed nightly in the greater city.

Both slides are being distributed by the National Association under the direction of the Sunday closing committee, which is made up of William A. Brady, Walter W. Irwin, Adolph Zukor, Lee A. Ochs and Samuel H. Trigger.

Operators to Meet in Cleveland

Will Attend the Biennial Session of the International Alliance of Stage Employes.

CLEVELAND is preparing for one of the biggest picture industry events in her history. It will be the convention of the International Alliance of Stage Employes, which will be held at the Statler Hotel the week of February 26.

The International Alliance of Stage Employes includes the moving picture machine operators union, the stage hands union and the billposters' union. It is the parent organization of these labor unions and embraces local organizations throughout the United States and Canada.

These conventions are held every two years. The last one was in Chicago and more than 1,300 delegates attended, over one half of them being moving picture machine operators. The convention will last nearly two weeks. All of the various problems affecting these unions, which came up during the last two years will be thrashed out.

The arrangements for the convention are under the direction of Oscar Scheck, of Cleveland, international first vice president. The Cleveland operators union has appointed a committee composed of Harry Holmden and Ben Brown to assist in details.

Incidentally an effort is being made to have the state convention of the Exhibitors' League, which is scheduled for Cleveland in February, held at the same time that the operators are in convention. The exhibitors will have a trade exposition, and with so many operators in the city the supply men will be more anxious to have their goods shown.

H. H. VAN LOAN TO REMAIN IN NEW YORK.

The many friends of Herbert H. Van Loan, director of publicity of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, will be glad to learn that "Van" will not sail for London, as he had made preparations for doing on January 25. "Van" has decided to stay in these here United States for awhile, and all his friends who have scratched out his address in their notebooks and put in the London address had better put the old address back. "Van" will be with us for some time yet.

He had contemplated taking a place as head of the advertising and publicity departments of the Trans-Atlantic Film Company, of London. He writes us: "Supposin' you hed all your trunks packed" (the rest of the letter had been deleted by the censor).

TOM GIBSON NOW WITH UNIVERSAL.

The latest addition to Eugene B. Lewis' staff of scenario writers at Universal City is Tom Gibson. Co-incident with this announcement comes the one that he is the proud father of an eight and a quarter pound boy. This makes about the seventh baby to come to "Universal" people in the past two weeks. "Tom, Jr.," and his "Mamma" are doing nicely, and the fact of having a third mouth to feed in these days of the high cost of living does not wipe the broad smile from Gibson's face.

Industry Menaced by Proposed Taxation

By Benj. B. Hampton

General Film President in Straight-Out Talk Outlines Some Present Real Dangers

SPECIAL taxation, censorship and Sunday closing are enough in themselves to wreck the motion picture industry. Any one of these items alone is sufficient to seriously cripple the industry and cause it to change entirely from its present status to a condition entirely different from anything known at the present time. It is difficult to specify which one of the three points contains the largest element of danger, but special taxation in New York State is the most recent attack in the industry.

Honest men who advocate taxation in the motion picture industry do not understand the facts, other men are moved by various selfish desires, among others the desire is to get money for preventing legislation. So long as the industry continues to conduct itself honestly it can ignore the grafters, but it must make sure that the facts relative to its present condition are placed fully before the honest but uninformed advocates of this special taxation.

One great obstacle concerning the picture men is that their business as a business has been too well "press-agented." The average citizen, high or low, believes that fortunes flow promptly from any contact with the movies. He hears prodigious stories of the vast salaries paid actors and actresses and of the wealth piled up by producers, distributors and exhibitors. Perhaps he even knows personally someone connected with the industry, and from that friend he has secured a cargo of the gaseous dope that permeates every nook and corner of this optimistic industry. The average citizen has no method, nor time, nor inclination to ascertain the facts. He simply assumes that where there is so much smoke there must be some fire.

There is a lot of smoke and there is a little fire, but the hard, cold facts relative to the motion picture industry at the present time are that the business is going through a reorganization, because the facts are not satisfactory to the men engaged in it. If you will make inquiry in Wall street you will be surprised to find how many bankers have lost money or have had unsatisfactory experiences with motion picture ventures. The popular opinion seems to be that Wall street has not invested extensively in picture securities. While this is probably true, the facts are that many Wall street bankers and banking houses have in one way or another put money into various forms of picture propositions. Nearly all resulted unsatisfactorily. A few of the great picture concerns have pleasant, satisfactory Wall street connections, but for every one of these I venture the assertion that you can find fifty deals that have been unsatisfactory.

While the flotation of picture shares has in the past been accomplished quietly it has been none the less extensive, and many thousand of investors are now holding picture stocks that are paying them either nothing or that are paying them very unsatisfactory returns.

As a result of this, it is difficult to secure capital for picture enterprises. Thoughtful men agree that the picture business is fundamentally as solid as a rock, and that it will continue to grow stronger and better, but this optimistic point of view will never be realized if State Legislatures continue to attack the industry by censorship, Sunday closing and special taxation.

The business cannot stand these strains, and if anyone doubts this let him examine any community in America and learn how many motion picture theaters were in existence a few years ago, and see how many are operating to-day. Then let him look into the financial condition of those that are in existence at the present time. I venture the assertion that he will find many exhibitors that are ready to go out of business. Increase in the cost of operating such as would be imposed by special taxation or censorship, or the reduction in revenue such as would follow Sunday closing, would close up many theaters.

The theaters that would suffer would be the little ones, the ones that provide good shows for 5 and 10 cents to millions of people who cannot afford to pay more. Consequently, these attacks on the motion picture industry would affect most seriously the small man in the industry and his customers, the people of small means.

Let no one deceive himself about the condition of motion picture producers. It is all very well to read in the newspapers of this star receiving $100,000 a year, and this other star receiving a half a million a year, and to assume that the producers back of these stars are making money in proportion to the risk and investment they are making. Frankly, I do not believe that the facts will bear out this rosy point of view.

I have some knowledge of the conditions that surround about perhaps twenty or twenty-five of the leading producers of the country, and I must say frankly that these men are not making profits justified by their investment of money, time, energy and responsibility. They are doing their work all right, but the star system together with the tremendous increase in all other costs and the lack of increases in the possibilities of rentals is reducing their net returns to a pretty fine point.

On the distributing side some of the houses are making fair profits and other are not. So that any way you look into the industry, exhibitor, distributor and producer, you will find that the day of swollen profits is a thing of the past. I firmly believe that a lot of money will be made out of the motion picture business in the future, if it can live through these attacks of cholera morbus and other diseases of childhood. I believe that because the business is now largely in the hands of careful responsible men, who have eliminated from it the pyrotechnics and hot air of their predecessors. The only swollen profits of the picture business to-day are the profits received by some of the stars. If the State Legislatures want to pass a special tax on the picture industry, this is where it should be levied. The exhibitors, distributor and the manufacturer cannot stand it. These three classes will be compelled to pass on the tax to the people. The result would be that the five-cent theater would have to go out of existence. The effect of that would be that hundreds of thousands of people in New York State alone would be compelled to quit going to the movies.

The trouble is that our legislatures legislate without any understanding of the facts. For a long time in this country business men had entirely too much to do with our government, and ran it for their own selfish purposes. In recent years the tendency fortunately has been in the other direction. A proper system of operation would be to have a perfect union between the business men and the politician. If the business people will try to tell the lawmakers the facts relative to their business, and if the lawmakers will try to get at these facts we will be relieved of legislation as dangerous as this special taxation.

ALL AMUSEMENTS THREATENED IN NEW YORK.

Provided a bill introduced in the New York Legislature by Assemblyman William S. Coffey, of Westchester, becomes a law, all amusements both indoors and outdoors will be subject to a tax. It is figured that more than $10,000,000 a year will be added to the state's revenues as a result.

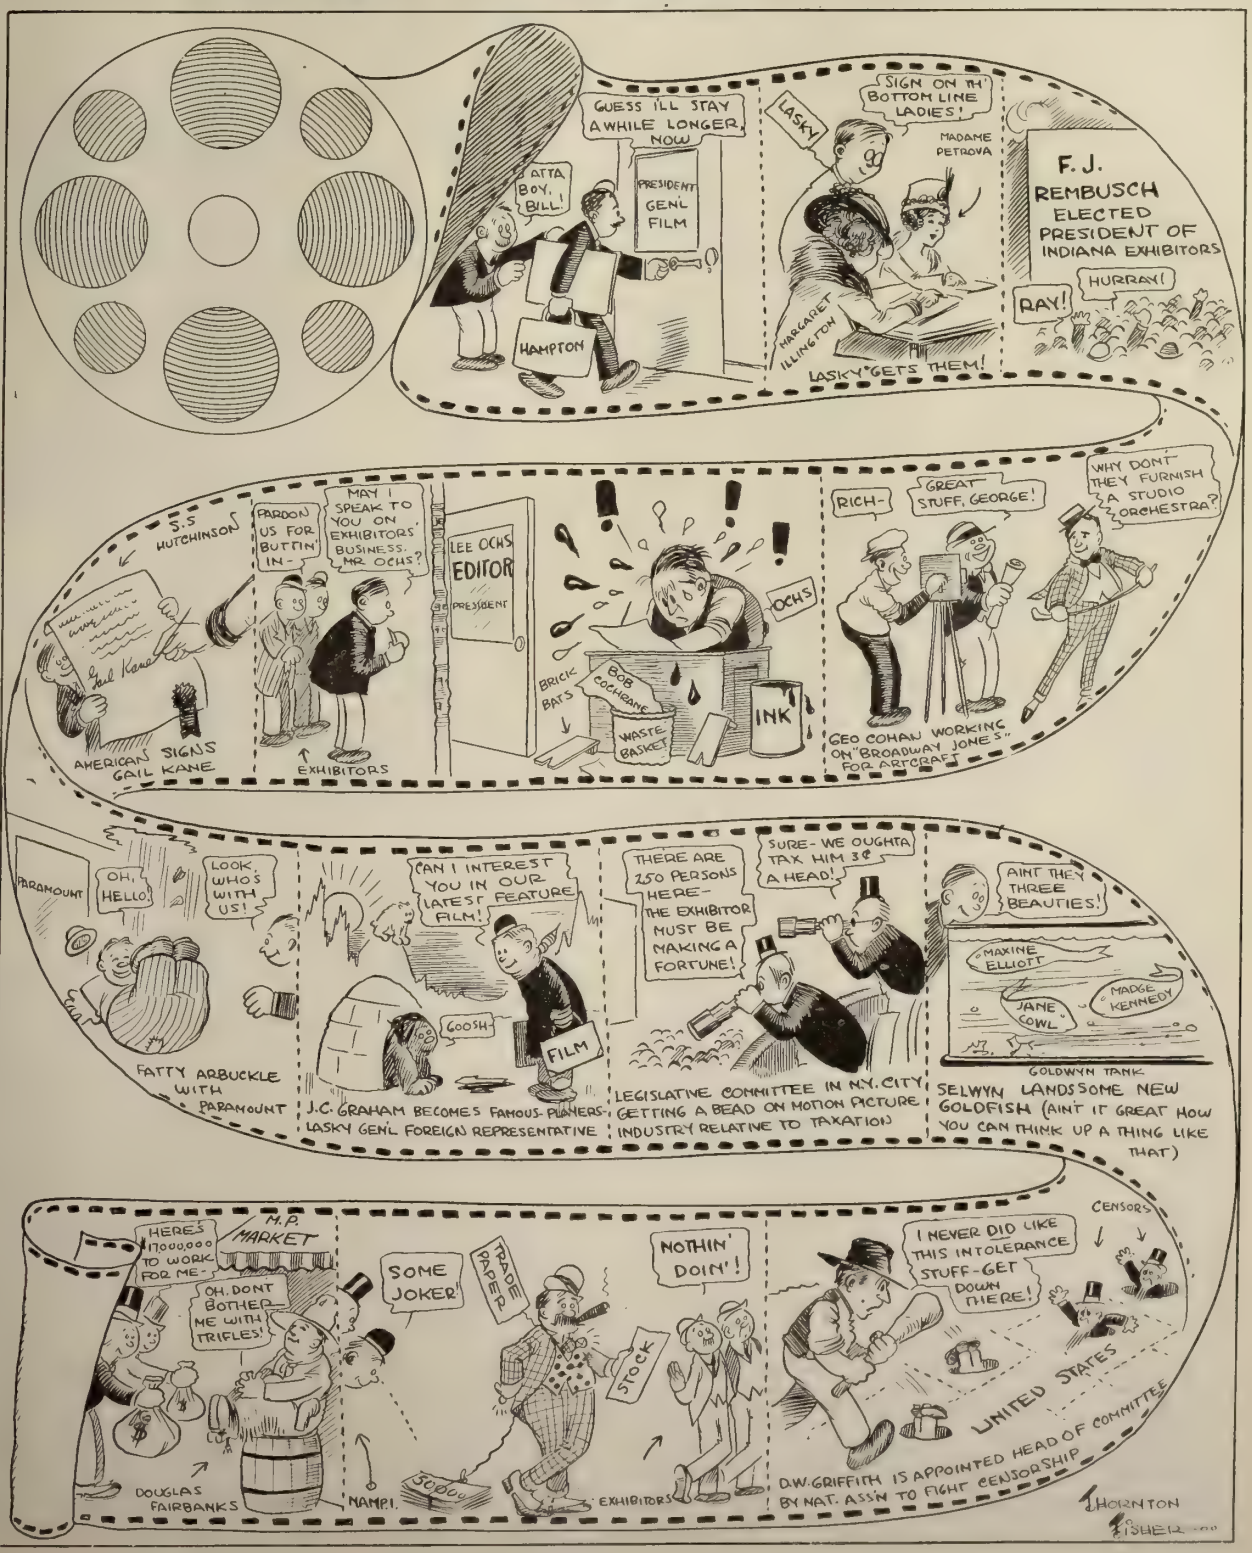
Every amusement for which a ticket of admission is sold is to be taxed a quarter of a cent for tickets costing 25 cents each; one-half cent for tickets costing 50 cents and one cent for tickets selling at $1, and so on in ever increasing multiples. Stamps of various denominations are to be affixed to the tickets.

In New York, where it is said that 80 per cent of the amusement attending public spends its money, it is estimated that at least $9,000,000 will come to the state from the proposed taxation. Church bazaars, baseball, football, polo, theatre and in fact all amusements come in line for taxation. The stamp tax is to be made in denominations small enough to apply to even motion picture houses.

NEW MANAGER FOR KLEINE BRANCH OFFICE.

J. P. Gruwell has been appointed manager of the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay branch office at Cincinnati, Ohio. Mr. Gruwell has been identified with the Kansas City branch of the "Keys" service for some time, and is well equipped in experience and ability to give splendid service to the exhibitors of the Cincinnati territory. Mr. Gruwell succeeds Harry Bugie, former Kleine branch manager at Cincinnati, who has been transferred to the Philadelphia office, which will henceforth be under his direction. Mr. Bugie was stationed at Philadelphia before assuming the management of the Ohio office, and is well acquainted with exhibitors and conditions in the Quaker City territory.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD NEWS REEL for JANUARY



Two New Kalems Under Way

Marin Sais to Be Featured in "The American Girl"; Helen Gibson in "The Daughter of Daring."

AT THE Kalem Glendale studios two new series pictures are under way. The first will be heralded as "The American Girl" series, with a splendid cast supporting Marin Sais, a Kalem favorite. Frederick R. Bechdolt, a recent addition to Kalem's staff of contributing authors and already prominent in the world of fiction for his masterful tales of the golden west, is preparing the stories. The episodes will be in two parts—each telling a complete story, but retaining virtually the same players throughout the series.

The other series, to be issued in one thousand foot lengths, will feature Helen Gibson, heroine of many dramas of the rails. In "The Daughter of Daring" the Kalem Company believes it has selected a selling title that will stand the test of competition and one that is eminently suited to the high grade character of the stories to be presented. A number of prominent writers will prepare the material upon which these short length features will be built up, and Miss Gibson will have an opportunity to make scores of new friends with demonstrations of her fearless characterizations. Like "The American Girl" series, each episode of "A Daughter of Daring" will tell a complete story, making it possible for an exhibitor to book the released episodes in any order that he chooses.

Miss Sais is an ideal star for a series like "The American Girl." Equally at home in the saddle or in evening clothes, she has the personalty to imbue her parts with just the right tempo and feeling. Her company numbers such excellent people as Frank Jonasson, character lead; Edward Clisbee, characters; Ronald Bradbury, heavy lead; Edward Hearn, juvenile lead; Hart Hoxie, characters and cowboy parts. Her director will be James W. Horne, who has done some notable work and is perhaps best known for his successful direction of Kalem's first "Stingaree" series.

Of the author, Frederick R. Bechdolt, much might be said did space permit. A typical Western newspaper man, he has roughed it in Alaska, mined in the West, and generally lived the experiences he is putting into "The American Girl."

Helen Gibson, whose daring has startled the civilized world, will have in her supporting cast G. A. Williams, George Routh for the heavy parts, and L. T. Whitlock in the juvenile parts.

Copies of both "The American Girl" and "The Daughter of Daring" will shortly be in the hands of all the General Film exchanges and exhibitors will then have an opportunity to judge for themselves the seat-filling power of Kalem's newest series pictures.

"CIVILIZATION" REACHING OVER THE WORLD.

Six months ago "Civilization" was first shown at the Criterion Theater, Broadway, New York City. It was well received; it was a success; it ranked as a great production. Then the problem was: How to induce the rest of the world to indorse Broadway's verdict? How to bring the picture to the eyes of mankind?

It took six months to do this job, and the man who did it was J. Parker Read, Jr., general manager of the Harper Film Corporation. In six months "Civilization," the picture, has been routed all over all the world, that is, those parts of it which are not fighting.

The United States territory has been sold to twelve corporations. The picture is making its way under another series of well-capitalized organizations through all the countries of South America, for which special prints titled in Spanish were prepared, as well as also special paper, slides, advertising matter, heralds, etc.

Australia has its own prints, so has Canada. Both of these big territories are at this writing having the picture revealed to them for the first time. Simultaneously Africa, Spain, Portugal, Great Britain and Ireland are also having their premieres. Asia is being covered by special representatives now crossing the Pacific.

J. K. BURGER THROUGH WITH INTERNATIONAL.

The work of consolidation of business of the International with Pathe having been completed, J. K. Burger no longer remains with the International Film Service at the head of their exchange organization. Just what his future movements will be, Mr. Burger, who is known as "Simon Legree" Burger to exchangemen and exhibitors alike, refuses to state definitely, but he says this much: "I am going to remain in the film business and in a position bigger than ever."

Madge Kennedy Signs With Goldwyn

MADGE KENNEDY, the inimitable comedienne, has signed with Goldwyn Pictures and will be exploited in a series of notable productions by that organization. Announcement of Miss Kennedy's engagement follows close on the heels of the Goldwyn acquisition of Mae Marsh, Jane Cowl and Maxine Elliott, in the order named. Miss Kennedy has never before appeared in pictures, and her entry into the films brings one of the youngest and freshest of stage favorites to the cinema.

Hundreds of thousands of persons who have seen her in "Over Night," "Little Miss Brown," "Twin Beds" and "Fair and Warmer" will be delighted with her decision to become a picture star. In four years she has attained a position in the theater that has never been equaled by any girl of her age. She was the "discovery" of Grace George, but under the management of Selwyn & Company became a nation-wide favorite at an age when most girls are away in boarding school.

Madge Kennedy.

Photographically Madge Kennedy will be a welcome arrival in screenland. She is young and lovely and has ideal comedy features—in other words, a screen face capable of every possible range of camera exploitation.

Four years ago Madge Kennedy was playing ingenue roles in the Colonial stock company in Cleveland. She had worked diligently with that organization for two seasons. Philip Bartholomae had written "Over Night," and he selected Miss Kennedy for its principal role. She scored instantly. Then she was featured in another Bartholomae farce, "Little Miss Brown," which throughout the West and Middle West aroused a degree of interest in her fresh and likeable personality that has not been equaled since by any other player.

Madge Kennedy's greatest success was in Margaret Mayo's wonder-farce "Twin Beds," that played a solid year on Broadway, to be followed by an equally great triumph in "Fair and Warmer" by Avery Hopwood. She is still playing in this farce.

Miss Kennedy was married September 30 last to Harold Bolster, business manager of the Vitagraph. The news became public on January 29 and received much attention from the New York newspapers.

DREW SAVING COLLARS FOR PITTSBURGHERS.

In behalf of charity, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew appeared in person at the Linden theater, Brooklyn, recently, when their one-act comedy, "Handy Henry," was shown. They made a present of their share of the receipts to two Brooklyn funds from which milk and eggs are supplied to crippled children and luncheons to school children. Mr. Drew made a short talk in which he said:

"The cleanliness of our little playlets seems to be appreciated most in the towns where soft coal is used. This has lately been illustrated by the case of a man in Pittsburgh. Formerly, he wrote me, he had to change his collar three or four times a day, in order to feel clean. But since attending the Drew comedies he feels so clean that he can keep the same collar on all day long. Besides, going to the theater is more enjoyable, and doesn't cost him any more. My only regret is that every city using soft coal has not yet discovered this simple remedy."

EDGAR LEWIS BEGINS ANOTHER SUBJECT.

Edgar Lewis, who scored with his screen portrayal of Rex Beach's "The Barrier," left New York last week for the south to make a picture which he claims will surpass anything he has ever attempted. Mr. Lewis is said to have unlimited capital at his command.

Mr. Lewis selected an exceptional cast and will again carry out his belief that the essential of the motion picture is the story, not the star.

Advertising for Exhibitors

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Ruff Stuff.

RALPH RUFFNER, of the Liberty, Spokane, Wash., asserts his claim to the distinction of using more newspaper space than any other theater in the United States and wants to know who is second. We give it up. Don't all speak at once, please. Assuredly Mr. Ruffner does use a lot of space, as his exhibits prove, for he runs all the way from one seven to a full page. One of the full pages he shows here, that for Clara Kimball Young. Note how little type he uses though

TUESDAY NOVEMBER 21 1916
SPOKANE DAILY CHRONICLE
PAGE ELEVEN
The World's Most Beautiful Woman
PREMIER APPEARANCE OF CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG
THE SCREEN STAR SUPREME at the head of her own organization in the gigantic seven-reel super feature
Undoubtedly the greatest achievements dramatic photoplay the 1916 season has recorded
The Common Law
TODAY and Rest of Week
From the tremendously popular novel by Robt. W. Chambers
THE LIBERTY

he is paying for an entire page of space. He gets a far more striking advertisement than would have resulted from the use of several hundred words of argument. He shows Miss Young, tells what she will be seen in and leaves most of the rest to the imagination. To many it would seem that this is a clear waste of about four-fifths of the space, but we think it is one of the best displays we have seen in a long time. Miss Young is too well known to most patrons to need elaborate explanation and where she is not known the cut will do more than type to rouse curiosity. The small boxes in the lower corners are the times of performance and schedule of prices. Naturally the advertisement loses much by so heavy a reduction in size, but it will give an idea of what was done. It cleaned up business. Hundreds of readers might have passed over the page had it been filled with type, no matter how large that display might have been, but no one will pass over a striking picture, and most will read the few words and want to see the picture.

Another form that Mr. Ruffner fancies is the column length and three or four columns wide. We show two of these, one a four and the other a five column layout. In both effective use is made up cuts. For the Eye of the Night a special drawing was made, the silhouette effect being backed by a benday stipple. It stands out on the page with almost a full page effect and swamps the rest of the stuff on that page, dominating the space completely. In the advertisement for The Wolf Woman Mr. Ruffner shows- in the boxed note what was recently commented upon editorially in these pages. He does not say that no children will be admitted, nor does he announce that it is too vivid for them. The exact text is:

> The Liberty is equally frank in discouraging the patronage of children on some pictures as it is in encouraging their patronage on others.
>
> The Wolf Woman is NOT a children's picture.
>
> Its appeal will be to matured minds. It is a big theme, done in a big, artistic manner, and will be considered a classic by those competent to judge.

There is nothing of the "men only" appeal in an announcement such as that. It simply tells the kiddies that the picture is not for them and they know that if they come anyhow they will not be permitted to enter unless their parents insist. If parents seek to brign their children they are told at the door that the picture is not for children. If they are of the type who believe in letting children find out things early, there is no objection made to the entrance of the child. It is up to the parent. The statement is not made that the picture is too unclean for the kiddies. It is merely told that the theme is not such as will appeal to children. This is vastly better.

The third exhibit is some fifteen inch spaces. That to the left, for The Unwritten Law is three columns wide and the other is four. In the former the note is not the kid note already referred to but comments upon the opportunity offered to see Sir Herbert at a small admission. The advertisement calls him Robert, though Mr. Ruffner probably knows better. The Fairbanks advertisement is rather more full of type than the average, but the Keystone comedy had to be played up to permit the use of the cut. The line "The Pacific Ocean at its Best" is distinctly good and the general layout, though rather black, is excellent.

Some of this heavy advertising appears in issues where the other houses run mostly to single column widths, three to six inches. Some exhibitor argued recently that no picture house profited by its newspaper advertising, but Mr. Ruffner knows different. He has made more money with printer's ink than he has with films, though of course he had to have the films to advertise in the first place. Advertising does not pay if you do not do it properly, but you cannot convince men like Ruffner and Bagley that pages and half pages are wasted, because they know from experience that such is not the case.

How About This.

The Majestic Theater Co., Jackson, Miss., sends in an engraved card about four by five inches, which is sent to all strangers in town. If they are visiting friends, naturally the friends come too, and if the recipient is a stranger in town, the courtesy is still more appreciated. It does not call for many admissions, but it does make a host of friends. The idea is by no means new, for it is suggested in Picture Theater Advertising, but this is the first use we have seen made of the stunt, and the Majestic has gone to some pains to get something that is just right. The card is heavy engraver's stock, die sunk, the text is copper cut and not type and the envelopes match the enclosure. It is the sort of thing that appeals to persons of good taste and speaks for the character of the theater.

The same house sends in its weekly program a 3½ by 6 inch four pager, cream stock and brown ink. It is well laid out, two days to the page with a well set front and about the only suggestion we can offer is to take the top line away from the house title. This can be done by taking out that reverse cut and using a fancy dash, then moving down the theater name about eighteen points, so that the top line does not obscure the more important house line. Apart from this it conforms to the best usage.

Pretty.

Paramount Pointers, the Philadelphia exchange organ, comes out for Christmas with a blue and brown issue that is a treat to look at. They use a very dark blue and a warm brown, and they do not use too much brown, which is one of the reasons the sheet looks so good. This is one great fault in using two colors. Just because you are running through the press twice, do not suppose you have to divide the work between the two forms. Get one strong color and a contrast and then use just enough of the contrast to touch up (but not to balance) the other. If you are running red and green use only about ten per cent red impression and you get a vivid green. If you use red and yellow, touch up the red with the yellow. And there is a bit of sound philosophy from the same source:

> In endeavoring to keep up with the times, it is only natural that some of us should forget the good things that have been. We heard an exhibitor say the other night, "Every time I get a good picture, it snows or rains." Would it not be the sensible thing to repeat the picture? That's why we bring to your attention the Pickford subjects in general, and "Hulda from Holland" in particular. It is peculiarly adaptable for Christmas week. Why not use it?

You can save money while you make money by bringing good stuff back for a repeat, particularly if, as Mr. Morgan suggests, you had the weather against you the first time.

Didn't Match.

Ryland Sizer, former editor of the V-L-S-E Pals, writes of a house out on the coast that advertised "A Son of Erin" by dressing up a man to suggest a newly arrived emigrant, but the son of Erin was so palpably a Swede that it did not have quite the effect intended. Having gone to the trouble of a ballyhoo the house should have seen that it was properly done.

Changed.

Miss Dolly Spurr, of the Royal-Grand, Marion, Ind., has changed her make-up—not meaning face paint, but the form of her snappy house organ. She has dropped the book form for the small newspaper size, which saves the cost of folding and stitching and permits her to get more space and use larger cuts. The smaller book form was tasteful, but it was started before the present rises in the cost of paper and in changing over she has followed the lead of other alert exhibitors. It is a better scheme these days and she will find that so long as she keeps it bright and snappy, the size does not make much difference except in the smaller printing bills. She is still making a game fight for the Sunday show. Now that she has gone over to newspaper form, she should copy the editorial page and have some real editorials. She can write them and write them well, and they carry greater weight when presented in their proper form.

Folders and Stitching.

L. J. Burkitt, of the Lyric, Morrison, Ill., sends in about twenty of his programs and writes:

> Enclosed you will find several issues of my program. What do you think of them as a whole? Or let's just take the last two issues.
>
> What do you think of them? Where can I improve over the last one? Which of the last two do you think best, in every sense of the word? Please take it from beginning to end, and tear it to pieces. You will notice that I change from a booklet to a folder. The folder seems to please better. Patrons expressed their wishes to that extent, and comment on the neatness of it.
>
> I put out a thousand of these each week. I have a town of 2,500, and use five bill boys to do the distributing. Four of them do the work and the other one, a little bit older, is the boss. He sees that the programs are put out right.
>
> Here is a stunt I use to reduce the cost of my program. I have it printed at the same office that puts out one of the papers. Then I use the same composition for my paper advertising. In this way all the composition is charged to the paper itself, and not to me. Then I pay the regular rates for the paper advertising.
>
> What do you think of this plan? Do you think having the same in both, will decrease the efficient percentage of the advertising?

Most of the programs are wire stitched eight pagers, three by five inches, and some of them are made up half advertising, half program, the program at the top of the right hand pages and at the bottom of the left hand pages, about the rottenest make up that the mind of man has ever conceived. It is hard to tell which is program and which is trade advertising and only those really interested will take the trouble to puzzle it out. Some of the pages from the more recent issues are shown here. The two on the left are badly dated and the top of the page looks too white. Those for the preceding week are better done in this respect. In both cases the display is not good. One is a ten-page and the other twelve, all house stuff. There would be no objection to an advertisement on the lower quarter of each page. The display is very poor, but we do not think this would be bettered by having the stuff specially set for the program. The compositor would get just as poor a job and would only show an added cost. We do not, as a rule, approve of the use of the same type for circular and newspaper work. The sameness is apt to dull the appeal, but in this case there is so little appeal that no gain would be made. We do not think that Mr. Burkitt can do much better until the paper gets a new compositor. He sends in an advertisement all but a dozen display lines in full face caps. This is criminal and even a boob printer should know better. If we could not get an eight point face for the body type we think that we would have had it set in Roman, upper and lower case and with the lines thus gained have underlined the matter with one point rule. As it stands it is half a day's job to read the thing and we hope that Mr. Burkitt told the boss what he thought of the compositor. In a small town he probably has to take what he can get, but we surely would go see the boss and ask him to beat out what little brains the compositor has. He could do better work than this with no brains at all.

If possible Mr. Burkitt should get a set of proofs showing the various faces the printer has and mark each line for its proper type. He should also sketch the layout of the advertisement instead of trusting to the printer to get results. That will help a little. Most of the pages would look better if pulled in a little. A shorter page might help, or text or underline could be carried under the program announcements, cut off with a double rule.

Just Starting.

W. H. Fowler, of the Gem, Rogers, Ark., sends in samples of his first programs. For the second he had to use news stock, but says he has arranged to get book grade. The first is rather pretentious with a red and black Santa Claus getting ready to dive down a nice red chimney, but that and a verse are all that shows on the front that the program is for Christmas week. Just below the cut carrying the house title he should run a line giving the date as:

Vol 1. Rogers, Ark., December 25th.—30th. No. 1

Then people will know what it is. This should carry below it a light double rule and then such advertising or house matter as he decides to use. As though to offset the lack of date, the program starts off with eighteen point dates and eight point titles. In the second issue both date and title are in the eight point. This looks better because the eighteen point lines are out of proportion to the five by eight page. It would be better still to have a formal program on page three and the readers on two and four. This works better and should cost no more. The present form starts the Monday story at the top of the second page, then goes on through the week, each new story carrying a date. With a formal program the entire week can be seen at a glance and then the separate stories add to the interest. Each story can wind up with a "to be shown here Saturday, Dec. 30th," or whatever the date may be. The news stock is rather too light, but a good news is plenty good enough for a program with coarse screen cuts, and this printer does better than average with his cut work. Where there is any chance for composition he does good work, for which reason he should be permitted to get a trifle more ambition.

With Flags and Things.

F. B. Davis, of the White Way Theater, Belleville, Kan., sends in a picture of his lobby decorated for The Fall of a Nation, and says the showing helped to bring big receipts. The picture is rather too small to give the details, but the essentials are a red cross tent, a sentry, a boy scout bugler and a submarine. The latter is hanging in the lobby just above the heads of the group of men. Back of the regular banner is another that says something about the South Side Squad, so we fancy that Mr. Davis rang in the Boy Scouts. The auto over to the right is bunting draped and probably did its share, but Mr. Davis does not give details.

Good Dope.

The Pilot, the organ of the Seattle Paramount exchange, suggests that the exhibitor run a slide telling in which papers he advertises. In small towns the exhibitor is apt to use all the papers, but where only one or two are used, the slide scheme is an excellent one and it works well in the city neighborhood houses. And it does not get the paper mentioned the least little bit angry, either.

He Is.

An anonymous correspondent sends in a program of the Royal, Calumet, Mich., in which the management frankly admits that a supposedly star program proved to be a lemon and no more of that brand, it was promised, would be shown. The correspondent prints above the paragraph "He is supposed to be a mgr." We think he is. On good dope it would seem that the pictures under discussion should be far above the ordinary. In point of fact they are so poor that the releasing organization should withdraw them. The manager played on form and found that form was padded, so he admitted error and promised reform. That is our idea of what real management is. We are not real fond of anonymous letters as a rule, and this is a pretty poor specimen even for an unsigned communication. We think it good management to admit error when error has been made—better management than bluffing.

Date 'em.

The People's theater, Sunbury, Pa., sends in some attractive window cards in three colors, blue, red and black, white stock, 14 by 20 inches. The blue is used only for the title and it would seem that this third printing is a needless expense since black would do as well. The side date is used, but the days are not dated. This should be done, for while the week date might be supposed to be sufficient, there is always the chance that a person sees the day announcement and does not look at the top to see the week. Always "Friday, the fifth," is more definite than merely "Friday" and should be used. This is particularly true of window cards which are seldom studied. In other points the cards are well laid out, the titles are large and distinct and not overshadowed by too much descriptive text, and the brand marks are run in the date box to emphasize the particular days. Some window cards are ineffective because there is too much descriptive matter or because the various titles are set too closely together. A window card is something to be read in a hurry. It is to be taken in at a glance, and even where the title is so displayed that it can be seen readily, if there is a trailer of four or five lines of smaller type it will be passed over because the average passer-by does not stop to think that the title is sufficient. These cards do not offer more than two lines and most of the titles have but a single line. This is as it should be. The place for descriptive matter is the program and not the wall or window display. Here if the title is grasped it is all that should be asked for it is all that will be obtained in most cases.

Udells.

Here are a couple of educational advertisements from Dave Udell, of the Majestic and Crystal, Paxton, Ill. Dave realizes that it pays to boom the pictures just as much as it pays to boom some particular picture, but it is a lesson that few learn. It is just as important to establish the status of the house and the business you are engaged in as it is to convince people that the show on any particular night is a good one. Do a little educational work for yourself. It will pay.

Mr. Upstill's Back.

Eugene A. Upstill, of the Palace, Long Pine, Neb., has been out of the department for a long time. Evidently from the text of the program he sends in he has been using heralds, as he announces that presently the program will be his sole advertiser. In his greeting he remarks that he thinks his as neat a program as any theater puts out. He wins. It is not as elaborate as the average, but neat is the proper word. There is no heavy display, just the announcement of the subjects and a brief house chat. The front is well displayed, but here is given the only date. The program pages should carry a date for each day. Apart from this there is nothing to criticise. Good paper is used, it is well printed and by using italic for titles instead of full face he gets emphasis without smearing the page all up. It is characteristic, effective and inexpensive, all three of which are desirable. It is not what you spend but what you get and the effect it makes that really counts. In passing it is worthy of note that the program seems to be the real thing after all. Others than Mr. Upstill have returned to programs after various experiments.

A NEW HELP FOR MANAGERS

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT (Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World)

A TEXT BOOK AND A HAND BOOK, a compendium and a guide. It tells all about advertising, about type and type-setting, printing and paper, how to run a house program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, how to write form letters, posters or throwaways, how to make your house an advertisement, how to get matinee business, special schemes for hot weather and rainy days. All practical because it has helped others. It will help you. By mail, postpaid, $2.00. Order from nearest office.

Moving Picture World, 17 Madison Ave., New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

INQUIRIES.

Questions concerning photoplay writing addressed to this department will be replied to by mail if a fully addressed and stamped envelope accompanies the letter, which should be addressed to this department. Questions should be stated clearly and should be typewritten or written with pen and ink. Under no circumstances will manuscripts or synopses be criticised, whether or not a fee is sent therefor.

A list of companies will be sent if the request is made to the paper direct and not to this department, and a return stamped envelope is inclosed.

Synopsis Writing.

PRACTICALLY all companies now demand synopsis only and many writers seem to be more or less in the dark as to what a synopsis should be. We have printed one full synopsis for the guidance of the uncertain, but perhaps it might help to elaborate on the idea.

The editor wants a synopsis for three reasons. In the first place he pays less for it. In the second he has less to read and in the third he has a belief that his staff can work better from the synopsis alone. The synopsis as it was originally used, and as it properly is, is no more than a sketch of the story. In the days when an editor bought full scripts he did not want to have to read all of each script. A synopsis gave a brief recapitulation of the story. It told what it was about. If the editor wanted that style of story, he read it and then he read the action for the full details. He read in the synopsis that "John lures Edna to the old mill and there demands that she marry him." If that sounds good to him, he turns to the action and finds this:

34—Porch—Edna sitting on steps—boy enters—hands her a note—Edna reads note—

On screen—John's handwriting—

Dear Edna,

Harry has been badly hurt. Tell no one but come to the old mill at once. I will explain the reason for secrecy when you come. Bring some bandages. John

Edna greatly shocked—questions boy—boy knows nothing—exits—Edna hurries into house.

35—Old Mill—exterior—John pacing up and down—smoking cigarette looks at watch—time she was here—impatient.

36—Porch as in No. 34—Edna hurries from house—carries small basket—looks about cautiously—out of scene.

37 Road—Edna hurries through.

38—Exterior of Old Mill—John watches—sees Edna coming—hurries inside—Edna enters much distressed—John comes out—greets her—takes basket—leads her inside.

39 Interior Old Mill—Edna enters—John follows—shuts and locks door—Edna looks about—sees Harry is not there—turns on John—asks he laughs—says—

Cut-in—"Now me proud beauty, I have you in me power. Marry me or you shall not leave this place alive!"

Edna terrified struggles with John—he quickly overpowers her—ties her to chair—gloats.

All of this is covered by the fourteen words in the synopsis, because a mere hint suffices there. If the editor wants more he can turn to the script. But if merely a full synopsis is sent (this should properly be called a scenario) then there is no script of action to refer to. The editor and his reconstructor must be given more information since the single recapitulation of the story is now the sole source of information. It cannot be told in story form, for in story form it would be necessary to tell how it was a pleasant, sunshiny afternoon and Edna was sitting on the steps reading a novel and stopping now and then to think of Harry. It would tell how the boy came with the note, what was in the note and give a little dialogue to cover Edna's questions. All of this is unnecessary. All that is essential is the action shown by scenes, and it is not necessary to tell that in detail. The scenario should read more like this:

> John sends a note to Edna telling her that Harry is at the old mill, badly hurt. He tells her to bring bandages but to tell no one where she is going. He promises to explain the need for secrecy when he sees her. Edna vainly questions the small boy who brings the note, but he knows nothing. She hurriedly obtains bandages and goes to the old mill where she is received by John who tells her Harry is inside. She enters and he follows. Before Edna can realize that she is trapped, he has locked the door and tells her that unless she marries him, he will kill her. She struggles with him but he easily overpowers her and binds her to a chair.

It will be noted that this does not follow the exact details. It does not tell that John is seen in a break scene or that she hurries along the road. The reconstructor may send her into the house for bandages and follow her in. He wants the main points not the exact line of action. He will get practically the same story, but he will develop it in the manner in which the studio approves. This makes for sameness in treatment, and is one reason why the stories of some companies seem so much alike, but it is what is wanted, and what you must give if you want to bother your bank with checks.

In fiction good comedy business may be more carefully described, for in comedy the business is almost as important as the action, but even in a comedy it is necessary to guard against overwriting. Give the main points and bits of smart business, but do not attempt to get every laugh down on the screen that comes from business alone. Tell the really new business and let the reconstructor do the rest.

Pleasing the Editor.

About twice a week some beginner writes to the effect that he cannot do this or that thing required by general practice—and what shall he do? One writer may find it impossible to tell his story in two or three pages of synopsis; another complains that it takes him three or four hundred words for the introduction alone, and many complain that they have no typewriters and cannot afford to have their work copied when so much of it is returned. In a word they cannot comply with the rules and seek advice on how to break the rules. It cannot be done. General practice is determined by the needs of the studios. The rules are made because it is found that business may best be conducted in this manner. No one is compelled to follow the rules any more than they can be forced to write stories at all. In this land of the free any person can send the studio a pen-written script. It is a right given them by the Declaration of Independence and the Postmaster General. They can send one pen script or one hundred, but if they want to sell their product they must type the manuscript in order to have it read, for this is the land of the free and there is no law compelling an editor to read longhand submissions. It works both ways and it gets down to this plain condition. You can write what you want. You can sell only what the purchaser wants. You must, if you would sell, seek to please the purchaser. If he requires a brief script and you write in a rambling style, you must learn to condense properly if you would sell. If he wants a typed manuscript, because it takes too long to puzzle over handwriting, you must have your stuff typed. You can hire a machine for three months for four dollars if you live near a city or you can buy one, on installments, for as little as $25. You can learn the keyboard in a few weeks. Don't say you "cannot" typewrite. Learn how. Do not say you cannot concentrate. You can learn how. Do so.

Burying Caesar.

In a recent article William Lord Wright preaches a funeral oration over the "Old Guard" who flourished some years ago. He points out that the present system either makes them staff writers or corpses as the younger men; the less experienced writers are supplying the new ideas that the staff men whip into shape.

There is much truth in what he says, but we are not wholly in agreement with him. It is true that most of the old guard are now staff men, but the others are not dead yet, nor are they in the trance from which Bill predicts they will presently be called to life. The Old Guard are not making as much noise as they were, but most of them are selling regularly, and they are far from dead. And not many stories are being taken from the new writers. That is where the trouble comes. There is too little encouragement being given the rising generation. Back in 1909 editors used to write one and two and even three page letters to the men who are now the Old Guard. Men like Hoadley and Warren and Sturgeon used to help authors through force of necessity as well as because they were white people. Now the editors affect a fine scorn for all newscomers (though many of them are upstarts themselves), and will give no encouragement to the men who, by and bye they are going to need so badly it will hurt. Some of the Old Guard grew disgusted with the present day editors and quit, but most of them are still on the job. The studio writers, just now, are on the inside. Take Monte Katterjohn, for instance, who used to run a criticism bureau in Booneville, Ind. Now he has a California bungalow and a six-cylinder car and he does reconstruction for Ince, but he is the same old Monte. As Bill says, a lot of them are marking time until the fourflushers are found out, but most are marching on.

Check Catchers.

Two points determine the value of a story. It must not only be a good story, but it must suit the company to which it is offered. Mere excellence will not sell.

The THIRD Edition of Technique of the Photoplay

IS NOW READY

This is virtually a new book under the old title. More than double the text and with an arrangement especially adapting it for the student. The most complete book ever written on the subject of scenario or photoplay construction.

By Mail, Postpaid Three Dollars

Address all orders direct to nearest office

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Ave., New York City

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON

Manufacturers' Notice.

IT IS an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Important Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication, it is impossible to reply through the department in less than two to three weeks. In order to give prompt service, those sending four cents, stamps (less than actual cost), will receive carbon copy of the department reply, by mail, without delay. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department, one dollar.

Both the first and second set of questions are now ready and printed in neat booklet form, the second half being seventy-six in number. Either booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. Cannot use Canadian stamps. Every live, progressive operator should get a copy of these questions. You may be surprised at the number you cannot answer without a lot of study.

Question No. 173.

What do you think ought to be the attitude of the Operators' Organization toward the manager who is willing to pay above the union scale, but demands a higher class operator than the local union is able to supply?

Roll of Honor on Question No. 165.

The Roll of Honor on Question 165 consists of C. E. Linstruth, Carthage, N. Y.; John W. Creamer, Chillicothe, Mo.; M. M. Moon, Sherman, Texas; V. M. Kidd, Victoria, B. C.; A. M. Malley, Edmonton, Canada; L. Pagenhardt, Westernport, Md.; F. R. Klink, Canton, Ohio; G. Nichols, Muncie, Ind.; T. Gughelmo, Union Hill, N. J.; H. Good, Reading, Pa.; E. C. Flood, Chicago, Ill.

There were a number of excellent replies to question 165, but the one perhaps which covers the question most fully is by C. E. Linstruth, Carthage, N. Y.

Reply to Question No. 165.

By C. E. Linstruth, Carthage, N. Y.

The Question:

If you brought your carbons together and they would only spark, although your fuses and resistance devices are in good order, what would be the trouble?

The Answer:

When carbons are brought together and only a spark results it would indicate there is lack of power (E.M.F.) to force the current across an air gap. With fuses and resistance in good order this lack of power could be explained as follows: First, shutting down or just starting the power house generator, or in other words, generator armature not up to speed, hence low voltage on the line. If, however, I were using a generator set and it was turning up to speed, then I would examine the voltmeter, and if the voltage was not up to normal I would seek for the trouble in the generator itself. It might be any one of a number of things, among which are: dirty commutator, dirty brushes, loose connections, or fault in the magnetic circuit of the generator. If the voltage was up to normal, I would know that the trouble lay in the operating room circuit, and it might be any one of the following things: (A) Loose, or dirty connection. (B) A heavy ground on the arc side of the resistance, possibly, though not necessarily, caused by carbon dust across the insulation of the carbon arms of the lamp. (C) Corroded carbon arms or dirty carbon arms which allows only a poor contact between the carbon and the jaws. (D) Badly burned wire terminals, or a wire burned entirely in two, but some of its strands making slight contact. (E) Upper carbon not tight in the holder. If the upper carbon is loose enough it will ride the bottom carbon, which produces sparking but does not allow of any separation of the carbons.

If I were using a mercury arc rectifier, I would proceed the same as I would with the motor generator, except that I would, of course, look for the trouble in the rectifier, first testing out the rectifier to see that it was "delivering the goods."

Union Fees, Etc.

Edward Byard, Korbel, Cal., says:

> I would like to find out about the Operators' Union; how much it is to join, necessary qualifications of candidate for admission, etc.

This is a sample of very many letters received. I cannot answer questions of this kind intelligently because of the fact that the amount of initiation fee is a matter for the local union to settle, and different unions charge different fees. Here in New York City it is $50.00; in Boston, if I remember rightly, $2.00, while in some towns it is as low as $5.00. As to the qualifications, why that too is a matter which is determined entirely by the local union. In Detroit, for example, you have got to satisfy a competent examining committee that you understand both the technical and practical end of the profession of projection. In some places, however, I am sorry to say, the union examination is in the nature of a farce. Just what union you would be eligible to, and what kind of examination that particular union gives, I don't know. I would suggest that you first ascertain what union you are in the jurisdiction of, then make application and you will find out all the rest in due course. If you know your business you need not fear any fair examination; if you don't know it, however, and you go up against a real examination you will stand just about as much show as would a wooden legged man in the midst of a forest fire.

New York Operators' Ball.

On the evening of January 14th Grand Central Opera House on 67th street was the scene of one of the most really enjoyable affairs this particular editor has attended in a long time. I refer to the annual grand ball given by Moving Picture Machine Operators' Local Union 306, I. A. T. S. E. The Grand Central Opera House is a big place, but it was nevertheless very comfortably filled, and at times the floor was so crowded that dancing was not altogether a pleasure.

The affair was graced by the presence of Miss Anita Stewart, Miss Florence Turner, and other stars in the firmament of filmdom, who provided the editor with an opportunity to get into the spot light while introducing them to the assembled multitude. State Senator Walker, who has long since proven himself to be a friend to the operator, was present, and to him was given an honorary membership card in Local Union 306.

Brother Edwards, President of Local Union 306, was called to the stage and presented with a handsome silver loving cup as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the membership. The presentation was made by Will C. Smith, whose name and smiling countenance is familiar to practically every operator in New York City, and to many of the boys in other towns.

The light effects were in charge of F. H. Richardson, your humble servant, Will C. Smith, and Mr. Kaplin, the plans for the same being drawn by the first named. I make no bones about claiming the credit for that particular thing, because I have long wanted to see what the effect would be if a carefully planned lighting scheme were carried out as it was planned, and to that end the light plan was drafted by myself, approved by Brothers Smith and Kaplin, and then the whole thing was left to Kleigl Brothers, under contract, which meant that it was up to the men at the lights to be on the job and follow the plans mapped out, else the contractor would come up shy on pay day. Of course there was some interference, as there always is at a ball, but in the main the lighting effects were put over as planned and the consensus of opinion was that they were very beautiful. Personally, I think I have never seen anything to beat them.

The reason the lighting effects at most operators' balls amount to nothing is that they simply get three, four or half a dozen spot lights, hire men from a sister local to run them without any previous worked out plan to guide them. Each man is left to use his own judgment, and as you all know what is everybody's business is usually "nobody's business." The result of that kind of arrangement is never anything better than mediocre, and usually is not even fairly good.

There were some color combination, particularly on the Grand March, which I would defy any man to criticise. It certainly was very beautiful.

The Precision Machine Company, and the Nicholas Power were well represented, as were several of the large film producing companies.

The officers and many of the members were in evening dress, and on the whole I think the affair was one of which Local Union 306 may very justly feel proud.

Testing Edison Three Wire System.

F. R. Klink, Canton, Ohio, an old-time department correspondent says:

> You have not heard from me in a long time. Thought it about time to break in again. I take note of your request for methods of testing for ground in the Edison three-wire system, in which the neutral is always permanently grounded. The method of testing is very simple. It is as follows: First, remove the neutral fuse and see that all lamps and other apparatus are switched off. Then use voltmeter, test lamp, of course, and be from either outside wire to the neutral. If there is a ground you will get a reading if you use a voltmeter or the lamp will burn or at least there will be a spark when you make and break contact or if you use a magneto the bell will ring. I always use a lamp of low voltage when making tests since when the ground is slight it will not show on a high voltage test as well as it will on a low voltage one. Other factors being equal, but you will never get as good a spark as you make and break contact with as with provided, of course, there is a ground. Fig. 1 In locating the fault with the voltmeter or lamp it is, of course, necessary that the switch be closed, the neutral fuse to be removed to the outside wire.

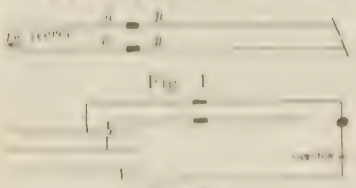

Fig. 1

Fig. 2

[illegible]

[illegible] Brother Klink. No. I am afraid it would not be practical to make a canoe in the coming trip. It has been tried on the ocean route.

As to the 110-220 volt mixup, why you had me stumped. I submitted the matter to George E. Brown, electrical inspector in charge of the local police examination of the City of New York and to Mr. Wyckoff, chief electrical engineer of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity. Mr. Wyckoff was for be equally [illegible] very busy and could not go into details on the matter but said it probably would be found to be a case of grounding. Mr. Brown replied, in writing as follows:

> Much is left untold in Mr. Klink's letter but I take the liberty of presuming that the wiring done by him from the feed leads to the room in question is in perfect condition, that the wiring inside the room which he says is concealed has been done in iron conduit or steel armored cable and that he has made the splices to two wires which he presumed led the cable in the room. If there are no grounds in the wiring, or power, that the lights in the room are fed through a single pole switch attached to the other side of the three wire system as per sketch and that one of the wires to which he connected [illegible] open circuited at the outlet in the room.

I submit Brother Brown's sketch which, of course, offers one possible explanation. I would invite operators or others to send in other explanations from the home switchboard. I took all the neutral [illegible] my test to bring on the lights in the room found [illegible] conditions how this condition could be brought about through grounding or otherwise.

Not a Knocker.

[illegible] Mo.

Here is a description of the operating room of the Empire Theatre, Wood county, Ohio. The walls and ceiling are of concrete, 1,200 cubic feet. The [illegible] are [illegible] the machines set back two feet from the wall, with the objective lens centers five feet apart. The lens covers are [illegible], and we certainly do not [illegible]. However, I am not a fire underwriter [illegible] to get as much protection [illegible] seems to be sufficient now every day. We have a Fairbanks-Morse, 58 ampere motor generator set, with a compound wound motor [illegible]. The [illegible] throw is 90 feet, [illegible] and [illegible] feet. [illegible] the rheostat, with current taken from the [illegible] switch under [illegible]. The size of the picture is 11 feet in the ceiling of the [illegible] room is [illegible] feet.

The [illegible] of operating at the Majestic, at which place he is about to [illegible] Arthur Hoerber and Thomas Nelson. The Power's 6A and the Edison B head-arcs taking 60 amperes A. C. They have about a 15-foot drop in a 40-foot throw. Results were about as good as possible under such conditions.

Recently I visited the Orpheum and Royal theaters in Atchison, Kansas. Operator Mike Spelman at the Orpheum was getting good results out of two 5-year old Kinodromes. The operating room was of concrete, 8x8 feet in size, with about a 20-foot ceiling. There were two doors in the side and a large vent in each of the four walls at the top of the ceiling. Some class, believe me. But why do managers [illegible] have such antiquated projectors in such fine large theaters? The Orpheum was the handsomest house it has ever been my pleasure to visit.

At the Royal, a small store room type of theater, there was a hand in a 6x6x6 room, but the operator was sure delivering the goods.

I also visited the Royal in St. Joseph, Mo. It was a mighty nice little house. Brother A. S. Sedam, secretary Local 548, had two Simplex machines in the neatest room I have ever seen. Ex the way, I collect dollars if you see this and please send me an application blank for membership in I.S.

Keep up your [illegible] letter, Brother Kleinlein, whatever you do. Why don't [illegible] operators or [illegible] give some descriptions of operating rooms in New York and other large cities? It would be very interesting to we men out here.

This is an interesting letter. Evidently Brother Creamer does not belong to the knocker brigade. If he ever had a hammer it is lost. I would certainly advise the manager of the MAE to [illegible] the merits of Simplex projectors. Why hamper your operator with an Edison B which though very good in its time, it was put out as a back number now? Also a better arrangement in a 40-foot throw is strictly awful. It is very, very bad indeed. I would either set that operating room further back, or know the reason why, and it would have to be a mighty good reason too. I would even prefer it on the main floor of the auditorium.

Kinodrome machines? Good "nuff." They were the first high class projector we had, but to-day I know for a fact every manufactured about six years ago the most improved machine in the Orpheum, Atchison, Kansas ought to be [illegible] even an old one portion. Then too there is that outside coop in the [illegible]. As a matter of fact, I guess that while it would have looked fine before it [illegible] that, because the Earl boasting 3 feet 2 inches from [illegible] to rear when it is standing level, with the lamphouse back where it probably would be, which would only leave 10 inches between the arcs and the lamp control, [illegible] how you could get two [illegible] side in a room 6 feet wide. I would respectfully suggest to the [illegible] of that theater that he has no right to expect his operator to deliver high class work in a cracker box of that kind.

The Edison you have is not [illegible] with a "B." With a good fan [illegible] heads of [illegible] and in case of a bad fire it absolutely would not [illegible] the [illegible].

As to giving a description of the operating rooms of New York City, why when the supposed to be very best theaters in the town have operating rooms such as to the average, a wood can be [illegible] to describe them. One theater which claims to be about the best would be [illegible] which was [illegible] and [illegible] as [illegible] projection [illegible] a cost running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars has a [illegible] been [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] lacks a set of having adjacent booth [illegible] [illegible] room in which to make it [illegible]. There are [illegible] very good operating rooms in New York city but I do not [illegible] they are any better or even as good taken as a whole, as operating rooms in smaller towns. It is a very difficult matter to get the average theater manager to understand the [illegible] that [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

TION SLIP IS A THING WHICH OUGHT TO ACCOMPANY EVERY REEL. With this slip on a reel, if there is any kick as to its mechanical condition, all the operator need do is set forth the facts, attach the slip to the letter and send it to the exchange manager. The manager can then "go after" the responsible inspector, because his or her number appears on the slip, together with the date of inspection and repair. Another slip which Brother Meester sent reads:

"This reel not inspected. Mr. Operator, please be kind enough to inspect this reel carefully before running. Owing to late night pick-up we could not make inspection before train time. Anti-Trust Film Company, 128 W. Lake Street, Chicago, Ill."

The "not inspected" is in big black letters. This is also a good stunt, though they ought not to come too often. It protects the operator, however, when there is a bona fide reason for sending out an uninspected reel. EXCHANGES WOULD DO WELL TO EMULATE THE EXAMPLES HEREIN SET FORTH.

Where Are We At?

This department has spent a lot of money and tons of hard work on the lens system of the projector, in which study the editor has been more than ably assisted by Brothers Griffiths, Martin, Deutsch, Armstrong and others. We feel that great advancement in the understanding of the optical system of the projector has been made, and that we have accomplished tangible things, making possible a more intelligent and efficient use of present apparatus; also we believe we have discovered wherein present apparatus is defective and inefficient.

It seems to this particular editor, however, that, while we can and doubtless will make further progress, still the problem now ought to be taken up by one or more of our optical manufacturers, and a really scientific lens system evolved, which will take care of the varying conditions met with in theatrical practice without the present huge waste of electrical energy.

The editor is now firmly convinced that the lens system of the projector needs rebuilding throughout. I have said, and I still say, that under present conditions, where high amperage is used, the waste of power is simply shameful. So far as I am able to see, it is quite possible to shorten distance X and lengthen distance Y in a very satisfactory way, provided machine manufacturers will give us the proper distance between the condenser and the film, and further provided that we be allowed a greater operating room front and back dimension. If this condition can be had efficiently, without loss of efficiency, that is to say, if we can locate the arc within, say, not more than three inches of the flat side of a condensing lens, and have a distance of not less than twenty inches, and in some cases very much more than twenty inches, between condenser and film, the matter becomes very simple. But it is either this or the aperture lens, and the aperture lens presents difficulties in that it will in some instances make it impossible to reach the dissolving point of the light ray with the dissolving shutter.

I believe an intelligent application of Griffith's tables is at this time helping matters considerably, but these tables are hampered by the fact that they are designed to work with admittedly inefficient, wrongly designed apparatus.

Martin proposes a new condenser, the factors of which will be a considerable distance apart, but I am afraid it would make the machine impractical, due to its extreme length.

Meanwhile, I repeat, we have made decided progress, though we have not yet reached perfection. That, I think, would be too much to expect at this particular stage of the game.

From An Exchange.

Recently I had occasion to write the manager of a certain exchange in a certain city concerning the complaint of an exhibitor. The exchange manager "comes back" with the following letter:

> I have your letter of the 21st. There is one thing I can tell you, and that is this: If there is any exhibitor in this state who tells you he has complained to this office about poor condition of film and has not received due consideration, you can tell him from me that he is very careless in the handling of truth. One of the main and chief duties which I have assigned to myself since I became manager here, has been to have each and every film thoroughly and properly examined and cleaned before being sent out. It is very likely that the exhibitor who gave you the information contained in your letter of the 21st is sore at me, for reasons best known to himself. I have at all times fought hard to have things done that would not only benefit the corporation I represent and myself, but the general industry in which I am employed. We have had a number of cases where new films have gone out to exhibitors and, on account of improper handling, been returned to us with sprocket holes not only cracked, but completely torn away. I am sure that the exhibitors doing this have not written to you on this point. If they have, let me know who they are, if you see fit to do so.
>
> For your information let me cite you a case which happened last week. I sent a first run film to one of our accounts in the state. It had only been screened once in our projection room. When it came back both reels were scratched as though some one had taken a miniature rake and run it along the film from the opening title to the last foot. Have you ever considered it a good thing to call the exhibitor's attention to the fact that it is extremely important that the films they receive should be handled by them in the same manner as they would handle their own property?

The foregoing letter is very interesting, and I am sorry that, for obvious reasons, I cannot give names. In considering the letter, however, I notice it starts out with the statement that the exhibitor does not tell the truth. Now it is a peculiar fact that in all the almost numberless letters that have been addressed to me by theater managers and exchange managers in answer to letters of mine concerning complaints of abuse, almost every one of them have intimated that the "other fellow" monkeyed with the truth, and there was, as a matter of fact, absolutely no ground-work for any complaint whatsoever.

If the theater manager writes complaining, and I take the matter up with the exchange manager, the first thing the exchange manager almost invariably does is to inform me that the exhibitor is a liar. He does not always use the short and ugly word, but that is what it means. If, on the other hand, the exchange manager complains, and I take the matter up with the theater manager, he promptly informs me that the exchange man is a liar. He does not always use the word liar, but that is what it means allee samee.

Now the fact of the matter is there is just ground for complaint on both sides. In all too many instances the theater manager is guilty of (a) employing an incompetent operator; (b) not seeing to it that his machines are kept in perfect repair; (c) compelling his operator to not only project a picture, but do the rewinding and repair work as well and at the same time; (d) compelling his operator to overspeed the films.

In all too many instances the exchange is guilty of improper or at least extremely poor inspection and repair. It is no uncommon thing for the exchange manager to employ incompetent help at six or seven dollars a week, and then require that help to do twice as much inspecting as a competent man or woman could possibly do and do right. As a matter of fact it seems to me the whole thing could be best settled by thorough and complete organization of both exchanges and exhibitors. The exhibitor should organize thoroughly and completely, and where any exchange manager persists in sending out reels in bad condition they should gather concrete evidence of that fact and present it to the headquarters of the programs he is handling, insisting upon a change of exchange managers, and if this fails then simply cut out that exchange entirely. All this is practical, provided there be the right kind of organization among the exhibitors.

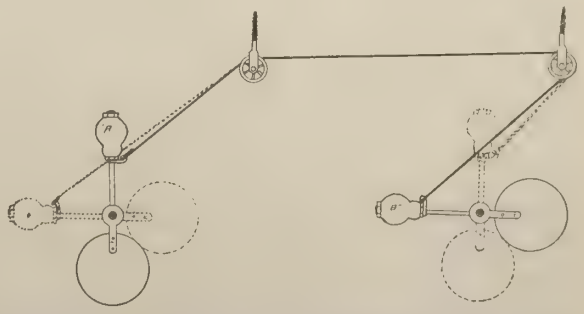
The exchange managers should be thoroughly organized, and the organization should employ a THOROUGHLY COMPETENT inspector whose personality should be unknown to the theater managers in the district. This man should only visit theaters as a paying patron. He should note carefully the speed at which films are run, and such other facts as it is possible for a man working under those conditions to obtain. In addition to this there should be a thoroughly competent inspector who would make at least monthly trips over the territory, inspecting the condition of projection machines and other apparatus coming into direct contact with the film, including a report upon the competency of and methods employed by the operator. This would entail some expense, true, but remember, gentlemen, that film is worth lots of money. I venture the assertion that if these suggestions were faithfully and impartially carried out they would amount to huge good to the moving picture industry, and great good to both the theaters and exchanges.

How It Is Done.

John R. Jameson, East St. Louis, Mo., writes as follows:

> Will you kindly advise me as to the best method of connecting the two dowser handles by a cord or chain in order to dissolve one picture into the next?

The attached sketch makes the matter very plain. Just get two small pulleys, similar to the one shown, which may be had from any hardware store, and screw them into the ceiling. If the ceiling is of concrete, first drill a ¼-inch hole 2 inches deep and drive in a soft pine plug loosely. You can then screw the pulleys into the plug. A flat brass chain, such as is used in a toilet flush, is best for the purpose. You can, of course, use a cord, but a chain is better, and is comparatively inexpensive. If you prefer you can rig a dowser to come down in front of each objective lens. ' is, however, has no particular advantage. In fact, the condenser dowser is the better, because when it is used you accomplish the dissolving of one picture into the next very well, and at the same time you shut off the light from the machine which is going out of business.



Vaseline Lubricant.

H. A. Putman, Trenton, Mo., wants to know how much vaseline he ought to put in a Power intermittent. Says when he gets too much there is trouble about it working out through the bearings, and getting smeared on things.

To start with, Brother Putman, don't use vaseline. It is not a good lubricant. It is a petroleum product, and has no very high lubricating properties. Use a good grade of heavy machine oil, and, when the machine is not running, fill the casing up to the top of the oil well. In other words, fill the cup as full as you can get it while the machine is standing still. If you undertake to oil the intermittent while the machine is running, the intermittent will suck up oil until the casing is practically full and then when the machine stops it will run out again. The fact that the vaseline works out along the bearings would seem to indicate that you need new bearings. I think you will find that a medium grade of automobile cylinder oil will be very satisfactory for your intermittent movement.

Dreams Come True—Sometimes.

In the accompanying sketch, by Jack Levine, Worcester, Mass., the operator is seen at the left engaged in that pleasant pastime known as "hitting the hay," and the number of Zs indicate that he is hitting it with some force; also note the glad-time design of the pajamas.

To the right we are entertained with a view of the subject of the aforesaid operator's dream—a new motor driven machine. I wonder if this sketch sets forth that which happened to Friend Levine himself.

High Voltage.

Savannah, Ga., writes:

> I have been an operator for many years and am familiar with both A.C. and D.C., but have used the former more than the latter, and as a rule have secured good light by using two 104 volt rheostats connected in multiple. For the past three months, however, the line voltage has been increased, which gives me 118 instead of 104 volts, and under this condition my troubles have been many, consisting of hot wires and hissing at the arc. I cannot keep a light on the screen, no matter how hard I try, and I have had a 50 ampere fuse blow. I reported the matter to our chief electrician who informed me that at one time I had 117 volts and at another time 118 volts at the machine, and that it was up to me to reduce the current with my two rheostats. I have the second edition of the Handbook and am a reader of the department, but cannot find any remedy for the trouble. I claim the voltage should be reduced through the transformer, and not through the rheostats, which are only made for 104 volts. Have experimented with the rheostats in many ways, but cannot improve matters. Please inform me which of the two is the bigger ignoramus—the chief or I, or, are we both worthy of the title? And please give me a remedy for the trouble, if you have one, and I am sure you have.

The remedy, Savannah, is simple, but unfortunately I haven't a second edition of the Handbook before me. However, if you can get hold of the third edition (copy of which you ought to own. It costs $4.00, but it will be worth several times its price to you) look on page 327 and at A you will see the solution. If you have 104 volt rheostats you need a little extra resistance in series with them. Just how much I could not say, but I think two extra coils in series with each rheostat will do the work. I would suggest the following: Secure four 50 ampere rheostat coils or grids (maybe you had better get six while you are about it) and mount them in insulators on the wall of the operating room, as near the rheostats as you can, placing sheet asbestos behind them, with air spaces back of the asbestos unless it is a concrete, brick or hollow tile wall, in which case the air space won't be necessary, and connect two or three of these coils in series with each one of the rheostats. In order to reduce the voltage through the transformer, it, the transformer, would have to be changed, and this is something the light company does not want to do owing to the expense involved. The addition of this resistance should bring your amperage down to normal, but the precise amount of extra resistance you will need will be a matter which you will have to determine by experiment. The thing is illustrated in the second edition of the Handbook, but I don't remember upon what page. The chief is right, but it does not follow that you are an "ignoramus." You simply failed to study the rheostat department of your Handbook to the best possible advantage. You see, my brother, when you get a Handbook you can only get the greatest amount of good out of it by studying it. Merely reading it through does not serve the purpose. You have to get busy and dig in order to get the good out of it. As you are using A.C. I would suggest using larger fuses, and increasing carbon size if found necessary.

Quite Some Financier.

H. F. Usher, Hamilton, Ont., says:

> I bought one of the second edition of your Handbooks in 1913, took good care of it, and the other day sold it for $2.00. I have seen the new book, and of course that means an order. I am sure it will be a great help to me. I have a Power Six A and a Six B, with one motor drive; a 68 level throw, with a 14 foot picture on a Radium Gold Fibre screen. I have a motor-generator set which gives 50 amperes at 70 volts; also there is a voltmeter and ammeter, and with the aid of the Handbook there is no reason on earth why I should not get good results. With regard to meal ticket operators, why we have some here in Canada, one using a shamrock punch. A sample of his work is enclosed.

This brother is quite some financier. He bought a Handbook, used it for three years and then sold it for within 50 cents as much as it cost him. All of which, I think, the ordinary man will consider is "going some." If Brother Usher was in New York it probably would not be long before he would graduate into a financier—maybe of the "high" variety, though let us hope not. But anyhow, he is, I have been told, an excellent operator. The pieces of film showing the shamrock punch are short, but I find four punch marks, each fully ⅛ of an inch in diameter, in one picture. I would suggest to the owner of this particular punch that he swap it for a yellow dog and kill the dog, and the quicker he does it the better it will be for the film placed in his charge.

School Projection.

New York City makes the following query:

> Would you kindly send me the address of a reliable school in which to learn motion picture projection, and, if possible, motion picture photography. Also kindly inform me whether or not there is a demand for operators.

Yes, New York, there is a demand for real, genuine operators, who understand both the technical and practical side of their profession, but there is no demand for the school product. In fact the market is not only flooded, but actually swamped with that particular brand of "operator."

No, I cannot recommend any "reliable" school, except the school of experience, plus hard work and study. If you wish to become a moving picture machine operator, the only and best advice I can give you is to proceed the same as you would proceed if you wished to be a plumber, a locomotive engineer, a brick-layer, an architect, or any other craftsman. Serve an apprenticeship, and during that apprenticeship study good and hard, thus combining the technical with the practical. The trouble with the school product is that he undertakes to learn an exceedingly difficult profession in from two to six months, and then places himself on the market as an operator without having had one iota of practical experience in practical projection, or any real bona fide experience in any kind of projection. If you undertook to learn to be a lawyer, or a doctor, you would expect to serve an apprenticeship of not less than three or four years. If you wanted to be a locomotive engineer you would certainly expect to serve an apprenticeship of at least five, six, seven or eight years. Why, even to become a brick-layer would require at least two years. And none of these professions or trades are more complicated or difficult than is the profession of projection. To learn to be a brick-layer you have got to learn to lay brick; to learn to become an electrician you have only to learn electrics; to be a lawyer you must only learn law, but to be an operator—that is to say, a real operator, you are compelled to learn electrics, optics, mechanics and several other things.

Now don't imagine I have said all this in order to discourage you. Far from it. I am simply giving you straight facts. You can, of course, learn to be an imitation operator by going to a school, and for this purpose one school is about as good as another. The only trouble is that after you are through with your school you are not an operator, but just a rank imitation who has learned to answer examination questions without knowing or understanding the true meaning of the answers you yourself give, and there is no market for that sort of operator. You might secure a job, yes, but you could only secure it by working cheap, cheap, cheap, thus being unfair to other operators, and to everyone connected with the moving picture industry, in fact the industry itself.

When You're in Trouble
RICHARDSON'S
MOTION PICTURE HANDBOOK
FOR MANAGERS AND OPERATORS
Is the Doctor That Can Unfailingly Prescribe for Your Ailments.
There isn't an operator's booth in the universe in which this carefully compiled book will not save ten times its purchase price each month.
BUY IT TODAY! $4.00 THE COPY, POSTPAID
Your bookseller can supply you or the nearest Moving Picture World office will promptly fill your orders.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
Schiller Bldg. Chicago, Ill. 17 Madison Ave., New York City. Haas Bldg. Los Angeles, Cal.

Motion Picture Photography*

Conducted by CARL LOUIS GREGORY, F. R. P. S.

Inquiries.

QUESTIONS in cinematography addressed to this department will receive carbon copy of the department's reply by mail when four cents in stamps are inclosed. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in this department, $1.

Manufacturers' Notice.

It is an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Camera Specifications (Continued).

MOVEMENT.—The movement is that part of the camera mechanism which draws the film down between each successive exposure. There are many types of movement, but the best of these is probably the harmonic cam. This is often called the Lumiere, or the Lumiere-Carpentier movement, as it was first used in a camera of that name. The harmonic cam is a triangular cam with curved sides, working between two guides which it moves up and down as it revolves. As it accomplishes the downward movement of the fingers in a quarter of a revolution it permits of a larger shutter opening than any other movement in general use. The Geneva, or Maltese Cross movement has been used in camera construction, and while it gives a quicker downward pull of the film than the harmonic cam, it has several disadvantages which preclude its use. In the Geneva movement the downward draw of the film is accomplished in about an eighth of a revolution, but, as this movement has four bearing surfaces which are liable to wear unevenly it has not found much favor as a camera movement. Should one side, for instance, wear a trifle more than the other three sides, every fourth picture in the negative would be slightly out of register with the other three. In addition to this, slight variations in the thickness of the negative film, or its pliability, cause it to ride the intermittent sprocket more or less snugly, causing a variation in the frame line, or an up and down movement of the picture. The harmonic cam, on the other hand, revolves once for each frame taken and any small amount of wear, being the same for each successive picture, is not appreciable. This wear may be readily taken up in most constructions by loosening two screws which would hold one of the guides between which the cam runs, and the guides may be adjusted firmly against the cam, thus taking up the wear. The shutter opening with the Lumiere movement may be greater than 180 degrees, which is much more than any other movement in common use. The shutter blade could be reduced to 90 degrees were it not for the fact that it must have an additional width sufficient to cover the aperture opening, so that the smallest shutter blade that can be used in any movement is that fraction of a revolution during which the film moves downward plus a segment wide enough to completely cover the aperture opening from corner to corner. The Pathe, Prevost, the Universal, the Gillon, and many other makes of cameras, use the harmonic cam. Almost all other movements are some variation of the rod and crank principle. That is, a rod or other connection fitted to a crank pin on the shutter shaft actuates the up and down movement of the claws. Since the downward movement of the crank is one-half of a revolution, no rod and crank motion can have as wide a shutter opening as the harmonic cam, although some of them decrease the time in which the film is moved down by having a crank whose throw is greater than the distance from picture to picture, and use only a portion of the crank throw for drawing the film down, the engagement of the pins or claws with the film taking place after the crank has commenced to move downward and releasing before the crank reaches the bottom of its throw. There are many variations of the rod and crank movement. In the Pittman model the fingers are upon springs actuated by a crank. The fingers move in a circular path except when drawing down the film, where they are forced to subtend a chord of the circle by a friction plate in the plane through which the film moves. This friction plate being struck 16 times per second by the revolving spring claws makes this movement a very noisy one. In the Williamson movement a small arc-shaped slot guides the pins in an approximately straight line during the period of their engagement with the film. In other movements a double crank is used, giving both the in and out and up and down movement to the claws. A third variety of movement which was much used a few years ago was called the Slip Claw movement. In this movement the claws were ratchet-shaped and in their upward travel slipped along the perforation as a pawl slips over a ratchet. The Pathe Freres formerly made an amateur model which used the slip claw movement. The slip claw movement has almost entirely gone out of use because it could not be reversed. No matter in which direction the crank of the camera was turned the slip claws would pull the film down in the same direction, and an inadvertent throwing back of the crank for even a fraction of a revolution would cause the film to lose its upper loop, and unless there was a great nicety of adjustment between the friction at the gate and the pressure of the spring claws they were liable to push the film backward on their upward travel, causing the frames to overlap, thereby making what is called a creep in the film. The in and out movement, or the movement of the pins in and out of the perforations, is accomplished in various cameras by many different methods. A positive in and out movement is much to be preferred over one which is accomplished by some sort of spring pressure. A positive in and out movement is one in which the pins are pressed in and withdrawn by a mechanical movement, such as a cam or drunken screw. In the Pathe and Gillon types the in and out movement is accomplished by a drunken screw. A drunken screw is a thread having an irregular pitch, the thread used for the in and out movement being a continuous one with the contours so placed as to force the pins into the perforations at the beginning of the downward throw of the cam and withdraw them at the bottom of the throw. In the Prevost movement the in and out throw of the pins is accomplished by small harmonic cams of the same design as the larger cam which produces the up and down movement. Most of the rod and crank types of movement have a cam working against a spring to push the fingers in and out, the cam pressing the fingers in and the spring pushing them out when released by the cam. It is possible to operate a movement of this type so fast that the spring does not have an opportunity to withdraw the fingers quickly enough, thereby causing creeping and losing of the loop. The Ernemann camera has a rod and crank movement with cam and spring for the in and out finger movement. There are many types of movement beside those mentioned, none of which, however, are enough in general use to justify discussion here. In purchasing a camera, therefore, make sure that the movement is some modification of the harmonic cam with a positive in and out movement of the claws, with a second choice on one of the better types of rod and crank movement; the DeBrie camera being a camera of the highest type of rod and crank movement. As nearly all parts of a camera movement shift backward and forward 16 times per second they are subjected to a great deal of wear. All of these parts subject to wear must, of course, be kept constantly but lightly lubricated, and should be provided with means for adjustment so that there is the least possible amount of play between bearing surfaces. The finger shuttle, that is a frame bearing the fingers, which moves up and down, is carried in some sort of guides which should be provided with adjustable gibs for taking up wear.

Shutter.—The shutter is the revolving blade which cuts off the light from the lens while the film is being moved downward for the next picture, or exposure. The circular revolving shutter is so universally used in motion picture cameras that it is almost unnecessary to take any other type into consideration in this article. The shutter should consist of two blades, one of which is set immovably with a minimum area for keeping the aperture closed during the downward movement of the film. Another blade should be provided which may be adjusted so as to decrease the opening in the shutter by revolving it past the fixed blade, so that the opening may be entirely closed if necessary. While it is preferable to use the maximum opening of the shutter in most instances, there are many times when it is desirable, for various reasons, to cut down the exposure by means of the shutter opening instead of a smaller diaphragm opening. A means for decreasing the shutter opening while the camera is in operation is called a shutter dissolve. By its employment are obtained such effects as fade-outs, fade-ins, dissolves, etc. There are two types of shutter dissolve, the automatic and the hand operated. In the automatic dissolve the pressure of a button on the camera throws a clutch into operation that closes the movable shutter blade gradually in a predetermined number of feet of film. With the hand operated dissolve the shutter may be closed gradually by hand in any length of film desired. Neither one of these features is provided generally by camera manufacturers, one of the few exceptions being the Bell & Howell camera, which has an automatic dissolve incorporated in the camera mechanism. So desirable is this form of dissolve that most professional cameramen have had them independently installed in their cameras by some mechanic who makes a specialty of cinematographic machinery. It is to be expected that most manufacturers will meet the demand for this device in their later models of cameras.

(To be continued.)

*Copyright, 1917, by the Chalmers Publishing Co.

Music for the Picture

Conducted by CLARENCE E SINN and NORMAN STUCKEY.

THE design of this department is to diffuse among musicians and exhibitors correct information on all important subjects pertaining to music for the film, to improve the quality of playing and to raise the standard of music in motion picture theaters.

Any questions concerning music; suitable instrumentation; questions relating to the organ and mechanical players; in fact, any queries, criticisms or suggestions dealing with the musical interpretation for moving pictures will be answered thorough this department.

Improvising. (Part II.)

By Clarence E. Sinn.

ARTICLE II.

THE grace note the turn and like embellishments may, with very slight modification, be changed to "passing notes," and the phrase resulting may suggest other variations. Note the groups of triple grace notes in Ex. 4.

Using this as a starting point the most likely thing to suggest itself would be the variant as shown in the top line of Ex. 5. (A.) Nothing very characteristic about it, neither is it particularly attractive, but by changing the tempo to ¾ we get a phrase which is a little better. (B.) This could be used in lively passages similar to Ex. 2, which was given in the previous letter. (Article I.)

Ex. 4

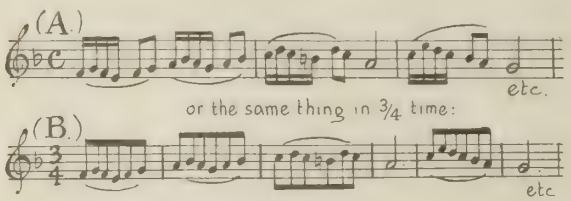
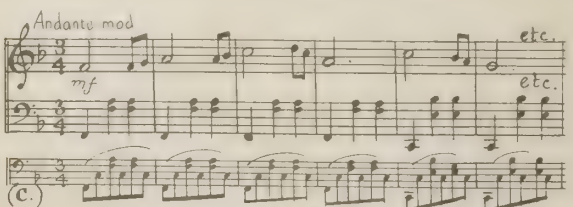
The examples given above are not to be considered as finished products



Ex. 5.

nor themes worked out to completion. They are given merely as illustrations of a mechanical means of making one theme suggest another. The new theme resulting may resemble the original closely or remotely, just as you wish. As a general rule, when using a theme to represent your pictured character, you want that theme to be recognized by your hearers whenever you play it. And if you ever do feel that variety demands a change—or at least a modification—and you do not care to let your descriptive theme be lost sight of (I should have said sound instead of sight, only I don't know how to ring in the word), you can satisfy yourself and the hearers by modifying and elaborating the theme.



Ex. 6.

If your invention is good, you need no hints as to how to use it. If you haven't had much experience along this line, you will find in these articles much help as to the modifying and elaborating melodies in a mechanical way.

The last article touched upon changing the tempo and reversing the keys from major to minor, etc. This bears upon the introduction of "passing notes."

Look again at the small notes in Ex. 4. You can see what relationship they bear to the original melody, and yet how they can suggest (when changed to passing notes) an entirely different theme.

By changing the two themes suggested in Ex. 4. (A. and B.) to minor keys (make the signature four flats) we carry the idea still further

Ex. 6 gives still another form of the original theme. This time we have simply lengthened the first notes of the group—making it a ¾ Andante mod. The character is much the same as that of the theme in its original form. (Ex. 1. Article I.)

A "running" accompaniment is also shown in an extra staff. (C.)

Tubular Organs.

By Clarence E. Sinn.

SOME time ago in describing an instrument in this department I quoted an organist as saying "a tubular organ is not a pipe organ." I was trying to get some information at the time regarding organ mechanics—something outside of the technical expressions of the factory. I am in receipt of two communications from Mr. F. F. Pitts, president of the "Pitts Pipe Organ Co," Omaha, Neb. Mr. Pitts has partly promised to write an article for this department concerning pipe-organs and I am sure he could give us something of interest. Indeed, I should like to use the two letters I now have from him, but he asks me to defer quoting him at present. I'll confess here and now that I am using this means to try and pry a letter out of him. However, I cannot refrain from using a couple of passages from his letters—and I hope he will forgive me for it. He says in one place:

> "In your article you convey the impression that a tubular organ is not a pipe-organ. Such ignorance stamps the writer as incompetent to deal with the subject intelligently and comprehensively."

In another place he says:

> "Please let me make this plain, that a Tubular Organ has no reference to the pipes whatsoever, but is only applicable to the mechanism. It denotes the method employed in the operation of the mechanical parts of the instrument."

Here follows a short but interesting description of organ mechanism which I will not print at present—not until I see whether Brother Pitts is going to come across with an article.

As to the term "tubular organ," I have heard it used on a few occasions to differentiate instruments containing pipes of a certain kind from other instruments containing only another kind of organ pipes. Now the organist quoted in the previous article certainly used the expression in this sense—a wrong sense it seems. I am not an organ builder and in seeking details about these instruments I gather information where I can, and take every precaution I can think of to verify it before sending it to the printer. Now the combination instruments which have entered the field are a comparatively new thing. By reason of their makers' direct appeal to moving picture exhibitors, these machines have a news value to me. I believe their inventors and builders are trying honestly and conscientiously to fill what they believe to be a want. And judging from the growth of their business one would be justified in presuming the exhibitors were of the same opinion. Now anything about these instruments will interest a certain number of Moving Picture World readers, and so when a manufacturer sends me word that he has something new I go and take a look at it. If it looks good I will say so. I can only vouch (personal knowledge) from what I see and hear and understand. As much of the description is usually technical, I sometimes try to simplify it and submit it to the demonstrator before using it in a letter. Sometimes I get some good tips from instrumentalists working in the theaters. But one must allow for two things, namely: The attitude of the maker or of the demonstrator who are so wrapped up in their project as to be over-enthusiastic quite often. Second: The attitude of the average organist, who is often bitterly prejudiced against innovations.

And this brings me back to my starting point. When I quoted the party as saying "a tubular organ is not a pipe-organ," he did not refer to the action but to the kind of pipes used. That was the impression I tried to convey and I know some of my readers understood it in that way, for at least one of them thinks I favored one "tone-quality" of organ pipes above the tone quality of another. On re-reading my article (Dec. 16) I can see how it might be made to read that way, but I shouldn't have let it. The tone-quality of one kind of pipes is different from that of another. Both wood and metal pipes (including "reed pipes") are used in the large and pretentious church organs. It would be absurd to say the tone quality of one was better than that of another. But they are vastly different. The instrument I saw at the "Harmo-Electric" factory was as I described it. Some of my information was the result of my own observations, some of it (necessarily) given by the superintendent and demonstrator; and all verified insofar as I was able to do so.

As to relative merits of any of the combination instuments, I would not presume to discuss the matter even if I had an opinion. It is largely a matter of personal opinion, and not a proper subject of this department.

I understand the "Harmo" people will fit their instruments with any or all kinds of organ pipes, to suit the buyers' pleasure or fancy.

I believe Seeburg and some others are prepared to do the same thing. I expect to visit his factory (Seeburg's) soon and see what they have. They told me last summer they would have something new to talk about pretty soon, but I haven't heard from them since.

Musical Score of Joan the Woman.

Reviewed by Norman Stuckey.

FOR the Lasky production, "Joan, the Woman," featuring Geraldine Farrar, now playing at the Forty-fourth Street Theater, William Furst has composed a musical setting that now stands as the most noteworthy film score ever heard in New York theaters.

Mr. Furst was formerly musical director for David Belasco and the late Charles Frohman. His musical setting of "Kismet" and other productions attracted wide attention.

This is not the first time that Mr. Furst has composed a music score for a big "Joan of Arc" production as it was he who composed the music for the Joan of Arc pageant in the Harvard Stadium in 1907, when Charles Frohman there presented Maude Adams as the immortal Maid or Orleans.

When Miss Farrar was at the Lasky studios in Hollywood, california, last summer, appearing as Joan of Arc before the camera, Mr. Furst at the same time was working on the music score for the production. This association between the composer, star and producer, Cecil B. De Mille, established a new kind of relationship so far as the musical setting of pictures is concerned.

An incident of interest in this connection is that when Mr. De Mille came to New York and first showed "Joan, the Woman," privately to friends, he remarked when they congratulated him—"I am glad you are delighted, but wait until you see it at the same time you hear Mr. Furst's score." It was a word of prophecy more than realized at the public exhibition.

The history of "Joan" is known by nearly everybody and the screen version, written by Jeanie MacPherson follows history in its essentials. "Joan, the Woman" traces the story of the peasant girl in the little village of Domremy to her final martydrom by burning. We see the brooding of Joan, the coming of the spiritual call to deliver her country, her appearance at the shabby make-shift court of the weakling, Charles VII., her electrical appeal to her courtiers and the march of the newly created army, led by the girl in white armor, upon the British forces laying siege to the city of Orleans. The story moves swiftly from the crowning of Charles VII, at Rheims to the ultimate capture of Joan, her cruel persecution by the Bishop Pierre Cauchon and her death as a heretic, neglected by the king who owed his throne to the girl.

The story itself offers wonderful opportunities for a composer, and Mr. Furst has taken cognizance of these and the result is an exceptionally beautiful score, resonant in tone, finely balanced, and by turns delicate and powerful.

From a musical standpoint, the score itself is distinctive. It is exceedingly well orchestrated and this means much, especially where a great variety of tone painting is necessary to faithfully portray the many highly dramatic scenes.

The orchestra comprises forty capable musicians, an important point overlooked in many productions of such magnitude and quite necessary where much solo work is required, and there is plenty in Mr. Furst's score.

There is an orchestral prelude lasting about four minutes, with brass introduction, followed by a short Oboe solo. The prelude ends and the curtain is raised during the sounding of deep-toned chimes which are on the stage. There is no music during the showing of the descriptive titles.

Two themes are quite prominent throughout the entire score—the love theme—a beautiful andante movement, played during the love scenes between Joan and Eric Trent, and a misterioso whenever L'Oiseleur, a fanatical monk, appears.

The love theme is made highly effective as a cello solo, accompanied by harp and later with strings and harp.

Muted brass is used with excellent effect in many of the big scenes, but Mr. Furst does not hesitate to use the entire brass section in scenes of any magnitude. Particularly noticeable in the brass section is a Tuba, which is used effectively.

As the story concerns Englishmen fighting in France, Mr. Furst has cleverly arranged the Marseillaise, which he introduces in many scenes. He also uses the English song, Rule Britannia. Combining Rule Britannia with the Marseillaise in different parts of the picture, a novel and appropriate effect is secured.

When the Burgundians, led by Eric Trent, attacked the little French village of Domremy, there is a splendid and colorful agitato. This is followed by another agitato of entirely different tempo, when the soldiers put the peasants to rout and ransack the village.

When Eric discovers Joan, the love theme is heard for the first time, interrupted by a highly dramatic movement when Gaspard wounds Eric. The love theme is heard again when Joan sympathizes with Eric and continues quite softly until they part.

Later Joan seeks an interview with Charles VII. The guards laugh at Joan, and when Joan snatches a dagger from a nearby soldier's sheath and breaks the sword of the soldier who doubts her faith, there is a sudden crash and a brief pause in the music.

The scene changes to the court, where music of lively character is introduced. Charles VII is finally persuaded to see Joan. A beautiful andante is played, and during Joan's interview with Charles VII, the music blends perfectly with the varied action, reaching a grandioso climax when Joan assures Charles VII and his subjects that she will save France.

The scene suddenly changes. The English soldiers approach the city walls. Rule Britannia, arranged as a brilliant march, is used effectively.

Arrayed for battle, Joan enters the hall, announced by the fanfare of trumpets. Mr. Furst introduces a short hymn here as Charles VII blesses Joan, who is about to lead the soldiers of France into battle. A long drum roll calls the soldiers to the colors.

During a stirring march, the troops, led by Joan, depart for the city of Orleans. The music increases in tempo as Joan enters the city, and during the battle scenes, dramatic agitatos are used. This battle music is very descriptive, with its orchestral masses of tone and its wonderful harmonic colors.

Later, Joan is wounded, and when discovered by Eric Trent, the love theme is heard again, and it reaches a beautiful climax when Eric surrenders to the victorious Joan.

In the opening of Part II, Joan returns victorious. For this scene Mr. Furst has composed a splendid triumphal march. When Eric is brought before Joan and sentenced to imprisonment, the love theme is again made quite prominent.

Mr. Furst has composed a colorful coronation march for the scene when Charles VII is crowned. A short religioso movement is heard as the priest crowns Charles VII, and strains of the Marseillaise are again introduced.

Later, a peasant calls and begs Joan to return to her parents. Joan refuses and a pathetic andante makes this scene one of sadness.

In the chapel, Eric is brought before Joan and given his freedom. Eric confesses his love for Joan. The love theme is heard again when Joan tells Eric that her love is for France alone, and for him to go his way and forget her.

During the scene when L'Oiseleur, the fanatical monk, tells Charles VII that Joan is a witch, Mr. Furst introduces a minor theme, which is heard throughout the score whenever the monk appears.

Later, Eric returns to the English camp. He is ordered to capture Joan, which he does, much against his wishes, and when Joan learns that Eric is responsible for her capture, a beautiful and dramatic andante movement is introduced which is totally untrammelled in matter of expression.

When Joan is being ransomed, the music reaches a superb dramatic climax. Joan is led to trial for witchcraft, and a slow, minor march creates a scene of sadness and despair.

Eric tries to rescue Joan, and Mr. Furst, never at loss for a fitting dramatic movement, introduces another effective agitato in this scene.

There is lively music during the King's festival, followed by characteristic numbers while the girls are dancing.

The scene changes. Joan, in prison, has not lost faith, and Mr. Furst has composed some beautiful, religious music, powerful in harmonic treatment and rich in tonal beauty.

Music of sad and minor character is introduced when Joan is led to the stake, and when Eric approaches and hands Joan a small wooden cross, the love theme, with heart-breaking pathos, is heard again.

Mr. Furst has secured a wonderful orchestral effect during the fire scene, and aside from being entirely original in treatment, it is exceptionally descriptive and fine.

The picture ends with the Marseillaise, full brass. There is a brief pause and then three sustained chords.

The score of "Joan, the Woman" is a profoundly beautiful one, noble in conception, and wrought out in an infinity of subtle detail of nuance, dynamic contrast and orchestral color.

Mr. Furst can well be proud of his score, and all interested in the musical interpretation of moving pictures should not fail to see "Joan, the Woman," and hear Mr. William Furst's symphonic masterpiece.

New Popular Numbers.

One-Steps—"How's Every Thing in Dixie?" "I Want to Be Good, But My Eyes Won't Let Me" (Remick); "Put On Your Slippers and Fill Up Your Pipe," "Have to Pass the Apples" (Broadway Music Co.); "Two things to Do On a Rainy Night" (Shapiro-Bernstein); "Sweet Babetta," "Honest Injun" (Harry Von Tilzer); "Pink Pajamas" (Waterson, Berlin & Snyder); "Back to California" (Witmark); "Smile, Smile, Smile" (Chappell).

Fox Trots—"They've Got Me Doin' It, Too," "Buzzin' the Bee," "Yaddi Kaddi Koo," "Dance and Grow Thin" (Waterson, Berlin & Snyder); "Whose Pretty Baby Are You Now?" "Pozzo" (Remick); "Just the Kind of Girl" (Harry Von Tilzer); "Made to Order for Me," "Pray for the Lights to Go Out" (Stern); "Whole World Comes From Dixie" (Shapiro-Bernstein); "Teasing the Cat" (Forster); "Her Soldier Boy," "You're in Love," "Girl From Brazil" (Schirmer); "Havanola" (Ricordi); "Turn to the Right," "Mississippi" (Jerome); "Hicki Boola Boo" (Broadway Music Co.).

Waltzes—"Flora Bella," "I've Loved Only Once" (Feist); "Come Back, Sweet Dreams," "Bring Your Kisses to Me," "The Kiss Waltz" (Schirmer); "Erin Is Calling" (Jerome); "Fanny's First Waltz" (Ricordi); "Missouri Waltz" (Forster); "Since You Have Told Me You Love Me" (Waterson, Berling & Snyder).

New Russian Piano Music.

Four new Russian piano numbers, which should find a place in every pianist's library, are the following, from the house of Oliver Ditson Company, Boston: Glazounoff—"Valse in D major," Grodski—"Valse Capricieuse," Barmotine—"Berceuse," and "Orientale," by Armani.

Send Us Your Programs.

Musicians are requested to send us their musical programs used for feature pictures, and those of merit will be published in these columns.

Motion Picture Educator

Conducted by REV. W. H. JACKSON and MARGARET I. MACDONALD

Interesting Educationals

Six Travel Subjects, Two Scientific, One Industrial, One Zoological, Two Topical and One Military Subject.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

"Winter Sports in America" (Paramount).

IN NO. 52 of the Paramount Pictographs will be found some delightful "snow stuff." These scenes have been taken in the neighborhood of Lake Placid, and encompass tobogaining, bob sleding, skating, hockey and curling. The photographic quality of these pictures is exceptionally good, and the comedy element which often pervades sporting scenes is emphasized.

"Bordeaux to Pauillac" (Gaumont-Mutual).

"Mutual Tours Around the World, No. 12," also presents views along the Gironde River on the west bank of which is situated the town of Bordeaux. It shows the Bordeaux bridge which divides the port into two parts, one side of which is used for small craft and the other for large vessels. Among the items of interest about Bordeaux which are presented is the Monument des Girondins erected in early days by a political party of that name. A trip down the river brings us to Pauillac, famous for its wines, where we are shown its quays, a promenade of the city, and other points of interest.

"In the Shadow of the North Pole" (Paramount).

A short subject appearing also in No. 52 of the Paramount Pictographs presents several interesting scenes photographed by Christian Leden during the Alaskan winter season. In it we see the Eskimo putting the finishing touches to the exterior of his winter home. Some scenes on the open sea are shown with whales floating about in abundance, also scenes exemplifying the skill of the Eskimo in his skin boat or "kiyak."

"Historic Virginia" (Gaumont-Mutual).

See America First, No. 71," contains a number of scenes of historic interest in old Virginia. The opening of the reel is devoted to Williamsburg and vicinity. Views are shown of the old Powder Horn, the Brunton Parish House, erected in 1710, the Court House, the William and Mary College, erected in 1693, and the first Custom House. At Hampton we are shown among other scenes St. John's Church, erected in 1628, the river which served as a picket line between the Union and Confederate armies during the Civil War, and Hampton Roads where the battle between the Merrimac and the Monitor was fought. Some views of Old Point Comfort are also included. The town of Norfolk is given considerable attention in this reel showing the old St. Paul's Church, erected in 1739, a panoramic view of the town, and two residential sections, the Hague and Ghent, also the light houses at Cape Henry. The reel finishes with an animated cartoon entitled "Absent Minded Willie."

"The Monastery of St. Thessalonica" (Gaumont-Mutual).

Interesting scenes at this monastery which lies just outside Salonika, and which give a good idea of monastery life in that part of Greece which has recently been redeemed from Turkish rule, are shown in "Mutual Tours Around the World, No. 12." The dilapidated appearance of buildings, etc., and the general aspect of stagnation is a sad and sorry sight to the eye of the progressive modern mind. We learn at the same time that much of the revenue of this monastery is derived from the breeding of pigs and the cultivation of olives.

"Gorges of the Nive" (Gaumont-Mutual).

Some attractive views on the Nive river as it pushes its way through the French Pyrenees are shown in "Mutual Tours Around the World, No. 12." This subject is short, but what there is of it is strictly interesting. As well as views of the gorges of the river there are presented picturesque scenes showing the mountaineers, women and men working side by side; also sheep grazing on the hillsides.

"The King of the Rails."

In this number the manufacture and evolution of the modern electric locomotive is shown. Starting with the savage walking in the forest it follows up the various modes of transportation from the wheelbarrow to the first locomotive, and the final and evolution to the electric locomotive. The main portion of the film is taken up with illustration of the manufacture of an electric locomotive, showing the making of the wheels, the placing of the wheels on the trucks, the manufacture of the cab, the assembling of the completed engine, the winding of the armatures, and the placing of them in the motors, each of which develop 430 h. p., and the cutting of steel plates by means of acetylene flame. A comprehensive illustration is also given of how the electric current passes into the engine, overhead wires and pantagraph trolley being used, and of how the current passes through the engine to the motor, ending with a view from underneath the moving engine showing how the power is transmitted to the wheels. The closing views show a completed locomotive in actual operation on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, of which about 400 miles is electrified, drawing attention to the ease of its operation on a mountain grade. Views are also shown of Rainbow Falls and Grand Falls, Montana, from which the electric power is derived.

"Discovery of the Shot Tower" (Paramount).

The origin of the present method of manufacturing shot is given a brief illustration in the Paramount "Pictograph, No. 52." We are shown how, by an accidental spilling of molten lead into a pail of cold water it was found that the lead in the sudden cooling process separated itself into small granules. This illustration could have been made much more effective by additional scenes revealing the practical methods now in vogue founded on this principle.

"Raising Silver Fox" (Universal).

An industry which has recently come into existence, and which has been shown to be extremely profitable is the rearing of silver foxes for the fur market. An instructive treatise on this industry will be found in the "Universal Screen Magazine, No. 7," showing scenes on a silver fox farm, the feeding, etc., of the foxes, the measures resorted to to prevent their escape, and other details leading to the final convertion of Mr. Fox's skin into a neckpiece for milady.

"Sea Lions" (Ditmar).

An attractive subject in which the habits of the sea lion are illustrated. An interesting closeup of unusual interest refers to an evolution which has produced huge flappers in place of feet, and which facilitate its movements through the water. The diving and swimming of these animals is nicely illustrated, and also the dexterous manner in which they catch fish which is thrown at them from a distance of as much as twenty feet. Attention is also called to the fact that fish is their only food.

"What We Eat" (Universal).

No. 7 of the Universal Screen Magazine shows instructive views of the inspection of meat, grapes and oranges by the New York Board of Health. The main details covered are the inspecting of fit and unfit carcasses, the destroying of diseased meat by pouring over it a powerful acid to prevent its sale to the consumer. We learn also that moisture on a barrel of grapes indicates that its contents are bad. In the examination of oranges we find that so careful is the watch kept by the Board of Health on the foods that enter the market that the discovery of a single crate of decayed oranges results in the inspection of an entire cargo.

"Bending the Human Twig" (Paramount).

This subject also contained in "Paramount Pictograph, No. 52," gives an insight into the work of vocational schools.

It is interesting to see boys at work learning to run a steam engine, delving into the mysteries of cabinet making and printing; and to some of us it is astonishing to see young boys designing women's garments, deftly draping materials on forms. Added to these are scores of what the subtitle terms "youthful Edisons" busily engaged with the wonders of electricity. A glimpse into the millinery department of a girl's vocational school is also shown.

"Afloat and Ashore" (Mutual).

The fourth number of "Uncle Sam's Defenders" gives scenes on board the battleship "Texas," showing the bringing aboard of provisions, the washing of the decks, the gun loading drills, target practice, rowing contests, and swimming in tropical waters. Other scenes show the sailors employed with domestic duties such as sewing. There are also religious exercises, boxing matches, etc., shown.

"Germany and Its Armies of Today"

Films that Vizualize Conditions in the Germany that Lies Behind the Trenches.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

CONSIDERABLE educational value is attached to the series of German official films released under the general title, "Germany and Its Armies of To-day," which are reviewed in another column. In these pictures are seen an indication that Germany believes that the chief historian of the future will be the motion picture. For these pictures are history—a history of internal conditions in Germany. They do not show war scenes, but are an interesting visual exposition on the Germany that lies back of the trenches. Although they at times show a tendency toward propaganda the films show what is going on in a country upon which a food blockade has been placed, and a country in which those not fighting have been compelled by circumstances to take the places of able-bodied men.

The human-interest element pervades the pictures. The woman's burden—her physical burden—is touched upon at considerable length. Buxom women have replaced men who dropped their ditch-shovels for rifles; women have replaced male letter carriers, conductors, signal men, and in many other ways are carrying on the work of men. We see all this on the screen, and, censored as they are, the films are the most informative intelligence regarding Germany that has reached this country for public consumption since the beginning of the war.

THE LITERARY DIGEST OF THE SCREEN.

The Topical pictures at the Rialto recently have more than sustained the reputation of the picture news purveyor. The New-Year customs are taking on a large proportion as judged by the "Mummer" procession in Philadelphia, with great street parades, with floats typical of all kinds of fun, and costumes both humorous and grotesque, causing the wearers to display the most absurd antics to please the crowds; doubtless by means of the screen these ideas will spread to other parts of the country. Winter sports in different parts of the country vary with the nature of the weather of which America is able to boast the two extremes, with a winter and a summer in vogue at the same time in different parts of the country. Where the winter weather prevails skating is the attraction of the crowds, with occasionally some professional giving exhibitions of fancy skating. Pictures of Ice-boat racing are attractive, the speed of sixty miles an hour seems none too fast under the circumstances, although a sudden stop or a spill is no small matter to the unfortunate racer.

A giant snow-plough on the railway cutting its way through thirty inches of snow is an evidence of a mighty power against a mighty foe, the great whirling mass of snow making a most picturesque wheel; a combination of beauty and power with progress.

The new great floating dry-dock five hundred feet long and eighty-five feet wide, will be to many an evidence of most modern conveniences which the Government is building to keep the Navy up to the times, the launching of this monster so successfully was an inspiring sight; surely all such pictures as these are of great help to school children and should be widely shown and seen.

The recent munitions explosions in New Jersey gave occasion for a most unusual set of pictures; fire pictures are exceedingly common, but such fire pictures as these may seldom occur. Of greatest interest, and one that does much credit to the camera man is a glowing picture of a burning building in which the shells and shrapnel are in active explosion, no picture of pyrotechnics ever had such realism as is seen here, and, while elsewhere pictures of the debris and after effects of the fire may be shown, here is seen the actual combined fire and explosion. Freak shots are given special attention, showing how many stray shots had, while fortunately doing no damage, landed in strange places, as the frame of a house window, the side of a railroad car, in the railroad bed, severing a rail and thus stopping traffic; fortunately this "freakishness" was the extent of the damage done directly by the shots, the greater damage being done by the fire and the effects of the explosion shocks. W. H. J.

GERMAN WAR PICTURES THIRD SERIES.

At the Strand theater the chief attraction for the Topical student is found in the third of the series of German War Pictures. Again these are on the Eastern front, and show General Mackensen following up his Roumanian campaign. The scene is that of the famous bridge, Chernavoda, connecting Bucharest, the Roumanian capital, with Constanza on the Black Sea. This bridge, some fifteen miles in length, is very picturesque, being at once both light and substantial in appearance; it spans a swampy ground of about fourteen miles in width, and was partly blown up by the Roumanians to block the pathway of the Teutonic invaders; activities as in progress at the bridge-head are seen.

The weakness of the Roumanian army is immediately seen, when after reading the sub-title that a Roumanian ammunition train is to follow, and one naturally expects a railroad train as in France or Germany only to be disappointed by a long line of slow plodding Ox teams, one therefore immediately discovers that as an Ox team is to a railroad train, so is the Roumanian equipment to that of their German conquerors. Many of these Ox teams are in evidence as they are in use, taking the terror stricken inhabitants to supposed places of safety. The scenery of Roumania, while attractive; suggests a very primitive land, with the inhabitants of an equally primitive appearance. These pictures have undoubtedly a great drawing power, as the house is always crowded. Topical pictures of the nature described above are as usual in fine order. A digression is made with some "Picture Oddities," these are selections of humorous conditions grouped together affording an opportunity to see them in their striking manners, even as a little while ago a number of picture thrills were grouped in the same way. "The White Raven" is the feature on this program, with Miss Barrymore as the star attraction. With such an actress this is an unusual picture; as it is reviewed elsewhere mention is made of it here because of its exceptional features which all should see. W. H. J.

REORGANIZING CHILDREN'S MATINEES.

There appeared in an issue of this magazine several months ago a detailed reference to the work of Mrs. Elisabeth Richey Dessez and Mrs. Philip Speed in establishing a system of children's moving picture entertainments in New York City. At the entre of the hot summer season, and the unfortunate development of Infantile Paralysis these performances were discontinued, and it is only recently that the work has been resumed. Mrs. Dessez has since that time been employed by the Educational Films Corporation of America in the organization of their juvenile department, and has also busied herself with the reorganization of the children's matinee idea in New York. In this work she is being assisted by various women's clubs throughout the city, who have offered to send committees from among their members to the theaters which are holding the matinees to act in the capacity of chaperons. Among these clubs are the Woman's Municipal League, the Harlem Council of Women, the Parents' Association of the Horace Mann School, the New York Mothers' Club and the William Lloyd Garrison Equal Rights Association.

The first of these matinees was held on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 20, at the Palace theater, 176th street and St. Nicholas avenue, and the University theater, Fordham Road, near Jerome avenue, from two to six. The report from the University theater states that 450 children attended the performance and were delighted with their entertainment. The program consisted of a Triangle feature, "Let Katy Do It," a part of the Educational Film Corporation of America's "American Game Trails," a number of the Gaumont "See America First" series, and a comedy number.

At the Palace theater the program consisted of one Paramount-Holmes travelogue, a comedy, a Pathe educational and animated cartoon, with "Snow White" as the feature. The attendance at the Palace is reported also as being well attended, and the managers of both theaters have declared themselves willing to continue the children's Saturday matinees as long as they prove satisfactory.

MAKING THE PUBLIC ACQUAINTED WITH THE SCHOOLS.

The latest educational use of the moving picture is that whereby the public is made acquainted with the educational methods used in the schools of the community. It is a fact that many people are not aware of the great advances made along educational lines in these days, many suppose that the school of their own day is the school of to-day; this lack of knowledge leads to much ignorant criticism and the fault finding with supposed "Fads."

The Educational Board of Minneapolis has had prepared a series of pictures whereby they hope to make the public acquainted with the educational methods used in teaching the young of that city. A specially written scenario has been secured with the outline somewhat as follows:

An irate taxpayer is depicted as attending a meeting of the board to protest against the spending of more money for new school building purposes; the pictures show the complaining man as being escorted by the superintendent through the schoolrooms, where every possible enlightenment is shown to him.

The buildings are first explained with their narrow stairways, the lack of fire escapes, the crowded class rooms, the lack of playgrounds and the necessary hygenic conveniences. By contrast a modern school building is then seen with large well lighted and ventilated rooms, very wide stairways with children marching out in fire drill, six abreast, in ease, comfort and safety. Playgrounds with health promoting exercises, kindergartens and general drills which inculcate self control, poise and deportment.

Auditorium work is pictured with singing lessons and large chorus teaching and orchestral accompaniments by the now well trained scholars; moving picture exhibitions are also shown as a means of lecture courses according to the advanced methods now used in all large school auditoriums.

Manual Training. Mr. Taxpayer is taken through these departments where boys are taught the beginning of trades and the girls the fundamental principles of housework and housekeeping. A model store is also seen in full working order, cashiers, buyers and sellers, which is really a thorough course in arithmetic, bookkeeping, etc. Our Country—Under this heading, geography is taught with history and scenic travel, making this branch of study especially attractive. The school doctor and nurses are seen at work examining the children, giving them instruction in those first aids and precautions so helpful at the juvenile age.

For the boy that hates school there is the guiding hand of the truant officer seeking vocational adaptation which finally secures for the boy just that groove in which he will best willingly fit. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Jack is therefore seen swimming, playing football, basketball, and at track running. "The Community Evening School" and general evening entertainments for the purpose of proving the adaptability of school-buildings for community purposes, is made a feature of importance. Americanism is emphasized in national feature as are also the customs of other countries making loyalty and good citizenship a supreme thing. Social ideals are worked out for communal purposes; even at times, well organized and chaperoned dances are made a part of the program; the sum total of the whole moving picture propaganda being "Make your city more prosperous by making your schools better." As a result of this journey Mr. Taxpayer is convinced and comes to the conclusion that no amount of money so spent is wasted, but rather invested, no longer a "Knocker," he becomes a "Booster," and goes away not only to vote for the new school building, but also to work for it. This is a splendid means of revealing the education of the times, but also the value of the new school with its splendid possibilities when the moving picture is part of its most necessary outfit.

W. H. J.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

A film showing the making of a dynamo was recently made by the Amazon Film Co., of Chicago. It also illustrates the working of a unit electric light and power plant used for farms and other isolated places. The film will be shown at theaters in the smaller towns, at farmers' granges and institutes, and in other ways which will bring it to the notice of the rural public.

* * *

"Manufacturing and Circulating a Magazine" is the title of a film that has been engrossing the attention of the Louisville, Ky., High School students. Through the efforts of the Louisville Ben Franklin Club, an organization of master printers and paper dealers, this film has been shown on several occasions in the Louisville Boys High School and in the Louisville Girls High School. The pictures are accompanied by a lecture by Charles S. Crossman.

* * *

An interesting bit of news for those interested in things culinary concerns the employment of Mrs. A. Louis Andrea by the Universal Film Manufacturing Company for the demonstration of the proper preparation of foods, including pastry and candy, in the Universal Screen Magazine which is now a weekly release. Mrs. Andreas was awarded the Gold Medal at the culinary contest held at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The first subject in which she appeared was "Make Your Own Candy."

Leon Schlesinger With Radium

LEON SCHLESINGER, widely known in the moving picture industry as well as in the general amusement field, has just assumed the general management of Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc., at No. 220 West Forty-second street, New York City, succeeding Jacob L. Kempner, who is now directing the destinies of Signet Films.

Mr. Schlesinger was born in Philadelphia, Pa., and his early experience in the show business was with Charles E. Blaney, the "Melodrama King," for whom he first ushered in the Blaney theaters, sold song books on the road, played parts in Blaney productions, and finally managed Mr. Blaney's Arch Street theater in the Quaker City. Later Mr. Schlesinger was with Klaw & Erlanger's Colonial theater in Chicago, then under the management of George W. Lederer. Throughout Canada, from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast, Mr. Schlesinger was later employed by the Allen Brothers, who made a business of reviving business at motion picture theaters which were showing signs of "going back," and it was the exhibiting experience which he gained in this manner that brought about his selection by the Mark Brock enterprises to manage their Strand Theater in Toronto, a house of such high standing that it is called the "Strand of Canada."

Leon Schlesinger.

To his new duties as general manager of the big Radium Gold Fibre screen business Mr. Schlesinger was brought from Bay City, Mich., where he had been managing the Bijou theater, one of the prosperous vaudeville theaters on the Butterfield Circuit.

In the few weeks during which he has been connected with the Radium company Mr. Schlesinger has injected a great deal of life into the concern's sales campaign and may be said to be "cashing in" handsomely on the wide experience in the show business which he has acquired by association with things theatrical ever since he was a mere boy. Gus Schlesinger, of the Inter-Ocean Film Corp., is a brother of the new Radium manager, and four other Schlesinger boys besides the two already mentioned have been actively engaged in the show business for years.

THOMAS JEFFERSON RETURNS TO FINE ARTS.

Thomas Jefferson, formerly a member of the Triangle-Fine Arts playing force, has returned to the studio after an absence of more than a year. Jefferson is a character actor of distinction and the son of the late Joseph Jefferson, the celebrated interpreter of the part of Rip Van Winkle and one of America's greatest actors.

MABEL TALIAFERRO GOES TO HUNT SCENARIOS.

Mabel Taliaferro, Metro star, has gone to northern New York to "hunt game." In other words, to read many scenarios, in the hope of finding one that will be suitable for her next Metro screen production.

Australian Notes

THE exhibiting end of the picture business throughout Australia is seriously dislocated by the strike of the coal miners, and the consequent shortage of coal. Matters are most acute in Sydney, where all power has been cut off from the theaters since Tuesday last. The proprietors were given only two days' warning, and in that time many installed private plants. Others, however, did not do so, and were obliged to close. Even the shows that are open have a very "dead" appearance, not having any exterior lighting.

In Melbourne the Council has enough coal to produce electricity for another week, and picture showmen have been given till December 2 to install private oil or motor plants. The attendances have been much affected all over the country, as fewer trains and tram-cars are running.

* * *

Owing to the increased Income and War Profits Taxes, John F. Gavin is seriously considering producing his big feature picture, "The Birth of Australia," in California. Mr. Gavin says that under the present state of affairs he can only clear eight per cent. profit on his total outlay.

Unless some arrangement can be made with the Government Mr. Gavin intends to take a trip to America early in the new year to study conditions there.

* * *

Mr. Fuller, the new Chief Secretary for New South Wales, has taken in hand the problem of film censorship, and will submit the question for Cabinet determination at an early date. It was several months ago that a large deputation representing the religious organizations waited upon Mr. Black, who was then Chief Secretary, to urge a more rigid censorship of moving pictures. Mr. Black took the matter to Cabinet, and a sub-committee was appointed to investigate and report. The Ministers forming this sub-committee have now disappeared, as a result of the Conscription Referendum and the rearrangement of the portfolios, but they have left a report embodying suggestions for dealing with the subject. Mr. Fuller will seek authority of his colleagues to give effect to the most valuable suggestions of the Cabinet committee.

* * *

"Where Are My Children?" has had the phenomenal run of a month in Sydney, during which time nearly 100,000 people have seen the picture. It is now having a very successful suburban season, and will be presented in the various state capitals very shortly.

* * *

Harry Julius, who has been contributing topical cartoons to the Australian Gazette for the past year, is leaving for the United States shortly to obtain a similar position there. Mr. Julius is one of the foremost cartoonists in this country, and has drawn for every publication of note.

* * *

"The Life of Adam Lindsay Gordon," a five-part feature, made in Melbourne, was released in Sydney two weeks ago. It is a very good picture for an Australian production, and is of great value from an educational point of view.

"The Bondage of the Bush," produced four years ago by Charles Woods, was reissued this month. When first released this picture was considered a masterpiece and, although it cannot be considered such now, is of fair dramatic interest.

The series of educational and interest subjects made by Alfred Rolfe for Australasian Films, Ltd., are now being released. These are the best films of their kind yet made here; they will be shown in America in due course.

* * *

A late arrival from the U. S. A. was Lloyd D. Willis, assistant general manager of the Fox Film Corporation, who is here to superintend the presentation of the Kellermann feature, "The Daughter of the Gods," in addition to making a general survey of conditions. The big picture is expected to have its premiere in Sydney during Christmas week, probably at the Theater Royal.

* * *

The death in London of T. J. West, after an operation for appendicitis, caused much regret in the picture trade throughout Australasia.

The late Mr. West may be well described as a pioneer of the moving picture business in this part of the world. He arrived in Dunedin, New Zealand, about twelve years ago, with a combination called "The Brescians." After touring New Zealand for twelve months, where a phenomenal success was achieved, he came across to Australia. In those days "pictures" were not altogether a great proposition, but Mr. West's faith was strong, so he opened a show at the Lyceum, Sydney, and later at the Glaciarum also. At this stage big halls were built throughout Australia, and after retiring from the business about six years ago, left for London.

Mr. West in private life was a very reliable, unassuming and refined man, gifted with considerable charm of manner. He revisited Sydney two years ago to meet old friends, and at a luncheon given in his honor described, with unaffected emotion, the romance which had crowned the later years of a hard-working life.

* * *

Mr. Findlayson, speaking in the House of Representatives this week, declared his abhorrence of the modern picture theater as typified by the American drama. "American drama," he said, "with its runaway marriages and obvious fakes, is to me simply repulsive." He thought the pictures, which were now being largely shown, had such an effect on the young mind as to be responsible for many of the departures from moral rectitude which were almost daily reported in the newspapers. He hoped the government would take the question up with the object of purifying the picture theaters.

THOS. S. IMRIE.

Sydney, N. S. W., Australia, November 28, 1916.

NEW LIGHTING SYSTEM FOR METRO STUDIO.

At a cost of more than $50,000, one of the most elaborate and expensive lighting systems in the East has been completed in the Metro-Rolfe-Columbia studios, 3 West Sixty-first street. The interior scenes of the screen adaptation of Edward Sheldon's play, "Egypt," were the first made under the new lights and the photography obtained with them is said to be of the highest grade.

The installation was made under the supervision of Chief Electrician Frank Detering of the Metro-Rolfe-Columbia studios. The overhead system is so arranged that each unit is in an indicated automatic contact.

There are twenty-five overhead "banks" of Cooper-Hewitt lights of 3,000 watts each. Each of these banks weighs 400 pounds. They are on five tracks and on each track are eleven contact spaces. These contacts are indicated by white paint. By shifting the light a few inches either way, light is obtained for the deepest sets used in the studio.

BUCK LEAVES WHARTON, INC.

J. Whitworth Buck, for the past two years general manager, secretary and treasurer of Wharton, Inc., and associated with the Wharton moving picture interests of this city since the firm began operations here several years ago, has disposed of his stock in the concern to Leo D. and Theodore W. Wharton. Mr. and Mrs. Buck will leave Ithaca this week for New York City, where Mr. Buck will engage in business.

The annual meeting of Wharton, Inc., was held in Ithaca, N. Y., Monday, Jan. 15, at which time the transaction transferring Mr. Buck's interests to the Wharton brothers was consummated. Leo D. and Theodore W. Wharton will henceforth conduct the business alone.

Mr. Buck said that he was as yet unable to make any definite announcement regarding his future plans, save that he would locate in New York City, and has several business propositions under consideration at the present time.

PATHE MANAGER GIVEN A SURPRISE.

Manager Abeles, of Pathe's New York booking office, and his assistant, Mr. Hammel, were tendered a surprise party by the employees of that office the other day. Seats had been secured at the Palace theater, and after the show the party adjourned to a well known restaurant where an excellent supper was enjoyed. At the supper table Mr. Abeles was presented with a gold pen knife inscribed with the emblems of the Elks and Masons, of which organizations he is a member. Mr. Hammel was given a handsome cigarette case. The usual speeches were made in which every one pledged himself to do his best to make 1917 a record year for the rooster.

JAPAN TO HAVE "CIVILIZATION."

"Civilization," the Thomas H. Ince $1,000,000 cinema spectacle, is on its way to Japan in charge of E. R. Champion, who has recently been exploiting the picture in the Southern States.

Picture Houses in Roseville and Orange, N. J.

By Hanford C. Judson

Member of World Staff Makes Trip from Roseville Station Up Orange Street to Brick Church—Good Business and Live Exhibitors

THE margin between running expenses and gross receipts is what interests exhibitors wherever we go. They look at the problem through their own home environment and reflect the conditions in their own locality when they talk about it. The price of film, for which the manufacturing group, or to be more exact its past policies, are responsible, and the price of admissions, for which the competing theaters are responsible, are the horns of the present day manager's perplexity. The size of his house seems to be at present the thing that most influences the exhibitor's way of looking at the business.

At Roseville and in the Oranges, different communities closely knit together, the business has simmered down to pretty clear terms. The cheap men have been crowded out and those exhibitors now there are showmen of the open-eyed kind. Most of the houses, perhaps all, have been through a period of slackness and discouragement and are now making money; but, if the truth were known, we suspect that most of them have a long way to go before the balance sheet—footed up to include the first day's run and yesterday's—can show a favorable report.

In Roseville there are three houses. The first of these on Orange street proper is the Scenario, which is a copyrighted name for a picture house and was suggested to Exhibitor S. Anspach, the owner, by the founder of this journal. Mr. Anspach is one of the old timers in the exhibiting business and did some worthy yeoman service for the business by introducing the pictures at Ocean Grove to the Methodists gathered from all over the country. The Scenario is a 700-seat house charging ten cents for the usual show. On one day a week, Mr. Anspach is apt to have some special feature like "The Common Law," and he then charges 15 cents. His business is normal and he is making money. From June, 1915, till August, 1916, the house ran at considerable loss, due at first to the inadequacy of the old price of admission to cover the new cost of film and inability of the neighborhood houses to reach a working agreement; but this was capped by the infantile paralysis plague of last summer. Mr. Anspach is an interesting man to meet and talk with, as in fact good exhibitors almost without exception are. The business is so big that it broadens all who follow it. This is one of the most hopeful facts for the future.

A few blocks west along Orange street is the Regent theater, with 850 seats, charging 5 cents in the afternoon and 10 at night. Manager Frank Crawford, brother of the league secretary of the state branch, had just left the house when we looked in at the end of the second afternoon show. It is a pleasant house and we found a courteous young doorman, Frank Fox, in charge.

The City theater is on Seventh street, nearer to the Roseville station than the two other houses. It seats 1,400 and charges ten cents in the afternoons, fifteen at night except when a special feature has been booked, when the admission is twenty-five cents. Manager S. P. Whiting, whom we found in his office, recalled to us as we sat down that The Moving Picture World was just about ten years old and spoke of the pleasure the first numbers gave him. It was the sole medium in those days that brought any knowledge of what other exhibitors were doing. It gave a sense of comradeship with other film men and provided the basis of coherency to the business. He also mentioned the sense of value that the opening of F. H. Richardson's projection department gave him and others.

When asked what he saw in the immediate future, he said that the business reminded him of two automobilists who were so anxious to see where the other man was going that, with watching each other, neither got ahead as fast as he should. He finds that the people want stars. He likes to see stars himself when they are good—he seems especially fond of Douglas Fairbanks—but some wonderful stage stars, he said, are—wonderful stage stars. He fears they do the film business little lasting good. He said that the exhibitor with the small house had to go, but modified his statement by saying that the small exhibitors' future rests with the manufacturers. If reasonable priced programs are put out, he'll stay. If things stay as they are the admission price will have to go up and the smaller the house the harder the problem, especially in competition where advertising and overhead are high. He finds that advertising is a necessity and is putting lots of money in it.

Theaters in the Oranges.

The five picture houses on Main street west of the Brick Church station in East Orange play to patrons from all the Oranges. The first we come to going west is the Lyceum, a beautiful house set, like a church, back from the sidewalk. It seats 1,000 and is managed by Barney Klotz. Mr. Klotz shook hands with me, but asked to be excused from an interview on the score of especially pressing business that had come up a moment before I arrived.

A couple of blocks further west and on the other side of the street is the United States Palace, a 1,200-seat house, conducted by D. F. Shepherd. This house has been merged with the Colonial still further west on the same street, and conducted by G. W. Cuff, who is president of the company. The Colonial seats 1,000 and follows a like policy with the Palace, viz., ten and fifteen in the afternoon and fifteen and twenty-five at night for a double feature show with good music. The Palace has a seven-piece orchestra, the Colonial has a photoplayer with a good musician to play it.

Mr. Shepherd believes that the business is likely to go back to something like the basis of the program as it was three years ago, if I understood him clearly. He said that just at present in Orange the people wanted not a good story first, but a famous star, and he remarked that many a picture has a bigger social value than entertainment value, and he meant that it is necessary for some people to see a brand new picture by some great star merely because other people are talking about it and one has to belong. Mr. Cuff, of the Colonial, supplemented this when I talked with him. He said the people have been educated by the manufacturers to look for and want the great stars. He was not sure that that policy had proved good business and gave me the impression that he doubted its wisdom. This company is making the best of the situation and is putting out on the average of $125 a week in advertising.

At the Bijou, a Feiber & Shea house, with 900 seats and with five, ten and fifteen cents admission, I had a very interesting talk with Manager W. M. Hoffman, a showman with experience who came to Orange from the company's Youngstown, Ohio, house. He is not following the double feature program and thinks that that policy is hurting the business; for there is a chance in booking two five-reel features of getting one that lacks the lively interest of the other and the patron feels wearied while that film is running and wants to get over it to the good one. The two-feature people say, on the other hand, that the long show filling the entire evening is popular.

All the exhibitors in Orange look back to a time of "battles long ago," before competition had settled it as to which patron was to come to which house. Mr. Hoffman recalled a time when Chaplin was shown in three of the near-by houses. Now he is seen in only one and no one sees him who can not afford a quarter (he is at the Colonial). And Mr. Hoffman sees a suggestion of a coming grading process in this. Chaplin's fame was due to the multitudes who enjoyed his work. Those same multitudes are in the process of forgetting Chaplin and pretty soon he will no longer be a drawing attraction except in the more expensive houses. And he thinks that unless Max Linder pictures can be shown at five and ten cents while the public's attention is being attracted to one particular picture or another, he too will be destined to merely an aristocratic popularity, which is not real popularity and a much less valuable thing.

The Strand theater, which has not quite lost the fading outline of its former name Lyric, and which is being conducted by L. V. Mumford, has 1,000 seats and charges ten and fifteen cents. Manager Mumford believes in the story first and says his patrons want that before other things. He finds little common sense in going to see a star merely because he or she is being talked about. Yet he says that a good story with a good star and both famous is the best attraction possible. Take any Broadway production and screen it with the original cast, it will go. He thinks it foolish to plug stars and let the story go wholly. The people are getting tired of padded features, he thinks. Speaking of the exhibiting end, he says that the theater that wants to get along on little expenditure is doomed. One has not only to use brains in the business today, but has to have capital.

Popular Picture Personalities

WHO'S WHO IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

COMPILED BY THE STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT

KELLY, Dorothy Dupree. Born in Philadelphia. Irish-American parentage. Is 5 feet, 3 inches, weighs 119 pounds and has brown hair and eyes, dark complexion. She has had no stage experience, coming into the picture from the school room, and has had but one studio connection, for she started with the Vitagraph and has remained with that company, working up to stellar roles. She has played a wide range of characters, from ingenue to heavies, and seems to be equally happy at either extreme of the gamut of emotions. Her first picture was On the Ground of the Eye, with Maurice Costello, and other productions in which she has appeared have been The Unwritten Chapter, The Passing of Diana, The Drudge. The Law Decides, and the serial, The Secret Kingdom. She is sometimes known as "The girl with the eyes" because of the expressiveness of those orbs and just can't make those eyes behave.

Dorothy Dupree Kelly

FAWCETT, George Deneale. Born in Virginia, of American parentage. Is 5 feet, 9½ inches tall and weighs 183 pounds. He made his dramatic debut in August, 1889, and rapidly advanced himself to a position of unusual prominence. He has appeared in the support of many of the leading American stars and is known as a sound character actor. He made his picture debut in May, 1915, in The Majesty of the Law, and has been connected with the Pallas, (Bosworth), Triangle and Universal companies prior to his present connection with the Selig company. His work in The Crisis, as Judge Whipple, is too recent to need comment, and his excellent characterization of the old leper in the Fairbanks The Habit of Happiness is another part that stands out prominently on the long list. Mr. Fawcett gives his spare time to writing and is an author of no mean ability and an authority on many phases of the drama.

George Fawcett

LLOYD, Harold C. Born in Buchard, Nebraska. His parents were American born, but of Welsh and Scotch-English ancestry. He is 5 feet, 9 inches tall, has black hair and dark blue eyes. In 1909, when but 15 years of age, he engaged in stock work in Omaha, alternating between the stage and school. On his graduation two years later, he had an additional year in stock and two years on the road. In 1914 he turned his attention to pictures, playing parts so small that he does not recall the name of his initial release. Even then he did character work, and his strongly marked personality brought him to the fore. From Universal, his original connection, he went to Keystone and is now the star of the Lonesome Luke comedies made by the Rollin Film Company. He is a lover of athletics, but when it comes to one particular fad it is fancy dancing.

Harold C. Lloyd

SWAIN, Mack M. Born in Salt Lake City, of English-Norwegian ancestry. Is 6 feet, 2 inches tall and weighs 280 pounds. Light complexion, blond hair, gray eyes. He made his stage debut in October, 1891, and for twenty-two years he worked in almost every line except grand opera, the drama, vaudeville, comedy and minstrelsy looking pretty much alike to him. September 2, 1913, he became a Keystoner and appeared in A Muddy Romeo with Mabel Normand and Ford Sterling. Other well known parts were Drollinsky, in Mazeppa; Martin, in A Bachelor's Romance, and Tom Bolton, in California, but Mr. Swain is "Ambrose," and that covers a lot of explanation, for the Ambrose comedies have spoken for themselves. When the camera is not watching him Mr. Swain dons overalls and on his ranch near Riverside he strives to put Burbank in the shade with plant experiments. He has already grown many hybrids.

Mack Swain

HANLON, Daniel E. Born in San Francisco, of Irish parentage. Is 5 feet, 6 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. Light hair, blue eyes and fair complexion. Making his stage debut in 1894, Mr. Hanlon, who comes of a theatrical family, has done considerable stock work with the Crescent Players, Brooklyn, with Ralph Stuart and others, and for three years was a member of the cast of Ben Hur. He made his picture debut in July, 1915, and found out in his first part just how strenuous picture making can be, for his first role was that of Professor Arronax, the French scientist, in Universal's Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, and he knows just how sharp the honeycomb rocks of the Bahamas are when you are washed against them by the surf. He was also cast for The River of Doubt, a Metro production, following his Universal engagement.

Daniel E. Hanlon

DE FOREST, Patsey. Born in Port Penn, Delaware. Her father was French and her mother a Quaker. Light complexion, auburn hair and black eyes. Is 5 feet, 1 inch in height and weighs 110 pounds. She has been on the stage since a child, playing engagements in stock. She is also well known to vaudeville patrons, for she has appeared in a number of sketches. She made her debut in pictures at the Lubin studio in 1912 and made her first marked success in Patsy Bollivar, a series picture. Later she was selected to play ingenues with Billie Reeves and supported him during his Lubin engagement. When the Lubin studio closed she went to Vitagraph, playing principally with Hughie Mack, though she was with Rose Coghlan in The Climbers. She is an outdoor girl and can hunt, swim, fish and do fancy diving. Owns three dogs and would have more did she have room for them for she has owned as many as fourteen at once.

Patsey De Forest

Picture Houses in Roseville and Orange, N. J.

By Hanford C. Judson

Member of World Staff Makes Trip from Roseville Station Up Orange Street to Brick Church—Good Business and Live Exhibitors

THE margin between running expenses and gross receipts is what interests exhibitors wherever we go. They look at the problem through their own home environment and reflect the conditions in their own locality when they talk about it. The price of film, for which the manufacturing group, or to be more exact its past policies, are responsible, and the price of admissions, for which the competing theaters are responsible, are the horns of the present day manager's perplexity. The size of his house seems to be at present the thing that most influences the exhibitor's way of looking at the business.

At Roseville and in the Oranges, different communities closely knit together, the business has simmered down to pretty clear terms. The cheap men have been crowded out and those exhibitors now there are showmen of the open-eyed kind. Most of the houses, perhaps all, have been through a period of slackness and discouragement and are now making money; but, if the truth were known, we suspect that most of them have a long way to go before the balance sheet—footed up to include the first day's run and yesterday's—can show a favorable report.

In Roseville there are three houses. The first of these on Orange street proper is the Scenario, which is a copyrighted name for a picture house and was suggested to Exhibitor S. Anspach, the owner, by the founder of this journal. Mr. Anspach is one of the old timers in the exhibiting business and did some worthy yeoman service for the business by introducing the pictures at Ocean Grove to the Methodists gathered from all over the country. The Scenario is a 700-seat house charging ten cents for the usual show. On one day a week, Mr. Anspach is apt to have some special feature like "The Common Law," and he then charges 15 cents. His business is normal and he is making money. From June, 1915, till August, 1916, the house ran at considerable loss, due at first to the inadequacy of the old price of admission to cover the new cost of film and inability of the neighborhood houses to reach a working agreement; but this was capped by the infantile paralysis plague of last summer. Mr. Anspach is an interesting man to meet and talk with, as in fact good exhibitors almost without exception are. The business is so big that it broadens all who follow it. This is one of the most hopeful facts for the future.

A few blocks west along Orange street is the Regent theater, with 850 seats, charging 5 cents in the afternoon and 10 at night. Manager Frank Crawford, brother of the league secretary of the state branch, had just left the house when we looked in at the end of the second afternoon show. It is a pleasant house and we found a courteous young doorman, Frank Fox, in charge.

The City theater is on Seventh street, nearer to the Roseville station than the two other houses. It seats 1,400 and charges ten cents in the afternoons, fifteen at night except when a special feature has been booked, when the admission is twenty-five cents. Manager S. P. Whiting, whom we found in his office, recalled to us as we sat down that The Moving Picture World was just about ten years old and spoke of the pleasure the first numbers gave him. It was the sole medium in those days that brought any knowledge of what other exhibitors were doing. It gave a sense of comradeship with other film men and provided the basis of coherency to the business. He also mentioned the sense of value that the opening of F. H. Richardson's projection department gave him and others.

When asked what he saw in the immediate future, he said that the business reminded him of two automobilists who were so anxious to see where the other man was going that, with watching each other, neither got ahead as fast as he should. He finds that the people want stars. He likes to see stars himself when they are good—he seems especially fond of Douglas Fairbanks—but some wonderful stage stars, he said, are—wonderful stage stars. He fears they do the film business little lasting good. He said that the exhibitor with the small house had to go, but modified his statement by saying that the small exhibitors' future rests with the manufacturers. If reasonable priced programs are put out, he'll stay. If things stay as they are the admission price will have to go up and the smaller the house the harder the problem, especially in competition where advertising and overhead are high. He finds that advertising is a necessity and is putting lots of money in it.

Theaters in the Oranges.

The five picture houses on Main street west of the Brick Church station in East Orange play to patrons from all the Oranges. The first we come to going west is the Lyceum, a beautiful house set, like a church, back from the sidewalk. It seats 1,000 and is managed by Barney Klotz. Mr. Klotz shook hands with me, but asked to be excused from an interview on the score of especially pressing business that had come up a moment before I arrived.

A couple of blocks further west and on the other side of the street is the United States Palace, a 1,200-seat house, conducted by D. F. Shepherd. This house has been merged with the Colonial still further west on the same street, and conducted by G. W. Cuff, who is president of the company. The Colonial seats 1,000 and follows a like policy with the Palace, viz., ten and fifteen in the afternoon and fifteen and twenty-five at night for a double feature show with good music. The Palace has a seven-piece orchestra, the Colonial has a photoplayer with a good musician to play it.

Mr. Shepherd believes that the business is likely to go back to something like the basis of the program as it was three years ago, if I understood him clearly. He said that just at present in Orange the people wanted not a good story first, but a famous star, and he remarked that many a picture has a bigger social value than entertainment value, and he meant that it is necessary for some people to see a brand new picture by some great star merely because other people are talking about it and one has to belong. Mr. Cuff, of the Colonial, supplemented this when I talked with him. He said the people have been educated by the manufacturers to look for and want the great stars. He was not sure that that policy had proved good business and gave me the impression that he doubted its wisdom. This company is making the best of the situation and is putting out on the average of $125 a week in advertising.

At the Bijou, a Feiber & Shea house, with 900 seats and with five, ten and fifteen cents admission, I had a very interesting talk with Manager W. M. Hoffman, a showman with experience who came to Orange from the company's Youngstown, Ohio, house. He is not following the double feature program and thinks that that policy is hurting the business; for there is a chance in booking two five-reel features of getting one that lacks the lively interest of the other and the patron feels wearied while that film is running and wants to get over it to the good one. The two-feature people say, on the other hand, that the long show filling the entire evening is popular.

All the exhibitors in Orange look back to a time of "battles long ago," before competition had settled it as to which patron was to come to which house. Mr. Hoffman recalled a time when Chaplin was shown in three of the near-by houses. Now he is seen in only one and no one sees him who can not afford a quarter (he is at the Colonial). And Mr. Hoffman sees a suggestion of a coming grading process in this. Chaplin's fame was due to the multitudes who enjoyed his work. Those same multitudes are in the process of forgetting Chaplin and pretty soon he will no longer be a drawing attraction except in the more expensive houses. And he thinks that unless Max Linder pictures can be shown at five and ten cents while the public's attention is being attracted to one particular picture or another, he too will be destined to merely an aristocratic popularity, which is not real popularity and a much less valuable thing.

The Strand theater, which has not quite lost the fading outline of its former name Lyric, and which is being conducted by L. V. Mumford, has 1,000 seats and charges ten and fifteen cents. Manager Mumford believes in the story first and says his patrons want that before other things. He finds little common sense in going to see a star merely because he or she is being talked about. Yet he says that a good story with a good star and both famous is the best attraction possible. Take any Broadway production and screen it with the original cast, it will go. He thinks it foolish to plug stars and let the story go wholly. The people are getting tired of padded features, he thinks. Speaking of the exhibiting end, he says that the theater that wants to get along on little expenditure is doomed. One has not only to use brains in the business today, but has to have capital.

Popular Picture Personalities

WHO'S WHO IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

COMPILED BY THE STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT

KELLY, Dorothy Dupree. Born in Philadelphia. Irish-American parentage. Is 5 feet, 3 inches, weighs 119 pounds and has brown hair and eyes, dark complexion. She has had no stage experience, coming into the picture from the school room, and has had but one studio connection, for she started with the Vitagraph and has remained with that company, working up to stellar roles. She has played a wide range of characters, from ingenue to heavies, and seems to be equally happy at either extreme of the gamut of emotions. Her first picture was On the Ground of the Eye, with Maurice Costello, and other productions in which she has appeared have been The Unwritten Chapter, The Passing of Diana, The Drudge, The Law Decides, and the serial, The Secret Kingdom. She is sometimes known as "The girl with the eyes" because of the expressiveness of those orbs and just can't make those eyes behave.

Dorothy Dupree Kelly

FAWCETT, George Deneale. Born in Virginia, of American parentage. Is 5 feet, 9½ inches tall and weighs 183 pounds. He made his dramatic debut in August, 1889, and rapidly advanced himself to a position of unusual prominence. He has appeared in the support of many of the leading American stars and is known as a sound character actor. He made his picture debut in May, 1915, in The Majesty of the Law, and has been connected with the Pallas, (Bosworth), Triangle and Universal companies prior to his present connection with the Selig company. His work in The Crisis, as Judge Whipple, is too recent to need comment, and his excellent characterization of the old leper in the Fairbanks The Habit of Happiness is another part that stands out prominently on the long list. Mr. Fawcett gives his spare time to writing and is an author of no mean ability and an authority on many phases of the drama.

George Fawcett

LLOYD, Harold C. Born in Buchard, Nebraska. His parents were American born, but of Welsh and Scotch-English ancestry. He is 5 feet, 9 inches tall, has black hair and dark blue eyes. In 1909, when but 15 years of age, he engaged in stock work in Omaha, alternating between the stage and school. On his graduation two years later, he had an additional year in stock and two years on the road. In 1914 he turned his attention to pictures, playing parts so small that he does not recall the name of his initial release. Even then he did character work, and his strongly marked personality brought him to the fore. From Universal, his original connection, he went to Keystone and is now the star of the Lonesome Luke comedies made by the Rollin Film Company. He is a lover of athletics, but when it comes to one particular fad it is fancy dancing.

Harold C. Lloyd

SWAIN, Mack M. Born in Salt Lake City, of English-Norwegian ancestry. Is 6 feet, 2 inches tall and weighs 280 pounds. Light complexion, blond hair, gray eyes. He made his stage debut in October, 1891, and for twenty-two years he worked in almost every line except grand opera, the drama, vaudeville, comedy and minstrelsy looking pretty much alike to him. September 2, 1913, he became a Keystoner and appeared in A Muddy Romeo with Mabel Normand and Ford Sterling. Other well known parts were Drollinsky, in Mazeppa; Martin, in A Bachelor's Romance, and Tom Bolton, in California, but Mr. Swain is "Ambrose," and that covers a lot of explanation, for the Ambrose comedies have spoken for themselves. When the camera is not watching him Mr. Swain dons overalls and on his ranch near Riverside he strives to put Burbank in the shade with plant experiments. He has already grown many hybrids.

Mack Swain

HANLON, Daniel E. Born in San Francisco, of Irish parentage. Is 5 feet, 6 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. Light hair, blue eyes and fair complexion. Making his stage debut in 1894, Mr. Hanlon, who comes of a theatrical family, has done considerable stock work with the Crescent Players, Brooklyn, with Ralph Stuart and others, and for three years was a member of the cast of Ben Hur. He made his picture debut in July, 1915, and found out in his first part just how strenuous picture making can be, for his first role was that of Professor Arronax, the French scientist, in Universal's Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, and he knows just how sharp the honeycomb rocks of the Bahamas are when you are washed against them by the surf. He was also cast for The River of Doubt, a Metro production, following his Universal engagement.

Daniel E. Hanlon

DE FOREST, Patsey. Born in Port Penn, Delaware. Her father was French and her mother a Quaker. Light complexion, auburn hair and black eyes. Is 5 feet, 1 inch in height and weighs 110 pounds. She has been on the stage since a child, playing engagements in stock. She is also well known to vaudeville patrons, for she has appeared in a number of sketches. She made her debut in pictures at the Lubin studio in 1912 and made her first marked success in Patsy Bollivar, a series picture. Later she was selected to play ingenues with Billie Reeves and supported him during his Lubin engagement. When the Lubin studio closed she went to Vitagraph, playing principally with Hughie Mack, though she was with Rose Coghlan in The Climbers. She is an outdoor girl and can hunt, swim, fish and do fancy diving. Owns three dogs and would have more did she have room for them for she has owned as many as fourteen at once.

Patsey De Forest

The Motion Picture Exhibitor

WRITE US EARLY AND OFTEN

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD carries the most complete record of Exhibitors' News. This department aims at being the fullest and fairest chronicle of all the important doings in the ranks of organized exhibitors. To keep the department as complete and as useful as it is now we request the secretaries of all organizations to favor us with reports of all the news. Coming events in the ranks of the organized exhibitors are best advertised in this department of the Moving Picture World.

EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE ORGANIZER.

In answer to recent inquiries in regard to the Exhibitors' League Organizations and for the information of exhibitors in any of the States, readers will kindly note that Fred J. Herrington is National Organizer for the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. All correspondence on the subject may be addressed to him at 402 Knox avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

California Exhibitors Elect Officers

State Convention Names the Same Executives as Are Serving Alameda County Organization.

THE annual meeting of Alameda County Local No. 1, of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association of California, was held at the Hotel St. Marks, Berkeley, on January 18. The most important feature of the proceedings was the election of officers for the ensuing term, which resulted as follows: President, H. L. Beach; vice-president, J. Hellman; secretary-treasurer, W. S. Krahn; directors, S. S. Range, A. E. King, E. W. Scott, Charles Mehrten and W. S. Smith. The proposition of co-operative buying was discussed at some length, and it was the general opinion that arrangements could be made whereby it would be possible to effect a substantial saving in the cost of supplies. Upon a motion it was decided to defer action on this until members furnished a list of their estimated yearly requirements.

Following the meeting of the local the first gathering of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Asociation of California since the formation of this organization earlier in the month was called to order. The election of officers which followed resulted in the selection of the same ones elected by the local, with the same directors. The by-laws of the State organization were amended, however, to increase the board of directors to nine members and four more will be chosen at the mass meeting to be held at San Francisco on January 25. The Alameda County organization has remained intact when there has been no State League, or even a national organization, and has been so successful in its work that by general acclaim it has been made the nucleus for the new State association. By organized effort it has secured reductions in theater license fees, secured concessions from film exchanges and defeated censorship movements, saving hundreds of dollars to its members annually.

President Beach outlined the plans for the big mass meeting to be held in Photoplayer Hall on January 25, stating that letters were being sent to every exhibitor in the San Francisco territory, comprising two-thirds of California, requesting his attendance. He stated that the American Photoplayer Company had donated the use of a hall for the meeting and had offered to give the event wide publicity, while Sol L. Lesser had offered to give a review of "Civilization" immediately following the mass meeting.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the American Photoplayer Company and Mr. Lesser for valuable assistance in making the gathering a success. Mr. Beach also told of the plans of a certain element in the Rotary Club that was attempting to get a state-wide censorship measure through the Legislature and how steps were already being taken to defeat the measure.

Maryland Effects Permanent Organization

Begins Business With Membership of Forty-six—Will Affiliate With National Body.

THERE is no question about it. The Baltimore exhibitors, at least a great many of them, are waking up to the fact that organization is the best policy, for even though Sunday, January 21, was a cold, raw, snowy, rainy day, twenty-one stalwart souls faced the inclement conditions in order to attend what has proved to be the most enthusiastic meeting of the series at the New theater, 210 West Lexington street. Sam Spedon of the Moving Picture World gave a stirring address on organization and co-operation and the benefits to be derived from them.

The League has now passed out of the "temporary" stage and has become a permanent organization with a membership of forty-six exhibitors from all sections of the city. Later on this body will become affiliated with the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. The deposit system and the matter of paying return expressage on films—which is understood to be the only business where this is done—were spoken upon by Louis Schlichter and Thomas D. Goldberg. Their talk, however, was not one of condemnation of the producers for these acts, but rather an argument to have the exchange managers and the exhibitors get together on the subject and discuss it amicably.

Another matter which came up and was discussed was the giving of a ball by the League later in the season.

The dues for the League have been fixed at $6 a year, payable quarterly. According to the present schedule monthly meetings will be held, the last Sunday in each month being the set date. If, however, the Board of Directors has anything of importance to bring before the League a special meeting can be called at the discretion of the President.

The code of by-laws which had been drawn up by a committee of which J. Louis Rome was the chairman was unanimously adopted and is now in force.

These officers were elected: J. A. Hoernig, president; Lewis A. DeHoff, first vice-president; Eugene B. McCurdy, second vice-president; Thomas D. Goldberg, secretary; William E. Stumpf, treasurer, and J. Louis Rome, attorney. With the exception of one district a delegate from which has not been elected, the Board of Directors follow: J. Rosenbauer, G. O. Williams, W. O. Baker and John Goodman. There will be six delegates to the National Convention. Frederick Clement Weber will be chairman of the delegation.

Among those present were G. Horton Gaffney, L. A. DeHoff, J. Louis Rome, F. C. Weber, Louis Schlichter, T. D. Goldberg, Wm. Leight, E. C. Sandell, N. Burns, M. Bassin, G. O. Williams, W. E. Stumpf, W. Freichtag, J. Selkman, E. J. Rossiter, Miss T Marks, E. B. McCurdy, Frank A. Hoernig, V. A. Valintini, M. A. Barger and Joseph Brodie.

BLACK HILLS EXHIBITORS TO GIVE BALL.

Preliminary plans for the holding of a Grand Ball were laid by the Black Hills Exhibitors' League at its last meeting at Deadwood, S. D., January 15. A committee headed by H. B. Hearst, who is a prominent exhibitor of Deadwood and president of the Exhibitors' League, was named to complete arrangements for the event.

This committee now is endeavoring to make arrangements with one or more screen stars for their appearance in Deadwood to be the guests of honor of the Exhibitors' League and lead the Grand March. President Hearst, through the Moving Picture World, desires to extend an invitation to the leading men and women of the Screen to honor South Dakota and her moving picture devotees with a visit.

Although far removed from any of the film centers, the Black Hills district is fast becoming one of the best moving picture fields in the West. New theaters are being built and old ones are being enlarged to accommodate the constantly growing number of converts to the silent drama, and the producer who is first to send his star into the district is sure of gaining a prestige that will result in big returns.

None of the prominent actors or actresses of the screen world has ever visited the Black Hills country, and for this reason the announcement of the proposed Exhibitors' League ball and the plans to bring one or more stars here has aroused tremendous interest.

Indiana Exhibitors Post Joint Fund

Place $600 in Bank to Guarantee Fulfillment of Contracts With Exchanges by Members.

THE motion picture exhibitors of Indiana, recently in convention at the Hotel Severin, Indianapolis, adopted a plan which they declare will save to Indiana banks thousands of dollars annually that has been on deposit in banks of other states and will make the closing of contracts by Indiana exhibitors much easier with less outlay, and will provide ample protection for the producing and distributing companies. They say that the move, which was made in the convention, will also bring to Indiana many producing company offices which are not now located in this district as well as new offices of distributors.

C. C. Pettijohn, attorney for the exhibitors, explained that many of the members of the Indiana Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association complained against being forced to make deposits on film for which they had contracted. He said many of the smaller exhibitors of the state were not in a position to put up a deposit of $100 or more to guarantee fulfillment of their contracts without curtailing to some extent the business which they operated and that they wished to devise a plan whereby the making of deposits could be eliminated. The exhibitors also said that because of this clause in the contracts they are unable to get the class of pictures they desire.

The plan to meet this objection is unique. The association which was formed during the session made a binding agreement between its members not to purchase the rights for pictures from companies which enforced the rule concerning protection deposits. This agreement was entered into by the entire membership of the association.

The association then created a fund of $600, which was deposited in a local bank, to the credit of the association. This fund is to be used as a guarantee that if any exhibitor fail to live up to the contract signed with a distributing company the loss to the company shall be made up by the association from this fund, which will be augmented as may be necessary.

The Indiana exhibitors think this method of meeting the deposit requirement will be received with general satisfaction. Some of the radicals thought the distributors of the films would not try to enforce the deposit clause in their contracts if they were afforded the protection thus given them.

Jerseymen on Edge for Coming Ball

Many Interesting Features Promised for First Annual Event, to Be Held on February 1.

NOW that the date of the first annual ball of the New Jersey State Exhibitors' League, February 1, is drawing near, the exhibitors are all on an edge to see the outcome of the months of preparations and arrangements. The ball will be held at the Kreuger Auditorium. F. E. Samuels, the secretary, states all is in readiness for the big event.

The program, which is an exceedingly pretentious affair, has received full support from the industry. Copies of the program will be distributed at the ball, and others will be mailed to the exhibitors of the state.

Some of the stars have engaged boxes in which they will hold receptions. Film manufacturers have purchased boxes to hold exhibits and novelty stunts.

The contest for young women to enter pictures has brought forth a host of contestants. This feature promises to eclipse the other events of the evening, as interest is running high in Newark as to who the lucky girl will be.

Another entertainment idea brought up at the last meeting of the ball committee was to have a song writers' contest. This event will be of interest to everyone.

Although it is not known yet what kind of stunt the Universal will pull off here, it is positively assured that a big crowd of Universalites will be present. According to a notice sent Mr. Samuels, the employes of the Twenty-third street branch of the Universal have set aside the evening of February 1, when they will attend the ball in a body.

Ontario Picture Men Organize

Arthur Cohen of Toronto is Elected President—Two Hundred Exhibitors Attend.

A DEFINITE step in the direction of a Dominion-wide organization of the film business in Canada was made at Toronto on January 23 and 24, when more than two hundred exhibitors and exchange managers launched a real Ontario Moving Picture Protective Association. The film men came from all parts of the Province, many traveling four hundred miles from the west, east and north, in order to attend the conference, which easily developed into the most important moving picture congress ever held in the whole country. Simultaneously with the staging of the convention came the demise of the association, which had been a Provincial organization in name only. The latter had been in existence for several years, but not until this time had a real effort been made to call together representatives of the "moving picture art" from all corners of the Province.

The congress, which was held in Cooper's Hall, Spadina avenue and Queen street, was called to order by Mayor Church, of Toronto, who officially welcomed the many out-of-town visitors. Then the exhibitors immediately jumped into the various business matters.

To facilitate the reorganization of the Ontario Association, the 1916 executives resigned in a body, and F. R. Lennon, Toronto Universal manager, took the chair, with W. A. Bach, the Canadian Universal's advertising manager, acting as secretary. Lennon advised the gathering that the very next move would be the formation of a Dominion Federation of the picture trade, with the Ontario Association as its backbone.

W. Baillie, the retiring president, made an enthusing speech, in which he drew attention to the immediate necessity for action on the part of exhibitors, while Phil Kauffman, of the Famous Players' Film Service, denounced government methods in this and other provinces, particularly with relation to censorship. In the opinion of Kauffman and others, the necessity of the hour was the establishment of a competent Federal Board of Censorship to pass upon all films for exhibition throughout the Dominion. This board would replace the various provincial boards whose respective verdicts were frequently at variance.

W. A. Bach urged that the moving picture interests should take such steps, by united influence, that the Ontario Government would not adopt any measure affecting their business until it had consulted the officials, at least, of the Ontario Protective Association. He asked the gathering to make arrangements for a large deputation to wait upon the Government in the near future. P. J. Nolan, of Ottawa, and W. F. Barrett, manager of the Toronto Mutual office, discussed organization features at length and offered considerable advice.

Arthur Cohen, manager of the Globe theater, Toronto, who was subsequenty chosen chief executive of the re-born association for the ensuing year, made a plea for the unification of the whole industry from coast to coast, and he promised to take an active part in the movement. He also spoke strongly in favor of a Dominion censorship board, and declared that the present disconnected system of Government control was all wrong.

The convention was the means of bringing together many distant exhibitors who had heard a great deal about each other through the Moving Picture World and other channels, but who had never actually shaken each other by the hand. A most cordial feeling was in evidence throughout the two-day session.

The social features of the rally included a performance at Shea's theater, Toronto, two hundred of the exhibitors and exchange men attending in a body. The film men also gathered at the St. Charles Hotel, where a banquet was held in the Belgian Room. M. J. Thaler, of the Garden theater and College Playhouse, Toronto, introduced a few speakers, including Phil Kauffmann, F. R. Lennon, Bert Applegate, Pop Phillips, of Kitchener, Ontario, W. F. Barrett, W Bailie, Clair Hague and Mr. Brownridge.

After the short speeches, a cabaret concert was enjoyed, and cartoon sketches of a number of those present were also made by Mr. Charles, the artist of the Strand theater, Toronto. Previous to the mass meeting on the second day, the assembled delegates "performed" before the moving picture camera.

In order to give the new organization a provincial standing both in character as well as in charter, the old executives resigned and the following new officers were elected: President, Arthur Cohen, of the Globe and Rialto theaters, Toronto; vice-president, P. J. Nolan, Ottawa; honorary treasurer, M. R. Manhennick, representing the A. J. Small interests, London; honorary treasurer, J. Brady, of the Madison theater; secretary, W. A. Bach, of the Universal Film Company; executive, George Phillips, Kitchener; W. H. Roenig, Lindsay; P. Bardesson, Timmins; Frank Guest, Hamilton; J. H. Burk, Pembroke; G. Bernard, London; S. Burnside, Collingwood, and the following from Toronto—E. L. Ruddy, S. Bernstein, Dr. Richardson, M. Gelbirtig, John Griffin, Bert Applegath, Jerry Shea, C. Robin, C. Wellsman, W. F. Sexton.

Three exchange representatives will be added to the executive of the association at a later date.

Slimm Now Chief of Northwestern Ohio

Plans Under Way for the State Convention, to be Held in Cleveland.

A NEW man is at the helm of the Northwestern Ohio Exhibitors' League, with headquarters in Cleveland, is W. J. Slimm, manager of the Marquis theater. Mr. Slimm won out over B. J. Sawyer, who had been president for two years. The elections are held in January and July. Other officers elected were H. H. Lustig, vice president; A. Maher, treasurer; W. H. Horsey, recording secretary, and Sam Bullock, corresponding secetary.

Already these officers and the president are busy with the arrangements for the state convention, which is to be held in Cleveland in February. The exact dates will be decided within two weeks.

The officers are trying to make it the most successful convention held in the Forest City for the moving picture men. A trade exposition is planned.

In addition a gigantic effort will be made to get the cooperation of other local bodies of exhibitors, including those from Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus and Toledo, as well as all of the organized exhibitors from smaller towns of the state.

EXHIBITORS' NOTES.

The Strand, in Ogdensburg, N. Y., will open for business early in February. It has a seating capacity of 1,500. Robert Landy is the proprietor.

Sol Bernstein, formerly of Elmira, will shortly open a theater in Amsterdam, N. Y., where he is now running the Lyceum. His new house will seat 1,500, with all modern equipment.

At Saranac Lake, N. Y., Louis Bernstein opened his theater, the Pontiac, on Monday, Jan. 22. The house was filled to capacity, over one thousand persons being unable to obtain admission. Mary Fuller, Lou-Tellegen, Carlyle Blackwell, Ethel Clayton, Irene Fenwick, Arthur Ashley and Reda Davis, who are producing pictures at Saranac Lake, appeared in person at this opening. The house seats over fifteen hundred, and is one of the prettiest in northern New York. It cost $100,000 to build, which is considerable in a town of twelve thousand population.

Louis Bernstein is the owner and Abe Seymour the publicity manager.

HALL ORGANIZES STATE RIGHTS CORPORATION.

Frank G. Hall, who controls the Strand theater, Market street, Newark, has organized the Civilization Film Corporation to buy and sell motion picture productions on the state rights plan. The new company is capitalized at $125,000. Associated with Mr. Hall are some of the most prominent business men of Newark. Among them are John C. Eisele, of the brokerage firm of Eisele & King; John J. MacGovern, George and Henry Alsopp and Peter Fox.

The company already has acquired the state rights for New Jersey to "Joan the Woman," and is negotiating for other big productions. It also controls the New Jersey rights to "Civilization" and "War's Women," both of which were produced by Thomas H. Ince.

Frank G. Hall, organizer of the new company, is one of the best known men in the New Jersey film field. He recently added the Strand theater to his chain of picture and vaudeville houses.

UNIVERSAL'S NEW SERIAL RELEASED MARCH 15.

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company announces that the new serial, "The Voice on the Wire," will be released on March 15. It will be in fifteen episodes of two reels each. The film is a screen version of the novel of the same title by Eustace Hale Ball, the well known author. The leading roles will be played by Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber. The picture was produced under the direction of Stuart Paton, director of the Universal submarine feature, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea."

Elaine Hammerstein in "The Argyle Case"

A CHARMING addition to the list of leading women of the screen is Elaine Hammerstein, granddaughter of the famous Oscar Hammerstein, the operatic impresario, who is making her first important appearance as a film actress in the role opposite Robert Warwick in the Selznick-Picture production of the great detective drama, "The Argyle Case."

Miss Hammerstein is the daughter of Arthur Hammerstein, who, although engaged in theatrical production, did his utmost to restrain the impulse which urged his daughter toward the footlights. Hammerstein Pere and Hammerstein Grandpere did their best, but immediately upon being graduated from Armitage College in Pennsylvania Miss Elaine set her little foot down and declared herself.

Elaine Hammerstein.

Her first stage experience was in "The Trap," which she followed by playing the leading role in "High Jinks." Then for a while she hearkened to the urging of her father to renounce the stage, but becoming interested in motion pictures, she soon turned her footsteps toward the eastern studios. After playing a few minor parts she won recognition. Out of the available leading women in New York she was selected by Mr. Harry Rapf, president of Robert Warwick Film Corporation, to play the sympathetic part of Mary Mazuret in "The Argyle Case."

Miss Hammerstein is only twenty years old, tips the scales at about a hundred and twenty pounds, possesses a plenitude of brown hair, a pair of big gray eyes and a wonderful smile. In the vernacular of the studio she "photographs like a million dollars."

NEW PLAYERS FOR IVAN.

Guy Coombs has accepted an engagement with the Ivan Film Corporation, for which company he will portray the romantic leading parts which are intimately associated with his name. Mr. Coombs' long experience both on the stage and the screen will add greatly to the acting forces of the Ivan Film Corporation.

Christine Mayo, who helped make the expression "vamp" colloquial slang in our language, has again returned to the Ivan banner. The plays in which she first appeared in vampire leads, "A Mother's Confession" and "A Fool's Paradise," produced by the Ivan Film Productions, created for Miss Mayo a great vogue throughout the country.

FRANK McCORMACK JOINS POWELL.

Frank Powell has engaged Frank McCormack, who has to his credit the staging of many Broadway successes, to assist him in the direction of the series of feature pictures in which Marjorie Rambeau will be starred, now being made by the Frank Powell Producing Corporation, to be distributed through the Mutual Film Corporation exchanges. Mr. McCormack has long been known as one of the most successful men producing for the legitimate stage. To his credit are many of the substantial hits of recent seasons.

"THE CRISIS" OPENS IN KENTUCKY.

The Big Feature Rights Corporation, with Colonel Fred Levy at its head, opened with William N. Selig's "The Crisis" at the Mary Anderson theater, Louisville, Ky., on January 22. The theater was crowded to the doors and the S. R. O. sign has been out for every succeeding performance.

SIMMONS BUYS FOREIGN RIGHTS ON "GLORY."

The rights for the United Kingdom on "Glory," the latest release of the Unity Sales Corporation, have just been purchased by Joseph Simmons, the well known dealer of foreign rights.

Chicago News Letter

By JAS. S. McQUADE

Chicago Film Brevities.

MRS. DOUGLAS L. WEART, formerly Miss Gertrude Spoor, gave birth to her first-born (a daughter) on Monday, January 22, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George K. Spoor, this city. Mrs. Weart and baby are in excellent health and joy reigns in the home of Essanay's popular president. The only thing lacking to make the happiness complete is the presence of the newly made father, Lieut. Douglas L. Weart, who is at present on the Mexican border with his regiment.

* * *

The moving picture rights to Virginia Brooks' novel and the play of the same name, "Little Lost Sister," were purchased about a year ago by the Selig Polyscope Company from the Mozart Amusement Company. Work on the production will be started early in the future by one of Selig's companies.

* * *

Miss Gail Kane made a short stop-over in this city Monday, January 22, during which she was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by the American Film Company and the Mutual Film Corporation, the officials of both these organizations and the photoplay representatives of the Chicago dailies being present. She left the same evening for the Santa Barbara studios. The first picture in which she will engage for the American will be "Whose Wife," by an English author. Miss Kane was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Abbey Kane.

* * *

David Wark Griffith paid a flying visit to Chicago Monday morning, January 22, on his way from Milwaukee to New York. "Intolerance" is being shown in the Cream City, where it opened a run on Sunday, January 21, and Mr. Griffith on his rounds stopped over there to see how it was doing. The Canadian rights for "Intolerance" have been sold, and the first presentations of the spectacle were given in Montreal and Quebec recently. I saw Daniel L. Martin, manager of the company playing in Milwaukee, and who also managed the opening at Montreal, one day last week, and he informed me that fine business was being done at the Davison theater in Milwaukee, and that people were turned away at every presentation. The same conditions prevailed in Montreal, while he remained there. Chicago, however, is at the head of the roll of honor, as overflowing houses are still the rule. It is expected that about 20 traveling companies will be engaged in presenting "Intolerance" throughout the United States and Canada.

* * *

Miss Doris Kenyon, an eastern beauty, arrived in Chicago Friday, January 19, to begin an engagement at the Essanay studios. The first picture in which she will appear is "On Trial."

* * *

The Chicago Reel Fellows Club is to have a real studio ball. George K. Spoor, president of the Essanay Film Manufacturing Co., has made the event possible by giving over his big plant for the occasion, which has been set for the night of Saturday, February 10. Scenes from photoplays actually in the making will be one of the preliminary attractions for the crowd that is sure to assemble. It will be a public affair and a moderate admission will be charged to patrons. Such players are Henry B. Walthall, Richard Travers and other Essanay notables will take part in the scenes. The Reel Fellows will have charge of the event, and the proceeds will be applied to the fund for the furnishing of the newly leased quarters of the club, on the fifth floor at 207 South Wabash avenue.

* * *

The Metropolitan theater, the newest of the Ascher chain of theaters and the fifteenth on the list, had a very successful opening Saturday, January 20. A Metro feature, "The White Raven," with Ethel Barrymore in the leading role, was the principal attraction. The service at this house is selected from Triangle, Paramount, Metro and Clara Kimball Young productions. The admission charge is 10 and 15 cents evenings, and 5 and 10 cents matinees. The lower prices named are charged for children.

* * *

The Grace Amusement Company, of Belleville, Ill., recently acquired the Lyric theater in that city, in addition to the Washington, also controlled by it. The Lyric will be devoted to drama, furnished by the Klaw & Erlanger attractions, while the Washington will continue to offer programs of moving pictures and refined vaudeville. Louis Landau, Jr., manager of the Washington theater, and president of the company named, will also manage the Lyric. The latter seats 1,500 people.

* * *

Charles Murray, of Keystone fame, accompanied by Mrs. Murray, spent a few days in the city last week, making the Hotel Sherman his headquarters. Mr. Murray is on a vacation, which will be spent in Indiana, Ohio and New York. Indiana is his native state, so Mr. Murray will spend most of the time there. To show the kind of a boss he is Mack Sennett is paying all the expenses of Mr. and Mrs. Murray during the trip.

* * *

Wallie Decker, who received frequent mention in these columns for his live work as press agent of Paramount's Chicago office some time ago, is now assisting in the press work for the company which is showing "Intolerance" in Milwaukee. "Wallie" is doing excellent work in his new position, from all reports. The other day "Wallie" wrote the following letter from Milwaukee to Walter Lindlar, press agent for "Intolerance" at the Colonial, this city:

"Why have you not sent the Babylonian bull you promised? Town turned out to see the bull wheeled through the streets, and they were much disappointed that it did not come on the afternoon train. What shall we tell the city editors who have assigned reporters to cover the event?"

"Tell them you shot the bull," Mr. Lindlar replied.

* * *

Even Dwight Elmerdorf, the famous travelogue producer and lecturer, is not exempt from the prying eyes and sharp shears of the Chicago censors. It appears that one of the scenes taken from "Children and Flowers from Many Lands," the Bagendit dance, was slashed by the censors Wednesday, January 24. During his lecture that evening at Orchestra Hall Mr. Elmendorf referred to the incident as follows:

"The picture shows small children dancing, among them's a boy—and you can tell that it's a boy. I have shown the same picture before in Chicago and recently in New York and other large cities, but have never met with any opposition. It's a wonder, since the United States doesn't admit Chinamen, that the board lets me show pictures of the children of China."

* * *

Miss Enid Bennett and her sister Marjorie stopped over here one day last week on their journey from New York to Culver City, Cal., the home of the Ince studios. It is said the "Princess of the Dark" will be her first picture.

* * *

William N. Selig has begun the production of a number of short photoplays for the General Film Company, in which will be featured such well-known stars as George Fawcett and Jack Pickford, the latter appearing in one-reel comedy dramas. "For Reward of Service" and "Lost and Found," a one and a two-reel photodrama, in which George Fawcett appears, are reviewed elsewhere in this issue.

* * *

The Norton Amusement Company has announced the reopening of the Platte theater, North Platte, Neb., on February 9. This company also operates two small theaters in the South.

Samuel Zukor, owner of the New Centre Theater, Kansas City, Mo., made a pleasant call at the World office on Thursday, Jan. 25, and placed a year's subscription. Mr. Zukor's visit to Chicago was for the purpose of looking over the feature market. The New Centre theater has a seating capacity of 1,600, and at the present time a feature program is exhibited at admissions of 15 and 25 cents. Beginning Sunday, Feb. 4, the Selig production, "The Crisis," will begin a run at the New Centre for an indefinite engagement. Mr. Zukor states that the minimum admission price for "The Crisis" will be 25 cents. He is in the market for larger productions of this kind, and would be pleased to hear from any exchanges having subjects large enough for weekly bookings. The New Centre is the largest exclusive moving picture theater in Kansas City, and the musical accompaniment to the pictures is furnished by a seven-piece orchestra and a large pipe organ.

* * *

Harry Bugie, former branch manager of the George Kleine Cincinnati office, has been transferred to the Philadelphia branch, to succeed Harry Scott, who has been appointed assistant general manager, but who at present is serving as acting general manager, in the place of Mr. Phelps, resigned. J. P. Gruwell, of the Kansas City (Mo.) branch, has succeeded Mr. Bugie, who was stationed at Philadelphia before his appointment to the Cincinnati office.

* * *

A special presentation of "'A Modern Mother Goose," produced by the Fort Dearborn Photoplays Co., of this city, and in which many Chicago children take part, was given at the Strand theater, Wabash avenue, this city, Saturday afternoon, January 27, under the auspices of the Park Seminary Day Nursery. The film was donated by J. M. Leaverton, president of the Lea-Bel Feature Film Company, who owns the world rights to this picture. The proceeds were turned over to the Park Seminary Day Nursery.

* * *

Director Al Green, George Fawcett, Miss Vivian Reed, Charles LeMoyne and other members of Selig's eastern company, left for Los Angeles Tuesday, January 23, where the production of "Little Lost Sister" will be continued at the Selig studios there.

* * *

Harry Weiss, managing director of the Lewis J. Selznick productions, this city, attended the recent exhibitors' convention at Indianapolis, and, incidentally, paid a visit to Louisville while on the trip. F. M. Brockell and Mr. Weiss are becoming popularly known as the Potash-Perlmutter of local film circles, due to the fact that the Lewis J. Selznick Productions are the first to have two men at the head of that organization.

* * *

J. L. Kempner, representing the Signet Film Corporation, New York, was a recent visitor at the Chicago office of the company, and while here made arrangements for the handling of the "Masque of Life" through the Lewis J. Selznick Productions, in the states of Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Michigan.

Matt B. Snyder Dead at Eighty

Veteran Soldier and Actor Passes Away at His Home in San Francisco.

RARE old Matt B. Snyder, sailor and soldier in his youth, sterling actor in his maturer years, veteran of the stage and for four years on the screen, passed away on January 16 at his home in San Francisco. Mr. Snyder was eighty years old.

He was educated at Annapolis, entered the mercantile marine and for a while was captain of a ship engaged in the slave trade. He was captured in Cuba, taken to Africa, and after thrilling adventures escaped and made his way to Liverpool. He served through the rebellion on the side of the south and at the conclusion, when he was mustered out as a major, was a member of the famous Kirby Smith Mexican expedition.

As an actor Mr. Snyder traveled all over the world, and for years played heavy parts with Edwin Booth and Mrs. Fiske and with the John Drew stock company. He entered pictures about four years ago, in New York, working for several companies, among them the Imp and Kalem. Two years ago he went to San Francisco, where he made his home with his daughter, the wife of one of the most famous restaurateurs of the city.

In later months Mr. Snyder had done much work with the California Motion Picture Company. He had also been specially engaged for the characterization of the General in "The Heart of Maryland," as Colonel Carvel in "The Crisis," and as Count Anteoni in "The Garden of Allah."

From Chicago comes word of the sorrow of Colonel William N. Selig and of the entire Selig personnel over the news of his death. Mr. Snyder was a most likable man. Of imposing physique, straight as an arrow, he looked far from his fourscore years. He had a host of friends all over the country who will feel a personal loss in his going.

Riley C. Chamberlin Dead

Much Admired Member of the Thanhouser Company Passed Away on January 24 at His New Rochelle Home.

The many friends and admirers of Riley C. Chamberlin will learn with deep regret of his death, which occurred Januay 24 at his home in New Rochelle. Mr. Chamberlin was one of the earliest actors in motion pictures, and it may be said in all truth he was one of the best. He was 62 years old, an Elk and had been seriously ill several times in the last few months.

Mr. Chamberlin was in the first two-reel pictures produced, and after a notable stage career had appeared steadily in Thanhouser productions for more than five years. He was born in Grand Rapids, Michigan, went west at an early age and was reared on a ranch. He was a cowboy in Colorado for several years, then traded in horses in the Dakotas.

Riley C. Chamberlin.

Mr. Chamberlin went east to Columbia University and after finishing an academic course decided his talents lay in acting. He had played with John McCollough, Booth and Barrett and with Charles Coghlan in "The Royal Box" before a long stock career. After engagements for several seasons with companies in Chicago and other cities in the middle west, Mr. Chamberlin was engaged by Edwin Thanhouser for the Thanhouser Stock Company in Milwaukee. He was comedian and character man for Mr. Thanhouser for seven years.

He later played with Mabel Barrison in "The Blue Mouse" and "Lulu's Husbands," with Marie Dressler in "Tillie's Nightmare" and in "Excuse Me," in Proctor's New York Stock Company and in stock in Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. Chamberlin has appeared in many Thanhouser productions and was Conductor 786 in the famous series of Thanhouser comedies. He played Longfellow in "The Children's Hour" and was the funny butler in Gladys Hulette's "Prudence, the Pirate."

Mr. Chamberlin is survived by two sisters, Mrs. H. M. Winslow, of New York, and Miss Belle Chamberlin, a contralto with the Boston Opera Company.

CARL GREGORY MARRIES MYRTA STRONG.

Carl Louis Gregory, Fellow of the Royal Geographic Society, chief photographer of the Technicolor Company, and cinematographer of international reputation, who conducts the Motion Picture Photography department of The Moving Picture World, was married to Miss Myrta Belle Strong in Jacksonville, Fla., on Saturday, January 20. The ceremony, which was witnessed by scores of the couple's friends, took place at noon in the sunshine parlor of the Hotel Burbridge. The bride, who arrived from her home in Cleveland a few hours before the ceremony, was given away by C. A. ("Doc") Willat, manager of production for the Technicolor Company.

The marriage of Mr. Gregory and Miss Strong brings to a happy climax a romance of twenty years standing. The beginning of the romance dates back to the time both bride and bridegroom were attending school in Cleveland.

RATHNER OF MINNEAPOLIS LOOKING 'EM OVER.

Harry Rathner of the Supreme Feature Film Company of Minneapolis is in town on a business trip and will remain for a few days. Mr. Rathner is making his headquarters with Mr. Cobe of the Unity Sales Corporation.

News of Los Angeles and Vicinity

By G. P. VON HARLEMAN

At Universal City

Many Companies at Work in Spite of Inclement Weather—H. O. Davis Receives Unique Book of Appreciation.

AT UNIVERSAL CITY sixteen companies were at work this week, filming large feature productions, while ten other companies were shooting comedies, dramas, western and underworld stories, in one, two and three reels. Most of the work has been done on the interior stages and the big electric light studio has been occupied day and night.

H. O. Davis, General Manager of the Universal City, received a unique book of appreciation from the employes of the plant, this week. The book, which is entitled "One Wonderful Year with H. O. Davis," is handsomely bound in Russia leather. It is composed of 100 pages, each containing a different hand-colored drawing and each page carrying an expression of appreciation of the chief of the Pacific coast studios of the Universal Company by the head of a department or one of the directors.

H. O. Davis.

The introduction, signed "E. Pluribus Unum," is as follows: "The sentiments in this little book are not mere empty phrases. No one ever entered into a task with greater enthusiasm and more genuine feeling than the associate authors whose names are inscribed within.

"It is hard to imagine a leader who could have inspired a deeper friendship than that which was born on our travels with you through 'one wonderful year.'"

One of the directors writes, "What I appreciate most is your system of co-operative harmony." Another director—a grateful one, says: "The commercial genius who possesses enough of the artistic to recognize it in others and made me a director—many promised but one performed."

The head of one of the departments, enthusiastic over Mr. Davis' successful first year, writes, "Reel Two of the big feature—'Davis done it,' is to be projected. Judging from Reel One this is a high-class production. Watch it."

This is from the chief of the cameramen: "We crank turners may be cranky and apparently spoiled, but when one considers that the makers of negative are positively the pivotal centers of the whole blamed movie art—a business round which the movie world rotates, then they shouldn't be too much blamed for feeling their exalted position."

Realizing the difficulty of securing suitable stories for the screen, the scenario editor has this to say: "May the coming year bring you in addition to health and wealth a lot of good scenarios."

Other expressions are as follows: "To a steady hand, the cool head and the warm heart that guide our daily task;" "Brimful of sincere good wishes and appreciation;" "In grateful appreciation of a very pleasant and instructive association;" "Your twelve cylinders have certainly all been working during the past year, judging from the success of our organization."

Mr. Davis says no gift he has ever received has given him so much genuine pleasure and that this little book speaks volumes of the loyalty of the organization at Universal City. "Such a thing," he said as proudly he turned the pages of the book, "comes a man's way only once in a lifetime."

Dr. Karl Mantzius Visits Los Angeles

Famous Danish Actor, Author and Manager of the Royal Theater of Copenhagen Comes Here to Study the Photoplay.

DR. KARL MANTZIUS, one of the world's greatest authorities on theatrical art, arrived in Los Angeles this week, accompanied by his wife. Dr. Mantzius is the manager of the Royal Theater of Copenhagen, an institution maintained largely by the Danish government.

His greatest fame lies in his authoritative work, "The History of Theatrical Art," six volumes of which have been completed and are to be found translated into nearly every modern language. The seventh may soon be added, after Dr. Mantzius has made a comprehensive study of American drama, and particularly the photoplay. His work, to be found in nearly every public library in this country, has taken him twenty-two years to bring up to its present point.

Aside from being an author-manager, he has achieved much fame in his home country as the leading exponent of Shakespearean drama, playing the principal roles in the majority of the English playwright's works. His father before him was a great actor.

The "Little Theater" movement and the photoplay are matters of great interest to the visitor. "I think that the younger actors, who are developing largely through such institutions as the New York Little Theater, the Washington Square players and others, have great futures," Dr. Mantzius said to a representative of the press.

"America stands pre-eminent as a motion-picture-producing country. Before the war, Italy was doing wonderful things, but a spectacle such as 'Intolerance' is almost undreamed of by our European producers."

For three months past, the noted historian of the theatrical development has been traveling leisurely through the East, studying things as he found them there. He declared that some day the American government will further real stage uplift and development with subsidies such as are paid in nearly all European countries.

"Our theater received 160,000 kronen, or about $40,000 a year from the government, in addition to a guarantee to cover any additional deficit that may occur through the production of some unusual spectacle, opera or ballet. The theater was established in 1722 and has enjoyed such assistance for many years for the purpose of developing a finer spirit of art among our people."

Both Dr. and Mrs. Mantzius have been entranced with California. During the coming week, the visitors will be entertained at various moving-picture plants.

News From Santa Barbara

Rollin S. Sturgeon Joins "Flying A" Company to Direct Gail Kane.

FROM the American Film Company studios in Santa Barbara we learn that Rollin S. Sturgeon, for many years director-general of the Western Vitagraph studios, has joined the producing forces of the "Flying A" organization. Mr. Sturgeon's initial enterprise will be the production of a photoplay featuring Gail Kane, the new American star, who will arrive in Santa Barbara this week. Elaborate preparations for the coming of Miss Kane are being made and the selection of her supporting cast has been given unusual attention. She will be starred in dramatic vehicles of the type which have constituted her greatest successes. Gail Kane is considered to be one of the most beautiful women on the screen. Her career began under Charles Frohman, ten years ago. Among her stage successes were: "Decorating Clementine," "The Model," and "Anatol," "Macushla," with Chauncey Olcott; "Myre, the Adventuress," with George Cohan in his Broadway hit; "Seven Keys to Baldpate," and "The Miracle Man." In her recent engagement at the Globe Theater, New York, in "The Harp of Life," Miss Kane enjoyed a great success. Her screen connection included All Star, Metro, Pathe and World Film Corporation.

Two large feature productions were completed this week at the American studios. "My Fighting Gentleman," in which William Russell is starred under the direction of Edward Sloman, and "The Gentle Intruder," the latest American-Mutual feature, with Mary Miles Minter as the star, under direction of James Kirkwood. The cast of the William Russell play includes Francelia Billington, Russell's new leading woman; Jack Vosburgh, Lucille Ward, Clarence Burton, Harry Von Meter, William Carroll and Sid Algier. "The Gentle Intruder" is the sixth of the Mary Miles Minter series and the cast includes George Fisher as the leading man, supported by Eugenie E. Ford, Harvey Clark, Marie Van Tassell, Franklin Ritchie and George Periolat.

Taking a Scene for "My Fighting Gentleman."

"High Play" is the name of the William Russell productions, rehearsal on which will begin this week. The story was written by Julius Grinnell Furthmann. Francelia Billington will play the lead opposite Russell and Edward Sloman will direct the picture. Lucille Young and Edward Piel were engaged by the American this week and will probably be included in the cast. Lucille Young comes from the Fine Arts and Piel from the Fox Film Co. X. K. Stout has been appointed assistant business manager. He has been connected with the Mutual for the last three years and was, for more than a year, with the Mutual Exchange in San Francisco.

YORKE METRO PLAYERS RETURN FROM THE MOUNTAINS.

Producer Fred J. Balshofer, Harold Lockwood, May Allison, and a company of Yorke-Metro players returned this week to the Hollywood studios from an exciting trip to Mt. Baldy, where they went last week to film snow stuff for the final big scenes of James B. Hendryck's novel, "The Promise." Included in the party were, besides those above mentioned, Assistant Director Jay Hunt, Lester Cuneo, leading heavy man, Lillian Hayward, character woman, and a lot of extra people.

Much anxiety was felt at the local studios for Mr. Balshofer and his players, as nothing was heard from them for several days, on account of the wires being down. It was quite a celebration when the producer and his company returned, tired and frozen, but none the worse from their strenuous journey.

CORONA CINEMA COMPANY ORGANIZED.

Wycliffe H. Hill, local newspaper man, has organized the Corona Cinema Company. The company is being backed by Iowa and California capital to produce a spectacular ten-reel feature entitled "The Curse of Eve." The story was written by Mr. Hill and is being scenarioized by Joseph Anthony Roach. The following officers and directors have been elected: President, F. E. Kieler, a banker of Mason City, Iowa; vice-president, H. F. Scoville, attorney, of Los Angeles; secretary and treasurer, I. W. Keerl, a Mason City, Iowa, banker; J. A. Sober, a Los Angeles oil man, and Wycliffe A. Hill, general manager. Frank Beal, one of the best known directors in the Los Angeles colony and noted for many excellent productions when with the Selig and Pathe Companies, has been engaged as director-general. Mr. Beal has secured a strong cast, including Enid Markey, the former Ince luminary; Ed. Coxen, lately with Selig; Jack Standing, from Fox; Clarissa Selwynne, character actress, formerly with the World and Bluebird companies; Grace Thompson, one of the old Universal stars, and Guy Oliver, a recruit from Selig's Western Coast studios. Director Beal has taken part of his cast to the Santa Cruz Islands to start production on the prologue of the story, the scenes of which are laid in the Garden of Eden.

GRACE CUNARD MARRIED TO JOE MOORE.

A secret romance of Los Angeles filmdom was revealed this week, when it was learned that Grace Cunard, famous film star, and Joe Moore had eloped and were married Thursday night at Seal Beach.

The wedding was the culmination of a romance which had its inception in a Los Angeles motion picture studio and about which even intimate friends of the couple knew nothing.

Moore and Miss Cunard motored to Seal Beach, where they were married. Next day they were back at work at the studios of the L-Ko company in Hollywood.

Moore and his bride met in Los Angeles about four months ago. They will make their home here.

SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION STARTS NEW SERIAL

The Signal Film Corporation has started production this week on their new railroad serial, "The Railroad Raiders," under direction of J. P. McGowan.

The serial will be produced in fifteen chapters and is adapted for the screen by L. V. Jefferson, from the original fiction stories by P. G. Estee. Helen Holmes will be starred in the production. The supporting cast is practically the same as in the recently completed serial, "A Lass of the Lumberlands," and includes Leo D. Maloney, Paul C. Hurst, Thomas G. Longham, William Brunton, Will Chapman, William Hemphill, Charles U. Wells, George Wisschusen and William Behrens.

During the production of the fifteen installments, the company will travel to Las Vegas, N. M., Tucson, Ariz.; the Yosemite Valley and to various other locations within a day's travel of Los Angeles, for necessary exterior scenes.

A VISIT TO THE L-KO STUDIOS.

A representative of The Moving Picture World spent an interesting afternoon on the L-Ko lot this week. L-Ko is the place where Abe Stern is the business executive and our very good friend, Jack Blystone, director-general, the man responsible for the general excellence of the comedies released under the brand. During the course of our visit we were piloted around the lot by A. L. Mayo, head of the scenario and publicity departments. We saw Alice Howell, supported by Fatty Voss, in a comedy scene, which even drew a laugh from Abe Stern, and that is going some. That day Craig Hutchinson, one of the youngest directors in the game was completing a two-reel picture featuring Dan Russell. The story was written around a six-day bicycle race. Jack Blystone is the author of a new comedy which Kitty Howe was directing, with Phil Dunham, the English comedian, playing the feature lead.

Bunch on the L-Ko Lot.

During the afternoon the accompanying picture was snapped of several prominent people on the lot. Among them, from left to right, in the background, A. L. Mayo, head of the scenario and publicity departments; Jack G. Blystone, director-general; Louis Jacobs, business manager, and Fatty Voss, comedian. Foreground, in center, Abe Stern, vice-president; Alice Howell, featured comedienne; Sam H. Comly, of The Moving Picture World, and Charles W. Painter.

LOS ANGELES PREMIERE OF "JOAN THE WOMAN."

The premiere presentation of "Joan the Woman" at the Majestic Theater Monday this week was a huge success. Everybody who is anybody in filmdom was present, including a glittering galaxy of Lasky stars. Applause was at times deafening. The stage setting for the photoplay was not elaborate, but very effective. The musical score was well prepared and well executed.

Thanks for those nice seats, Kenneth McGaffey.

LOS ANGELES FILM BREVITIES.

Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, will arrive in Los Angeles Friday, January 26, on important business, it is rumored, in connection with his latest film enterprises.

* * *

Cleo Madison, we are informed, has signed a long-time contract with a new feature film company headed by Louis Jacobs, who will shortly start productions and is at present looking for a suitable location for his new company. Harry Solter, former Lubin and Imp director, has arrived from New York to direct Miss Madison's Company. The name of this new film-producing concern and the supporting cast of players have not as yet been decided. We are informed that the L-Ko and the Stern Film Company will not be affiliated with the Cleo Madison Company.

* * *

Our old-time friend, Julius Singer, special representative for the L-Ko Film Company, arrived in the city this week from New York. Mr. Singer dropped in at The World office for a friendly chat about those happy days way back in 1908 when The Moving Picture World had a small office in Chicago and the writer used to call every week to see Mr. Laemmle and Mr. Singer, his right-hand assistant at the old Laemmle Film Exchange on Lake street. That was many years before Universal City was built.

* * *

Clarke Irvine, that well known "screamer" scenario writer, and last, but not least, for almost two years our own co-correspondent, has joined the Yorke Metro. Clarke will start work Monday next week and write publicity for Mr. Balshofer. Good luck, you!

* * *

A. Burt Wesner, actor and stage director, has signed with the William Fox Company for a prominent part in the new Gladys Brockwell photoplay which Richard Stanton is directing. Until last week Mr. Wesner was acting in and directing the staging of productions at the Burbank Theater, Los Angeles, Cal. When the house closed preparatory to a change of policy, he decided to take a flyer into motion picture work and signed up with William Fox.

Mr. Wesner is known in theatrical circles throughout the country. His most recent big success was staging "The Brat," which is soon to open in New York.

* * *

Jack Pickford has arrived at the Lasky studios and will shortly begin work with Vivian Martin, the Morosco star, on a new production under the direction of Marshall Neilan.

* * *

Maximilian Ryder, play writer, has become a member of the scenario department at the Lasky Studios.

* * *

The next elaborate feature to be filmed by W. H. Clune will be a picturization of Harold Bell Wright's novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills." At his camp in Arizona, Mr. Wright is working on the scenario and preparing to take an active part in the making of the feature. Most of the scenes will be enacted and photographed in the Ozark Mountains in Missouri, the locale of the story.

* * *

J. D. Williams, the motion picture magnate of Australia, is visiting Los Angeles. E. J. Carroll, another Australian motion picture man, also arrived in the city this week.

* * *

Charles Ray, the Ince star, has decided to cast his lot with Mr. Ince in the New York Motion Picture Corporation, and signed, last week, a long-time contract with the Culver City people.

Louise Glaum has also signed up with the Ince Company, we are informed, for a period of two years.

* * *

George Bronson Howard, who has finished his year's engagement with Universal, during which period he has produced a number of pictures, has left that organization and is negotiating with Mr. Ince to write scenarios for that company.

* * *

Frederick R. Bechdolt, writer of western fiction, accompanied by his wife, is visiting the Glendale studios of the Kalem Company this week. Mr. Bechdolt is now writing "The Girl From Frisco" stories for Kalem, which are being produced at Glendale by Director James W. Horne. Mr. Bechdolt has lived many of the incidents which he has embodied in his stories. He did placer mining in the Klondike gold rush of '97 and drove a dog sled. He carred a rod on the Great Northern survey for the Cascade tunnel and worked on a drill during the construction of the tunnel. He assisted the sheriff of San Bernardino county in rounding up Death Valley Scotty's gang while working as a reporter.

Director James W. Horne set a record in shooting scenes last week. He took 97 in one day, of the most diversified character. In the morning he worked with a crowd of extras, including Mexicans, in a Mexican street, then worked in two sets on the stage. He went out on locations and when he came back studio manager S. V. Boyd had three more sets ready. Horne jumped in with his principals and shot the ninety-seventh scene of the day before the sun went down, completing his picture. Bad weather had held up "Dynamo Jim" and he put on this extra steam when the sun finally appeared.

* * *

Drawings are being prepared at the Thomas H. Ince studios for a mammoth electric sign which will grace the administration building of the Culver City plant. The sign is to be one hundred and eighteen feet long and thirty-six feet high, and will be placed so as to face the city of Los Angeles.

* * *

James Kirkwood, the American director for Mary Miles Minter, accompanied by his wife, Gertrude Robinson, paid a brief visit to the city this week to attend the opening performance of "Joan, the Woman," at the Majestic Theater. On Tuesday, this week, Mr. Kirkwood gave a dinner at the Sunset Inn to a number of notables of the screen.

* * *

The Balboa studios have added the following players to their producing forces: Edna Maison, formerly with Universal; Golda Madden, from the same company; Jack Dill, lately with the Essanay eastern stock; Nan Christy, who has been featured in numerous Horsley productions, Norbert Myles and Lester Scott, formerly Oscar Apfel's assistant as director.

* * *

Lois Wilson, the Alabama beauty, has left the Universal fold, to play leads in the feature productions of the California Motion Picture Company at San Rafael.

* * *

A new department has been created by Manager Milton E. Hoffman of the Lasky company—that of "title editing." Burke Jenkins of the scenario department has been selected as the head of this department to supervise and edit the subtitles and inserts of all Lasky productions.

* * *

Elizabeth McGaffey, head of the Lasky research department, has been transferred to the scenario department to write original stories under the direction of William C. De Mille and Marian Fairfax. Miss Iva-Ette Sullivan, one of the librarians of the Los Angeles public library, has been secured as head of the research department under Mrs. McGaffey's supervision.

* * *

Norman Manning, the manager of the Balboa studios, was "arrested" at Long Beach one day this week, and put in jail. He was behind the bars for nearly three hours when he was "rescued" by a delegation of Long Beach Elks and taken to the club-house. There it was explained to him that his "arrest" was a part of the initiation ceremonies and when he left the clubhouse he was a full-fledged Elk.

* * *

Irvin Willat, head of the photographic department of the Thomas H. Ince studios, and his assistant, Jack Kelly, left for Eureka, Cal., this week, where they will film scenes on and around the cruiser "Milwaukee," which is aground on the California coast about four hundred miles north of San Francisco.

* * *

Facetious people now refer to the Morosco studio as "the deserted village," because three of the stars, Kathlyn Williams, Myrtle Stedman and Vivian Martin are now at work at the Lasky plant, leaving the entire studio to George Beban and his director, Donald Crisp, and to Director Ed Le Saint, who is making a production in which House Peters and Louise Huff are co-starred.

* * *

At the Fox studios, Otis Turner will complete, next week, the George Walsh picture which he has been making for William Fox. He will then immediately begin the filming of a new production with Mr. Walsh as the star.

* * *

The Dustin Farnum company is now taking snow scenes at Truckee, California, under the direction of William D. Taylor.

* * *

"Stage Struck" has been chosen as the title for the Triangle Fine Arts production previously known as "The Failures," written by Roy Somerville and directed by Edward Morrissey, and featuring Dorothy Gish. Frank Bennett plays the leading masculine role opposite Miss Gish. Other principals in the cast are Kate Toncray, Jennie Lee, Spottiswoode Aitken and Fred A. Warren.

* * *

"The Spitfire" is the final title for the Triangle Fine Arts production," The Doll Shop," with Bessie Love in the stellar role. The scenario was written by Anita Loos and is now receiving its finishing touches at the Fine Arts studio by Director Edward Dillon. More than three hundred extra people were engaged to appear in the fire scene, which showed the destruction of a factory. Roy Stuart plays the leading male role opposite Miss Love. Carmel Myers, Max Davidson and Carl Stockdale play important parts in the production.

* * *

Dorothy Dalton was regally received, this week, when she appeared before a capacity audience at the Liberty Theater, in Long Beach, Cal., immediately after the performance of "The Female of the Species," her latest Ince production. Miss Dalton thanked her admirers cordially for the reception they had accorded her, and told some amusing experiences which had happened during the filming of the production. Upon leaving the theater it was necessary for an attache to assist in carrying the flowers presented to her by friends and the management of the theater.

* * *

One of the most interesting places in the world is the Keystone cafe at lunch time.

At one table you see a regal beauty in a low neck gown dining with a district messenger boy and a clown.

At another a pair of pink tights peek out from the folds of a bath robe that envelopes some fairy whose luncheon companions are an imitation Chinaman, a country girl in pigtails and a motion picture cow puncher.

The double-dyed tough old villain amiably gossips with the hero and the innocent heroine.

A little knot of the Keystone swimming girls come in together and make up a party. They are all splendid young Dianas glowing with youth and health.

Louise Fazenda and Charlie Murray and two or three members of their company come in late after a struggle with a long scene in the light studio. They are still talking it over. At a near-by table, Director Wright is planning the afternoon's scenes with Ora Carew, who appears as a fascinating little Chinese girl in blue and gold.

Dora Rogers, the Keystone's vamp, dashes in hungry as a bearess.

Gloria Swanson and Wallace Beery, the auto speed king, are having lunch together. Gloria is a dream in a pink satin evening gown. Wallace appears in the glaring of noon in a dress suit.

Over at a table in the corner is the big chief, Mr. Sennett, going over corned beef and cabbage and a studio problem with Mr. O'Sullivan, the studio superintendent.

A charming note of youth and good fellowship runs through the scene.

* * *

More than a thousand children living in the Westlake Park district of Los Angeles gathered at a motion picture theater last Saturday to do homage to Little Mary Sunshine, the Balboa Company's baby grand star. Each child brought a flower for the little star and the aggregated bouquet was so large that it could not all be removed from the theater, so Little Mary Sunshine contented herself with filling her limousine with the posies.

* * *

The forest rangers in the employ of the United States government on the reservations in Southern California are to be the guests of W. H. Clune at a performance of "The Eyes of the World" at the Auditorium Theater, this week. The most exciting part of the story revolves around these mountain guardians for Uncle Sam and Mr. Clune believes that the wonderful horsemanship and other stirring episodes in which the rangers figure will be of special interest to them.

* * *

Director Rex Ingram is working day and night with a large corps of assistants preparing for the picturization of a Chinatown feature photoplay. In the technical preparations of this photoplay Director Ingram was aided by Thomas H. Gubbins, of the staff of H. R. Hough, controller at Universal City. Gubbins lived eight years in China, while in the service of the United States government. He was able to offer Ingram valuable suggestions regarding the costumes and proper sets, and also will aid him in directing the Chinese who will be used in many of the scenes.

* * *

A new comedy was started by Al E. Christie this week, entitled "Hubby's Flirting Way;" the story is by Walter Graham and the cast includes Billie Rhodes, Neil Burns and Ethel Lynne.

* * *

The stork paid a visit to the Selig Zoo the other night and left three lusty young lions. These babies have the distinction of being the first arrivals of the new year at the zoo.

* * *

W. J. Drummond, the genial manager of the local Mutual Exchange, is being congratulated by his many friends upon the news of his promotion to manager of the Mutual Exchange in San Francisco. The promotion is a reward for Drummond's persistent optimism and effective hustling. He will be succeeded as manager of the local exchange by T. E. Malcolm, who has been with the Mutual offices in Montreal. We welcome most heartily Mr. Malcolm to the local film row and say goodbye to Mr. Drummond with a great deal of regret.

* * *

James C. Slipper, the head of J. Slipper & Company, motion picture supplies, reports business booming all along the line. Mr. Slipper has recently sold Douglas Jarmuth, manager of the Colonial theater, 54th and Vermont, two Simplex machines, one G. E. generator, and a Minusa screen; also a Baird machine to J. O. Grant, manager and owner of the Beaumont theater at Beaumont, California. The local Orpheum theater has enrolled itself as a customer of Mr. Slipper with the purchase of a new Powers machine.

* * *

H. I. Krause, branch manager of the International Film Service, is going around film row with an expansive grin on his face, owing to the cordial reception given the serial "Patria" at its recent society showing at the Hotel Alexandria. The social elite were out in full force that night and their enthusiasm relative to the merits of Mrs. Vernon Castle's photoplay debut was extremely gratifying to our good friend Krause.

* * *

We were the guest of Managers Fred and Roy Miller at their attractive Miller's theater this week to see the first Los Angeles run of the new Fox Film Comedies, "Social Pirates," with Charles Arling in the lead. The first comedy feature drew plaudits from Manager Miller's patrons. E. H. Emmick, of the Peerless Film Company, has just obtained Mr. Miller's signature to a contract which provides for the exclusive run at the Alhambra theater of all of the Christie Film Company's productions. The first of these rollicking comedies, entitled "Bride and Gloom," directed by our good friend, Al Christie, will be show at the theater next week.

* * *

Manager McCarthy, of Clune's Comedy theater, has been promoted to the managership of Clune's Broadway theater, in place of J. W. Anderson, who is leaving for other fields of endeavor.

* * *

F. Stern and J. F. Lustig, managers of this city, have leased the Belasco theater, and will transform it into an up-to-date motion picture house. The opening attraction will be D. W. Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation." A special orchestra has been installed and only big features will be shown at this house. The Belasco, at the heyday of its career, was famous all over the country as the birthplace of many new dramas and the starting point in the careers of many of the best known stars of the legitimate stage.

* * *

After owning the Colonial theater just a month, during which they smashed all attendance record for Monrovia film houses, Eiler Bros. have sold their business back to I. L. Yost, one of the Yost Bros., from whom they made the purchase thirty days ago.

O. T. Crawford, St. Louis Pioneer, Dead

Well-Known Film Man Opened First Exchange in Missouri City and Built Many Theaters.

THE death of O. T. Crawford, which occurred in San Francisco on January 17, brings to a close the interesting career of one of St. Louis' film pioneers, and a man who has helped to make enough moving picture history to fill a volume.

Mr. Crawford was the first man to establish a film rental exchange in St. Louis. He operated at first in the Gayety theater building at Thirteenth and Locust streets, and the business, of which he was the head, is said to have paid as high as 500 per cent. profit.

After a consolidation of a number of smaller exchanges was made with the Crawford interests the business was moved to the Century building, and was called the Swanson-Crawford film exchange, and for a time was the largest one of its kind in that part of the country.

Mr. Crawford promoted and built a number of theaters in St. Louis and other cities. The first of these, the Novelty at Grand and Easton avenues, was the first big house to be built away from the downtown district, and was the talk of the town. Others were built in rapid succession, among them the Rialto, now the Delmar; the Mikado; the Montgomery; the Shenandoah; the Juniata; the Cherokee; the Gravois; the Arco, and the King's. Theaters were also erected in East St. Louis and other Illinois towns, as well as the Marlowe theater, in Chicago.

All of the Crawford houses were built on the same general plan of architecture, the erecting material being steel and concrete, and fireproof throughout. The King's in particular is one of the most complete and well equipped theaters in this section of the country.

Crawford also produced films. One of his ventures, "The James Boys of Missouri," based on the life of the celebrated outlaws, Frank and Jesse James, had considerable success. In addition to these other enterprises, he was at the head of a big vaudeville agency.

Mr. Crawford was reputed to be worth a million dollars at one time. His ventures reached their apex in 1911-12, and then came a change, and at his death it is said Mr. Crawford was comparatively a poor man. Nevertheless, he saw big things, and did big things, and the fact that he did not bring all of his many enterprises to a more successful completion than he did does not carry with it any record of lack of effort.

O. T. Crawford was the biggest individual figure in the film industry in St. Louis and surrounding territory for many years. He was well liked, had a most engaging personality, and was a good friend.

Crawford's body was brought from San Francisco to St. Louis for burial. He was forty-nine years old.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION ISSUES FOLDER.

One of the handsomest pieces of campaign literature which has ever been issued by any commercial organization has just been sent out by the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry. This is a six-page folder in three colors setting forth the "Purpose, Structure and Possibilities" of the Association in good, crisp language calculated to let the motion picture magnate know just what the National Association is doing and expects him to do.

The folder is 8½ by 4 inches in size and is printed in dark green and red on a mask of pale blue panels on heavy white paper. The now well known emblem of the Association is set off in red, on the first page, and inside across the tops of the pages in a narrow panel, runs a repetition of the slogan of the Association, "Unity of Action Spells Success."

The names of the officers and board of directors are on the last pages of the folder, and under the general heading, "Plans, Aims and Organization," a summary of the organization is set forth.

EXHIBITOR TAKES LONG TRIP TO MEET HART.

William S. Hart had the unusual experience recently of greeting an admirer who had journeyed all the way from Blackwell, Oklahoma, to Inceville, to see the noted Triangle-Ince star. The traveler was J. C. Blackwell, an exhibitor of Blackwell, who never fails, he says, to fill his house with a Hart play, and he stated nothing else influenced him to make the long trip except a desire to meet personally and shake the hand of Mr. Hart. His wish was granted, for the player allowed Blackwell to watch his current play in course of production and later escorted him about the big Inceville plant.

Marie Doro Arrives in New York

Star Transfers Activities From Lasky Los Angeles Studio to Famous Players Here.

MARIE DORO, who has been starring in Lasky Pictures on the Paramount Program for several months, arrived in New York this week and will immediately begin work at the Famous Players studio on "Forget-me-nots." It was at the Famous Players studio that Marie Doro made her motion picture debut in the adaptation of "The Morals of Marcus," in which she had starred on the stage. That was just after her great success on the stage in "Diplomacy," in which she was later starred on the screen by the Famous Players.

Following this successful production Miss Doro went to the Coast and joined the Lasky forces. Miss Doro's first Lasky picture was "The Heart of Nora Flynn," which was followed by "Common Ground," and "The Lash."

"Oliver Twist" the adaptation of the great Dickens' novel in which Miss Doro scored a tremendous success, was the next of her productions and this was followed by "Lost and Won."

There will be at least one more Lasky picture released on the Paramount Program in which Miss Doro will star before she appears again under the Famous Players banner in "Forget-me-nots."

A. H. Blank, Theater Manager

THE accompanying engraving is a likeness of A. H. Blank, of Des Moines, Iowa. Mr. Blank was little known to the film trade until a few weeks ago, when he made his "debut" in the eastern film market. His first picture deal was the purchase of the Selznick releases for the States of Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska. Upon completion of his deal he returned to Des Moines and hardly alighted from the train when he received a wire recalling him to New York to engineer another and larger deal than the first, the deal in question being the purchase of the Triangle releases and exchanges for the States of Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska. He succeeded in getting and carrying with him a signed contract for the same.

A. H. Blank.

Not only does Mr. Blank own and control the Selznick and Triangle exchanges for Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska, but also operates a chain of theaters throughout these four statse, having three theaters in Davenport, namely the Family, Garden and Strand, one theater in Des Moines, the Garden, and one theater in Omaha, Nebraska, the Garden. Mr. Blank has now in the course of construction three theaters seating respectively 1,000, 1,200 and 1,450.

Mr. Blank is also the President of the Exhibitors' League of the State of Iowa. He is a wide-awake exhibitor and exchange man and is always looking forward to the betterment of the film industry. All men visiting Des Moines will always find a cordial greeting awaiting them when calling on Mr. Blank, he being somewhat of an entertainer of ability.

SANGER SIGNS ANGLIN FOR PICTURES.

Eugene B. Sanger, president of the Sanger Picture Plays Corporation, announces he has signed Miss Margaret Anglin as one of his stars. Other names will be announced shortly

This is Miss Anglin's initial entrance into the realm of motion pictures. While Mr. Sanger prefers not to give out the names and authors of the plays for the present, those which he has selected for Miss Anglin are both powerful in theme and novel in treatment.

Mr. Rezac States His Side

Denies His Operator Was But Fifteen Years of Age—Is Paying Salary and Expenses of Injured Young Man.

IN a spirit of fair play, we print below a letter received from W. J. Rezac, manager of the Princess theater, Hibbing, Minn., and the Lyric theater, Virginia, Minn. Mr. Rezac complains of an article printed in the Moving Picture World of January 27, under the caption "A Serious Business." The story purported to tell the facts of a fire that occured in the projection booth of the Princess theater. Mr. Rezac's letter in full follows:

In your most recent issue, January 27, under the caption, "A Serious Business," appears a story which if accurately written would not appear altogether disfavorable to me, as the theater proprietor concerned.

Glen Wilson, whose age is stated at fifteen, the picture machine operator who was burned, painfullv. but not seriously, was employed by me and for more than one reason. I was led to believe him to be over sixteen—he is around 6 feet in height and well proportioned, and because he was the support of his mother, I was urged to engage him, which I did at $10 a week, not $30 monthly as your article says—rather the added communication states—and though he has not worked for me since the accident, I am still, without a suggestion from any source, paying him $10 each week, besides which I obligated myself for the expenses which the unfortunate occasion caused.

The story copied from the Duluth News Tribune is wrong in fact and suggestion, and in its glaring presentation was inspired by that publication's reporter because of unfriendly feeling toward me.

That, however, is neither here nor there. He has before that time and since inaccurately written stories which have concerned others, and has as a consequence been superseded by another man.

There was no panic in the theater. The operating room of my Hibbing theater is practically detached from the show house and it is fireproofed just as effectively as is possible, and equally as well as any room of its kind in this section. The burns were received by the boy when he threw the ignited film through the door of the booth and into the street, something which was unnecessary, but of course, having happened, is now over with.

Needless to say, I am genuinely sorry that the occurrence transpired. Far from picking up poor boys, and leaving them to "run the show," I pay strict attention to the conduct of my business, and without exaggeration can say that those connected with my institutions receive as good and better wages than employees in similar capacity in other theaters of this territory.

I would thank you very much for the space necessary to set me right. Yours very truly,

W. J. REZAC.

La Salle Film Company Organized

Chicago Concern Formed Specially for the Production of High Class One-Reel Comedies.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made in Chicago of the formation of the La Salle Film Corporation, incorporated for $25,000 under the laws of Illinois. At a meeting held recently in Chicago the following officers were elected: President, F. L. Bateman; vice president, George W. Leighton; secretary, Phil A. Grau, and treasurer, Frank J. Seng.

The object of this company is to produce single-reel comedies, to be released through independent exchanges on the state rights basis. It has been given out from the Chicago office of the company that actual production was started about four months ago in Los Angeles, where the company has leased a fully equipped studio and engaged a company of well known comedians. Eight single reels, to be known as "Lafco" comedies, have already been completed, and will be shown to the trade in the near future. M. De La Parelle, a well known director, is at the head of the producing organization.

The executive offices of the company have been opened in the Harris Trust Building, Chicago, and B. F. Lewis has been engaged as general manager. Mr. Lewis is well known in Chicago film circles, and for three years was associated with the Celebrated Players Film Co. as salesman and purchasing agent. He left that company last June to go to the Mexican border with the First Illinois Cavalry, and upon his return a short time ago he accepted his present position.

Mr. Lewis states that negotiations are now under way with some of the most dependable exchanges in the country, assuring the release of "Lafco" comedies at an early date. In commenting on the plans of the La Salle Film Corporation, Mr. Lewis said: "It is our intention to place on the market a brand of comedy that will conform with the prevailing public taste, the style that does not depend upon slapstick or vulgarity.

"The officers of the company are all substantial business men, whose success in their various lines has been achieved only by strict honesty, integrity and good business methods. They are actively interested in this new enterprise, and their resources and business knowledge are assurance that no effort will be spared in making 'Lafco' comedies among the best on the market.

Elsie Ferguson with Cardinal

Popular Actress Will Begin Work in Studio at End of Her Appearance in "Shirley Kaye."

AT the conclusion of the present theatrical season Miss Elsie Ferguson, one of the most popular American stars of the stage, will act before the motion picture camera. Announcement of her engagement to do a series of notable screen productions was made last week by the Cardinal Film Corporation.

The Cardinal has under contract for exclusive film appearances Miss Geraldine Farrar, in addition to Miss Ferguson.

Elsie Ferguson.

Miss Ferguson, at the Hudson Theater, where she is appearing in "Shirley Kaye," verified the announcement.

Miss Ferguson's first appearance as a stage star was under the management of the late Henry B. Harris, who presented her in "Such a Little Queen." Subsequently she appeared in "The First Lady of the Land," giving an interpretation of the part of Dolly Madison, which won her widespread praise as a beautiful bit of characterization.

Under the management of Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger she is enjoying one of her greatest successes this season on Broadway in the Hudson Theater, where she is appearing in "Shirley Kaye." For the same management in the past few seasons she appeared in "The Strange Woman," "Outcast," one of the most remarkable successes of several years, and "Margaret Schiller." With Sir Herbert Tree she appeared in "The Merchant of Venice" during the notable revival last year at the New Amsterdam Theater, and she has played in all-star revivals of such successes as "Caste" and "Arizona."

Miss Ferguson's beauty, talent and charm make her entrance into the broader field of motion pictures one of the conspicuous events of the year.

BELMONT LEASES MITTENTHAL STUDIOS.

The Belmont Film Company has leased, for a term of years, the Mittenthal studios, at Yonkers, N. Y., where the Billy West series of comedies will be continued to be produced. The comedies featuring this new comedian have already proved exceedingly popular, "His Married Life," "Boarders and Bombs," etc., having been heavily booked all over the country.

The Mittenthal studios are completely equipped. Every modern device for picture-making is installed as well as a good many extra features not found in the average motion picture plant. The rental paid by the Belmont Film Company for the plant and its equipment was stated by an officer of the Belmont concern to be in excess of $20,000 yearly.

LE SAINT AND HOPPER SWAP JOBS.

Lasky and Morosco have exchanged directors, Edward J. Le Saint going from Lasky to Morosco and E. Mason Hopper traveling from Los Angeles to Hollywood for the purpose of presiding over Wallace Reid and Myrtle Stedman in their next joint Lasky-Paramount production.

Indiana Gets Strange Censorship Bill

Measure Believed to be Backed by "Legimitate" Interests Not Thought to Have Much Chance of Passing.

THE Indiana General Assembly is now in session, and as usual the "censorship bug" has made its appearance. It appeared in the form of a bill introduced in the lower branch of the body by Representative Eikenberry, who announced his action was "by request."

From the standpoint of the motion picture theater owner the bill has many objectionable features, chief among them being the censorship provision, and already the motion picture men of the state organized action against the bill. Attorneys have been employed, and representatives and senators are being seen personally in the districts in which they live in an attempt by the picture men to head off the proposed legislation. There is every likelihood the bill will be killed before it reaches the floor of either branch of the assembly, it is said, because of the strong influences which are at work.

The bill is said to be backed by the so-called "legitimate" theater interests, which have suffered a severe setback because of the popularity of the motion picture houses of Indianapolis and other cities of the state. Included in the bill is a provision to legalize Sunday legitimate theater performances, as well as circus and cabaret performances. The bill is cloaked in the guise of charity.

"Joan" Emphasizes Sunday Opening

Vote Taken at Albany Exhibition Before Gov. Whitman Shows 84 Per Cent. in Favor of Sunday Shows.

AT the showing of "Joan the Woman" to Governor Whitman, his staff, the legislators and their friends at Albany last week, a straw vote was taken not only as to the picture, but as to the desire of those present to have the motion picture houses open on Sunday.

Out of a total vote of 502 at the evening performance, 425 were in favor of Sunday shows. Out of 232 votes at the morning matinee, which was held to accommodate those who could not get into the hall the evening before, 186 showed a percentage of more than 84 per cent. of the people present and voting who desired motion pictures on the Sabbath.

Authorities who have seen the original signatures on these programs say that they consider this a strong argument in favor of Sunday opening, and that this straw vote, which includes the names of some of the most prominent Senators and Assemblymen and their wives, is not only a fair indication of the feelings of the people in Albany, but of the State.

PICTURES FINISHED FOR GORDON LECTURES.

W. Lindsay Gordon has entered into a contract with Elite Photography, Inc., who make the Elite Motion Pictures, to release all of his feature lectures in the future. Mr. Gordon has been receiving for some time past scores of letters from those using his lecture sets to have moving pictures for a finish made for them. These requests grew so numerous that he decided to meet the demand, and the Elite Studios, at Dongan Hills, Staten Island, N. Y., will be used for the making of not only the motion pictures but all photographic work in Mr. Gordon's features.

The pictures will be made under the personal direction of Mr. Gordon so that they will have the same atmosphere as his lectures. About 500 to 1,000 feet will be made to finish each feature. The number of slides will be fifty. This together with the strong original lecture will enable a lecturer to be booked as a special feature attraction.

Ever alert to the popular demand of the public Mr. Gordon has selected for his next feature lecture release a topic of the hour entitled "Drink, the Nation's Curse." The entire feature, both slides and motion pictures, will be posed from life. Special attention is being paid to the advertising matter, a great lobby display as well as some fine lithos being a feature. Mr. Gordon's other features will also be made over and will have motion pictures. Mr. Gordon's address is still the same as it has been for the past fourteen years at 207 West Thirty fourth street, New York City.

STRAND BOOKING GENERAL FILM PRODUCT.

The Strand Theater's booking of the General Film Company's Vitagraph release for February 11, "The Seventh Son," is another indication that the leading motion picture theaters of the country are realizing the possibilities of short dramas in conjunction with their five reel features and other subjects. Last week Rialto started the Essanay's Series "Is Marriage Sacred," so that the Strand and the Rialto are now both using General Film output.

Lillian Sullivan in "The Great Secret"

THE happy faculty of selecting types for the characters in "The Great Secret," Metro's great serial, is possessed in large measure by Director Cabanne. When he was casting the characters, he needed a young woman to play the part of a female detective. There was a large gathering to select from. With unerring eye Mr. Cabanne pointed to a good looking young woman in the rear of the group and asked if she had ever played parts in the motion pictures. She replied that she had not.

Lillian Sullivan.

"Well, you had better begin now," said the director. "From now on you are Miss Tredwell, one of Detective Ackerton's assistants."

The young woman's name is Lillian Sullivan and all who have seen her performance are ready to justify Mr. Cabanne's selection. As a girl detective she is all that can be desired and much promise is held out for her future screen work. Miss Sullivan has been in pictures only a short time. Her first appearance in the screen drama was with Alice Brady in "Miss Petticoats." After this she was seen with Holbrook Blinn in "The Weakness of Man." Miss Sullivan is a Brooklyn girl and is in love with the screen drama. She is particularly enamored of her part of the detective in "The Great Secret" and says:

"I find myself acting the part in real life. No matter where I go into department stores or anywhere that crowds gather, I catch myself observing everything more keenly."

MILO OF BALTIMORE PRODUCING COMEDIES.

The Milo Picture Corporation, of Baltimore, is preparing for its Spring and Summer work by producing two comedies —"Percy's First Attempt" and "Percy Turns Detective."

Sam Phillips will as usual do the leading parts, portraying the trials and troubles of Percy Van Clam. He will be assisted by Miss Norine McCubbin.

The scenes of the pictures will be taken in and around Baltimore, using for that purpose some of the best homes and well known hotels, including the handsome new Pennsylvania Railroad Station.

It is the object of the Milo Company to specialize on comedies, each complete in itself, yet all depicting the humorous antics of Percy.

The pictures will be under the direction of Lew Seels. A. Kurnick is chief camera man.

P. D. HUGON GOES WITH BRAY STUDIOS.

P. D. Hugon, formerly director of the Pathe News, has joined the Bray Studios as director for the Paramount-Bray Pictographs, thus renewing his former connection with the magazine of the screen. Before he came to this country to the Pathe News about two years ago, Mr. Hugon was in charge of the Pathe Animated Gazette in London.

Mr. Hugon is an enthusiastic photographer, and believes in making the utmost use of the resources of the camera. New methods of trick photography are his hobby.

WILKERSON GOES TO DALLAS FOR M'CLURE.

W. R. Wilkerson, one of the old timers in the business around New York, has been engaged by General Manager Partridge to take charge of the Dallas office of McClure Pictures. Mr. Wilkerson will assume his new post at once, and goes with the good wishes of all who know him.

PRICES FOR "THE HONOR SYSTEM."

The scale of prices for "The Honor System," William Fox's ten-reel screen epic, which opens at the Lyric on February 6, will be 25 and 50 cents for matinees and 25 cents to $1 evenings.

New York's Inquisitors Will Go Slowly

Chairman Wheeler Admits Many Community Houses Do Not Appear to be Making Much Money.

THE testimony which will be given the New York joint legislative committee which is at present investigating the taxation of the motion picture industry will largely determine the attitude which the committee will take as to taxation.

Assemblyman Wheeler, chairman of the committee, on his return from New York to Albany, Monday January 21, made the statement that the testimony taken during the following days would settle the question as to the justification of a taxation. Chairman Wheeler expressed the opinion that such taxation would be found to be justified, although statements which he made later on furnished the impression that up to that time the committee is more or less at sea as to just what branch or branches of the industry could best contribute whatever tax is settled on.

"We find that there is a sort of a revolution in the motion picture business at the present time," said Chairman Wheeler, "and there are many of the so-called 'neighborhood movies' not making any money to speak of. There is no question but that some of the larger houses are making money and could well afford to pay a tax to the State. There is no question in the minds of the committee but some of the producers are making money. It is our desire, however, not to overburden any industry or any concern or film with a tax that would serve to cripple rather than encourage, and for that reason we are proceeding slowly. We have no ax to grind and we hope to shelter and protect the moving picture industry in this state rather than have our action drive it elsewhere."

Assemblyman Wheeler was asked just what would be assessed if a tax was finally agreed upon, and in reply he said the committee was still indefinite on that point. He said the bearings had shown that many of the companies were making their films outside of the state and that if a tax was placed at so much for each hundred feet of film, there would be several who would transfer their business elsewhere and that the state would suffer on account of it.

"We will reopen our hearings in New York, Wednesday, when we expect Mr. Brady to come before us," said Assemblyman Wheeler. "The committee will ask for the production of books later on in order that it may more clearly get at the exact amount which companies are spending and taking in, in connection with their business. This account of Charlie Chaplin, Mary Pickford and others of the high priced stars being called before us to explain their true salaries is all bunk."

Assemblyman Wheeler, as well as other members of the committee, expressed their gratification at the fair and open manner in which the motion picture men are meeting the legislators at the hearings. It is barely possible the committee will ask an extension of time and possibly another appropriation in order that they may probe the business in greater detail than is now permitted by the fund of $5,000 available.

Heavy Bookings for Cohan Picture

Engagements for From One to Four Weeks Closed for "Broadway Jones."

IT IS expected by the Artcraft Pictures Corporation that the initial Cohan screen play, "Broadway Jones," to be released April 2, will establish a high-water mark in the way of advance bookings. Many applications for bookings are being received at the Artcraft headquarters daily, and agreements have been signed with many of the best motion picture theaters in the country for bookings of from one to four weeks.

When it was first announced that George M. Cohan would be seen under the Artcraft banner exhibitors throughout the country immediately realized the importance of this fact to the amusement-loving public. The fact that the famous actor-author-producer had selected as his initial screen vehicle, his biggest stage hit, "Broadway Jones," greatly enhanced his new venture.

One of the first theaters to close for the Cohan photoplay was the Strand in New York, where it will be presented for the first time in this city. Other high-class theaters such as the Strand, of Syracuse, of Buffalo, and of Hartford; the Stillman and the Knickerbocker, Cleveland; the Circle, Indianapolis; the Pastime, Columbus; the Walnut, Cincinnati; the Majestic, Detroit; the Temple, Toledo, and the Broadway, Portland, Ore. The Modern Theater in Boston will show "Broadway Jones" for two weeks. One of the most unusual bookings has been closed with the Globe Theater in New Orleans, where it will appear for four weeks.

Bluebird Workers to be Rewarded

Exchangemen to Have Interest in Increased Profits—More Salary for the Top-Notcher.

IF the Bluebird branch manager is able to make a picture grow two days where it has hitherto blossomed only one, he may be doing the exhibitor a favor and at the same time benefiting himself—for the Bluebird management has decided to reward their exchange managers who increase business by giving them a profit-sharing interest in the things they accomplish.

This is a renewal along extended lines of the competitive awards that were formerly given Bluebird branch managers who increased their business for any given month. General Manager M. H. Hoffman states: "We want to keep tabs on the real workers and reward them, and the best way we can do this is to share with them the results of their efforts. We are going to present every other week a definite sum to the manager who shows the greatest percentage of increase in the average per booking.

"The percentage of increase will be figured on all branches and the one showing the highest will be rewarded. And if any one office comes out on top five times (not necessarily in succession) the manager gets $500 a year added to his salary. Exhibitors throughout the country who experience increased pressure brought upon them by their Bluebird branch will know why. Our managers are going after the business, and increase it—there will be no question about that."

African Pictures Brought to New York

Will Constitute Entire Evening's Entertainment—J. C. Hemment to Lecture on Them.

EDUCATIONAL and wild animal pictures have at last come into their own. Jack Goldberg, president of the Picture Producing Company, announces the completion of an unusual wild animal and educational picture. It is an entire evening's entertainment, with lecture by J. C. Hemment, the man who first introduced the famous Paul J. Rainey pictures in this country, which were taken by himself and co-workers.

These new African Safari pictures are most interesting, artistic and educational. Every scene shows nature's true colors, which were made possible through the autochrome process. In order to photograph life on the equator as it really is, two years' time was taken and $100,000 spent.

The cameramen were forced into many difficult and dangerous positions at times, and suffered many hardships before the picture was completed. This picture shows the different modes of life, the natives' struggles, pleasures, government, form of entertainment, fighting of the different tribes, hunting of ferocious animals, and one scene in particular where there are over a million ants in a battle for life. This is one of the greatest scenes ever taken in the history of photography.

Arrangements are being completed to show these pictures on Broadway as soon as a theater can be obtained.

PATHE RELEASING INTERNATIONAL CARTOONS.

Development of its short reel program to keep pace with its big features and serials is an important part of Pathe's 1917 plans. The arrangement by which all International films are released by Pathe means in addition to a strengthening of the news film the entrance into the Pathe Program of many of the most celebrated newspaper cartoonists in the world. The work of the majority of these famous artists are now appearing in the International's animated cartoons, released through Pathe, as part of a split reel cartoon and scenic.

Alternating weekly at the present time are the "Happy Hooligan" cartoons, by F. Opper; "Bringing Up Father," by George McManus; "Jerry on the Job," by Walt Hoban; "Krazy Kat" by George Herriman; the famous "Joys and Glooms," by Tom Powers, and the original Katzenjammer Kids.

ADDITIONS TO VITAGRAPH EXCHANGE STAFF.

George Balsdon, manager of the New York Exchange of Vitagraph V-L-S-E, has engaged Harold Spector, formerly associated with the World Film Corporation and the International Film Service, on special statistical work, analyzing and tabulating the records of the New York branch.

Charles R. Letts, formerly salesman with the General Film Company, has been engaged by Manager Balsdon for Vitagraph V-L-S-E as salesman, and will travel the up-Hudson cities in Mr. Balsdon's territory.

Summing Up the Industry

Discussion at Washington Irving High School Includes Facts Regarding the Manufacture, Exhibition and Censorship of Films.

THE AUDITORIUM of the Washington Irving High School was the scene on Sunday evening, Jan. 14, of a discussion of more than the usual interest pertaining to the moving picture, its manufacture, exhibition, censorship and influence. Three addresses delivered by Herbert F. Sherwood, Charles H. Bell, Commissioner of Licenses, and Mary Gray Peck, respectively, were preluded by a two-part moving picture entitled "From Script to Screen," made by the Greater Vitagraph, showing activities about the Vitagraph studio from the scenario department to the final screening of a script. The meeting was presided over by Orlando F. Lewis of the National Board of Review.

Herbert F. Sherwood of the National Board of Review told in an interesting manner of the various avenues through which the tremendous amount of money invested in moving pictures circulates. He stated that in 1914, 360,000,000 feet of film had been produced at a cost of $37,000,000, and drew attention to the increase in general expenditure which the appearance of the recent enormously extravagant productions entails. He also stated that in the 20,000 moving picture theaters in this country the yearly receipts amount to an average of $319,000,000, and that in New York City alone 700,000 persons attend the moving picture theaters every evening. He spoke also of the duties of the 200 persons in New York City giving voluntary service on the National Board of Review. This board during 1916 reviewed more than 9,000 reels of film, making 1,066 individual eliminations. And in addition to this, Mr. Sherwood stated, 25 entire dramas were returned to the manufacturers for complete revision.

Second in order of procedure came the address of Commissioner Bell who told of the efforts of the license commission in making managers of moving picture theaters, and explained to the audience that it is each one's duty to report to them facts regarding films or conditions in theaters which might require their attention. He also went as far as to say that there was not at the present time in New York City one moving picture theater open that was not complying with the necessary rules of safety and sanitation.

Last but not least in interest came the address by Miss Mary Gray Peck on "How Moving Pictures Keep the Young People Off the Streets." Miss Peck, who has the faculty of making all that she says interesting, told in the course of her discussion of a trip which she had made one day to New York's east side. Here, during the course of an hour, she saw one fight, one runaway and one getaway. And in support of the exhibition of good melodrama and in denunciation of a too strict form of censorship, she stated that it was too much to expect children or adults living in an atmosphere of such thrilling quality as New York's east side to be satisfied with the better class films without a sprinkling of what their daily life leads them to crave, namely, melodrama.

Miss Peck told also of the change that has come over the habits of the men, women and children of the tenement districts since the appearance of the moving picture on the screen. "There was a time," said Miss Peck, "when the men, coming home tired with not enough money to allow them to enjoy the amusements open to well-to-do citizens, wandered off to the nearest saloon. The women, many of them slatterns, went into the streets to gossip with neighbors, and the children went also into the street to play. In place of this a wonderful change has come. The moving picture theater has taken the place of the saloons and the streets as an amusement center, and you now find the fathers and the mothers dressing themselves attractively in the evenings and going with their families to the moving picture shows."

Miss Peck feels with many of us that a too rapid change in the nature of moving picture programs would be a menace to the great good that has in the past few years been worked by means of the much abused moving picture.

The evening closed with questions from the audience which were answered intelligently from the platform by Miss Peck, Commissioner Bell and W. D. McGuire, Jr., of the National Board of Review

The added prestige given to your advertisement in the Tenth Anniversary Number of the Moving Picture World is invaluable. Rates will remain the same. Forms close February 23.

Twenty States Have Censorship Bills

National Association's Committee, Headed by D. W. Griffith, Appeals for Support of Entire Industry.

CENSORSHIP bills are actually being considered in twenty state Legislatures, and are in immediate danger of enactment within days or weeks in at least half of them. This is borne out by the reports now in the hands of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry. This is probably by no means all, as new bills will be introduced daily until well into February.

The censorship committee of the national association, headed by David W. Griffith, has been laying down its plans, and is ready to take up the fight in every state, provided only that the support of the producers, distributors and exhibitors of the country is forthcoming.

So far many of the most representative concerns in the business have put their shoulders to the wheel, but William A. Brady, president of the National Association, says that without the united support of the whole industry it might develop that it would be hopeless to even start the fight.

Here is the list of bills already introduced. It will be read with interest by every man in the business.

Washington, D. C.—Congress is considering a revised edition of the Smith-Hughes bill of last year.

Arkansas.—Censorship bill is pending in the legislature, although there is no public demand for it and the newspapers are giving it practically no attention. It is stated that exhibitors are passive and that unless action is taken by the national body the bill will be passed by default. Examination fee provided in the bill is $2 per reel.

Colorado.—Censorship bill modeled on Kansas law has been introduced. Parent Teachers' Association, having secured recognition by Denver exchanges of the Association's reviewing staff, is opposing legal consorship. The Rocky Mountain Screen Cluc, however, is much exercised over the situation and is asking help.

Illinois.—Two bills are pending giving censorship under another name. One provides that "any place of amusement in which public entertainment of a lewd or indecent character, or tending to corrupt public morals, is given, is declared a public nuisance." Provision for its abatement as a nuisance is given. The other bill makes it a felony punishable by a fine of $25 to $500 and imprisonment for one year, or both, for any manager to present such an entertainment. Sunday closing is provided for in another bill in case half of the receipts go to charity. The exhibitors are organized, but ask for aid from the National Association.

Iowa.—A bill for censorship in the state of Iowa is being actively pushed and aid is asked.

Kansas.—The Kansas Branch of the Exhibitors' League reports that it seems impossible to eliminate censorship altogether as had been hoped. The following is the plan upon which the Kansas League is working. A bill has been introduced reducing the censorship fee from $2 to 50 cents per reel and to have the censoring done by the Welfare Board. The Welfare Board is reported to be friendly to the motion picture people.

Massachussetts.—A bill providing for the Board of Censorship with salaries of $2,000 per year and charging $1 for single and $2 for multiple reel pictures was introduced on January 12.

Michigan.—A censorship bill similar to the law of Ohio has been introduced, the charge to producers to be $1 for single reels and $2 for multiple reels, etc. Local exchange men and exhibitors are calling for help.

Missouri.—Censorship bill has just been introduced providing for a Board of Censors to pass upon both the films and advertising matter.

Nebraska.—It is reported that a bill will be introduced into the Nebraska Legislature providing for censorship by a paid state board.

New York.—Sunday closing legislation must be fought through. Proposal to tax the industry has resulted in the formation of a committee to investigate. This committee is now holding session.

North Carolina.—Censorship bills are pending and there is opportunity to lower the tax in the insurance rate now legalized in that state, if action is taken at once.

Oklahoma.—Censorship bill is pending, recommended by the State Superintendent of the Public Instruction, who has made an active campaign in favor of this bill.

Oregon.—A bill making it a felony to manufacture, import, distribute or exhibit any indecent or obscene article, picture, etc., including motion pictures, was introduced on January 15.

Tennessee.—Censorship bill has been introduced at the request of the Council of Women of the state and is being backed by them in the legislature.

Texas.—A bill is pending in the legislature closing all motion picture theaters on Sunday.

Utah.—Hearing on the censorship bill pending before the Utah legislature is to be deferred until February 1 only. The situation is very serious. The fee is to be $2 for each reel.

Vermont.—Two bills are pending, one prohibiting theater owners from admitting children under fifteen years not accompanied by parent or guardian, and the other making it a felony for anyone to exhibit "moving pictures of a vulgar or immoral character, or which depict burglaries, train robberies or acts which constitute a felony."

Washington.—A bill providing for the censorship of motion pictures in the State of Washington will be introduced this week.

West Virginia.—Bill modeled on Pennsylvania law has been introduced. Exhibitors of the state are trying to get together and have been asked for contributions by local lawyers.

Wisconsin.—Censorship bill is pending, with considerable feeling against motion pictures back of it. Exchange men and exhibitors are looking to the National Association for help.

"ONE ROUND O'BRIEN" AT SING SING.

At the request of the Mutual Welfare League of Sing Sing the Biograph Company has loaned a print of "One Round O'Brien," the famous comedy directed by Mack Sennett, to be shown for the inmates of that institution.

Discuss Child Problem

Constructive Methods Find Favor at Meeting Held by Recreation Section of Women's City Club

A MEETING of the Recreation Section of the Women's City Club was held in the Russell Sage Foundation Building, 130 East Twenty-second street, New York, on Thursday evening, January 18, under the auspices of the Sub-Committee on Motion Pictures.

The attendance at this gathering was small, and as is usual in such cases those loudest in their censure of the moving picture were noticable by their absence. This fact did not, however, dampen to any degree the ardor and sincerity of purpose of those present; and, while no definite conclusion was arrived at on the question of "How shall we prevent the children from seeing unsuitable films?" the general impression was that in the heart to heart talk on the subject which really took place a few more stones were laid in the rapid materialization of a sure foundation. It was unanimously agreed that constructive and not destructive methods were the only ones from which any real good could evolve.

Louise Connolly, of Newark, a woman widely experienced in the education of children, was given the first opportunity of expressing an opinion introduced by Chairman Eleanor Dwight Jones. We must say in passing that the pity is that the wisdom of Miss Connolly's remarks could not have been heard by a larger number of persons.

Miss Connolly's opening remarks struck the keynote to the whole situation, in which she told the audience that after spending several years in trying to teach the child to like what he ought to like she had decided to let him alone and be content with merely pulling the things out of his way that he might stumble over. Speaking of the harm to be derived by children from the average moving picture Miss Connolly declares that if she had her way she would allow children between the ages of three and thirteen to see any moving picture that is made; those between the ages of thirteen and thirty she would not allow to enter a moving picture theater; but after they had reached the age of thirty she would allow them to go to the moving picture theater again, having then passed, according to her reasoning, the susceptible period which lies between thirteen and thirty. Her principal object in addressing the meeting was, she said, not to advise how to prevent the children from seeing unsuitable films, but to issue a word of warning against a too hasty or too radical movement in dealing with an institution of entertainment which offered such wide possibilities of education as well as healthy stimulation to the imagination.

In speaking of the latter phase of the question she wandered by way of illustration from the problem of the child to the problem of that class of grownups whose minds by force of limited environment and opportunity revolve in one narrow channel, and pleaded for the sake of these that their only means of stimulating the imagination might not be interfered with to a point that might place it intellectually or in way of entertainment beyond their grasp. The big thought left with the audience, and which has been voiced by more than one great mind of the past and present, was that life is correspondence with environment, and that as that environment is, so in most instances are we.

Ernest K. Coulter, superintendent of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, following Miss Connolly, was filled with an idea which did not meet favor with the other speakers of the evening, and which implied that the chief cause of delinquence in the children that passed before the children's courts had been traced to the moving picture houses. He cited various cases of crime and impaired morals that had come before his personal notice, which he claimed had been traced to darkened moving picture theaters and to examples set by the films. Mr. Coulter stated, however, that it was his belief that the laws regulating the attendance of children at moving picture theaters were sufficient if properly enforced.

Mary Gray Peck, the third speaker, followed out her usual staunch and sturdy support of the motion picture as one of the major arts, and as the greatest educational factor that the world has known since the beginning. She spoke of its rise from the gutter, and of its phenomenal development within the last six years. She further bravely supported the cause of the exhibitor, and stated that from her recent experience of moving picture theaters she was of the opinion that those that could be alluded to as "dens of iniquity," quoting from the previous speaker, or that were in any way indecent, were decidedly in the minority. Nor did she forget to again emphasize the fact that the exchange man is the biggest stumbling block that the conscientious exhibitor and the workers for the Better Film Movement have. Miss Peck also referred to the failure of the public schools to resume action on the matter under discussion.

The speaker following Miss Peck, Mr. Edward M. Barrows, of the People's Institute, believed firmly that the most feasible way of overcoming the difficulty of the problem was the establishment and encouragement of the neighborhood theater, and the fostering of the community spirit, an opinion which was strongly supported by those present.

Mrs. Elizabeth Richey Dessez, who is at present organizing the juvenile department of the Educational Films Corporation of America, and who has for over a year been actively interested in the establishment of the children's matinee, stated, that after endeavoring to gain informational facts from exhibitors in New York who had tried out the children's matinee, only one reported an undivided attendance. The others, those who had taken the trouble to notice, stated that while the attendance at the children's matinees were good, they found that the children still continued to attend the performances for grownups.

It fell to Miss Helen Duey, film editor of the Woman's Home Companion, to sum up the points which were made by the different speakers, which she did in a clear and concise manner, referring in an interesting and original manner to the educational possibilities and uses made of the moving picture.

Interesting impromptu addresses were made by members of the audience, including W. D. McGuire, Jr., of the National Board of Review. A discussion of the Pink Ticket system revealed the fact that for the best moving picture theaters this was a most undesirable method of advertising, that it brought to those who catered to the best classes of patrons an influx of the undesirables, while to the less conscientious exhibitor it appealed as "a fine method of advertising a picture."

BURT KING WITH MUTUAL AT WILKES-BARRE.

Burt King, formerly of the General Film in the south, has been appointed branch Manager of the Mutual's Wilkes-Barre Office, succeeding William H. Rippard, who has been transferred to the Mutual's Philadelphia Exchange. Mr. King is widely experienced in the industry, having held various important offices with the Kinetograph, General and Brook Feature Film Corporation of New York. His first position was that of shipper with the Kinetograph in Atlanta, Georgia, several years ago. He was in charge of the General at Jacksonville, New Orleans, and Memphis. His last position before accepting the management of the Mutual's Wilkes-Barre office was that of advertising manager for the Brook Feature Film Corporation and Laboratories of New York.

He will be well remembered by the exhibitor in the south for his kindness and thoughtfulness in their behalf when he sent practically all the General's customers a shipment of commercial reels to be used in case the threatened railroad strike took place, at the same time asking those who received shipments to notify their nearby brothers that they could use them for the asking.

OLD ACTORS GUESTS OF CARL LAEMMLE.

Thirty inmates of the Actors Fund Home, West Brighton, Staten Island, were the guests of President Carl Laemmle, of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, on Tuesday afternoon, January 25, when they saw the feature film "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under The Sea" at the Broadway theatre. Officials of the film company loaned their automobiles for the trip to and from the theatre.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH PROPAGANDA FREE.

Dr. Eli Long, of the Board of Health, has secured three pictures for a health propaganda in the City of New York. They cover the following subjects: The House Fly, Tuberculosis and Milk. These films can be secured free of charge by applying to the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League, 218 West 42d street, New York City.

Metro Planning Special Productions

Ethel Barrymore to Be Featured in a Number of Expensive Subjects.

ATTRACTION pictures of great size and lavishness and with great stars will form a part of Metro's productions during the year 1917. Following the annual meeting of the stockholders, President Richard A. Rowland issued the following statement of his company's plans:

"Metro will continue to follow the business methods upon which its success has been builded, namely, we will endeavor to give the exhibitors what their public demands.

"Miss Ethel Barrymore, whose great success on the stage is being duplicated and increased on the screen, is now engaged in the making of the first of a series of special productions, each to cost a minimum of $100,000, each to be a great attraction built upon a great theme and produced upon an elaborate scale. Miss Barrymore's first attraction picture will be 'The Voice of Her People.'

"We shall continue to make these pictures just as long as the market demands them, and when the market shifts we shall be ready to provide the show material for the exhibitors in accord with their needs.

"Metro will continue its regular program productions and the same high standard is assured our friends in the trade.

"Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., Columbia Pictures Corporation, Quality Pictures Corporation, Popular Plays and Players, and the Yorke Film Corporation all have splendid productions now in the process of completion and announcements concerning these will be made from time to time.

"Our publicity policy, which is especially helpful to the exhibitor, will be carried forward along the same lines as at present, with increased service at the exchanges and with special aids in each territory to cope with local conditions. Metro has several surprises in store, but these will not be made public in advance of the proper time.

"To speak specifically of the coming Metro pictures, I want to call especial attention to the pictures planned and in the making for Miss Emily Stevens, for Francis X. Bushman and Miss Beverly Bayne, who are now achieving the success of their careers in "The Great Secret"; Miss Mabel Taliaferro, Miss Viola Dana, Lionel Barrymore, Miss Francis Nelson and Miss Emmy Wehlen in the east and south and Harold Lockwood and Miss May Allison in the Yorke studios in California.

"The Metro-Drew Comedies, in which Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew have made a unique place for themselves, will be continued.

"Metro begins the third year of its history with a united and able organization, a habit of good picture making, an elastic and easily operated system and a keen enthusiasm for the best."

PINK PHOTOGRAPHS WHITE, SAYS BRUNTON.

In connection with the costuming of the John Paul Jones play that will soon be presented by Thomas H. Ince on the Triangle program, an interesting experiment was conducted by Art Director Robert Brunton. Brunton long ago discovered that pink is the most effective color to use when the photographic effect of white is desired, and when he was notified that the actors and actresses in this production would wear powdered wigs he hit upon the idea of coloring the wigs pink instead of white. White photographs gray, but pink comes out on the negative a beautiful, rich white. The performers presented an extremely amusing appearance running about with pink wigs, but when the reproduction is thrown on the screen their hair will be snowy while, according to Brunton.

Mr. Brunton is the man who discovered that pink photographs snowy white and who put this tint into general use for the coloring of bed linen, white gowns and other materials desired to appear white on the screen.

MADAM BLACHE TO PRODUCE ART DRAMAS.

Madam Blache, one of the pioneer producers of motion pictures, both in Europe and in this country, and probably the best known of the women directors, has been engaged by the U. S. Amusement Corporation to direct that company's pictures, which are released on the Art Dramas program.

Madam Blache was probably the first woman to direct a photoplay. She first directed the productions of the Gaumont Company, of Paris, when that company began making motion pictures. She then organized the Solax Company, which was one of the largest producers of film in this country several years ago.

At Leading Picture Theaters

Programs for the Week of January 28 at New York's Best Motion Picture Houses.

"His Sweetheart" at the Strand.

At the Strand Theater George Beban was seen in "His Sweetheart," a photodrama written by himself and Lawrence McCloskey and produced by the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company under the direction of Donald Crisp. In "His Sweetheart" Mr. Beban is seen as Joe, the iceman. Into his basement store and home he brings his sweetheart, who is none other than his little old mother from Italy. The picture is acted with artistic finish by the star and a capable supporting cast including Sarah Kernan, Helen Jerome Eddy, Harry Devere, and Kathleen Kirkham.

Another German military picture was also presented, showing German detention camps where Mohammedan prisoners are kept and allowed to carry out their religious ceremonies. Victor Moore in a comedy entitled "A Honeyless Honeymoon," Butterflies and Bees, and The Strand Topical Review were also on the list. The soloists were Knud Dalgaard, Nadine Begot, Auguste Bouilliez and Henry Antrim.

"The Courage of Silence" at the Rialto.

Alice Joyce in "The Courage of Silence," a Blue Ribbon Feature from the Vitagraph Studios, headed the Rialto program. The story is one which appeals frankly to the emotions and has been sympathetically directed by William P. S. Earle. Milton Nobles, the author, has given Miss Joyce the role of a Spanish girl. Harry T. Morey plays opposite her in the part of a young American, and the supporting cast includes Cleo Ayres and Anders Randolf.

"The Diary of a Pup," the Topical Digest and views of Mt. Kilauea, Hawaii, in eruption, were included on the program. Elsa Diemer and the Rialto Male Quartette were the vocalists.

"Twenty Thousand Leagues" at the Broadway.

The Universal novelty picture, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," now in the sixth week of its engagement at the Broadway Theater, still continues to attract large audiences.

Eighty-First Street Theater Bill.

At the Eighty-First Street Theater, Douglas Fairbanks in "The Americano" was seen the entire week. Claire Anderson was shown for the first half, in "Heart Strategy." For the last half of the week, in conjunction with the Fairbanks' picture, Al. St. John, in "A Grab Bag Bride," was the comedy feature.

BROCK FEATURE OPENS AT PARK.

The first release of the Enlightment Photoplay Corporation, of which Henry J. Brock is the directing head, made its initial bid for public favor at the Park Theater last Sunday night, when "Enlighten Thy Daughter" opened for an indefinite engagement. Considerable comment has been occasioned by the excellent cast in this picture. Players of prominence have the leading roles, showing more than fine dramatic judgment on the part of Mr. Abramson, the director.

The unusual lighting effects and appropriate scenic investitures add splendidly to the production.

The Enlightment Corporation, through Mr. Brock, is leaving no stone unturned to make the engagement at the Park Theater a high class enterprise. A twenty-four piece orchestra and a chorus of male voices characterize the incidental entertainment.

MARIE DRESSLER DEAL WITH MUTUAL NOT CLOSED.

An impression that Marie Dressler is now under contract to appear in productions for Mutual distribution appears to have been gained from a misinterpretation of a statement made by President John R. Freuler, of the Mutual, when he recently admitted that contracts with the star had been drawn. The project is still in the promotional stages, according to the Mutual Film Corporation, and at this time no information can be given of completed arrangements of final plans.

CHANGES IN DETROIT PARAMOUNT PERSONNEL.

The following changes have been made in the Detroit Exchange, handling Paramount Pictures: Ray Churchill, formerly assistant manager of the Washington theater, in Detroit, has been made manager of the poster department; Forrest Little, chief usher of the Washington theater of Detroit has been made assistant shipping clerk; George Gilbert has been made assistant in the poster department, and Joe Visger, assistant booker, is now doing special road work.

Rights to "Mothers of France" Unsold

Louis Mercanton, Who Came to This Country to Dispose of Them, Finds Competition Keen.

LOUIS MERCANTON, the director of the war picture "Mothers of France," of which the French government is part owner and Sarah Bernhardt is the star, was a recent visitor to New York with a view to arranging for the distribution of the photoplay in the United States and Canada. Mr. Mercanton departed, however, without concluding negotiations, for the quite unusual reason that competition for the rights was so keen as to make it advisable for him to consult further with his associates prior to taking final action. Before leaving this port January 17, Mr. Mercanton said to a reporter:

"To tell the truth, my departure is somewhat in the nature of a retreat. When I came to New York to arrange for the photodrama here I had no idea of what was to happen. My supposition was that I should arrange the details in the ordinary course of business, sign the necessary contracts and go my way in peace. The process was taken out of my hands.

"For two or three days I talked with the representatives of the distributors, and it early became apparent that I had underestimated the possibilities of our photoplay for your country and Canada. The competition for 'Mothers of France' is very far beyond anything I had anticipated, and I am determined to avoid committing our company in too much haste. If this were a merely commercial enterprise, the decision would be simple enough.

"But I am going home to talk further with my associates before finally 'signing up,' as you say. It is not a question of getting the utmost out of the attraction, but weighing certain advantages of management and method of distribution as proposed by various competitors—always having in mind the utmost possibilities from a patriotic viewpont.

"'Mothers of France' is epochal in a number of ways. In the first place Mme. Bernhardt is its star. In the second, it was written by M. Jean Richepin, poet, dramatist and member of the French Academy. And finally, it was photographed in the trenches by arrangement with and the assistance of the government, which retains ownership in the war scenes and thus becomes a partner in the picture, unifying the intensely national spirit which is at the bottom of this undertaking.

"This play will be a part of the official record of the present European war, and will be preserved through the generations. The authorities in France, civil and military, are deeply interested in it, for it carries to the world a genuine representation of France as it is—not merely Paris, with which most persons are familiar, but that provincial France of which the outside world knows little or nothing.

"M. Richepin, as doubtless you are not aware, is the mayor of the little town in which he resides. He knows and loves the atmosphere of the local life, and through this condition he has been able to impart to the opening scenes of his play the precise effect of the war declaration upon the people who are the backbone of France, and to interpret the lofty, the holy patriotism with which they entered upon a task calling for the last ounce of self-sacrifice, grief and suffering on their part.

"Briefly, the story of 'Mothers of France' is woven about a woman, the wife of a provincial squire, whose husband and son are in the fighting line, and who for her patriotic part in the great struggle volunteers for service in the Red Cross, becoming a matron in the hospital at Rheims, at the front. The conflict deprives her of husband and son. Both expire from their wounds while she, having been informed of their injuries, is frantically searching for them in the trenches. There is also a love story running through the picture."

Throughout the making of the picture Mme. Bernhardt was accompanied by Mr. Mercanton, with whom the idea originated and who actively superintended each step of its progress. It was easy to enlist the interest of M. Richepin, who most assuredly would not have entertained the thought of writing a moving picture drama for any other artist or upon a topic less closely knit with his great love of France.

"Mme. Bernhardt spent six days at Chalons, about fifteen miles from the German lines, and from this base was taken to the forward lines of trenches every day in a military automobile under the protection of two officers of the headquarters staff," continued Mr. Mercanton.

"Upon two of these excursions she was actually under fire, and once she was treated to the spectacle of a German plane being shot down from the sky. This was so near she could distinctly hear the projectiles from the machine gun pelting against the foreign plane.

"We went on to Rheims, directly in the fighting zone, where extremely effective and dramatic episodes of 'Mothers of France' occur. One of these scenes shows the distracted wife and mother before the still beautiful though sadly lacerated cathedral, at the base of the statue of Joan of Arc, her patron saint and the patron saint of France, offering a prayer for her country and her loved ones.

"Mme. Bernhardt's perfect poise and calm during all the time in the trenches was to me an amazing exhibition of fortitude in a lady of her years, after a lifetime of luxury, pleasant surroundings and at least the absence of physical peril."

To Reorganize Unicorn on Large Scale

Bankruptcy and Receivership Proceedings Are Taken as Steps to That End.

DESPITE the fact that proceedings in bankruptcy were filed some days ago against the Unicorn Film Service Corporation, of 126 West 46th street, it is asserted upon what appears to be excellent authority that the concern is to continue business, on a reorganized basis, and upon a larger scale than heretofore. Intermingled with the persistent talk of a bigger, newer Unicorn, is the report from the financial district that large capital will be back of the reorganized concern. According to this report several additional exchanges will be added to those recently under operation, including branches in Atlanta, Ga.; New Orleans, La.; Dallas, Texas; Seattle, Wash.; Butte, Mont., and El Paso, Texas, and Los Angeles and San Francisco, Cal.

The report, as confirmed by officials of the company who are in a position to know, includes the fact that an entirely new policy will be adopted, which, while retaining all the strong points of the Unicorn's former program, will strengthen it from every angle. As at present formulated, so far as it has been possible to ascertain, the new Unicorn idea is one five-reel feature, two three-reel features, three two-reel features, and three single reels and specials, each week. This plan, it is contended, would give the company a practical monopoly of the short feature field, and at the same time represent Unicorn prominently in the multiple photodrama business.

Ike Schlank, former president of the Unicorn Film Corporation, as well as Fred B. Murphy, the vice-president and general manager; Treasurer P. A. Chase and Secretary Harry Palmer declined to enter into details as to the above statements, but admitted that, generally speaking, they had foundation in fact.

At the present writing it is announced that Mr. Schlank and John L. Lyttle, the well-known attorney, have been appointed receivers for the Unicorn Film Service Corporation. While non-committal as to the rumored future plans of the concern, an officer of the company said:

"There is no reason to suppose other than that the Unicorn Film Service Corporation will be reorganized on a firmer and more ambitious basis. The rights to important productions, as well as to short reel subjects which the concern controls, establishes it upon a singularly firm footing."

SARAH BERNHARDT HONORS PEARL WHITE.

Director Edward Jose of Astra took his "Pearl of the Army" company down to Savannah, Ga., on Monday, January 14, and the trip resulted in a remarkable tribute to Pearl White's fame from no less a person than Sarah Bernhardt herself.

Madame Bernhardt was playing an engagement at the Savannah theater, and hearing that Miss White was in town sent her word that she would like to have her call upon her in her dressing room at the theater after the evening's performance. Miss White accepted the invitation and through an interpreter had an extended interview with the famous Frenchwoman.

Madame Bernhardt told the screen star that as the name Pearl White was just as famous in France as in the United States she could not resist the opportunity of making her acquaintance, especially as she herself had seen with pleasure "The Mysteries of New York," the title under which the "Exploits of Elaine" was released in France.

HERBERT BRENON IN UNIVERSAL RELEASE.

The Universal Film Manufacturing Company will reissue on February 13 a two-act comedy drama, "The Girl of the Hour," with Herbert Brenon in the leading role. While Mr. Brenon has attained his greatest fame in the film industry as a director he is also an actor of power, and in this production is called upon to display his talents as the hero of a college crew.

Spokes from the Hub

By Marion Howard.

BEFORE this letter is read the Film Club of Boston will have made a record in having a brilliant Costume Ball in the Copley-Plaza ballroom on the 30th, some details of which I will tell you of later. One of the bans made was to bar costumes a la Chaplin and Annette Kellermann (in swimming rig). At a special meeting on the 21st it was voted to postpone the regular meeting in February in order that all may attend the benefit for J. Arthur Eslow, formerly of the Universal Film Exchange here, a charter member, the date falling on club night. New life has been put into the club through the activity of Delbert M. Staley, founder of the College of the Spoken Word, which has trained many stage and screen players. He is a "live wire," and carries no end of magnetism into all he does for the club. Mr. Staley heads a large committee for a most ambitious undertaking in the presentation of a play of wide repute, never done by amateurs, and associated with one of the very latest converts to the screen. At the January meeting at the Hotel Lenox, Miss Dorothy Dunn, sister of Emma Dunn, who has been in pictures, was one of the guests. She is understudy for Pollyanna, the "Glad Girl" who has just left the Hub. Another guest of the club was John L. Russell, representing the Sunbeam Company, and whose wife, L. Case Russell, is the well-known playwright and scenario writer. Many in social and professional life here were present. Many new members have joined. Mr. Russell is the author of "The House of Shadows," the first offering of the Sunbeam Company put on at the Beacon theater, January 22, and featuring Vaughan Glaser.

* * *

Friday I paid a visit to the exchange colony and was welcomed by several live heads like Manager Farrell, of the Pathe-International Companies, and who is head of the movement for the benefit to Mr. Eslow. Around the corner I found Louis B. Mayer about to start for the South with Mrs. Mayer for a short stay, after a brief stop in New York to confer with his company—the Metro Film Corporation. I found his exchange a very busy hive indeed. A little farther on I ran into Stanley Hand, of the World Film, and one of the enthusiasts in the business. Then I visited the handsome new quarters of the Famous Players (Paramount) and was escorted through the building by Abraham Barry, who seemed justly proud of this, "the last call" in exchanges here. The building occupies a block, and is finished in mahogany and white throughout; there is a handsome projection room soon to have an organ. The different offices, many in number, are light, having glass sides with mahogany trimmings, and there is an air of business combined with harmony. Around the corner I found the Boston Photoplay office, with Miss Lilla Izen to greet me. Miss Izen is treasurer of the Film Club. In this office the Selznick Corporation has headquarters. Returning home I stopped in at the Universal Film's new home on Stanhope street, and found there a spirit of hospitality.

* * *

Frank McIntyre is in town in "Miss Springtime" and making no end of a hit, so it was natural that several theaters put on "The Traveling Salesman" much to the edification of thousands who have seen him in the speaking version, which had a long run here. Joe Kaufman deserves a medal for his work as director, as there was not a flaw anywhere, the atmosphere being preserved entire. Doris Kenyon made good all through, and the team work was noticeable. In one scene we caught a glimpse of the wife in "The Light at Dusk," one of the best pictures Lubin ever put out. I forget her name as she is not mentioned in the printed cast, but the impression made in the latter play semed lasting, and all about me I heard whispers as to her identity. One fan said: "Why, she is the woman whose name was Katrinka"; another said, "Why, that can't be so, as that is the name of a comic opera person"; finally a man across the aisle said, "Guess it was Katrinka, or something with a K in it." Anyhow, she made herself felt while on the screen. Mr. McIntyre attended a performance of this at the Fenway, but only as a patron, and few recognized him. Emily Stevens is here, too, in "The Unchastened Woman." Charley Ruggles, another screen player, is here in "The Canary Cottage," and Valli Valli in the "Cohan Revue." Each week finds a screen player here.

Will the Metro ever get after its title writers? The other night we were confronted with this "Accomodated." I forget the picture, but in "Pidgin Island" we had that awful word "Alright." Then, too, why not have the American flag hung correctly? In the first episode of "The Great Secret" the union is placed wrong. I wish there was a censor on titles. To hang a flag wrong, bunch it up, or to make a rosette of it is an offense against good taste, regulations and the fitness of things. Speaking of the Metro pictures we have had some splendid plays here lately like, "The Sunbeam," with little Taliaferro; "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie," "Wife by Proxy" and "The White Raven."

* * *

Words fail to express the pleasure given Hub patrons by Pathe's gem offering, "Shadows and Sunshine," with that inimitable Baby Osborne, who has completely won our hearts. Quite a good story told in this picture, so human and convincing; better still it is of interest to all adults in spite of the youth of the star. "Gloriana," a Bluebird picture, was equally compelling with tiny Zoe Rae. Sharing in the honors was young Gordon Griffith.

* * *

Sothern's "An Enemy to the King" made a hit. "A Rose of the South" called many to the Fenway theater to see Tony Moreno and Peggy Hyland—there's a pair! Everyone likes the Southern plays when not too partisan, and in this there was the utmost consistency. The young things raved over Tony in uniform, but to my mind the theme of the story was uppermost, and there was dear old Charles Kent and Mary Maurice to give added dignity to the picture. This is good as a repeat anywhere. Just now "A Daughter of the Gods" is drawing good houses at the Majestic theater.

* * *

"Somewhere in France" went well here, as all the pictures supervised by Ince do, and when we see his name there is a complete silence throughout the five reels. Charles Giblyn did a fine bit of directing. Like "Shell 44" it gave a good idea of war, minus battle scenes and sensational features. Here we again saw George Fisher, the Christus in "Civilization," and Howard Hickman the hero. The play has the elements of suspense, heroism, and a big twist at the end, and ought to be good for a repeat anywhere. We have had other good Triangles of late put on at the Exeter theater by Mrs. Ayer in "A Vagabond Prince," "American Aristocracy," "The Sin Ye Do," a powerful play with a moral, and so well done by Keenan, Hickman and Margery Wilson; "Joe Grimsby's Boy," good in spots, giving Enid Markey great opportunity to impersonate a quite difficult part; "An Innocent Magdalene," splendid offering, play full of interest and unique in plot; "Old Folks at Home," a gem in every way, worth seeing more than once. Sir Herbert Tree has made good here, and we hope to see him in other and more pretentious films. My favorite, however, is "The Honorable Algy," with Charlie Ray, who, we are glad to know, has renewed his contract. Here again we had Margery Wilson and other dependable players. This is safe to indorse for its novelty and the happy ending the fans so like.

* * *

A party of us went to see "Whom the Gods Destroy," to my mind the best Greater Vitagraph offering thus far, and in advance of many of the season's pictures. What a fine cast, and how well the entire production is done! There were differences of opinion as to the wisdom of touching upon the somewhat recent riots in Ireland, but for the life of me I fail to see anything to offend, as the story is worked out so satisfactorily for all concerned. Harry Morey is a favorite here and all liked his work, handled with so much suggestion of reserve force. It was a joy again to see Alice Joyce still a screen star in all it means.

* * *

"The Yellow Pawn" was well received, "Wally" Reid and Cleo Ridgely being favorites. June Caprice in "The Mischief Maker," the Fox picture, seemed to please, for she is one of our own. "The Race" made a hit, as all Lasky pictures are apt to when they give us such a pair as Anita King and Victor Moore, who had some stunts cut out for them, and it is a wonder they escaped alive.

* * *

What an unusually good offering the Famous Players Company has given the public in "Snow White"! Marguerite Clark seems made for this sort of work, and she had the house from the very opening. The first title was worth while, picturing the Winthrop Ames. Little theater in New York—rightly, as he aided so much in the adaptation of the play which had such a run at his house. Mr. Ames is a Boston man, so Back Bay society turned out—those who like the pictures—and applauded. They took their young folks along to the matinees.

Reviews of Current Productions

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

"A Hungry Heart"

Five-Reel Peerless Screen Version of the Celebrated French Play "Frou Frou," with Alice Brady as the Foolish But Pathetic Heroine.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

IT IS a good many years since "Frou Frou" was last performed in this country. "Camille" and "East Lynne" were its only rivals as tear-compellers, and many a great actress of a past generation, including Sarah Bernhardt, have played foolish little Frou Frou, who wrecked her life without the shadow of a cause and died just as the pathetic truth was brought home to her.

The screen version of this French drama, which is almost a classic, follows the stage play closely. Produced by Peerless, under the name, "A Hungry Heart," and released by the World Film Corporation, it has been given an excellent cast, Alice Brady heading the list. The play is a striking example of the artificial school to which it belongs. The conduct of the elder sister, who gives up the man she loves in order to secure the future of light-headed but good hearted Gilberte, whom everyone calls "Frou Frou," and finds that her sacrifice has been in vain, is thoroughly French in motive. Frou Frou's abandonment of her husband and child for the lover that had been refused her hand by the girl's father, is also according to the traditions of the Scribe school of dramatists, the entire work coming under the head of the "well made" play of forty years ago.

Adapted to the screen "Frou Frou" loses most of its humor, supplied by Papa Brigard, but tells clearly and with steadily growing interest the serious portion of the story. Emile Chautard, the director, shows first-hand knowledge of the business of the play, and has adjusted it to screen requirements with skill. Alice Brady catches the spirit of Frou Frou admirably and indicates her varying moods with a praiseworthy degree of understanding, and dexterity in the art of acting. Two particularly well-rounded performances are the Scene from "A Hungry Heart" (World).

Henri de Sartorys of George MacQuarrie and the Louise Brigard of Gerda Holmes. Edward Langford is a happy choice for the part of Paul de Valreas, and other useful members of the cast are Alec B. Francis, John Dudley, Edna Whistler, and Mrs. H. J. Brundage.

George Fawcett in Fine One-Part Selig

Chicago Company Will Release Also on General Film a Two-Reel Story Featuring This Splendid Player.

Reviewed by James S. McQuade.

A FEATURETTE in one reel is "For Reward of Service," one bound to awaken wide interest. The story has a heart grip and a directness of appeal that will absorb the whole attention of the spectator. It has also a sardonic humor in places, where laughter and pathos struggle for mastery. It will be released on the General Film program. Chris Allison (George Fawcett) has held his position as bookkeeper for forty-one years. With the exception of the chief clerk the other members of the office force look upon him as a grouch. On the day before Christmas these hearty young fellows present Allison with "phoney" Christmas presents, and the first smile that has been seen on his face for years appears.

As the old man goes home with his "presents," the chief clerk tells the boys a secret about Allison's life, after soundly berating them on their heartlessness. When he leaves the office they club together and raise funds for real presents for Allison and his wife. Luckily the "phoneys" had not yet been opened, as the boys had enjoined Allison not to open the packages until Christmas morning. The happy ending of it all is best told in the pictures.

George Fawcett's Allison is a real type of man—one who has suffered so much from the hand of Fate that his heart and feelings are almost totally atrophied, if I may use the word in this connection. The characterization stands out with cameo distinctness. Mrs. Evelyn, as Mrs. Allison, softens the harshness of the husband's attitude and manners by a sweet, motherly womanliness. Al Green merits praise for the direction of the photoplaylet.

Scene from "For Reward of Service" (Selig).

"Lost and Found."

The story of this two-reel subject, which also will be released in the General Film program, was written by Al Green, who also directed the production. In it a bluff retired sea captain, Steve Hendricks, is represented by George Fawcett, while his daughter Vivian is portrayed by Miss Vivian Reed.

Mr. Fawcett's Hendricks creates much amusement by intervening in his daughter's love affairs, with the customary result in such cases. Vivian's choice turns out to be far the best, besides leading to the identification of her lover as the lost son of her father's old friend.

The story has a tragic as well as a comedy ending, which reveals that Vivian's lover had unknowingly killed his own brother in protecting her from assault.

"Pride"

Second of McClure Pictures' "Seven Deadly Sins" Is Moderately Interesting Five-Reel Drama.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

VISUAL and fairly convincing proof that pride is sometimes a sin is given in the five-reel motion picture drama "Pride," second of the "Seven Deadly Sins" series presented by McClure Pictures. As a whole, the production is moderately interesting, and at times borders on melodrama. Holbrook Blinn, who carries the leading role, does so with a dramatic skill that perforce makes more weighty many dramatic moments. Shirley Mason and George Le Guere, who head the supporting cast, demonstrate no little ability—Miss Mason especially so. Helen Strickland and Guido Colucci are also seen to advantage.

The story of "Pride" tells of a wealthy orphan whose main characteristic is her pride. Also overburdened with pride and money is D'Arcy, the banker. The banker wants the girl, as does also a youth who the girl holds beneath her. The author has given to the story some fine points in character contrast, and the material with which he has worked has resulted in convincing and elaborate character studies—this despite the wealth of fast "snap snap!" action that marks the five reels. But the continuity of the picture is not all that could be asked. At times it is quite jerky, and once or twice we are left quite in the dark on points that should have been registered much more strongly. This may have been due to a certain extent to the cutting and assembling of the film, for the picture has received careful and competent direction at the hands of Richard Ridgely. A few very good double-exposures have been introduced, and photography throughout is excellent. The exteriors are attractive.

Scene from "Pride" (McClure).

"Pride" offers fairly good entertainment.

"Her Good Name"

Obvious Story With a Few Strong Points Visualized in Art Dramas' Five-Reel Offering—Jean Sothern Featured.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

THE story visualized in "Her Good Name," a five-reel drama produced by the Van Dyke Film Corporation for release by Art Dramas, while obvious fundamentally, has a few strong points in its favor. As a whole the story is elementary, and artifices of the showman that have been used with success since the birth of showmanship have been used in the production of the picture. The human interest element is given a strong play, and there are a few times during the screen telling of "Her Good Name" at which interest is whetted to a keen edge. The story is of the country girl who meets the city artist. In this type of story there is always a certain road to be followed, and in this particular production that road is traveled, but with several steps off the beaten path that make it fairly interesting.

The company of players is a competent one. Jean Sothern heads the cast. She has a certain charm and when called upon shows ability. A quite good bit of characterization is done by William H. Turner, who plays the part of a country hotel keeper—the father of the girl. Earle Metcalfe competently carries the role of the young artist, as does Arthur Housman that of the village youth of unsavory reputation. Others seen on the screen are Ethel Tully, Barbara Castleton and Mrs. Parker Spaulding, all of whom make the most of the allotted parts.

Scene from "Her Good Name" (Art Dramas).

For the first four reels "Her Good Name" is pure narrative. In the fifth the action tightens its tension and gets a more powerful grip on the interest. It is during the running of the final reel that the spectator is treated to enough dramatically interesting material to make him feel that the picture is worth while.

Pathe Releases

"Sold at Auction," a Five-Reel Balboa Production, and the Fourth Episode of "Patria," the International Serial.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

"Sold at Auction."

THE troubles of the heroine in "Sold at Auction," a five-reel photoplay produced for Pathe by the Horkheimers, are sufficient to crush an ordinary woman completely. Her father discovers the infidelity of the child's mother and gives the little girl over to the care of others. She is brought up as a servant, told at eighteen that she has mulatto blood in her veins, and falls into the hands of a female white slaver who puts her up at auction, her own father outbidding the rest of the men. He learns the truth in time, and the unfortunate girl sees a prospect of happiness with a young reporter that has fallen in love with her.

There is very little that is uplifting in such a story. The auction episode has not been made unduly offensive, and the producers have treated the entire drama with restraint, but the subject is unpleasant in spite of its dramatic value.

Lois Meredith is appealing as the badly treated Nan, and William Conklin carries out the author's conception of her contemptible father. Frank Mayo, Marguerite Nichols, Charles Dudley and Lucy Blake round out a competent cast.

Scene from "Sold at Auction" (Pathe).

"Double Crossed."

A Fall River Line boat and the New York theater roof, where the "Midnight Frolic" is produced, are the scenes of the big moments in the fourth episode of "Patria," in which Mrs. Vernon Castle is the bright particular star. This serial, produced for the International by the Whartons, is supplied with plenty of action. The latest number contains a lively fight, brought on by reason of a dancer at the "Midnight Frolic" being the exact counterpart of Patria. The girl's manager gets mixed up with Captain Parr, when Patria is taken for the dancer. At the end of the picture Patria is thrown overboard from a Fall River Line boat, at the instigation of the Japanese, Baron Huroki.

"Money Magic"

Vitagraph Five-Reel Blue Ribbon Feature Photoplay from a Story by Hamlin Garland with a Three-Star Cast.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE opening reel of "Money Magic," the five-reel Vitagraph from a story by Hamlin Garland, released February 5, gives promise of an uncommonly good photoplay; the promise is not borne out, however, by the remaining reels. This may be put down to two causes: the introduction of two invalids as prominent characters and too frequent shifting of the locale. The amount of railroad travel in the picture is surprising, to say the least.

Up to the moment when Marshall Haney is shot and Bertha Gilman consents to marry him, the story pulses with vigorous and comparatively fresh phases of life. Haney is supposed to be at the point of death and makes Bertha his wife in order that he may leave her his fortune. He does not die, but becomes an almost helpless cripple, and Bertha learns, too late, that she is in love with another man. The object of her affection, a young lawyer, is engaged to an eastern girl, a consumptive, who has come west for her health. The two invalids find out how matters stand between Bertha and the lawyer, and sacrifice themselves for the sake of the lovers.

The presence of the invalids in the story should have been confined to the last reel. Dragged through three reels, they become depressing, and indicate the only logical ending for the story at too early a period. The old stage rule of confining all cases of ill health on the part of the heroine or hero to the last act, would be an excellent rule for the screen.

Marshall Haney, as played by William Duncan, is the hero of "Money Magic." The part is ably conceived by the author and splendidly acted by Mr. Duncan. Edith Storey as Bertha Gilman gives another strongly marked and uniformly fine performance. There is an individuality to Miss Storey's work that is one of its best features. Antonio Moreno, the third member of the group of stars, demonstrates his right to the position, and Florence Dye, Laura Winston, and the unlisted members of the cast, make the performance one of unvarying merit. William Wolbert has been unrestricted in his use of adequate settings, and has employed his material with well considered effect.

"The Reward of the Faithless"

Five-Reel Bluebird Is Sombre Russian Drama That Interests While It Depresses—Wedgewood Nowell and Betty Schade Head Good Cast.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

THIS latest five-reel Bluebird, "The Reward of the Faithless," is not, like the fabled bluebird, for happiness. It is a heavy dramatic offering whose sombre plot depresses while its very dolefulness fascinates and holds the interest captive. Most of the scenes are laid in Russia. Although the photoplay ends as happily as could be expected under the circumstances, there is a tragic strain that can be heard above the final song of great happiness. The picture convincingly proves the tradition of the family of one of the characters to the effect that great happiness can come to a member of that family only through great sorrow, and we see most of the sorrow, but little of the happiness. The story has the saving grace of a degree of originality, and was written by Magnus Ingleton.

Wedgewood Nowell and Betty Schade head an excellent cast. Upon these two and Claire Du Bray falls work that brings into being their every iota of dramatic ability, and they never once fail a situation, some of which are quite difficult of interpretation. A good characterization is done by William J. Dyer. Nicholas Dunaew proves himself adequate, as does also Richard Le Reno.

Scene from "The Reward of the Faithless" (Bluebird).

The picture has received careful and artistic production by Rex Ingram, some of the lightings being especially effective. Photography throughout is excellent.

There are several points in the story at which plausibility is considerably stretched. For instance, the adventurer's wife apparently dies when the man and the one-time woman of the streets, who has been taken into the home, fail to give her prescribed pills. We see the wife in her shroud, and believe her to be dead. But she isn't. She comes out of her comatose trance when her first lover mourns at her side.

Earl Gulick, who has occupied an executive position with the International for the past two years, has resigned for the purpose of embarking in the motion picture business for himself.

Mr. Gulick, who did notable work for the International, will engage in the state rights end of the motion picture industry.

Two Paramount Pictures

"His Sweetheart," a Morosco Five-Reel Photoplay of Which George Beban Is Author and Star, and "The Golden Fetter," a Five-Reel Lasky Picture Featuring Wallace Reid and Anita King.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

GEORGE BEBAN understands how to put the human touch into a screenplay when writing the scenario and also when playing the leading part. "His Sweetheart," the five-reel Morosco picture written by Mr. Beban and Lawrence McCloskey, overflows with bits of real life and revelations of humanity in its most pleasing phases. A clear understanding of the worth of a closely knit, dramatic plot that has sufficient vitality to keep ahead of the spectator's powers of discernment is among Mr. Beban's equipment for the art of play-making; and, aside from one debatable point, the material used in the present instance is logical, convincing and of a surprising degree of freshness.

The character played by the star is that of Joe Picarri, an Scene from "His Sweetheart" (Morosco).

Italian iceman on the "east side," whose great ambition at the opening of the story is to bring his mother over from Italy and establish her as the mistress of his home—two small rooms in the cellar back of his place of business. This is accomplished, and the following series of events show Joe's "Mamma Mia" accused of stealing a gold pin from the wife of the district attorney. She is convicted and sent to prison, and Joe is made a tool by a number of crooks, in an attempt to kill the attorney. The iceman is prevented by an unlooked for circumstance from carrying out the scheme and events terminate happily for Joe, his mother and a new sweetheart that becomes Mrs. Piciarri. The debatable point is having the wife of the district attorney intrust Joe's mother with the doing up of the family laundry. The back room of a basement in the Italian quarter of New York is hardly the place that a woman of wealth would select for the washing and ironing of her little girl's frocks and articles from her own wardrobe.

The many persons who have seen George Beban in "The Sign of the Rose" and other plays which permitted him to introduce his remarkably lifelike and sympathetic portrayal of the Italian character, the humble son of Italy as he is known to New Yorkers and Americans in general, need not be told that he fulfills every requirement of his role in "His Sweetheart." His humanity is the most engaging quality to be found in his creation of the iceman. Helen Jerome Eddy is faithful to nature in her performance of the Italian girl Trina, and Sarah Kernan looks and acts as if she has just landed from Naples. Harry Devore and Kathleen Kirkham are worthy representatives of the district attorney and his wife. The details of the production have been carefully looked after.

"The Golden Fetter."

Jim Ralston, a western mining engineer, and Faith Miller, a New England school teacher, are the characters played by Wallace Reid and Anita King in "The Golden Fetter," a five-reel Lasky photoplay written by Charles T. Jackson. The author's strong point is character drawing. He has peopled his play with an interesting assoftment of human beings, several of them endowed with a well-developed sense of humor and able to furnish ample comedy relief to the sterner moments of the picture. These are often highly dramatic and end with an attempt to hang the hero, who is saved by the little school teacher telling the truth at the risk of compromising her good name. A worthless mine, in which she has invested nine thousand dollars, is the cause of the trouble and the means of her coming west.

Right here, it is only fair to warn Charles T. Jackson that persons acquainted with the New England character are going to find it a little difficult to believe in Faith Miller's mine deal. Massachusetts school ma'ams are a cautious set, where money is concerned, and would require a good deal of "showing" before investing nine thousand dollars in a silver mine on the word of a stranger. Once Faith Miller makes such a move, her conduct, after she meets the mining engineer, is just what a spirited young woman would consider was right in the line of her duty, and she deserves to marry the man she saves and live happy ever afterward.

The atmosphere in all the scenes, out West and down East, is preserved with fidelity, the acting of the entire cast having much to do with this result. Wallace Reid looks and acts Jim Ralston with equal success, and Anita King makes the school teacher a most likable young woman. Tully Marshall sustains his past reputation as the "slick villain" of the drama, and Guy Oliver and Walter Long play a pair of second heavies that come very close to being the real thing. Mrs. Lewis McCord fills every specification laid down for the part of the warm-hearted Irishwoman Big Annie, and C. H. Gelder, Larry Payton and Lucien Littlefield are a trio of sure 'nuff Westerners.

"The Darling of Paris"

Theda Bara Seen in Picturesque Five-Reel Screen Version of Hugo's "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," Produced by Fox.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

IN preparing this five-reel screen version of Victor Hugo's romance of medieval Paris. "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," which the Fox Film Corporation has produced under the title of "The Darling of Paris," an attempt has been made to avoid arousing any religious feeling against the picture by changing the priest, whose passion for Esmaralda brings on the tragedy, to a man of science. Another radical departure from the original is to transform the misshapen dwarf Quasimodo to a handsome young chap of powerful physique who wins the gypsy girl at the final scene. The wisdom of these changes is without question, if the commercial returns from the picture are to decide the matter. Such an arrangement is bound to suit the admirers of Theda Bara, who plays the heroine, however much it detracts from the strength of the story.

To anyone not familiar with the Hugo romance, the Fox screen version presents a well put together photoplay, rich in picturesque incident, strong character drawing, authentic reproduction of an age long past, dramatic situations in abundance and a climax of thrilling worth. To this array of meritorious features must be added the excellent performance of Esmaralda given by Miss Bara, and the fine support of the rest of the cast. It is doubtful if the star has ever done anything better than her acting in this picture. She looks the character, and retains something of the untamed spirit and warmth of passion which must have belonged to a gypsy girl of the Middle Ages.

Walter Law as Claude Frallo, Glen White as Quasimodo and Herbert Hayes as Captain Phoebus, are the more important male members of the cast and are well equipped for their tasks. Carey Lee, Alice Gale, John Webb Dillion and Louis Dean also deserve pleasant mention. The production is pretentious and impressive. J. Gordon Edwards, the director, has handled his material of every description with authority, and the average follower of the screen will find "The Darling of Paris" very much to his taste.

Scene from "The Darling of Paris" (Fox).

Triangle Program

"Jim Bludso," Five-Reel Fine Arts, with Wilfred Lucas, and "The Gun-Fighter," Five-Reel Kay Bee, With William S. Hart.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

JIM BLUDSO is a careful picturization by Tod Browning and Wilfred Lucas of the poem by John Hay. Careful is the word in a case where so many difficulties naturally arise, where negligence would result in loss of atmosphere and consequent destruction of illustrative value. Mr. Lucas gives one of his strong and consistent characterizations as an engineer on one of the Mississippi river packets, the charm of nearly every piece in which he appears. He is well supported by a capable cast, and the air of sincerity pervading this entire release places it high in the worth-while class. Its chief fault is that of scattering interest by leaving the main line of interest so often for the sake of presenting other characters—a common enough fault—and recourse to such old devices as pressure brought by a villain on the father of an innocent girl. That is an almost constant interpolation of studio directors who write their own plays instead of reaching out for new and original matter.

Scene from "Jim Bludsoe" (Triangle).

Aside from the interesting characterizations, the carefully selected settings draw attention and interest. The race between river boats; the scenes aboard them; the burning of a fine-looking river packet and the levee break are all intensely realistic. Here directorial skill is manifested at every step. With fine interpretation and treatment, there is only lacking the originality and single-action structure provided by capable authors of screen stories. The feature may be called a study of the time and place to which it refers, so fascinatingly perfect is the atmosphere of river life that it portrays. These make it entertaining enough for a place on any good program.

The Gun-Fighter.

"The Gun-Fighter," by Monte M. Katterjohn, is well constructed and consistent in both development and direction, but it is too obviously a vehicle for Mr. Hart and therefore lacking in that first value of a play—originality. Mr. Katterjohn has done much better work, especially in characterization. This story reverts to a role Mr. Hart ought to be thoroughly tired of, that of a Western tough whose soft spot is found by a woman of refinement. He has played it so often that one might get the impression that he would not be effective in any other part, whereas he would really be more impressive in a purely human characterization, that of a man of complex impulses and qualities, rather than the purely heroic, long since shelved by dramatists and novelists as lacking in verisimilitude. Few of us are really heroic, but the very fact that we are human and err at times while we go straight at others brings such an impersonation closer to audience sympathies.

Mr. Hart, to use a newspaper expression, "follows copy." He is the same man he was in other plays of the same kind, the same exponent of brute strength, modified in some sudden and almost unaccountable conversion when a young lady comes on the scene, as if he had never seen one before in his whole life. As a gun-fighter he must be quick to shoot, yet he makes the heroic claim that he always gives the other fellow a chance. There is really nothing even heroic about being a good shot. How much more fascinating to see so capable an actor play the part of a real man, "In doubt to act or rest, in doubt to deem himself a god or beast, in doubt his mind or body to prefer, born but to die and reasoning but to err." "Sole judge of truth, in endless error hurled, the glory, jest and riddle of the world." Hart's interesting personality and the constant action of "The Gun-Fighter" constitute its chief attractions.

Two Kalems

"The Dominion of Fernandez," Episode of "The Girl From Frisco," and "The Net of Intrigue," a "Grant" Number.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

ACTION is the keynote of "The Dominion of Fernandez," latest two-reel episode of Kalem's "The Girl From Frisco" series. The two reels are crowded with wild horse riding, gun fighting, fist fighting and all other sorts of fighting that help make an exciting western. In this number is told the story of a Castilian who reigns supreme over a little kingdom

Scene from "The Dominion of Fernandez" (Kalem).

of Mexicans in the California mountains. The inhabitants of the "dominion" make their living by cattle rustling and smuggling. They steal Barbara Brent's pet horse, and together with her father and a young man visiting the ranch Barbara goes after the band. They get into all sorts of tight places and fight their way out. Marin Sais is seen in the leading role. Others in the cast are Frank Jonasson, Ronald Bradbury and Edward Clisbee. Directed by James W. Horne.

"The Net of Intrigue."

This reel, an episode in the "Grant, Police Reporter" series, shows the reporter, George Larkin, in more daring stunts. Pursuing spies who have stole Panama Canal plans, he first makes a flying leap to the rope ladder hanging from the stern of a steamer, and later leaps from the high stern into the water. The story told on the screen is interesting. Action is fast. The reporter this time is fired because he refuses to give the new city editor a story told him in confidence. But he gets his job back after he recovers the plans and gets a better story. In the cast with George Larkin are Ollie Kirkby, Director Robert Ellis, Harry Gordon and Cyril Courtney.

"The White Raven"

Ethel Barrymore Makes Good in Five-part Adaptation of Charles A. Logue's Story for Metro Program.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THE story of "The White Raven," by Charles A. Logue, is one which presents unusually tense dramatic situations in a theme of wide human appeal. George D. Baker in screening it for the Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., has succeeded in keeping near the edge of things, as it were. The play as presented has a fine moral balance. The character of the feminine lead played by Ethel Barrymore, in pleasing contrast to the big majority of screen plays, presents a quality of almost masculine strength, a determination to follow the paths of virtue born of knowledge rather than ignorance, and a sense of honor and womanly tenderness, all of which has a general appeal and influence for good. The picture is staged in a pleasingly daring manner that is strongly realistic and savors of good red blood.

Nor are we much less interested in the masculine lead played by William B. Davidson. It may be true that the role he plays has been created for the express purpose of accentuating the character of Nan Baldwin, and that his origin or attachments have not been made public property in the play. Nevertheless the character of "the stranger" who threw the card which gave him the right by her own word to possess the woman, and the woman the right to his money bags for the furtherance of her career as a singer, is one which we admire and like, in spite of any protest which reason may advance.

The story, briefly outlined, has its real beginning in an incident in the life of Nan Baldwin's father, who, ruined in business by his partner (played by Walter Hitchcock) and afterward refused aid by him, goes with his young daughter to the Alaskan gold fields. Her father dying prematurely, Nan is left to earn her living in a dance hall and fired with ambition to be a great singer, and with hatred toward her father's partner, she offers herself to the winner at a card game for the money won. The innate virtue of the woman and the respect of that virtue by the man allows her to go forth unharmed, money in hand, but with the shadow hanging over her that in the hour of her triumph she will receive the two deuces with which the game was won accompanied by a demand that she return to "the stranger" in accordance to the promise which she is forced to make on regaining her freedom.

In later years "the stranger" again wanders into the story, this time as an attractive society man, without any of the hallmarks of his former appearance; the result being that she falls in love with him while accomplishing the ruin of her father's former partner. In her refusal of his offer of marriage, which happens in conjunction with the arrival on the scene of the two deuces, and her return to Alaska, a pleasing climax is brought about when in the carrying out of what she believes to be her duty she comes face to face with her lover in that far-off Alaskan cabin.

"The Girl Who Didn't Think"

Six-Part Problem Play Produced by the Creative Film Corporation, Features Jane Gail.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THE six-part production made by the Creative Film Corporation, "The Girl Who Didn't Think," does a considerable amount of credit to Director Haddock, and gives added proof of the fine dramatic ability of Jane Gail, the star of the play. In reviewing a production of this sort one is strongly alive to the fact that an individual opinion is scarcely capable of balancing the sum total of the opinions of the masses, or that it may be unwise to venture a decided opinion on whether or not the moral intended to be transmitted will be transmitted in the manner intended.

In the past year or two the market has presented a number of pictures based, as is this one, on the question of the pitfalls which beset the youthful feminine, suggesting reasons why she is so illy equipped to combat them. And while the reviewer grows weary and is prone to lose sight of all but the possible pecuniary motives behind these preachful melodramas, it may be best to accept without question the fact that by means of these very pictures the multitude is often moved to graver thoughts on questions that may seem trivial to many of us.

Getting down to an analysis of the production in question, the impression left with the reviewer is that had the arrangement of subtitles been arranged with less obvious intent to sermonize, the good effect from a dramatic or professional standpoint would have been heightened. In fact many of the subtitles could have been dispensed with, and in one or two instances it was noticed that a subtitle repeated the intention of the one preceding.

The scenes in the restaurant giving close-ups of various cabaret performers, among them some girls in tights, seem unnecessary, but with these exceptions there is little to criticise in the manner in which the production has been presented. In any picture of this kind a refined handling of the principal role has much to do with the general aspect of the production, and in this particular Jane Gail has left nothing to be desired.

Scene from "The Girl Who Didn't Think" (Creative).

With the exception of the father and mother and the unfortunate girl the other characters of the story are not ones to be admired. Members of the supporting cast are Stanley Walpole, Agnes Nielon, William Manderfille, Mary Simon, Helen Milholland and William Butler.

Harry Carrey is being featured in a five-act western photoplay, "Plain Mary Smith," which is in course of production at Universal City.

"One Touch of Sin"

Fox Film Corporation's Five Reel Western Is a Story of a Woman Wronged.

Reviewed by C. S. Sewell.

GLADY'S BROCKWELL is presented as the star in "One Touch of Sin," an interesting western melodrama written by L. Genez and directed by Richard Stanton. The theme —dealing with a girl's misguided love—while not an unusual one, has been strengthened by the work of the director, who has judiciously handled the situations afforded.

Mary Livingston, an innocent girl, who in an eastern city loves and trusts Richard Mallaby, a western miner and gambler, only to find her confidence misplaced, later meets him again in a mining camp, where he makes repeated attempts to gain possession of her. She is befriended by Watt Tabor, whom she marries to avoid being sent to prison for theft of money which she has taken to save herself from starvation. His love and unselfishness, which even includes sending east for her baby, finally awaken her love—after a big scene in which a disgruntled employee blows up the mine, causing the water to rush into the chamber where Tabor and Mallaby are engaged in a fierce struggle, ending in Tabor's dragging Mallaby out of the swiftly rising water and Mallaby's death after he has begged Mary's forgiveness.

As Mary, Miss Brockwell is afforded a part well suited to her, and which she handles well, especially the scene where, realizing her condition, she begs Mallaby to marry her, and later, in a dance hall, where in a struggle with Mallaby, after securing his pistol, she is only prevented from killing him by Tabor, who takes the weapon from her.

The work of the other members of the cast, including Jack Standing as Richard Mallaby, and Willard Louis as Watt Scene from "One Touch of Sin" (Fox).

Tabor, together with Sedley Brown, Carrie Clark Ward, James MacDonald and Charles Edhler, is good, and a touch of human interest is added by little Frankie Lee and his pet dog in the western scenes.

"Bridges Burned"

Popular Plays and Players Production of Five-Reel Screen Drama Starring Mme. Petrova—Released by Metro Pictures Corporation.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE story of "Briges Burned," a five-reel production by Popular Play and Players, is the work of Mme. Petrova, the Russian actress, who appears in the leading role. The scenes of the play are laid in Ireland, and the heroine is a girl of advanced ideas who falls in love with a young Englishman, and, after her lover leaves for London, finds her good name in danger unless there is a speedy marriage. This takes place, but a misunderstanding makes the girl leave her husband immediately following the ceremony and seek to earn her own living. The Englishman, now a surgeon, goes to the front and wins honors in the Great War. Mary O'Brien's child is born, and, eventually, the family are reunited.

Viewed merely as a piece of photoplay writing, "Bridges Burned" is a rather slow moving but fairly interesting drama. It contains but little emotional appeal for the reason that the heroine is such a self contained mortal that she does not let the affairs of life ruffle her mind any more than she permits the winds of heaven to rumple her hair. Her indiscretion does not throw her off her mental balance in the slightest degree. The popular notion of the consequences of loving too well are great mental distress and an almost helpless battle against sorrows and adverse circumstances.

Mary O'Brien rises superior to all such conditions, takes her fate into her own hands and calmly steers it past the rocks and shoals of convention and brings it safely to anchor in the right harbor. The fact of the matter is, it's Mary's name that's Irish, not her nature. There is nothing of the emotional, impulsive Celt in Mme. Petrova's conception of a daughter of Ireland; her creation is an intellectual Russian woman that has the touch of fatalism and freedom of thought, which makes the heroine of one of St. John Hankin's plays remark: "Women had children thousands of years before marriage was invented. I dare say they will go on doing so thousands of years after it has ceased to exist."

Scene from "Bridges Burned" (Metro).

It is hardly necessary to state that Mme. Petrova's performance of such a character is a fine exhibition of the art of acting. She never departs from her ideal for an instant, and awakens admiration for her histrionic method—even if she neglects to stir the springs of emotion in the soul of the spectator.

The production has many points of excellence, and was directed by Perry Vekroff. The supporting company aid materially in the amount of success achieved by the play, and include Mahlon Hamilton, Arthur Hoops, Maury Stuart, Robert Broderick, Mathilda Brundage, Louis Stern and Thomas Cameron.

ELLA HALL, BLUEBIRD, BOOKED AT RIALTO.

"The Mysterious Mrs. M." was so successful in pleasing patrons of S. L. Rothapfel's Rialto during the past week that he arranged with Sam Kramer, manager of Bluebird's New York Branch, to play another feature in that series as soon as arrangements could be made. The result of negotiations will constitute Ella Hall, in "Polly Redhead," the attraction at the Rialto the week of February 4.

This showing of Bluebirds will further result in a third feature Director Rothapfel has contracted for—"The Cruise of the Alden Besse," a Lynn Reynolds production. The title on this feature will undoubtedly be changed and the picture will be shown at the Rialto as soon as the picture can be edited and the print prepared.

"Polly Redhead" is a screen version of Edgar Jepson's "Pollyooly" stories, prepared by E. J. Clawson. Ella Hall has been directed by Jack Conway and plays the role of two little girls with fiery red tresses—hence the screen title. Miss Hall's "double" will keep her on the screen most of the time, telling a story in which the two children straighten out a domestic situation with resulting happiness to all.

BURNS AIDS WARWICK IN MYSTERY FILM.

Detective methods of the most scientific and modern sort play such an important part in "The Argyle Case," in which Robert Warwick will make his first appearance as a Selznick-Pictures star that it was considered advisable to obtain the best technical advice necessary, so that the picture might be perfect in every detail. William J. Burns was consulted by Harvey J. O'Higgins and Harriet Ford when they wrote the original play, and he consented to act in a similar capacity of adviser to Robert Warwick. He made several visits to the Selznick studio when the important scenes were being photographed, and as a consequence "The Argyle Case" as a detective film will stand the closest scrutiny.

CRANE WILBUR IN NEW MUTUALS.

Crane Wilbur will appear in a new series of five-part feature productions to be distributed by the Mutual Film Corporation. The announcement comes from the offices of President John R. Freuler, of the Mutual, who last week closed a contract for the series with David Horsley.

Mr. Horsley has completed the negatives of three of the productions, the titles of which are to be announced later, when release dates have been chosen in the Mutual's advance schedule.

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Company.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS (Vim—Serial No. 21647).—There are several laughs in this comedy reel in which Pokes and Jabbs are the stars. They are seen as war correspondents and they run across some mysterious happenings. They trace these to their source and are treated to a surprise. Action throughout is fairly fast, considerable knockabout work being done with good comedy result.

THE ROOM OF MYSTERY (Knickerbocker Star Feature—Serial No. 21648-49-50).—A fair three-reel drama produced by the Horkheimers. Interest is maintained throughout the three reels. Margaret Van and Gordon Sackville head the cast. The story tells of a girl secret service agent who gains access to a supposed spy's house. The head of the Secret Service is in love with the girl. His wife has been missing for some years. The girl ostensibly goes to the house a second time for a position as governess. She is made prisoner in the "room of mystery." She manages to get a message to her chief. The place is raided and the chief's wife found there.

CANIMATED NOOZ PICTORIAL NO. 23 (Essanay—Serial 21663).—Cartoon comics burlesqueing more or less topical subjects share this reel with scenic. The animated drawings ought to get a laugh or two, for in them we make a trip to the north pole with Dr. Stew and see several things that we never knew were there; also persons in the public eye. The scenic section shows some beautiful views photographed in Alaska.

THE VIOLET RAY (Kalem—Serial No. 21668).—This one-reel number of the "Grant, Police Reporter," series, is as interesting as any preceding release. The reel is crammed with story. The thrills come when George Larkin gains access to a house by walking on a telephone wire while grasping with his hands a wire above. In this manner he gets into a room and rescues the daughter of the inventor of a violet ray machine from the hands of foreign intriguers, who are endeavoring to learn the secret. Reviewed on page 702 of last week's issue.

HIS LITTLE SPIRIT GIRL (Vitagraph—Serial No. 21669).—This is one of those truly comic Drew comedies which most of us like to see. It treats of how a husband cured his wife of her spiritualistic ideas. After several seances having been held at his house, and his wife receiving a message telling her that her husband has a secret in his past, he breaks into the game and succeeds by dint of a bribe of hard cash to the medium in creating an imaginative feminine spirit which he calls Edith. To this spirit he persists in talking and offering candy and flowers. A promise from his wife to relinquish spiritualism is the cue for him to show Edith the door.

THE SAFETY PIN SMUGGLERS (Kalem—Serial No. 21684).—A comedy reel with Ham, Bud, Ethel Teare and Henry Murdoch in the cast. This is not a roaring comedy, but several humorous ideas have been introduced. Ham and Bud have a scrap and each goes his way. Later they both are on the watch for the safety pin smuggler, who proves to be Ethel. Henry Murdoch is the relentless sleuth. The reel is only a fair one.

General Film Company Specials.

THE SINFUL MARRIAGE (Essanay—Serial No. 21651-52).—No. 6 of the "Is Marriage Sacred?" series. This two-reel subject is a quite convincing indictment of the marriage for money and position. It is capably played by the Essanay stock company. In this film are seen Marguerite Clayton, Sydney Ainsworth, Edward Arnold, Thomas Commerford and Marion Lydston. The story tells of a girl who, though loving a doctor, marries a wealthy man. The wealthy man is brought by circumstances to realize that his marriage was a loveless one, and paves the way for his wife's happiness.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO? (Essanay—Serial No. 21660-61).—One of the "Black Cat" features).—A quite interesting two-reel drama with a surprise at the finish. Richard C. Travers, Ernest Maupain and Frances Benedict are the leading players. On the screen we see the country girl who turns down her country lover and comes to the city. Through her vicissitudes we follow her and see her come back to her home and wed the country boy. The villain enters the plot again, and we find that the whole thing is nothing but a scenario.

THE WOLF OF LOS ALAMOS (Kalem—Serial No. 21664-65).—Episode 24 of "The Girl From Frisco" series. This two-reel number is a Western above the ordinary. Marin Sais proves her fearlessness several times. She falls from a horse at one point and rolls down a steep embankment. Later she thrillingly stops a runaway. The story tells of a murder committed by a Hindu cook and of the solution of the mystery. A longer review was printed in last week's issue, page 702.

Art Dramas, Inc.

HER GOOD NAME (Van Dyke), Jan. 25.—There are a few strong points that make interesting a more or less obvious story visualized in this five-reel drama. The story tells of the country girl who meets the city artist. There is enough dramatically interesting material and enough suspense to hold interest fairly well. Jean Sothern is the featured player. A longer review can be found in another column of this issue.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

THE REWARD OF THE FAITHLESS (Bluebird), Feb. 12.—This five-reel Bluebird is a sombre Russian drama that depresses while it interests. The cast, headed by Wedgewood Nowell and Betty Schade, is an excellent one. The story is tragic, and tells of an adventurer who marries a princess, but who, with a one-time woman of the streets, plans to hasten his wife's death. The wife is apparently dead, but it develops that she is only in a trance. The husband believes her to be dead and years later is led to suicide when confronted by her "ghost." A review is printed on another page of this issue.

Fox Film Corporation.

THE DARLING OF PARIS (Fox), Jan. 22.—Victor Hugo's celebrated romance of France in the Middle Ages, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," has been fashioned into a five-reel screenplay, with Theda Bara as the gypsy girl Esmaralda. The picture is full of life and color, and the star and her support act their roles in a highly satisfactory manner. It is given a longer review on another page of this issue.

ONE TOUCH OF SIN, (Jan. 29).—A five-reel Western story of a girl's misguided love, starring Gladys Brockwell in a part well suited to her. Has considerable action, including several good fighting scenes, especially one in a flooded mine, between Jack Stanton and Willard Louis. A review is printed on another page of this issue.

Germanic Official War Films, Inc.

GERMANY AND ITS ARMIES OF TODAY (January).—Under this general title there are 10,000 feet of film to be released in 2,500-foot lengths. The pictures are the most informative propaganda that has as yet reached this country from Germany since the beginning of the war. The films do not show battle scenes, but show Germany as it is today—the human side. A review printed on page 701 of last week's issue says "they are good enough to deserve countrywide booking."

Greater Vitagraph

MONEY MAGIC, (Feb. 5).—Edith Storey, William Duncan and Antonio Moreno are featured in this five-reel photoplay taken from a story by Hamlin Garland. The photography and locations are admirable and the plot gives the trio opportunities for impressive acting. It is not closely knit, however, and could be altered to advantage. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Metro Pictures Corporation

THE WHITE HAVEN (Rolfe), Jan. 15.—A five-part drama featuring Ethel Barrymore. The production made by George D. Baker is much above the average, is realistic, and of good moral balance. An adaptation of Charles A. Logue's story has been used as the basis of the picture, many of the scenes of which are laid in the Yukon. A review can be found on another page of this issue.

BRIDGES BURNED (Popular Plays and Players), Jan. 29.—Mme. Petrova, the Russian actress, is the author and also the star of this five-reel photoplay. The scenes are laid in Ireland and on the battle ground in France. The picture is well produced and has the aid of a good cast. Mme. Petrova plays a woman of advanced ideas. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

THE PEST (Metro-Drew), Jan. 29.—His wife's brother is the pest in this one-reel picture that makes the life of Sidney of the Drews anything but a round of pleasure. The young gentleman is shipped off to the Mexican frontier at the finish, and Sidney wraps himself in the folds of the American flag and grins the grin that knows no "fade out." Full of chuckles of great joy.

Mutual Film Corporation

MUTUAL TOURS AROUND THE WORLD NO. 11 (Gaumont), Jan. 16.—In this number will be found views on the straits of Gibralter, and about the seaport town of Algeciras, the subject being titled "From Gibralter to Algeciras." Other subjects contained in this film are "In Tunis," which gives a good idea of the people and customs, and also the occupations of that part of Africa, and scenes in "The Bois de Bologne," the largest of the Paris parks.

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 108 (Gaumont), Jan. 24.—A number of interesting events are recorded in this number, among them the test of a hydroplane built to control torpedo by wireless, a dog chauffeur, the Mountaineer Club on a hike in Ranier National Park, Admiral Dewey's funeral, a new plan of travelling by which 500 miles an hour may be an actual possibility, according to scientists, and other incidents of considerable importance.

JERRY AND THE OUTLAWS (Cub), Jan. 25.—A moderately entertaining farce comedy in which Jerry has some thrilling adventures with three outlaws. After he is captured and put in an upstair room of an old cabin, he escapes through the window, enters and steals the guns of the outlaws while they are engrossed in a game of cards, and so wins out.

REEL LIFE NO. 39 (Gaumont), Jan. 28.—An interesting number containing four subjects, namely, "X-Rays in War Time," "Decorative Butterflies," "Salt, the Cheap Necessity," and "The Real Hula-Hula." Reviewed at length in the educational department of Feb. 17.

MUTUAL TOURS AROUND THE WORLD NO. 13 (Gaumont), Jan. 30.—In this number interesting scenes about "Teheran, Persia," are shown; also "Coast Resorts of Normandy" and "Winter in the Vosges Mountains." A review of this number will be found in our issue of Feb. 17.

SEE AMERICA FIRST NO. 73 (Gaumont), Jan. 31.—"San Diego, Cal.," is the subject of this number. Interesting scenes in and about the city are shown, public buildings and the main business thoroughfare. A full review will be found in the Educational Department of Feb. 17. The film ends with an animated cartoon entitled "Never Again."

UNCLE SAM'S DEFENDERS NO. 5 (Mutual), Feb. 2.—"Scouts of the Sea and Air" is the title of this number of the series which gives interesting views of hydroplanes at work off the Gulf of Mexico. Comprehensive views of the K-37, showing the various technicalities in connection with the workings of the boat and firing of torpedoes are given.

UNCLE SAM'S DEFENDERS NO. 6 (Mutual), Feb. 9.—"Bull Dogs of the Deep" is the title of this number, which tells us all that could seemingly be told on the screen about Uncle Sam's fleet. Scenes aboard the superdreadnaught "New York" and the "Texas" are shown; also big guns in action, target practice, hauling in the target, and an impressive group of our "fighters" on Gauantanamo Bay.

Mutual Film Corporation Specials.

A CIRCUS CYCLONE (Vogue), Jan. 28.—In this two-part farce comedy will be found some amusing things, which are, unfortunately not unmixed with vulgarity. It contains no squarely grounded plot, and what it has is based on a rivalry for the hand of a pretty girl between two unsightly lovers. The most entertaining and original part of the picture has to do with the chase of one man in the guise of an elephant after another man. During this chase they traverse the tops of the circus tents, many of the scenes of the play being laid about a side show.

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS NO. 15 (Signal), Jan. 28.—This chapter ends the regime of "Dollar" Holmes, and incidentally the feud of the lumbermen. In the attempt to run Dawson's men off the Indian lands a spectacular fight occurs. Another spectacular scene occurs when the automobile in which "Dollar" Holmes is fleeing the Dawson men, falls over an embankment, and is destroyed. Holmes escaping is later killed when the locomotive which the Dawson men take possession of runs into and demolishes the street car in which he finally takes refuge.

SHORTY GOES TO COLLEGE (Monogram), Jan. 29.—The third of the "Adventures of Shorty Hamilton" has fairly amusing qualities. The first reel abounds in drinking scenes, so much so that it jars considerably on the average sensibility. The second reel contains some entertaining scenes in which "Shorty" goes to college, and does the heroic in trying to conceal the theft of some diamond samples by the sleep-walking daughter of his professor.

Paramount Pictures Corp.

THE GOLDEN FETTER (Lasky), Jan. 25.—Wallace Reid and Anita King are the featured players of this five-reel screen-drama, that divides its scenes between a Western mining town and a Down East village. Humorous and dramatic situations are skilfully blended throughout the picture, and it is well acted. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

PICTOGRAPH NO. 52 (Paramount), Jan. 28.—The subjects contained in this number of the Pictographs are "Winter Sports in America," with scenes taken in the neighborhood of Lake Placid; "Discovery of the Shot Tower," showing how the modern method of making shot was accidentally discovered by spilling molten lead into a pail of water; "In the Shadow of the North Pole," showing scenes in Alaska, and "Bending the Human Twig," illustrating the work of vocational schools.

HIS SWEETHEART (Morosco), Jan. 29.—A five-reel photoplay by George Beban, in which the author repeats his inimitable creation of an "east side" Italian. He is an iceman in this picture and his quaint humor, humanity and love for his old mother—the sweetheart of the story—are all very appealing. The picture is dramatic and is produced with the help of Mr. Beban's thorough knowledge of all branches of his profession. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

Pathe Exchange Inc.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS, NO. 17 (Pathe), Feb. 4.—"Where Fashions Reign" is the name given to this number, and the display of fetching frocks it contains vindicates the title. An educational in colors, "An Algerian Harem," is on the same reel. One educational feature of the subject is a brief but comprehensive exhibition of native dancing.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS, NO. 18 (Pathe), Feb. 11.—"In Anticipation" reveals another collection of creations that will move the ladies to exclamations of rapture, and even the male mind will be able to comprehend that the gowns, hat and other more familiar articles of feminine adornment, have been selected by a person of artistic discernment. "Childish Delights," an imported colored half reel, will be a great hit with any body of spectators.

SKINNY'S LOVE TANGLE (Rolin), Feb. 11.—Another farce, "Schemer Skinny's Scandal," shares the reel with "Skinny's Love Tangle." The Rolin fat boy is the hero of both pictures and rushes through most of the scenes with surprising speed for one of his weight. The humor is as apparent as Skinny is broad and is acted by all concerned with plenty of ginger.

SOLD AT AUCTION (Balboa), Feb. 11.—The punch in this five-reel picture is where a father is the highest bidder for a young girl put up at auction by a white slaver, and the girl turns out to be his own daughter. The subject is handled with as little bad taste possible under the circumstances, and is acted with a fair degree of skill. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

THE CAPTAIN IS EXAMINED FOR INSURANCE (International), Jan. 28.—This number of the Hans and Fritz cartoons shares the reel with "In Southern Highlands." The cartoon is up to the mark established by the series, and the scenic shows some picturesque views in the mountains of Tennessee.

Triangle Film Corporation

ENVY (McClure), Jan. 29.—Second of the "Seven Deadly Sins" series. Holbrook Blinn is the featured player in this five-reel offering. Shirley Mason and George Le Guere head the supporting cast. The picture is a fairly interesting drama with plenty of action and enough heart interest. It proves that pride is sometimes a sin. The story tells of a wealthy orphan girl whose prides holds her above a poorer youth. She is "wanted" by a proud and wealthy banker. She tries to elope with a bogus count, and is rescued from the banker, who finishes the count, by the young lover. Reviewed on another page of this issue.

JIM BLUDSO (Fine Arts), Feb. 4.—A picture of Mississippi river life as it was in the time of Mark Twain's early experiences when he and John Hay, author of the poem, lived on the banks of that stream. A strong impersonation by Wilfred Lucas, the well-chosen settings, and the burning of an actual steamboat constitute the chief attractions of this feature.

THE GIRL OF THE TIMBER CLAIM (Fine Arts), Feb. 11.—Miss Constance Talmage in a rather dull and wandering story of timberland.

THE GUN-FIGHTER (Kay Bee), Feb. 11.—A vehicle for the exploitation of William S. Hart in his favorite role. Full of action and of the actor's interesting personality.

Universal Film Mfg. Company

ANIMATED WEEKLY, NO. 56 (Universal), Jan. 24.—War sidelights on land and sea, Panama's new president, probing the "peace leak" at Washington, burial of Admiral Dewey, and other events of public interest are included in this number.

DIAMONDS OF DESTINY (Imp), Feb. 4.—This number, by Beverly Griffith, features Alfred Allen, Peggy Coudray, Louise Lovely and Victor Rothman. It is a crook story, in which the girl's brother is made the victim of a frame-up by the gang. To avenge herself the girl plays into the hands of a detective, with whom she falls in love The problem is not essentially new in theme, but works out rather neatly and holds the interest.

HIS WIFE'S RELATIONS (Nestor), Feb. 5.—This number, by Bess Meredyth, features Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Edith Roberts. It tells a farcical story of family life, very funny in conception and presentation. Eddie marries a girl and her big brother and the rest of the tribe make life unbearable for him, until he finally rebels. This is so true to life that it will undoubtedly have wide appeal. A good subject.

HIGH COST OF STARVING (Victor), Feb. 9.—A comedy by Captain L. T. Peacock, in which a young married couple join Prof. Cauliflower's club for vegetarians. The husband, tiring of the diet, paints his wife's face while she is sleeping, and then his own and the servants, pretending they have all been stricken by sickness. The situation is amusing and the subject proves enjoyable.

OUT FOR THE DOUGH (Joker), Feb. 10.—A character comedy, by Jack Cunningham, featuring William Franey, Gale Henry and others.

Franey appears as a hobo who swipes the attire of a country minister. He is entertained at dinner and an old maid succeeds in leading him to the altar. There are some very funny spots in this. It makes a good offering of the "rube" character type.

Universal Film Mfg. Co. Specials

THE SCARLET CRYSTAL (Red Feather), Feb. 5.—This five-reel subject, by J. Grubb Alexander, features Herbert Rawlinson, Betty Schade, Gertrude Astor and Dorothy Davenport. The cast is a competent one, but the construction is faulty throughout and the plot shifts from one interest to another so rapidly that the production falls far below the average. The story concerns a country girl who marries a wealthy young idler. He gets on the downward path and pulls himself up at the last moment before the crash comes. The dream feature is too sordid and the production as a whole is disappointing.

THE PURPLE MASK, NO. 7 (Special Universal), Feb. 5.—This episode concludes the happenings in Transylvania, where the king is restored to favor with his people through the aid of Patsy. The next incidents concern a newly married man, named John Phillips, who is being followed by a woman and her nameless baby. The scenes occur on shipboard. Patsy aids the unfortunate woman. She appropriates some gems Phillips had taken from her and arranges to return them to her later. This is not so exciting as some previous numbers, but proves quite interesting.

WON BY GRIT (Gold Seal), Feb. 6.—A three-reel subject, by Willis Woods, featuring Neal Hart, Mina Cunard, Richard La Reno and Lois Wilson. A conventional Western story, enacted by a pleasing cast and in a manner which proves quite entertaining throughout. A plainsman, engaged to a society girl, goes with her on a slumming party. In a wine room he sees the beautiful daughter of the barkeep. He and his friends are ordered out because he pays attention to the girl. His sweetheart accuses him of cowardice and he returns to the place; the bar room brawl is well staged. His love turns toward the barkeep's daughter, after she saves his life. Well-constructed and strikes a good average.

THAT DAWGONE DOG (L-KO), Feb. 7.—A two-reel number, featuring Mrs. Griffith, Sammy Burns and Grace Jones. This is a characteristic knockabout comedy. A detective endeavors in the opening scenes to recover Mrs. Lottadough's stolen necklace. Later a Miss Dogberry, whose canine has died, wishes another like it and offers to marry the man who can bring her such a dog. This is not as funny as some by this company, but has a wild and amusing series of chase scenes at the close.

MELODY OF DEATH (Rex), Feb. 8.—A two-reel subject, by E. M. Ingleton, featuring Madge George, Douglas Gerrard, Ruth Clifford and Albert McQuarrie. The plot material is familiar, but well handled The story concerns a young man in the clutches of a prima donna of the vampire type. Her husband, an Italian organ grinder, who has followed her from the old country, turns up and kills her. The young man then returns to his sweetheart. A conventional plot presented with considerable strength by a pleasing cast.

THE OUTLAW AND THE LADY (Bison), Feb. 10.—A two-reel subject, by Harry Carey, featuring the author, Jack Richardson and Louise Lovely. A madcap Western girl falls into the hands of an outlaw, who, to get revenge on her father, carries the girl to his hideout in the hills. Later he is shot and captured, but the girl contrives to aid him to escape, though the usual marriage does not follow. An average Western subject, presented entertainingly, though not very novel in plot.

WHEN THIEVES FALL OUT (Imp), Feb. 11.—A two-reel crook story, featuring Sidney Bracey, Harry Benham and others. Most of the situations in this are familiar and it will therefore not arouse very much feeling in the average observer. At the same time the story and construction are good. A gentleman crook, in love with a society girl, attends a reception. His woman accomplice steals the girl's necklace and they plant it on the person of the hero. Later the girl crook becomes jealous and tells what has been done. The gang is rounded up after an exciting scuffle in the den.

World Pictures.

THE HUNGRY HEART (Peerless), Feb. 5.—The standard old French drama, "Frou Frou," is the original of this five-reel photoplay, and Alice Brady is seen in the part of the frivolous little heroine that pays so dearly for the wreck she makes of her life. The production and acting are equal to all demands. The picture is given an extended review on another page of this issue.

Ethel Barrymore in Seven-Part Special

Metro Actress and Her Company Now at Work in Jacksonville on "The Voice of Her People."

THE title chosen for Metro's great seven-part special release in which Ethel Barrymore will star is "The Voice of Her People." This magnificent feature was adapted by June Mathis from Edward Sheldon's play, "Egypt," which was presented on the speaking stage by Margaret Anglin. John W. Noble, who directed Miss Barrymore in the screen version of Margaret Deland's famous novel, "The Awakening of Helena Richie," is directing this production.

Miss Barrymore and her supporting company now are in Jacksonville, Fla., completing the exterior scenes of "The Voice of Her People," production of which was begun at the studios of the Columbia Pictures Corporation, New York.

"The Voice of Her People" is a story of gypsy life and the open road. The charm of freedom and the irresistible bond that unites those of the gypsy blood are described in this romance of the highway.

A great cast supports Miss Barrymore in "The Voice of Her People." Robert Whittier has the part of Young Faro, playing opposite Miss Barrymore. William B. Davidson plays Von Kleet. The old gypsy crone is played by Mrs. Allan Walker, a valuable member of many Metro casts. Frank Montgomery is the gypsy king and William Mandeville plays Lindsey.

Backer will Aid Exhibitors in Exploitation

Mammoth's President Creates a Publicity Department to Boost Pictures in Community Following Booking.

FRANKLKYN E. BACKER, president of the Mammoth Film Corporation, one of the discriminating state right buyers for the East, announces he will endeavor to purchase only such Features as are of undoubted merit and box office value. He feels, as a former exhibitor who has handled the best on the market, he is qualified to judge as to what will not only get money for exhibitors, but please their patrons as well. While he intends to restrict his buying to features which will sell readily at a minimum price of one hundred dollars per day, he will exercise care in his selection in order that the pictures may prove a profitable investment to exhibitors as well as to the Mammoth.

Mr. Backer states that many superior features have failed to return full value to the exhibitor because there was not sufficient attention paid to the necessity for extraordinary publicity, which points one of the surest ways of success to the manager. He argues that to arouse the enthusiasm of the public to the point where they will pay an increased price of admission unusual advertising must be done. In order to provide his customers with the best possible service for his product Mr. Backer has created a publicity department to boost his features after they have reached the exhibitor, feeling that the bookings will take care of themselves when his customers are convinced that a sure profit follows the showing of the Mammoth pictures.

This department is presided over by a man of long experience both as a press agent with theatrical attractions and big pictures, who will be glad to consult with any exhibitor desiring to do extra advertising. The value of this service is proven by the immense success which "The Libertine" has enjoyed since the department was opened. The week's engagement at the Goodwin, Newark, N. J., broke the record of the theater, as did also the two weeks' showing at the Family Theater, Buffalo. Mr. Backer says that his publicity will get the opening and that the picture will do the rest.

Doings in Fox Studios

"The Honor System" Goes to Lyric Theater—"Scarlet Letter" Released February 12—Enter the Cinemelodrama.

TWO announcements of unusual interest are made by William Fox this week. The first is the presentation of his big ten-reel cinemelodrama, "The Honor System," at the Lyric theater, New York City, on February 6; the second is the release of "The Scarlet Letter," a great picturization of the greatest of all American novels, on February 12.

"The Honor System," incidentally, gave Mr. Fox another opportunity to coin a new word. Mr. Fox hit upon "cinemelodrama" as an exact descriptive term for his special moving picture melodrama.

Jode Mullally has been added to the cast of Dustin Farnum's company. Mr. Mullally comes from New Orleans and was on the concert platform and in stock for several years.

In Mr. Fox's eastern studios, Virginia Pearson has completed another subject under the direction of James Vincent. In the cast are Walter Law, Irving Cummings, Calla Dillatorre, and Jane and Katherine Lee.

Valeska Suratt's recently finished feature, "The New York Peacock," will be the next Fox release. Harry Hilliard plays opposite the Empress of Fashion.

"ROSIE O'GRADY FOR ART DRAMAS FEBRUARY 1.

"Rosie O'Grady," a five-part drama, starring Viola Dana in the name part, will be released by Apollo Pictures, Inc., on the Art Dramas program on February 1. The story was written by John H. Collins, who also directed the production.

Romance in a tenement forms the theme of this unusual story. Sunshiny little Rosie O'Grady, the heroine, is a dreamer by nature, and an East Side "newsy" by accident. Romance was an unknown quantity in her life, but she has an imagination, and a tender heart, so she dreams herself into all sorts of wonderful adventures which were denied to her in real life. Her brother "Chimmie" is the owner of a news stand.

Thomas F. Blake, who appeared in support of Miss Dana in her former success, "Fifty-Fifty Mamie," is again seen playing opposite the diminutive star in the part of "Chimmie." James Harris plays the part of "Cyclone Johnny" Allen, the dream hero of little Rosie. Others of equal note also appear in the production.

Eugene Castle Returns to San Francisco.

Eugene Castle, Pacific coast camera man for the Gaumont Company, has returned to San Francisco after a visit to Southern California in the interest of "Reel Life," the Mutual Magazine in Film, and "See America First."

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

"THE HOODOOED STORY" (Essanay).

This is one of the first short productions Richard C. Travers has appeared in for some time. It is a Black Cat feature, and, as in all other productions of this series, presents a distinctly original plot of a type entirely new to motion pictures. Three burglars, a pretty girl and a would-be magazine writer are the principal figures. Their mix-up presents a climax which is at once ludicrous and thrilling. Excellent settings have been given this picture, and the photography is up to the standard in every respect. The production is bound to please. "The Hoodooed Story" has a screen time of 28 minutes. It is to be released February 6 through the General Film Service.

Scene from "The Hoodooed Story" (Essanay).

CENSORS PRAISE "ONE OF MANY" (Metro).

Metro Pictures Corporation announces the release date of "One of Many," the feature screen play which is the initial offering of Arthur James, head of Metro's scenario, publicity and advertising departments, as Feb. 12, (Lincoln's Birthday).

An unusually enthusiastic report has been received from the National Board of Censorship, members of which received the film recently at a private showing.

"It was the majority opinion of those present," to quote the board's report, "that this was a delicately handled and dramatic picture, vividly presented and most excellently acted." It was pronounced good in both educational and moral value, its artistic handling and entertaining power being far above the average. The women members were especially enthusiastic, considering it one of the most powerful moral lessons seen in a motion picture.

It was due to the strong moral lesson taught in "One of Many" that Arthur James chose the picture to mark his debut as a producer of feature films. Wm. Christy Cabanne, long associated with D. W. Griffith, and now directing Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in Metro's fifteen chapter serial, "The Great Secret," is both author and director of "One of Many." Frances Nelson, one of the most beautiful emotional actresses known to the screen world, is the star. In the role of Shirley Bryson she has one of the greatest opportunities of her career.

Niles Welch plays opposite Miss Nelson in "One of Many." He is well known to Metro patrons through his work in "Emmy of Stork's Nest" and other Metro wonderplays. Harold Entwhistle is seen in the exacting role of the older Templeton, the wealthy roue. Others in the well balanced cast are Adella Barker, Mary Mersch, Richard Dix, Caroline Harris and Walter Worden.

"GLORY" FOR POLI CIRCUIT.

"Glory," the latest release of the Unity Sales Corporation, has been booked over the entire Poli circuit of theaters by Herman Rifkin, of the Eastern Feature Film Co., of Boston, who handles all Unity releases for the New England States.

G. F.'S WAR PICTURES ABOUT FEB. 1.

The General Film Co. has practically completed arrangements for the release of the British Government's official motion picture records of the Great War on or about Feb. 1st. These are the official pictures of the war taken by the government, of actual scenes on the firing line. They will be released in weekly instalments of approximately 30 minutes screen time and the first three releases cover the Battle of the Somme. The first release will be entitled "England's Five Million" and "The Battle of the Somme" and will show audiences the spectacle of England's manhood marching to the front and the curtain fire which heralded the first advance of British troops in the "Battle of the Somme."

"THE SCARLET LETTER" (Fox).

"The Scarlet Letter," Nathaniel Hawthorne's masterpiece and America's supreme contribution to the real literary classics of the world, will be presented on February 12th by William Fox. Three months were spent in making "The Scarlet Letter" as authentic, as exalted, and as appealing as the immortal book from which it was taken. The result is a great picturization. Although the photoplay is in every way a genuinely super production, William Fox will release the screen adaptation.

In the role of Dimmesdale, the repentant pastor, whose own breast is seared by the scorching red "A" of guilt, Stuart Holmes, the noted villain of the films, does the most convincing acting of his long career before the camera. Mary Martin, as Hester Prynne, the sufferer from the stern Puritanical judgment, is as sweet a figure as was ever crushed by justice gone wrong. Kittens Reichert, beaming with the elfish mischief of the Pearl she portrays, completes the pitiable trio.

The other principals have also been selected for their parts with equal care. Dan Mason's interpretation of the part of Roger Chillingworth, Hester's husband, gives a remarkable picture of an interesting character. Thirty-four years of stage training serve to make the Reverend Wilson of Edward N. Hoyt a clever piece of screen work. Robert Vivian is forceful as the Governor, and Florence Ashbrooke's delineation of Mistress Hibbins is as amusing as the product of Hawthorne's pen.

Carl Haibaugh directed the subject, and Georges Benoit, who was foremost in photographing "The Honor System," had charge of the camera. The lighting effects are particularly pleasing.

Scene from "The Scarlet Letter" (Fox).

"The Scarlet Letter" in cinematographic form is as nearly flawless as it is humanly possible for it to be. What this master moving picture drama loses in words in the transformation, it more than gains in visualizing the pathos and tragedy which have made it one of the finest stories of love and passion ever told.

All the sub-titles have been taken from the book itself.

"The Scarlet Crystal" Leads Universal

Five-Act Red Feather Starts Off Week of February 5—"Won by Grit," Three-Act Gold Seal, for Tuesday

HEADING the exceptionally strong program of releases of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company for the week of Monday, February 5, is the five-act Red Feather feature production "The Scarlet Crystal," an absorbing photodrama of human frailties and weaknesses. The story was written by J. Grubb Alexander and produced by Charles Swickard, with Herbert Rawlinson, Betty Schade and Dorothy Davenport in the leading roles. It will be released February 5. "The Scarlet Crystal" should prove one of the most successful pictures ever presented under the Red Feather brand. In the cast supporting the principals are Raymond Whitaker, Marie Hazelton, Gertrude Astor and Dick Ryan.

The seventh episode of the Universal super serial, "The Purple Mask," with Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, which will be released this week, is entitled "The Race for Freedom," and is by far the most exciting episode of this gripping serial story of love, adventure and mystery. Besides "The Scarlet Crystal," the Nestor comedy, "His Wife's Relatives," a one-act farce by Bess Meredyth and produced by L. W. Chaudet, with Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Edyth Roberts furnishing most of the laughs, will be released on Monday.

"Won by Grit," a Gold Seal three-act human interest drama by Willis Woods, produced by George Marshall, is the leading offering on Tuesday. This is a tensely interesting film drama with a noted cast, which includes Neal Hart, Lois Wilson, Mina Cunard, Richard La Rano and Helen Wright. The other release of this date is the Victor juvenile comedy, "The Valley of Beautiful Things," produced by Lule Warrenton from the story by Helen Jonas, and the scenario by Fred Myton.

The L-Ko two part comedy, "That Dawgone Dog," produced by Dick Smith, with Sammie Burns as the arch funmaker, will appear on Wednesday. Big U Indian drama, "Red Vengeance," and the regular issue of the Universal Animated Weekly with its pictorial news also appear on this day.

Three reels are offered Thursday. The leading release is the Rex two-act drama, "The Melody of Death," with Douglas Gerrard, Maude George and Ruth Clifford in three appealing roles. This is a story of true dramatic power by E. M. Ingleton, produced by Douglas Gerrard. The Powers educational, "Giants of the American Forest," showing the big trees of California, is the other offering.

On Friday the Imp drama, "Avarice," will be released. This is an unusual one act drama written and produced by E. Magnus Ingleton, with Claire McDowell in the leading part. Others in the cast are T. D. Crittenden, Leo Pearson and Betty Schade. The Victor, "The High Coast of Starving," written and produced by Captain Leslie T. Peacocke, scenario by Maie Havey, with Eileen Sedgwick, and the Big U two-part drama, "The Crimson Arrow," featuring Mona Darkfeather, are the other releases for Friday.

The Bison two-part Western drama, "The Outlaw and the Lady," written by Harry Carey and produced by F. A. Kelsey, will appear on Saturday. In the cast are Harry Carey, Louise Lovely, Jack Richardson and William Gettinger. Other Saturday releases are the Joker comedy, "Out for the Dough," with William Franey and Gale Henry, and the Laemmle drama, "A Studio Cinderella," with Jane Gail and Matt Moore in the leading roles.

"When Thieves Fall Out," a two-act Imp drama written by William H. Lippert and produced by John Harvey, is the feature offering for Sunday. This is a novel photodrama of the underworld replete with thrilling situations. In the cast are Harry Benham, Sidney Bracy, Sonia Marcell and Mildred Gregory. The other releases are the L-Ko comedy cartoon, "Fearless Freddie in the Woolly West," and the Dr. Dorsey animated lecture, "Joys and Tears of China," a split reel, and the Rex drama, "In the Shadows of Night," with William Shay in the principal role.

THANHOUSER STORY RECALLS FAMOUS WARDEN

"Her Life and His," the Florence La Badie drama to be released by Thanhouser-Pathe on February 18, has a prison warden whose experiences in office somewhat parallel the Sing Sing career of Warden Thomas Mott Osborne.

H. E. Herbert, the eminent English actor, plays the part of the warden who first takes office from humanitarian resolves, but is then marked for slaughter by political powers. Unable to have him ousted on a charge of inefficiency, the conspirators try to organize a wholesale escape by prisoners in the honor squad.

The next move was to have the warden tricked in a hotel room where "Nan Travers," a beautiful lobbyist, was "planted." Nan "frames" a scandal and the warden has to face trial.

The sale of "coke" and whiskey by prison guards also figures in the story. Miss La Badie as an innocent inmate of the prison first discovers the illegal traffic in opiates. Her information is the basis of the reforms in the prison.

ROSENBERG BUYS "GLORY."

M. R. Rosenberg of the De Luxe Feature Film Co., Seattle, Wash., through his New York representative, Leon D. Netter, 524 Longacre Bldg., New York City, has purchased the Ultra Picture Corporation's first release, "Glory," for the states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, and has also concluded arrangements with the Lewis J. Selznick enterprises for "War Brides" and Norma Talmadge in "Panthea."

IRREGULAR PRACTICES ENJOINED.

Illegitimate film practices received a hard blow recently when Justice Hendrick, in the Supreme Court of New York, granted a motion for an injunction pendente lite in favor of the Strand Film Service and the American Correspondent Film Co., co-plaintiffs against the Federal Feature Film Co., of 145 West 45th street.

It was shown that the Federal Feature Film Co. has been offering to exhibitors and the public a war picture called "The Battles of a Nation" which is totally different from the feature of the same name produced and copyrighted by the American Correspondent Film Co. It was also contended that the Federal Feature Film Co. has been using the very same posters and other advertising material issued by the producers of the genuine film, for the purpose of misrepresenting their own picture and misleading exhibitors and the public into the belief that theirs was the original film. It was also alleged that their deceptive methods had caused considerable damage to the business of the Strand Film Service, which controls the rights on the original "The Battles of a Nation" in this territory.

SOME FURS IN FIRST COHAN PICTURE.

One of the features of George M. Cohan's first photoplay, to be released by Artcraft Pictures, will be the remarkable wardrobe worn by Ida Darling, who has just been engaged to portray the role of the wealthy Mrs. Gerard. Through the courtesy of C. C. Shayne & Co., the well known New York furriers, Miss Darling will disclose to feminine followers of the screen many interesting displays in the way of the very latest and costly furs, including a $5,000 cloak just imported from Russia.

"BEWARE OF STRANGERS" (Selig).

William N. Selig, in announcing his latest special feature film, "Beware of Strangers," states that the production was made for no other purpose than the exposure of and the education of the public to the traps so cleverly laid by swindlers that they seem unbelievable. It is stated that it is from records of confessions and sworn testimony that "Beware of Strangers" was produced, and that the only embellishment is the romance effected to build the individual incidents into connected narrative. Briefly, the story deals with an international gang of crooks who through their schemes, ruin the lives of men and women. That the wages of sin are death is proven in "Beware of Strangers."

The notable cast includes Tom Santschi, Fritzi Brunette, Jack Richardson, Vivian Rich, Ed Coxen, Bessie Eyton, Eugenie Besserer, Will Machin, Frank Clark, Harry Lonsdale and others.

The need of State laws to govern so-called private banks is also convincingly presented during the unfolding of the drama when a sensational "run" on a private bank is shown. Among other sensational incidents can be enumerated the fight between John Mentor and The Lorlei, the wiretapping game, the raid, the arrest of John Mentor, etc.

Those who have seen preliminary showings of "Beware of Strangers" say that not only the acting but the story are excellent, but that the elaborate sets will attract much attention.

Scene from "Beware of Strangers" (Selig).

Gilson Willets wrote the story of "Beware of Strangers" and Colin Campbell produced it. William N. Selig may release "Beware of Strangers" on the State rights plan, for many influential film men have insisted on an opportunity of seeing the picture which, it is considered, will develop into a wonderfully profitable investment.

Big Sets for "A Tale of Two Cities"

William Fox Preparing for Elaborate Production in Five Reels of Famous Dickens Classic.

Complete and accurate from tiled roof to cobble stone, the gigantic Paris and London sets for the newest William Fox production of "A Tale of Two Cities," in which William Farnum plays the dual role of Sidney Carton and Charles Darnay, stand after two months' work ready for the filming of magnificent outdoor scenes. Not a detail has been overlooked in the building of these stupendous streets, and not a detail is inaccurate or anachronistic.

The Paris street begins at the frowning walls of the Bastille, which rises 125 feet above the level ground, and about 140 feet above the bottom of the moat which surrounds it. From this fortress the way leads between crooked overhanging houses to the place of execution, about 300 feet distant. There the narrow street spreads out into a broad expanse, in the center of which rises the ugly threatening guillotine.

At right angles to this street another has been laid off. It is about 200 feet long, and represents Fleet street, in London, at the time of the French Revolution. The stable from which the Dover cabs run is there, and the Old Bailey and banking establishments and ale houses.

Both of these highways have been paved with stones which were carried four miles, from a dried river bed near Los Angeles, and carefully laid to represent the paving of the period in question. Seventy-five wagon loads of these round stones were needed to complete the work of paving, and it required the labors of a score of men for several weeks to arrange this single detail properly.

Streets of the late eighteenth century differed from present day highways in that they sloped toward the center instead of toward the sides. When rain water collected in them, or—as in the tumultuous times depicted in the picture—blood, it gathered and ran in a little rill down the very center of the highway. Even this minor detail has been followed in making the marvelous sets for this William Fox production.

About the reproduction of the Bastille too much cannot be said. It is perfect in every detail. It rises to such a height that it is visible from the remotest corners of Hollywood.

The twenty-foot moat which surrounds the fortress is spanned in front by a single drawbridge, behind which a formidable portcullis rises and falls. Walls three feet thick and twenty feet high separate the moat from the rest of the city.

THEATER TRANSFORMED INTO HOSPITAL.

Scene From "Germany and Its Armies of Today" Graphically Tells of Conditions in France.

A motion picture theater "Somewhere in France," that has been transformed into a hospital is seen in the accompanying illustration—one of the scenes from the official German films released under the general title, "Germany and Its Armies of Today," by the Germanic Official War Films, Inc. This particular theater was doing business in back of Lille up until the time the scene of battle approached almost to its doors. It was taken possession of by the Germans and converted into a temporary hospital. The screen was made into stretchers. The seats were taken out and placed in a park.

The Transformed Theater.

The films of "Germany and Its Armies of Today," from which the picture was taken, show many scenes of like interest. The series is entering upon its fourth week at the Strand Theater, New York.

These films, of which there are about 10,000 feet, are being placed on a state rights basis from the Germanic offices at 727 Seventh avenue. A feature of these pictures is that the prints are made in this country from the original negative, which was brought to the United States with the official permission of the German Government. The photography is excellent. The series is divided into four installments.

The Somme front, Lille and the Roumanian border form an important portion of the pictures, showing in detail some things about war which are more thrilling than actual battle scenes. They are an education as to what is going on in internal Germany today.

It is announced by B. Blumenthal, manager of the Germanic Official War Films, Inc., that the lithographic display, press and advertising matter with the pictures have been given expert treatment.

UNIVERSAL MAKING REAL CHINESE PICTURE.

A distinct novelty in screen productions is soon to be released by the Universal Film Manufacturing Company when it presents the five-reel feature, "The War of the Tongs," a film story enacted entirely by Chinese. The story, which treats of the Chinese life in America and which shows for the first time the inside workings of the famous Chinese tongs, was written by a Chinese, but was directed by an American.

"The War of the Tongs" is one of the most interesting film dramas ever offered, as it gives an insight into Oriental life impossible to obtain when the actors are Americans. The entire cast, including the extras, are native Chinese, and the leading roles were taken by members of the Imperial Chinese Players.

Scene from "The War of the Tongs" (Universal).

Intimate views of Chinese home life in America are faithfully depicted. These are the only motion pictures ever made of Chinese customs enacted by native players. The celebrated Chinese lottery, which is shrouded in much mystery, is exposed, as are the methods of the tongs. A secret meeting of a warring tong, with all the strange rites of the members, has been photographed, and every ceremony performed in the lodge rooms is declared to be exactly reproduced as it occurs in actual life.

Chinese are noted for their honesty in business transactions and this phase of their lives is carefully brought out in the development of the story, as some of the action takes place in a large Chinese mercantile house, where their business methods are also carefully depicted. The strange system of accounting used by Chinese merchants, which is baffling to a member of another race but most simple to themselves, is only one of the many bits of atmosphere used in this unusual film production.

The acting of the players is of a high standard. Lin Hoong as Suey Lee gives a performance that compares favorably with any of our noted screen actresses and the other members of the cast are well chosen and display true histrionic ability.

ANNA LITTLE PLAYING OPPOSITE WARWICK.

An engagement of unusual interest to all exhibitors is that of Anna Little, the former American and Universal star, to play opposite Robert Warwick in the Selznick-Picture production of E. Phillips Oppenheim's stirring novel, "The Court of St. Simon." Although only on the screen four years Miss Little numbers her followers by the millions and has achieved a reputation as one of the prettiest and most talented of the younger leading women of the films. For a year she remained at his studio. Miss Little's next engagement was to play in the Universal's serial, "The Black Box," after which she starred for the American company in a number of western features such as "Immediate Lee" and "The Land o' Lizards."

Harry Rapf, president of the Robert Warwick Film Corporation engaged Miss Little by telegram to play the role of the French apache girl in "The Court of St. Simon."

"THE SADDLE GIRTH" (Selig).

"The Saddle Girth" is a Selig Western drama scheduled for General Film service. The drama features Louella Maxam and Tom Mix, and there are many feats of western skill displayed.

The Selig-Tribune news reel will continue to be released every Monday and Thursday in General Film service, and will spare no expense in presenting the latest in news pictures.

Essanay to Extend "Is Marriage Sacred?"

Five Units Will Be Added to Original Twelve—Other Subjects for February.

SO POPULAR has Essanay found its "Is Marriage Sacred?" series that President George K. Spoor has decided to respond to the requests of exhibitors that it be extended. Therefore, he announces the original twelve units will be followed by an additional five. The titles of the later productions will shortly be announced.

This series was designed as a dozen distinct productions of twenty-six to thirty minutes screen time, dealing with the problems of marriage. So well have they fitted the popular demand that one of the strongest bookings ever accorded short productions has been recorded. General Film Service is handling these offerings, which are released each Saturday. The plays are all separate, their only connection being found in the fact that they deal with the one topic of matrimony and its various problems. It is possible for exhibitors to book them regardless of the sequence of release.

The additional five units will feature the same stock company which has played the first twelve. It is composed of Marguerite Clayton, Edward Arnold, Sydney Ainsworth, Lillian Drew and Thomas Commerford. Charles Mortimer Peck wrote the plays and E. H. Calvet is directing them.

The General Film Service subjects from Essanay for February, besides including four units of the popular "Is Marriage Sacred?" series, include four strong Black Cats. On February 3, "Shifting Shadows" is the "Is Marriage Sacred?" release.

"The Hoodooed Story" is the Black Cat feature for February 6. Richard C. Travers and Gertrude Glover appear in the leading roles. Canimated Nooz, No. 24, with Alaskan scenic, is the release on the following day. On the Saturday of the week, February 10, "Desertion and Non-Support" is the topic for "Is Marriage Sacred?"

"The Lighted Lamp," with Edward Arnold and Anna Mae Walthall, is the February 13 Black Cat. "All in a Day" splits the reel with Alaskan scenic on February 14. On February 17, "Ashes on the Hearthstone" is the "Is Marriage Sacred?" offering.

Bryant Washburn, who has just finished "Skinner's Dress Suit," a feature taken from the Saturday Evening Post, will appear in "The Four Cent Courtship," the Black Cat for February 20. Canimated Nooz, No. 25, and Alaskan scenic follow the next day. "The Extravagant Bride" on the 24th, is the title of the "Is Marriage Sacred?" offering.

Selig Selling "Garden of Allah"

Is Offering Big Feature Subject to State Right Buyers—Claimed to Be Unusual Picture.

"THE GARDEN OF ALLAH," the famous story of Robert Hichens, filmed by the Selig Polyscope Company, is being marketed on the state rights plan by William N. Selig. Those who have been fortunate enough to view the film are enthusiastic in their praise. "The Garden of Allah" features the distinguished American actress, Helen Ware, who is supported by an exceptional company of players including Thomas Santschi, Eugenie Besserer, James Bradbury, Al W. Filson, Will Machin and others. Colin Campbell, the well known director, who directed the successful Selig productions, "The Spoilers," "The Ne'er-Do-Well," "The Crisis," etc., claims that "The Garden of Allah" is his best effort.

The story of "The Garden of Allah" in brief, carries passionate love interest and final sacrifice and renunciation. Helen Ware, it is claimed, has one of the greatest emotional roles in her wonderful career as an actress, while Thomas Santschi is exceptionally good in the role of "Boris Androvsky."

Scene from "The Garden of Allah" (Selig).

The story opens in England and then one is carried by the tense action into the Desert of Sahara where many of the exciting situations occur. William N. Selig, it is stated, spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in the production of "The Garden of Allah." Exact replicas of oriental cities were constructed, thousands of men, women and children aid in developing the drama, caravans of camels, droves of horses and troops of real Arabs were found essential for the film.

The scenes in "The Garden of Allah" are many and beautiful. Wonderful tints are utilized where proper and the photography and lighting effects are pronounced unusual.

The sand storm in the desert is said to be realistic in the extreme and unlike anything ever before attempted on the moving picture screen. The sky darkens, the wind arises, the sand is blown in a dense shower. In the desert a caravan has pitched its tents. Then tents are blown away while animals and human beings endeavor to seek shelter from the rain of stinging sand.

There is also a sensational charge of Bedouins in which thousands of these desperate tribes men dash upon the defenseless members of a caravan, overpower them, and make prisoners of many who are placed in stocks and marched away into slavery.

Beautiful streets faithful to the atmosphere of Oriental cities are shown, with mosques, and the spires and minarets in the distance. The bazaars are also realistic.

Those who have seen "The Garden of Allah" pronounce the production the most wonderful that William N. Selig has presented to date. This is saying a great deal, when the Selig special features of the past are taken into consideration.

FIFTH "PATRIA" EPISODE HAS EXPLOSION.

"The Island God Forgot" is the title of Episode 5 of "Patria" in which Mrs. Vernon Castle is starred.

The fifth episode of this serial, produced for International by Whartons, Inc., and released by Pathe, is announced for release February 11.

To escape from the island on which she has been held prisoner Patria jumps into the sea, where Donald Parr, who is following one of Huroki's messengers in a hydroplane, effects her rescue in a thrilling manner. Haku pursues him in an aeroplane taking with him a can of nitro-glycerine. Shots are exchanged between the two machines in the air. One of Patria's shots strikes home, and Haku's machine with the nitro-glycerine descends, landing on the munition's storehouse, completely demolishing the "Island God Forgot." A spectacular chapter full of thrills.

SILENT MENACE CAPTURED IN ELEVENTH "PEARL."

The eleventh episode of Pathe's military-mystery serial, "Pearl of the Army," is entitled "A Million Volunteers." The production is by Astra, and the star is Pearl White. This chapter has some unique surprises and fast action.

Pearl Dare, receiving a proposal from Major Brent, tells him she cannot think of marrying any one until the name of her dead sweetheart, Captain Payne, has been cleared of its stain of treason. She tells him she feels the Silent Menace has the proof of Payne's innocence, and if Brent captures him and brings him to her, "then perhaps—"

Thrilling complications follow.

MAE MARSH BREAKS INTO MAGAZINE.

Well, somebody had to do something of this sort sooner or later, so it fell to the lot of Mae Marsh, Goldwyn Pictures star, to be the pioneer. Mae Marsh has "broken into" the New Republic. In that magazine the poet playwright, Vachel Lindsay, terms Mae Marsh "an unfailing artist from the day she played Lily White opposite Weak Hands in 'Man's Genesis,' one of Griffith's early masterpieces."

"She has," says Mr. Lindsay, "always fed us on her own wild honey and bitter-sweet."

"Man's Genesis" was made in a single reel four years ago. It was her work in this remarkable picture that secured her a position in the Biograph stock company.

FOX TO ADAPT FAMOUS NOVELS.

William Fox has just completed tentative plans for putting into the films several world-famous novels, in addition to those which will soon be issued in celluloid form by Fox Film Corporation. At the present time he has already selected by a process of elimination eleven books. The directors have all been chosen, and with two exceptions, the star and his or her chief supporting player, have been determined upon.

Three things proved deciding factors in shaping this policy. They were "The Darling of Paris," "The Scarlet Letter" and "A Tale of Two Cities." Each of these films will be an early Fox release.

GLADYS HULETTE KNOCKS OUT JOHN B.

John Barleycorn gets a knockout in the Thanhouser comedy drama, "Pots-and-Pans Peggie," featuring Gladys Hulette, to be released as a Thanhouser-Pathe Gold Rooster Play in March. The knockout, too, is administered by the small hands of Miss Hulette. There is a bad boy—'Rah-'Rah Arthur, he is called in the story—who comes home at dawn heavily laden and tilting. William Parke, Jr., who usually plays opposite Miss Hulette, is 'Rah-'Rah Arthur.

SUCCESS GREETS PATHE'S SHOW FASHION FILM.

The release of Pathe's Florence Rose Fashion pictures in 500 foot lengths each week is meeting with a warm reception from the best theaters throughout the country. Recently Miss Florence Rose stated in an interview that the change was made because the women demanded to see these pictures every week.

MRS. ATHERTON SEES "MRS. BALFAME" MADE.

Gertrude Atherton, than whom few American writers have received greater recognition and the first of whose novels to be adapted for the screen, "Mrs. Balfame," is now being produced by Frank Powell, with Nance O'Neil in the central character, for the Mutual Film Corporation, recently visited the studios of the Frank Powell Producing Corporation.

It was Mrs. Atherton's initiation into the mysteries of motion pictures in the making, and hers—she said afterwards—was a most interesting experience. When she arrived at the studios there was being filmed the trial of "Mrs. Balfame," in the person of Miss O'Neil, for the murder of her husband. About Mrs. Atherton on every hand were the characters of her creation—physical counterparts of those she had described on the printed page—and she became for a time one of the spectators in the court room she had so vividly pictured in words and which was now being photographed in its minutest detail.

Gertrude Atherton Looking Through the Camera at Nance O'Neil.

"Mrs. Balfame" is the first of the series of feature pictures in which Miss O'Neil will star, now being produced under the direction of Frank Powell, to be distributed through Mutual.

BIG THEATER SCENE IN "EASIEST WAY."

Clara Kimball Young, whose third Selznick-Picture, "The Price She Paid," will shortly be released, has progressed rapidly under the direction of Albert Capellani in the production of her forthcoming screen version of Eugene Walter's famous drama, "The Easiest Way." This play was one of the greatest stage sensations. Evidence of the lavish style in which Director Capellani is putting on "The Easiest Way" was given last week when the Garden theater was rented for three days and an entire musical comedy company engaged to present the stage scenes that are an essential part of the story.

For the work at the Garden theater the director actually duplicated some of the scenes in a leading musical comedy success. Thirty cabaret girls from the Strand Roof and fifteen of the prettiest members of one of the big New York choruses provided the animated background before which Miss Young enacted the role of the musical comedy star. An orchestra supplied the music and special settings were erected representing a Spanish village. The back of the stage and the dressing rooms were also utilized to present a perfect atmosphere for the "off the stage" scenes in the story.

GAUMONT PROGRAM FOR WEEK OF FEBRUARY 11.

"Fantomas" and "The Vampires" hold the screen so well as Gaumont photo-novels, the Gaumont company is restricting its new output through Mutual at present to four single reels a week. These are the popular Mutual Weekly, "Tours Around the World," "Reel Life" and "See America First," with a Gaumont Kartoon Komic, all recommended by civic committees as deserving places on good programs.

"Reel Life" No. 41, February 11, contains pictures of "Queer Fish with Shells," an animated drawing called "The Diary of an Egg," "Every Day Life Savers," showing the need for individual drinking cups; and "Hypnotizing an Alligator."

"Tours Around the World," No. 15, reaches the screen February 13. It shows Mount St. Michel, the interesting little island of granite topped by a monastery which France calls "the eighth wonder of the world"; "Morocco, Yesterday and To-Day," and "Around Lake Iseo," in northern Italy.

"See America First," No. 75, is released February 14. Los Angeles, Cal., has been chosen for this week. On the same reel is an animated cartoon called "Taming Tony."

The fourth single reel of the week is The Mutual Weekly.

COLOR SCHEME FOR SEVEN DEADLY SINS.

Each of the seven deadly sins—the tradition has been handed down through ages—has a distinguishing color. McClure Pictures is to use these colors in advertising "Seven Deadly Sins," five-reel features released weekly beginning January 29.

Ann Murdock, in "Envy," is the first of the group. Envy, of course, is green, and the posters, slides and other advertising matter will have green as the predominant color. "Pride," starring Holbrook Blinn, will have blue as its color. The proud, as everybody knows, speak of their "blue blood."

Red will be the color for "Passion," starring Shirley Mason, and "Greed," in which Nance O'Neill stars, will be indicated by yellow. A person is "purple with rage," so the posters for H. B. Warner in "Wrath" will have a purple background. Gray always has been a lazy color, and it will be used in advertising Charlotte Walker in "Sloth."

"The Seventh Sin," the theme of which is being kept a secret, will feature George LeGuere in black and white.

JACK SHERRILL TO STAR IN ART DRAMA.

Jack Sherrill is to be co-starred with Dorothy Bernard in a forthcoming Art Drama, "The Accomplice," which is being produced under the direction of Ralph Dean at the William L. Sherrill Feature Corporation's studios at Flushing, L. I. The picture is to be released on February 8.

Although Mr. Sherrill has been featured in the support of numerous popular stars, and has also been featured alone in several productions, "The Accomplice" will mark his debut into the stellar ranks. His work in several recent productions, notably "Jaffery," "The Conquest of Canaan" and "The Witching Hour" has been of such excellence that his popularity has been growing rapidly. Consequently, he will hereafter be starred, either alone or with some other player of equal note, on the Art Dramas program. In this case he will share the stellar honors with Dorothy Bernard, whose characterization of Cynthia in the Sherrill Art Drama "The Rainbow," received so much praise from the critics.

WALTHALL MAKING SOUTHERN PICTURE.

Henry B. Walthall and his company are in Baton Rouge, La., being filmed in the preliminary scenes of his next Essanay feature, "Burning the Candle." It is perhaps the first time that this locality has ever been chosen for film work. Director Harry Beaumont, who is producing the feature, reports that the little city furnishes excellent material for typically southern exteriors. Incidentally the town, mayor, police chief and leading citizens, turned out en masse to welcome the noted actor and his photoplayers.

"Burning the Candle" will present a powerful lesson on the liquor traffic.

The story offers an unlimited field for Mr. Walthall's emotional talent. The actor promises to outdo all past performances in its presentation. Mary Charleson, who won high praise in support of Mr. Walthall in former productions, is again being filmed as his leading woman in "Burning the Candle."

This feature will be released through the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service on March 18.

MUTUAL MANAGERS TRANSFERRED.

W. J. Drummond, formerly manager of the Los Angeles exchange of the Mutual Film Corporation, has been transferred to San Francisco as branch manager.

T. C. Malcolm, lately manager of the Montreal Mutual branch, will go to Los Angeles to fill the position of manager left vacant by the transfer of Mr. Drummond. These changes were effective January 22.

Recent changes in the eastern branches of the Mutual Film Corporation include the appointment of M. Goldstein as manager of the New Haven Mutual exchange, and the installation of C. J. Fitch as manager of the Newark Mutual exchange.

LONG RUN FOR OVEY COMEDIES.

Seventy Cub comedies distributed through the Mutual Film Corporation will be the record reached with the completion of the George Ovey comedy now in the making at the David Horsley studio. This funmaker, which will be ready for release the latter part of February, also is distinguished as being the eighth of the new series of Cub comedies now being released through Mutual.

FRANK POWELL ENGAGES ANNE SUTHERLAND.

Frank Powell has engaged Anne Sutherland, the noted character actress, to appear in a prominent part in the support of Marjorie Rambeau in "Motherhood," the second of the series of Marjorie Rambeau feature pictures now being made by the Frank Powell Producing Corporation, to be distributed through the Mutual Film Corporation.

LAST OF "LASS" SERIAL COMPLETED.

After more than five months of continuous work the last scene and the last subtitle have been shot in "A Lass of the Lumberlands," the fifteen chapter photo-novel which the Helen Holmes company of the Signal players has been producing for the Mutual Film Corporation.

Paramount Program

Sessue Hayakawa and Lenore Ulrich Stars for Week of February 5—Some Good Single Reels.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA in the Lasky production "Each to His Kind" and Lenore Ulrich in the Pallas production of "Her Own People," will be the program features on the Paramount program for the week of February 5th. It is doubtful if any foreigner since Lafayette has ever become as popular in America as the noted Japanese actor, Sessue Hayakawa. His unusual histrionic ability has made him a capital favorite of the screens.

The lure and mystery of India has been but slightly touched in the screen drama. In "Each to His Kind," this exotic and fascinating atmosphere is introduced with the added dramatic value of scenic contrast in England as well as in India. The story was written by Paul West for Hayakawa and prepared for the screen by George Dubois Proctor. In the cast playing opposite the stars and Vola Vale, are Earnest Joy, Walter Long, Eugene Pallette, Paul Weigel and others.

Lenore Ulrich, who won such a great personal triumph on the stage recently as an Indian girl, in the Belasco production of "The Heart of Wetona," will be shown in "Her Own People" in an Indian characterization, a thrilling modern drama of racial conflict. For the Indian scenes of this production, the Pallas Company went to an Indian reservation in the West, and most of the members appear in this production. Miss Ulrich had the distinction of being the best portrayer of Indian types on the screen, but besides the Indian dress, she has an opportunity of wearing a number of beautiful modern gowns also. Colin Chase will be seen as Miss Ulrich's leading man in this production, and others in the cast are Howard Davies, Jack Stark, Joy Lewis, William Winter Jefferson and other well known photoplay dramatic artists.

Surrounding the two features for this week, Paramount will release the 52nd edition of the Paramount Pictographs, the magazine-on-the-screen; the 53rd of the series of "Weekly Trips Around the World," personally conducted by Burton Holmes, in which he takes his travellers from "Regina to the Rockies," and a Black Diamond comedy entitled "All at Sea."

The 52nd edition of the Paramount Pictographs contains four unique and interesting subjects, the first of which is a series of most remarkable pictures taken especially for Paramount by the famous Arctic explorer Christian Leden on his last dash into the Arctic Circle, the goal of all explorers and the grave of many. Mr. Leden brought back the most graphic record of the conditions in the neighborhood of the 75th parallel where only the hardy Eskimo can battle successfully with the rigorous climate. These pictures show how the question of housing in this land far above the timber belt has been solved, together with the lives of the natives and many other interesting subjects shown "In the Shadow of the North Pole."

Burton Holmes, the world's greatest traveller in his 53rd "Weekly Trips Around the World," which he has personally conducted for Paramount theatergoers, begins at "Regina in the Rockies," and takes the traveller across the Canadian country to the Rockies. During the course of this trip, Mr. Holmes goes through a number of interesting towns that few travellers ever see and acts as a guide for the beautiful sojourn on the outskirts of the Banff Hot Springs, which place forms a future release.

The Black Diamond comedy, "All at Sea," is a screamingly funny one and is the tenth that has been released through Paramount, the production having been made by the United States Motion Picture Corporation.

Paramount will issue with their program features for this week a special lot of accessories, including Advertising and Publicity material.

MONOGRAM FILMS ENLARGES FORCES.

Monogram Films, which is producing the Mutual "Featurettes," a series of fifteen two-reel dramas under the general title "Adventures of Shorty Hamilton," has found it necessary to add materially to its working forces. One of the principal additions is a second operating company, with William (Billy) Parsons as director, Wilbur McGaugh as assistant director, and Herbert Glennon in charge of the camera. Mr. Parsons, who is well known in the film business, has had a wide experience in a directorial capacity, having been formerly connected with the New York Motion Picture Company, Kalem, Monrovia, Graftons and Fine Arts.

Company No. 1 has also been augmented by engagement of J. Edwin Robbins to assist Director "Bob" Gray. Robert V. Doran is another new member in the ranks. He will be cinematographer for Company No. 1.

AUTHENTIC BOARDING SCHOOL STORY FOR THANHOUSER.

"Her Beloved Enemy," a Thanhouser-Pathe March release, featuring Doris Grey and Wayne Arey, opens with many scenes in a girl's boarding school. The true boarding school atmosphere is there. There is a certainty of this because Edwin Thanhouser, president of the Thanhouser Film Corporation, and Ernest Warde, director of "Her Beloved Enemy," both have daughters in boarding schools, and therefore have authority for all "business."

What Bluebird Studios Are Doing

Lynn Reynolds Has Two Subjects Completed—Mary MacLaren Coming in "The Plow Woman."

IN addition to the subjects definitely scheduled as Bluebirds there are several features awaiting the formality of date-fixing when they shall become active in the series. Lynn F. Reynolds, the "nature-study" director Bluebird is so proud of, has two releases ready—one set for March 12 and another still to be dated up. Rex Ingram and Rupert Julian have one each and Jack Conway is ready with another Ella Hall picture.

Lynn Reynolds has stayed on land for his previous nature-studies, but in the temporarily titled release, "The Cruise of the Alden Besse," he has gone to sea for dashing waves and terrific storm-scenes. Myrtle Gonzales, Val Paul and George Hernandez, stand-bys of the Reynolds Company, will be featured in this release March 12—but the name will be changed. Later there will be another Reynolds feature, headed by the same stars, to be called "The Code of the Klondyke."

Mary MacLaren, star of "The Mysterious Mrs. M.," the attraction at the Rialto for the week of January 21, is due for an early appearance in "The Plow Woman," directed by Charles Swickard. This will be the first time Miss MacLaren has ever acted other than under the direction of the Smalleys—Lois Weber and Phillips Smalley—and she will also have a new leading man, L. C. Shumway. "The Mysterious Mrs. M." is on the Bluebird program for regular release February 5.

Rex Ingram is preparing a five-reel tragedy of the celestial kingdom written by Eugene Magnus Ingleton, to be scheduled as a Bluebird under the title of "Flowers of Doom." This writing and directing combination furnished "The Reward of the Faithless," to be released February 12, with Wedgewood Nowell, Betty Schade and Claire Du Bray playing the leading roles.

"The Man Who Took a Chance," featuring Franklyn Farnum and Agnes Vernon, will be the Bluebird for February 19, and for the week of February 26, "The Saintly Sinner" will be the attraction, with Ruth Stonehouse starring. Franklyn Farnum will make his next Bluebird appearance in "The Clock," a feature directed by William Worthington, who has lately been handling this youngest member of the Farnum trinity of screen stars.

Ella Hall will once more get into the running during March, with "Pollyolly," Director Jack Conway's version of Edgar Jepson's novel. Rupert Julian will be the star and director of "Marcel's Birthday Present," in which Louise Lovely will return to Bluebird. Exhibitors will have plenty of reason to prize their Bluebird franchise, from all present indications.

ESSANAY'S "BUFFALO BILL" RELEASED JAN. 29.

That the "Adventures of Buffalo Bill," Essanay's feature picturizing the life of the late Col. William F. Cody, is one of real adventure films on the market was the verdict of the Adventures Club of Chicago following a private showing of the picture. The Adventures Club is an organization composed of prominent Chicagoans who have gained fame through thrilling experiences in various parts of the world.

"Adventures of Buffalo Bill" was released as a special on January 29 through the K-E-S-E service. Colonel Cody is seen as the hero of the photodrama. Other heroic figures of the early West, including Generals Nelson A. Miles, Jesse M. Lee, Frank D. Baldwin and Marion P. Maus, actually appear in the picture.

This feature, for the first time, puts American history on the screen. Thrilling adventures in Buffalo Bill's life have been filmed with great detail. In the filming of the battles of the Indian wars, many United States troops and Indians are engaged. The conflicts were staged on the sites of the battlefields of Warbonnet Creek, Summit Springs, etc., in the Bad Lands of the Dakotas.

The picture has a screen time of 1 hour, 15 minutes.

LINDER WORKING ON SECOND STORY.

While the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay service has completed final details for a big smash in the presentation of Max Linder's first Essanay comedy entitled "Max Comes Across," the noted European comedian has launched into the production of his second "made in America" fun film.

"Max Comes Across" will "come across" to exhibitors within a few days. Only the extraordinary precautions which are being taken by President Spoor of Essanay to avoid the slightest hitch in the nation-wide marketing of the film, once it is released, delays the final announcement of the date on which it will be offered exhibitors.

"Max Wants a Divorce" is the title of Linder's second Essanay production. Already the sets have been erected in the big studio set aside for the comedian, and the preliminary scenes have been filmed. In this comedy, the famous Max Linder will present an inimitable burlesque on the follies and fads of present-day matrimonial discord. The young bride of the story has not even taken off her bridal veil before the trouble begins.

The K-E-S-E service is completing arrangements for trade showings of Linder's first Essanay comedy, "Max Comes Across," in all of its branch offices immediately after the film is released.

Ann Murdock Leads Mutual Feb. 5.

Popular Player Will Be Featured in "Where Love Is"—A Varied Program Supports.

ANN MURDOCK will appear for the first time on the program of the Mutual Film Corporation on February 5. The vehicle which has been chosen for Miss Murdock's Mutual debut is entitled "Where Love Is." This is an adaptation of William J. Locke's novel of the same name. A strong cast surrounds Miss Murdock. Henry Stanford plays the leading male role, and Shirley Mason and Bigelow Cooper have important roles. Others in the cast include Edith Wright, Helen Strickland, Mabel Trunelle, William Wadsworth and Raymond McKee. On February 5 also will be released the fourth of the Mutual "Featurettes," the two-reel "Adventures of Shorty Hamilton" stories.

The one-reel comedies instill the fun into the week's program. On February 8 George Ovey will appear in the Cub Comedy "Jerry's Big Raid." Goldie Colwell and George George also help supply the laughs in this one-reeler. The Vogue comedy, ready February 11, will be "The Musical Marvel," with Ben Turpin figuring as a piano-player in a western "honky-tonk" or dance hall and opportunity for much western "atmosphere." With the director-comedian as chief support are Gypsy Abbott, Ed Laurie, who plays a "bad man," and also Vogue favorites in smaller parts.

J. Warren Kerrigan, George Periolat, Pauline Bush and Jack Richardson reappear in the American contribution scheduled for February 10.

"The Old Sheriff," a one-reel drama, teems with the life of the west in the days of outlaws, the pursuing posse and the quick-on-the-trigger sheriff.

The seventh chapter of the Mutual photo-novel "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters," is added to the program this week. "The Smite of Conscience" is the title of this two-reel story, which tells of a special writer on a New York newspaper who chooses this means of being away from her dissolute husband.

On February 6 will be ready No. 14 of the "Tours Around the World," showing "Picturesque Landscapes of Holland," "The Temple of Luxor, Egypt," and "The Rocky Coast of Dalmatia."

The Mutual Weekly, with its collection of interesting news notes, comes on February 7, and also No. 74 of "See America First." This release is devoted to "The Mississippi Coast" and shows the principal points of interest at Pass Christian, Gulfport, Biloxi and Beauvoir, with their beautiful homes, industries, historical interest and beautiful scenery.

On the same reel is "Old Roue Visualizes," a Gaumont Kartoon Komic animated for the screen by Harry Palmer.

"Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 6," issued on February 9, opens with scenes aboard the mine layer, the San Francisco, and a floating machine shop which accompanies the ship and makes repairs. The Atlantic fleet is shown in battle formation and a day at target practice is also shown.

"Reel Life," No. 41, rounds out the program on February 11. The four subjects making up this reel include "Queer Fish with Shells," "The Diary of an Egg," "Everyday Life Savers" and "Hypnotizing an Alligator."

"EAGLE'S WINGS" SHOWN TO SECURITY LEAGUE.

Rufus Steele and Robert Burns, author and special representative of the Bluebird industrial preparedness feature, "The Eagle's Wings," went to Washington last Thursday with the picture, in five cans, under their arms. They exhibited it that evening in the million-dollar marble temple the Daughters of the American Revolution have erected in the Capital for their national headquarters.

The National Security League was holding a convention there at the time, three sessions daily, morning, afternoon and evening, being the Mecca of speakers of national renown for three days of last week. "The Eagle's Wings" was not programed for a showing to the convention, but Mr. Steele knows many officials and persons of prominence in Washington. There was a picture scheduled to show scenes in military preserves, soldiers drilling and other militant scenes, but Mr. Steele had "The Eagle's Wings" substituted.

Bluebird's industrial preparedness feature fit exactly into the situation—for the National Security League goes in for defense of the realm from all angles. Thursday evening "The Eagle's Wings" was the last number on a program that included addresses by former Secretary of the Navy Von Meyer, former Secretary of War Stimson, Rear Admiral Fiske, U. S. N., and Prof. Thayer of Harvard.

HELEN GREENE IN DUAL ROLE.

Helen Greene, heroine of the Mutual Film Corporation series of newspaper stories, "The Perils of Our Girl Reporters," produced by the Niagara Film Studios from the stories of Edith Sessions Tupper, is seen in a dual role in the fifth of the "Perils" stories, "Many a Slip," which made its first appearance on January 24. She plays the role of Miss "Jerry" Conklin, a New York newspaper girl, and at the same time that of the Princess Stephanie of Zervania, appearing on the screet in both characters through a good share of the picture.

NEWS EVENTS IN MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 109.

It would be difficult to pick out the leading American picture in the Gaumont-Mutual Weekly, No. 109, as there are so many views of seemingly equal importance. From abroad come war pictures taken on the Serbian front which give an excellent idea of the difficulties with which the Serbs and the Allies are meeting in reconquering the little kingdom now held by the Central Powers.

War as seen by America is pictured in the views of the stranded U. S. S. Milwaukee, ashore near Eureka, Cal., and the new type of pleasure boat suggested by the Navy Department as suitable for conversion in short order into a submarine chaser in time of war.

Samuel Gompers and Mrs. Gompers pose for a Gaumont cameraman while celebrating their golden wedding. The congressional committee in New York to investigate the celebrated Wall Street "leak," and its counsel, Sherman L. Whipple, are also caught by the camera for this issue of the Mutual Weekly. The new $6,000,000 free bridge across the Mississippi river at St. Louis is shown. A fire that threatened Bellevue Hospital, New York, makes a spectacular picture. There are fashions from Fifth avenue, showing what the smart men of the metropolis are wearing at this season of the year.

Furs valued by their owner at $50,000 were on display recently at the Gaumont studio. They are to be seen in a forthcoming "Reel Life" subject depicting the fur industry.

GEORGE M. COHAN COMPANY TO FLORIDA.

George M. Cohan, accompanied by Joe Kaufman, his director; Marguerite Snow, his leading lady, and other members of the "Broadway Jones" company, left for Florida last Saturday afternoon, where the exteriors for the initial Cohan-Artcraft picture will be taken.

A large factory has been taken over for a week at Jacksonville, where the scenes involving the chewing-gum plant will be staged. Just prior to their departure an immense ballroom scene was filmed at the studio on West Fifty-sixth street, in which several hundred people took part. The scene in question portrayed one of the lavish parties given by the wild "Broadway Jones" in the course of the story and displays one of the most magnificent sets ever erected for the benefit of the camera, occupying almost the entire floor space of the big studio. Nothing is being spared in the way of time, labor or expense by the producers, who are taking particular pains to make the initial George M. Cohan photoplay a subject in keeping with the importance of his advent to the motion picture field.

"SLOTH" (McClure).

McClure Pictures has made in "Sloth," starring Charlotte Walker, a drama of unusual appeal, notable especially because it uses a new way of presenting a motion picture play. "Sloth" is the sixth of "Seven Deadly Sins," the McClure series of seven five-reel dramas, the first of which was released on January 29.

"Sloth" is a stirring attack upon laziness, wielding a sharp sword upon the idle rich and pleading especially for patriotism among the women of to-day. Shirley Mason plays a young society girl who loves to loll in luxury. She is a sad contrast to the fine women who lived in years gone by, women who fought beside their husbands, who braved hardships uncomplainingly in order that their families, their progeny and their country might prosper.

Scene from "Sloth" (McClure).

Miss Walker is supported by a splendid cast, including Miss Mason, Mr. Le Guere, D. J. Flannigan, Jack Crosby, Grace Williams, Charles De Mussett, A. Barrett, Curtis Cooksey, Emil Hach, Hattie Delaro, Harry McFayden and Helen Strickland.

Theodore Marston, the director, has produced an excellent play of an entirely new type. Hundreds of men were used in the battle scenes, which portray the modes of fighting in 1776 as well as the modern weapons of war.

Vaudeville Circuits Booking Patria

Keith and Orpheum Theaters Showing Pathe-International Serial As Big Time Act.

PATHE has again taken a big step forward by booking "Patria" into the big time vaudeville houses. In other words, just as the placing of its news reel into the Keith houses took pictures from the black top tents into the best theaters and introduced them to the best people of each community, and thereby paved the way for good picture houses to be built, so placing "Patria" into the Keith and Orpheum theaters introduces serials for the first time as a big time vaudeville act, and this will in the end result ultimately to the greatest good to the picture industry as a whole.

First run exhibitors have reported increasing business on each succeeding episode. This, according to Pathe, is the real test of the success of a serial. The unprecedented advance advertising campaign and the drawing power of Mrs. Castle's name were undoubtedly responsible to a great extent for the record-breaking crowds that witnessed the showing of the first episode throughout the country. Many of the first-run theaters reported that the attendance increased beyond all expectations during the second week.

The favorable newspaper reviews and the fact that a large number of exhibitors have found it necessary to increase the number of days they are showing the serial, are regarded by Pathe as conclusive proof of the success of "Patria." The daring and ability of Mrs. Castle have been a revelation even to those who had been led to expect great things of her. The compelling power of Louis Joseph Vance's story is another contributory factor in the success of "Patria."

As an indication of the success of "Patria," Pathe has given out the following telegram from Walter H. Seely, of the Piccadilly theater, in Rochester, N. Y.: "We find it necessary to cancel 'Patria' or enlarge our house. Playing to more than capacity. What do you advise?"

The Piccadilly seats 2,600 and has a splendid orchestra.

Novel Effects in "The Black Wolf"

Lasky Production Starring Lou-Tellegen Uncovers Original Photographic Treatment.

IN THE Lasky picture, "The Black Wolf," in which Lou-Tellegen is starred, there are some originally conceived scenes which are sure to prove of exceptional interest when the production is released on the Paramount Program.

Upon the wall of a castle hang full-length protraits of the ancestors of the young men involved. As the actors in the main drama argue concerning the identity of the Black Wolf, shadowy figures step from the canvases and enact the duel and final killing of the old duke as it occurred many years before. All this supplementary action is photographed within the room without in the least interfering with action of the present-day characters.

The effect is most interesting and forceful in the telling of the story, and forms a distinct novelty in the handling of this type of scene.

There is a remarkable duel staged later in the story in which the Black Wolf, having given the duke his choice of weapons, is forced to agree to meet his antagonist as follows: Two pistols are placed by a neutral party upon a table, one of them having been loaded and the other being empty. The duellists advance to the table, select their places at opposite ends of the table, await the signal to fire. The duke makes the first selection of weapons and the audience does not know whether he has chosen the loaded one or not until after the signal has been given to fire. Then the duke is seen to topple over upon the table dead.

Of course there is a girl in the case to embitter the rivalry between the two men, and she is admirably played by Nell Shipmen.

The interior settings, representing the duke's castle, are worthy of mention, being exceptionally spacious and ornate, even for Lasky settings. The walls are covered with tapestries and rich hangings which are enhanced in their effectiveness by the glittering uniforms of the Spanish dignitaries.

PICKFORD AND COHAN IN COMING ARTCRAFT.

As its March and April releases the Artcraft Pictures Corporation announces two big subjects, with Mary Pickford and George M. Cohan as the stellar attractions. The Mary Pickford production, following her recent Artcraft offering, "The Pride of the Clan," will be "A Poor Little Rich Girl," now being produced under the direction of Maurice Tourneur. As an appropriate vehicle for the popular screen star it is readily felt that this story affords Miss Pickford one of the best motion picture subjects ever secured for her.

The George M. Cohan subject, "Broadway Jones," which is now also well under way at the New York studios on West Fifty-sixth street, will follow the Pickford release and will present the famous George M. for the first time as a screen actor on April 2. This subject offers another well known subject which has been presented both on the stage and in book form and is popularly known throughout the country. Originally written, produced and starred in by George M. Cohan, the play proved the hit of the season in New York, after which it met with similar success on the road.

General Film Company's Activities

February Will Mark Introduction of Two-Reel Installments of British War Films.

THE General Film Company is preparing for an exceedingly active period during the month of February. Its new series, "The War," the British Government's official motion picture records of the European conflict, will be launched soon, the first installment being entitled "The Battle of the Somme." Exhibitors who have seen advance showing have been unanimous in praise of this series, as they have been surfeited with fake war pictures or pictures taken miles away from the real front. There cannot be the slightest doubt in the mind of any person who has seen this first two-reel installment that these pictures were actually taken at the front by official photographers. "The War" will be released weekly in installments of two reels, the first three issues covering "The Battle of the Somme" in its various phases. Succeeding installments will cover the British Grand Fleet in its activities. General Film was never in better shape for the exhibitor than at the present time. It covers every department of picture service from educational and news subjects to drama and comedy.

The various Kalem series will continue with the exception of "The Girl from 'Frisco," which is drawing to a close and will soon be followed by a new series featuring Marin Sais, with the title to be announced shortly. The oldest and best of all weekly series, "The Hazards of Helen," will continue to be issued weekly, with Helen Gibson continuing her thrilling feats. "Grant, Police Reporter," continues with George Larkin defying death by some spectacular effort in every episode. "Ham and Bud" will be continued, with Lloyd V. Hamilton and Bud Duncan in their laughable characterizations.

The Essanay series, "Is Marriage Sacred?" is meeting with the steadfast approval of exhibitors and there are a number of interesting little dramas of married life to be released during February. Essanay's "Black Cat" features will be continued, each of these two-reel dramas being founded on one of the stories published in the famous Black Cat Magazine. Essanay also releases through General Film Company the George Ade fables and its weekly scenic and cartoon single reel.

The Selig-Tribune News reel covers the current event field thoroughly and a new departure in two-reel drama is announced by this company in the featuring of George Fawcett, hitherto only seen in five-reel features, in shorter dramas. The first of these will be released by the General early in February.

Vitagraph will offer through the General a single reel drama each Monday, the two-reel series, "The Danger of Doris," and a number of two-reel dramatic subjects featuring Brinsley Shaw. Melies releases to be continued are the Vim Comedies, "Pokes and Jabbs," and the Kate Price and Babe Hardy weekly comedies, and also Knickerbocker three-reel subjects.

Every effort is to be made to secure the widest publicity for General Film Service and a comprehensive exhibitors' and newspaper clip sheet will be issued weekly starting Monday, Jan. 29.

HELEN HOLMES IN NEW THRILLER.

Helen Holmes in "The Railroad Raiders" is the next Mutual photo-novel to come from the Signal studios. Work is now well under way and the release dates will be announced shortly. The production will run through fifteen chapters of two parts each.

"The Railroad Raiders" is under the supervision and direction of J. P. McGowan, the director who has achieved a notable series of successes in similar productions, notably "The Girl and the Game" and "A Lass of the Lumberlands," both of which are now running.

"Consistent and repeated success of the Helen Holmes photo-novels have given her a remarkable box-office value," comments Samuel S. Hutchinson, president of the Signal Film Corporation, from whom the announcement of the new production comes. Mr. Hutchinson has just returned to Chicago from a journey to the Signal studios in California, where conferences with Mr. McGowan were held.

The supporting cast in "The Railroad Raiders" is much the same as that of the recently completed serial "A Lass of the Lumberlands," and includes Leo D. Maloney, Paul C. Hurst, Thomas G. Lingham, William Brunton, Will Chapman, William Hemphill, Charles U. Wells, George Wisschusen and William Behrens.

Perfect Developing and Printing

Negatives Delevoped. 1c ft.

Positive Printing . . . 4c ft.

TITLES in any language 5c complete per foot

Cards Free Tinting Free

Satisfaction guaranteed by our fifteen years' experience Special price on quantity orders

GUNBY BROS., Inc., 145 West 45th Street, New York City

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

Maryland Censors Feel Oats

Seem to Have Needed a Test Case and Tried Out Its Power on the Little Pickwick Theater Over "Purity"—Get a Verdict from Police Magistrate on Technical Charge—Levines Fined $2.50 Each.

By J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Ter., Baltimore, Md.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Just why the Maryland Censor Board has gone on the warpath is a matter of conjecture; but their recent action in regard to the showing of "Purity" seems to be without reason, unless it was simply, as Assistant State's Attorney Marchant is reported as saying, that a test case was to be made out of the affair.

It happened thus: Irvine and Jack Levine, managers of the Little Pickwick theater, 312 West Lexington street, booked "Purity" from Sidney B. Lust of Washington, D. C., for a two day run. The film was screened peacefully on Wednesday, Jan. 17, but on Friday Mrs. T. B. Harrison of the Censor Board, went into the theater in the afternoon, viewed the picture and then walked out perfectly "mum." At 6 P. M. she returned accompanied by a police sergeant and asked to see the manager. Jack Levine presented himself and Mrs. Harrison, it is reported, stated that certain parts were in the picture which had previously been eliminated, and requested that they be cut. "All right," said Mr. Levine, "I will very gladly cut out anything that is in the film that you order eliminated; but as this picture bears the seal of the Maryland Censor Board, I understood that it was all right to be shown." The required eliminations were made and Mrs. Harrison took possession of the film, about 200 feet, then without any warning, but it is thought a nod from Mrs. Harrison was the signal, the police officer presented Mr. Levine with a warrant.

Case Before Police Magistrate.

The case came up before Justice Johannsen in the western police station on Monday, January 22, at 3.30 P. M. Mrs. Harrison and W. F. Stone of the Board were present and represented by Assistant State's Attorney Marchant, while Jack and Irvine Levine, also present, were represented by Attorney DiMarco. It was claimed by the Censor Board that even though the picture bore the state seal, the exhibitors should obtain a list of the eliminations and see that they are properly made before exhibiting the film. (We are not sure that this is in the law.) This film, however, has been shown in 28 theaters in Baltimore previously; it bore the seal of the State Board and people who came to the Little Pickwick to see it again said, "Why, you have clipped a lot out of this film since we last saw it."

Ask for Conviction on Technical Charge.

The Censors saw that they had a weak case, but asked for a conviction on a technical charge. The Justice decided that this was right and fined each of the brothers $2.50. Owing to the time and trouble it would be to carry the case into court, the Levine brothers decided to let the matter drop and paid the fines. Mr. Lust of Washington was not present at the case. Later advices tell us that another arrest has been made by the Board, of which developments are awaited.

O. D. Weems Speaks of the Censors.

Baltimore, Md.—O. D. Weems, manager of the Mutual exchange in this city, in speaking to this writer the other day, in regard to the Maryland Censor Board, said, "I have always found the Maryland Censor Board ready to co-operate with me on all occasions when it has been possible. They have treated me in the most courteous way in all the dealings that I have had with them." And let it be here known that personally we regard the Board as very fine people, being appointed by the State and doing its duty to its best ability and we only aim at publishing the truth concerning their actions. Unfortunately, however, we are irrevocably against censor boards as a whole."

Aladdin Theater Changes Hands.

Baltimore, Md.—The Aladdin theater, 930-2 West Baltimore street, which was formally owned by B. Friedman, has now been bought by the Broadway Theater Company. J. Louis Rome, anattorney and well-known film man, is its general manager. He will book the pictures for this house as well as for the New Baltimore theater, and the Broadway, and a house manager will be placed in charge.

When the Aladdin, which seats 500, was reopened on January 13, it presented a spic and span appearance, having been entirely renovated. "Business for the Broadway and New Baltimore theaters," stated Mr. Rome, "for the week of January 1, broke all previous records for these two houses. We want to make the Aladdin as fine a house as they are. Ten cents will be charged and only first-class productions shown."

Receiver for Liberty Theater.

Baltimore, Md.—By consent, in Circuit Court, No. 2, of Baltimore, on Tuesday, December 19th, Attorney William F. Dircher was appointed receiver for the Liberty Company conducting the Liberty theater at 5 North Liberty street, which since June has been under the management of John English. When Mr. English took over this house it was in very bad straits and besides this it is located in an out-of-the-way location. Lexington street, with the larger theaters and attractions, is also very near, so although Mr. English worked hard to bring the house up, the odds were against him. Bond of $1,000 was given by the receiver.

Baltimore Grand Jury Scores Theater.

Condition of Exits in Local Picture Houses Condemned by Committee of the Grand Jury—Part of the Charges Made.

BALTIMORE, MD.—According to the report submitted on Friday, January 5, to Chief Judge Soper, by the Exit Committee of the Grand Jury for the September term, many improvements are needed quickly to improve the emergency exits in theaters. Says the report in part: "The danger to life from fire in moving picture theaters can be dealt with none too quickly, and should be attended to at once."

The charges made in the report follow:

Gross carelessness with regard to exits found in many theaters.

Some exits were found blocked by rubbish and trash to such an extent as to make them useless in case of fire; while others might become sources of fire.

On some exit doors rusty bolts had to be hammered before doors could be used.

In some theaters 15 to 20 minutes was required to find lost keys to emergency exits.

Policemen were found in theaters, leaning over rails in rear, watching exhibitions, but ignorant of the exit conditions

Royal Theater Changes Hands.

Baltimore, Md.—The Royal theater, 308 South Broadway, which was formerly owned by H. J. Skrentney, has now been purchased by J. B. Fields and will, in the future, be known as Fields' Photo Play theater.

"Nation" Again at Ford's.

Baltimore, Md.—A return engagement on the farewell tour of "The Birth of a Nation" began a run in this city on Monday, January 29, at Ford's opera house. This is a great triumph for filmdom, as Charles E. and John T. Ford have considered it worth while to break into a run of successful stage success to run this master photoplay.

Charles E. Lewis Wins Suit.

Baltimore, Md.—The Maryland Court of Appeals has affirmed the verdict of $3,330 with interest and costs which was rendered in May, 1916, by the Superior Court in the case of Charles E. Lewis against the Hippodrome theater company. Mr. Lewis, who was represented by Attorney J. Edward Tyler, Jr., was formerly manager of this theater and the suit was for breach of contract.

Harry Reddish with Metro.

Baltimore, Md.—Harry Reddish, who for some time acted as manager of the Pathe exchange in this city, has now become associated with the Metro forces and will act as the special representative of "The Great Secret."

Manager of Gem Shows Brain Work.

Baltimore, Md.—J. H. Heintz, manager of the Gem theater, 714 East Baltimore street, showed great presence of mind on Wednesday night, Jan. 17, when he took special precautions to protect his patrons from a panic. A fire occurred next door to his house and he immediately ordered his orchestra to play very loud to drown the clanging of the bells. He then told the operator to finish the reel as soon as he could—flashed the "Good Night" slide and the audience filed quietly out.

Sun Theater's Newspaper Is Different

In Buffalo Theater's Cleverly Written Weekly There Appear Notes in Lighter Vein That Are Eagerly Expected by Friends of the House.

By Joseph H. McGuire, 5 Lewis Building, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—"Did you write anything about me this week, Harry?" This is the question which is frequently put to Harry Dixon, manager of the Sun moving picture at 566 Broadway, Buffalo. The question refers to amusing paragraphs which Mr. Dixon writes for the Sun Theater Weekly News, of which he is manager and editor.

The News is only a vest pocket edition of a newspaper, but it is filled to overflowing with choice bits of humor about patrons of the theater. Mr. Dixon, who was formerly a vaudeville performer, prints a lot of "nut stuff" about people of his neighborhood, but the copy is handled so carefully that nobody takes offense. At times he follows the style of the country editor, as is indicated by the following: "Mr. and Mrs. Drishler had a day off and saw our show. It made them both laugh." Mr. Dixon frequently refers to his staff, as shown by the following: "Margie, the piano player, and Florence, the cashier, have a bet on 'Romeo and Juliet' and 'The Eternal Question.' Which does the most business? Will let you know who wins."

Mr. Dixon has a newsboy outside the theater. The boy passes out the papers and shouts to the people to save the profit-sharing coupons printed in each edition. Fifteen coupons are good for one five-cent admission and twenty-five coupons are good for one ten-cent admission. The News carries advertisements of business places in the section. Practically all the ads are written in an amusing style.

"I have no trouble getting ads from local business places, so I am really making some money out of my newspaper," said Mr. Dixon. "Besides it has a great advertising value to our house and is helping our attendance. Our patrons say that we have an advertising medium that is different."

Shows Strand's Good Discipline.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Manager Earl L. Crabb and his assistants recently cleared the Strand theater, Buffalo, of 1,000 people in four minutes without confusion or mishap. Just after the third reel of "The Pride of the Clan," featuring Mary Pickford, was started, the film parted in the machine and caught fire. The flames reached several other films in the operating room and within a few seconds the interior of the booth was afire. Through the fast work of the operators, Frank Davidson and Arthur White, the fire was confined to the fireproof operating booth. Although the interior was red hot, no flames reached the outside of the booth. Firemen extinguished the blaze in ten minutes. The loss of the seven reels of pictures and two machines did not put the theater out of business. Within three hours after the fire two new machines were installed and other films secured. On the following day Manager Crabb secured from New York duplicates of the films that were destroyed.

Brandon to Manage Mutual Exports.

Buffalo, N. Y.—B. J. Brandon, representative of the serial department of the Mutual, Buffalo, who, according to a recent announcement, has been transferred to the Mutual's home office in Chicago, has been promoted to the post of export manager of that concern. Mr. Brandon has always been in touch with export matters. Before entering the film industry he was circulation manager of the foreign editions of the American Exporter, a leading export magazine. His knowledge of export conditions, plus the two years' training he has had with the Mutual in field and inside work, will assure his success in his new position. Another advantage to Mr. Brandon is that he lived abroad for five years and speaks several foreign languages.

Niagara Falls Licenses Too High.

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—The Theatrical Managers' Association of Niagara Falls has protested to the council of that city against the city license fee of $100 and that license fees be charged on a graded basis, according to seating capacity. The council has directed City Manager Carr to investigate the proposition and make a report.

Exhibitor D. L. Cummings Dies.

Shortsville, N. Y.—D. L. Cummings, of the Echo theater, Shortsville, died recently.

Star Theater In Troy Sold.

Troy, N. Y.—Anthony Vazzana has sold his Star theater of this city on January 13, 1917, to Frank Alaire. Mr. Vazzano, is not yet twenty years old. His home address is 154 Jackson street, Troy, N. Y.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Mitchell Fitzer, of the Happy Hour theater, Syracuse, recently visited F. S. Hopkins, Buffalo manager of the Bluebird Photoplays.

They Call Him a Speech Maker.

Buffalo, N. Y.—"The speech-making manager" is the title that has been bestowed by his friends on Harry Dixon of the Sun theater, Buffalo. Mr. Dixon, who was formerly in vaudeville, recently used plenty of punch in his fifteen-minute speech on the feature, "Where Are My Children?" which he played at his house.

Will Continue Sunday Opening Fight.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Dr. P. C. Cornell, president of the Buffalo Theatrical Managers' Association, has returned from New York, where he attended the recent meeting of moving picture men at which the Sunday closing question was discussed. The association will continue its vigorous fight in favor of Sunday shows.

Fred R. Wren Dies.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Fred R. Wren, connected with the moving picture business in Buffalo, died here recently. For a time he was on the road with "Del-Millar's world tours," which are moving pictures owned by Buffalo men. He lectured in connection with the films. In the old days Mr. Wren, who was 69 years old, was a comedian of the old stock company of the Academy of Music of this city. During his career on the stage, which did not end until recent years, Wren appeared with Lawrence Barrett, whose principal comedian he was, Edwin Forrest, Thomas W. Keene, Edwin Booth and Charlotte Cushman. Wren liked Shakespearean comedy and played his parts with a fine intelligence.

L. M. Fox, special representative of this serial, has been campaigning in this city. The Strand theater, Buffalo, will have the first run on this production here.

Joseph Lee, manager of the Merit Film, Buffalo, has been covering the central part of the state in the interests of the latest Ivan release, "Sex Lure."

New Victoria's Children's Matinees Popular

Manager Edward L. Hyman Pleased with the Success that Has Followed His Special Shows for the Youngsters—Good Business.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—"Our children's matinees are meeting with a great success," said Edward L. Hyman, manager of the New Victoria moving picture theater, Buffalo. "Their indorsement by the Parent-Teachers' Association and the City Federation of Mothers' Clubs is a decided benefit to us. Two representatives of these organizations look over each show in advance. They also chaperone the children who are unaccompanied and buy their tickets. The youngsters enter and leave the theater without confusion and maintain good order during the performances. The matinees are held from 2 to 4.30 o'clock Friday and Saturday afternoons. The prices are five cents for children under eight and ten cents for those over that age. About 600 children and 400 grownups come the first hour of the matinee and 200 come the second hour. They have the privilege of seeing two afternoon shows. A special section is reserved for children unaccompanied by parents or guardians. The stars that are favorites with the young patrons are Marguerite Clark, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and William S. Hart."

Manager Hyman, who is only 21 years old, is noted for his buoyant spirits and enthusiasm, which win the good will of the kiddies and help hold their patronage. The New Victoria is a $250,000 theater in the west side residential district and the pleasing surroundings appeal to the children.

Mr. Hyman says the New Victoria's receipts are double those of a year ago. Among his recent attractions, which do not refer to his children's matinees, are: Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in "Romeo and Juliet;" Mary Pickford in "The Pride of the Clan," Douglas Fairbanks in "The Matrimaniac," E. H. Southern in "An Enemy to the King," Charlie Chaplin in "The Rink," and Marguerite Clark in "Miss George Washington." Mr. Hyman has a mailing list of 6,000 names of patrons, to whom he sends advertising matter.

VIRGINIA FILM NOTES.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Bldg., Washington, D. C.

Personal and Business Notes—Theater Changes.

ALEXANDRIA, VA.—Mr. Steele, manager for the Alexandria theater company, operating the Richmond theater here, is reported as being very ill with typhoid which has kept him confined to his home for a month or more.

Lynchburg, Va.—The Isia theater, operated by Jake Wells, is soon to be taken over by the Belvedere theater company. The change will take place on or about February 1. The new owners now operate the Belvedere theater with Guy Barrett, formerly of Washington, D. C., as manager. Mr. Barrett has been doing a number of things since coming into Virginia and has built up a most satisfactory patronage for the company. It is expected that he will take charge of the new possession.

Hopewell, Va.—The sympathy of his many exhibitor-friends is with Paul Neaman, of the Orpheum, who recently met with the sad loss of his wife. Mrs. Neaman had been ill for four or five months following an operation from which she never really recovered. Besides her husband, she is survived by three children.

New Bluebird Theater in Richmond.

Richmond, Va.—Progress is being reported on the new $100,000 theater being erected on Broad street by Mrs. A. E. Thorpe, veteran woman exhibitor of Virginia. The house is to be known as the Bluebird theater, will seat about seven hundred people and will be ready to do business the latter part of next month or early in March. Mrs. Thorpe is the first woman exhibitor in this section and she has been eminently successful in all of her undertakings. She has the best wishes of all in the trade for her additional success.

Local 553 Elects Officers.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Local No. 553, a Philadelphia operators' union, has recently been formed in affiliation with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. At present the local boasts sixty-five paid-up memberships, and has already held its first election, which resulted as follows:—W. J. Symes, president; R. Taylor, business manager; Archer Graver, vice-president; Wm. Friedman, recording secretary; P. F. Marks, financial secretary; John Samm, treasurer. The rapid growth of the new organization is reported to be due to the many benefits to be derived by members.

Business Notes.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Harry Bache, special representative of the Electric Theater Supply company, has recently returned from a trip upstate, where he met with considerable success in booking the New Art Dramas. Mr. Bache is well known in Philadelphia and Baltimore, where he enjoys widespread reputation as a booker of character and standing.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Herbert Elliot of the Bijou theater, Atlantic City, paid H. Dunbow of the Fox exchange a visit last week, and booked the first run for his territory. He is at present enjoying an abundance of sea breezes, some of which he would prefer to save for next summer.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The vocalists being presented by Herbert Finger at the Strand are being received with considerable interest. The fact that only good talent is employed and that they render only high class selections places this addition to the program on a more than usually high plane.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Dr. Walter Stuempfig has booked "Patria" and "The Secret Kingdom" for his Germantown treater. This house is one of the best managed in Germantown and it maintains a program of quality pictures that has secured it the patronage of the elite of the section.

CAPITAL CITY NOTES.

Inspectors Taking Germ Census.

Washington, D. C.—The Health Department of the District of Columbia is sending its inspectors into the motion picture houses on an investigating tour to ascertain the condition of the atmosphere in these places of amusement. Each member of the inspection force is provided with a glass plate covered with a jelly-like substance, which attracts germs much in the same way as the sticky paper sold in the drug store entices flies. After making an inspection the Health Office representative turns the plate in to the Health Department and the germs are counted. What the department wants to know is whether the disease carriers are too prevalent in the motion picture houses. It is planned to have the inspection extend also to the larger theaters which will mean a continuance of the work until probably the first of February. When the results have been tabulated the department will consider what steps, if any, should be taken to require Washington's theaters to provide better air and ventilating systems. There are five inspectors on the job.

Fire at Farmington, W. Va.

Farmington, W. Va.—A terrific fire in this city, which began on the morning of Sunday, January 14, caused a loss of $25,000. The Majestic theater building was destroyed and it is estimated that this alone represented about $5,000.

"Purity" Barred from Lynchburg.

Lynchburg, Va.—When "Purity" reached this city last week and was eagerly awaited by the local fans, Mayor Jester got out on the job and ordered it suppressed. Sorry we couldn't send in the Mayor's picture.

Philadelphia Filmdom Doings

Jefferson and Park Theaters Have New Policy—Family Theater Bought by A. R. Boyd—Notable Features Last Week—More Instructive Films Noticed—Local 553 Elects Officers—Other Items of Interest.

By F. V. Armato, 144 N. Salford street, West Philadelphia, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Jay Emanuel, a well known local exhibitor, has taken a share in the ownership of the Jefferson at 29th and Dauphin streets and the Park at 33rd street and Ridge avenue. Jack Delmar, the former manager, who relinquishes his position is reported to have joined the Stanley forces.

The new management proposes a policy of showing the best productions regardless of cost. Preparations are now being made at the Park theater for the presentation of "The Foolish Virgin" and at the Jefferson for the showing of "Civilization." General improvements will be made in both theaters and new carpets will be laid. A new organ of the latest type will also be installed.

Mr. Emanuel is also the manager of the Ridge avenue theater. The latter house has also recently adopted a high class policy and raised the admission to ten cents. A six piece orchestra supplies the music and new lighting and decorations and new and more commodious seats are among the betterments.

A. R. Boyd Buys Family Theater.

Philadelphia, Pa.—An important real estate and theatrical transaction took place this week, whereby Alexander R. Boyd, manager of the Arcadia theater becomes the owner of the Family theater on Market street below 13th. Mr. Boyd has made a success of the Arcadia by a large way of doing things and is reported about to spend $50,000 on the Family. The house which is one of the pioneer picture theaters of the city has had a uniformly successful career.

Earl Sweigert Will Open New Exchange.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Earle Sweigert, formerly manager of the International Film Co., Inc., will shortly become manager of a new film exchange to be kown as the Peerless. It will be located at 1339 Vine street. Features and Christie comedies will be distributed.

Feature Record of the Week.

Philadelphia, Pa.—First run showings during the past week included many pictures of interest. At the Stanley, Myrtle Stedman and House Peters in "The Happiness of Three Women" and Marie Doro in "Lost and Won" divided the week.

"Great Expectations" with Louise Huff and Jack Pickford, played to good business at the Arcadia.

The Regent offered William Courtenay and Mollie King in "Kick In" for the first half of the week and also showed Vivian Martin in "In the Right Direction" and Mabel Taliaferro in "A Wife by Proxy."

Theda Bara played all week at the Broadway in "The Darling of Paris" by Fox.

Metro's latest serial, "The Great Secret," with Bushman and Bayne has started with a rush and is being shown at a large number of the local theatres.

Nazimova in "War Brides" was booked for a week at the Strand.

Clara Kimball Young in "The Foolish Virgin" played all week at the Victoria.

Mary Pickford in "The Pride of the Clan" stayed at the Palace all week.

"Intolerance" in its second month at the Chestnut Street opera house is playing to capacity every night and making a remarkable matinee showing.

Stanley Theater's New Stage Set.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Stanley theater is going in for elaborate stage setings these days. An effective portico of Roman columns has been erected and the scenes in the background are changed weekly. Last week the pipes of the great organ which is located at the rear of the stage were revealed and special recitals incorporated in the program. The current setting shows an effective view of the beautiful bay of Naples done in oils.

A. M. Van Dyke Managing a Theater.

Collingswood, N. J.—A. M. Van Dyke, of Paramount, has ventured into the exhibiting business and now manages the Palm theater at Collingswood, New Jersey. He is meeting with success, it is reported.

More Instructive Films Showing.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The increase in the number of educational films on the programs of leading theaters is a step in the right direction and an indication that managers appreciate the necessity of providing that sort of entertainment. Although only a few managers are giving strictly juvenile shows at present, there are indications that within a short time the practice of setting aside one afternoon a week when children can be invited to see suitable pictures chosen for their educational as well as entertaining qualities will become general.

Ben Harris Goes to Masterpiece Office.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Ben Harris, a hustling young film man, who was formerly employed with the World Film, has gone over to the Masterpiece exchange as chief shipping clerk.

William Heenan Ill.

Philadelphia, Pa.—William Heenan, on whose capable shoulders rests the responsibility of proper distribution for the Stanley Booking Company's films, has been ill at his home with tonsilitis. "Bill" Heenan is very popular with the ninety odd exhibitors to whom the company furnishes pictures and hope for his speedy recovery has been expressed by practically every one of them.

Choracello with Phonograph Songs.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Stanley W. Rhodes, the organist at the Tioga theater, 17th and Venango streets, recently induced Columbus Stamper, the general manager, to install a large talking machine to furnish a variant to the usual musical program. The idea, of which Mr. Rhodes is the originator, is to accompany the finest operatic records played on the talking machine, with the choracello. The experiment has proved a big success and is a regular feature of the program. The marvelous tones of Caruso, Melba and other noted singers ring out clear and full in the large auditorium and combine in a most remarkable manner with the soft accompaniment of the choracello.

Claim Unfairness Toward Bigger Houses.

Philadelphia, Pa.—M. Steifel, who conducts a chain of theaters here, is of the opinion that unjust discrimination is shown against the larger theaters by certain exchange men. He contends that it is unfair to charge the larger houses fancy prices for films and then book them shortly after at a very moderate price in the cheaper houses.

Selznick Offices to Move.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Lewis J. Selznick Productions will move into larger quarters at 1335 Vine street, where they will occupy the entire building.

How to Take Advantage of Mails

Superintendent of Mails at Washington Talks to Exchange Men—Rates in First and Second Zones Cheaper Than Express—In Third Zone There Is an Even Break—Beyond That Cost Is Greater.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—W. H. Haycock, superintendent of mails at the Washington Post Office, was the guest of the Washington Exchange Managers' Association at the regular semi-monthly dinner meeting held in the Flemish room of the National Press Club. Mr. Haycock was present to confer with the exchange managers on the facilities to be offered by the parcel post service in the movement to and from Washington of motion picture films and posters.

Before taking up the question of transportation quite a number of other matters more or less of interest only to the men present were discussed and it may be said that in all questions that have thus far come before his organiztaion there seems to have been a unanimity of thought. This association is not formed for the purpose of permitting the majority to legislate for the minority, but merely for mutual help and to improve the business generally and the service individually to the joint benefit of exchanges and theaters alike.

In addressing the exchange men Mr. Haycock said his presence was due to a desire to see why it is not possible to secure a large part of the business of the film companies. He explained to them that before the first of January it was not permissible to ship films by mail. The mails have since been opened up, following an insistant demand on the part of the film business.

Mr. Haycock told the film men that the first assistant postmaster general has promised to give him an automobile, carriers and anything he would want if the exchangemen will patronize the mails, and the second assistant postmaster general told him he could say that if they patronized the mails and there is any trouble on any R. P. O. line or any postoffice, he will send a representative immediately to straighten matters out.

Where Mail Will Be Cheaper Than Express.

In the open discussion that followed the making of these promises by Mr. Haycock on behalf of the officials of the Post Office Department, there were brought out a number of matters which would require changing before the mails could be satisfactorily resorted to in the shipment of films. In the first and second zones, it was proved, the rates would be cheaper. In the third zone the film folks would break even, but in the zones beyond that the cost would be greater than by express. Apparently, in the first and second zones films can be shipped and the postage, insurance and return C. O. D. charges taken care of with a saving to the shipper or consignee as the case might be. Where the posters are four pounds or more they also would be admitted to the mails and a saving so made.

The exchange managers seemed quite enthusiastic over the proposals of the postal authorities and Mr. Haycock has promised to take the matter up with them further and to furnish each exchange with a schedule showing the time that films must be delivered in order to meet certain trains, with a list showing in which zone each of the stations served by the exchange is located, later taking up with the managers the question of when would be the best time for pick-ups to be made by the automobile to be put into service by the post office.

The question of censorship in the state of West Virginia was also taken up and it was declared by those present that the proposed law is by far the most drastic that has ever been brought to their attention. At the same time the methods adopted by the Maryland Board in handling the business that comes to it were also censured. After discussing ways and means of combatting these various unfair conditions the meeting was adjourned and the members availed themselves of an opportunity to spend a few pleasant moments in the luxurious rooms of the club.

Vivian Whitaker Has a a Son Born.

Washington, D. C.—Vivian Whitaker, manager of the Washington office of the Artcraft corporation, is wearing the smile that won't come off, following the advent of a son and heir in his family. To insure the future of the young man Mr. Whitaker has given him the name of John Williams Whitaker, the John Williams being after John Sharp Williams, senator from Mississippi, and the exchangeman predicts that young John Williams will some day gain name and fortune by aiding in the vetoing of a motion picture censorship bill that will probably still be pending when he attains his position in the United States Senate.

Linz Gets Honors.

Washington, D. C.—Quite a few honors have been heaped on the Washington office of the Moving Picture World since the beginning of the new year, for our correspondent in the National Capital has been selected as a member of the Committee on Illumination, of which William F. Gude is chairman, and of the Publicity Committee, of which Frank B. Lord is chairman, of the inauguration of President Wilson. In addition he has been appointed a member of the Publicity Committee incident to the convention next summer of the United Confederate Veterans.

A. Brylawski Contributes to Festivities.

Washington, D. C.—A. Brylawski, who operates a number of theaters here, is among the more recent contributors to the fund being raised for the festivities incident to the inauguration of President Wilson on March 4, he having recently sent in a check to the Inaugural Committee for $100, to be applied to the guaranty fund.

Loew Circuit Offices Come To Atlanta

The Success of the Grand, Managed by Gus S. Greening, Has Induced Marcus Loew to Extend His Activities in the South.

By A. M. Beatty, 43 Copenhill Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

ATLANTA, Ga.—Atlanta has been named headquarters for the newly inaugurated southern division of the Marcus Loew theatrical circuit, of both vaudeville and moving picture, and which will include Baltimore, Memphis, Birmingham and other cities. An Atlanta man, E. A. Schiller, has been appointed southern representative.

Mr. Schiller assumed the office the first part of the week; he is now in Memphis and Birmingham supervising preparations for the opening of Loew theaters in those places. In Memphis the Lyceum theater, formerly the home of Klaw & Erlanger attractions, has been taken over by the Loew interests. Both Birmingham and Memphis will have Loew attractions by February 1. Other cities to be included in the southern circuit are New Orleans and Jacksonville, and Virginia points.

Atlanta is the first southern city to receive the Loew attractions. It was the success of the Grand, managed by Gus S. Greening, which induced Marcus Loew to extend his activities in the South.

W. T. Murray to Manage the Odeon.

Atlanta, Ga.—W. T. Murray, former manager of the Alamo No. 2 and part owner of the Criterion theater, will become manager of the Odeon theater, operated under the direction of Jake Wells. Mr. Murray is a motion picture man of wide experience, and is very popular in Atlanta.

Atlanta Screen Club Gives a Show.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Vaudette theater was open Sunday afternoon and evening for the benefit of the Atlanta Screen club. The picture attractions was Mrs. Vernon Castle, in the first installment of "Patria," and two exceptional comedy productions.

Women's Club Attends Children's Show.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Atlanta Woman's club attended the children's performance at the Grand theater Saturday morning, Jan. 20, when for the first time of "Alice in Wonderland," the child's classic, was shown.

This was the fifth of the children's series. More than 50,000 youngsters have attended the previous performances, which begin each Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

New Theater in Valdosta, Ga.

Valdosta, Ga.—A deal has been closed by Tyson Bros., owners of the Strand theater, with Mrs. A. Converse, for the erection of a handsome new theater in Valdosta which will have a seating capacity of 800. The house will be modern in its appointments, with a reception room for the ladies, the finest lighting system yet devised, and with a cooling and ventilating system to cost $2,500.

Film Man's Romantic Marriage.

West Point, Ga.—William Driggs Shaefer, one of West Point's most popular business men, and manager of the Vaudette theater in that city, was married in Atlanta, Tuesday, to Miss Jessie Loraine Totten, of Kentucky.

The marriage took place at the home of Rev. R. C. Clecker, pastor of the Inman Park Methodist church. The couple arrived in Atlanta Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, with the father of the young lady hot in pursuit. He arrived Tuesday evening several house too late. The elopement is the culmination of a romance begun last summer, while Mr. Shaefer was visiting in Kentucky.

Maritime News Letter

By Frederick Sully, 68 Lansdowne Ave., St. John, N. B.

New Theater at Sussex to Be a Beauty.

SUSSEX, N. B.—Rapid progress is being made on the new opera house now being built by "Doc" Daley to replace the one destroyed by fire in the fall of 1915. The former was a wooden structure, while the new house is built of fireproof brick with granite trimmings. It has an imposing front on the main street of the city, facing the railroad station, and will be one of the best houses of its kind in the smaller cities of the province. The roof will probably be on within a few weeks and the building ready by late spring.

"Nation" Film Goes Strong in Nova Scotia.

Halifax, N. S.—After being denied entrance to Nova Scotia for many moons,

"The Birth of a Nation" finally opened an engagement at the Academy of Music in lieu of the stock company which went to St. John for a fortnight. The first three days of its engagement showed a $4,000 business. The original scale of prices was maintained, and the picture has been booked by Fred G. Spencer for his Princess theater at Truo, N. S., the Empress at Amherst, N. S., and the Prince Edward at Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Earl Morgan's New Lockport Theater Winning.

Lockport, N. S.—Earl Morgan, who was for many years chief operator for Caly Walfield in the Orpheum theater, Bridgewater, N. S., has launched an enterprise of his own, leasing the Seaview theater in this town, and installing new equipment. The Seaview has not proved a very successful venture for some exhibitors in the past, but crowded houses and excellent business are resulting so far from Mr. Morgan's efforts.

Eager Patrons Damage Theater.

Halifax, N. S.—Although Don McRae, manager of the Imperial theater, played to enormous houses with his screening of the Chaplin Revue, it was not without considerable wear and tear on the building. The crowds surged around the main entrance with such force that two large plate glass windows were smashed and several lobby display stands were broken.

Miss Bustin Managing Picture House.

Windsor, N. S.—J. H. Bustin is taking a well-earned fortnight's vacation on account of ill health, and has gone to Boston and New York to visit friends and relatives. During his absence the theater is being managed by his sister, Miss Bustin, who has the distinction of being the only woman manager of a motion picture house in the province.

Forbids Flashlights or Matches

In Pittsburgh Fire Marshal Pharr Orders Theaters to Install Both Gas and Electric Lighting—Also Rules Against Using Flashlights or Striking Matches —Bans Small Babies in Crowded Houses.

From Pittsburgh News Service, 6016 Jenkins Arcade, Pittsburgh, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—An order was issued on January 25 by County Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr instructing the owners of moving picture theaters and other places of amusement to install both gas and electric lights in all houses which do not already have both. According to the announcement, the action was decided upon after a number of complaints had been received as to conditions while the electric current was temporarily shut off during performances. A ruling has also been made prohibiting the practice of lighting matches or using flashlights to see programs while the house is dark. The fire marshal states that drastic action will be taken against offenders in this respect, because of the disastrous consequences which may follow.

Use of Flashlight and Matches.

The order explains that the lighting of matches in theaters is considered hazardous on account of the danger of igniting woman's clothing and of causing panic. There is an old law prohibiting the striking of matches in public places and it is stated that the restriction will be made to apply also to the use of flashlights in the audience, as the reflection of such light in the darkness is likely to cause some hysterical person to raise an alarm. Such an amendment is within his jurisdiction, Marshal Pfarr says.

The new rulings have aroused considerable comment among the exhibitors, but their attitude is not entirely unfavorable. It is unlikely that a protest will be made against the regulation requiring both electric and gas lighting systems. The use of flashlights, however, is so common in theaters that their restriction is regarded as impracticable.

No Small Babies in Picture Theaters.

Local managers have also received notice that the law prohibiting persons from taking small babies to moving picture theaters will be more strictly enforced. The order states further that market baskets, baby carriages and other packages left standing in the aisles or corridors of theaters are dangerous in case of fire and the practice must be discontinued.

Morris Theater to Be Much Bigger.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Morris theater, Preble avenue, Northside, Pittsburgh, is being remodeled and enlarged to almost double its former capacity and converted into one of the most up-to-date houses in that section of the city. The owner M. Goldstein, has discontinued his clothing store.

Supreme Opens New York Offices.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Harry Grelle, general manager of the Supreme Photoplay Productions, 121 Fourth avenue, Pittsburgh, returned recently from New York City, where he established the extreme eastern office of the company which was formerly located at Newark, N. J. Mr. Grelle, states that excellent quarters were secured at Twenty-first street and Broadway, and that hereafter exhibitors of New Jersey and some points in Northeastern Pennsylvania will be cared for from New York office. Shortly after his return from the metropolis, Mr. Grelle left for a two-week's tour of the western office of the Supreme.

Ralph Meyers Weds Ruth Kennedy.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—A brilliant social event in Pittsburgh film circles was the recent marriage of Ralph Meyers, manager of the Strand theater, East Liberty, and booker for the Henry Poke chain of theaters, to Miss Ruth Kennedy, a socially well-known girl of this city. Following the ceremony, a banquet was given by Henry Poke, which was attended by all the employes of the Poke chain, the Shiloh, Mt. Washington; the Palace, Homestead, and the Strand, East Liberty, about twenty-five being present. Music was furnished by the Palace theater orchestra and the Steel City quartet, and a delightful evening was spent. Mr. and Mrs. Meyers will reside in Boggs avenue, Pittsburgh, after they return from the wedding trip.

Rowland & Clark Book Big Features.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Rowland & Clark theaters have booked a number of big feature subjects and are about to inaugurate a new policy of week-runs at the Liberty theater, Penn and Shady avenues, Pittsburgh, the large beautiful house acquired several months ago. The first notable attraction under this arrangement will be "The Witching Hour," produced by the Frohman corporation, for the week of February 12. Other features booked for a solid week at the Liberty are "Idle Wives" and "The Masque of Life."

Jerome Abrams Visits Local Bluebird.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Jerome Abrams, personal representative of General Manager M. H. Hoffman, of the Bluebird, has been visiting the Pittsburgh branch recently, accompanied by Mrs. Abrams. He is making a tour of the Bluebird exchanges.

Michigan Film Men Condemn Censorship

Detroit Exhibitors and Exchange Men Hold Meeting and Declare Purpose to Combat Proposed State Censorship.

By Jacob Smith, 503 Press Building, Detroit, Mich.

DETROIT, Mich.—One of the best local meetings of exhibitors and exchanges ever held, took place on Thursday last at the Hotel Cadillac. The prime object was to take up the question of censorship and decide on what kind of protest should be made to the bill now before the state legislature. The sentiment was unanimously against censorship in any form, and the members present stated they were ready to make a donation to make the proper fight.

Then the members took up the ultimatum from the local operators union that they would absolutely carry no film from exchanges to their respective theaters after February 26th, that it was not a part of the contract and they would not do it. Several new methods have been suggested for getting the film to the theaters, but the question involved is "who should pay the expense." Several independent trucking companies have offered to make the deliveries and put up a bond guaranteeing that all deliveries would be made on time, but no definite action was taken, a committee being appointed to take it up more thoroughly and make a report at the next regular meeting.

Birmingham Makes a Trial of Censorship

Measure Proposed by Women's Civic League Made Into a Law to Last Only Ninety Days—May Not Be Permanent.

By J. L. Ray, Stahlman Building, Nashville, Tennessee.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—At a recent meeting of the Birmingham City Commission a local censorship ordinance was presented for consideration by the Women's Civic League, and delegations composed of ministers from the Methodist and Baptist churches. After a lengthy discussion it was decided to place the ordinance into effect for ninety days as a trial proposition, and at the expiration of that time the commission will either have to re-enact the measure or expunge it from the books. One clause excluded historical, biblical, classical and exhibitions of like character, which proved to be a point in favor of the picture men. When it was shown to the commission that this clause allowed the broadest possible interpretation of the ordinance, no objection was registered.

In supporting the ordinance, Commissioner Hornady stated he wanted it distinctly understood that the commission had always backed up the commissioner of public safety in his efforts to afford the citizens of Birmingham clean pictures. He said that if any picture had been shown that was not clean it was not because there were not laws that would prohibit its exhibition. He said the city had always had a law broad enough to stop exhibitions of any kind instantly, and without explanation, and that it was not because the commission had not furnished the commissioner of public safety with the power to stop it.

Prior to voting on the proposed ordinance certain of the commissioners expressed themselves as not favoring a permanent ordinance, as they cannot see the logic of more laws when the present ones will adequately cover the situation.

Putting "Crisis" on in Louisville

Elaborate and Effective Presentation of War Time Picture at the Mary Anderson Theater—Decorations Throughout the House Were in Keeping and Ample Advertising Preceded the Opening.

Ohio Valley News Service. Inc., 1404 Starks Bldg., Louisville, Ky.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—A most successful presentation of William N. Selig's "The Crisis" was begun in Louisville, at the Mary Anderson theatre on Sunday, January 21, under the personal direction of Col. Fred Levy, who as president of the Big Features Rights Corporation, purchased rights to the big picture in seven states. Louisville people responded enthusiastically to their opportunity. With Col. Levy, to see inauguration of the picture in the South, was Harry Sherman, of Sherman-Elliot, Inc., purchaser of the world's rights to the picture.

The theater was elaborately and attractively decorated for the occasion. Throughout the lobby, foyer and the auditorium itself flags and bunting were used with an excellent eye to effectiveness, while entwined Stars and Stripes and Stars and Bars carried many of the people of the audience back to the days which the picture portrays. More than a few of the people in the house had themselves been at Vicksburg, while the younger generation spoke of fathers who had been through the stormy days picturized in "The Crisis."

Much was done to create the right atmosphere for the presentation. Besides the abundant use of flags and bunting, the lobby and the foyer were decorated with old prints of the Civil War period and portraits of Lincoln, while there were interesting old pieces of furniture, a clock of the period; a melodeon much in vogue at the time; a baby carriage in the form of a phaeton; old chairs, a spinning wheel, etc.

The atmosphere was further heightened by the presence of veterans of both armies. Guarding the door, beside the ticket taker, were two sentries in the uniforms of the Confederacy, bearing also such muskets as they carried in the war. Drummer boys in caps and uniforms showed the theatre-goers to their chairs and there were veterans in the uniform of the Federal army also in evidence. A statement of the purport of the picture and of the purpose of the company and the producer was made to the audience before the pictures were begun by a lecturer in the garb of a Union officer.

There is a full sized orchestra with the picture and a program especially selected for the pictures is given, an organ and a harp being added for the occasion. When the lights are lowered a bugle call is heard and the curtain rises to reveal the Goddess of Liberty beside a fountain, a veteran of the Union and a veteran of the Confederacy standing guard on either side. As the Goddess fades the sentries present their muskets to each other and then throw them crashing to the floor, after which they step forward and clasp hands. This completes the prologue and the picture begins.

Initial showing was preceded by an elaborate advertising campaign in Louisville, with pictures of Lincoln owned in Louisville reproduced in the local newspapers. School children of Louisville, New Albany and Jeffersonville were interested through the school teachers in preparations of essays on the life of Lincoln, the best essays entitling the contestants to special seats to see the picture. Reviews of the picture were given large amounts of space in the local papers and the house was filled regularly at every performance during the first week.

One of the features relating to presentation of the picture is that the admission price was held down to 50 and 25 cents, where for most of the big spectacles, a higher fee has been the rule. Lee L. Goldberg, manager of the Mary Anderson and general manager of the Big Features Rights Corporation, is coming in for his share of the congratulations.

Colonial Theater Now Dark.

Lexington, Ky.—The Colonial Amusement Co., of Lexington, Ky., operators of a chain of theatres in Central Kentucky, and which recently took over the control of the Strand theatre, of Lexington, seating 1,500 people, has closed the Colonial theatre on West Main street. It was stated when the Strand was taken over that the Colonial would probably be closed. The company will continue operating the Star theatre, on Upper street. The Colonial for several years was the largest and finest picture theatre in the city. Arrangements have been made for modeling the building, which will be turned back for trade purposes.

Eight Sunday Show Indictments.

Henderson, Ky.—The Grand Jury following a two week's session returned eight indictments against moving picture theatre owners for operating on Sunday. It was stated several weeks ago that a crowd of reformers had started such a movement, and that the moving picture men expected to see the thing through.

G. A. Bleich Leases Grand Theater.

Owensboro, Ky.—The theatrical career of the firm of Pedley & Burch, in theatrical and picture lines for twenty years, came to a close last week when the concern let the Grand theater, the last of its holdings, to George A. Bleich for a period of two years. This gives Mr. Bleich full control of the theatrical field in Owensboro, he now having the Queen, Empress and Grand. Pedley & Burch at one time operated the Hall Opera House, and later the Temple theater, building the Grand in 1905.

Local Theater Jottings.

Frankfort, Ky.—Miss Elanor Hume has sold the Columbia theater to H. W. Whitney, of Charleston, W. Va., who has taken over the active management. Mr. Whitney and his brother own and operate a moving picture theater in Charleston.

Louisville, Ky.—The Parklan theater has again been leased, and placed in operation. Harry Strohman, formely connected with the Switow interests, and the Cozy theater, is at the head of the theater.

Louisa, Ky.—A deal has been closed between D. J. Burchett, of Louisa, and H. M. Stafford, of Paintsville, Ky., whereby Mr. Burchett takes over the Stafford theater, of Paintsville. He also operates a theater at Louisa, and has had eleven years' experience in the business. Will Cain has been placed in charge of the Paintsville house.

Frankfort, Ky.—C. O. Lawelle, operator connected with the Capital theater, has resigned and will go to Hammond, La., where he takes an interest in a moving picture theater.

Winchester, Ky.—Sil Dinelli, of the Winchester, Ky. opera house, has spent considerable money in remodeling the building, installing new lighting fixtures, etc., and opened with pictures on January 18.

Chattanooga's Majestic Leased by Signal

Local Amusement Company Takes Over and Will Renovate Theater—Policy of Vaudeville and Pictures Will Be Continued.

By J. L. Ray, 1014 Stahlman Building, Nashville, Tenn.

CHATANOOGA, TENN.—At a meeting of the Tennessee Realty & Leasing company officials on January 15, the assets of the Majestic theater were transferred from that organization to the Signal Amusement company. This transfer carried with it a five-year lease on the property, and certain vaudeville contracts. The Signal Amusement company is a long-established syndicate covering a wide range in the theatrical field, and at present is operating the Alcazar, Alhambra, Fine Arts, Bonita and Superba motion picture theaters in this city. Wm. H. Lindsey, of Nashville, is president, and much Nashville and Chattanooga capital controls the company.

For the present the Majestic will continue to operate as a vaudeville and picture house. The Keith interests have been allied with this theater for some time, and will continue to book this line of vaudeville at the Majestic for the remainder of the current season. A number of important changes will be undergone in the re-arrangement of the house, including the installation of a new lobby and theater front, as well as enlarged seating facilities and stage alterations.

A grand opening will be held on February 5, at which time appropriate souvenirs will be presented. Frank H. Dowler, Jr., general manager for the Signal Amusement company, has been largely instrumental in increasing the holdings of the company from its original theater, the Alcazar, to its present extensive field, and the Majestic is assured of continued success under his capable management.

Lyric Theater at Rockwood Burns.

Rockwood, Tenn.—Fire originating in the operating booth of the Lyric theater on January 18 seriously damaged the building and destroyed film to the amount of approximately $1,000. The Lyric is a beautiful theater and was crowded at the time of the fire. However, no one was injured and the audience left the building quietly after being informed that the operating room was fireproof, and that there was no danger to the patrons. Repairs are well under way.

The Gay Advances Prices for Features.

Knoxville, Tenn.—The Gay theater has been following a policy of advancing admission prices to 25 cents when exceptional features are presented, and judging from the manner in which patronage is being maintained, it pays to occasionally adopt this plan. "God's Country and the Woman," Vitagraph feature, while shown at other points over the state at ten and fifteen cents, readily brought 25 cents in Knoxville, special music having been provided for the occasion.

Illinois News Letter

By Frank H. Madison, 623 South Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Censors Segregate Audiences.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—First action of the new local board of censors came in the form of a decision that no Springfield person under 21 years should see "The Unborn," at the Chatterton theater. The decision was taken because the Chicago board made the same restriction.

Two New Incorporations.

Springfield, Ill.—Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson has issued certificates of incorporation to the Phoenix Theater company; capital, $10,000. Incorporators, George A. Trude, Benjamin B. Kahane and Orville W. Lee. Armitage Theater company, Chicago; capital, $5,000. Incorporators, Eugene R. Cohn, H. C. Levinson and James J. Glassner.

Walter H. Stage Dies.

Belvidere, Ill.—Walter H. Stage, 66 years old, one of the pioneer exhibitors of Marengo, died suddenly in the Moose Club rooms here. Surviving are his wife and ten children.

George Parlow Drops Dead.

Springfield, Ill.—George Parlow, former manager of the Lyric Theater in this city, fell dead at Chicago. He was manager of the College Inn theater in that city.

Illinois Theater Changes.

Collinsville, Ill.—The Collinsville Opera House company has purchased the air-dome property opposite the opera house from W. B. Kneedler, and also his interest in the opera house show business. Hereafter Henry Burge, manager of the Orpheum theater, will be manager of the two shows in the Collinsville Opera House. Kneedler has been manager of the opera house show five years.

Savanna, Ill.—Fulrath's opera house was destroyed by fire.

Hudson, Ill.—Charles Stagner of Cropsey has opened a moving picture theater at the town hall.

Chenoa, Ill.—G. F. Jones has purchased the Rex theater.

Elmwood, Ill.—The Palace theater is giving shows only on Saturday nights.

Creal Springs, Ill.—Cosby & Griffin have been remodeling the Brim building, on Blue avenue, for a moving picture theater seating 280 persons.

Farmington, Ill.—Alexander Mason of Mason's orchestra will be manager of the moving picture show at the opera house, which has been leased by Abbott Brothers to A. A. Luckey, an attorney.

Chillicothe, Ill.—Vance & Candstrom have sold the Court theater to Leo Husch of Peoria.

Fairview, Ill.—C. A. Cook has sold his moving picture theater to Milton Polhemus and Edward Thomas.

Leland, Ill.—T. D. Peterson has sold his moving picture theater here to Sandwich parties.

Vandalia, Ill.—The Dixie theater, which for two months has been under the management of Bert Myers, has been closed because of lack of patronage.

Weldon, Ill.—Mrs. Maggie B. Castley has purchased the Weldon opera house from Wyatt Halcom.

Showmanship Snap Shots.

Watseka, Ill.—Manager Mearle Eastburn, of the Star theater, has installed a new $3,500 pipe organ. He has also advanced his prices to fifteen cents, the old admission of ten cents remaining in effect only on Tuesday and Friday.

Macomb, Ill.—The Illinois State Normal school here has purchased a moving picture machine and will use educational films only.

Farmington, Ill.—The Strand theater showed "The Strength of the Weak" for the benefit of the Women's Relief Corps.

Waukegan, Ill.—Major Spoor, camera man for the Essanay company, entertained the members of the Kappa Alpha Fl at a box party at the Academy theater here when "The Truant Soul" was shown.

Springfield, Ill.—The Amuse-U theater gave a one-cent show for children.

Michigan Jottings.

Traverse City, Mich.—The automatic fire doors in the operating room at the Palace theater worked perfectly when a film was ignited. The loss was about $500.

Iron River, Mich.—John Anegon has purchased the Empire theater here.

Tecumseh, Mich.—An 18-foot addition has been made to the Royal theater, increasing the seating capacity to 300.

Houghton, Mich.—The Houghton Civic club is contemplating asking for a local board of censorship.

Pontiac, Ill.—Films for special Saturday afternoon shows at the Crescent theater will be selected by the civic department of the Woman's club. Mrs. Hattie Baldwin will tell the story of each film.

Circular Warning Sent by Ohio Censors

Following Arrest of Exchange Managers for Failure to Comply With Censor Orders, C. G. Williams Warns All Distributors.

By M. A. Malaney, 218 Columbia Building, Cleveland, O.

COLUMBUS, O.—Following the arrest of exchange managers, charged with not making censors' cut-outs as ordered, Chairman C. G. Williams of the Ohio Board of Censors, sent a copy of the Ohio law to every exchange and state rights buyer in Ohio and warned them to observe it.

The letter accompanying the law said in part:

"We want to impress it upon you that the censorship law must be carefully complied with. We are seeking to render the best service that we can and your co-operation with us will materially help us in this work.

"This letter is not written for the purpose of accusing your company of any wrongdoing, but our experience leads us to believe that many eliminations are not made and other errors made because of the carelessness of assistants in the offices of the exchanges rather than because of any wilful intent on the part of the manager."

Cleveland's Olympic Theater Sold.

Cleveland, O.—The Central Amusement company of Toledo has bought the Olympic theater, Cleveland, a house seating over 2,000. The price paid was $48,000. It is being managed by H. E. Horwitz, who owns the New Palace theater, Cleveland.

Cleveland Man Operating Los Angeles Theater.

Cleveland, O.—B. C. Steel, formerly a Cleveland exhibitor, is now managing the Symphony theater, Los Angeles, according to newspaper clippings received by his friends here.

Cleveland, O.—Although police were at the Gordon Square theater when "Purity" started its second run in Cleveland, nothing was done towards stopping it, as the owers of the film have a certificate of censorship issued by the State of Ohio.

Covington, Ky., Accepts Ohio Censorship

Rulings of the Ohio State Board and National Board of Review Will Govern Film Showings in the City Near Cincinnati.

By Kenneth C. Crain, 307 First Nat. Bank Bldg., Cincinnati, O.

CINCINNATI, O.—Acceptance of the rulings of the Ohio Board of Censors and of the National Board of Review was the outcome of the meeting recently held in Covington, Ky., by city authorities, church people and moving picture exhibitors. The meeting grew out of a demand for local censorship in Covington, which was objected to by the exhibitors and film men as impractical.

George Strotman, president of the Moving Picture Exhibitors' League of Covington, presented the views of the exhibitors, declaring that as all pictures shown in Covington are distributed by Cincinnati exchanges, and are therefore passed upon by the Ohio board, the addition of a local censorship is entirely unnecessary. Pointing out further that the police have full authority to stop indecent pictures, he suggested that no further censorship could be needed. It was finally agreed that pictures passed by the National Board and the Ohio censors may be shown without further inspection, unless there is objection by some citizen, when the authority of the police may be invoked.

Facts Film Co. Locates in Covington.

Cincinnati, O.—The producing offices of the Facts Film Co., organized some time ago by Callahan & Merkel to handle animated cartoons based on the writings of Luke McLuke, have been chosen at Pike and Madison avenues, in Covington, Ky., in the Cohen building here.

McMahan & Jackson Get "Twentieth Century Courtship."

Cincinnati, O.—McMahan & Jackson have added another to their rapidly growing list of first class attractions for Ohio booking in the shape of "The Twentieth Century Courtship," a picture made by the Post Film Co., of New York. The Cincinnati firm has arranged for the first showing of the picture at Keith's theater on Sunday, January 28. An interesting point of local contact in the picture is the fact that it was photographed by J. E. Travis, cameraman for "Darkest Cincinnati," an anti-tuberculosis picture produced by McMahan & Jackson some time ago.

Cincinnati M. P. Gets Ira T. Hoffman.

Cincinnati, O.—The growing success and prosperity of the Cincinnati Motion Picture Co. is indicated by the announcement made by the company recently, to the effect that it has acquired the services of one of the real high-ups in the technical end of the business. This is Ira T. Hoffman, who has been laboratory superintendent with one of the big producers at Hollywood, Cal., and who has come to Cincinnati to take charge of similar work with the company named.

C. H. Holah Goes Back to Pathe.

Cincinnati, O.—The recently announced consolidation of the Pathe and International interests, which created a sensation in the film world, had its principal effect in Cincinnati in bringing back to the Pathe colors one of the ablest exchange men in this territory, in the person of C. E. Holah. The consolidation, by a coincidence, brings Mr. Holah back to Pathe, in a sense. He has been working hard on the booking of the new serial, "Patria," featuring Mrs. Vernon Castle, and returned to Cincinnati a few days ago enthusiastic over results. The report is that Mr. Holah is to be placed in charge of one of the company's Western offices.

Thanhouser "King Lear" Pleases Cincinnati.

Dayton, O.—The management of the Ideal theater made a wise move when it booked the Thanhouser film version of "King Lear," featuring Frederick Ward, for two days, January 16 and 17. Mr. Ward is one of the few living actors who have played "King Lear," and his film portrayal of the role seems to have drawing qualities in no wise second to his work on the stage. The attraction proved highly successful at the Ideal, justifying the belief of the management in their patrons' desire for first-class films.

New Youngstown Theater to Be the Liberty.

Youngstown, O.—The Liberty is the name which has been chosen for the new moving picture theater which is to be erected by the Federal Holding Co., at Hazel and Federal streets, under the subsequent management of C. W. Deibel. A prize of $25 was given to W. H. Bradley for suggesting the name selected out of the five thousand or more submitted. Ten persons suggested the same name, but the prize was awarded to the first. Work looking toward the construction of the house is progressing rapidly.

Nat Goodwin Film Company Files Papers

Capital Stock Is $350,000—Milwaukee Men Are Among the Incorporators—Home Office Is In the Wella Building in Milwaukee.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 South Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Corporation papers of the Nat Goodwin Film Company, of this city, which were filed January 12 at Madison, show that capital stock will be $350,000. It is announced that $100,000 has been taken by Milwaukee residents. The incorporators are Henry Winkler, former clerk of the circuit court; Levi Pollard, connected with the Pollard-Saxe mines in southwest Wisconsin; Frank Saxe, who for several years has been a prominent figure in the amusement field in this city, and Nat Goodwin, the actor.

Henry Winkler will be secretary of the company and in charge of the home office at 1109-1110 Wells building, in this city. Levi Pollard, who is to be president, will have headquarters in Chicago, but will have charge of the Chicago and New York offices.

Nat Goodwin will play a prominent part in the productions. Besides taking the lead in many he will do a great deal of directing and his 950-acre ranch at San Juanita, Cal., has been selected as the site for the studio. The first picture has already been decided upon and its production is under way. Some of the pictures will be made in Wisconsin, it is announced.

Exhibitors Aid Social Center Films.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The Milwaukee Motion Picture Exhibitors' association and the Milwaukee Credit association have dispelled the idea that their opposition to moving pictures at social centers is based on a narrow financial view. They have shown their real attitude by a decision made at a joint meeting of the organizations to co-operate in every way with the superintendent of recreation of the public schools.

This co-operation will take the form of giving advice as to how to obtain the most suitable pictures at the least possible expense. For this purpose a committee consisting of J. R. Thompson, Horace Conway, S. G. Honeck, E. Langmack, J. H. Sillman and A. Langheinrich, Sr., was appointed. The misunderstanding of the film men's attitude arose from that complaint was made to the building inspector that films were being projected in school buildings which do not adhere strictly to the fire prevention ordinances of the city.

Woman's Council to Watch Pictures.

Superior, Wis.—"Inspectorship" rather than censorship is the plan of the Woman's council which has interested itself in the moving picture question. This organization has decided to form a committee on amusements. The duty of each member will be to visit a photoplay house and report her finding to the council. By this plan every show will be visited at its initial production in Superior. The effect aimed at is that mothers will be capable of deciding whether a film is appropriate for their children.

Gem Theater's Broad Policy.

Mondowi, Wis.—A. T. Smith, manager of the new Gem theater, in the Luetscher building, purposes to make his house a vital factor of the community life. His aims are stated in a convincing announcement that he will give special attention to churches, societies, lodges, clubs, birthday parties for grown-ups and children, and sleighing parties from rural districts and surrounding towns. Educational programs once a week are planned. Children will be admitted free to these if they are accompanied by their parents. Not only will the pupils from the local schools be favored, but those from the rural districts will have their turn.

New I. A. T. S. E. Local at Sheboygan.

Sheboygan Falls, Wis.—Local Union No. 476 of the International Alliance Theatrical Stage Employees and Motion Picture Machine Operators of the United States and Canada has been formed here. The following officers were elected:

Herbert Friedrich, president; Arthur Brenchel, vice president; Otis Gierke, recording secretary; Al Schieble, secretary and treasurer; Tom Kernan, business agent; Al Bindler, sergeant-at-arms. Executive Board—F. Kraemer, W. Baartz and W. Madison. Delegates to Labor Central Body—Tom Kernan, Julian Silverthorne and W. Knocke.

Wisconsin Theater Notes.

Sheboygan, Wis.—The Idle Hour theater has been incorporated with $10,000 capital stock. The incorporators are Otto Koch, Mrs. Lauretta Koch and Frank Froehlich, who have previously controlled it under a partnership agreement.

Stevens Point, Wis.—The Della theater has been closed because of lack of business.

Endeavor, Wis.—T. H. Dailey of Plainfield has sold his interest in the Endeavor theater to Sam Campbell, who now has exclusive control.

Prairie Du Chien, Wis.—August Panka has assumed control of the Metropolitan theater, operated for several years by V. M. Smrcina. The new owner will operate shows only three times a week.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The Pearl theater has been opened at Pearl and Mitchell streets and Fourteenth avenue by Manager Waschicheck.

Beloit, Wis.—Manager Matson of the Majestic theater has inaugurated a new policy. Stock has been succeeded by a strict moving picture feature policy. A five-piece orchestra will be used.

Boscobel, Wis.—The firm of Orton & Williams, which has been managing Hurd's Opera House, has been dissolved. Williams has taken over his partner's interest.

Port Washington, Wis.—J. Roob & Son have purchased the Nouveau theater from J. Ziller and B. E. Siebert. They have changed the name to the Grand and will operate under the name of the Grand Theater company, with William Roob as manager. When the house was reopened all persons over 15 were admitted free. It was impossible to entertain all, so it was planned to have the children as guests later.

Milwaukee, Wis.—"The Spoilers" played another return engagement in the city, running at the Orpheum for a week.

Milwaukee, Wis.—"Intolerance" was booked at the Davidson theater for the week of January 21.

Milwaukee, Wis.—"War Brides" was so popular at the Strand theater that Manager Phil O. Gross played a return engagement.

Thomas Daily Weds.

Plainfield, Wis.—Thomas Dailey, a local exhibitor, and Miss Elizabeth Battee were married here.

St. Louis News Letter

By A. H. Giebler, 4123 Westminster place, St. Louis, Mo.

H. R. Slocum With McClures.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—H. R. Slocum, who has been appointed representative for the McClure productions, has established offices on the second floor of the Plaza building. Mr. Slocum is one of the old-timers in the film business in St. Louis, and was identified with the very first exchange that was established in the city. Mr. Slocum says he is very busy marketing the "Seven Deadly Sins" series just now, and that he expects to do big things with all of the McClure productions.

Selznick Office Opened in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo.—I. P. Rosenberg, representing the Midwest Photoplay corporation, of Kansas City, who control territorial rights for Missouri, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska for the Selznick productions, has opened an office on the second floor of the Plaza building, at 3320 Lindell boulevard. Mr. Rosenberg is well known to the picture trade throughout the country, as he was formerly connected with the George Kleine exchanges as manager before that organization merged into the K-E-S-E.

Leo Levy With V-L-S-E.

St. Louis, Mo.—Leo Levy has been appointed traveling representative for the V-L-S-E exchange under the management of A. N. Webster, at 3630 Olive street. Mr. Levy has been selling film in the St. Louis territory for a number of years and has a large clientele of friends and customers among the exhibitors.

"A Daughter of the Gods" Opens in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo.—William Fox's "A Daughter of the Gods" opened at the Shubert-Garrick theater at the Sunday matinee, January 21, to a packed house. The lobby of the theater was jammed until after the last seat was sold, and many were turned away. The film is being put on in lavish style, with a thirty-piece orchestra and appropriate effects. Prices ranging from 25c. to $1 are charged.

"The Crisis" in Fifth Week.

St. Louis, Mo.—"The Crisis" is now in its fifth week at the New Grand Central theater, and the film played to packed houses all through the engagement, which is the longest run, outside of "The Birth of a Nation," of any film engagement in the city. Manager William Sievers, of the New Grand Central, says he will bring "The Crisis" back for a return engagement later in the season.

C. F. Hennessy With Bluebird.

St. Louis, Mo.—C. F. Hennessy has been employed as traveling salesman for Bluebird, and will travel in and out of the Bluebird exchange, at 2116 Locust street. Mr. Hennessy is well known to the film trade in the St. Louis territory.

WILL REMODEL GALE THEATER.

Manager A. J. Dix Has Signed 10-Year Lease on Building and Will Make Important Changes.

Mitchell, S. D.—Transformation of the Gale into one of the finest moving picture theaters in the state will be made within the next few months by Manager A. J. Dix, who has recently signed a 10-year lease on the building. The changes will give the playhouse a seating capacity of 650, an attractive stage and the latest features.

The building will be first extended to the alley. The floor will then be lowered to the street level and slanted to make every seat a desirable one.

The stage will be attractively designed and opera chairs will be installed on the floor. A modern heating and ventilating system will be added.

The exterior will be done in mahogany and white. A box office of plate glass is planned and a beautiful marquis with hundreds of electric lights, such as is frequent in the larger cities, will be built in front.

Mr. and Mrs. Dix will leave shortly for Minneapolis and Chicago to inspect theaters and get ideas as to the best improvements. These will be incorporated into the plans of the new Gale and the equipment purchased. It is expected that the alterations will be finished by May 1.

"Daughter of Gods" Opens Well.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"A Daughter of the Gods" began an indefinite run at Elliott & Sherman's Lyric theater here Sunday, January 21, at a dollar top. Manager F. A. McInerney secured a special orchestra to furnish the music for the big Fox film and despite a record snowfall and blizzard a good-sized crowd witnessed the initial showings of the feature. "The Crisis" show, which closed a four weeks' run at the Lyric January 20, is now in Iowa, but will return to the Twin Cities February 4 for a week's run at the Strand, St. Paul.

Filming the Mid-Winter Carnival.

St. Paul, Minn.—Twenty thousand marchers in carnival costume paraded for the benefit of moving picture camera men here on different occasions during the week of January 14. Representatives of the Selig Tribune and International-Pathe weeklies are here filming scenes of the preparations for America's largest mid-winter sports carnival to be held here the week of January 28, simultaneously with the national ski tournament. A special carnival three-reel feature is being made and will be distributed throughout the Northwest following the sports fete.

Three Clara Kimball Young Films at Once.

St. Paul, Minn.—Moving picture fans of this city are seeing considerable of Clara Kimball Young's work these days. Miss Young's Vitagraph feature "My Official Wife," played at the Majestic, January 18, 19 and 20, her World film "Without a Soul," opened a four day run at Starland, January 21, and "The Common Law" begins a week's run at The Strand, January 28.

"Masque of Life" Goes to Westcott.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The Westcott Film Corp. has secured territorial rights on the feature "The Masque of Life" according to an announcement by Manager E. A. Westcott. The film will be released immediately.

American Maid Co. Buys "Witching Hour" Rights.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The American Maid Film Co., Loeb Arcade, here has procured the right to distribute "The Witching Hour" in several Northwest states. E. C. Davis, manager of the American Maid Co. states that he will release the film immediately.

Business Notes.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Dr. P. H. Tallman, Long Prairie, Minn. has purchased an interest in the Gateway theater here and has assumed the management.

St. Cloud, Minn.—The Nemec theatre Co. here has been incorporated, Frank E. Nemec, president; John A. Henry, vice-president; and E. N. Nemec, secretary-treasurer.

Hurley, Wis.—Otto Lowry, Duluth, Minn. has purchased Carl J. Becker's interest in the Garrick theatre here.

Portal, N. D.—Harry Woodruc's new $6.000 theatre here will be opened to the public shortly.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Among the visitors to local exchanges the week of Jan. 14 were: Manager Schwahn, Eau Claire theater, Eau Claire, Wis.; J. B. Lerner, Strand, Eveleth, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Cone, Grand, Wausau, Wis.; H. S. Tammen, Yankton, S. D.; H. L. Walker and A. W. Walker, Orpheum, Aberdeen, S. D.; O. W. Root, Utopian, Brownsdale, Minn.

Twin City Exchange Changes

There Is Always a Manager Though Many Changes Occur—H. E. Friedman Leaves Pathe—Julius Bernheim Becomes Bluebird Manager—F. R. Sherrick Heads Local McClure Exchange—Other Recent Changes.

By John L. Johnston, 604 Film Exchange Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—"Exchange managers come, exchange managers go, but business goes on forever." The week of January 14 broke all local records—for new exchange managers. Three new executives took the reins during the past seven days and exhibitors will add to their future letters the usual interogative sentence: "What's become of So-and-So?" There have been so many changes in exchange managers in Minneapolis the last few weeks that an exhibitor who had not been here since last spring, coming for a visit now, would feel like an immigrant.

Henry E. Friedman, for the past six months manager of the Pathe exchange, Produce Exchange building, resigned last week and left immediately for New York, missing a two-foot snowfall and blizzard by two days. J. E. Schwartzbein, who became Mr. Friedman's assistant when the latter came here, is now acting manager of the Pathe office and in all probability will remain in that capacity permanently. Mr. Friedman gave no reason for his leaving and his loss will be keenly felt. In the short time he was in the territory he made many friends and was a leader in most of the movements of the exhibitors and exchangemen alike.

Julius Bernheim has succeeded Harry Muir as manager of the Bluebird exchange in the Universal-Laemmle building on Hennepin avenue. Mr. Bernheim, who has been Mr. Laemmle's special Northwestern representative for about a year, is well known in the territory. Mr. Muir has not announced his future plans.

C. B. Price, Western division manager for the McClure enterprises, appointed F. G. Sherrick, former Mutual roadman, manager of the McClure exchange here, while in the city last week. Mr. Sherrick, a young man who has made a good many friends in the Northwest, has begun an energetic campaign to get first and second runs of the "Seven Deadly Sins" series in the Twin Cities, and following the signing of these contracts he will go after out-of-town business. Mr. Sherrick's office occupies space in the Triangle exchange, which will handle McClure shipments.

Twin City Legal Notes.

St. Paul, Minn.—The city council passed an ordinance recently which forbids exhibitors the privilege of placing lobby display frames or other advertising matter on the sidewalks. A rule to the same effect was adopted in Minneapolis early last spring. Mayor Irvin of St. Paul told club members who brought the matter to his attention on January 19, that he would have the city's police women view supposed "objectionable" film features and give him their opinions. The fact that St. Paul theaters have run a dozen so-called anti-vice films within the last six weeks gave club women opportunity to urge censorship.

What Exchange Men Are Doing.

Manager W. K. Howard of the Vitagraph exchange has booked Vitagraph feature in four of the seven Ruben & Finkelstein theaters in the Twin Cities.

Assistant Manager Hixon of the Metro exchange has begun a tour of the Dakotas, telling exhibitors about "The Great Secret," Bushman and Bayne serial.

Manager Otto N. Davies has returned from the monthly meeting of Metro directors.

Manager Harry Graham of the K-E-S-E exchange has called in his road men for a conference. Mr. Graham expects to book "The Truant Soul," featuring Henry Walthall, in one of Minneapolis' leading theaters that has never run a K-E-S-E feature before, shortly.

According to reports received by Manager Manie Gottlieb of the Favorite Feature Film Corp., "The Libertine" drew good houses in Des Moines. This feature has been booked in the Minneapolis Strand for the week of Feb. 4.

A Lively Pair for Any Exchange.

Minneapolis, Minn.—In the moving picture field "rapid rises" are numerous. Minneapolis has risen from a small distributing center to one of the world's largest in two years, incidentally several exchange managers have grown bigger mentally and financially in a very short time. Prominent among the younger exchangemen of the city who have reached the heights of popularity and success within the last year are Harry A. Rathner and Myron H. Conhaim, 29 and 27 years of age respectively. These two men are president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Supreme Feature Film Co., Inc., the Unity Features Corp., and L. J. Selznick productions exchanges of the northwest.

Harry A. Rothner.

The Supreme exchange controls "Civilization" for six states, "Where Are My Children?" for five, and several other features; the Unity controls territorial rights on "Tweedledum" comedies, "The Lottery Man," "Marriage Bond" and other Unity features.

Myron H. Conhaim.

W. S. Baldwin is in charge of "Civilization's" five road shows and Lee A. Horn is managing the Selznick exchange for Rathner and Conhaim. J. S. Woodhouse is publicity manager for the three exchanges.

The Rathner and Conhaim business has increased so rapidly within the last six months that their offices have been increased from two rooms to an entire floor of the Northwest's largest film building and their assistants have increased in number from five to seventy-five.

Frank Thayer Away on Honeymoon.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Frank Thayer, manager of the Calhoun theatre here was was quietly married Jan. 16—in fact so quietly that none have been able to ascertain who Mr Thayer's bride is. The Thayers are now enjoying a honeymoon trip through the chilly Northwest.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"Blind Justice" at the New Garrick and Mary Pickford in "The Pride of the Clan" next door at the Strand vied for honors the week of Jan. 21 at fifteen cents admission.

New Theaters in Gulf States

Patrons in the New Orleans Exchange Territory Are Refusing to Attend Any But Pleasant Moving Picture Houses—Many New and Up-to-Date Theaters Are Being Built—Some Recent Examples.

By W. E. Thatcher, 3801 Canal Street, New Orleans, La.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—All over the New Orleans film exchange territory new houses are being projected or are under construction and, naturally a good many of the floorless, cheerless dumps that have insulted the name of theater, must give way. This movement is in response to the demand of the people and not because of any overpowering enterprise on the part of the managers. The people of the South are somewhat provincial. The personal touch is the magnet that attracts them. They are absolutely indifferent to the opinions of New York or any other locality. They form their opinions through observation and the reading of their local newspapers, and their opinions are not easily changed. Hence, when a community makes up its mind that a new motion picture theater is necessary, the building is not long in materializing. The question of money is always secondary. It is a habit of the southerner to pay more and get less than any other person on earth. And he enjoys the distinction. He will aid an enterprise that is likely to add to his pleasure and therefore it has been easy to finance new theaters.

At Placquamine, Lionel DeCroix, a young business man, is at the head of a company which is preparing to build a $40,000 theater of the latest style. At Natchitoches, Messrs. Levy & Suddath have had the new theater under operation for only a few weeks, but in that time they have demonstrated the soundness of their judgment in making an amusement investment to meet the demands of the people. Mr. Levy is one of the leading druggists of the town and Manager Suddath has made a study of the demands of the citizens to insure the success of his enterprise. The house seats 1,000 persons and it is a paying venture.

At Winfield, La., H. W. Linderman at the head of the Victoria theater has demonstrated that an enterprise owned by local persons can be made a financial success. The Victoria has just been finished and is doing a fine and increasing business.

At Canton, Miss., Messrs. Capiro & Levy have the contracts let for a new theater which will accommodate either road or picture shows. It is to be of the best construction and will meet the present requirements of the community.

Rayville, in the northern part of Louisiana, has long been downcast over its inadequate amusement facilities and at last a local stock company has been formed and a new theater is to be constructed at once. One of the wealthiest cotton factors in North Louisiana is at the head of the enterprise.

Over at Opoulousas patrons have had the choice of two theaters. Neither of them was all that might have been expected of a modern house. At last, headed by Dr. Shaw, a company of citizens bought out the opposition and proceeded to build a new and modern motion picture theater. They take a personal interest and pride in each feature that is shown and woe betide the exchange manager who attempts to run in a "cheese" on them. They watch the New Orleans reports on new pictures and govern themselves accordingly. All over the South the same spirit of progress is encountered and the picture business looks bright if the men who are directing it do not themselves muss it up.

Troublesome Changes in New Orleans

Some of the Local Exhibitors Annoyed by Chaotic Booking Conditions Due to Opening of the Strand and Realinem ents.

New Orleans, La.—The film program situation in the leading theaters was never in such a chaotic condition as it is at present. The early opening of the new Strand theater, which admittedly is to be a little the best in the way of a photoplay theater so far finished in the South, has caused a realignment of the entire film service in the first run field. Naturally all of the producers were anxious to book films in the new Strand, but of course the usual jockeying for advantage was inevitable. With this situation came the unrest as regards the Triangle service, which further complicated matters. The Triangle service has occupied an enviable position in this field. It was with this service that Manager Ernst Boehringer made such a phenomenal success in building up the Triangle theater until it was recognized as the leading theater of the city. Irregularity in the Keystone comedy service caused unrest and some dissatisfaction arose over the quality of recent Triangle releases.

On January 15 Manager Boehringer went to New York to endeavor personally to straighten out the complication. Meanwhile he had relinquished his contract for the Mary Pickford Artcraft pictures and they were taken over by Herman Fichtenberg, who will run them in his new Globe theater, where the latest release of the Selznick-Pictures, "The Foolish Virgin," featuring Clara Kimball Young, failed to score a photodramatic triumph. Mr. Fichtenberg also took on the Fox special pictures, the Fox service having been relinquished by the Empire theater where they had succeeded in maintaining a week run each, a thing heretofore regarded as an impossibility on Canal street. A new force that has come into the reckoning is the K-E-S-E feature releases which are being pushed with strong advertising at the Portola theater and are winning popular favor. The Pearce interests appear to be the only ones that are sitting steady in the boat and the Pearce houses are going along with dependable business, featuring World, Paramount and Metro pictures as standards.

"The Garden of Knowledge" Makes a Hit.

New Orleans, La.—"The Garden of Knowledge," a special feature, said to be a moral lesson on the subject of eugenics, has broken all exhibition records on Canal street. Up to January 15 it had run continuously at the Columbia theater for 20 days and appeared to be losing none of its pulling power. The record heretofore has been held by "Damaged Goods," which was shown at the same house by Manager Boehringer. Mr. Boehringer has purchased the state rights to "The Garden of Knowledge" for nine states and Manager Blankenship of the Columbia will take one of the two prints purchased in the deal on tour.

Getting "Great Secret" Well Started.

New Orleans, La.—One of the most remarkable successes that has attended the launching of a motion picture serial was that which has been won by Manager Karl Higbee in his handling of the Metro production, "The Great Secret."

L. H. Bernard Succeeds With Theola.

New Orleans, La.—An example of marked success in the management of a theater is furnished in the story of the Theola photoplay theater under the direction of L. H. Bernard, the young man who assumed control of the house after it passed into the hand of Theodore Lala as owner and had been thoroughly rehabilitated and practically rebuilt. The Theola is situated in the "downtown" district and was formerly known as the Elysium. It is situated in a populous neighborhood and its form clientele had a fashion of occasionally manifesting displeasure at real or fancied shortcomings in the management in a manner that was more forceful than convincing. Nevertheless the residents of the district are heartily in favor of a good show house and they have attested this fact by bestowing a fine and increasing patronage on the Theola since it has changed hands. The chief endeavor has been to establish in that neighborhood a theater of which the people as well as the owners should feel proud and this has been done beyond the slightest suspicion of a doubt.

L. H. Bernard.

IN IOWA.

Theater Notes From All Over Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia.—F. Greenbaum, of this city, one of the owners of the Garden theater, the Strand in Omaha and the Garden, Family and Casino in Davenport, returned from Chicago the other day where he had been on business.

Cambridge, Ia.—Paul Turgeon of the Play House theater in Cambridge, has just returned home from an extensive visit in Kansas City and other southern points. He was gone about ten days.

Jewel, Ia.—George Peterson has opened his new Isis theater in Jewel and one of the finest little theaters in the state. It seats 320 people, is equipped with stage and orchestra pit, and is modern and up-to-date in every way. The front is of stucco and is said to be of a most unique design.

Muscatine, Ia.—Ludy Bosten, manager of the Amuzu theater in Muscatine, says that he paid out $7 for advertising the other day and received more benefit from it than from any other amount he ever paid out before. Mr. Bosten had 8,000 coupons advertising the serial "The Lass of the Lumberlands" printed at a cost of the above mentioned $7. Then he made a personal call on the leading baker in the city who every day sends out 4,000 loaves of bread, wrapped at the bakery. In return for screen advertisement this baker enclosed the coupons in his bread on Friday and Saturday of last week and Mr. Boston is still receiving favorable comments on his scheme.

Des Moines, Ia.—Frank Lamoile, formerly the manager of the Colonial theater in this city, and now with a vaudeville show on the road, will soon be in the city, he writes, to call upon his old friends. Mrs. Lamoile played the organ at the Unique theater here for several years.

Brooklyn, Ia.—Frank Green, of Brooklyn, is negotiating with the owners of the Alamo theater with a view of buying the suburban house.

Manly, Ia.—A. R. Clemmer, who formerly operated the Rex theater in Manly, and one of the theaters in Dubuque, and who is now attending Drake University, has purchased the Rex theater on Twentieth and Clark streets. Mr. Clemmer is a businesslike young fellow. He is a member of a popular fraternity.

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—The manager of the Majestic theater in Cedar Rapids is boosting his serial "Patria" to the limit.

Dallas Center, Ia.—Charles Zuck has purchased the Lyric theater in Dallas Center from Hall Loess.

Minburn, Ia.—C. B. Basart has bought the Opera House in Minburn from J. D. Marriott.

Grundy Center, Ia.—O. B. Eells sold the Gem theater in Grundy Center to C. H. Johnston.

Iowa City, Ia.—A. Dunkle succeeds J. H. Harrison at the Past Time theater in Iowa City.

Ruthven, Ia.—O. D. Benjamin has purchased the Electric theater from Mr. Miller of Ruthven.

Webster City, Ia.—The Isis theater recently underwent a thorough remodeling. A. C. Schuneman is the owner.

Clear Lake, Ia.—C. Carrigher purchased the Electric theater in Clear Lake from D. C. Bramson.

Everly, Ia.—F. M. Wood sold the Forest theater in Everly to Chas. Blair.

Fonda, Ia.—Van Hooser and Layman have purchased the Amuzu theater in Fonda from Smith Bros.

Burlington, Ia.—Julius Seigel opened the Elite theater on 19th of January with Mutual star productions. The Elite has been closed for some six months.

Perry, Ia.—Crosby and Marcles, two Perry men, are negotiating for the sale of the Rex theater in that city.

Fort Dodge, Ia.—Mr. Awe of Julius and Awe, the owners of the big Strand theater in Fort Dodge, was in Rochester last week, his wife being under the famous physicians' care there.

Kansas May Lower Censor Fees

State Legislature Expected to Leave Censorship Law Very Much As It Is—Removal of Censor Headquarters to Kansas City Is Expected and a Reduction in Fees for Viewing Hoped for.

By Kansas City News Service, 205 Corn Belt Building, Kansas City, Mo.

TOPEKA, Kan.—The present prospect is that the state legislature of Kansas will not entirely do away with the censorship law—nor make it any more onerous. It may, in fact, reduce some of the hardships. One feature of a bill now before the legislature is the moving of the censors' headquarters to Kansas City, Kan., where they will be more convenient to the exchanges, and where the expense of presenting pictures for censorship will be reduced. There is also prospect of a lowering of the censorship fees in addition to the elimination of part of the cost of getting the films to the censors. It is said to be likely that a new board will be appointed, that probably would not be quite so inclined to cause discussions over pictures.

Town of 3,000 Has An Exchange.

Oswego, Kan.—What is believed to be the smallest town in the United States to boast of an exchange is Oswego, Kan. With a population of but three thousand, this town is quite proud of a firm known as the S. & A. Film Company. C. H. Becker, who has been connected with various film exchanges in Kansas City, is manager and owner of this little company. Kansas rights have been obtained on various pictures, most of which were formerly handled by the Monarch Feature Film Company, of Kansas City. A mailing list of all Kansas has been obtained and Mr. Becker is sending out heralds and advertising matter on all pictures. A small inspection and shipping department is maintained.

All Day Show in Village.

Butler, Missouri.—This village has a population of but 2894 people, but J. M. Rosier, who owns the moving picture show here, is running an all-day show. On every week day he begins at 1 o'clock and runs straight through until 11 at night. Short reels, Universal and General pictures, comprise the program. Very few features are used, but the people always come around. There is another house in Butler; it plays features, and good, big features, but it does not run all day. Mr. Rosier has no competition.

Manager Hicks' Three Reel Feature.

Kansas City, Mo.—J. W. Hicks, manager of the General Films at Kansas City, has called in J. W. Tillory, traveling salesman for Missouri, and George H. Ware, traveling stalesman for the State of Kansas, to hold a conference relative to the special release of the Broadway Film Company's "The Valley of Lost Hope." This picture was originally a five-reel feature, but has been cut down to a three-reeler. Mr. Hicks says he hopes this picture to prove a pet theory of his—that a feature doesn't have to be a multiple reel affair. A large number of bookings have already been secured.

Theater Notes from Here and There.

Wichita, Kan.—C. W. McCallister, of Wichita, Kan., owner of the Star theater, is going to open a theater seating two thousand. Vaudeville and pictures will be run.

Springfield, Mo.—Jack Truitt, of the firm of Truitt & Corbett, owning shows at Moberly and Sedalia, has recently taken the Jefferson theater at Springfield. They are running vaudeville and pictures.

Seldon, Kan.—R. W. Seldon of Seldon, Kan., will open a fairly large theater at Seldon about the first of February.

Chanute, Kan.—Tom Summers of Chanute, Kan., is installing a modern theater at Chanute for photoplays only.

Sedalia, Mo.—W. M. Johnson, a rather successful colored man of Sedalia, Mo., is building a theater for colored people only. This will be the first of its kind there and will furnish an example of what can be done for the colored race by one of themselves.

Eldorado, Kan.—E. B. Munsen of Eldorado, Kan., has completed a contract for an expensive theater to be built immediately. It will have a large seating capacity and will run the very newest pictures, including features.

Sharon Springs, Kan.—Mrs. H. Pope of Hugo has purchased the Princess theater at Sharon Springs from W. A. Root.

Galena, Kan.—The Gem theater has opened at Galena.

Cameron, Mo.—H. I. Miller has sold a half interest in the Crystal theater at Cameron to M. P. Berry, formerly of Kansas City.

Hamilton, Mo.—A. J. Webb and J. W. Herndon of Kansas City have bought the Rex theater at Hamilton, from B. M. Hicks.

Fort Scott, Kan.—G. W. Blubaugh is remodeling the Vaudette theater at Fort Scott, Kan. He will reopen with "War's Women."

Kansas City, Mo.—Mrs. M. C. Smith, a successful woman exhibitor, owner of the Pictureland at Fort Scott, Kan., was in Kansas City recently.

Hastings, Neb.—The Wonderland theater at Hastings, Neb., has closed for repairs and enlargement.

Des Moines Exchanges' New Credit Rules

The Newly Formed Credit Association Adopted a New Set of Rules on January 17—Explanatory Circular Sent Out.

By Dorothy Day, Des Moines Tribune-Register.

DES MOINES, IA.—The newly formed Des Moines Film Men's Credit Association has held its first meeting on Jan. 17. Next week the officers and future plans can be reported. Meanwhile all the Des Moines exchanges are sending out the following (in part) circular to their exhibitors:

Effective January 22d, 1917.

. . . The film exchanges . . . members of this Association agree to arrange their bokoings so that booking sheets will be mailed to exhibitors one week in advance.

If a cancellation or omission is desired, a written notice should be given to reach the exchange at least two weeks prior to the date . . . unless different contracts are already in effect. This will enable the bookers of all exchanges to make use of the most desirable subjects and will prevent the oft-repeated waste of leaving film on the shelves, which many exhibitors would have liked to have in place of what was booked them.

Cancellations reaching the exchange after the specified period will be honored, but a charge for the program will be made as if no cancellation has been received. The members of the Film Men's Credit Association feel and are sure that this rule will benefit the showman who attends to his bookings in business-like manner and will work hardship only on the man who carelessly fails to realize that once a film is booked it is not available to anybody but the exhibitor it was intended for. The saving in clerical work alone that will result from the observance of this rule will enable every exchange to give better, more dependable service, entirely aside from the saving it will mean to exhibitors in express charge for paper that will not be used . . . Des Moines, Iowa, January 17th, 1917.

FILM MEN'S CREDIT ASSOCIATION.

Des Moines Exchange Notes.

Mutual.—At the Mutual exchange, Manager Ballantyne says it will now be possible for the exhibitor to show "The Diamond from the Sky" in one night as an eight reel feature or on two nights in four reel installments, if he desires.

Pathe.—L. A. Sheridan, manager of the Des Moines Pathe exchange, accompanied C. W. Ross, Pathe road man, over his territory last week. And M. J. Frisch, branch booker of the Pathe, visited a few towns in the Des Moines territory last week with the new serial "Patria," which begins its Des Moines run at the Palace Wednesday and Thursday, the 24th and 25th.

General.—C. W. Stombaugh of the General exchange made another flying trip to Omaha over Sunday, the 21st.

The General exchange was not the only one to make complaint of the poor business over the state. The cause is the terribly cold weather and the country roads being almost impassable for pleasurable traveling.

Universal.—At the Universal, poor business is again the cry, but enthusiasm over the bookings on "Eagles' Wings" rather contradicted the poor statements. Manager Lederman announced that the big feature was booked almost solid up until the 28th of March. He told of a novel advertising feature that he furnishes the exhibitors booking "Eagles' Wings." It is a framework built of compo board, painted steel gray and so built as to resemble most closely one of the forward cars that are the noticeable feature of all the war pictures.

Metro.—Manager Mayer at the Metro exchange seemed pleased over his bookings on the big Metro serial "The Great Secret" that made its bow to Des Moines fans at the Garden theater Wednesday and Thursday, the 17th and 18th.

Two New Denver Exchanges Open

McClure Company's Headquarters Are With Triangle Company—Selznick Offices on Walton Street—Local McClure Business to Be Directed by W. B. Glasser —Branch May Be Established at Salt Lake City.

By E. C. Day, Denver Times, Denver, Colo.

DENVER, COLO.—Two new additions to Denver's film family were made this week. McClure's superpictures moved in early in the week and the Selznick company followed a few days later. The McClure company took up its headquarters in the office of the Triangle company in Champa street while Selznick opened quarters at 1541 Welton street on Exchange Row.

Ben S. Cohen of New York, personal representative of Mr. Selznick, is in Denver to establish the latter office. He is now surveying the local field and will announce a Denver manager within the next week. He will remain until the work of the exchange is well under way. The local office is a direct branch of the New York office and Mr. Cohen announces that it will carry out the Selznick policy of aiding the exhibitor in every way possible. The Denver exchange will be the headquarters for Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and New Mexico.

W. B. Glasser in Charge of McClure Office.

W. B. Glasser, a widely known and universally liked film man, has been placed in charge of the McClure office, which will have charge of all the bookings in Colorado, New Mexico, Montana, Wyoming, East Nevada, the Black Hills in South Dakota and Western Kansas and Nebraska. He probably will establish a branch in Salt Lake to expedite the handling of films in the Western section of his territory. All McClure pictures will be released through the Triangle Exchange, the office and shipping forces of Triangle handling the booking and shipping of films.

Of Course, It's Decker.

Denver, Colo.—Through some error the correspondence in the issue for January 20 credited James Thompson with the management of the Swanson and Noland theater, the Majestic, in Grand Junction, Colorado, and consequently with the conduct of the Movie Fan. Readers who follow Advertising for Exhibitors department know Mr. Decker too well to be told otherwise, but as a matter of record Charles Decker was and is the manager of the Majestic, and editor and business manager of the Movie Fan. Mr. Thompson was formerly employed at another house in Grand Junction, and had nothing to do with the Majestic or its publication.

Roscoe Arbuckle to Visit Denver.

Denver Colo.—Simultaneous with the announcement in the Moving Picture World of the signing of Roscoe Arbuckle by the Paramount word was received by wire in Denver that the well known comedian will pay this city a visit in the near future. That the news created a flurry among local exhibitors and screen devotees is putting it mildly.

Milton S. Cohn, local manager for Paramount, immediately began preliminary plans for a big banquet and the well known actor will be given a reception that he will not soon forget.

The date of his arrival in the city is still uncertain and until more definite information is received further arrangements cannot be made, but Manager Cohn says that Arbuckle's visit will be made the biggest thing in the history of the moving picture industry in the city.

Tom Bucy Opens Theater at Scotts Bluff, Neb.

Denver, Colo.—Tom Bucy, of Sterling, Colo., who recently completed the organization of a company to operate a string of moving picture theaters in Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska, finished work on the Queen at Scott's Bluff, Neb., and threw it open to the public January 1. Those who have seen the new house declare that it is the best between Omaha and Denver. It embodies the last word in architectural perfection and is elaborately decorated both within and without. It would do credit to a city many times the size of Scotts Bluff, which has a population of 7,000.

The Queen seats 825 people. Its equipment is of the most modern and no feature that would add to the comfort and convenience of its patrons has been overlooked. A six piece orchestra furnishes the music, which is especially arranged to fit each picture.

On account of his new responsibilities Mr. Bucy has engaged H. V. Side, former member of the vaudeville troupe of Side and Side, to manage his Lyric theater at Sterling, Colo.

New Theaters Nearby.

Bayard, Nebr.—L. F. Flower of Bayard will begin work on the construction of a first class moving picture theater. It will be patterned after the Queen at Scotts Bluff.

Haxtun, Colo.—This town of 450 inhabitants is the proud possessor of a new moving picture theater. It has 350 seats, which according to its owner, I. W. Hartwell, already is insufficient to accommodate the crowds. The theater has been named the Gaiety.

Yuma, Colo, was without amusement for several weeks because of a cyclone which struck the town. With a view to preventing a recurrence A. B. Conant replaced the old structure with one built entirely of steel and concrete and he defies any wind storm to budge it. The new theater is known as the Gem. It has 350 seats.

Berthoud, Colo.—Mrs. J. E. Brinkley and son of Berthoud have just completed a theater. The building is of cement even to the operator's booth, which is equipped with two new model projecting machines. It has 350 seats.

Walsenburg, Colo.—The old Empress theater at Walsenburg has been completely remodeled by Archie Levy, its new owner, and reopened this week under the name of The Strand. Its capacity was enlarged to 500 seats.

Alamosa, Colo.—The Isis at Alamosa has reopened after being thoroughly remodeled. A new front was built and the interior entirely redecorated. It now is one of the most attractive moving picture houses in the San Luis valley. It is owned by Frank Kelly, who also is proprietor of the Empress and Photoplay in Salida. A. A. Kelly, a brother, manages the Alamosa theater. He is the owner of the Isis at Ouray, Colo., which is managed by his son.

Springer, N. M.—The Rosefeld Mercantile company has opened a moving picture theater at Springer, N. M. It has been named the Strand and has accommodations for 500.

New Wyoming Picture Houses.

Casper, Wyo.—H. F. Brennan opened his new Lyric theater at Casper, Wyo., January 5. It has 500 seats and is strictly fireproof and modern throughout.

Thermopolis, Wyo.—The Maverick theater at Thermopolis, Wyo., was opened on Christmas Day. It was designed and built by its owners, Hetherington and Shibe.

Casper, Wyo.—W. R. Sample of the Isis theater at Casper, Wyo., will soon close his house for the purpose of rebuilding and remodeling. Improvements to cost $20,000 are contemplated. The theater when finished will have a seating capacity of 1,250.

Lander, Wyo.—James Buckley is building a new theater at Lander. He plans to complete the work in time to open on March 1. The house will be a model for comfort and convenience. It will be furnished with all the latest equipment and will have a capacity of 350 seats.

Torrington, Wyo.—A new moving picture theater has just been completed at Torrington. It has been named the Lyric. W. H. McDonald is its owner and manager.

Northern California News.

Gilroy, Cal.—Arthur Hansen, of the World theater, has returned from the Panama canal zone and has succeeded his brother, Joseph A. Hansen, as manager.

San Anselmo, Cal.—J. P. Manning, recently elected to the state legislature, has sold the San Anselmo theater to Roger J. Rourke and has gone to Sacramento.

Vallejo, Cal.—P. J. Hanlon, who conducts the Strand theater, has gone east on an extended trip and will investigate the manner in which moving picture houses are conducted elsewhere.

Davis, Cal.—A. J. Tufts, whose theater was destroyed by fire some time ago, has erected a new one and this was opened about the middle of January as the Rex theater, as the former one was known.

Eureka, Cal.—J. Van Sant, Jr., of the Empire theater, recently erected one of the largest signs in that section of the state, a special city ordinance having been necessary before the work could be done.

Colfax, Cal.—S. K. Williams, who formerly presented moving picture shows once or twice a month, has adopted the policy of giving two shows a week, featuring Paramount service, and has found the plan a success.

Paso Robles, Cal.—In addition to having made extensive improvements to the Bell theater, Manager W. W. Walker has purchased a Wurlitzer organ and has made extensive improvements in the projection department at a considerable expense.

Alpaugh, Cal.—Frank M. Reep has purchased the interests of R. W. Horner in the Alpaugh theater, a house that was erected about a year ago.

Ukiah, Cal.—J. L. Davis, formerly of Angels Camp, has purchased the Victory theater and will take possession on February 1.

Oakland, Cal.—The Reliance theater, taken over by Sheehan & Lurie of San Francisco the first of the year, is to be known as the Rialto theater.

Burlingame, Cal.—George Roy, of the Burlingame theater, has purchased a Fotoplayer, this being the third one of these instruments he has bought for this theater, each succeeding one being a larger model.

Film Men Visit Nevada.

San Francisco, Ca.—Nevada, with its deep blanket of snow and below-zero temperatures, has been the objective point of a number of film men of late, who state that business there is quite satisfactory, in spite of weather conditions. "Doc" Hart, representing the California Film exchange, has returned from the Sagebrush State with a good list of contracts, as has Charles I. Luntz, who went there to make a cleanup on the comedies and De Luxe Super-attractions of Fox Film. Louis Hyman, of All-Star Feature, has also returned from that state, as has B. R. Keller, representing Pathe, and Mr. Powell, with the World Film.

H. C. Oastler, who recently opened the American theater at Winnemucca, Nev., has taken over the Nixon opera house at that place.

The A. & B. theater at Tonopah, Nev., is now being conducted under the management of William Evans, formerly chief of police, while a new house is to be opened at Mina by P. A. Simon.

Many Film Men Visiting Exchanges.

San Francisco, Cal.—The clear weather since the first of the year has served to bring an unusually large number of exhibitors to this city, among whom have been the following: Val W. Hearn, Lyric theater, Fresno, Ca.; C. C. Kauffmann, of the Gem theater, Colusa, Cal., who has been buying supplies; W. B. Martin and wife, of the Star theater, Modesto, Cal.; Alexander T. Case, of the Maywood opera house, Corning, Cal.; R. Sturcke, of the Rose theater, Roceville, Cal.; F. H. Smith, of the Empress theater, Lindsay, Cal.; Pezzaglia Bros., of the Netherlands theater, Rio Vista, Cal.; J. J. Wood, of Anderson & Wood, who has been arranging bookings for a new house to be opened at Redding, Cal., and Mr. Howard, of the Gardella theater, Oroville, Cal. Mr. Tucker, who conducts four houses at Boise, Ida., has also been here purchasing supplies, as has been Oscar T. Bergner, of Ashland, Ore. During the absence of Mr. Bergner his house is being conducted by his wife, who is declared to be securing better results than he was able to.

Change in Exchange Management.

San Francisco, Cal.—Mark E. Leichter, vice-president and general manager of the De Luxe Lasky Film, has resigned his connections with this concern to engage in business on his own account. The business of this recently established film exchange will be carried on under the direction of Mark A. Lasky. The "Witching Hour" has been booked at the Portola theater for the week of January 28, while the "Lash of Destiny" will be shown a week sooner at the Market Street theater.

K-E-S-E Service News.

San Francisco, Cal.—A trade showing of "The Truant Soul," featuring Henry Walthall, was made recently and a number of very important bookings followed, including service for the Kinema theaters of Fresno and Oakland. C. A. Robinson, formerly salesman and bookkeeper of the Seattle office, has been brought here to fill a like position, on account of the increase in business, and A. E. Beck has been added to the traveling staff.

San Francisco Sees "Patria"

City's Social Leaders Are Guests of William Randolph Hearst at Premier of "Patria"—Palm Court in Palace Hotel Has Never Seen a More Brilliant Gathering —Jewels and Beautiful Gowns.

From T. A. Church, 1507 North street, Berkeley, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—On the evening of January 17 the premiere of the new serial "Patria" took place in the famous Palm Court of the Palace Hotel before one of the most noteworthy gatherings of local society in many years. Two thousand persons were the guests that evening of William Randolph Hearst, since the affair had already been planned before the consolidation of the International and the Pathe Exchange, Inc. The event was one that would satisfy even the most ardent devotee of the silent drama and illustrated in a striking manner the fact that moving pictures have taken their plae with the finest forms of entertainment. A first night at the opera could not have attracted a more brilliant gathering, nor brought forth a more wonderful display of gowns and jewels. The list of guests read like the social register of the city and in addition there were many from Oakland, Berkeley, Burlingame and other suburbs included in the Greater San Francisco.

Before the presentation of the first three episodes of the serial, which composed the film offering of the evening, several concert numbers along patriotic lines were rendered by the Imperial Theater Orchestra, under the direction of Gino Severi, and incidental music by this orchestra accompanied the pictures. The premier commenced at half-past 8 and at that hour the great marble-tiled hall was filled to capacity, with an overflow into the lobby and halls. Dozens of dinner parties preceded the event, and following the showing of the pictures society made merry at a number of dancing parties.

The San Francisco Examiner devoted a full page the following morning to the event, giving a long list of guests, with a description of some of the most striking gowns worn and a list of some of the most notable dinner parties. The success of this premiere for the city's society folk was due to the careful planning by H. L. Knappen, now with the Pathe Exchange, Inc.; H. E. Lotz, manager of the local branch of this exchange; J. A. Partington, manager of the Imperial theater, where it will be shown, and to the management of the Palace hotel.

Picketing Case in Court.

Sacramento, Cal.—The question of whether or not a court may punish for contempt, without trial, a person not a party to the suit, who violates the terms of an injunction will be decided by the State Supreme Court. The question is involved in the case of Charles E. Berger, who has been adjudged guilty of contempt by a superior judge upon the showing that he performed picket duty outside of a moving picture house of that city after an injunction against picketing had been issued against the Motion Picture Operators' Union.

X. K. Stout Retires from Mutual

San Francisco, Cal.—X. K. Stout, who has had charge of the local Mutual exchange for the past two years, has accepted a position as assistant to Manager J. R. Crone of the American Film Manufacturing Company at Santa Barbara, Cal., and will leave for the studio in about two weeks. He will be succeeded here by W. G. Drummond, now of the Los Angeles office, and the place of the latter will be filled by N. E. Levi, at one time of this city.

Fashionable Gathering at San Francisco Premiere of "Patria" Jan. 17, 1917.

Seattle Exchanges in Sunday Closing Fight

Washington Theater Managers' Association Persuades Exchange Men to Lend a Hand in the Fight Against Sunday Closing.

By S. J. Anderson, East Seattle, Wash.

SEATTLE, Wash.—At the weekly luncheon of the exchange members of Seattle on January 16 Ed Fisher, secretary of the Washington Theater Managers' Association, waited upon the exchange managers to enlist their support in the fight which all theater managers intend to make against the Sunday closing issue, which is soon to be brought up in the state legislature. Mr. Fisher was assured by the film men of their desire to do all they could to oppose the measure, and a committee was appointed to see what could be done in the way of co-operating with the theater managers.

Robinson & Walker to Import and Export Film.

Seattle, Wash.—"Robinson & Walker, Imports and Exports," is the new sign which has just made its appearance on the door of 556 Stuart building. Their business will be carried on chiefly between Seattle and Sourabya, Java, and they intend to make a specialty of exporting film to that island. A. W. Walker has just returned from the East, where he was busy purchasing films and making connections for the firm. The features and serials which they now have ready to start across the Pacific are "The Ne'er Do Well," "The Fall of a Nation," "The Crimson Stain Mystery," "The Mysteries of Myra" and "The Girl from 'Frisco." They have also closed for the Criterion program.

John J. Robinson, senior member of the firm, is thoroughly acquainted with business conditions in the Orient through sixteen years' residence there. Manila was his home for fourteen years and he has spent the last two in Java. He was in the film business during the last six years in Manila, and that was his occupation while in Java. He still maintains an office in Sourabaya, Java, which is looked after by his partner on that side of the Pacific, Mr. Pezarro.

Mr. Walker, on the other hand, may be said to be more familiar with the film business in the Northwest than almost any man in Seattle, since he is the oldest film man here but one. He first started in with Warner Features when they opened an office in Seattle several years ago. Later he became manager of the Seattle office of the United.

Theater in Kent Changes Hands.

Kent, Wash.—E. F. Soice has just purchased the Dream theater and will open it soon with a first-class picture program. Mr. Soice bought the house from Mr. Atkinson.

De Luxe Gets "Panthea" Rights.

Seattle, Wash.—Al Rosenberg has just received a wire from his brother Mike in New York that he has closed for the Northwest rights to the new Norma Talmadge feature, "Panthea."

Columbia Theater, Renton, Reopened.

Renton, Wash.—E. E. Belloir has bought the Columbia theater and is reopening it this week. Waring & Finch of Seattle furnished the new equipment. Mr. Belloir is one of the oldest exhibitors in the territory, this being the twenty-sixth theater that he has owned.

Seattle International Moves to Pathe.

Seattle, Wash.—Following the recent announcement from International headquarters in New York that hereafter International pictures will be booked through Pathe exchanges, the newly established office of the former company moved from its rooms at 1214½ Third avenue to 748 Central Bldg., which is the address of the Pathe Seattle office. Manager Fred H Locher and Assistant Manager L. M. Hyslop have so far been retained by Manager Quimby of the Pathe forces, and C. E. Waite, who was traveling representative for International out of Seattle, is now traveling for Pathe out of Portland.

Ben Bloom Appointed Justice of Peace.

Seattle, Wash.—Picture men are fast taking their rightful place of prominence in local affairs all over the world. Even in conventional Canada people are beginning to realize the importance of men in the industry. Al. Bloom of the Reelplay Features had a letter this week from his brother, Ben, who has a film exchange in Winnipeg, stating that he had been appointed justice of the peace.

Seattle Personals.

Seattle, Wash.—E. R. Redlich, coast division manager for Fox, left Seattle this week for a business trip through Oregon.

Visitors on Seattle's film row were: Edwin F. James of the James Broadway and the Majestic theaters, Portland, Ore.; E. T. Jackson, exhibitor of Juneau, Alaska; H. T. Moore, Colonial theater, Tacoma; A. C. Anderson, Apollo theater, Tacoma; W. G. Ripley, exhibitor of Aberdeen, Wash.

Local Program Notes.

Mount Vernon, Wash.—The great attraction in Mount Vernon this week is "Ramona," which is playing at R. K. Dunham's Rex theater.

Seattle, Wash.—Manager Jensen of the Coliseum and Manager von Herberg of the Liberty, acting for the Greater Theaters company, have signed a contract with E. R. Redlich, coast division manager, for the new Fox comedies and Fox features. The first feature shown under the new contract is playing at the Liberty this week. It is "The Island of Desire."

Portland News Letter

By Abraham Nelson, 601 Journal Bldg., Portland, Ore.

All Paper Must Be Bought.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Hereafter no more paper will be rented by exchanges to exhibitors. It must all be bought outright and the price is ten cents a sheet. The reason given by the exchanges is the high cost of paper, lithographing and mounting.

The movement seems to be a concerted one, although the new policy is going into effect with various exchanges on different dates. Exchange managers say they have orders from Seattle or the East to make the change.

Stage Burns—Audience Stays.

Aberdeen, Wash.—The stage and dressing rooms of the Grand theater were damaged by fire January 18 while the theater was full of people. The audience believed the noise of the fire department and the flames back of the screen to be a part of the motion picture that was being shown. An outside chimney had to be demolished before the fire could be extinguished and it fell just as the fall of Babylon was being depicted in the film. The damage to the theater was slight.

"Kirk" in Spokane.

Portland, Ore.—A. S. Kirkpatrick, road man for the Mutual, has been temporarily transferred to Spokane territory. Jay Harrington will work out of Portland temporarily as special serial salesman.

La Grande Opera House Burns.

La Grande, Ore.—The Union opera house was destroyed by fire January 18, the loss being about $6,000. Joseph Yorkasen was the owner. The opera house was one of the old theater buildings of the city.

Unity Theater Reopens.

Portland, Ore.—The Unity theater, formerly successfully conducted by L. Michel, has been reopened by Herald & Heavens. They have made considerable alterations in the house, installing a new heating plant. It was the failure of the old heating system that closed the house. Mr. Michel had made the Unity a big community factor in the Arleta district.

Metro Traveler Returns.

Portland, Ore.—W. A. Crank, traveling representative for Metro for the past year or more, returned to Portland recently after a sojourn of ten weeks in Butte and Salt Lake territory. He reports a successful trip for his concern. He left Portland to join Manager Kerr in Seattle.

Jensen in Portland.

Portland, Ore.—C. S. Jensen, of Jensen & Von Herberg, Seattle, was a recent visitor in Portland, taking temporary charge oof the company's theater, the Columbia, during the absence of the manager. Mr. Jensen is enthusiastic about the new Jensen & Von Herberg house in Butte and anticipated going there after a few days in Portland.

Heard on Film Row.

Portland, Ore.—M. B. Donovan has taken back the Portsmouth again.

Grant's Pass, Ore.—J. M. Casey has bought out Clark Morey at the Bijou.

Portland, Ore.—Censors condemned "It May Be Your Daughter," six reels, by the Moral Uplight Society of America.

Harry Murdock has bought the Opera House from R. J. Brund & Sons.

Portland, Ore.—W. W. Johnson, connected with Hearst pictures, was in Portland recently syndicating the story of "Patria." The reels are now at the Pathe exchange. Mr. Johnson left Portland for New York city.

Pendleton, Ore.—H. G. Mapes is now manager at the Alta.

Glenwood, Wash.—H. F Kuhnhausen has opened a small show house here

Spokane News Letter

By S. Clark Patchin, E1811 Eleventh avenue, Spokane, Wash.

Pendleton Roundup Films at the Clemmer.

SPOKANE, Wash.—Motion pictures of the Pendleton roundup of 1916 will be shown at the Clemmer theater Sunday, January 28, and two days following. A more comprehensive and clearer record of the event was taken by the cinema camera this year than ever before, according to reports, and the screen exhibition is more interesting.

The pictures show all of the bucking contests, bulldogging, steer roping, cowboy and cowgirl races and fancy riding. Thousands of Indians and all the other features that have made the Pendleton show famous all over the United States are also shown.

Spokane Film Brevities.

The first of the series of De Luxe films, entitled "The Price of Silence," with William Farnum in the lead, from the studio of William Fox, was shown to large audiences at the Casino.

Marguerite Clark in "Snow White," played to large crowds at each performance at the Clemmer.

Manager Ralph Ruffner of the Liberty theater extended the courtesy of the house to Miss Fell and Miss Schofield, to speak in the interest of their mission to America. They are English women who are here soliciting funds to aid the French children and keep them from starving.

MORE SAN FRANCISCO ITEMS.

Frederick Mercy Here for Posters' Convention.

San Francisco, Cal.—Frederick Mercy, who owns all of the theaters at North Yakima, Wash., and who recently purchased the bill posting plant there, was a recent visitor in this city to attend a convention of bill board owners. He has four theaters in North Yakima and tells an interesting story of how he secured a foothold in that city.

He was formerly the owner of a small house at Georgetown, but sold that in 1913 and went to North Yakima, where he bought the Majestic theater, which had a seating capacity of 400. Four other theaters were being operated, but these closed one by one, owing to the aggressive campaign of Mr. Mercy, who enlarged the Majestic at a cost of $40,000. Opposition then cropped up and a large theater was erected by outside interests, but after a year this was taken over and is being conducted as a combination moving picture and vaudeville house. A smaller house is also conducted as a moving picture theater at 5 and 10 cent prices. The Opera House is used for road attractions and such feature pictures as those released by the Artcraft Pictures Corporation.

"War Brides" Filling Alcazar Theater.

San Francisco, Cal—The Alcazar theater, on O'Farrell street, one of the leading stock houses of California, is now being used as a moving picture theater, and film attractions will be given an indefinite run. With Nazimova in "War Brides" this house opened on the evening of January 15 and a more successful first night never inaugurated the run of a moving picture in this city. The theater was filled to capacity and round after round of applause punctuated the telling points in the drama. The dramatic critics devoted much space in the daily press to the production, which was universally hailed as being the most powerful in its range of human emotion ever shown upon the screen. Sol L. Lesser, who controls the rights to the production in this territory, plans to follow it at the Alcazar with "Civilization," and will probably show the "Garden of Allah" there also. "War Brides" is being shown at admission prices of 25, 50 and 75 cents.

MORE IOWA STATE NOTES.

Interstate Film Company News.

Des Moines, Ia.—C. W. Jeffries is no longer the acting manager of the Interstate Film Company and Abe Frankel, one of the owners, will act in his place, ably assisted by Miss Laura Taft, the daughter of C. C. Taft, one of the heaviest stockholders in the company.

Hugh Bennett, formerly the manager of the Unique and Strand theaters in this city, is covering the state with the Mutt and Jeff cartoons and "The Marriage Bond," the company's pictures. He has been in Dubuque and all the river towns and states that the general cry is again—poor business. But in spite of the fact he claims that the Mutt and Jeff cartoons are taking hold splendidly and that the numerous bookings for the 500 feet of comedy are absolutely surprising.

Business Items.

Des Moines, Ia.—W. C. Preller, well known in this city, was in Des Moines a week ago, leaving after a short stay to assume the managership of the Triangle office in Detroit. Mr. Preller was until recently the manager of the General Film Exchange in Minneapolis.

Des Moines, Ia.—L. Prosser, manager of the Motion Picture theater at Fort Des Moines, is feeling mighty good over the return of the militia men and the resultant rushing business.

Vancouver Supports Week Runs of Features

Better Productions Are Being Kept for Whole Week in Neighborhood Theaters and Often Have Second Three-Day Run Downtown.

By E. C. Thomas, 821 Rogers Bldg., Vancouver, B. C.

VANCOUVER, B. C.—The tendency to book exceptional pictures for extended runs is in full force in this city, and many of the better productions have been put on for a full week at local theaters. More than this, some of them have gone into other downtown houses on the following Monday for three-day runs, giving practically a continuous run of nine days. When it is considered that the business section occupies a comparatively small era, and that Vancouver is not a particularly large city, the drawing power of pictures which can hold up under this extended downtown booking, in addition to playing other dates in suburban houses, is conclusively shown.

The following are some of the productions which have recently been booked for week runs: Clara Kimball Young's "The Common Law," Triangle's "Shell 43," and Mary Pickford's first Artcraft production, "Less Than the Dust," at the Rex theater; the Fox "Romeo and Juliet" at the Dominion; "The Dumb Girl of Portici" (Universal), at the Globe, and "Cabiria" at the Avenue.

On the other hand, however, the experience of Manager Hector Quagliotti of the Colonial theater has shown that in this city, at least, regular program features cannot be put over successfully on a general policy of week runs. After giving this a thorough trial Mr. Quagliotti has gone back to the practice prevailing in all other Vancouver downtown houses—running regular releases for three days each.

Mutual Pictures to Be Released Here.

Vancouver, B. C.—The World correspondent is informed by Manager C. R. Dippie of the Mutual office that advices just received from Chicago indicate that hereafter new prints of the Mutual features will be released either in Vancouver or Calgary, instead of working their way westward to these cities after having been shown in the territory further east. This will be a distinct advantage to the local office, as many subjects which have been received in the past have arrived considerably the worse for wear.

W. W. Armstrong Goes to Seattle.

Vancouver, B. C.—W. W. Armstrong, who recently sold his Fairview theater here, has gone to Seattle to represent Superpictures in that territory, under C. B. Price, formerly Mutual general manager for Canada, but not in charge of Superpictures distribution from Chicago to the Coast. Mr. Armstrong will work in conjunction with the Seattle Triangle branch.

Special Children's Shows in Edmonton.

Edmonton, Alberta.—During the showing of the Bluebird feature, "Gloriana," featuring little Zoe Rae, Manager Frank McQueen of the Garland theater gave two special children's matinees, starting at 4 p. m. on successive days. At these performances all children accompanied by an adult were admitted free.

Will the Hearst-Pathe Weekly Be Permitted?

Vancouver, B. C.—With the amalgamation of the distributing forces of the Pathe and International programs, and the combining of their news weekly into one issue under the name of the Hearst-Pathe News, the question of the future status of this topical subject has come in for considerable discussion. While it, of course, succeeds the Pathe News, it also succeeds the International Weekly, and thus would seem to come under the ban which has been placed on all films in which W. R. Hearst is interested. Andrew P. Keegan, Pathe general manager for western Canada, informed the World correspondent that he had no definite information in regard to the matter, but felt doubtful regarding the future circulation of the weekly in Canadian territory.

Canadian Patriotic Films, Ltd., Begins Production.

Vancouver, B. C.—A number of new film companies, with headquarters in Vancouver, have been incorporated within the past few weeks, although the only one to begin actual production is the Canadian Patriotic Films, Ltd. In addition to this company and the Dominion Film Corporation, Ltd., there are now in the local field the British Canadian Motion Picture Corporation, Ltd., and another company now in process of formation.

C. J. Hanford in Charge of Local Standard.

Vancouver, B. C.—Herbert Lubin, the head of the Standard Film Service, Ltd., has just returned to this city after a trip to New York. He was accompanied here by Charles J. Hanford, formerly connected with the Standard office in Toronto, who is now installed in the local branch. Mr. Hanford is the well-known baseball artist who has come to be known as "Home-Run Hanford."

Lees Theater at Banff Reopened.

Banff, Alberta.—The Harmony theater here was recently destroyed by fire. Mr. Harmon has opened the Lees theater, which has been closed for the past few months, and will continue at this stand with Paramount pictures.

Want No Grown-Ups Unless They Bring Children.

Winnipeg, Man.—In putting on a special Saturday morning matinee for children during the run of Paramount's "Snow White," with Marguerite Clark, the Dominion theater sprung an innovation by announcing that adults not accompanied by children would not be admitted. Seats for this performance were sold in advance and a big house was the result.

Notes of Interest.

Canmore, Alberta.—The Canmore theater has been closed, but it is announced that the suspension is only temporary.

Coleman, Alberta.—John Hadfield has recently taken over the Opera House here and has opened with Famous Players service and the "Yellow Menace" serial.

Calgary, Alberta.—Frank Miley, secretary and treasurer of the new Daylight Theater Company of Saskatoon, Sask., was a recent visitor to this city, as the guest of H. J. Allen of the Famous Players.

Vancouver, B. C.—Manager W. P. Dewees had an unusually good week recently when he put on Mary Pickford in "Less Than the Dust" for an entire week. Total admissions for the week were about sixteen thousand.

Vancouver, B. C.—Mr. Adam of the Rex theater in Prince George, B. C., was a recent visitor at the Mutual exchange here, where he booked the new Chaplins and a line of features, preparatory to reopening his theater on March 1. Owing to the large proportion of enlistments among the residents of the Prince George territory, all theaters in the district were closed, but Mr. Adam reports that conditions have so adjusted themselves in recent months that the outlook is much better than at any time for the past two years.

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 916, 918, 920, 922.)

General Film Company

Current Releases

	Serial No.
SELIG—Lost and Found (Two parts—Drama).....	21678-79
VITAGRAPH—The Battle Hymn of the Republic (Drama)	21680
SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 9 (Topical).....	21681
ESSANAY—Three Ways Out (Black Cat feature—Two parts—Drama)	21682-83
KALEM—The Safety Pin Smugglers (Comedy).....	21684
ESSANAY—Mr. Wright in Wrong (Comedy).....	21685
KALEM—The Dominion of Fernandez (Episode No. 25 of "The Girl from Frisco" (Two parts—Drama)	21686-87
SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 10 (Topical).....	21688
VIM—The Other Girl (Comedy).....	21689
KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE—Crossed Trail (Three parts—Drama).....	21690-91-92
KALEM—The Net of Intrigue (Episode No. 16 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—(Drama).....	21693
VIM—A Job for Life (Comedy).....	21694
VITAGRAPH—A Lady in the Library (Comedy)...	21695
ESSANAY—Shifting Shadows (No. 8 of "Is Marriage Sacred" (Two parts—Drama).....	21696-97
VITAGRAPH—The Mystery of the North Case (Two parts—Drama)	21698-99
KALEM—The Death Siding (No. 117 of "The Hazards of Helen"—(Drama).....	21700
SELIG—The Saddle Girth (Drama).....	21701

General Film Company

Advance Releases

	Serial No.
SELIG—Cupid's Thumb Print (Two parts—Drama).	21702-03
VITAGRAPH—The Hall Room Girls (Comedy)....	21704
SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 11 (Topical).....	21705
ESSANAY—The Hoodooed Story ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Comedy-Drama)	21706-07
KALEM—Ghost Hounds (Comedy).....	21708
ESSANAY—Canimated Nooz. Pictorial No. 24 (Cartoon Comedy) ..... Alaska Scenic on Same Reel (Scenic).	21709
SELIG—Selig-Tribune No. 12 (Topical).....	21710
VIM—(Title Not Reported)	21711
KALEM—The Trap (Episode No. 17 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21712
VIM—(Title Not Reported).....	21713
VITAGRAPH—The Suitor from Siam (Fifth of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy-Drama)	21714
ESSANAY—Desertion and Non-Support (No. 9 of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama)...	21715-16
KALEM—The Prima Donna's Special (No. 118 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama).....	21717
SELIG—A Strange Adventure (Drama).....	21718

COMPLETE AND ACCURATE LISTS of Regular Program and Feature Pictures Can Always Be Obtained from the Pages of the Moving Picture World. These are Published Two Weeks in Advance of Release Days to Enable Exhibitors to Arrange Their Coming Programs. The Stories of the Pictures in Most Cases are Published on a Like Schedule. Each Synopsis is Headed by a Cast, the Players' Names Being in Parenthesis. Lay Out Your Entertainment From the Information in the Moving Picture World and You Will Not Go Wrong.

KNOWLEDGE BRINGS SUCCESS

Messrs. Exhibitor, Exchangeman, Operator, and Film Men Everywhere:—The moving picture business is one of the youngest but one of the leading industries of the world to-day. We may well be proud to be connected with it. Are you keeping up? Do you know all about it? It will yield larger returns for an equal amount of work to the men who know. Each weekly issue of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD contains more up-to-date information than you can get from all other sources. Subscribe now if not already on our mailing list. You will get your paper hours earlier than from the newsstand and it costs less.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

.....
.....
.....
.....

Cut out and mail Theatre .....

The Biggest State Right Deal Ever Closed

The All Star Features Company
Jacksonville, Florida

Have acquired the State Rights of

THOS. H. INCE'S
World Renowned Million Dollar Spectacle

"CIVILIZATION"

for the States of

Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky

Southern Exhibitors are invited to apply at once for bookings of the greatest money-making production ever offered in the annals of motion picture showmanship.

The All Star Features Company

Realty Building Jacksonville, Florida

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending February 10 and February 17

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 916, 918, 920, 922.)

Universal Film Mfg. Company

	Serial No.
SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1917.
IMP—Diamonds of Destiny (Drama)	02140
POWERS—Mr. Fuller Pep—His Wife Goes for a Rest (Cartoon Comedy) and "In North China (Educational)	02141
REX—Life's Pendulum (Two parts—Drama)	02142
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 6 "The Silent Feud"—Two parts—Drama)	02143
MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1917.
RED FEATHER—The Scarlet Crystal (Five parts—Drama)	02144
NESTOR—His Wife's Relatives (Comedy)	02145
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1917.
GOLD SEAL—Won by Grit (Three parts—Drama)	02146
VICTOR—The Valley of Beautiful Things (Juvenile Comedy)	02147
WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1917.
L-KO—That Dawgone Dog (Two parts—Comedy)	02148
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 58 (Topical)	02149
BIG U—Red Vengeance (Drama)	02150
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1917.
REX—The Melody of Death (Two parts—Drama)	02151
POWERS—Giants of the American Forests (Educational)	02152
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1917.
IMP—Avarice (Drama)	02153
VICTOR—The High Cost of Starving (Comedy)	02154
BIG U—Title Not Yet Decided	02155
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1917.
BISON—The Outlaw and the Lady (Two parts—Drama)	02156
JOKER—Out for the Dough (Comedy)	02157
LAEMMLE—A Studio Cinderella (Drama)	02158
SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1917.
IMP—When Thieves Fall Out (Two parts—Drama)	02159
POWERS—Fearless Freddie in the Woolly West (Cartoon Comedy) and Joys and Tears of China (Drama)	02160
REX—In the Shadows of Night (Drama)	02161
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 7 "The Race for Freedom"—Two parts—Drama)	02162
MONDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1917.
RED FEATHER—Me and M' PAL (Five parts—Drama)	02163
NESTOR—A Hasty Hazing (Comedy)	02164
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1917.
GOLD SEAL—The Indian's Lament (Three parts—Drama)	02165
VICTOR—The Girl of the Hour (Comedy)	02166
WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1917.
IMP—The Girl Reporter's Scoop (Two parts—Drama)	02167
L-KO—The End of a Perfect Day (Comedy)	02168
UNIVERSAL—Animated Weekly No. 59 (Topical)	02169
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1917.
VICTOR—The Losing Winner (Two parts—Drama)	02170
BIG U—The Half Breed's Confession (Drama)	02171
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1917.
LAEMMLE—The Fourth Witness (Two parts—Drama)	02172
UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE—Issue No. 7 (Topical)	02173
L-KO—Brave Little Waldo (Comedy)	02174
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1917.
BISON—John Osborn's Triumph (Two parts—Drama)	02175
JOKER—Mule Mates (Comedy)	02176
LAEMMLE—Broken Hearted (Drama)	02177

Mutual Film Corporation

	Serial No.
SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1917.
VOGUE—Sticky Fingers (Two parts—Comedy)	05308-09
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 40 (Subjects on Reel: Making Lace by Machinery; The "Toddle," New York's Latest Dance Craze; Raising Fresh Water Fish; Design Your Own Evening Gown (Mutual Film Magazine)	05310
MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1917.
MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—Where Love Is (Five parts—Drama) (No. 168)
MONOGRAM—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (Episode No. 4, "Shorty Joins the Secret Service") (Two parts—Drama)	05311-12
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1917.
GAUMONT—Tours Around the World, No. 14 (Subjects on Reel: Picturesque Landscapes of Holland; The Temples of Luxor; The Rocky Coast of Dalmatia) (Travel)	05313
WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1917.
MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 110 (Topical)	05314
GAUMONT—See America First, No. 174 (Subjects on Reel: The Mississippi Coast: Gulfport, Biloxi, Pass Christian, Beavoir (Scenic), and "Old Roue Visualizes") (Kartoon Komic)	05315
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1917.
CUB—Jerry's Big Raid (Comedy)	05316
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1917.
MUTUAL—Uncle Sam's Defender Series (No. 6, "Bulldogs of the Deep") (Topical)	05317
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1917.
AMERICAN—The Old Sheriff (Drama)	05318
SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1917.
VOGUE—A Musical Marvel (Two parts—Comedy)	05319-20
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 41. (Subjects on Reel: Queer Fish With Shells; The Diary of an Egg (Animated); Every Day Life Savers (Individual Cups); Hypnotizing an Alligator (Mutual Film Magazine)	05321
MONDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1917.
MONOGRAM—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (Episode No. 5—"Shorty Turns Wild Man"—Two Parts—Drama)	05322-23
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1917.
GAUMONT—Tours Around the World (Subjects on Reel: Mount St. Michel, France; Morocco; Yesterday and To-day; Around Lake Oseo, Italy (Travel)	05324
WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1917.
MUTUAL—Mutual Weekly No. 111 (Topical)	05325
GAUMONT—See America First (Subjects on Reel: Los Angeles, Cal (Scenic) and Tough Tony (Kartoon Komic)	05326
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1917.
CUB—Jerry's Big Mystery (Comedy)	05327
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1917.
MUTUAL—Title Not Reported	05328
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1917.
MUTUAL—Title Not Reported	05329

STATE RIGHT BUYER

A PRIVATE SHOWING OF

"SAFARI"

THE GREATEST AFRICAN WILD ANIMAL
and
EDUCATIONAL PICTURE EVER PRESENTED will be given in the near future.

A two-hour entertainment with or without lecture.
This picture was made by Mr. J. C. Hemment, F.N.G.S., the man who made the first Paul J. Rainey pictures.
If interested, drop us a line and we will send you an invitation.
Broadway presentation for a run at one dollar admission.
Theatre and date to be announced shortly.

Picture Producing Co., Inc.

Executive Offices
1493 Broadway—Putnam Building
Suite 513-515-517,—Phone, Bryant 5318-9

JACK GOLDBERG
General Manager

LOUIS B. BLOOM
Business Manager

Stories of the Films

General Film Company

KALEM.

SAFETY PIN SMUGGLERS (No. 21684).—The cast: Ham (Lloyd V. Hamilton); Bud (Bud Duncan); Trixie, the smuggler (Ethel Teare); Sylvester Shush (Henry Murdoch).

Repulsed in their efforts to find food Ham and Bud separate to hunt separate jobs. Bud lands a place in an express office and Ham finds the task of washing windows not at all to his liking.

Trixie, a woman smuggler, is trailed by Sylvester Shush, of the Secret Service. After a chase she calls at the express office where Bud is employed to get the "stuff" which has been shipped in a box of stockings. Ham decides to call upon his old pal and arrives just as Shush pounces upon Trixie. There is a mix-up. Ham and Bud are forced to flee for their lives, while Trixie is led away charged with smuggling—safety pins.

THE DOMINION OF FERNANDEZ (Episode No. 25 of "The Girl from 'Frisco"—Two Parts—(No. 21686-87).—The cast: Barbara Brent, "The Girl" (Marin Sais); Ace Brent, her father (Frank Jonasson); Fernandez, a Spanish grandee (Ronald Bradbury); Capt. Hall, of the smugglers (Edward Clisbee). Produced by James W. Horne.

Fernandez, an old Spanish grandee, maintains a kingdom back in the hills that he rules with an iron hand. His vast wealth has accumulated during a long career of smuggling. Some of Fernandez men clash with the cowboys employed by Ace Brent, western empire builder. They return to their stronghold leading a thoroughbred horse, the pet of Barbara Brent.

Barbara, accompanied by her father and the son of Brent's best friend, descend upon Fernandez to demand the return of the horse. Admiring their boldness Fernandez grants their demands. Later when he learns from his lieutenant that Barbara has discovered that he is a smuggler he rushes a force of men after the Brent party. Barbara and Tom are captured. Tom is put on the torture rack. Barbara pretends to faint and when the Spainards leave the chamber she loosens Tom's bonds and they escape.

Pursued they take refuge in a cabin which is surrounded by the men of Fernandez. They are rescued by the cowpunchers who have been warned by Barbara's wounded father. The government is warned of the smuggling and vengeance is meted out to the proud old grandee.

SELIG.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO. 6 (No. 21643).

Pensacola, Fla.—The best record of a single day's catch this winter is attained when four fishing schooners arrive with 111,000 pounds of fish.

New York, N. Y.—A man is seriously injured when a new life saving auto fender fails to operate.

Hunter Point, Cal.—The largest one-piece wooden floating drydock in the world is launched.

Truckee, Cal.—The social elite of San Francisco visit the Winter Sport Carnival here.

RESERVE YOUR SPACE

For

TENTH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER

Last forms close Feb. 23rd.

Cambridge, Mass.—The Harvard freshmen hockey team hold their final practice game at the Harvard stadium.

Brooklyn Navy Yard, N. Y.—The Arizona, our largest battleship was badly damaged off the coast of Cuba and goes into drydock.

Washington, D. C.—An Oriental "Jinx" supposed to possess occult powers, is presented to the National Museum.

Point Allerton, Mass.—All attempts to float the three masted schooner Wanolo driven ashore during a storm prove unsuccessful.

Vireton, Okla.—Seventeen persons meet death and others are injured by a cyclone which razes a greater portion of this town.

Kingsland, N. J.—The Dupont Ammunition and Powder Plant are first wrecked by an explosion and then completely destroyed by fire.

Washington, D. C.—Women picket gateways to the White House and endeavor to force an expression on "Woman Suffrage" from the President.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO. 7 (No. 21659).

New York, N. Y.—The battleship Pennsylvania sails for Southern maneuvers.

Golden, Col.—Students of the School of Mines are given practical mine rescue work.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Lawrence Huntington breaks the world's piano Marathon record by playing the piano 65 hours and 14 minutes.

San Francisco, Cal.—The San Francisco Model Yacht Club hold the annual mid-winter races.

Frankfort, Ky.—The State's prison is damaged by fire, which results in the death of nine prisoners.

Pensacola, Fla.—Mr and Mrs. Chas. Wellman, of Chicago, have an ambition to speed around the world in a forty-foot motor boat.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Practicing dentistry on a large scale "Alligator Joe" looks after the molars of his alligators.

Marblehead, Mass.—The U. S. Government will conduct experiments to test John Hays Hammondr, Jr.'s radio controlled torpedo.

Denver, Colo.—Despite snowdrifts, blockaded trains and nippy weather, State Representative Frank W. Murphy hikes forty miles to the State's Capitol.

Washington, D. C.—Thomas D. Schall, blind Congressman from Minnesota, is guided about the Capital City streets by his young son Thomas.

ON ITALY'S FIRING LINE (Three parts—No. 21655-56-57).—This subject was originally scheduled for release on January 1. A synopsis of it can be found on page 131 of the Jan. 6th issue.

THE LUCK THAT JEALOUSY BROUGHT (No. 21677).—The cast: Joe Barr (Tom Mix); Rose Dent (Louella Maxam); Carey (Sid Jordan); John Dent (Pat Christman). Written by Cornelius Shea. Produced by Tom Mix.

John Dent has worked hard at mining with poor results. A mining company has learned there is a rich lode on Dent's claim. Carey, a dudish bookkeeper, employed by the mining company, flirts with Rose, daughter of Dent, in an endeavor to have Rose induce her father to sell his claim to the mining company. Carey offers Dent a thousand dollars for the claim.

Carey's attentiveness to the girl, arouses the jealousy of Joe Barr, a young miner, who long has loved Rose. Joe Barr, consumed with jealousy, has followed Carey and Rose, and in so doing, discovers a pocket of gold on Dent's claim, and in his honest way, tells Dent of the good fortune. Rose then appreciates that Carey has been attentive to her only from ulterior motives, while Joe Barr has proven his honesty and love. The girl refuses Carey's further advances, and tells Joe that she never loved anyone else but him.

ESSANAY.

THE HOODOOED STORY ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts (No. 21706-07).—The cast: Smith (Richard C. Travers); Perth Barlow (Gertrude Glover); City Editor (John Cossar).

Smith, as a magazine writer, finds he has made a mistake. His "best story" is rejected by the editor. That evening highwaymen rob Smith of his last 30 cents and the manuscript. The following day the editor writes his stenographer has erred in returning the story; that he will pay the author ten cents a word for it. Smith borrows $50 from his friends, and, offering it as a reward through an advertisement induces the robbers to return his 'script. Then the editor finds his stenographer has erred again, and that Smith's story, after all, was not available. So many mistakes bring about a meeting between Smith and Perth Barlow, the typist. She discovers Smith has written other manuscripts which are available and puts him on the road to fame. Wedding bells ring out for Smith and Perth.

CANIMATED NOOZ PICTORIAL NO. 24 (No. 21709).—The banquet of the Ancient Order of Enemies of Toil at the Hotel Fritzcarlton, New York, is pictured. Hinky Dory, who comes from his winter home in the New Orleans railroad yards, is toastmaster. All guests are supplied with a keg of beer, which they sip through tubes to their mouths. Five hundred weary Willies are there. The canimated camera also has filmed the celebrated pickle-hound at the Weiniewurst dog show. This dog reads Shakespeare, plays poker and eats with a knife and fork. The preparatory school for young brides, in which is taught the proper way to bean a husband with a rolling pin, etc., is shown. Alaskan and the Yukon scenic, showing the beautiful White Mountain Pass and Dawson City scenes forms the other half of the reel.

IS MARRIAGE SACRED? (NO. 9—"Desertion and Non-support"—(Two parts—No. 21715-16).—The cast: Nurse Gordon (Marguerite Clayton); Charles Hayward (Edward Arnold); Mary Monroe (Lillian Drew); James Monroe (Thomas Commerford); Judge Garwood (John Cossar).

It was an eugenic marriage which united Mary Monroe and Charles Hayward. The medical test, however, proved apparently a failure. Charles, after the ceremony, develops what seems to be symptoms of lung trouble. Mary, horrified, separates from him and he goes West to recuperate. Here Charles meets Nurse Gordon with whom he falls in love. After a year's treatment it develops that Hayward has nothing wrong with his lungs. He falls heir to a fortune. Mary, learning of this, comes to claim him. Charles tells her of his love for his nurse. She sues him for desertion and non-support, but the judge rules that since she separated from him voluntarily, she has no claim on him now.

VIM.

THE LOVE BUGS (No. 21667).—Ethel, the daughter of Kate, a boarding house mistress, is loved by Snooky, a social pirate, and one of her mother's boarders. Babe, another roomer at Kate's house, and head salesman at the ribbon counter at Cohen's department store, is also in love with Ethel. On account of Babe's effeminate manners and small salary, Ethel refuses to have anything to do with him. Filled with a craze for diamonds, Ethel secretly covets the beautiful pendant worn by Mrs. Carver, a wealthy roomer living at Kate's domicile. Snooky also covets the pendant, but with an entirely different motive.

Watching his chance, Snooky is about to steal the pendant when he is interrupted by Babe, who also has designs on the jewels. Before Babe can escape he is discovered by Mrs. Carver and Babe seeks safety in flight followed by the irate husband of Mrs. Carver. The husband follows Babe, who, after a perilous journey across roof tops, rushes into the boarding house just as Snooky, with the pendant in his pocket, is trying to escape. He seizes and exposes Snooky, and receives the praise of Ethel and the others.

IT'S ALL WRONG (No. 21670).—Mrs. Love and her sister, Helen, are told by the minister that every woman should be able to influence at least one man, and when he gives them each a copy of a pledge of total abstinence to get signed they promise to put his advice into practice. Rose loses no time in forcing her rather gay husband to sign and Helen finds it an easy matter to obtain the signature of her sweetheart, Jim. Unfortunately, Mr. Love is met by a number of old friends who insist upon him taking a drink before he goes home, in spite of the pledge, which they ridicule. He falls off the water-wagon and is soon in no condition to dine at home; he, therefore, phones his wife that he is obliged to work late. Jim, who really has to work, also phones that he cannot come. Helen thinks he is not telling the truth and a lonely evening is passed by both women.

In the meantime Harry ends up the night by dining in a cabaret, and when it is time to leave he can hardly stagger. In a rather helpless condition he is found leaning against a post by Jim, who, having finished his work, is returning home. Jim consents to help Harry home. Harry insists upon being taken in through the kitchen, where he knocks over a table. The noise awakens Rose and her sister, who immediately think of burglars. Rose dons her husband's clothes and, with a pistol, the women go downstairs to face the burglar. Jim sees Helen with a man's arms around her and denounces her. Rose denounces Jim for having brought her husband home in such a condition. The next morning Harry explains that Jim had not been drinking but had met him and brought him home. Helen decides to ask Jim's forgiveness, and is informed over the phone that within ten minutes he will be a dead man. Helen, Rose and Harry rush to save Jim. When they arrive at his home they find him lying on the floor with a gas pipe in his mouth. They think that he is dead and while Helen is bending over him Jim rises and kisses her. He was only playing dead, and the pipe he had in his mouth was found to be attached to a water faucet.

THE OTHER GIRL (No. 21689).—Believing his sweetheart, Ethel, has spurned him, Babe wends his way to a cabaret intent on drowning his cares. He falls victim to the wiles of Florence, a dashing vampire who has discovered that Babe will fall heir to a fortune if he is married within a certain time. She lures him into a mock marriage and then announces her intention of sharing his fortune. Later Babe learns that Ethel has really been the victim of circumstances and she intends to marry him at once.

In a quandary, he endeavors to escape from his dilemma, but Florence holds him fast to his supposed marriage vows. The vampire, however, has been followed by Pussey Foot, the detective, who recognizes her and unearths the plot against Babe. Just as Florence and Ethel are about to battle for possession of Babe, Pussey Foot appears and denounces Florence, exposes the mock marriage and reunites the lovers.

A JOB FOR LIFE (No. 21694).—The cast: Dud (Charles Dudley); Bert (Bert Crapoe); Little Toodles (Florence Horkheimer); Chief of Police (Bruce Smith).

Miss Flo has been reading in the park about two crooks robbing girls. Bert and Dud, who have been reading the ads in the help wanted column, find that there is no position open for their peculiar talent and give it up. Bert goes about his way. He sees Miss Flo and flirts. She is amused and he takes it for encouragement. He sits beside her and plays with her pocketbook. Dud sees Bert take money out of the pocketbook. Determined to get the money Dud steals up behind and tries to grab it. Bert kicks him away. Dud plans to have a notorious gang of crooks abduct the woman and force her to give up the money. Bert has made a hit with Miss Flo and she suggests that they get something to eat. They go to a lunch counter, and, being fond of pie, she begins to "clean up" everything in sight.

In the meantime Dud, having gathered his gang, comes back looking for the girl but she has gone. Dud sees her at the lunch counter, and sends one of his men to buy a large number of pies. Dud wins the favor of Miss Flo because he can give her more pie. This starts a pie fight. Dud takes Miss Flo to the park where the crooks grab her and take her to the den. Because she refuses to give up her money, Dud gives her five minutes to agree or be blown to pieces by a bomb. Her father, who is the chief of police, reads about crooks in the park and is worried about his daughter. He goes out looking for her.

Bert, who has been looking for his lady love, encounters her father, who mistakes him for a crook. They fight and father knocks Bert down. Bert discovers a footprint of Dud and the girl, and he and father take up the trail, which leads to the den. They look in the window and see a bomb burning. Father goes after the rest of the police and Bert goes for water. The crooks, looking out of the window, see Bert and follow him. Bert runs to the edge of a cliff overlooking the sea, and does not know how to get down. The crooks knock him over, but he bounces back and knocks out the crooks. Throwing the rope which the crooks carried over the cliff, he slides down it, fills his pail with water, and then slides up the rope to the top of the cliff. Bert races back to the den with the water and arrives just as father appears with his force of police. Miss Flo is eventually rescued, and her father in gratitude gives the hand of his daughter to Bert, who thereby contracts "a job for life."

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

GOLD SEAL.

WON BY GRIT (Three Parts—Feb. 6).—The cast: William Hadfield (Neal Hart); Rose Montgomery (Mina Cunard); "Dago" Frank (Richard La Reno); Teresa (Lois Wilson); Mrs. Montgomery (Helen Wright). Written by Willis and Woods. Produced by George Marshall.

William Hadfield has made a fortune in cattle in the West and has come to the city to settle down. Rose Montgomery is about to become his fiancee, but his wealth is his only attraction for her.

While slumming, Rose and Hadfield with their party are guided into "Dago" Frank's dive. On leaving, Rose purposely drops her gloves, and later asks Hadfield to return for them. He laughs at her request, and she taunts him with being afraid. Suddenly awakened to her real feelings, he smilingly turns back, and soon after he enters the dive, a fight begins, and though Hadfield is a great fighter, he is soon at a disadvantage in struggling with Dago Frank and three gangsters at once. Teresa, Dago Frank's daughter, is a flower girl, of whom Hadfield has for some time been a customer. She has the greatest admiration for him. Seeing him weakening, she switches off the light and tells him that the door is open. He escapes and by mistake enters her room. She hides him and cares for his wounds.

Perceiving that she loves him for himself alone, Hadfield asks her to become his wife and go West with him. Dago Frank gives his consent.

Hadfield goes to Rose, returns the gloves and bids her a cold good-by.

POWERS.

GIANTS OF THE AMERICAN FOREST (Feb. 8).—A study of the Redwoods of California, which are among the oldest living things in the world. The cutting of one of the monsters is shown. The tremendous diameter of the logs necessitates blasting into more convenient size. They are then "snaked" by cable up the hillside, felling trees and underbush in their path. If the cable breaks, there is great loss of time and money. The log trains carry the logs to the saw mill. A ninety-two-inch board is shown, also a flume which carries bundles of boards sixty-five miles to Sanger. It drops 4,000 feet in the first six miles. At Sanger the boards are sorted and loaded on flat cars.

FEARLESS FREDDIE IN THE WOOLLY WEST (Cartoon Comedy—Feb. 11).—Fearless Freddie has many exciting adventures in the woolly West. First he becomes a cowboy, and attempts to ride a bucking broncho. Then he starts out in search of Indians, who shoot at him with their bows and arrows. He saves himself from being killed by waking in time to hear his mother telling him to go to bed.

JOYS AND TEARS OF CHINA, AS SEEN BY DOCTOR DORSEY (On Same Reel as Foregoing).—In this release we see the Chinese at work and at play. We pass along the streets lined with vendors, and see a wedding procession in which every one parades except the bride, who is forced to remain at home. It also shows the contrast between the funeral of a poor boy and of a Chinese prince.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

THE PURPLE MASK (Episode No. 7—"The Race for Freedom"—Two parts—Feb. 11).—The cast: Patricia Montez (Grace Cunard); Detective Paul Kelly (Francis Ford); Mrs. Van Nuys (Jean Hathaway); Silk Donahue (John Duffy); Pete Bartlett (Pete Gerald); Bull Sanderson (Jerry Ash); Stephen Dupont (John Featherstone); Jacques, the butler (Mario Biancnchi).

Kelly, acting upon the King's orders, arrested Pat. Detective Kelly is angered by the King's attitude and forgets himself. His language to the King angers his majesty and he is ordered under arrest. While the guard leaves Kelly alone with the King for a few moments, Kelly attacks his majesty, changes clothes with him and escapes. When the guard comes to arrest Kelly they find in his stead the King, bound hand and foot.

In the meanwhile, Pat has induced Kelly's assistant to unlock the handcuffs on her wrists. Members of the People's League enter the room, and Pat leads them in an attack upon Kelly's man. The assistant detective is shackled with the handcuffs to the arm of a chair. Pat makes her escape.

When Kelly flees from the palace he is directed by Duke Hestor to take a certain sleigh that will carry him to the border. When Kelly is safely across the border, the driver of the sleigh hands him a card, and it is then disclosed that it is Pat who has safely conducted him across the border. Kelly boards a taxi and is soon on his way to Paris, while Pat takes another car and goes to Paris by another route.

In Paris Kelly is summoned before the commandant of police and ordered to leave France, a long stay in America being suggested. Kelly has come under suspicion of the police because of the several escapades in which Pat has been concerned and in which Kelly has each time been baffled. On board the boat for America Kelly is astonished to see Pat and her aunt in the dining saloon. On the passage over, Pat interests herself in a poor woman, with a baby, who is traveling second class. The woman points out among the first class passengers a man and his wife, telling Pat that the man betrayed her, robbed her of all her money and then married the woman he is now with.

There is a costly string of pearls, the woman tells Pat, that was bought with her money. Now the wife of the woman's deceiver is wearing the pearls and other jewels, while the woman who provided the money through the ruthless actions of the man is penniless. Pat promises the woman that she shall be recompensed.

On the morning of the day the ship is due to land in New York, the pearls are stolen. The captain of the ship commissions Kelly to recover them, and as the episode ends, Kelly is just entering Pat's stateroom, prompted by his suspicions, to make a thorough search for the pearls among Pat's belongings.

L-KO.

THAT DAWGONE DOG—(Two parts—Feb. 7).—The cast: The butler (Sammie Burns); The girl (Vera Reynolds); The rich woman (Katharine Griffith). Produced by Dick Smith.

A valuable necklace is stolen from a rich woman. Sammie, the butler, offers a necklace to the maid so suspicion points to him. The rich woman notifies the police. Sammie and the maid have an afternoon off and they go to the park. Sammie offers the necklace again; the maid is about to accept it, when she sees it bears the tag of a 5 and 10 cent store and she scornfully returns it to him.

The real crook looks for a place in his room to hide the necklace, but cannot find one. He catches sight of the dog and puts the jewels in its collar.

Sammie comes across a girl weeping at the grave of Fido. A little girl appears with a dog. The dog-catchers' wagon also appears and attempt to take a bulldog, but don't succeed.

The crook goes to the station with his dog and ties it outside. Some one unties the dog, which runs away with the necklace still in its collar. Every one seems to have lost a dog, and a chase ensues. Sammie decides to buy one for the girl who is mourning Fido's loss, and goes to a dog store. He gets a big one and manages to upset several policemen and pedestrians with it. The dog catchers are so determined to arrest all dogs, that they even attempt to arrest a statue of one, which is broken in the scuffle.

Soon every one is hunting for a dog. After a terrific chase in which the police join, the whole party falls over a cliff, tangled in the remains of the dog catchers' wagon and the police automobile.

JOKER.

OUT FOR THE DOUGH—(Feb. 10).—The cast: James Cartottle (John Cook); His daughter (Lillian Peacocke); "Wandering" Webster (Wm. Franey); hired girl (Gale Henry); Lillian's sweetheart (Milburn Moranti). Scenario by Jack Cunningham. Produced by William Beaudine.

Cartottle catches his daughter, Lillian, and her sweetheart, Milt, making love; he kicks Milt so hard that he lands in a hay-stack. Then he leads Lillian into the house, telling her that she must be pleasant to the new minister, who is on the way to their house. Lillian, however, manages to get out to tell her troubles to her lover.

Meanwhile, "Wandering" Webster, a tramp, sneaks to the kitchen window and is seen by the hired girl, who can love anything in the shape of a man. She invites him into the kitchen to eat. Cartottle observes this and kicks the tramp out.

"Wandering" Webster meets the new minister driving a lazy horse, and reading the Bible at the same time. He forces the man to descend from the buggy and to exchange clothes with him.

When "Wandering" Webster arrives as the minister, Cartottle receives him with gusto. The visitor makes many demands with well-assumed nonchalance, and makes love to Lillian.

Having been informed by Milt that the hired girl is an heiress, the tramp proposes to her and soon afterward they became man and wife.

March 10th

IS THE DATE OF THE

TENTH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER

Last forms close Feb. 23rd.

He then finds that her fortune consists of a small pile of pennies. The real minister tells him he must stay by his marriage contract. Milt and Lillian have also been married.

REX.

LIFE'S PENDULUM (Two Parts—Feb. 4).—The cast: Bob (Robert Leonard); Hazel (Betty Schade); Dart (Harry Carter). Produced by Robert Leonard.

Hazel, a girl who has been living a vile life, becomes tired of it, and seeks an honorable position as maid. The leader of the gang to which Hazel had belonged, was Dart, known as the Earl of Sair when moving about in better society. This fellow had managed to gain the confidence of the wealthy family for whom Hazel worked. He also won the hand of Betty, their daughter. Betty's brother, Bob, is a good-hearted fellow. Hazel falls in love with him. Bob is impressed with the new maid, unaware of her former mode of life.

Hazel, familiar with the latest of Dart's intrigues, is terrified when she meets her recent companion in crime posing as a nobleman and deceiving a good but vain girl. Dart tries to win Hazel back as his confederate. Failing, he threatens that he will send her brother to jail if she reveals his identity.

Knowing the pain and shame that her family would have to endure, and the probability of losing the man she loves, and her brother, if she informs the authorities, she adopts a clever scheme. Seeing that Betty is entering the room, she allows Dart to kiss her. The sister tells Robert.

Dart returns to his old haunts and shortly afterward is killed in a fight with the police. Robert reads in the papers of Dart's double life and he shows the paper to Hazel. She can no longer restrain her emotion. She explains why she allowed Dart to caress her. Robert forgives her, and happiness follows for all.

THE MELODY OF DEATH—(Two parts—Feb. 8).—The cast: Ferranda (Douglas Gerrard); Nina (Maud George); Lorna (Ruth Clifford); Denis (Albert McQuarrie). Written by E. M. Ingleton. Produced by Douglas Gerrard.

Lorna and Denis have been engaged for some time. One day she receives a missive from Denis, breaking the engagement. She is heart-broken, but writes, telling him if the time comes when he has need of her, she will welcome him back.

Denis is infatuated with the singer, Nina, who is of the vampire type and sees in him only a means toward a luxurious life.

Ferrando, an organ grinder, plays continually a certain melody as he goes from door to door and seems ever on the lookout for some one. One night he plays in front of Nina's apartments. The tune brings back to her the memory of the days when she was happily married in faraway Italy, content with her husband, Ferrando, and their baby.

The maestro of the opera had heard her sing, offered her instruction, and finally made love to her until she ran away with him to America. Taking a few coins, she throws them to the organ grinder. He thus catches a glimpse of her.

That night he steals into her room, and portrays the death of their child and his vow of vengeance. He threatens her life, but she manages to wrest the knife from him and throw it into the street. But the hatred of the long months was not to be so easily thwarted and Nina pays the ultimate penalty.

The next morning, when Denis finds that Nina is dead, his thoughts revert to Lorna. As he is making his peace with her, fate decrees that Ferrando shall play his oft-repeated melody in front of their garden.

IN THE SHADOWS OF NIGHT (Feb. 11).—Jane and William, about four and five years old, are seen at the bedside, saying their night prayer, with their mother close by.

Years pass, and Jane is married. Her only child is about four years old. Her brother, William, has taken the downward path, and associates with a gang of crooks. Tired of always sharing the loot with the gang, he starts out to do a job himself. He enters a house and hears a child saying its prayer, "Now I lay me down to sleep."

He recalls how he and his sister used to say the same prayer together. He draws the curtain and sees his sister, with her little boy. This touches William's heart, and he is leaving, when Jane hears him. She takes a revolver and fires two shots through the curtain. William falls to the floor. Jane enters the room and is just in time to see her brother breathe his last.

BIG U.

RED VENGEANCE (Feb. 7).—The Indians and whites are living in peace until Johnson, the trapper, finds Peach Blossom in the fields and kidnaps her. The girl sees the Indian and calls to them. The trapper throws her to the ground and escapes. Eagle Eye, in revenge, kidnaps Johnson's boy and turns him over to Peach Blossom who cares for him and refuses to permit others to touch him.

Mrs. Johnson rides to the fort and informs the commander, who orders out a troop. The Indians break camp and are caught in a hollow, where they are captured by the soldiers and lodged in the stockade.

Big Rock and Peach Blossom scale the fence. Big Rock steals up behind the sentry, throws him to the ground and gets away. The soldiers pursue. The chief, exhausted, is overtaken and shot. The Indian woman draws a knife and plunges it into her own breast.

VICTOR.

THE VALLEY OF BEAUTIFUL THINGS—(Feb. 6).—The cast: Sea Foam (Peggy Custer); Prince Happy Day (Antrim Short); Zamba (Elsie Cort). Scenario by Fred Myton. Produced by Lule Warrenton.

Zamba, a wicked witch, finds a box washed up by the waves, and in it is a beautiful fairy child, Sea Foam.

Years later when Sea Foam has developed into a beautiful girl, Zamba uses her as a lure to draw travelers to a pool into which she pushes them after removing their valuables. Later they find themselves confined in a cavern.

The news of Sea Foam's unhappiness is brought by the Wind to the Goddess of the Good Fairies. It is discovered that love is the only charm that can overcome the machinations of Zamba. So, Prince Happy Day is sent to the rescue, but Zamba casts her spell over him and blinded, he goes the way of the others.

Sea Foam manages to elude the witch. When she kisses the Prince, the spell is broken and his sight restored. Fire flares up and consumes Zamba, and Sea Foam and Prince Harry Day are free.

THE HIGH COST OF STARVING (Feb. 9).—The cast: Sidney Simpson (Eugene Walsh); Mrs. Simpson (Eileen Sedgwick); chef (Al McKinnon); maid (Dolly Ohnet). Scenario by Maie Havey. Produced by Leslie T. Peacocke.

Mrs. Simpson attends a lecture on "Vegetarianism." She becomes a fanatic on the subject, and much to the disgust of Sidney, their servants, and the local butcher. The cat's chop is the only meat that is allowed to enter the house. Sidney manages surreptitiously to eat the chop. Then an idea strikes him.

He buys several kittens and tells his wife they must have at least three more chops daily.

Sidney reads in his paper an announcement of an epidemic in Russia, brought on by vegetarian diet, which causes terrible blotches on the face. He takes the cook and the maid into his confidence and they and Sidney pretend to be suffering, shaking violently all over. Sidney paints their faces with blotches of "Iodine," and also paints his wife's face. In awakening she is thoroughly alarmed and telephones for a plentiful supply of meat.

LAEMMLE.

A STUDIO CINDERELLA (Feb. 10).—The cast: Plain Jane (Jane Gail); The artist (Matt Moore).

Plain Jane, the Cinderella of the studio, loves the famous artist in spite of her rags. On afternoon she dresses herself in the clothes of a rich client. The artist is struck with her beauty, nurses her after an accident, and then marries her.

NESTOR.

HIS WIFE'S RELATIVES (Feb. 5).—The cast: Ma Smith (Mrs. Roberts); Pa Smith (Fred Gamble); "Big" Bill" Smith (Lee Moran); Eddie (Eddie Lyons); Cousin (Harry Nolan); Girl (Edith Roberts); Kid Sister (Lena Baskette). Written by Bess Meredyth. Produced by L. W. Chaudet.

Eddie, deeply in love with Edith, is invited to her home. He meets Pa Smith in his shirt sleeves; Ma Smith shouting orders to the others; the baby howling; the kid brother dashing about with a wooden horse; the kid sister, and "Big Bill" Smith, who bossed the whole family. Eddie was jollied by Bill, and when he asked Pa Smith if he could marry Edith, all the family listened at the door.

After the wedding, the family and friends accompanied Eddie and his wife to their new bungalow, where Bill broke some of the new dishes; the children jumped up and down on the bed; Pa passed the gift-cigars to all the friends, and they decided to stay for the night.

Edith and Ma slept in one bed; Bill and his friends in the other; Pa on the couch; the two youngest Smiths on the dining-table; and Eddie had the bath-tub.

The next morning Eddie rented the bungalow nearby and had two huskies move the furniture, when everyone rushed out to discover the trouble, Eddie told them this was his home and informed Edith that she must choose between him and her family, and the family returned home disgusted.

IMP.

AVARICE (Feb. 9).—The cast: The Ragpicker (Claire McDowell); Death (T. D. Crittenden); The Man (Leo Pearson); The Wife (Betty Schade). Scenario and production by E. Magnus Ingleton.

In a dirty, dilapidated hovel, lives an old ragpicker, who posseses a bag of gold and a magnificent diamond necklace.

While worshipping her hoard, Death appears and reviews the horrors of her life. All has been for worldly gain. When young and beautiful, she auctioned her body to the highest bidder; sold her son to the gallows for gold; and throttled a young woman to get possession of her jewels.

The woman shrinks from Death; then staggers forward, thrusting the gold into his face, which gradually changes into a skull. With a shriek, the coins and jewels falling from her fear-numbed fingers, she drops dead.

WHEN THIEVES FALL OUT (Two parts—Feb. 11).—The cast: Dan Wallace (Sidney Bracey); Olga Strogoff (Sonia Marcell); Herbert Wood (Harry Benham); Julia Dale (Mildred Gregory). Written by William H. Lippert. Produced by John Harvey.

Herbert Wood, a confidential clerk, is in love with Julia Dale. Mr. Dale approves of his suit for his daughter's hand, but Julia's mother favors Don Wallace, who poses as a society man, but in reality is the leader of a notorious gang of thieves. Affiliated with Wallace is Olga Strogoff. Wallace plans to discredit Herbert.

Wallace and Olga both attend the reception given at Dale's residence. Olga steals a watch from an old gentleman and drops it out of the window to the waiting gangster. Then she adroitly unclasps and removes from Julia's neck a pearl necklace. Herbert drops a card-case. Wallace picks it up, and, after enclosing the necklace taken from Julia, puts the card-case back in Herbert's pocket.

The old gentleman discovers the loss of his watch and Julia the loss of her necklace. Mr. Dale telephones to the police station, and Detective Lamar responds. Wallace announces that he knows Herbert to be the thief, as he saw him put the necklace in his coat-pocket. The detective searches him and the necklace is found. The arrest of Herbert is stopped by Mr. Dale, who declares there must be some mistake.

Wallace has apparently accomplished his purpose, as Julia will not recognize Herbert. But there is trouble in store for Wallace, as Olga betrays jealousy, and after trying to get him to desist in his attentions to Julia, she plans revenge.

Olga overhears Wallace giving directions to rob the safe of the office where Herbert is employed. Detective Lamar accuses Herbert and arrests him. On the way to the police station, Olga informs the detective of Herbert's innocence. The den is raided and Herbert, the detective, and half a dozen policemen engage in a fight with gangsters, who are ultimately subdued and led off to the police station. Wallace is shot while attempting to make his escape.

BISON.

THE OUTLAW AND THE LADY (Two parts—Feb. 10).—The cast: Cheyenne Harry (Harry Carey); Ruth Carter (Louise Lovely); Her father (Jack Richardson); sheriff (William Gettinger). Scenario and production by F. A. Kelsey.

Major Carter, owner of the Sunset mines, reads of a reward offered for Cheyenne Harry if captured. The butler gives him a telegram telling of the flooding of several shafts in his mine. He is soon on the way to the mine in his car. Ruth, his daughter, follows in her roadster.

In the hills, Cheyenne Harry reads the newspaper account of himself. As he looks at the road below he sees the sheriff and several of his men riding. Harry picks up a stone and succeeds in hitting the sheriff. The sheriff and his men dismount, but they can find no one. Harry has disappeared. Ruth's car sticks fast in crossing a stream, and when she sees Harry riding toward her, she calls to him to help her. At first he refuses, but he finally agrees to let her ride his horse while he leads it. He tells her that he is going to get even with her father by taking her to his hang-out. On the sly, she

JUST OFF THE PRESS
LOUIS REEVES HARRISON'S
SCREENCRAFT
or the Making of a Photoplay.
A University Education on the Subject.
$2.00 Postage Paid. Order from nearest office
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York
Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angles, Cal.

succeeds in tearing up some of her cards and scattering them along the way.

Down by the stream her father and the sheriff meet, and all start to trail the horse, after finding her car. Later they came across the torn cards, and it is an easy matter to find the cave. The sheriff calls to Harry to surrender and he answers with a shot. They exchange many shots and finally Ruth begs him to surrender and trust her. Harry consents and waves a flag of truce, but the sheriff shoots him through the shoulder. Ruth starts to bind Harry's wound and the men come up. She tells them that he is her prisoner, and that she will drive him back to town. The sheriff says a deputy must go along. Ruth agrees, and they start. She drives fast and is soon ahead of the other machine. She has engine trouble and the deputy gets out to see what is the matter. Quickly she starts the car and he is left behind. She drives to the river and points to Harry that his road lies ahead.

At dinner that night Ruth has a vision of Harry sitting at the table with her.

UNIVERSAL.

ANIMATED WEEKLY NO. 56 (Jan. 24).

Marching to Battle.—Bulgar soldiers and supply train rushing over mountains to repel foe—In the Balkans, near Erdlitz. Subtitle: Sighting mountain battery gun.

One of Ocean's Victims.—British schooner 'Wanola" driven ashore by storm—Point Allerton, Mass.

As Bad as the Women.—"Perfect 36's" exhibit 1917's fall styles in clothes for men folk—Cincinnati, Ohio. Subtitles: Trench coats. Evening dress.

Panama's New President.—Throngs honor Dr. Valdes at his inauguration as nation's ruler—Panama City, Panama. Subtitle: Going to take oath of office.

900 Animals Drown.—Sheep and cattle perish when tug rams slaughter-house lighter—New York Harbor, N. Y. Subtitles: Bull is only survivor. Hoisting them aboard.

Busy Week in Washington. Probing Peace Talk.—Capitol busy at Congressional inquiry into "tip" that netted millions—Washington, D. C. Subtitles: Barney Baruch, who denied profit. "Tom" Lawson, starter of probe.

Serbian Envoy Arrives.—Ljoubomir Michaelovitch, first minister from Serbia to United States, and his secretary as they left the State Department, after presenting credentials to Secretary Lansing—Washington, D. C. Samuel J. Gompers, founder and president of the American Federation of Labor, and Mrs. Gompers celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

Baby Guides Blind Lawmaker.—Five-year-old is sole companion to Congressman T. D. Schall, of Minneapolis, in 2,400 mile trip—Washington, D. C. Subtitle: How he'd protect daddy.

Making Riding Cheap.—New electric taxis prove success on invasion of West—Chicago, Ill. Subtitle: Batteries that drive car.

Burying Admiral Dewey.—Throngs pay last tribute to nation's hero, mourned everywhere American flag waves—Washington, D. C. Subtitles: The cortege. President honors dead warrior. "Taps."

Ending 2-year Fair.—Crowd witnesses impressive ceremonies as great Exposition closes—San Diego, Cal. Subtitles: Mme. Schumann-Heink gives medal for song. World peace message.

Lake Steamship Aground.—Indiana of the Goodrich line stranded on rocks of breakwater—Chicago, Ill. Subtitle: Fleet of tugs strive in vain to float giant craft.

Made in America.—New Spanish submarine "Isaac Peral," largest U-boat ever built in U. S., loads torpedoes and supplies for homeward voyage—New London, Conn. Subtitle: The crew.

Cartoons by Hy Mayer.

RED FEATHER.

LOVE AFLAME (Five parts—Jan. 29).—The cast: Betty Mason (Ruth Stonehouse); Jack Calvert (Jack Mulhall); Reginald (Jean Hersholt); Martha (Nita White); Mason (Raymond Whitaker); King's Favorite (Fronzie Gunn); Cannibal King (Noble Johnson). Scenario by Fred Myton. Produced by Raymond Wells.

One of the warriors decides he wants the king's favorite, and is about to carry her off by force, when flames burst forth from the sacred volcano, and according to the custom, the king is forced to accept the challenge for his supremacy. The favorite throws herself on the beach in despair, and is seized by white traders who hasten from the island.

Betty Mason, whose only regret is that she is not a boy, is excited on learning that her cousin, Reginald, is to visit her father; but when she finds he is sissified, her feelings change. Reginald, however, falls in love, and although her father is pleased at the idea of Betty settling down, she runs away, leaving a note that she has gone West, wearing her brother's clothes, and if Reginald can catch her she will marry him.

In a city club three young men are discussing women's rights. Jack Calvert declares he can start without a cent and reach Constantinople by November 6, but that no woman can do it. A bystander calls his bluff, bets $5,000 and Jack, fearing the jeers of his friends, starts out.

Betty, who is traveling the "box-car route," hears groans and discovers Jack, and they soon become friends. A brakeman puts them off the train, and they join a gang of tramps. Jack says he must be in Constantinople by the sixth, and Betty says she will go with him.

Reginald, speeding across the country, gets a flashing glimpse of Betty, but the conductor will not allow him to get off the moving train.

Betty and Jack reach the coast, and smuggle aboard a boat about to sail for Constantinople. In foraging for food Betty runs into Reginald, so she and Jack make a dive for a fishing launch lying at anchor nearby. They are hauled aboard by the traders and the king's favorite. Betty's disguise is detected by one of the traders; but Jack innocently comes to her rescue, and a fight ensues in which the ruffians are thrown overboard and orders the favorite to steer for Constantinople.

Suddenly a quall hits the launch and they are shipwrecked on the Cannibal Island. The king recognizes his favorite, and all are taken to his palace. Jack and Betty learn they are to constitute the principal dish at a feast to be held next day; and the favorite comes to their rescue by suggesting that Jack challenge the king. The sacred volcano again belches forth, and during the fight Jack hurls the king into the crater.

A launch approaches the shore, and as Betty recognizes Reginald, she and Jack descend by another route, and secure the launch. They reach Constantinople in time, and find the boys. At a banquet Mr. Mason introduces his daughter Betty, Jack is overcome with surprise, and is glad to change his views regarding womankind in general, and one woman in particular, who promises to tramp by his side forever.

THE SCARLET CRYSTAL (Five Parts—Feb. 5).—The cast: Priscilla (Betty Schade); Vincent Morgan (Herbert Rawlinson); Marie Delys (Dorothy Davenport); Maxfield Durant (Raymond Whitaker); Peggy Lovel (Marie Hazleton); Helen Forbes (Gertrude Aster); Billy Van Duyn (Dick Ryan). Written by J. Grubb Alexander. Produced by Charles Swickard.

Priscilla Worth, an innocent country girl, goes to the city to visit her aunt, a typical society butterfly, who has sent for her, thinking her child-like simplicity will afford a welcome relief to Vincent Morgan, a wealthy bachelor, and man about town. The plan works well. Vincent marries Priscilla, and takes her on a tour around the world. However, one of his sweethearts, Marie Delys, a vampire chorus girl, resents being cast aside; and after Vincent returns, although he struggles with his better nature, he again succumbs to her charm. Priscilla grieves, but the memory of his love keeps alive her faith.

Maxfield Durant, an artist, who painted her portrait when she first came to the city, had also fallen in love with her, but before he declared his love, she accepted Vincent. He advertises for a model who is beautiful, but not of the brazen type, and secures Peggy Lovel, a girl from the slums. Both Vincent, who is having Marie's picture painted, and his friend, Billy Van Duyn, become interested in Peggy. This arouses Marie's jealousy.

Priscilla, remembering her portrait, requests Durant to bring it to her. He cannot refrain from showing his great love. Vincent, seeing this, flies into a terrible rage. Priscilla, conscious of no wrong, seeks consolation in the coming of her child. She gazes into a crystal which they brought from Egypt, and views scenes of horror, but her love for her husband renews her faith in him.

FAC-SIMILE PAINTING

in a beautiful gilt 3-inch width frame—size over all 25x22 inches. Pictures are painted in oils and water colors of every popular player, all made from poses to appropriately f. this style of frame. Complete with brass name plate .....$5.00 each

New Colored Catalogue Now Ready

New Colored Catalogue Now Ready

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES

Size 22x28 inches. Every prominent player .....75c. each

FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $2.50 to $35 framed. Quotations submitted on any size, framed or unframed.

THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.00 per thousand, of over 600 players. Made by a process that has the appearance of a real photograph. The indispensable article for your mailing list.

PHOTOGRAPHS, size 8x10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11x14, all the prominent players, 20c.; in aluminum frames, 50c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, including stars from the stage, $10 per thousand.

SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 50c. each.

KRAUS MFG. CO.

220 West 42nd Street, NEW YORK

12th Floor, Candler Building

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples, free. Write us, giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

The Moving Picture Guide

FOR TEN YEARS

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

PRICES

Five Thousand	$1.25
Ten Thousand	2.50
Fifteen Thousand	3.75
Twenty-five Thousand	5.50
Fifty Thousand	7.50
One Hundred Thousand	10.00

Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Prize Drawings, 5,000 $2.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets 5,000 to 25,000 fifteen cents per thousand, 50,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.

NATIONAL TICKET CO.

Shamokin, Pa.

Durant, unable to longer endure being so near Priscilla, closes his studio and becomes a wanderer. This throws Peggy out of employment, and she goes to Vincent, seeking help for herself and invalid mother. Billy, intoxicated, wants her, but Vincent sends her away, and takes Billie to his home. Peggy, knowing her mother's need of food, returns to Vincent's apartment, where he finds her asleep.

As Vincent removes the glass stopper from a bottle of liquor, he sees, as in a crystal; Peggy sacrificing herself, and being sneered at by Billy. She returns home, finds her mother is dead, and takes to drugs to forget her dishonor. Finally she goes to a cafe where Marie and Vincent are drinking, and falls dead at the foot of the stairs, while Marie stabs Vincent and herself.

The horror of this vision awakens Vincent's better nature and he sends Peggy home unharmed. Priscilla, who has been waiting with her baby, sees in the crystal, the fight for Vincent's soul, and when the face of the Christus appears, she knows the victory is won. Soon after, Vincent returns repentant.

Mutual FilmCorporation

AMERICAN.

THE OLD SHERIFF (Feb. 10).—The cast: The old sheriff (George Periolat); His granddaughter (Pauline Bush); Her husband (Jack Richardson); The new sheriff (J. Warren Kerrigan).

Ben Gleason, the old sheriff, whose gun was decorated with seven notches, was replaced by a younger man, Clem McCarten. The old sheriff is forced to go to his granddaughter's home to live, where he is welcomed by her. Clem goes to call on the old man often and Maud's husband mistakes his purpose and is jealous.

Some time later Clem is wounded and taken to Maud's home, where she proceeds to dress his wounds. The old sheriff gets out to capture the outlaw that shot Clem and manages to kill him. He discovers that he has shot Maud's husband. The old sheriff returns to the house, and, being too weak to perform the task, he asks Clem to cut the last notch on the gun for him. When this has been done the old man sinks to his last rest and Maud seeks shelter in Clem's arms.

CUB.

JERRY'S BIG DOINGS (Jan. 18).—Jerry being in hard luck answers an ad for a valet. After knocking out all of the other applicants Jerry lands the job. He falls in love with the daughter of the house and this precipitates him into much trouble. Finally Jerry is forced to the top of a telephone pole, but is dragged down by the police and taken away.

JERRY'S BIG RAID (Feb. 8).—The cast: Jerry (George Ovey); the girl (Goldie Colwell); the cameraman (George George). Directed by Milton Fahrney.

After numerous vicissitudes in an effort to enter the studio Jerry obtains a job as an actor with a motion picture company. He examines everything, and soon gets into trouble.

The company proceeds into the slums to take some exteriors. Jerry, playing a detective, with a shining badge pinned to his coat, is very proud and shows off before a pretty girl who appears at a window. The girl flirts with him and following her he gets into a den of thieves. The girl believed him to be harmless but upon seeing the badge surmises he is an officer. She summons her brother crooks, who attack Jerry and throw him into a closet, believing him unconscious. But Jerry has divined that his assailants are crooks, and climbing out of a window he summons a policeman, who telephones for a patrol.

Meanwhile the director has requisitioned the services of one of the crooks. The police find the crook and arrest him. Jerry and other officers go into the house and soon emerge with the crooks and loot; and all are carted off to the police station. The zealous cameraman photographs the entire proceedings.

At the police station the difficulties are unraveled and Jerry, to gain the good will of the policemen, photographs them, though not with much success, as the exposed film rolls into his pocket instead of the camera magazine.

VOGUE.

THE MUSICAL MARVEL (Two parts—Feb. 11).—The cast: The piano player (Ben Turpin); His wife (Gypsie Abbott); The Western Bad Man (Ed Laurie).

The piano player falls in love with the wife of the bad man. The bad man meets the piano player and tells him that his wife is in the East; and so they decide to go and find her, the pianist not realizing who the girl is. Later Ben, the pianist, becomes the leader of the orchestra and gets into a fight with the violinist. The comedy ends with a chase, a wrecked theater and a bomb explosion which sends them all sky high.

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION.

PARDNERS — (Five parts — Jan. 29).—The cast: Olive (Charlotte Walker); Justus Morrow (Richard Tucker); Alonzo Struthers (Leo Gordon); John Graham (Charles Sutton).

Justus Morrow, a young Englishman of family and some wealth, went to Alaska to make his fortune during the heyday of prosperity on Caribou Creek. He leaves his wife, a brilliant young actress, and small son at home. During the early days of his introduction into the society of Rampart City, a typical mining town of the early 90's, Morrow made himself understood and respected by "cleaning out" the gambling house run by "Single-Out" Wilmer and "Curley" Bud, Wilmer's partner, a performance that won for him the instant respect of "Bill" Joyce, a miner and "quick draw" exponent of the difference between right and wrong, who took Morrow into partnership.

It was during the melee at Wilmer's gambling place that R. Alonzo Struthers, Sunday supplement photographer, representing a syndicate of American newspapers, snapped the troublous scene, with Morrow and "Bill" Joyce celebrating the victory of the former, and incidentally made pictures of subsequent scenes in which a score or more of miners and dance hall women were displayed drinking at tables, dancing and generally carousing.

Struthers, impressed with the splendid action of the photographs that resulted from his flashlight activities, showed them to Morrow, who recognized that Struthers had staged the more picturesque of the dance hall scenes, participating in them himself and permitting another man to operate the flash.

Morrow pointed out to Struthers that his wife would be sure to see the pictures if they were printed in the United States papers and forbade him to use them, thus letting the photographer into an understanding of the fact that Morrow was well connected and that his wife might "start something" if she recognized him as being involved in a gambling house row.

After Struthers' departure by the outgoing boat and the long mail delay of arctic weather, Morrow was struck speechless one day to receive notice of suit for divorce filed by his wife in San Francisco. It did not take Morrow long to start for the States, accompanied, of course, by his partner, "Bill" Joyce. Nor did it take long, once the young miner arrived in San Francisco, to discover that Struthers had sent broadcast, for Sunday publication, pictures taken by him in the gambling house, but that worst of all, he had substituted the head of Justus Morrow on the dance hall pictures of himself, taken in various familiar poses with dance hall women.

Without definite knowledge as to where he might find his wife, Morrow accidentally discovered her and the son, singing in a vaudeville house in San Francisco, but was refused an interview by the indignant woman, who believed that the camera could not lie.

In this crisis "Bill" Joyce proved equal to the occasion. He invaded the apartments of

All eyes on a line
FOCO
ADJUSTABLE OPERA CHAIR
Can be changed from adult's chair to child's chair by pressing catch and raising.
Write for booklet
Family Opera Chair St. Louis, Mo.

Non-Breakable and Sanitary STEEL
HIGH Quality
and
LOW Price
CAST IRON
Opera Chairs
immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating. Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.

STEEL FURNITURE CO.
Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

REEL BANDS WITH A METAL BUTTON
Extra Strong Stock, Linen Twine and Metal Button makes the life of this band quadruple any you have ever bought. Vault Can Bands of the same material, 1 in. wide, are time savers.
$1.25 a 100 $10.00 a 1000 Printing Extra
Express Caution Labels, $1.00 a 1000
Postal Caution Labels, $1.00 for 500
P. A. GREEN, 131 N. Wash. St., BOSTON, MASS.

HIGHEST GRADE
Developing and Printing
FILM TITLES
We guarantee all work, give prompt delivery, at lowest prices. Can furnish Expert Camera Man on short notice.
STANDARD MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
R. 1628, 5 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago
Phone: Randolph 6693

For Perfect Laboratory Results
INSTALL
CORCORAN TANKS
A. J. CORCORAN, Inc. 11½ JOHN STREET NEW YORK CITY

PATENTS
Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

The Automatic TICKET SELLING AND CASH REGISTER CO.
MANUFACTURERS OF AUTOMATICKET MACHINES
and all kinds of Theatre Tickets
USED UNIVERSALLY
1735 BROADWAY N.Y. CITY

Mr. Exhibitor:—You will get more helpful information by carefully reading one trade paper weekly than by skimming over three or four. The MOVING PICTURE WORLD is the one paper you need.

CINE-MUNDIAL
A monthly publication, printed in Spanish and devoted exclusively to the interests of the moving picture industry throughout South America and Spanish-speaking countries.

MORE than 5,000 exhibitors and film buyers in Latin America receive our publication monthly. Is it possible that you are not interested in this new market?
ADVERTISING RATES: $50 A PAGE
CINE-MUNDIAL
17 Madison Avenue New York

Mrs. Morrow by a ruse, demanded an explanation on behalf of his partner, threatened to kill half the police of San Francisco if she didn't listen to him quietly, sought and found Struthers and dragged him to the family confessional with a gun muzzle in his ear—in short, brought Mrs. Morrow to a realizaton of the folly of hasty judgments and left "pardner" with his wife in his arms and "the kid" squeezed up a delighted little bundle between them.

GAUMONT.

REEL LIFE NO. 41 (Feb. 11).—Since in the majority of cases disease germs enter the body through the mouth, the Gaumont Company calls attention to the "safety first" reason for the individual drinking cup. The common drinking cup is pilloried as "sanitation's greatest foe," and even the bubble fountain is blamed for an epidemic of tonsilitis at the University of Wisconsin. Pictures show the individual drinking up in its various processes of manufacture.

Just how the cost of the egg increases as it passes from the farmer to the consumer through the various middlemen who take toll for it is shown by highly instructive and interesting charts. They have been animated at the Gaumont Studio, and it is a highly diverting sight to see the egg itself lecture on its rising cost.

"Queer Fish with Shells" is a section devoted to the soft, boneless creatures protected by a hard outer covering. Among those which excite interest are the Littorina which conceal themselves by resting on objects of the same color, the Trochus or Top Shell, the Purple fish, the Trumpet Shell, the Aeolis and the Haliotis, used in the manufacture of "mother of pearl." While the names have a scientific, foreboding sound, the pictures are among the best of this kind ever made by Gaumont.

The reel concludes with a short exposition of how to hypnotize an alligator.

TOURS AROUND THE WORLD, NO. 15 (Feb. 13).—What the French are pleased to call the "eighth wonder" of the world—Mount St. Michel—has a prominent place in this issue of "Tours Around the World." At high tide the tiny place is an island. It is a towering pinnacle of granite topped by a Benedictine monastery which is an admirable example of military and monastic architecture as developed from the twelfth to the fifteenth century.

The pictures give a general view of the islet, which is 165 feet high with a circumference of 3,000 feet. Various architectural features are dwelt upon, and there are special pictures of the Museum, the Cloister, Chapel St. Aubert and the Rocks and Tower of Gabriel.

On the same reel are beautiful pictures contrasting the wild nomad life of Morocco and the result of civilization's softening influence as seen at Casablanca, the Atlantic seaport. Camp life is shown in the desert and at the foot of the Atlas mountains. A military caravan is an interesting sight. The narrow-gauge military railway, as seen at Casablanca, is the first railway in Moroco.

A third section is "Around Lake Iseo" in Northern Italy. This is a small but beautiful body of water at the foot of the Alps. Bordering Lake Iseo are Lovere, Predore and Capodi-Ponte. The scenery is typical of this part of Italy, and the villages are a picturesque mingling of the Swiss and Italian architecture.

SEE AMERICA FIRST, NO. 75 (Feb. 14).—One of the marvels of the last decade has been the rapid growth of Los Angeles, the metropolis of southern California. The Gaumont Company pictures the present city in this issue of "See America First." The characteristic views of Los Angeles include pictures of Broadway, the city's principal thoroughfare; Central Park, in the heart of the city; Angel's Flight, the ascent to the highest point in the city; Hollenbeck Park; County Court House; Museum of Art, Science and History; Plaza Church, erected in 1814; Trinity Auditorium, housing the largest institutional church in the United States; Palm Drive, and the National Soldiers' Home, located at Sawtelle, a suburb.

In addition to these places of individual interest there are pictures typical of the home life of the city which show just how the visitor falls a willing victim to this hospitable, semi-tropical mecca for winter tourists.

"Taming Tony," a Kartoon Komic, relates with a pencil pointed with fun the adventures of a pugnacious gentleman who is able to "clean up the street" with every one who crosses him. He does not meet defeat until he reaches his own home and courageously attempts to treat his wife as he has treated every one he has met hitherto.

MUTUAL.

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 109 (Jan. 31).

New York City.—"Leak" investigators to question Wall Street. Congressional committee here to trace report that advance information caused stock slump. Subtitle: Sherman L. Whipple, noted Boston lawyer, counselor for the committee.

Eureka, Cal.—Rescuing vessel is stranded. U. S. S. "Milwaukee" goes ashore trying to save Submarine H-3. Subtitle: Group from ill-fated ship, with Lieut. W. F. Newton, her commander, in center.

Washington, D. C.—Noted labor leader celebrates Golden Wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Gompers on fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.

New York City.—Big fire endangers Bellevue Hospital. Firemen fight stubborn four alarm blaze that threatens city institution.

New York City. What the men are wearing. (Courtesy of Nat Lewis, haberdasher, New York.) Subtitles: Business suits; Shepherd plaid, overcoat to match. Black beaver hat. Brown homespun Norfolk Togo French coat. Shepherd plaid; box pleat back; side pockets; storm cuffs. Togo French coat, adjustable collar; gun metal buckles on belt and cuffs.

St. Louis, Mo.—Free bridge over Mississippi opened. Mayor Kiel clears way for the first foot passengers across $6,000,000 structure that took nine years to build.

New York City.—Pleasure craft suitable for war. Uncle Sam shows type of small vessel at Motor Boat Show which can be converted into submarine chaser in time of war.

The Serbs Are Going Back to Serbia.—Savage patriotism impels men in war to regain their native land. Subtitles: With the Serbian army in the Balkans. This is what remains of an army of strong, tough enduring peasants. In their retreat the Bulgars blew up the only two bridges in Brod. The battle of Ozerna Reka. The wounded are carried to the rear on mule back. The ground is covered with the bodies of the Bulgars. The little Serbian graveyard. Many Bulgarian prisoners were taken.

New York City.—Wear black at wedding. Unconventional pair startle friends at ceremony by black costumes unrelieved by touch of color.

Feature Subjects

METRO PICTURES CORP.

THE END OF THE TOUR (Columbia Pictures Corp.—Five parts—Feb. 5).—The cast: Byron Bennett, "Buddy" (Lionel Barrymore); Grace Jessup (Ethel Dayton); Col. Jessup (Frank Currier); "Skinny" Smith (Walter Hiers); "Solly" Harris (Richard Thornton); Hattie Harrison (Maud Hill); Mrs. Ryan (Kate Blancke); Percy Pernington (J. Herbert Frank). Adapted and directed by George D. Baker.

Col. Jessup of Mayville does not waste any affection on his young wife, who finally runs away with a theatrical company, taking her son with her, but leaving her baby daughter. Later, she dies, and the boy, known as Byron Bennett, is leading man for a theatrical company playing one night stands. The season, however, has been disastrous, and the company is about to disband, when they receive word that the house is sold out for the performance at Mayville; so they hang on. However, the manager collects the receipts for the performance, and takes the first train, leaving the company stranded.

Byron, who is known as Buddy, secures a position as instructor for the Jessup Volunteer Hose Company which is to give an amateur theatrical performance. He persuades Grace Jessup's father to allow her to take the leading part in order to out-do Hose Company No. 1, which also plans a performance.

Grace becomes interested in Percy Pennington, a traveling salesman. He tries to persuade her to elope, but she refuses until he makes a definite promise of marriage. He boasts, however, to Buddy and his friend, Skinny, and intimates that the promise will not be carried out. Soon after, he starts out riding with Grace.

Buddy is suspicious and follows on a bicycle,

FILM POSTERS
ONE MILLION SHEETS, COMPRISING OVER Five Thousand Subjects, in One, Three and Six Sheets. Write me your Needs.
AL. JENSEN, 110 Fourth Ave., New York

STAR CARBONS
Jones & Cammack
Sole Distributors for the U. S.
Corner Bridge and Whitehall Sts., New York

TransVerteR
Automatically supplies only such voltage as arc requires. No waste of current in ballast.
HERTNER ELECTRIC & MFG. CO.
431 Prospect Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, U. S. A.

FOR SALE
Mailing Lists
MOVING PICTURE THEATRES
Every State — Total 24,000
Price, $3.50 per M.
1400 Film Exchanges..... $4.00
206 Manufacturers and Studios..... $1.50
235 Picture Machine and Supply Dealers..... $1.50
Particulars
A. F. WILLIAMS, 166 W. Adams St., Chicago

EVERYTHING FOR YOUR PLAYHOUSE
MACHINES
SUPPLIES—REPAIR PARTS

All makes of machines carried in stock. We equip theatres completely.
"The Exhibitors Mail Order House"
HOMMEL'S
947 PENN AVE. PITTSBURGH, PA.

Are You Tired
of playing waltzes and popular songs for all your pictures? Try "bringing out" the dramatic scenes with dramatic music. The Orpheum Collection
contains the best music of this kind published. Issued in Three Series:
No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.
Piano (24 pages each), 58 cts. for each series; $1.15 for any two; $1.70 for all three. Violin, 40 cts. each; 75 cts. for any two; $1.05 for all three. Cornet, 35 cts. each; 65 cts. any two; 95 cts. all three. First and second series have parts for Cello, Flute, Clarinet, Trombone and Drums. Practical for Piano alone, or in combination with any above instruments. Discounts on orders for four or more parts. Send for free sample pages. Note new address.
CLARENCE E. SINN
1103 Grace Street Chicago, Ill.

Minusa Gold Fibre Screens; Sanozone, the perfect deodorant; Power, Simplex and Baird Machines; Motor Generator Sets and General Supplies.
LEWIS M. SWAAB
1327 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dependable Terminals
at a reasonable price. At your exchange—or write the manufacturers.

Bell & Howell Co.
1801 Larchmont Ave.
Chicago, Ill.

but is outdistanced. At last, however, he sees the horse tied by the roadside, and hears Grace scream. Rushing to her assistance he overcomes Percy, and carries Grace home, in a fainting condition.

Col. Jessup, thinking Bud is the culprit, fires at him twice. One bullet lodges in the shoulder, while the other is stopped by Buddy's watch in which he carries a picture of his mother. Grace regains consciousness and explains matters; and Jessup is amazed to find the picture in the watch is that of his wife. The doctor advises that Buddy will recover, and there is a reconciliation between father, son and daughter.

THE GREAT SECRET (Chapter VI—"The Dragon's Den"—Two parts—Feb. 12).—Strong, badly injured in his encounter with the gangsters, is carried back to his apartment and put in charge of Miss Tredwell, a girl detective, who dresses as a trained nurse. During this time the gangsters, who are working under orders from The Secret Seven, carry Beverly to a den in which lives a Chinese doctor, Git Sin, who is reputed to possess hypnotic powers. "Bull" Whalen, leader of the gangsters, tries to persuade Git Sin to exercise his hypnotic powers on Beverly, in the hope that he will obtain from her the whereabouts of the treasure left by old Clarke. Chief of Detectives Ackerton is holding the treasure, but neither Beverly nor The Secret Seven knows this, and the thugs believe Beverly alone can tell where the millions are hidden.

Git Sin refuses to listen to the pleadings of Whalen. The Chinaman is afraid of the white man's law. He consents to hold Beverly in his den, and she is taken to a room by a white woman and there ordered to don a Chinese costume. The Chinese physician leers at the young prisoner, an act which arouses the jealousy of his white wife.

While Beverly is in this plight, the police are making a frantic search for her. The newspapers publish stories of their raid on the gangster's rendezvous and tell how Strong was beaten there while searching for the kidnapped girl. Mrs. Morton and Eunice see the newspaper stories, and Eunice sends a letter to Strong telling him their engagement is at an end.

Just after he has received the letter Mrs. Clarke, Beverly's mother, calls on him and demands that he find some trace of her daughter. She begins blaming him for Beverly's disappearance, but his frank explanation of how he searched for her daughter shows her his true nature and she apologizes for her suspicions.

Dr. Zulph, the arch-conspirator of The Secret Seven, blames Strong for the trouble his hirelings are having in their efforts to get hold of the treasure. He orders a drawing of lots to see who shall kill Strong. A band of men wearing black hoods take part in the drawing, and the one who is chosen as the assassin receives instructions to break into Strong's apartment and stab him. This action is taken without the knowledge of The Great Master, who—a man of wealth and intelligence—is at his country home on the banks of the Hudson. Here he is seen smooth-shaven, sleek-looking, although as the leader of The Secret Seven he wears a closely-cropped mustache. After the assassin has started for Strong's home The Great Master receives word of Zulph's order.

Wearing the sable hood which covered his head when he drew the fatal lot, the assassin creeps into the place. Strong, having been given a sleeping potion by Miss Tredwell, is in a coma. The detective-nurse is dozing in a chair in an adjoining room. The "sable hood" tiptoes past her, goes to Strong's bedside, raises a large knife which he carries and prepares to strike.

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.

THE MYSTERIOUS MRS. M. (Five parts—Feb. 5).—The cast: Raymond Van Seer (Harrison Ford); Phyllis Woodman (Mary MacLaren); Mrs. Musselwhite (Dorothy Bernard); Green (Willis Marks); Dr. Woodman (Frank Brownlee); clubmen (Bertram Grassby and Charles Mailes).

Raymond Van Seer, wealthy, has become morose and dissatisfied with life. His mental mood has worried his friends and when his true condition of mind is disclosed by the discovery that he is reading a book entitled "Famous Suicides," action becomes necessary. One of Van Seer's club friends has recently visited a fortune teller, known as "The Mysterious Mrs. M.," and relates his experiences to Van Seer. As a result of the combined urgings of his friends, Van Seer visits the sorceress.

When she tells Van Seer that on a given date he will meet with a painful accident while out of doors, Van Seer hopes to thwart whatever truth there may be in her prognostication by remaining indoors, at his club, all day. Despite the invitations of his friends to venture forth, Van Seer sticks within his room until late in the afternoon, fire is discovered in the clubhouse and, with the other occupants, Van Seer rushes forth.

Just as he is crossing the threshold, he trips, falls headlong to the sidewalk and breaks his wrist. He will have none of the attentions offered by the club physician, but takes his machine and rides to his country seat, where he submits his broken wrist to the treatment of Dr. Woodman, the family physician.

Prompted by a desire to further test the abilities of the seeress Van Seer again visits "The Mysterious Mrs. M." She informs him that on a certain date, still three months away, he is to die suddenly. As a token of his disbelief Van Seer gives her an order on his executor to pay her an immense sum of money if he shall die in accord with Mrs. Musselwhite's prophecy. The fortune teller hands him back the order, stating that his money will do her no good as she is herself going to die within a week.

Van Seer bribes the fortune teller's butler to keep him advised of Mrs. Musselwhite's health. On the day the woman has set for her death, the butler calls Van Seer to the phone and informs him that Mrs. Musselwhite has died. Being now thoroughly convinced of the woman's ability Van Seer contemplates the likelihood of his own death as specified—but now he wants to live.

Dr. Woodman's daughter, Phyllis, has come home from college. Van Seer has fallen in love with her, but believing that his day of death is fixed by fate he refrains from advancing his own cause while all the time Phyllis is in love with him. So matters continue until Van Seer's last day on earth.

He spends the hours alone, locked in his library, watching the hands of the clock approach the hour of midnight. When at last the hour of midnight arrives and passes with Van Seer still alive he is suddenly aroused to the realities of life by having his club friends burst in upon him with a letter from "The Mysterious Mrs. M."

She has, all along, acted in the employ of Van Seer's club friends and has prognosticated and acted along previously decided lines. Rejoicing in his good health, good fortune and the love of Phyllis, there is the happy ending of Van Seer's romance of life and death.

FOX FILM CORP.

THE SCARLET LETTER (Five parts—Feb. 12).—In old Puritan Boston some two hundred and fifty years ago a girl was born. Her mother was Hester Prynne. Her father was "unknown." This story opens as Hester Pryne is led to the pillory. On her breast is a scarlet "A." In her arms lies the infant Pearl. The Rev. Wilson and the Governor urge her to reveal the name of the child's father. She refuses and the Rev. Arthur Dimmesdale is asked to plead with her. She does not heed the pastor's request to reveal the name of the father of her child.

A bent old man enters the square. He recognizes Hester and she him. Hate sweeps his face. Hester is taken back to prison and the old man, Chillingworth, is admitted to her cell as a physician. He is Hester's husband. He berates her and leaves, threatening to drag her lover from his hiding.

Next day Hester goes to live in a cottage beyond the settlement. She endures insults and humiliation. Meantime, Rev. Dimmesdale's health gives way under a strange malady. Chillingworth is told to care for him.

Years pass and Pearl grows into girlhood. The heads of the colony seek to separate her from Hester and raise her under the church. Hester resists in vain, but Dimmesdale's plea saves the little family. Chillingworth comments on the earnestness of the pastor's plea.

A few days later, Dimmesdale sees Pearl in the cemetery near his home. With burrs she has formed an "A" on her breast. Dimmesdale staggers to his bed and falls unconscious. To revive the pastor, Chillingworth opens his shirt. He seems to see a scarlet "A" branded on Dim-

FOR SALE
NEW PRINTS OF D. W. GRIFFITH—BIOGRAPH RELEASES STARRING MARY PICKFORD, BLANCHE SWEET, HENRY WALTHALL AND OTHER MONEY MAKERS—WITH POSTERS
Edward M. Roskam, 1003 Candler Bldg., N. Y. C.

Developing and Printing
We have equipped the largest and most complete laboratory in the Southwest.
Highest Quality Finishing
Quick and Reliable Service
EXPERT CAMERAMEN AT YOUR SERVICE
COMMERCIAL FILMS MADE
Overland Park Film Mfg. Co.
1234 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.

"ARGONAUTS OF CALIFORNIA"
DAYS OF '49
A Thrilling Historical Masterpiece in 10 Reels
Grafton Publishing Film Company
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING.

Clune Film Producing Company
Los Angeles, California
Producers of "RAMONA" (10 reels) and "THE EYES OF THE WORLD" (10 reels)
Harold Bell Wright's famous love story of adventure, of which nearly 2,000,000 copies have been sold, magnificently reproduced. Available for state rights.

NATIONAL DRAMA CORP.
1465 BROADWAY
NEW YORK CITY

Willis & Inglis
Wright and Callender Building
LOS ANGELES, CAL.
AFFILIATIONS
Reehm & Richards, Strand Bldg., New York
Edward A. Wheeler, Schiller Bldg., Chicago
Lyall Willis, London, England
MANAGEMENT
ENGAGEMENTS
FINANCING
BOOKS AND PLAYS
STUDIO LIGHTING
PUBLICITY

The 10th ANNIVERSARY NUMBER will be referred to for years as a guide to the progress made in this industry from 1907 to 1917. Biggest advertising value ever offered. March 10th. Advertising Forms close Feb. 23rd.

ADVANCED PROJECTION OF INTOLERANCE
D. W. GRIFFITH'S COLOSSAL SPECTACLE at the LIBERTY THEATRE, NEW YORK, introduces NEW IDEAS in the ART of PROJECTION. The WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS are equipped with SPECIAL SPEED CONTROLS and TIME REGISTERING DEVICES so that the Musical Director has absolute control of the SPEED, thereby SYNCHRONIZING the MUSIC perfectly with the PICTURE. For the WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS equipped with TIME REGISTERING Devices and Perfect Arc Control Rheostats, consult the Exclusive Distributor
B. F. PORTER, 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK

mesdale's chest. Chillingworth glares with fiendish glee.

Regaining consciousness late in the night, the pastor runs into the square and mounts the pillory, crying out to the sleeping town. He faints and recovers as Hester and Pearl enter at dawn. He calls them and together they stand on the pillory. When the town begins to stir they go to the beach. Hester begs Dimmesdale to flee with her and the child to another land. The pastor embraces the woman and child. Chillingworth watches from behind a rock. In parting Hester casts away the scarlet "A."

Chillingworth cries out to the town that Hester has bewitched Dimmesdale. Guards seize her in her cottage and drag her to the square.

Attracted by the tumult, Dimmesdale rushes into the square as Hester is being tied to the stake. Pushing through the frenzied mob he stands beside her. As he confesses himself the father of Pearl, he tears open his shirt and reveals an "A" seared on his chest.

The throng draws back in awe. Hester frees herself and catches Dimmesdale as he falls. She lifts his head into her lap; he opens his eyes, kisses Hester and Pearl and dies.

WORLD-PICTURES.

A HUNGRY HEART (Peerless—Five parts—Feb. 5).—The cast: Frou Frou (Gilberte Brigard) (Alice Brady); Comte Paul de Valreas (Edward Langford); Marquis Henri de Sartorys (George MacQuarrie); Louise Brigard (Gerda Holmes); M. Brigard (Alec B. Francis); Baron de Combri (John Dudley); Baronne de Combri (Edna Whistler); Pitou (Charles Hartley); Pauline (Josephine Earle); Gaston (Horace Haine); Georgie (boy) (Ray Carrara); Mother of Comte de Valreas (Mrs. H. J. Brundage). Scenario written by Francis Marion. Directed by Emile Chautard.

Vivacious litile Gilberte, known as Frou Frou, is the daughter of M. Brigard, a retired merchant, who has as his companion in a life of gayety, Comte Paul de Valreas, a much younger man. Both the Count and Henry de Sartorys are in love with Frou Frou, and when De Sartorys asks for the hand of Frou Frou, M. Brigard refers him to Louise, the elder daughter, who is in charge of the household. To Louise, who loves de Sartorys, comes the first anguish of her life, when he confides his love for Frou Frou. However, she confers with her little sister who agrees to marry De Sartorys.

Paul also asks for Frou Frou's hand, but Brigard refuses, stating he is too jolly a companion to be trusted as a son-in-law. Five years pass, and although Frou Frou adores her son Georgie, the calm role of a homemaker does not suit her; and on one of Louise's visits she realizes her own place has been usurped, as both De Sartorys and Georgie go to her for advice.

Paul still loves Frou Frou, but she fights against her growing attraction for him, and begs him to go away. Finding she is no longer necessary for the happiness of her husband and son, after a furious tirade against Louise, she leaves and joins Paul in Venice. Paul's mother receives her, and the next day, De Sartorys, who has followed, finds her, and despite her pleas, fights a duel with Paul, in which Paul is killed.

Out of the loneliness and sorrow of the ensuing months her soul is chastened, and she returns to ask her husband one last favor—that she be allowed to die in the house she entered as a bride. Although Louise also pleads for her he at first refuses; but when Frou Frou, formerly so light-hearted and care-free, pleads on her knees, he can no longer deny her, and the two meet in a tearful embrace.

Her life closes with a semblance of happiness, as she gives to Louise the two that are closest to her—her husband and son.

CHRISTIE FILM CORP.

SMALL CHANGE (Feb. 5).—The cast: The Girl (Betty Compson); The Boy (Neal Burns); His Friends (Eddie Barry and George French); Mother (Stella Adams); Girl Friend (Ethel Lynne).

On "the morning after," Neal wakes up with $2.80. He has promised to take his fiancee to the flower show. She wants to lunch downtown and on the way must have flowers, so Neal enters the restaurant with $2.30. He isn't hungry—not a bit—but Betty's appetite is good. Two girl friends of Betty's come in and, of course, they must join her and Neal. He phones some friends but has no luck. Two boy friends of Neal's drop in and join the party. "Sent me from Heaven," says Neal, as he orders wine. But the boys were unlucky, too, in the game the night before, and have about $1.79 between them. One of them, Eddie, takes what Neal has and goes home in a taxi for more. His driver speeds and they are arrested. At the cafe, matters are serious. The girls are ready to go, but not so the boys. The proprietor gets suspicious. George goes for aid but meets with a mishap and is arrested. The waiter gets insistent and Neal is at his wit's end. The two girls leave, thanking Neal "for the lovely luncheon." The chief of the police station is an old friend of George and releases him and Eddie, even lending them money. Poor Neal has not been able to conceal the true state of affairs and Betty says, "Why, Neal, how foolish," as she produces a roll of bills and settles the account. They start for the show and Eddie and George rush in to find them gone; so the boys order another bottle and resolve to run no more big bluffs on "small change."

GREATER VITAGRAPH.

THE SECRET KINGDOM (Episode No. 7—"The Ghost Ship"—Two Parts—Feb. 2).—On the high seas, Princess Julia finds that Phillip and Juan are members of the yacht's crew. Count Ramon, drinking heavily and haunted by remorse, sees Phillip and believes him to be a ghost. The lovers and Juan plan to escape in a lifeboat, and after many difficulties manage to get away from the ship.

The ravings of Count Ramon through the night lead him upon deck. He discovers the unconscious officer, who has been rendered insensible by Phillip and Juan in their attempt to escape. There is no sign as to what happened, and Count Ramon is seized with the haunting dread of spiritual things which are making the voyage a hell for him.

Finally his actions lead the crew and officers to mutiny and he is set adrift with Madam Savatz in an open lifeboat. And the sun of another day goes down with the two fugitive parties drifting—many miles apart, and far from land.

MONEY MAGIC (Five parts—Feb. 5).—The cast: Mrs. Gilman (Laura Winston); Bertha, her daughter (Edith Storey); Marshall Haney, gambler (William Duncan); Ben Fordyce, a young lawyer (Antonio Moreno); Alice Heath, his fiance (Florence Dye). Directed by William Wolbert.

Bertha Gilman, helping her mother run a small hotel, is courted by Marshall Haney, gambler and saloonkeeper. She promises to marry him if he will give up his gambling habit and live on the income of $100,000 which he receives yearly from the mines he honestly acquired. A miner who has been fleeced of his money in the gaming hall after Haney sells out shoots Haney. Bertha and Haney are married, and she nurses him back to health, though he remains badly crippled. They move to Colorado Springs, and buy a magnificent home.

Later Bertha meets Ben Fordyce, an honorable young man, engaged to Alice Heath, a consumptive. Haney and his wife go East at the same time that Ben takes his affianced wife back. The four travel on the same train, and during the trip Ben and Bertha become more attached to each other. Both, however, remain loyal to their trusting ones. In the East Bertha's longing for Ben becomes almost unbearable. Her husband, noting her morose condition and being apprised of the cause of it by Alice just before she dies, suggests to his wife that they return to their home in Colorado Springs. So that he might bring happiness to the two young lovers, Haney whose heart is weak, deliberately climbs a mountain. As he reaches the top he dies, and Bertha and Ben realize as they gaze upon the body of Haney what a great sacrifice he has made that their lives might become one.

TANKS and RACKS
that give satisfaction
Write for Folder No. 14
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.
Los Angeles—San Francisco, Cal.

MENGER & RING, Inc.
MANUFACTURERS OF
Poster and Lobby Display Frames
304-6 W. 42d St., NEW YORK
Phone: Bryant 6621-22

Operators: Do you know exhibitors who have STANDARD motion picture machines? It does not matter what model they possess or whether the STANDARDS are in use or discarded. Send the names of STANDARD owners to address below and you will receive in return a useful souvenir.
AMERICAN STANDARD M. P. M. CO.
110 West 40th Street, New York

AMERICAN
Fotoplayer
(Trade Mark Registered)
The Musical Marvel Write for Catalogue
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
62 West 45th St. New York City

SAVE 50%
BUY OUR OLD
Used once under glass—A1 Condition. Can furnish subjects year old.
POSTERS
SCHAEFER THEATRE CO.
5 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Get acquainted with the
ERBOGRAPH WAY
of Developing and Printing
ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
203-11 West 146th St., New York City

The Original and Leading Moving Picture Journal in Europe
The Kinematograph Weekly
The reliable Trade organ of Great Britain; covering the whole of the British Film market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters, Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world)—and every section devoted to the Kinematograph. Specimen copy on application to:—
The Kinematograph Weekly, Ltd
9-11 Tottenham Street, London, W., Eng.

MAKE YOUR OWN CURRENT WITH A
Brush Electric Lighting Set
Send for 125-page catalogue with very complete information about electrical matters.
THE CHAS. A. STRELINGER CO.,
Box MP-2, Detroit, Mich., U. S. A.

EVERETT TRUE COMEDIES
Featuring BOBBIE BOLDER as the Champion Pest Squelcher. Single reels that are reely funny—you can purchase one or all. Beat your competitor to it. Write us for particulars.
OUR STUDIOS CAN BE RENTED BY THE DAY OR WEEK.
AMERICAN BIOSCOPE COMPANY
J. E. WILLIS, General Manager
Broadway at Granville Ave., Chicago

STATE RIGHTS
Bought—Sold—Released
California and Arizona
ROBERT A. BRACKETT
Knickerbocker Bldg. LOS ANGELES

K-E-S-E, INC.

ADVENTURES OF BUFFALO BILL (Essanay—Five parts).—Buffalo Bill is shown in the early days of his thrilling career as a pony express rider in the pioneer West; later as hunter of buffaloes and then as the chief Indian scout for the United States army. Appearing with Buffalo Bill in the picturization of the Indian battles which follow are Lieutenant-General Nelson A. Miles, Major-General Jesse M. Lee, and Brigadier-General Frank D. Baldwin and Marion P. Maus and other heroic figures of the pioneer days.

Historically accurate versions of the Battle of Summit Springs, the Battle of Warbonnet, Col. Cody's knife duel with the Sioux Chief Yellow Hand and his fight with Chief Tall Bull, in which the Indians were killed are shown. Five thousand United States troops and Indians participate in the battles. Buffalo Bill's later life, giving intimate glimpses of him at home and, of his great hunting expeditions, including that on which he guided the Prince of Monaco after big game in the Rockies, conclude the picture.

TRIANGLE FILM CORP.

PRIDE—(Second of "Seven Deadly Sins"—Five parts—McClure pictures—Feb. 5).—The cast: Eugene D'Arcy (Holbrook Blinn); Eve Leslie (Shirley Mason); Adam Moore (George Le Guere); Miss Nelson Blanchard (Helen Strickland); Le Comte de Frais (Guido Colucci). Directed by Richard Ridgely.

Eve Leslie is sent to boarding school. Proud of the fortune that has come to her she feels herself above Adam Moore, who loves her.

Eugene D'Arcy, a powerful banker, who also suffers from pride and arrogance, meets Eve and wants her.

In order that her pride may be further satisfied, she decides to marry a count. They elope, after eluding D'Arcy in an exciting chase, and board an ocean liner, bound for Europe.

D'Arcy manages to catch the liner, as does Adam Moore, who stows away, hoping to protect her.

Aboard the liner Adam manages to expose the bogus count and frustrate D'Arcy. Adam wins back his sweetheart after she has learned from bitter experience that a fall always follows pride. A fitting end comes to D'Arcy, who pays for his evil machinations that resulted from his false pride.

PARAMOUNT.

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS—No. 49 (Jan. 7).—Subjects on reel: The Trail of Health and Appetite; Peculiarities of the Air; Mining for Beauty; Japanese Ice Box.

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS No. 50 (Jan. 14).—Subjects on reel: Beating the Wind; Industrial Diamonds; The High Cost of Living; Transplanting Big Trees.

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS No. 51 (Jan. 21).—Subjects on reel: An Army on Skis; The Sailors Snug Harbor; Harnessing the Wind; The Clay Workers.

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS No. 52 (Jan. 28).—Subjects on reel: Winter Sports in America; Discovery of the Shot Tower; In the Shadow of the North Pole; Bending the Human Twig.

THE GOLDEN FETTER (Lasky—Five Parts—Jan. 25).—The cast: James Rogers Ralston (Wallace Reid); Faith Miller (Anita King); Henry Slade (Tully Marshall); Edson (Guy Oliver); McGill (Walter Long); Big Annie (Mrs. Lewis McCord); Flynn (C. H. Geldert); Buck Hanson (Larry Payton); Pete (Lucien Littlefield).

Faith Miller, a school teacher, inherits ten thousand dollars. Edson, McGill and Slade, three enterprising crooks, own the Moonflower, a worthless mine. Slade goes east to unload and hearing of Faith's good fortune, she falls an easy prey, buying a share in the mine for nine thousand dollars.

Advised by friends to take a rest, Faith goes to inspect her mine. Arriving at the town, she is insultingly approached and the man who has annoyed her is knocked down by Jim Ralston, a young mining engineer. She goes to the home of Big Annie, who tells her that the mine is worthless. The miners, touched by her beauty and helplessness, engage her to teach their school, the only available pupils being Pete, a half-wit, and Jim, who is held in connection with a hold-up committed by Edson and McGill. At first Jim rebels, but when he sees the teacher, he becomes a willing student. Faith recognizes him as her protector. Jim conceives the idea of salting the mine, and wires Slade to the effect that the mine is rich with silver and not to sell. Slade returns. Edson and McGill, pursued by a posse, reach the schoolhouse and persuade Jim to conceal them. Flynn, at the head of the posse, accuses Jim of hiding the bandits and is killed by a shot from an unseen hand. Jim is arrested as the murderer.

Faith intercedes, begs him to flee and is handcuffed to him. They escape and take refuge in a mountain cabin. Jim shoots the fetter apart, breaking his wrist, and insists that Faith return home. As Jim tells Slade of Faith's whereabouts, Slade notices the fetter on his hand, takes him to the outskirts of the town and the miners prepare to hang him. Faith sells her interest in the mine back to Slade, and Pete, as he delivers a note to her from Jim, also tells Faith of Jim's peril. The outlaws, Edson and McGill, are shot as they resist arrest, Edson's dying confession of Flynn's murder reaching Jim's executioners just as they refuse to listen to Faith's pleading for her lover's life. Faith, weakened by the trying ordeals through which she has passed, sinks to the ground, only to be taken into the waiting arms of the man she loves.

GEORGIAN BAY TO WINNIPEG (Burton Holmes Travelogue—Jan. 29).—From the shores of Lake Huron to the prairie capital of Manitoba is an interesting trip. Scenes shown are motorboating amid the Thirty Thousand Islands that dot Georgian Bay; fishing in the long reaches of the celebrated French River; the lovely scenery on the north shore of Lake Superior, which you touch as you travel toward Winnipeg; the biggest grain elevators in the world situated at Fort William in Ontario. Judging from the size and number of these granaries which dot the landscape, one would think that the entire wheat crop of the world could easily be stored away in this one particular spot. One sees at Port Arthur, Ontario, a genuine bowling green, an outdoor bowling alley, the like of which have passed away many years ago. The gate of old Fort Garry, which was all there was of Winnipeg in 1821, is still to be seen, as well as the first locomotive in western Canada, which arrived by river steamer in 1877 and which is now enshrined in the middle of a grassy lawn like any other monument erected to commemorate triumphant deeds. A number of amusing incidents enliven this little tour.

HIS SWEETHEART (Morosco—Five parts—Jan. 29).—Joe, a good natured Italian, runs a basement ice, coal and wood establishment in the cheap Italian "East Side." Trina, daughter of old Capino, a cobbler, lives next door. She is fond of Joe and is relieved when she learns that Joe's "sweetheart," who arrives from Italy, is none other than his little old "Mamma Mia," his mother.

Godfrey Kelland, district attorney, is a candidate for the governship, and Joe's sympathies and efforts are enlisted in his behalf. The Weasel, a notorious crook, is arrested as he seeks refuge in Joe's house, and suspicions are cast upon Mamma Mia. Just at this time Mrs. Kelland loses a diamond pin which is discovered in Mamma Mia's possession. Baby Kelland has placed the pin in the basket of clothes which Mamma Mia is to wash and she is found "guilty" and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

In the meantime, Joe and his mother have witnessed an attempt upon Kelland's life and assisted him, but nevertheless Kelland is vigorous in his prosecution of Mamma Mia. A little later Mrs. Kelland discovers the baby putting another piece of jewelry in the basket and she decides that Joe's mother is innocent.

Two crooks from the gang determine to put a stop to Kelland's activities and to "plant" a golf ball filled with nitro-glycerine so that Kelland will be blown up as by an unknown accident. They play upon Joe's feelings and induce him to place the ball. Just as Kelland is about to strike the ball, Mrs. Kelland and Trina come into the grounds, and to save them Joe takes the blow upon his own body. Joe's confession that the ball was intended for him incites Kelland's anger, but Mrs. Kelland's story of the baby's innocent part in the tragedy, and her pleadings, soften the politician's heart, the little Italian family is reunited and Trina's happiness also secured.

THE WAX MODEL (Pallas—Five parts—Feb. 1).—Julia Davenant is the neglected daughter of a Parisian dancer who tires of the life she leads, commits suicide and with her last breath tells Julie not to trust men. Julie begins her battle with life as a nursemaid.

John Ramsey, a sculptor, spies the beautiful little girl, gives her his card, and when she is discharged from her position as nursemaid poses as his model. She becomes the most talked-of model in Paris, and Hermineux, a modiste, pays her a handsome sum to have her likeness made in wax, on which he displays his gowns.

Julie meets Melville Ilchester, who seems "different." He also falls deeply in love with her. Ilchester, to satisfy a query in his mind if Julie is really "different," goes to her flat at night and walks in just as she, on a dare, takes a sip of wine and lights a cigarette. He refuses to listen to her explanation. In a moment of despair, Ilchester smashes both window and model at the Hermineux shop.

Julie surmises Helen (who is Ilchester's sister) and Ramsey's plan to elope, sends Ilchester a note to go to Ramsey's because a friend is in danger, tells Helen that Ramsey is married and hides her as Ilchester enters Ramsey's studio. Ilchester, believing this is a ruse of Julie's, leaves, still refusing to allow Julie to explain.

Heartbroken she abandons her profession as a model and becomes destitute. She sends Ilchester a last note of appeal, which Helen accidentally sees, and after hearing the truth from his sister, Ilchester hastens to Julie, explanations are made and their happiness is assured.

THE SLEEPWALKER (Klever Komedy—Feb. 12).—Vic Moore is employed by Walter Higgins, a broker. Vic and his wife revel in tangoing and Vic also has a passion for Welsh rarebits. One night after partaking of his favorite dish, he rises from bed, picks up the alarm clock, a cane and his wife's hat, and tangoes out of the room to the fire escape. On the platform below he dislodges a milk bottle and the crash awakens his wife, who hastily puts on Vic's overcoat and cap and follows down the fire escape.

Casey, a bicycle cop, is astounded at the sight of the pajama clad figure of Vic reposing on the guard of an automobile drawn up at the curb, and tries various methods to awaken him. Mrs. Vic appears and explains. When all other measures have failed, she sets the alarm and the familiar sound awakens him, and he returns to his apartment swearing to cut out the festive rarebit.

The next morning he finds his employer, Walter Higgins, in a state of terror. Vera Thomas, a show girl, is going to bring suit against him for breach of promise unless he marries her. She has a big bundle of his love letters to prove her contention. He promises Vic to raise his salary $5,000 a year if he obtains those letters from Vera. Vic writes to Vera that he is a wealthy westerner who has seen her performance and would like to star her in musical comedy. Vera, who is in love with Delmont, the tenor of the company, is delighted. Vic meets Vera at the stage door and proposes that they talk the matter over at her apartment. Higgins follows and hides near the house. If Vic gets the letters he is to drop them out of the window. Mrs. Vic has been notified that he will not be at home until late and has covered his pajamas with a sign reading: "Victor Moore—sleepwalker. Return to Rex apartments, apartment 4-D."

Vic is astounded to find that he lives in the same place and that his apartments are just above Vera's. Vera suggests that they have a Welsh rarebit, and Vic tries to sidestep it, but she insists. After eating he finds an excuse to send Vera from the room and locates Higgins' letters, but before he can get them, Vera reappears. He leaves and returns to his apartments, thinking Higgins has departed, but the latter is still hanging around below. Soon after Vic retires, the rarebit gets in its work, and he goes down the fire escape in his pajamas. He enters Vera's room, where she and her maid are in night robes. Vera does not recognize him and the two women watch him as he searches the cabinet. As he bends over to look into a drawer Vera and the maid see the card with his name.

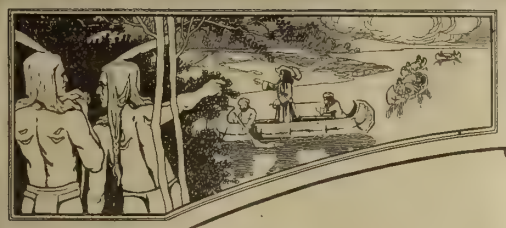
Mrs. Vic, who has awakened, comes down the fire escape in a kimona and motions the women to be cautious. Vic goes to the table and his hand touches a cigarette that Vera has placed there. The burn awakens Vic. Vera starts towards him. Mrs. Vic grabs her and tells her he is still asleep. Vic hears this speech and takes advantage of the opportunity to get the letters.

RESPOND TO THIS

If you would have your DEVELOPING and PRINTING done in the most expert manner, have EVANS do it for you.

We have one of the most modernly equipped plants in the world for doing this particular line of work, employ the most skilled operators in every department, and all work is safeguarded in the most careful manner to assure you of the best possible results.

EVANS FILM MFG. CO., 416-24 West 216th St., N. Y. City. Telephone Audubon 6851-2



The La Salle Film Co.

"Laugh—and keep healthy"

LAFCO COMEDIES

ALL THE WORLD WANTS TO LAUGH! ALL THE WORLD—FROM TIME IMMEMORIAL—LOVES TO CHASE DULL CARE AWAY WITH A LAUGH. BUT, THO'

THE WORLD AT LARGE WANTS TO LAUGH —IT WANTS TO LAUGH AT SOMETHING CLEAN AND DECENT.

A YOUNG MAN WANTS TO ENJOY A JOKE WITH HIS SWEETHEART; A FATHER DELIGHTS IN A JOKE THAT TICKLES HIS KIDDIES.

THE LAFCO COMEDIES are COMEDIES DE LUXE

HUMOR ABOUNDS—
VULGARITY IS NOTICEABLY ABSENT.

A Single Reel Feature Comedy Service—To Be Released One Each Week Thro' The Independent Exchange

Eight Now Completed and Others on Their Way

Territorial Rights Now Selling

Studios { SUNSET and GOWER ST. LOS ANGELES - CALIF.

Executive Offices { HARRIS TRUST BLDG. CHICAGO - ILLINOIS

·LAFCO COMEDIES·

Vera, alarmed, follows him to the window. He throws the letters to Higgins, who burns them in a vacant lot.

Vic and his wife return to their apartments and Vera faints in the arms of her maid. Mrs. Vic lashes his hands and feet to the bed with his dressing gown cord and he accepts the situation as a penance for breaking his resolve not to eat Welsh rarebit.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

HEARST PATHE NEWS NO. 7 (Jan. 20).

Brattleboro, Vt.—The sail-driven ice yachts are too slow for the hardy citizens of the Granite State, who invent a new motor sled to go autoing on the ice. Subtitles: The sled is propelled by a rear wheel which digs into the ice. Beating the wind.

Seattle, Wash.—Local authorities confiscate a large number of faulty scales which have greatly added to burdens of the high cost of living. Subtitle: The trick instruments are cast into the deep.

Boston, Mass.—Exceptionally fine specimens of water fowl are seen in the duck pond of the New England Poultry Show. Subtitle: Rare Golden and Manchurian pheasants.

In Rumania.—Troops and supplies are being rushed by the Central Powers to aid Field Marshal Mackensen's army operating in Moldavia. Subtitles: Engineers build emergency bridges to replace the spans destroyed by the retreating armies. Fortifications are completely destroyed.

Salonica, Greece.—Streams of British troops continue to pour into the Allies' headquarters, in preparation for the hugh Balkan offensive. Subtitles: The Lewis machine gun, rejected by the U. S. Army, is being used by the British. An Allied aeroplane is wrecked in the city's suburbs.

The Mexican Crisis (Magazine Section).—An animated cartoon by F. M. Follet. Subtitles: Little pup "Mexican Crisis" adops Uncle Sam. He sticketh closer than a postage stamp. Life is just one darned thing after another!

Chicago, Ill.—The first serious mishap of this winter's navigation on the Great Lakes occurs when the S. S. Indiana is caught fast in the ice jam. Subtitle: Tugs try in vain to haul the big freighter from its icy berth.

Washington, D. C.—Lijoubomir Michaelovitch (left), the first Serbian minister ever accredited to the United States, leaving the State Department.

Hinsdale, Ill.—Ingenious pleasure seekers take advantage of another cold wave to inaugurate their own novel sport of skijoring. Subtitles: Skijoring at 30 miles an hour. The snappy weather affords unusual opportunities for ice-skaters at New York's Prospect Park. Bellows Falls, Vt., in winter dress.

Palo Alta, Texas.—Convoyed by an American armored "tank" the motorcycle machine gun corps gives a demonstration of active field service on this historic battlefield. Subtitles: Thorny fields offer no obstacles to their advance. The combined action of this rapid-fire squad can annihilate an entire regiment. The American camp at Brownsville, with the Rio Grande in the distance.

Trenton, N. J. (Philadelphia and Newark).—A great civic parade marks the inauguration of the Honorable Walter E. Edge as Governor of the State of New Jersey. Subtitle: The Governor-elect receives many congratulations.

Alameda, Cal. (In Los Angeles and San Francisco Copies Only).—The whole city is inundated when a break in the levee permits the rushing waters to pour through, causing a loss of $150,000. Subtitle: Dray horses clearing the streets.

Denver, Colo. (In Salt Lake, Dallas, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver Copies Only).—Large crowds gather to honor the memory of Colonel William F. Cody, the gallant hero of young America, whose body lies in state at the Capitol. Subtitle: Prominent citizens act as pallbearers.

HEARST PATHE NEWS, NO. 8 (Jan. 24).

Cape Cod, Mass.—A foreign submarine passes through the narrow strait for the first time in its history, as the Isaac Peral starts on its maiden trip. Subtitles: The submarine carries a three-inch gun cleverly concealed. It can also be aimed against hostile aeroplanes.

Norfolk, Va.—Wrecking crews salvage the valuable cargo of the S. S. Powhaten, slowly sinking as a result of its recent collision. Subtitle: Wool constitutes the chief part of the cargo.

On the Western Front.—France's idol, the great General Joffre, nominated by unanimous acclaim to the distinguished honor of Field Marshal, for saving the Republic and Freedom. Subtitles: Mounting a heavy field piece for action. Serbians are now using the Allies' guns to good advantage in their offensive.

Salonica, Grece.—British Tommies cheerfully march to their positions in the advanced lines, confident of ultimate victory. Subtitles: Firing a trench mortar. The enemy's lines are constantly shrouded by the clouds from the Allies' fire. All of the Entente Nations are represented on this battle front—a striking example of their complete unity for the common cause.

Eureka, Cal.—The U. S. S. Milwaukee grounds on the sandy beach, itself a victim of the turbulent seas as it strives to rescue the submarine H-3. Subtitles: The crew leaves the ship for safety quarters. Meanwhile the submarine, constantly pounded by the waves, is cast high and dry on the shore. The submarine is now almost a total wreck.

Washington, D. C.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and his wife, who celebrate the golden anniversary of their marriage.

New York City.—The Polar Bears are out in full force for their annual winter frolic, unmindful of mere snow and cold. Subtitle: A dip in the frigid waters.

The Nation gave its last tribute to George Dewey, hero of Manila Bay and Admiral of the Navy. Subtitles: The body is escorted from the Admiral's home to the Capitol for the memorial services. The entire body of midshipmen from the Naval Academy stands at attention before the Capitol as the funeral cortege arrives. Draped in the colors that he so nobly glorified, the body is placed on an army caisson for its final journey. The procession wends its sorrowful way down Pennsylvania avenue. Across the historic Potomac to the Arlington Cemetery, where the Nation inters its distinguished dead. "Fire when you are ready," said Admiral Dewey on the memorable morning in May, 1898. The fleet he commanded, our immortal Dewey.

Washington, D. C.—President Woodrow Wilson boldly reaches a new and higher bond of international relations in a remarkable address to the U. S. Senate. "I am proposing that the nations should adopt with one accord the doctrine of President Monroe as the doctrine of the world."

PATRIA (Episode No. 4—"Double Crossed," International—Two parts—Feb. 4). The cast: Patria Channing (Mrs. Vernon Castle); Donald Parr (Milton Sills); Baron Huroki (Warner Oland).

Baron Huroki, a secret agent plotting with De Lima against the United States and having failed in his attempt to steal the $100,000,000 Preparedness Fund founded by Patria Channing's forefathers, next directs his attentions to Patria herself. By destroying her he hopes to obtain control of the millions and the immense munitions plant she has inherited. He learns that Elaine, a popular dancer appearing in the "Midnight Frolic," is the exact double of Patria, and he conceived the idea of doing away with the latter and substituting Elaine in her place.

Through Fanny Adair, a widow, intimate with Patria and who has lost all her money but still hangs on to the fringe of the society in which she once shone, Elaine is coached for her part. So complete is their likeness that when Elaine's manager sees Patria with Capt. Parr he attacks him in a jealous rage and tries to carry her off thinking it is Elaine. Parr follows him down the back stairs and after a fight overcomes him with Patria's help.

Patria has planned to return to Newport with Fanny Adair and Capt. Parr on the Fall River Line boat. Huroki sends Elaine aboard disguised as an invalid in charge of a nurse. She has a stateroom next to Patria's and Fanny Adair. In the meanwhile Capt. Parr has been arrested on a charge of assault on the evening before, inspired by Huroki, and misses the boat.

That night when Patria is on deck she is thrown overboard by Huroki's hirelings. Elaine slips into Patria's stateroom where Fanny, trembling with fear, awaits her, and the nurse gives the alarm that her charge has escaped and jumped overboard. Will Patria perish?

SOLD AT AUCTION (Gold Rooster-Balboa—Five parts—Feb. 11).—The cast: Nan (Lois Meredith); Richard Stanley (William Conklin); Helen (Marguerite Nichols); Hal Norris (Frank Mayo); William Raynor (Charles Dudley); Raynor's sister (Lucy Blake).

To remove forever anything that will remind him of his dream of happiness, shattered by his wife's infidelity, Stanley sends his infant daughter, Nan, to be cared for by a woman named Hopkins, sending money regularly for her support but never going to see her. Nan is treated as a slave, receiving none of the money intended for her.

Then comes her first real happiness in the sincere love of Hal, a young reporter. Fearing to lose her, Mrs. Hopkins tells her there is mulatto blood in her veins. Crushed by the lie, Nan flees from the only home she has ever known. Ignorant of the world, she is carried by the tide of events unknowingly into what is termed a matrimonial agency, but which in reality is something worse.

Then comes the big situation. Nan is placed at auction and her own father bids for her against other millionaires. As he outbids them all, Hal, who has traced her, enters, just in time to reveal to the father that Nan is his own daughter.

The Golden Glow of the Sunlight

Is the Light Effect
You Get When You Use a

Radium Gold Fibre Screen

This is the reason your patrons find it possible to sit in any seat in the theatre—whether in the first row or the last—and enjoy your photoplay performance without even the semblance of eye-strain.

To the RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN belongs much of the credit for paralyzing the arguments of the eye specialists who used to complain that moving pictures were a menace to the race.

Your Patrons Are Entitled to the Best--and the Best Projection Surface in the World is the Radium Gold Fibre Screen

WRITE US TODAY.

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, Inc., 220 W.42d St., New York

LEON SCHLESINGER, Gen. Mgr.

Canadian Distributors—J. T. Malone Films, Inc., Rialto Theatre Bldg., Montreal; Allfeatures, Ltd., 56 King St., W., Toronto.

Classified Advertisements

NOTE TERMS CAREFULLY

Remittances must accompany all orders for classified advertisements as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

AT LIBERTY operator and piano player. Recently closed with "Birth of a Nation" Co. Would like to locate with some exhibitor desiring to obtain high class playing and excellent projection. B. Ludescher, Gen. Del., Sioux Falls, So. Dakota.

COMPETENT film man wishes to connect with reliable film producing company. Has seven years' experience—particularly adopted to film editing and cutting. E. A., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

MILLIONAIRE to organ grinder. Ten years' experience managing every class of theaters. Expert booker, advertiser, operator. References. Live Wire, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

HELP WANTED.

WANTED operator, young man, to go to British West Indies. No drinkers or beginners. Write J. K., 294 St. James Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

FOR SALE—Moving picture supply business, good paying proposition. Established five years. Answer Z., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

SPLENDID CHANCE to purchase a good moving picture, vaudeville and bill posting system—cheap. 12,000 people to draw patronage from. Owner must leave town. Address Box 130, Albion, N. Y.

THEATERS WANTED.

WANTED—We need about thirty moving picture houses to supply the demand, large or small, send particulars to Lewis, the oldest established moving picture broker in United States. Offices 578-80 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

I WANT to lease a first class picture house of 400 or 500 seats, fully equipped. Prefer location in Central States. If satisfactory will purchase or make a long term lease. J. Lake, Marseilles, Ill.

WANTED thirty moving picture houses, large or small. Send particulars to Lewis, the oldest established moving picture broker in United States. Offices, 578-80 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

FOR SALE theater and billiard parlor, 250 seat house, town of 1,800. Best reasons for selling. Wm. Merz, Chilton, Wis.

FOR SALE in a live new growing smelter town, a moving picture and tab. theater, seating capacity 425, doing $1,000 month business. Building stone and brick, well heated, lighted and ventilated, fixtures all complete. Clear of all indebtedness. $3,500 cash; $1,500 on easy terms. Palace Theater, Kusa, Okla.

AIRDOME for sale or rent. Seating capacity 1,500; complete, except machine. Situated Stapleton, Staten Island. Rent low. Inquire Chas. Rosenberg, 442 Broadway, N. Y. City.

FIRST-CLASS moving picture theater, matinee daily; paying proposition. Good reasons for selling. P. O. Box 146, Reading, Pa.

FOR SALE—Moving picture and vaudeville theater, Northern Minnesota city of 12,000 population, only one other theater and they very friendly. This is a dandy proposition. First come, first served. Takes $3,500 to handle. Don't answer unless you mean business. Address Minnesota, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

MOVIE, the only one in a town of 6,000 inhabitants, seating and standing capacity 500, vaudeville once week; opera chairs and Wurlitzer organ, new machinery. Expenses average $105 weekly, receipts $175-$200 weekly. With road shows receipts wil run about $300 weekly. A practical showman can clean up from five to six thousand yearly. Thickly populated territory to draw from. Price, $4,250, reasonable terms. Come to Buffalo at once if you want to make a profitable deal. Lewis, 580 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

TWO rebuilt Power's 6A machines, $140.00 each; Edison model "D" motor drive, $135.00; Edison model "D" hand drive, $115.00; Power's No. 6 rebuilt, $100.00; Edison model "B," $40.00; Westinghouse Mercury Arc Rectifier, $90.00. Hommel's, 947 Penn Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

FOR SALE very large Mirroroid screen, Edison rheostat, two Edison model "D" machines, all in good condition. Opera House, Mansfield, Ohio.

EXCEPTIONAL BARGAIN—New Fort Wayne compensarc, 220 volts, 60 cycle, A. C. Thomas Baird, Lakota, No. Dakota.

FOR SALE—Motiograph, G. & H. compensarc—Gundlach lenses, 1916 lamp, complete machine, practically new. Bargain. Address J., care M. P. World, Chicago, Ill.

FOR SALE asbestos curtain, scenery and batons. Theater being dismantled. Albert H. Ladner, Inc., Real Estate Brokers, 5th & Green Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.

REAL BARGAINS IN USED PROJECTORS. MOTIOGRAPH, COMPLETE OUTFIT, FINE LAMP HOUSE RHEOSTAT AND LENS. CAST IRON STAND, OUR PRICE $110.00. PEERLESS PORTABLE PROJECTOR. COMPLETE OUTFIT WITH LENS AND RHEOSTAT, PRICE $55.00. LATEST TYPE VICTOR ANIMATOGRAPH MOTOR OR HAND DRIVEN. MOTOR ATTACHED, FIREPROOF AND VERY NEW. EXTREMELY PORTABLE, PRICE $110.00, EACH MACHINE GUARANTEED. DAVID STERN CO., 1047 S MADISON ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

OPERA AND FOLDING chairs, large quantity, perfect condition. Write for bargains on used and new chairs. Atlas Seating Co., 10 East 45d St., N. Y. City.

OPERA, wood folding chairs, used, 3,500, N. Y. to Chicago. Bought, sold everywhere. Half price. Prices advance. Empire Exchange, Corning, N. Y.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition, cheap. Room 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS—Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machines. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Halberg, 729 Severth Ave., N. Y. City.

WHY DOES Richardson recommend "Amberlux" lens filters? Write and find out particulars. Price. with slide, $3.50. W. D. Warner, 8 E. Broad St., Columbus, Ohio.

EQUIP your stage for vaudeville. Write for special offer on complete outfit of scenery and rigging. Boon Scenic Studios, Hicksville, Ohio.

CAMERAS, ETC., WANTED.

WANTED—DeBrie, Universal or Eberhard Schneider camera, state lowest price in first letter. Address Don Bigelow, 366 Gas & Electric Bldg., Denver, Colo.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

VISTA $60.00, Pittman $96.00, Schneider $125.00, Prestwich $125.00, Cines $235.00, Universal $300.00, Simplex $250.00. Ray, 326 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

RIGHT NOW! IS THE TIME TO BUY A MOTION PICTURE CAMERA; FINEST ASSORTMENT OF HIGH-GRADE USED CAMERAS. DAVID STERN OFFERS GREATEST VALUES AND IMMEDIATE SERVICE IN HIGH-GRADE TESTED NEW AND USED MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS. Act now while our stock is large and varied. 1st: Schneider, 200 ft. capacity, Prismatic focusing, 50 M.M. Carl Zeiss Tessar f:3.5 lens, Teakwood case. Price, $95.00——2nd: Prestwich Professional, 200 ft. capacity, regular and trick crank, focusing tube, 48 M.M. Zeiss Tessar lens, f:3.5, two extra magazines. Price, $110.00——3rd: 400 ft. capacity U. S. Cinematograph Professional camera. Forward and reverse, trick crank, focusing tube through rear. Speed indicator, 50 M.M. Tessar Ser. 1c f:3.5 in focusing tube, four round metal magazines. Heavy Panorama and tilting top tripod. Outfit cost new $500.00. Our price, $300.00——4th: Pathe Professional inside magazines, very latest model, 50 M.M. Zeiss Tessar lens, f:3.5 lens and two extra magazines. Price, $450.00——5th: DAVSCO KINO, 200 ft. capacity. Most compact camera on the market. Aluminum magazines, outside focusing device, weight 10 lbs., with 50 MM. Zeiss Tessar f:3.5 lens in special DAVSCO focusing mount and exposure meter. Price, $110.00——6th: Latest model Universal, 200 ft. capacity, forward and reverse regular and trick crank, all adjustments, 50 M.M. Zeiss Tessar lens, f:3.5. Price, $300.00. ——Write for special proposition on the Universal——Panorama and tilting top tripod, $20.00 to $75.00. Write for specifications; any camera shipped C. O. D. with privilege of examination on receipt of 25% deposit. Money refunded in full if not as represented. Try our special telegraphic order service. Wire deposit and we ship any camera C. O. D. for balance. Delivery on time or we pay all charges. Write or wire today. DAVID STERN COMPANY, 1047 R, Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

PROFESSIONAL CAMERAS, tripods, perforators, printers, developing outfits, rewinders, tessar, effects devices, novelties, experimental workshop, repair, expert film work, titles. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. & Second Ave., N. Y. City

FILMS, ETC., WANTED.

WANTED short subjects in excellent condition. One and two-reelers, especially those starring players now prominent. Printing not essential, but condition important. Postoffice Box 687, Dallas, Tex.

FILMS, ETC., FOR SALE.

FOR SALE three, four, five and six-reel features in best condition, with advertising matter. The Big A Film Corporation, 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

A Welcome Visitor Each Week in Every Business Home Where Moving Pictures Are of Interest

The Moving Picture World

Is Admirably Adapted to Carry Any Little Message Which You May Wish to Send

Our Classified Advertisements at Five Cents Per Word

Will Produce Remarkable Results —One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less.

Send Copy, with remittance, to CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City

INDEX

TO CONTENTS

Advertising for Exhibitors..... 831
African Pictures Brought to New York.... 860
Allied Printers Against Film Tax..... 826
At Leading Picture Theaters..... 863
Australian Notes 845

Baltimore Grand Jury Scores Theaters..... 883
Birmingham Makes Trial of Censorship.... 887
Blank, A. H., Theater Manager..... 857
Bluebird Workers to be Rewarded..... 860
"Bridges Burned" (Metro)..... 871

Calendar of Daily Program Releases...898, 900
California Exhibitors Elect Officers..... 848
Chamberlin, Riley C., Dead..... 852
Chattanooga's Majestic Leased by Signal... 888
Chicago News Letter..... 851
Comments on the Films..... 872
Covington, Ky., Accepts Ohio Censorship.. 889
Crawford, O. T., St. Louis Pioneer, Dead.. 857

"Darling of Paris, The" (Fox)..... 869
Denver Exchanges Open, Two New..... 894
Des Moines Exchanges New Credit Rules... 893
"Dominion of Fernandez, The" (Kalem)... 870
Discuss Child Problem..... 862
Doro, Marie, Arrives in New York..... 857
"Double Crossed" (Pathe)..... 867

Facts and Comments..... 819
Fairbanks Enjoys Wild Brooklyn Night.... 826
Film Cannot Stand Tax, is Testimony..... 823
"For Reward of Service" (Selig)..... 866
Forbid Gaslights or Matches..... 887

"Girl Who Didn't Think, The" (Creative).. 870
"Golden Fetter, The" (Morosco)..... 868
Goodwin (Nat) Company Files Papers..... 890
"Gun Fighter, The" (Triangle)..... 869

Hammerstein, Elaine, In "The Argyle Case." 850
Heavy Bookings for Cohan Pictures..... 860
"Her Good Name" (Art Dramas)..... 867
"His Sweetheart" (Morosco)..... 868
"Hungry Heart, A" (World)..... 866

Indiana Exhibitors Post Joint Fund..... 849
Indiana Gets Strange Censorship Bill..... 859
Ince and Sennett Continue in Triangle..... 827
Industry Menaced by Proposed Taxation.... 828

Jerseymen on Edge for Coming Ball..... 849
"Jim Bludsoe" (Triangle)..... 869
"Joan" Emphasizes Sunday Opening..... 859

Kansas May Lower Censor Fees..... 893
Kennedy, Madge, Signs With Goldwyn..... 830

List of Current Film Release Dates, 916, 918, 920, 922
Loew Circuit Offices Comes to Atlanta..... 886
"Lost and Found" (Selig)..... 866
Louisville, Putting "Crisis" on in..... 888

Mails, How to Take Advantage of..... 886
Manufacturers' Advance Notes..... 875
Maryland Censors Feel Oats..... 883
Maryland Effects Permanent Organization.. 848
Metro Planning Special Productions..... 863
Michigan Film Men Condemn Censorship... 887
"Money Magic" (Vitagraph)..... 867
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The..... 848
Motion Picture Educator..... 842
Motion Picture Photography..... 839
Move in the Right Direction, A..... 822
Music for the Picture..... 840

"Net of Intrigues, The" (Kalem) 870
News of Los Angeles and Vicinity..... 852
New Theaters in Gulf States..... 892
New Victoria's Children's Matinees Poular.. 884
New York Exhibitors Meet at Albany..... 825
New York Inquisitors Will Go Slowly..... 860

Ontario Picture Men Organize..... 849
Ohio Censors, Circular Warning From.... 889

"One Touch of Sin" (Fox)..... 871
Operators to Meet in Cleveland..... 827

Philadelphia Fildom Doings..... 885
Photoplaywright, The 834
Picture Houses in Roseville and Orange, N. J. 846
Popular Picture Personalities..... 847
"Pride" (McClure) 886
Projection Department 835

Questions on Sunday Pictures..... 822

Review of Current Productions..... 866
"Reward of the Faithless, The" (Bluebird). 868

San Francisco Sees "Patria"..... 895
Schlesinger, Leon, with Radium..... 844
Seattle Exchanges in Sunday Closing Fight.. 896
Slimm Now Chief of Northwestern Ohio.... 850
Snyder, Matt B., Dead at Eighty..... 852
"Sold at Auction" (Pathe)..... 867
Spokes from the Hub..... 865
Stories of the Films..... 902
Sullivan, Lilian, in "The Great Secret".... 859
Summing Up the Industry..... 861
Sunday Closing Issue in Three States..... 827
Sun Theater's Newspaper is Different..... 884

Troublesome Changes in New Orleans..... 892
Twenty States Have Censorship Bills..... 861
Twin City Exchange Changes..... 891
Two New Kalems Under Way..... 830

Unadulterated Graft 821

Vancouver Supports Week Runs of Features 897

We Have Trouble Enough of Our Own..... 821
"White Raven, The" (Metro)..... 870

Your Home Town Paper..... 820

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.
Jones & Cammack 907
Speer Carbon Co..... 923

ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL EQUIPMENT.
American Auto Arc Co..... 921
Amusement Supply Co..... 923
Bell & Howell 907
Calehuff Supply Co..... 925
Fulton, E. E..... 923
Hertner Elec. Co. & Mfg. Co..... 907
Hommel, Ludwig, & Co..... 907
Langstadt-Meyer Co..... 923
Lucas Supply Co..... 923
Northwestern Electric Co. 921
Porter, B. F..... 908
Strelinger, Chas. A..... 909
Swaab, Lewis M..... 907
Typhoon Fan Co..... 917
Wagner Electric Co. 923
Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co..... 926

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.
Foco Chair Co..... 960
Steel Furniture Co..... 906

FILM EXCHANGES.
Bradenburgh, G. W..... 923

LENS MANUFACTURERS.
Bausch & Lomb Opt. Co..... 921

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.
American Bioscope Co..... 909
Arrow Film Corp..... 809
Art Dramas, Inc..... 804
Artcraft Pictures Corp.....780-81
Belmont Film Co..... 803
Biograph Co. 812
Bluebird Photo Plays, Inc.....Colored Insert
Bray Studios, Inc..... 791
Cardinal Film Corp.....778-79
Christie Film Co..... 775
Clune Producing Co..... 908
Creative Film Corp..... 802
Empire All-Star Corp.....Colored Insert
Enlightenment Photo Play Corp. 788-89
Essanay Film Mfg. Co.....767, 813-816
Flora Finch Film Corp..... 808
Fox Film Corp..... 790
Gaumont Co. 786
Goldwyn Picture Corp..... 798
Grafton Film Publishing Co..... 908
Horsley, David, Productions..... 787
Ince, Thos. H.....Colored Insert
Kalem Co. 818
Klever Pictures Corp..... 782
La Salle Film Co..... 911
Major Film Corp.....806-07
Metro Pictures Corp.....Colored Insert
McClure Pictures 792-95
Mutual Film, Corp.....Colored Insert, 783, 785
National Drama Co..... 908
Paramount Pictures Corp.....776-77
Pathe Exchange, The, Inc.....Colored Insert
Picture Producing Co., Inc..... 901
Selig Polyscope Co..... 817
Triangle Film Corp.....796-97
Universal Film Mfg. Co.....766, 768-74
Vogue Films Inc..... 784
What Becomes of the Children?.....805
World Film Corp.....810-11

MISCELLANEOUS.
All Star Features Co..... 899
Automatic Ticket Sell & C. R. Co..... 906
Bioscope, The 923
Classified Advertisements 913
Corcoran, A. J..... 906
Eastman Kodak Co..... 919
Erbograph Co..... 909
Evans Film Mfg. Co..... 910
Green, P. A..... 906
Gunby Brothers 882
Heckel & Smith..... 923
Il Tirso Cinematografo..... 925
Jensen, Al 907
Kinematograph Weekly, The..... 909
Kraus Mfg. Co..... 905
Marion, Lewis M..... 925
Moore, Wm. N.....906
M. P. Directory Co..... 921
M. P. Electricity..... 921
National Ticket Co..... 905
N. J. Exhibitors' League Movie Ball..... 926
Overland Park Film Mfg. Co..... 908
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co..... 909
Richardson, F. H..... 925
Richardson's Handbook, M. P..... 925
Roskam, Edw. 908
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co..... 927
Standard M. P. Co..... 906
Superior Film Co..... 909
Williams, A. F..... 907
Willis & Inglis..... 908

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
Burke & James, Inc..... 919

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
American Photo Player Co..... 909
Sinn, Clarence E..... 907

POSTERS AND FRAMES.
Menger & Ring..... 909
Newman Mfg. Co..... 921
Schaefer Theater Co..... 909

PROJECTION MACHINE MANUFACTURERS.
American Standard M. P. Mch. Co..... 909
Enterprise Opt. Co..... 919
Power, Nicholas 928
Precision Mch. Co..... 915

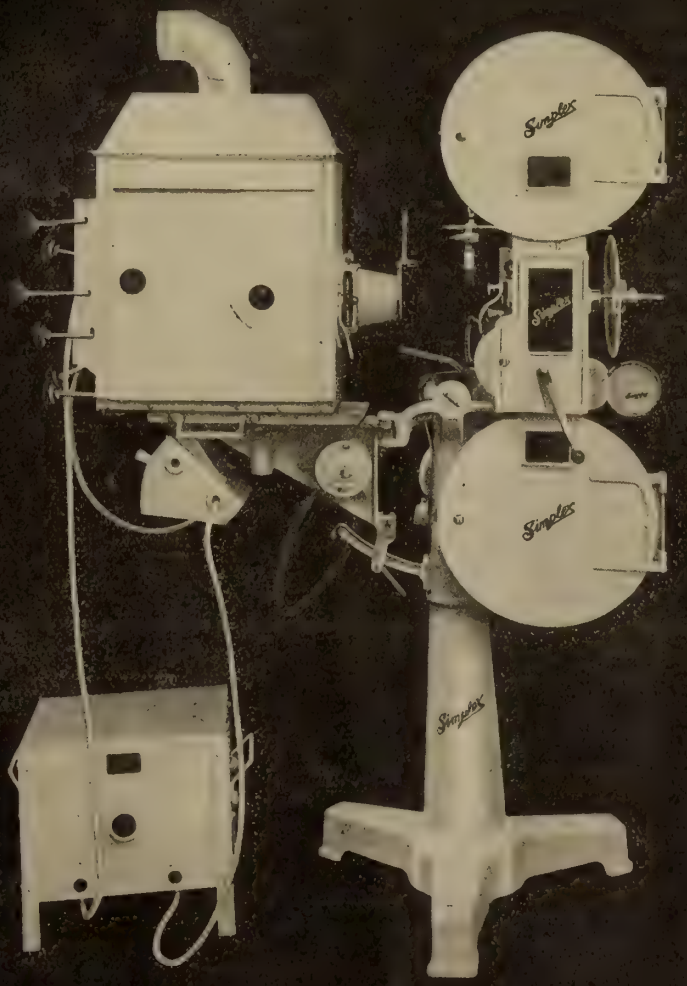
PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURERS.
Castle & Rowley..... 923
Genter, J. H., Co., Inc..... 923
Gold King Screen Co..... 923
Minusa Cine Products Co..... 925
Radium Gold Fibre Screen Co..... 912
Universal Pictures Screen Corp..... 923

THEATRICAL ARCHITECTS.
Decorators' Supply Co..... 925

In answering advertisements please mention The Moving Picture World

Simplex
TRADE MARK REG.

for PERFECTION
in PROJECTION



MADE AND GUARANTEED BY
THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON GENERAL FILM COMPANY PROGRAM

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 898, 900.)

General Film Company

BIOGRAPH.

	(Serial No.)
A Bit of Human Driftwood (Two parts—Drama—Reissue)	21495
Her Sacrifice (Drama) (Reissue)	21519
The Honor of the Law (Two parts—Drama) (Reissue)	21527
The Conscience of Hassan Bey (Reissue—Drama)	21545
His Wife's Story (Reissue—Two parts—Drama)	21549
Two Men of the Desert (Reissue—Drama)	21571
The Rehearsal (Reissue—Two parts—Drama)	21579

ESSANAY.

The Girl God Made for Jones (Two parts—"Black Cat Feature"—Comedy-Drama)	21595
A Dollar Down (Comedy) and Yosemite Valley (Scenic)	21598
When the Man Speaks (Fourth of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama)	21607
Among Those Present ("Black Cat Feature") (Two parts—Drama)	21618-19
Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 22 (Cartoon Comedy), and Yosemite Valley No. 2 (Scenic)	21621
The Wide, Wrong Way (Fifth of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama)
The Little Missionary ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama)	21637-38
One on Him (Comedy), and Scenic on same reel.	21640
The Sinful Marriage (Sixth of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Drama)	21651-52
What Would You Do? "Black Cat Feature"—Two parts -Drama)	21660-61
Canimated Nooz Pictorial, No. 23 (Cartoon Comedy), and Alaskan Scenic on same reel.	21663
The Magic Mirror (Seventh of "Is Marriage Sacred?"—Two parts—Dr.)	21671-72
Three Ways Out ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama)	21682-83
Mr. Wright in Wrong (Comedy)	21685
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 8, "Shifting Shadows"—Two parts—Drama)	21696-97
The Hoodoed Story ("Black Cat Feature"—Two parts—Drama)	21706-7
Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 24 (Cartoon Comedy)	21709
Alaskan Scenic on Same Reel	21709
Is Marriage Sacred? (No. 9, "Desertion and Non-Support"—Two parts—Drama)	21715-16

KALEM.

The House of Secrets (No. 12 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21604
The Mogul Mountain Mystery (No. 113 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Dr.)	21609
Rival Romeos (Comedy)	21620
The Resurrection of Gold Bar (No. 22 of "The Girl From 'Frisco"—Two parts—Drama)	21622-23
The Trail of Graft (No. 13 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21627
The Fireman's Nemesis (No. 114 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama)	21632
Cupid's Caddies (Comedy)	21639
The Homesteader's Feud (No. 23 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama)	21641-42
The Black Circle (No. 14 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21645
The Wrecked Station (No. 115 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama)	21653
The Blundering Blacksmiths (Com.)	21662
Wolf of Los Alamos (No. 24 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Dr.)	21664-65
The Violet Ray (No. 15 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21668
The Railroad Claim Intrigue (No. 116 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Dr.)	21676
The Safety Pin Smugglers (Comedy)	21684
The Dominion of Fernandez (No. 25 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Two parts—Drama)	21686-87
The Net of Intrigue (No. 16 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21693
The Death Siding (No. 117 of "The Hazards of Helen"—Drama)	21700
Ghost Hounds (Comedy)	21708
The Trap (No. 17 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama)	21712
The Prima Donna's Special (Drama)	21717

SELIG.

Starring in Western Stuff (Two parts—Comedy-Drama)	21614-15
Selig-Tribune No. 3 (Topical)	21617
Selig-Tribune No. 4 (Topical)	21625
The Making of Bob Mason's Wife (Dr.)	21633
Delayed in Transit (Two parts—Com.)	21633-34
Selig-Tribune No. 5 (Topical)	21636
Selig-Tribune No. 6 (Topical)	21643
Cupid's Touchdown (Comedy)	21654
On Italy's Firing Line (Three parts—Drama)	21655-56-57
Selig-Tribune No. 7 (Topical)	21659
Selig-Tribune No. 8 (Topical)	21666
The Luck That Jealousy Brought (Dr.)	21677
Lost and Found (Two parts—Dr.)	21678-79
Selig-Tribune No. 9 (Topical)	21681
Selig-Tribune No. 10 (Topical)	21688
The Saddle Girth (Drama)	21701
Cupid's Thumb Print (Two parts—Drama)	21702-3
Selig-Tribune No. 11 (Topical)	21705
Selig-Tribune No. 12 (Topical)	21710
A Strang Adventure (Drama)	21718

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

Reckless Romeos (Comedy)	21606
His Movie Mustache (Comedy)	21626
The Property Man (Comedy)	21629
Terrible Kate (Comedy)	21644
War Correspondents (Comedy)	21647
The Love Bugs (Comedy)	21667
It's All Wrong (Comedy)	21670
The Other Girl (Comedy)	21689
A Job for Life (Comedy)	21694

VITAGRAPH.

His Lesson (Comedy)	21594
The Twin Fedoras (No. 3 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Broadway Star Feature—Comedy-Drama)	21605
Billy Smoke (Three parts—Broadway Star Feature—Comedy)
Jones Keeps House (Comedy)	21616
One Good Turn (No. 4 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Broadway Star Feature—Comedy-Drama)	21628
The Mystery of Lake Lethe (Dr.)	21635
The Professional Patent (Comedy)	21646
The Suitor of Slam (No. 5 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Broadway Star Feature—Comedy-Drama)
The Vagabond (Drama)	21658
The Burlesque Blackmailers (6th of "The Dangers of Doris" Comedy Drama—Broadway Star Feature)
His Little Spirit Girl (Comedy)	21669
The Valley of Lost Hope (Three parts—Drama)	21673-74-75
The Gang (No. 7 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama—Broadway Star Feature)

General Film Company Features

BLACK CAT FEATURE.

Among Those Present (Two parts—Drama)	21618-19
The Little Missionary (Two parts—Dr.)	21637-38
What Would You Do? (Two parts—Drama)	21660-61
Three Ways Out (Two parts—Dr.)	21682-83
The Hoodooed Story (Two parts—Dr.)	21706-7

BROADWAY STAR FEATURE.

One Good Turn (No. 4 of "the Dangers of Doris"—Comedy-Drama)	21628
The Suitor of Slam (No. 5 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy-Dr.)
The Burlesque Blackmailers (6th of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy—Drama)
The Gang (No. 7 of "The Dangers of Doris"—Comedy-Drama)

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

The Room of Mystery (Three parts—Drama)	21648-49-50
Crossed Trail (Three parts—Dr.)	21690-91-92

$4.80 A Big Saving Each Year $4.80

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.
It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

Cut out and mail

.....
.....
.....

Please Fill in the Name of Your Theatre.....

COOL & VENTILATE BY TYPHOONS
1544 BWAY.. TYPHOON FAN COMPANY NEW YORK CITY

Experience or Experiment--which?

Any owner of a Typhoon-Cooled theatre or anyone who has ever been in one in hot weather will tell you of his experience.

So as to determine the value of the Typhoon Cooling System compared with others, we have in the past concentrated our effort in replacing equipments already tried, such as exhaust fans, wall and ceiling fans, ice and water cooling equipments of all descriptions.

In the meantime, we have increased the efficiency of the production end of our business by utilizing every modern manufacturing economy so that we can now fill orders from stock.

If interested get in touch with us immediately, as the wonderful success with the Typhoons has created such a demand that there is no guarantee that we can continue filling orders promptly, even with our tremendously increased manufacturing facilities.

If interested mail coupon to TYPHOON FAN CO., 1544 Broadway, New York

Name of theatre.....Owner.....

Address .....

Length .....Width .....Height.....

Electric Current.....

Seating Capacity .....

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 898, 900.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.

Jan. 17—Number 55 (Topical).
Jan. 24—Number 56.
Jan. 31—Number 57 (Topical).
Feb. 7—Number 58 (Topical).
Feb. 14—Number 59 (Topical).

BIG U.

Jan. 18—Bloodhounds of the North (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 19—The Little Rebel's Sacrifice (Drama).
Jan. 24—The Red Goddess (Drama).
Jan. 25—A Wife's Folly (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—A Jungle Tragedy (Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 31—The Gold Lust (Drama).
Feb. 7—Red Vengeance (Drama).
Feb. 9—Title not yet decided.
Feb. 15—The Half-Breed's Confession (Drama).

BISON.

Jan. 6—Blood Money (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 13—The Bad Man of Cheyenne (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 20—Brute Force (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 27—The Daring Chance (Two parts—Dr.).
Feb. 3—The Boonton Affair (Two parts—Dr.).
Feb. 10—The Outlaw and the Lady (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 17—John Osborn's Triumph (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Jan. 16—The Prodigal Widow (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 23—Souls United (Three parts—Drama).
Jan. 30—June Madness (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 6—Won by Grit (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 13—The Indian's Lament (Three parts—Drama).

IMP.

Jan. 14—Midnight (Drama).
Jan. 17—A Slave of Fear (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 25—Black Evidence (Drama).
Jan. 26—The Fugitive (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 1—The Diamond Thieves (Drama).
Feb. 2—The Forbidden Game (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Diamonds of Destiny (Drama).
Feb. 9—Avarice (Drama).
Feb. 11—When Thieves Fall Out—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 14—The Girl Reporter's Scoop (Two parts—Drama).

JOKER.

Jan. 11—When Damon Fell for Pythias (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 13—Mines and Matrimony (Comedy).
Jan. 20—Barred from the Bar (Comedy).
Jan. 27—Love Me, Love My Biscuits (Com.).
Feb. 3—His Coming Out Party—Comedy).
Feb. 10—Out for the Dough (Comedy).
Feb. 17—Mule Mates (Comedy).

LAEMMLE.

Jan. 8—Alone in the World (Special release—Drama).
Jan. 10—The Face Downstairs (Drama).
Jan. 20—Homeless (Drama).
Jan. 27—The Blood-Stained Hand (Drama).
Feb. 10—A Studio Cinderella (Drama).
Feb. 16—The Fourth Witness (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 17—Broken Hearted (Drama).

L-KO.

Dec. 27—The Perils of a Plumber (Comedy).
Dec. 29—Phil's Busy Day (Comedy).
Jan. 3—On the Trail of the Lonesome Pill (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 10—A Limburger Cyclone (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 17—Heartsick at Sea (Comedy).
Jan. 21—Up the Flue (Comedy).
Jan. 24—The Battle of "Let's Go" (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 31—Faking Fakers (Two parts—Com.).
Feb. 7—That Dawgone Dog (Two parts—Dr.).
Feb. 14—The End of a Perfect Day (Comedy).
Feb. 16—Brave Little Waldo (Comedy).

NESTOR.

Dec. 11—Two Small Town Romeos (Comedy).
Dec. 15—I'm Your Husband (Comedy).
Dec. 18—It Sounded Like a Kiss (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Pretty Baby (Comedy).
Jan. 1—Practice What You Preach (Comedy).
Jan. 8—One Thousand Miles an Hour (Com.).
Jan. 15—Treat 'Em Rough (Comedy).
Jan. 22—A Macoroni Sleuth (Comedy).
Jan. 29—Why Uncle (Comedy).
Feb. 5—His Wife's Relatives (Comedy).
Feb. 12—A Hasty Hazing (Comedy).

POWERS.

Jan. 21—Mr. Fullerpep—He Goes to the Country (Cartoon Comedy).
—In the Land of the Son of Heaven as Seen by Dr. Dorsey (Educational).
Jan. 28—Boomer Bill's Awakening (Cartoon Comedy).
—Behind the Great Wall of China (Dorsey—Edu.).
Feb. 4—Mr. Fuller Pep—His Wife Goes for a Rest (Cartoon Comedy).
—In North China (Dorsey Educational).
Feb. 8—Giants of the American Forest (Educational).
Feb. 11—Fearless Freddie in the Woolly West Cartoon Comedy) and Joys and Tears of China (Educational).
Feb. 18—Mr Fuller Pep—He Does Some Quick Moving (Cartoon Comedy).
—Drama of the Orient (Dorsey Educational).

RED FEATHER.

Jan. 1—Polly Put the Kettle On (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—Fighting for Love (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 15—The Double Room Mystery (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—Heart Strings (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—Love Aflame (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 5—The Scarlet Crystal (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 12—Me and M' Pal (Five Parts—Drama).

REX.

Jan. 4—The Red Stain (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 6—The Wall of Money (Drama).
Jan. 18—The Whispered Name (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The Bubble of Love (Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 28—The Old Toymaker (Drama).
Feb. 4—Life's Pendulum (Two Parts—Drama).
Feb. 8—The Melody of Death (Two parts—Drama).
Feb 11—In the Shadows of Night (Drama).

VICTOR.

Jan. 19—His Little Room Mate (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 23—The Honeymoon Surprise (Comedy).
Jan. 25—The Black Nine (Comedy).
Jan. 26—Hell by the Enemy (Comedy).
Jan. 30—Some Baby (Novelty).
—Nellie, the Fireman's Daughter (Comedy).
Feb. 1—It's Cheaper to Be Married (Comedy).
Feb. 2—The Hero of Bunko Hill (Comedy).
Feb. 6—The Valley of Beautiful Things (Juvenile Comedy).
Feb. 9—The High Cost of Starving (Comedy).
Feb. 13—The Girl of the Hour (Comedy).
Feb. 15—The Losing Winner (Two parts—Dr.).

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

Dec. 8—Number 2.
Dec. 22—Number 3.
Jan. 5—Number 4.
Jan. 19—Number 5.
Feb. 2—Number 6.
Feb. 16—Number 7.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Jan. 14—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 3 "The Capture"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 4, "Facing Death"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 5, "Ablaze in Mid Air"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 1—The War Waif (Two parts—Drama—Special Release).
Feb. 4—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 6—The Silent Feud—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 7, "The Race for Freedom"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 18—Robinson Crusoe (Three parts).
Feb. 18—The Purple Mask (Episode No. 8, "The Secret Adventure"—Two parts—Drama).

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN.

Dec. 2—The Capture of Rattlesnake Ike (Dr.) (Reissue).
Jan. 20—Almost a Friar (Drama).
Jan. 27—A Double Revenge (Drama).
Feb. 3—Nature's Calling (Drama).
Feb. 10—The Old Sheriff (Drama).

CUB.

Jan. 4—Jerry's Double Header (Comedy).
Jan. 11—Jerry's Winning Way (Comedy).
Jan. 18—Jerry's Big Doings (Comedy).
Jan. 25—Jerry and the Outlaws (Comedy).
Feb. 1—Jerry and His Pal (Comedy).
Feb. 8—Jerry's Big Raid (Comedy).

NIAGARA FILM STUDIOS.

Jan. 17—The Perils of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 4, "The White Trail"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 24—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 5—"Many a Slip"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 31—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 6, "A Long Lane"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 7—The Peril of Our Girl Reporters (Episode No. 7, "The Smite of Conscience"—Two parts—Drama).

GAUMONT.

Jan. 24—See America First, No. 72 (subject: Historic Virginia) (Scenic).
—Absent Minded Willie (Cartoon Com.).
Jan. 28—Reel Life No. 39 (Subjects on Reel: X Rays in War Time; Decorative Butterflies; Salt; The Real Hula Hula) (Mutual Film Magazine).
Jan. 30—Tours Around the World, No. 13 (Subjects on Reel: Teheran, Persia; Coast Resorts of Normandy; Winter in the Vosges Mountains) (Travel).
Jan. 31—See America First, No. 73 (Subject: San Diego, Cal. (Scenic).
—Never Again (Kartoon Komic.
Feb. 4—Reel Life No. 40 (Subjects on Reel: Making Lace by Machinery; The "Toddle"; New York's Latest Dance, Craze; Raising Fresh Water Fish; Design Your Own Evening Gown (Mutual Film Magazine).
Feb. 6—Tours Around the World, No. 14 (Subjects on Reel: Picturesque Landscapes of Holland; The Temples of Luxor; The Rocky Coast of Dalmatia (Travel).
Feb. 7—See America First, No. 74 (Subjects on Reel: The Mississippi Coast (Scenic).
—Old Roue Visualizes (Cartoon Com.).

MONOGRAM

Jan. 15—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton, No. 1, "Shorty and the Yellow Ring" (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 2, "Shorty in the Tiger's Den"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 3, "Shorty Goes to College"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 5—The Adventures of Shorty Hamilton (No. 4, "Shorty Joins the Secret Service"—Two parts—Drama).

MUTUAL.

Jan. 12—Uncle Sam's Defenders No. 2 (Our Boys at the Border) (Topical.
Jan. 19—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 3 ("A Jack Tar in the Making"—Top.).
Jan. 26—Uncle Sam's Defenders, No. 4 "Afloat and Ashore" (Topical).
Feb. 2—Scouts of the Sea and Sky (No. 5 of "Uncle Sam's Defenders" (Top.).
Feb. 9—Uncle Sam's Defenders, (No. 6, "Bulldogs of the Deep" (Topical).

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Jan. 24—Number 108 (Topical).
Jan. 31—Number 109 (Topical).
Feb. 7—Number 110 (Topical).
Feb. 14—Number 111 (Topical).

(Mutual Releases continued on page 920.)

A scenario department

Considers only type-written manuscripts—others are too hard to follow.

Your audiences are interested in clear pictures only—for the same reason.

The clearest pictures are on Eastman Film—identifiable by the stencil mark

"EASTMAN"

in the margin.

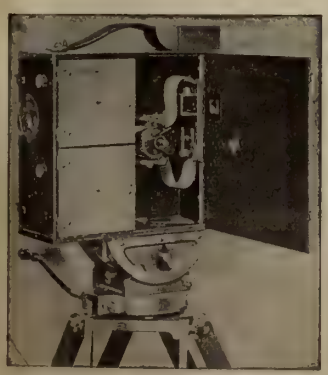
EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

WRITE FOR ANNOUNCEMENT OF

Important Improvements of the Motion Picture Camera

Send a postal for our Announcement—just off the press—of the Universal Motion Picture Camera's exclusive new features.

First, speed enables you to "get the picture and get away before the other fellow gets set up." Then, this is the only camera with an adjustment for "framing" the film so that the picture can be located in any desired relation to the perforations. The film transmission is improved—you get absolute registration of film. Further, it is easy to guide the film straight because the film channel makes threading easy—opens like a gate. The focusing tube magnifies image double size—with film in place! Footage indicator measures number of feet exposed. Static eliminated—this lightweight, one-piece all-metal camera grounds through the body of the operator.



Capacity, 200 feet. Four extra magazines enable total of 1000 feet.

Positive superiority—exclusive improvements—extraordinary quality at a remarkable price—less than half price of similar instruments. Address.

BURKE & JAMES, Inc.
240 E. Ontario St., Chicago

Eastern Branch—
225 Fifth Ave., New York

UNIVERSAL
MOTION PICTURE CAMERA

Its Economy

Now is almost a proverb—quietly the knowledge has spread into every nook and corner of the nation.

THE MOTIOGRAPH
Motion Picture Projector

Even in Alaska, Australia and other foreign countries you will hear identically the same thing said as in the many theatres in the United States where the MOTIOGRAPH is used.

The Low Cost of Up-Keep, the Perfect Projection and Simplicity of Operation is unequalled.

F. H. Richardson, the Projection Expert, says:

"The Motiograph is now a machine which I can conscientiously recommend to the serious consideration of motion picture theatre managers who are contemplating the purchase of new projection apparatus."

Write for Literature

The Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.,
574 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.
Western Office:
833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 898, 900.)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 918.)

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

December—The Rink (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 22—Easy Street (Two parts—Comedy).

MUTUAL SPECIAL.

Dec.—Charity (Seven parts—Drama).

MUTUAL STAR COMEDY.

Dec. 9—Admirers Three (Comedy).
Dec. 16—One Dollar Please (Comedy).
Dec. 23—Every Lassie Has a Lover (Comedy).
Dec. 30—Grimsey the Bell Hop (Comedy).
Jan. 6—The Girl Who Can Cook (Comedy).
Jan. 13—The Honeymooners (Comedy).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Jan. 8—The Butterfly Girl (Fisher—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—Beloved Rogues (Five parts—Drama—No. 165).
Jan. 22—The Gentle Intruder (American—Five Parts—Drama—No. 166).
Jan. 29—Pardners (Five parts—Drama (No. 167).
Feb. 5—Where Love Is (Five parts—Drama) (No. 168).

SIGNAL FILM CORP.

Jan. 7—A Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 12 (Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 14—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 13 Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 14—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—A Lass of the Lumberlands (No. 15—Two parts—Drama).

VOGUE.

Jan. 14—A Lisle Bank (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 21—Tailor's Trimmings (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 28—A Circus Cyclone (Two parts—Com.).
Feb. 4—Sticky Fingers (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—A Musical Marvel (Two parts—Drama).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Dec. 4—The Black Butterfly (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—Vanity (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—Bridges Burned (Five parts—Drama).

COLUMBIA PICTURES CORP.

Jan. 8—A Wife by Proxy (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 22—Threads of Fate (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 5—The End of the Tour (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—One of the Many (Five parts—Dr.).

ROLFE.

Dec. 18—The Awakening of Helena Richie (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The White Raven (Five parts—Dr.).

SERIAL PRODUCING CO.

Jan. 8—The Great Secret (Episode No. 1 "The Secret Seven—Three parts—Dr.).
Jan. 15—The Great Secret (Episode No. 2, "The Casket of Tainted Treasure"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—The Great Secret (Episode No. 3, "The Hidden Hand"—Two parts—Dr.).
Jan. 29—The Great Secret (Episode, No. 4, "From Sunshine to Shadow"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 5—The Great Secret (Episode No. 5—"The Trap"—Two parts—Drama).

METRO COMEDIES.

Jan. 1—The Matinee Idol (Rolma—Comedy).
Jan. 8—Cave Man's Buff (Drew—Comedy).
Jan. 15—His Perfect Day (Drew Comedy).
Jan. 22—Married But Single (Rolma—Com.).
Jan. 29—The Pest (Drew—Comedy).
Feb. 5—Blackmail (Drew—Comedy).
Feb. 12—Winning an Heiress (Rolma—Comedy).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY.

Nov. 27—Their Counterfeit Vacation (Com.).
Dec. 11—His Ivory Dome (Comedy).
Dec. 25—Their Week End (Comedy).
Jan. 8—Braving Blazes (Comedy).
Jan. 22—He Did It Himself (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.

Dec. 18—Traveling Salesman (Five parts—Dr.).
Dec. 25—Snow White (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 1—The Slave Market (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 8—Great Expectations (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 18—A Girl Like That (Five parts—Dr.).

KLEVER COMEDY.

Dec. 4—The Best Man (Comedy).
Dec. 18—In Society and Out (Comedy).
Jan. 1—He Meant Well (Comedy).
Jan. 15—Did It Ever Happen to You (Comedy).

LASKY.

Jan. 15—Betty to the Rescue (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 22—Lost and Won (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 25—The Golden Fetter (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 5—Each to His Kind (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 12—The Black Wolf (Five parts—Dr.).

MOROSCO AND PALLAS.

Jan. 11—The Happiness of Three Women (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—His Sweetheart (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 1—The Wax Model (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 8—Her Own People (Five parts—Dr.).

PARAMOUNT.

Nov. 30—Martyrdom of Phillip Strong (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY CARTOONS.

Dec. 7—Farmer Al Falfa's Blind Pig (Comedy).
Dec. 14—Bobby Bumps Helps a Book Agent (Comedy).
Dec. 21—Percy, Brains He Has Nix (Comedy).
Dec. 28—Jack the Giant Killer (Comedy).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Jan. 8—Quaint Quebec (Scenic).
Jan. 15—Montreal, Old and New (Scenic).
Jan. 22—Ottawa and Toronto (Scenic).
Jan. 29—Georgian Bay to Winnipeg (Scenic).
Feb. 5—Regina to the Rockies (Scenic).
Feb. 12—Beautiful Banff (Scenic).

PARAMOUNT PICTOGRAPHS.

Nov. 28—43d Relase (Edu.).
Dec. 3—44th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 10—45th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 17—46th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 24—47th Release (Edu.).
Dec. 31—48th Release (Edu.).
Jan. 7—49th Release (Edu.).
Jan. 14—50th Release (Edu.).
Jan. 21—51st Release (Edu.).
Jan. 28—52d Release (Edu.).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.

Jan. 14—Pearl of the Army, No. 7, "For the Stars and Stripes" (Two Parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Pearl of the Army (No. 8, "International Diplomacy"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—Pearl of the Army (No. 9, "The Monroe Doctrine"—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Pearl of the Army, No. 10 (Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—Pearl of the Army, No. 11 (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD ROOSTER.

Jan. 14—Kick In (Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The Image Maker (Thanhouser—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—Twin Kiddies (Balboa—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—A Modern Monte Cristo (Thanhouser—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—Sold at Auction (Five parts—Balboa—Drama).

PATHE.

Jan. 21—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 15 (Preparing for the South—Fashion).
—Small Birds of Warm Climates (Colored Educational).
Jan. 28—The Stolen Inheritance (Drama).
Jan. 28—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 16 (North and South—Fashions).
—Butterflies and Bees (Colored Educational).
Feb. 4—Rods of Wrath (Three parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Florence Rose Fashions No. 17, "Where Fashions Reign" (Fashions).
—An Algerian Harem (Educational).
Feb. 11—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 18, "In Anticipation" (Fashion).
—Childish Delights (Edu.).

HEARST-PATHE NEWS.

Feb. 3—Number 11—(Topical).
Feb. 7—Number 12 (Topical).
Feb 10—Number 13 (Topical).
Feb. 14—Number 14 (Topical).
Feb. 17—Number 15 (Topical).

INTERNATIONAL.

Jan. 28—Patria (Episode No. 3, "Winged Millions"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—Der Captain is Examined for Insurance (Cartoon Comedy).
—In the Southern Highlands (Scenic).
Feb. 4—Patria (Episode No. 4—Two parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Throwing the Bull (Cartoon—Com.).
—Paper—How It Is Made from Wood Pulp (Edu.).
Feb. 11—Happy Hooligan—Ananias Has Nothing on Him (Cartoon—Comedy).
—Blackfeet Indians (Glacier National Park) (Scenic).

ROLIN.

Jan. 7—Luke's Lost Liberty (Comedy).
Jan. 14—Schemer Skinny's Schemes (Comedy).
Jan. 21—Luke's Busy Day (Comedy).—
Jan. 28—Drama's Dreadful Deal (Comedy).
Feb. 4—Luke's Trolley Troubles (Comedy).
Feb. 11—Skinny's Love Tangle (Comedy).
—Schemer Skinny's Scandal (Comedy).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.

Jan. 14—The Little Yank (Fine Arts—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—Nina, the Flower Girl (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 28—The Americano (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—Jim Bludso (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—The Girl of the Timber Claims (Five parts—Drama).

KAY-BEE.

Jan. 14—The Bride of Hate (Kay Bee—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 21—The Iced Bullet (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 28—Chicken Casey (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 4—The Crab (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 11—A Princess of the Dark (Five parts—Drama).

KEYSTONE.

Jan. 21—A Noble Fraud (Comedy).
Jan. 21—Honest Thieves (Comedy).
Jan. 28—Heart Strategy (Comedy).
Jan. 28—A Grab Bag Bride (Comedy).
Feb. 4—The Male Governess (Comedy).
Feb. 4—The Road Agent (Comedy).
Feb. 11—Won by a Foot (Comedy).
—His Deadly Untertaking (Comedy).

SUPERPICTURES, INC.

Jan. 29—Seven Deadly Sins—"Envy" (Five Parts—McClure Pictures—Drama).
Feb. 5—Seven Deadly Sins—"Pride" (Five parts—McClure Pictures—Drama).
Feb. 12—Seven Deadly Sins—"Passion" (McClure Pictures—Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 19—Seven Deadly Sins—"Greed" (McClure Pictures—Five parts—Dr.).

Unicorn Film Service.

BUFFALO.

Dec. 11—The Slave of Passion (Drama).
Dec. 15—Fires of Fate (Two parts—Drama).

GAIETY.

Dec. 1—Watches and Women (Comedy).
Dec. 14—Kisses and Fists (Comedy).

HIPPO.

Nov. 29—Cupid's Torpedoes (Comedy).
Dec. 13—The High Cost of Living (Comedy).

JOCKEY.

Nov. 30—Curse You, Jack Dalton (Comedy).
Dec. 17—A Devil in His Own Home (Com.).

(Continued on page 922.)

Location May Get Patrons—but Clear Pictures Hold Them

It isn't transients who are passing by and just drop in who make your most desirable patronage—it is the steadies who will come back day after day, week after week, month after month, to enjoy the vivid, accurate, brilliant images projected by the

Bausch and Lomb Projection Lenses

That sort of pictures and that sort of box-office receipts spell success for the progressive owner. These lenses are the regular equipment on both Edison and Nicholas Power machines.

Bausch & Lomb objectives and condensers are the choice of the best professional operators—and are procurable through any film exchange.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.
566 ST. PAUL STREET ROCHESTER, N.Y.
New York Washington Chicago San Francisco

Leading American Makers of Photographic and Ophthalmic Lenses, Microscopes, Projection Lanterns (Balopticons), and Other High-Grade Optical Products.

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.
W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY
8 Fifth Avenue, New York Phone 3227 Chelsea
425 Ashland Block, Chicago Phone 2003 Randolph
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

Have Perfect Light

Even the most careful operator will sometimes "freeze" the carbons or let them burn apart. Maintain a perfectly regulated arc without a flicker by installing an

AUTO-ARC

Insures perfect, white light. No "freezing"—no burning apart. Soon saves more than enough current to pay its cost. 30 days' trial guaranteed to satisfy you or your money back.
PRICE ONLY $60 F. O. B. OWENSBORO, KY.

AMERICAN AUTO-ARC CO., Inc.
407 S. Dearborn St. Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE—Owing to advance in price of materials, the price of the Auto-Arc will be changed on January 1, 1917, from $60.00 to $67.50. Price after February 1, $75.00.

"MARTIN" ROTARY CONVERTER

FOR REAL SUN-LIT PICTURES

PERFECT REEL DISSOLVING

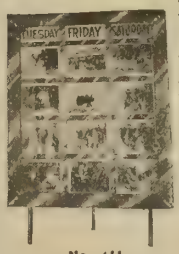
The voltage of the "MARTIN" polyphase converter is maintained constant, so that the starting of the second arc does not disturb the light given by the first, making the dissolving of the reels as simple as if the arcs were operated in a Direct Current district. Our emergency panel does away with expensive compensarcs and cuts the wiring and installation cost in half.

Write for further information.

NORTHWESTERN ELECTRIC CO.
569 W. Adams St., Chicago 1010 Brokaw Bldg., New York

"NEWMAN" BRASS FRAMES AND RAILS

The character of your show is reflected by the elegance of your display.



No. 111
Photo Frame

Our modern, compact Brass Poster Frames lend a polish of refinement to your lobby. An investment that will greatly increase your receipts by adding select patrons who otherwise would keep distant.

You ought to have our latest catalogue. Write us today.

The Newman Mfg. Co.
717-19 Sycamore Street, Cincinnati, O.
68 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.
Established 1882

Frames, Easels, Rails, Grilles, Signs, Choppers, Kick Plates, Door Bars

MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY

By J. H. HALLBERG

THIS WORK COVERS

ELECTRICITY
ELECTRIC SERVICE
ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS
REFERENCE TABLES, ETC.

An up-to-date treatment of Moving Picture Theater Electric Installation and Projection, by a practical, experienced, electrical expert.

Illustrated and Substantially Bound. 200 Pages.
$2.50 per Copy. Postage Paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue New York

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 898, 900.)

(Continued from page 920.)

JUDY.

Dec. 8—Rocking the Baby to Sleep (Comedy).
Dec. 12—You Never Can Tell (Comedy).
Dec. 15—Mary Lost Her Lamb (Comedy).

PURITAN.

Nov. 14—The Inner Soul (Three parts—Drama).

RANCHO.

Dec. 1—The Brand of Cain (Drama).
Dec. 14—Desert Gold (Drama).

SUNSET.

Dec. 18—The Trail of Fate (Two parts—Dr.).

SUPREME.

Dec. 11—Love's Wilderness (Three parts—Dr.).
Dec. 16—The Challenge of Chivalry (Two parts—Drama).

LILY.

Nov. 20—The Path of Life (Two parts—Drama).

HIAWATHA.

Dec. 12—The Woman He Wed (Two parts—Drama).

UTAH.

Dec. 8—Love's Mirage (Drama).
Dec. 14—A Belle of the Sage Brush (Drama).

BILLY WEST COMEDIES.

Dec. 8—Boarders and Bombs (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 15—His Waiting Career (Two parts—Dr.).

Feature Releases

ART DRAMAS, INC.

Jan. 4—The Rainbow (Sherrill Feature Corp.—Drama).
Jan. 11—Infidelity (Drama).
Jan. 18—God of Little Children (Apollo Pictures, Inc.—Drama).
Jan. 25—Her Good Name (Van Dyke—Drama).
Feb. 1—Rosie O'Grady (Apollo Pictures, Inc.—Drama).

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

Nov. 6—Less Than the Dust (Mary Pickford—Seven parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Pride of The Clan (Drama).

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.

Jan.—Her Condoned Sin (Six parts—Drama).

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAY, INC.

Jan. 1—Black Orchids (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Piper's Price (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 15—Her Soul's Inspiration (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—God's Crucible (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—The Devil's Pay Day (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 5—The Mysterious Mrs. M. (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—The Reward of the Faithless (Five parts—Drama).

CARDINAL FILM CORP.

December—Joan, the Woman (Eleven parts).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

Jan. 1—His Model Wife (Comedy).
Jan. 8—Her Crooked Career (Comedy).
Jan. 15—Black Hands and Soapsuds (Comedy).
Jan. 22—Her Friend, the Chauffeur (Comedy).
Jan. 29—A Gay Deceiver (Comedy).
Feb. 5—Small Change (Comedy).

DIXIE FILM CORP.

December—Just a Song at Twilight (Five parts—Drama).
Dec.—Tempest and Sunshine (Five parts—Dr.). Drama).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

Jan. 1—The Island of Desire (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—The Price of Silence (Special Release—Drama).
Jan. 8—A Modern Cinderella (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The Bitter Truth (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 22—The Darling of Paris (Special Release—Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—The Primitive Call (Five Parts—Dr.).
Jan. 29—One Touch of Sin (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 5—The New York Peacock (Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 12—The Scarlet Letter (Five parts—Dr.).

FOXFILM COMEDY.

Jan. 1—Social Pirates (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 8—Chased into Love (Two parts—Com.).
Jan. 5—Noah's Ark (Comedy).
Jan. 22—Her Father's Station (Two parts—Comedy).
Jan. 29—There's Many a Fool (Two parts—Comedy).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).

Jan. 20—The Glory of Yolanda (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 4, "The Honorable Mr. Oxenham"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—Her Right to Live (Five parts—Dr.).
Jan. 22—Big Bluffs and Bowling Balls (Com.).
Jan. 22—Captain Jinks' Baby (Comedy).
Jan. 29—Captain Jinks' Better Half (Comedy).
Jan. 29—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 5, "Carriage Call, No. 101"—Two parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—The Glory of Yolanda (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—Somewhere in Any Place (Comedy).
Feb. 5—Money Magic (Five parts—Drama).
—Captain Jinks' Wife's Husband (Com.).
—The Secret Kingdom (Episode No. 6 "Human Flotsam"—Two parts—Drama).

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

November—The Girl Who Did Not Care (Six parts—Drama).
Dec. 1—Enlighten Thy Daughter (Seven parts—Drama).

KEEN CARTOON CORP.

Jan. 29—Henry W. Zippy Buys a Pet (Cartoon Comedy).
Feb. 5—Zoo-Illogical Studies (Cartoon Com.).
Feb. 12—A Dangerous Girl (Cartoon Comedy).
Feb. 19—Dr. Zippy Opens a Sanatorium (Cartoon Comedy).
Feb. 26—The Fighting Blood of Jerry McDub (Cartoon Comedy).

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

Jan. 8—The Master Passion (Edison—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—Little Shoes (Essanay—Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—The Princess of Patches (Selig—Five parts—Drama).
Feb. 5—Skinner's Dress Suit (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).

SELZNICK PICTURES.

December—The Foolish Virgin (Five parts—Drama).
January—Panthea (Five parts—Drama).
February—The Argyle Case (Five parts—Dr.).

THE TRIUMPH CORPORATION.

December—The Libertine (Six parts—Drama).

WORLD PICTURES.

Jan. 1—A Woman Alone (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 8—On Dangerous Ground (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 15—The Man Who Forgot (Five Parts—Drama).
Jan. 22—The Bondage of Fear (Five parts—Drama).
Jan. 29—Tillie Wakes Up (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 5—The Hungry Heart (Five parts—Dr.).
Feb. 12—The Red Woman (Five parts—Drama).

States Right Features

ARGOSY FILM, INC.

December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
December—Where D'ye Get That Stuff (Five parts—Comedy).

ARROW FILM CORP.

Jan.—The Deemster (Drama).

BIOGRAPH COMPANY.

December—One Round O'Brien (Comedy).

G. M. BAYNES.

Nov.—Kitchener's Great Army in the Battle of the Somme (Five parts—Dr.).

CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Nov.—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).
December—The Passion Flower (Drama).

CREATIVE FILM CORP.

Jan.—The Girl Who Didn't Think (Six parts—Drama).

CLUNE FILM MFG. CO.

January—The Eyes of the World (Ten parts—Drama).

EDUCATIONAL FILM CORPORATION.

December—Snow White (Four parts—Fairy Tale).
January—The Sheep of Chelan.

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES, INC.

Dec.—Pamela's Past (Five parts—Drama).

EUROPEAN FILM CO.

November—Fighting for Verdun (Five parts—Topical).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.

December—The Witching Hour (Seven parts—Drama).

GERMANY'S OFFICIAL WAR FILMS, INC.

January—Germany and Its Armies of Today (Topical).

HARPER FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—Civilization (Drama).

JOHN W. HEANEY.

Jan.—The Valley of Fear (Six parts—Drama).

KESSEL & BAUMAN.

Jan. —Mickey.

KING BAGGOT.

Dec.—Absinthe (Drama).

LINCOLN M. P. COMPANY.

Jan.—Trooper of Troop K (Three parts—Dr.).

S. B. LUST, INC.

Jan.—The Porter (Two parts—Comedy—Drama—All Colored Performers).

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Oct.—The Power of Evil (Drama).
November—Boots and Saddles (Drama).
January—The Girl Who Doesn't Know (Five parts—Drama).

MOORE'S FEATURE FILM CO.

Jan. 10—Uncle Sam (This Production in One and in Two Reels).

PHAX PICTURES CO.

December—Race Suicide (Six parts—Drama).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORP.

October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.)

WARNER BROS.

December—Robinson Crusoe (Five parts—Dr.).

SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.

October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.)

SIGNET FILM CORPORATION.

Nov.—The Masque of Life (Seven parts—Dr.).

THE FILM EXCHANGE.

January—The Golden Rosary (Five Parts—Dr).

THOMPSON FILM CO., INC.

December—War as It Really Is (Seven Parts—Topical).

ULTRA FILMS, INC.

Jan.—A Day at West Point (Topical).

UNITY SALES CORPORATION.

Dec. 4—The Yellow Menace, No. 14, "The Interrupted Nuptials" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 11—The Yellow Menace, No. 15, "The Ray of Death" (Two parts—Drama).
January—Glory (Six parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).

October—Idle Wives (Seven parts—Drama).
December—The People vs. John Doe (Six parts—Drama).
December—Robinson Crusoe.
January—20,000 Leagues Under the Sea (Eight Parts).
January—Hell Morgan's Girl (Drama).

TWEEDLEDUM RELEASES (UNITY).

Nov. 27—A Short-sighted Crime (Two parts—Comedy).
Dec. 4—Somewhere in Mexico (Comedy).
Dec. 11—The Burlesque Show (Two parts—Comedy).

CORRECT

COMBINATIONS

FOR

Speer "Hold-Ark"

HARD CORED — METAL COATED
LOWER CARBONS

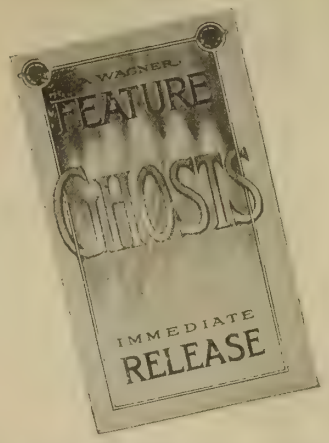
DIRECT CURRENT

40-50 Amperes	5/ 8 x 12″ Speer Cored Carbon (upper) 7/16 x 6″ Speer Hold-Ark (lower)
50-60 Amperes	3/ 4 x 12″ Speer Cored Carbon (upper) 7/16 x 6″ Speer Hold-Ark (lower)
60-80 Amperes	7/ 8 x 12″ Speer Cored Carbon (upper) 1/ 2 x 6″ Speer Hold-Ark (lower)
80-100 Amperes	1 x 12″ Speer Cored Carbon (upper) 9/16 x 6″ Speer Hold-Ark (lower)

FOR SALE BY THE LEADING
MOTION PICTURE SUPPLY HOUSES

THE CARBONS THAT ARE GUARANTEED

Speer Carbon Company
ST. MARYS, PA.



Here is a booklet every operator and manager should read—

GHOSTS

It is brief and contains much of interest. Will you send today for it?

Wagner Quality

Wagner Electric Manufacturing Company,
Saint Louis, Missouri

403

To occupy the position we do—as the inventors, the pioneers, the oldest, the largest manufacturers of metallized screens in the world—imposes responsibilities of tremendous importance.

In this time of "here-today-gone-tomorrow" paint brush manufacturers—imitators of the universally conceded world's best Projection Surface

MIRROROID

it is only fair to advise every exhibitor that we realize these responsibilities.

Isn't the fact that we have made over

9700—Mirroroid Installations—9700

convincing proof that MIRROROID is the Screen Supreme—the Screen You Should Buy?

The World's Best—Bar None

It is the only screen in the world sold under a real five-year guarantee that it won't—that it can't—crack, peel, or tarnish—the only screen that can be washed with soap and water —yes, hot water. Above all, the only screen in the world that has stood the test of time and of universal public opinion.

Don't Fall for Any Bunk from Manufacturers or Agents!

Investigate before you buy! Why spend your good money for a screen of regrets? Think it over—"Use the Brains God Gave You." Get our large, free samples. Test, compare with any screen on earth. Let us show you—give you proof—the evidence of your own eyes!

Don't join that great army of Fall Guys! Don't fall for the Agent's Bunk!

Make them test their specially prepared sample against our cut-offs or trims which we send out as samples representing just what we will sell you—what you will get.

For Your Protection

ALL MIRROROID screens are manufactured under real patents, also registered trade-mark.

They are made with a pale blue backing, seamless up to 12 feet, stamped every three feet "Genuine Mirroroid," as you prefer—Silver White, Pale Gold, or Silver Flesh.

Yours at 33⅓ Cents a Square Foot! Why Pay More?

Get Our Large, Free Samples, Endorsements, etc.

THE J. H. GENTER CO. Inc., Newburgh, N. Y.

Our daily output of metallized screens is more than the combined output of all of our competitors put together hasn't a drop of silver in its manufacture. Made with a Mineral. Shines like a mirror without any glare. It's Gold in color. No Flicker, no eye strain. Brings out all the natural colors of the film, saves you Juice and Carbon.

GOLDENLITE

Once up, always up. Unchangeable in color. Not a drop of paint in GOLDENLITE Gold Fibre.

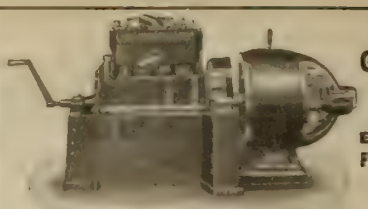
Goldenlite

The Screen De Luxe

Washable
Pliable

Ask the Dealer who has one.
Write us.

CASTLE & ROWLEY
MANUFACTURERS
1113 Chestnut St., St. Louis, Mo.



GASOLINE DRIVEN
GENERATING SETS
for THEATERS
ELECTRIC CURRENT for FANS-LIGHTS-PROJECTORS

Storage Batteries Not Required
LIVE AGENTS WANTED
Write for Bulletin M10
LANGSTADT-MEYER CO., Appleton, Wis., U. S. A.

G. W. BRADENBURGH, 802 VINE STREET PHILADELPHIA, PA.

NAME	REELS	PRICE
Folks from Way Down East	5	$100
Battle of Gettysburg	6	90
Protea I., II., III.	5	300
Prisoner of Zenda (J. K. Hackett)	5	100
An American Gentleman (William Bonelli)	5	75
Rip Van Winkle (Joe Jefferson)	5	150
In the Land of the Head Hunters	6	60
In Search of Castaways	5	100

All the above are furnished with one, three and six-sheet posters and other advertising. Write for lists.

If You Need a New Machine

and can't afford to pay cash, write us today and we will help you out.

Our easy payment plan enables you to purchase any make machine at a small investment. DON'T DELAY—GET BUSY—WRITE TODAY for full particulars.

Amusement Supply Company

Dealers in Motiograph, Simplex, Powers, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers and everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres

3rd Floor, Mallers Bldg.,
Cor. Madison Street & Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

"BRADOIL" LUBRICANTS

Scientifically Prepared Lubricants for Delicate Machinery
Refined from Pennsylvania Crude
Free from Organic and Mineral Acids
"Bradoil" F.1—For Motion Picture Cameras and Projection Machines

Send 25c for trial bottle.

HECKEL & SMITH
150 Chestnut St., Bradford, Pa.

BARGAINS!

We have on hand in our second-hand department the greatest line of used or rebuilt complete moving picture machines ever assembled. GENUINE VALUES, PERFECT CONDITION, LOW PRICES. POWER'S, SIMPLEX, EDISON and MOTIOGRAPH

SOLE SOUTHERN DISTRIBUTORS FOR
SIMPLEX PROJECTORS

THEATRE ACCESSORIES
LUCAS THEATRE SUPPLY COMPANY

ATLANTA (158 Marietta) GEORGIA
"Recognized as Dixieland's Biggest and Best Mail Order House"

THE LATEST IN PROJECTION SCREENS

The Pannill Patent. Iese-Reflex-Lily White.

The New Process Pannill Reflecting Screens are the most perfect reflecting screens that can be produced.

They bring Joy to the Patrons, Gold to the Managers and Contentment to Machine Operators.

The Iese—"Gold"—Reflex—"Silver"—Lily White—"Lead." Three in one—same cost, same perfection in their class. Highest testimonials of merit. Hand made—self-tightening. Guaranteed.

Investigate this Screen. The Best Screen on the market, regardless of cost.

Leading Supply Houses distributors. Write for Data, Circulars and Samples.

UNIVERSAL PICTURE SCREEN CORP. 14 N. 7th STREET RICHMOND, VA.

FULCO

FULCO LAMP COLORING

IS JUST THE THING
WHEN YOU WANT TO WORK OUT A DECORATIVE SCHEME WITH COLORED LIGHT EFFECTS

INEXPENSIVE AND EASY TO USE

AMBER, BLUE, GREEN, PINK, PURPLE, RED, RUBY and WHITE FROSTING

Half Pints—Per Bottle $1.20 (Any Color)
Larger Quantities Proportionately Less

EXHIBITORS' SUPPLIES OF EVERY KIND

E. E. FULTON CO.
152 W. Lake St., Chicago

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.

For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.

For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush
of
"Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.

Specimen on Application

GOLD KING SCREEN

GOLD KING SCREENS ARE BEST — TEN DAYS FREE TRIAL

GOLD KING SCREEN CO., ALTUS, OKLA.

BARGAINS IN MACHINES

Twenty-two machines slightly used, first class condition, Simplex, Power's 6 A's, Power's 6's, Edison B's, and Edison D's. Low prices, quick sales.

CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, 1233 Vine Street, Philadelphia

IL TIRSO AL CINEMATOGRAFO

The most important Film Journal in Italy.

Published every Monday at Rome. Excellent staff, special bureau of information. Correspondents in all parts of the world. Yearly subscription for foreign countries: $3.00.

Business Office: Via del Tritone 183, Rome, Italy.

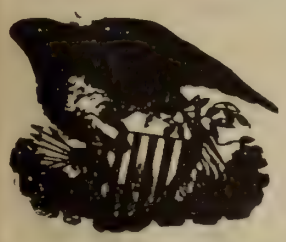
Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?
Is your projection current costing too much?
Are you planning a new theatre?
Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU ALL KNOW HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU ALL KNOW HIM)

Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City



Peace Pictures

and

European War Pictures

(Neutral)

New Stereopticon Lectures and Poems presented by L. M. Marion.

Terms Moderate Accompanied by violinist, pianist, operator, lantern, etc. (when desired), for theatres, lyceums and clubs. Music for dances.

LOUISE M. MARION
445 W. 23rd St., New York
Phone, 10396 Chelsea

I do not sell motion pictures.

MINUSA
"SCREEN LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS"
The ORIGINAL GOLD FIBRE SCREEN-Perfected
MINUSA CINÉ PRODUCTS COMPANY
SAINT LOUIS | CHICAGO SAN FRANCISCO | PITTSBURGH CALGARY | NEW YORK
SCREENS BUILT BY BRAINS

Ornamental Theatres

Plaster Relief Decorations

Theatres Designed Everywhere

Write for Illustrated Theatre Catalog. Send Us Sizes of Theatre for Special Designs

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.

Archer Avenue and Leo Street
CHICAGO, ILL.

RICHARDSON'S

MOTION PICTURE

HAND BOOK

FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS

Published by

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK is a carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

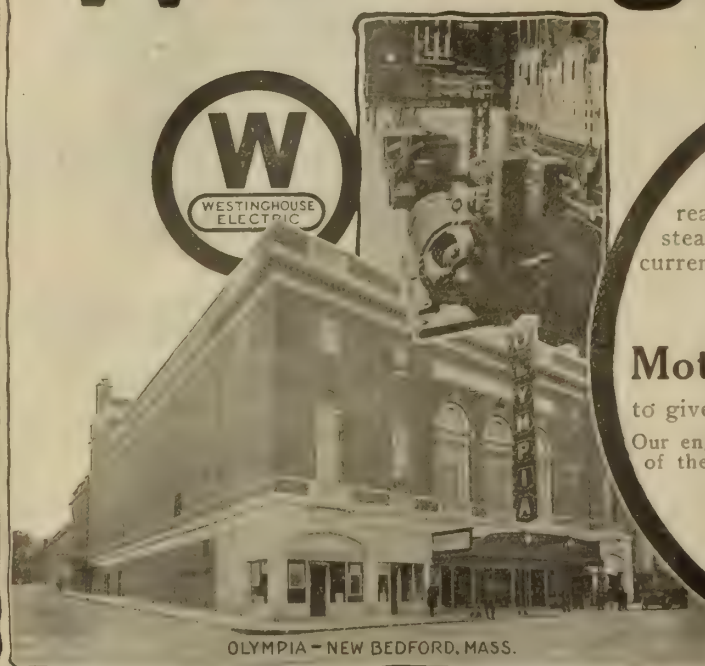
It is an invaluable help to every single individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre. There are over 680 Pages of Text and the illustrations include detail diagrams of all the leading makes of projection machines.

(Substantially Bound in Red Cloth $4.00)

Sent Postpaid on Receipt Price by

MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 17 Madison Ave., New York City
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 917 Schiller Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 305 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

Westinghouse



OLYMPIA – NEW BEDFORD, MASS.

Progressive Managers

realizing that they cannot project steady, clear pictures with alternating current, are using—

Westinghouse Motion Picture Equipment to give them the direct current needed.

Our engineers will be glad to give you the benefit of their experience in this field.

Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company
East Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE ONE BIG EVENT OF THE SEASON

FIRST ANNUAL

MOVIE BALL

NEW JERSEY STATE BRANCH
of the
MOTION PICTURE EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE OF AMERICA
At KRUEGER AUDITORIUM
NEWARK, NEW JERSEY

Thursday Evening, February First

Music by the First Infantry Band and Orchestra of New Jersey
Novelty Stunts by the Different Manufacturers
Contest of Young Ladies to join the movies
Reception of All the Leading Movie Stars
Vaudeville and Cabaret by the Best Artists
And an Enjoyable Social Evening For All

TICKETS on Sale at all the Principal Theatres in New Jersey and at League Headquarters, 800 Broad St., Newark

Proper Coloring

Will add a whole lot to both the artistic and financial value of your picture!—We can do it right at "Right" prices.

We have special departments devoted to tinting and toning, and combination toning-tinting—wonderful variety.

Our colors are brilliant and permanent because we have the necessary chemicals and equipment and know exactly how to use them.

Our enormous supply of pure wash water—our knowledge that colored film requires careful treatment and unusual washing—does away with the streaky spotted film which characterizes the color attempts of plants insufficient in equipment, knowledge or ability.

For screen colors combined with Perfect Developing and Printing, see

Rothacker

FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO, U.S.A.

There are reasons—
Come and see them.

NPCo

"SIXTEEN YEARS OF KNOWING HOW"

A PROJECTION MACHINE

CAN BE NO BETTER THAN ITS

INTERMITTENT MOVEMENT

A RADICAL ADVANCE IN "INTERMITTENT" DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION IS THE MEMORABLE ACHIEVEMENT THAT HAS PLACED

POWER'S CAMERAGRAPH

IN ITS PRESENT PREEMINENT POSITION

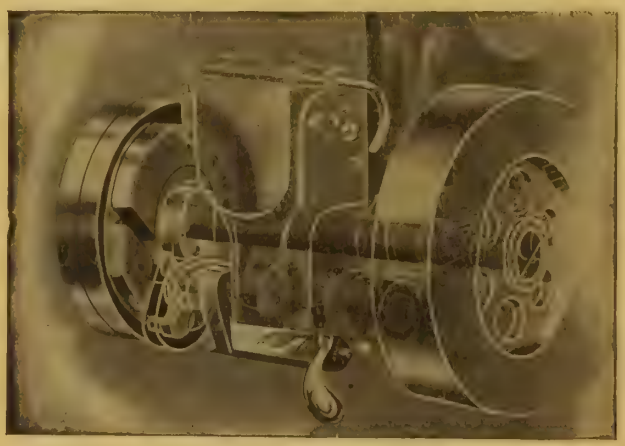

FIG. 1

FIG. 2

Perfect Projection of motion pictures made possible by the only basicly different rotary intermittent movement in over 300 years, applicable to use in projection machines.

Fig. 1 is a phantom view of the Movement complete. Its very appearance bespeaks the strength and durability which distinguish it above all other movements.

Fig. 2 shows a frontal view of the important elements. At Point A will be seen the unique shape of the driving cam by which maximum speed is obtained in changing from one picture to another, with minimum wear on the film.

The Whole Combines for Steady, Flickerless Pictures

Catalogue G gives full details

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY

NINETY GOLD STREET NEW YORK